WORK OF PLACING LIGHT STANDARDS OVER CITY IS STARTED THIS WEEK

Work was begun Thursday morning on placing light standards around the square and down East Main Street.

Location of the lights will be as follows: Three lights will be placed on each side of the courthouse lawn and one on each corner. Eight will be placed inside the square on the lawn. Starting at the corners of the Guaranty State Bank and Fletche Drug Store the lights will be run down East Main Street as far as the First Baptist Church.

These lights will greatly improve the appearance of the city at night as well as being of great advantage to pedestrians.

Light standards have already arrived here and holes are being dug in preparation for placing standards in their locations. This work is being done by the city and electricity will be furnished by the Community Public Service Co. who furnishes this city with power and lights.

This work will be a marked improvement in the city of Gatesville and shows progress and advancement. All of the larger cities have what is known as the "White Way" and many smaller towns have already installed them or are in preparation of doing so.

As yet it is not definite when the lights will be furnished but according to Eiland Lovejoy, city secretary, the city officials hope to have them ready to turn on in the near future.

The Coryell County 4-H Club boys have received a high rating on their hog development work, word being received at the county agent's office that the development work with Durocs in Coryell county was adjudged third best in the entire United States. The individual work of Elmo King, Plainview 4-H club boy, was rated fourth best in the nation.

The records of the club boys working with the Durocs in 1938 were entered in the National contest, being sent to the United Duroc Record Association. This entry was in competition with breeders and other hog men doing beneficial work with Durocs in 1938.

These honors, along with the recent honor brought to the county by Bruce Hollingsworth, Turnersville 4-H club boy who has one of the outstanding spring litters in the United States, is quite an encouragement to the 4-H club boys of this county.

COTTON INSECT CONTROL DISCUSSED BY MR. K. P. EWING

Cotton insects are receiving careful attention. K. P. Ewing, Federal Bureau of Entomology, brought out most forcibly in a field demonstration meeting held June 15th, that four types of cotton insects should be closely watched by the cotton farmer. These insects are: flea hopper, boll weevil, boll worm, and leaf worm. Suggestions were given for the identification and control of each of these insects. The chief practical measures offered, based on experimental findings, are the use of a mixture of sulphur and calcium arsenate in a ratio of 2 to 1, in the form of a dust for the flea hopper, and a calcium arsenate dust for the boll weevil, the boll worm, and the leaf worm.

Mr. Ewing brought out very definitely that most practical results are obtained by the use of a dust.

Mrs. W. A. White, and other relatives in Gatesville before going to Houston, where they will be permanently located. They are now visiting at the New York World's Fair.

MOUND vs GATESVILLE

These two clubs are undefeated, are tied for the lead. This crucial game has definite bearing on championship race.

SPORT SCROLL

By POST
A game that will go a long way toward deciding the league champion will be played here Sunday when Gatesville and Mound tangle on the old athletic field. These teams and Pidcoke are tied for the top, and all three have fine chances to come through with the championship. It should be a great game.

Gatesville has the edge over Mound in the fielding and defensive department, but Mound has a stronger batting attack. If husky Bugg Jones can squelch the power of the Mound boys, Gatesville is due to win its fourth strength league victory.

Bowling is advancing at a rapid pace in this city, with bowlers jamming the alleys every afternoon and night. The owners of the Queen Bee are trying to put bowling on a large scale in Gatesville and they seem destined to succeed.

The softball season was finally opened Tuesday night after Monday's games were rained out, and the result of the only game played was quite surprising to fans and critics. The veteran Highway squad with Strongarm Blanton in the box, was beaten by the young Arnold Electricians, 7-3. The Electricians simply outthrusted the Highway club, playing heads-up ball all the way.

There is going to be quite a baseball festival at Pearl July 4, when there will be three games played. A. H. Clay, progressive manager, in attempting to give his home town fans lots of baseball, is trying to get various clubs to play their league games that were scheduled to be played on June 4, but which were rained out. If other clubs will cooperate with him, Clay should be able to put on quite a show.

The Pearl manager has already contacted W. C. Thomasson White Hall and Mr. Thomasson has agreed to play Pearl on that date. Pidcoke is willing to play their rained out game, and Topsey and Turnersville are still undecided about playing their game. Mr. Clay will furnish balls and the umpires for the games, and it seems that it would be a great thing for forwarding the national game in that section of the county if this show can be put on.

Several practice games have been played over the county this week. This evidences a great interest in baseball, and if things keep going at the present pace, it will be a banner year for baseball in this county. Coryell City defeated Jonesboro 3-2 in a practice game Tuesday, with Otis McBroom going the route for the winners. State and Turnersville had a scrimmage Tuesday, while Pidcoke and Topsey met in a warm-up contest Wednesday. These practice games go a long way toward improving a game, and keeping up the interest among the players.

Cranfills Gap

Mrs. M. C. Terry, Corsp. The Goar Home Demonstration Club met June 15 in the Oscar Sorley home. Mrs. Sorley's lawn was the scene of some pretty reed work. A tray and several baskets were made. To complete the lawn party Mrs. Sorley served cake, sandwiches, and tea to the eight members and several visitors.

Last Friday afternoon the Womens Missionary Society was entertained in the home of Mrs. Dennie Pendleton; she was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Willie Tindall. A large crowd attended.

Mrs. Culwell has just returned from Greenville where she has been visiting her son.

Bro. Hardcastle preached at the Baptist Church Sunday morning. A good rain visited our community Sunday night which was greatly needed. Threshing will stop for a few days.

Mr. Carroll Oleson who underwent an operation at a Waco hospital is at home and recovering nicely.

Miss Mardell Swenson is suffering from an attack of appendicitis. We hope she is better soon.

CRUCIAL BASEBALL CONTEST HERE SUNDAY P. M.

A battle that will go a long way toward deciding the eventual champion of the Coryell County baseball league will be played here Sunday when the Mound nine, perennial contenders for the title and Gatesville, a new-comer that has won three straight games against all kinds of competition, will meet on the old athletic field at 3 p.m. The locals are only a slight favorite to take the game.

Tooter Hall, Arnett youngster who has pitched only five innings this year, will start on the slab for the locals. Hall has pitched in Coryell county baseball circles for several years, and is recognized as a fine pitcher. If he is right he may be able to hold the Mound boys, but he has not worked for two weeks, and may not be in top shape for the battle. The Gatesville managers, however, believe he can stop the Mound boys, and their judgement counts.

Scaly Holcomb, Flat boy who has set the league on fire during his initial year in the league, will handle the mound chores for Mound. Holcomb, in his first league start, beat Jonesboro, 22-2, on five hits. Then when Turnersville Buffs threatened with a rally in the sixth last Sunday, Holcomb stepped in and put a sudden stop to the Buff scoring, protecting his lead by striking out seven men in the last three frames. Holcomb is just a youngster, and the veteran Gatesville sluggers may slam some of his best pitches far and wide.

Manager Ament will use the same line-up he has had since the season started, not taking any chances on breaking up a winning combination. Cagey Pat Olsen will be behind the plate, while lanky Jack Thornton will be on first base. Steady Standley Miles, who has been getting some nice bingles this year, will be on second, with flashy Soony Hair on short. Sonny Hair had a bad day against Blackfoot last week, and will be out to redeem himself Sunday. Rooster Rogers, who has been woefully weak at the plate but who has been playing fine defensive baseball, will handle third base, the hot corner. Byron Gilbreath, Lum Edwards, hero of last Sunday's victory, and Chick McCallister, a fine hustler and dependable hitter, will roam the outer gardens.

Pidcoke, still tied for the league lead, will go to Pearl and attempt to win their third straight game. The heavy-hitting 'Cokers have already defeated the Tigers once this year, humbling them 15-4 on June 11. Pearl's club improved rapidly since that date, and manager Clay says that his boys will give a tougher game than they are expecting.

Blackfoots attempt to get back in the win column with a victory over Turnersville, a club that has yet to win a league victory. Blackfoot gave Gatesville a scare last week, and will be a heavy favorite to take the Buffs when they meet at Turnersville.

A hustling White Hall club will strive to stay in the first division by winning over Jonesboro. The Eagles pulled out of the cellar last week, and are trying to start that long hard journey back up the league ladder. This is likely to be one of the closest games played Sunday.

Topsey and Mosheim, who are tied for the cellar, will battle Sunday to determine which club can pull out of the mire. Topsey is a slight favorite to take this one.

plate when she was seated. The menu consisted of pineapple juice cocktail, pressed chicken, potato chips, tomato salad, pickled peaches, hot rolls, fresh peach brick ice cream and cake squares, and was served by Mrs. Louis Newman and Mrs. E. W. Jones, Jr. assisted by Miss Jewel Witcher, Mrs. Johnnie Bradford and one of the hostesses, Miss Franks.

Concluding the luncheon, Mrs. Franks presented the honoree with a beautiful gift.

Attending the affair were Misses Waldine Wharton, Fred Byrom, Tribble Campbell, Thelma Stout, Dorothy Culberson, Jacqueline West, Bertha Lillian Stewart, Anita Lowrey, Frances Reesing, and Mesdames John Franks, Buster Cummings, and the honoree.

Copperas Cove Girl Weds Arizona Man.

In an impressive ceremony at the Copperas Cove Methodist Church Monday evening, June 12, at 8 o'clock, Miss Ruth Rosenkranz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rosenkranz, became the bride of Mr. Charles B. Real of Hackberry, Arizona, son of Mrs. Grace Real of California. The Rev. Lee R. Geldmeier officiated. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns.

The wedding marches were played by Mr. Herberth Groth, who also accompanied Mrs. L. S. Haedge, sister of the bride, who sang, "I Love You Truly".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a white bridal satin gown made on long lines and her slippers were of white satin. The veil was attached to a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli. For something old and blue, she wore a yellow gold pin with a blue set, a gift of her mother from her grandmother, and for something borrowed, she carried a white handkerchief.

Miss Clara Heiselbetz of Abilene, maid of honor, was dressed in orchid taffeta, and carried a bouquet of orange gladioli. The bridesmaids were Miss Annie Rosenkranz, who wore a blue gown of taffeta and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli, and Miss Hilda Rosenkranz, who wore a pink taffeta frock and carried a bouquet of orchid gladioli.

Mr. Wess Rosenkranz was best man, and Mr. Joe Kattner and Mr. Richard Kattner were ushers.

After the ceremony a reception for 110 relatives and friends was held at the home of the bride's parents. Refreshments consisted of chicken salad, sandwiches, potato chips, vanilla wafers, angel food cake, ice cream and punch. The punch was served in the dining room by Misses Olga Kattner and Mozell Wichman. The table was lovely with its ivory tablecloth, and in the center stood the white wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Candles in holders and bowls of flowers were placed on either side of the cake. Lovely flowers were used in decorating the rooms thruout.

The couple left for a short honeymoon trip to Austin. The bride chose an aqua silk frock for traveling. Upon their return, they will spend a few days with her parents, and then leave for their home, which the groom has already furnished as a gift to the bride. They will make their home at Hackberry, Arizona, where the groom is employed with the Santa Fe. The bride was recently employed by the Fred Harvey Line.

A shower was given for the bride last Saturday by her sister, Mrs. L. S. Haedge. The bride received many nice and useful gifts from the friends who attended

LIBERTY H-D CLUB

A safe water supply and a sanitary sewage disposal system is essential for a healthy, happy, rural home, the Liberty Home Demonstration Club women learned from Miss Imogene La Grone, Hamilton H-D Agent, in the home of Mrs. J. B. Jones and Miss Lois Jones on Tuesday afternoon, June 13.

The presence of flies is an indication of uncleanliness, unsanitary conditions, and improper disposal of substances in which they breed. They are not only annoying, they are actually dangerous to health, because they may carry disease germs, such as typhoid fever and cholera to exposed foods.

It is therefore important to know where and how they breed, and apply such knowledge in eliminating breeding places and preventing the breeding of flies.

In eliminating breeding places of flies, the deep pit toilet not only promotes cleanliness, but tends to curb the spread of typhoid fever, dysentery, and other diseases. It should be so located as to prevent the pollution of any domestic water supply or the entrance of surface water in the pit.

The toilet should be fly-tight and mosquito-tight and constructed in such a manner as to remain this way at all times.

The grease trap is recommended for the kitchen waste water disposal.

A sanitary water supply is very essential and all wells should be fixed to prevent the entrance of surface water and should be covered so as to keep out dust and insects.

At the business meeting Mrs. Calvin Perryman was elected to represent the Club at Council as a candidate for a trip to the short course at A. & M. College.

There was a miscellaneous shower honoring Mrs. Gayle Calhoun, the former Miss Katherine Burton of Coryell Church. She received many nice and useful gifts and a hearty welcome by all.

ELI WHITNEY

LOST A FORTUNE TRYING TO PROTECT HIS COTTON GIN INVENTION--THEN, IN THE BUSINESS OF MANUFACTURING FIREARMS--FOR WHICH HE WAS LITTLE KNOWN, --HE MADE A FORTUNE!

PENKNIVES WERE SO NAMED BECAUSE PEOPLE ONCE CARRIED SMALL KNIVES TO SHARPEN THEIR FEATHER PENS

ROBERTSON

Before Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin, it took one man two years to separate one bale of cotton from the seed. Then, with his revolutionary machine, the same job could be done in ten days! However, in attempting to protect his invention, Whitney lost all his profits and some $50,000 besides. Disgusted, he dropped the fight, went into the firearm manufacturing business—and became rich!

POTATOES PEELED WITH GAS

MANY HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS SERVE POTATOES WHICH HAVE BEEN PEELED AUTOMATICALLY WITH GAS HEAT!

Like the modern American housewife, commercial users of potatoes, such as hotels and restaurants, cook with gas. And many of these now peel potatoes with the same fuel. In the peeling process, a ton of potatoes an hour passes through a gas-fired oven, followed by special water baths. Girls then remove the "eyes." Potatoes thus peeled retain 25% more of their health value.

INDEPENDENCE DAY - ERS

By BETTY BARCLAY

No matter what happens in your home on Independence Day—visitors, callers, friends, tired paraders, picnickers—here are a few recipes that fit the occasion. Each has been so thoroughly tested that I submit it in a real holiday frame of mind.

Layer Tomato Cheese Salad
2 packages salad gelatin (aspic)
4 cups tomato juice
1 package cream cheese
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup American cheese, grated
½ cup cream, whipped

Heat 2 cups tomato juice to boiling. Pour over salad gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add remaining cold tomato juice. Stir again. Pour 2 cups of gelatin mixture into mould and chill until set. Meanwhile, chill remaining gelatin mixture until it begins to thicken, then gradually beat in cream cheese, mayonnaise and salt. Fold in graded cheese and whipped cream. Pour into mould on firm tomato aspic; chill until firm. Cut into squares and serve on lettuce. Wrap sticks of small American flags with waxed paper and stand one in center of each square. 10 servings.

Pineapple Cream with Fresh Raspberries
1 package gelatin dessert (pineapple flavor)
1 cup boiling water
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt

1 cup milk
1 cup cream, whipped
Dissolve quick-setting gelatin in boiling water; add sugar and salt. Chill until it thickens; add milk, mixing thoroughly. Fold in whipped cream. Pour into ring mould and chill until firm. Fill center with fresh raspberries. Serves 8.

Orange Waffle Shortcake
(Serves 8-12)
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 eggs
2 cups sweet milk
2 tablespoons cornmeal
½ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 cups flour
Mix sugar and butter, add eggs and beat thoroughly. Add milk and sifted dry ingredients. Cook in well-greased waffle iron. (For an electric iron, which is not greased, use 5 to 6 tablespoons melted butter in batter.) Use 2 waffles for a shortcake. Fill, and top with:

Orange Shortcake Filling
(Sufficient for 1 two-layer cake)
6 oranges
Powdered sugar
Whipped cream or orange juice sauce
Peel oranges, removing all white membrane. Separate into segments. Sweeten with sugar; spread between layers and on top. Serve with whipped cream, or sauce made with juice of 2 oranges and ¼ cup sugar.

DOIN' THE WORLD'S FAIR

By Byron M. Fisher

"We want to spend this summer in Prince of Wales Island and we understand that we must pass through New Brunswick to get there," said a young couple for the funniest comment of the week. "What are the roads like in that country, paved?" We blinked for a moment, wondering just where Prince of Wales Island might be, while we assured them: "Practically all of the New Brunswick highways are paved with smooth black surface." We added: Could you point out Prince of Wales Island on the map? They turned to the big copper map along one end of the Canada Pavilion, and pointed. Yes, there was Prince of Wales Island far within the Arctic Circle where only a few white men have penetrated. We conceded that the roads might be paved as "paving" is understood in the phraseology of dog team mushers. They had confused the name with Prince Edward Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

More than 1200 students from twenty-seven of the Bronx public schools took part in a vivid dance festival in the Court of Peace recently. The dance program which occupied more than an hour's time, featured dances of all nations as well as the traditional Maypole dance in which the girl students whirled about colorful poles erected in the Court of Peace.

An interne who visited the "Strange As It Seems" show in the amusement area recently blamed it on the heat when he passed out at sight of "the man with the iron eye-lids." The building was air conditioned. And speaking of heat, a mob scene was enacted when a group of perspiring school children near the Seal-test building heard some wag yell "Free ice cream for everybody" and rushed a truck being loaded with the frozen concoction. The truck drivers managed to salvage most of their cargo, however.

The focal exhibit on science and education at the Fair was opened formally with ceremonies which were witnessed by more than 250 of the country's leading scientists and educators. The concert of the Schubert Choir of Brantford, Ontario, which was recently held in the Hall of Music was largely attended, had an honorary committee which included the Governor-General of Canada and Lady Tweedsmuir; Sir Roland Lindsay, the British ambassador and Mrs. Lindsay; the Canadian Commissioner General to the World's Fair, Douglas S. Cole and Mrs. Cole.

At another event in the Hall of Music, the meeting of the Home Makers' Association, a gesture to the friendly relations between

United States and British countries was made when Mrs. Roosevelt, first speaker, was followed immediately by Miss Alma Weldon of New Brunswick, representing Canadian delegates.

THE BAPTIST COLUMN

By C. M. Spalding

It is of interest to the churches in the Leon River Association to know that the association led District 14 in the percent of churches giving to missions during the months of March, April, and May. This does not mean that they gave more money as an association, but that a larger percentage of churches in the association gave than in any of the other seven associations in the district. The eight associations are: Corsicana—22 churches, Falls—24 churches, Freestone—Leon—16 churches, Hill—25 churches, Leon River—27 churches, Limestone—30 churches, Meridian—22 churches, Waco 57 churches. The records show that the Leon River Association has led the District every month since and including, October 1938 thru May 1939. This is the association who give EVERY month to the co-operative program. Eight churches have given something every month—4 have missed only one month—3 have missed only two months.

Following is a list of the churches in the Leon River Baptist Association indicating the way in which they gave to missions during the last three months: (* indicates that the church gave in the month at the head of the column; 0 means no gift).

BETTE DAVIS IN "DARK VICTORY", YEARS GREATEST ROMANTIC DRAMA

Academy award winner heads stellar cast including George Brent, Humphrey Bogart, Geraldine Fitzgerald in drama at the Regal Theatre Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

"Dark Victory", the Warner Bros. picture, presents Bette Davis as the ill-starred heroine of one of the tenderest, one of the most poignantly beautiful romances ever unfolded upon the screen.

It is a story of great love and dauntless courage, both pitted against an implacable fate, and it offers the brilliant Miss Davis what she herself considers the greatest role of her very impressive career.

While the character portrayed by Miss Davis might still dominate the narrative even if played by a lesser actress than the matchless Bette—so compelling is the role—the production is by no means a one-woman tour de force. It has a supporting cast that is fully worthy of its gifted star, and the brilliance of her performance serves to inspire them all to a superlative pitch of excellence.

Playing opposite the lustrous star is George Brent, and in uniting with her to bring this moving romance to the screen he has the most sympathetic role of his notable career. Another lover of Bette's albeit a frustrated one, is played by Humphrey Bogart, and his portrayal of an uncouth but honest and genuine Irish horse-trainer, different from anything he has done previously on the screen, is fraught with interest, for it proves that he is not only an ace bad man but an superb actor.

GATESVILLE, TEXAS, FRIDAY JUNE, 23, 1939

REP. BURNEY EXPLAINS HOW SJR. BILL 12 WOULD AFFECT STATE

I am appealing to the thinking people of Hamilton and Coryell Counties to bear with me a few minutes on the subject of Social Security.

As you know, I have consistently voted against SJR 12; in so doing I am well aware that I am not voting to the best interest of my political future. I know that I would not be re-elected today if the election were to be held. It is a matter of representing the people of their known wishes, based upon the misstatements of facts and misinformation in regard to the subject of the question, and of representing the people for their best interest based upon facts that deserve consideration I accept the responsibility of that decision. I am willing to sacrifice whatever political future I might ever have to save the State of Texas from one of the greatest monstrosities ever offered for the selfish purpose of special interest. I received many threatening letters stating that I will never be re-elected; I only have one statement to make:

As long as I am serving the people of Texas and the people of my district I shall serve to their best interest, willing to accept condemning criticism coming from misinformed people, and my only hope is that they shall learn the truth.

I am not a member of the Governor's so-called Honor Roll, and if it is necessary for me to vote for SJR 12 to become a member of such an Honor Roll, then, I shall never be counted among that number.

In the Governor's radio address last Sunday, June 18th, he severely criticised and denounced the members of the House of Representatives who refused to vote for a 2 per cent sales tax branded into the Constitution of this State, where it will be virtually impossible to strike it out. Is it the judgement of the thinking people of Hamilton and Coryell Counties to write into the Constitution a sales tax that is a tax upon the poverty of this State and at the same time placing a limit upon the tax of natural resources, thus, using the Constitution of this State to wrap about the cooperate interests of Texas and Wall Street a protective cloak providing no more taxes shall be paid by them for the purpose of Social Security, including Old Age Assistance.

SJR 12 is not the only measure that has been before the Legislature that would raise the money. I was co-author of the Omnibus Tax Bill which passed the House with 115 votes, the largest majority of any tax bill passed this Session. This bill would have raised approximately $17,000,000 and would not extract one dollar from the poor or even from the man of moderate circumstances. It provided for an increase on large inheritances, a tax on oil, gas and sulphur. It increased the franchise tax on corporations, and a gross receipts tax on corporations in certain lines of business. The sales tax in the bill was in the form of a luxury tax upon a certain particular group of items. The tax was on such articles which sold for more money than the average Texan citizen would have paid. Do you see anything wrong with such a tax as this? Then, what reason does the Governor contend this bill should not be passed, but try to brow beat a sales tax into the Constitution? Why did the Governor, in his opening address to the Legislature on the 18th day of January condemn and denounce any increase tax on natural resources of this State? He pledged himself against a sales tax in his campaign and in his first message. He not only reversed his opinion on the sales tax but he wants to brand it into the Constitution of this State where it will be forever there and no legislature will have the authority to take it out if 11 members of the Senate objected.

Yes, he certainly committed himself against a sales tax in his autobiography written after his nomination in July, 1938, by his own hand, and I quote:

"And here is something else, perhaps the next injustice tax will be a sales tax on everything you eat and wear. Shall make another tax upon the common folks. I say it is unfair and unequal because the dyseptic old millionaire will be crunching a craker and a glass of milk and pay a sales tax on his diet is perhaps a dime a year, while the robust laboring man with a healthy stomach and big appetite will pay 100 times that amount."

That is what your Governor thought of a sales tax before he took the oath of office and that is what I think of a sales tax today. Do you know that this measure which the Governor is supporting provides for a small increase on gas, oil and sulphur and utilities tax therein levied shall never be increased for social security purposes. In other words, he is saying to the corporations of this State, and asking for my vote to guarantee the special interest of Texas that we will tax you this little additional amount of 3-4 of 1 cent on each barrel of oil and a small amount on sulphur, gas and utilities produced, but we guarantee to you that this will be the last dollar we will ever ask you to pay for Texas Social Security.

What do you think of such a crime as this?

And do you know that SJR 12 passed the Senate and came to the House that the Social Security Program for Texas should never exceed $20,000,000? In other words, the old age assistance funds was to be limited to $20,000,000 to be the entire amount for each year paid for old age assistance.

After the liberalization law passed the legislature and was signed by the Governor, there is approximately 180,000 persons on the pension rolls. So it can be readily seen that the present program sponsored by the Governor in the form of SJR 12 will mean $18.34 average per month for each old person drawing pensions. In reviewing the promises of the Governor during his campaign and by reading his first message to the Legislature they fall far short of his promise to the old people of $30 per month without a sales tax, he only guaranteed that the the oil, gas and sulphur companies of this State should never be taxed more than the provisions of SJR 12 for the purpose of Social Security. You have never heard him mention this in his speeches over the radio, have you?

Now, lets see what House Bill 340 will provide—it is expected to raise without dispute, $17,000,000 with the provision left as is for the $9,000,000 now being collected on liquor, beer and cigarettes to be applied in the social security program. Take the $9,000,000, by adding to the $17,000,000 will give you a total of $26,

TEXAS HOME OWNERS SAVE $12,209,000 IN INTEREST PAYMENTS

Dallas, Texas—Over forty-four thousand Texas home owners with H.O.L.C. loans have saved at least $12,209,000 in interest payments during the last six years, said J. C. Anderson, Jr., State Manager of the H.O.L.C., on the occasion of the sixth birthday of the organization, celebrated this month. This amount represents the difference between the interest paid at the H.O.L.C. 5 per cent rate and the higher interest being paid when the loans were refinanced. This $12,209,000 has been put into circulation in towns and cities all over the State, said Mr. Anderson, and has had the effect of an increased income for these home owners.

Mr. Anderson stated that a remarkable payment record had been established by Texas home owners. In the six years, $23,666,376 has been repaid—22.4 percent of the principal of the H.O.L.C. loans in Texas.

Of the original loans, 2,113 have already been paid in full, though most of them had 15 years to run. At present, 32,352 home owners in Texas have either paid out their loans or else are maintaining their loans in good shape and are well on the road to completely owning their homes.

Mr. Anderson pointed out that all kinds of people have been aided by H.O.L.C.'s refinancing of home loans—laboring men, professional men, mothers with families to support—all of them—people who were severely hit by the depression, but who have since gotten on their feet and are gladly repaying their debt to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

In calling attention to the way the entire State has benefitted from the H.O.L.C. Mr. Anderson said that over $1,970,000 had been loaned for the purpose of repairing homes, and that the H.O.L.C.

Twice Elected To Presidency

Being twice elected to the highest office in school is the unique honor bestowed upon Miss Mary Kay Jones of Frost. This spring she was chosen by a large majority of her 2800 classmates at Texas State College for Women to serve during the 1939-40 regular session as president of the student body. Again this summer she was elected president of the student body for the summer session. Mary Kay has been a class officer every year in college.

Serving with her as secretary this summer is Miss Cecelia Palmer of Fort Worth.

"Flame of Friendship" Presented at Court of Peace

Ending an 11,000-mile journey bearing the "Flame of Friendship" sent as a good-will gesture from Japan to the people of the U. S., Miss Akiko Tsukimoto, chosen as "Miss Japan", bows as she presents friend's flame to Grover Whalen, New York World's Fair president, during Japan Day ceremonies at Fair's Court of Peace. Left to right, Kensuke Horinouchi, Japanese Ambassador; Whalen; New York's Mayor La Guardia; and Kaname Wakasugi, Japanese Commissioner-General to the Fair. Flame was lighted from 1500-year-old sacred fire at Isumo Shrine in Japan, where according to tradition, the gods of the universe convened.

To the Rescue"

DEAR FRIENDS:

Thinking that, perhaps, "the woman's impression" might interest some of you, I want to give you a final word about the Nation's recent guests, the rulers and symbols of the British Empire, who have come and gone. For weeks their names, biographies and photographs have been emblazoned upon the pages of our country's newspapers from coast to coast. You have seen them in the newsreels on their travels through Canada. For two memorable days they were friendly and honored visitors in our capital. This royal couple repaid our people for their brilliant reception in the courtesy and graciousness of their actions, the simplicity of their bearings, the kindness of their dispositions and their genuine, democratic American-like manners. There were just simply "real folks", and as real folks won the hearts of collective Washington and the city's throng of visitors from the very beginning. From the moment they stepped off the train on Thursday morning and received the welcome handclasp of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, to the regretful good-byes at the British Embassy and the Union Station Friday evening, the monarch of a farflung empire and his lovely, smiling queen held the admiration and friendly regard of all.

Nor does this mean those "1500" elect and elite "commanded" to attend the Garden Party, which you've heard much about, and which was given by the British Ambassador and Lady Lindsey. This was the largest party for the sovereigns, and the guest list was taken from the social register, including a few from the Congressional Directory. Having to draw a line somewhere, naturally, Lady Lindsay chose from the House of Representatives only the members of the Foreign Affairs Committee, and the Chairman of all committees, with their wives. She followed the same policy in the Senate, but the Senate wives who were omitted lobbied with Mrs. Garner, who whispered in the ear of the Vice President. He, in turn, had Lord Lindsey to lunch, and almost immediately each Senator who was previously omitted received an invitation. Both Texas Senators were invited in the beginning, and there were nine members of the Texas Delegation in the House who received invitations. Five of them unmarried. Two of them sent regrets.

The admiration was no less among the seven hundred thousand men, women and children who gathered before dawn, and waited quietly through the stifling heat for eight and ten hours. It was not altogether that this city of sophistication is impressed by Royalty, but this visit of rulers of the great British Empire is something that has never happened before, and may possibly never occur again. Many brought along folding chairs; tourists spent their time writing postcards and letters. Washingtonians visited among themselves, read magazines and newspapers. Others purchased wooden boxes on which to sit, while those who came earlier simply sat on the curb. Taxicab drivers parked their cars and rented the tops of them to those who preferred to be above the crowd. Hotels along the route of the procession had long ago sold out all space fronting on Pennsylvania Avenue. It was said that space sold as high as fifty and one hundred dollars a room. All the government departments closed, and in buildings along the avenue the windows were assigned by tickets to a certain number of employees for each window. Department store employees and school children were given a holiday to view the colorful procession. Army and Navy bands provided music all during the day at various crossroads of the royal route, by the way of entertainment for the crowds. Ambulances were stationed at street intersections to take care of accidents and heat prostrations. I had my best close-up of Their Majesties in their garden party attire, although I was among those not invited to the party. Many of us were to impatient to wait until Congressional reception on Friday and so we joined the crowds on Massachusetts Avenue in the late afternoon. It was a thrilling parade of American dignitaries, Foreign Diplomats and socialites, some of the men wearing high silk hats and cutaways, while others wore linen suits and straw hats, the women, of course, in all their flossiest finery.

The King and Queen rode in an open car, driven very slowly down a channel cut through a solid mass of shouting Americans. The King was bareheaded, and in the sunshine his hair looked above a sober, tanned face. He looked much younger than his photographs. Incidentally, he is only five feet three inches tall, the Queen five feet two, and standing beside the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, both over six feet, the royal couple looked almost tiny. Interesting to note was the King's dotting difference to his queen, pushing her forward and himself in the background at every chance. There is nothing I can add to the many things I know you've read about, her beauty, her daintiness and charm, and her elaborate wardrobe, except that, in my opinion, she is twice as pretty as her pictures. This, I think, because she is alert and alive, so keenly interested in everything around her. It was said, that on the tour, she has often held up schedules, stopping to chat with individuals in the crowds, — particularly children. Feminine Washington discusses at length the various costumes in which Her Majesty appeared. On arrival, she wore an ankle-length lace, a hat with ostrich plumes, and carried a small parasol. For the White House dinner she chose yards of white, with one of the many tiaras. One friend of mine has told me the enchanting close-up she had of her in billowy pink, worn at the Embassy dinner, at which the King and Queen were hosts to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. But, I'm sure that the Victorian gown, with picture hat, a quaint folding fan, and beruffled parasol, all white, which she wore to the Garden Party, will be the topic of conversation in Washington for many months.

On Friday morning the wives and daughters of the members of Congress sat on wooden seats in front of the Capitol, while in the rotunda both branches of the Congress filed by for a handshake with the royal visitors. (British precedent prevented the King and Queen from entering either hall of the Congress.) Many who had already had a "garden party look" at the royal pair gathered in the mob for another peep. Some of us went hours ahead of time, and there are several cases of sunburn, because the fad for parasols had not been revived until the Queen appeared with a parasol for every gown. They are now on sale in every department store in Washington. Again, with extreme graciousness, their Majesties walked through the crowd, giving us another chance to see and remember this young couple who had appeared to enjoy immensely their first visit to our great country.

I did not attend the services at Arlington, and of course the Mount Vernon ceremony was private. Neither did I get to the station for a look at the blue and silver "Buckingham Palace on wheels". Until midnight the streets were again lined with people, some anxious for a last glance, others who had not been able to see over the crowds, and hoping for a first look at Britain's young rulers before their historic visit ended.

So, the city this week seems quite almost to dullness after all the festivities, and those of us who are homesick are hoping that the holidays for this session are ended, and that the Congress will soon adjourn.

Bob and I want you all to come and see us when we get home.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

TRADE MARKS AND DOLLAR MARKS

WITHOUT giving the matter much thought you might define a trade mark on a package or an advertisement as a mark of identification which protects the interest of the seller against imitators; a selfish symbol, you know, which exists to help some one man or firm to get rich.

Actually a trade mark is as much to your interest as it is to the man's who owns it and has it registered in his name.

For it is a buying guide for you which you can absolutely trust. You can buy anything under a trade mark and know that the quality, the quantity and the price will be right. You do not even have to examine the package before you buy. If the trade mark is there, so also will the quality be there. The merchant knows that. He prefers to sell trade-marked, that is, advertised, goods, because they have the confidence of the public and can be sold easily, quickly and in quantity.

Back of the trade mark is advertising. It stands for the trade mark, for the trade mark itself is merely a design etched on paper, until advertising gives it life in the minds of consumers like yourself.

The trade mark which saves you money and time need not be a formal design of a national manufacturer or advertiser. It may be merely the familiar name of your grocer or haberdasher, appearing at the foot of his advertisements in the newspaper.

Wherever you see those familiar words or names or marks you know that you are in the presence of a man who is doing his level best to be worthy of your trade and who wants to keep you coming back.

He is advertising for that purpose, notifying you that he is in business to stay and that you can buy from him and he will stand back of his goods. For you the trade mark, like the dollar mark which we all respect, stands for full value wherever it happens to be found.

But unidentified goods are as uncertain as counterfeit money, and the wise man or woman avoids both.

And how close these trade marks are to our lives and how comforting they are to us when we buy! You go into a store. On the shelves are familiar marks you have seen all your life.

You recognize them as you do familiar faces in a strange crowd—and they give you the same comforting feeling of familiarity and respect.

Trade marks exist to help you buy more serenely and profitably.

SYNOPSIS
The strange story of Wuthering Heights begins when Heathcliff, a gypsy boy of nine, comes to the estate and becomes the adoring playmate of Cathy, the master's daughter. His friendship ripens to love, but after the master's death he is reduced to meniality by Cathy's older brother, the drunken Hindley. Heathcliff threatens to run away, but cannot. Meanwhile, Cathy meets charming Edgar Linton, a rich neighbor.

Chapter Three

But Cathy knew well that she must have more of what she had once tasted, and had so long wanted. Edgar Linton, undiscouraged by her savage reproaches of their last conversation, sent her gifts; she accepted his invitation to dine at the Linton home.

As she dressed for the occasion, Heathcliff stormed into her room, and grimly ordered Ellen to leave. There was a stormy, bitter scene between the two. Heathcliff demanded to know why she accepted the attentions of Edgar Linton, why she wore fine dresses when he came; at once brutal and passionate, he pleaded with her. Suddenly she turned upon him, in a tone he had never before known:

"Am I to take orders from you—a dirty stable boy? Allow you to select what dresses I shall wear and bow humbly to your horrible, wretched tempers!"

"Get out, Heathcliff... go where I can never see you again."

"Cathy! Where's your heart!" he exclaimed.
"Impertinent—that's what you are! Mr. Linton was right! An impertinent, unmannerly lout!"
He seized her arm. "Call me names like the rest of them!" he shouted.

"You had your chance to be something else," she cried, struggling to wrest away. "Now let me alone!"

"Yes—yes," Heathcliff said, holding her savagely. "Tell the dirty stable boy to let go of you—he soils your pretty dress. But who soils your heart? Who turns you into a vain, cheap, worldly fool? Linton does! You'll let yourself be loved by him because it pleases your stupid, greedy vanity!"

"Stop it! And get out. Go where I can never see you again." Cathy stormed.

"I will! And this time I'll stay!"
"It won't do any good," she said evenly. "Thief or servant were all you were born to be—or beggar beside the road. Begging for favors. Not earning them, but whimpering for them with your dirty hands."

"That's all I've become to you—a pair of dirty hands... Well—have them then—"
Heathcliff slapped her full upon the face.

"Have them where they belong!" he raged, slapping her again. Then he walked out of the door, saying to the silent Cathy:

"It doesn't help to strike you."
In the hallway, where Edgar Linton waited for Cathy, Heathcliff went alone, unseeing, holding his hands out before him, palms upward, as though they did not belong to the rest of his body. He went past Edgar without a word or a look, and Edgar stared after him.

Slowly Heathcliff climbed the ladder to his place in the stable loft, and went to the window. With the same motions he had used in striking Cathy, he drove his hands, one after the other, through the window pane. His hands bled. Then he heard Edgar's carriage depart. Hours later, he came to Ellen's kitchen, where she looked at his hands in horror. He spoke as though to himself alone:

"I want to crawl to her feet... whimper to be forgiven—for loving her—for needing her more than my own life. I—for belonging to her more than to my own soul. . . . I want to beg for a smile. . . . I don't care if she loves Linton—or whom she loves, if she'll only look at me—and say my name. . . ."

At that point, Cathy, who had returned, called to Ellen from the living room. Heathcliff quickly hid, and overheard.

Cathy had come home with news, which she hastily imparted to Ellen. Edgar had asked to marry her. She would answer him on the next day. Did she love Edgar, Ellen asked. Yes, because he was handsome, and pleasant to be with, and young, and gay. . . .

Cathy was trying to convince Ellen, and herself.

"...and because he will be rich some day—and I shall be the finest lady in the county."

"What about Heathcliff?" Ellen asked.

"Oh, Heathcliff. It would degrade me to marry him."

The candles in the room flickered, as though they had been blown by a draft.

Cathy fell silent for a time, then spoke:

"Oh, it would be heaven to escape from this disorderly, comfortless place, called home. . . . But I don't think I belong in heaven; Ellen, I dreamt I was once there."

"Yes?"

"I dreamt I went to heaven and that heaven didn't seem to be my home, and I broke my heart with weeping to come back to earth. . . . and the angels were so angry" they flung me into the middle of the heath on top of Wuthering Heights. . . . and I woke up sobbing with joy. That's it, Ellen. I've no more business marrying Edgar Linton than I have being in heaven. . . . but Ellen, Ellen, what can I do?"

"You're thinking of Heathcliff?"
Cathy's voice was firm with sudden realization.

"Who else? My one thought in living is Heathcliff. . . . Whatever our souls are made of, his and mine are the same, and Linton's is as different as frost from fire. Oh, Ellen, if everything else in the world died and Heathcliff remained, life would still be full for me. . . . Ellen, I am Heathcliff!"

Outside, there was suddenly the sound of flying hooves on cobble, and Joseph crying: "Heathcliff! Stop!"

Ellen could not keep from Cathy her knowledge that Heathcliff had overheard, and that he had left when Cathy said that marriage to him would degrade her. Every-thing Cathy knew of Heathcliff told her that this time he would not return. Fanatically, she flew to the door, and outside into the swirling snow. There was agony in her voice, and desperation.

"Heathcliff! Heathcliff!"

To all of Ellen's entreaties, she could only cry out again.

"Heathcliff, Heathcliff. . . ! The fool! He should have known I love him. . . . I love him. . . .!"

Cathy stumbled across the moors, crying his name into the wind and the blizzard. She picked her way to Pennistone Crag, crying out his name, and the sound of her voice echoed back from the depths of the cave:

"Heathcliff! Heathcliff!"

Many hours later, Joseph and Edgar and Dr. Kenneth, with other searchers, found her crumpled in front of the big rock on the moor. They found her in front of Pennistone Crag, with life nearly out of her. When they brought her into Linton house, to give her brandy and bring her back to life, her lips formed the word: "Heathcliff."

SAVE FEED AT ITS BEST

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

This is the season when the weather tells the story—will there be a corn crop or not? As everyone knows there is a critical period in which corn either "makes" or it doesn't. We have been in the habit of taking a crop of nubbins with the best grace possible, but few tasks are more thankless than gathering a nubbin crop.

Fortunately it is easy to escape that discouraging job—driving over an acre to fill the wagon box with corn that is mostly cob and shuck. Besides, when corn matures in the field the nubbins is about all we get, while the stalks themselves—at the right stage—contain as much digestible nutrients for livestock as a crop of half-filled, short ears of dry corn.

When drought threatens to cut the corn crop short, when the lower leaves begin to "burn", when it is plain that the grain harvest will be light—then it is time to save stalk and all while it is still green enough to make good ensilage. The trench silo is the answer. It can be dug in a hurry, and cheaply, and the ensiled corn will retain all the nutritive value it had when cut. Instead of permitting the corn to stand in the field and completely dry up, why not save the stalk, foliage, grain and all in one operation?

The trench silo is not only emergency crop insurance, however; it is life insurance for the livestock. It is "production credit" to keep up the milk flow, fatten the lean kine, or merely hold normal health and vigor in the growing animals through the months of drouth or cold. As such it is becoming as common on Southwestern farms as barns and corn-cribs. It is the cheapest storage known, and retains more of the digestible nutrients in the feed than any other form or method of curing and storing.

Now that the peak of crop cultivation is passing, there will be time in the next few weeks to get the trench silos ready.

The best ensilage is made by cutting the corn or sorghum after the grain hardens but before much of the foliage dries up—while the stalks themselves are still green and succulent, but not before the grain is well matured.

This is one of the things we have learned since the silo boom of forty years ago—that the best ensilage is not made from immature crops, as used to be recommended. That we can make ensilage from even dry stalks by supplying enough water to saturate them and facilitate fermentation; but the natural juices of the plants are better, and the crop should be ensiled at its best.

Some of the other things we have learned about silos: The walls should not be perpendicular. The ensilage packs and keeps better in a trench with sloping walls because in settling downward it is wedged into narrower space and thus avoids shrinking away from the walls, which permits air to enter and spoil the outside of the mass. Also sloping walls are easier maintained.

The walls should be as smooth as possible in any case. Old silos in which the walls have sloughed off in places should be smoothed up before filling. This will widen the trench, and increase the area of the "face" from which the daily supply is cut. The relative width and depth are not as important considerations as keeping the square footage of the face in proportion to the number of animals to be fed. Talk it over with the county agent, or your neighbor who has one, follow proven recommendations.

REP. BURNLEY—

000,000; setting aside $5,000,000 for Teachers Retirement, Needy Blind and Dependent Children, will leave $21,000,000. That being matched by the Federal Government will raise it to $42,000,000. Take the 180,000 members and divide it into the $42,000,000 as we did with the $20,000,000 provided by SJR 12, you will have $23.33 per month average for each person drawing social security in this State, approximately $5.00 more per month for each one.

You never have heard the Governor mention that in the Sunday morning talks. I would like to make a statement that can be checked as to its truth and that statement is, that more special interests are in Austin lobbying in behalf of SJR 12 than ever was before for any question in the history of Texas. You have been told that special interest were favoring the minority group and it is an open challenge in the House of Representatives to produce a single lobbyist of any kind that is lobbying against SJR 12. There is no one to deny the facts that I have just stated.

It has been stated that if SJR 12 were to fail to pass that the State of Texas would have an increased deficiency from $19,000,000 to $30,000,000. This is an untrue statement because SJR 12 does not provide one cent of revenue for the retirement of state debts, it is for the purpose of paying Social Security, regardless of how much the funds are in debt it cannot be reduced by SJR 12. It is true that the general fund is in debt approximately $20,000,000 but it is further true that the Highway Department and the Department of Education and other departments having a surplus to almost offset the $20,000,000 deficiency. You have had called to your attention the fact that the State of Texas has issued uncashable vouchers, which is true. That voucher is cashable at a 1 per cent discount; while on the other hand the voucher issued against the Confederate fund, and if you please, a tax bill in the State Constitution is cashable at 15 to 25 per cent, ask any Confederate pensioner in your neighborhood. Has the Governor told you this?

I am wondering why the Governor did not place a little pressure upon House Bill 340, a statutory measure which would provide the necessary funds within thirty days to pay social security. It passed the house with 115 votes, which proves this legislature is willing to pass a statutory measure, but the Governor and special interest want nothing except a Constitutional Amendment to shelter them from paying their just share of Social Security. That is why the committee in the Senate killed this bill before letting it come before that body. The Governor has stated he was willing to compromise but he has failed to compromise in any instance except to write a sales tax into the Constitution; but if he had compromised to accept a statutory bill it would have long been settled. It was not his wish that the people would have a 30 day relief instead of 9 months waiting and then taking the chance of being turned down at the polls. You may ask this question, why did the Legislature refuse to let the people decide upon what taxes they want? To explain that I will make the following statement: As a member of the House of Representatives and the Senate one will have a chance to decide upon some 10 or 12 tax bills, picking out one that is best for the people, and if that bill is not exactly what is considered best one has the opportunity to write an amendment and change the bill to fit the ability of the tax payers. You, as a voter, have only one chance to vote on the question submitted. And that chance is, do you want a sales tax written into the Constitution or not. If you vote "no" you turn down all chances of meeting social security obligations. It is the duty and obligation of the Legislature to enact the laws and pass bills for the purpose of paying old age assistance which is provided for by our constitution.

The Constitutional Amendment that provided for Social Security also provides that the Legislature shall meet at a special session and pass statutory measures for the levying and collecting taxes for the purpose of paying old age pensions. Now, we are here serving the people, and are in the position to pass within 30 days a tax measure that would fulfill that promise. We have been blocked by a Constitutional Amendment, that if enacted will reputeate every old person in Texas drawing a pension, with a meager sum of $18.34 per month.

I have made a record in the Legislature and think it is a conservative one. I voted against the Constitutional Amendment Sales Taxes; I voted against the liberalization of old age assistance before we got the money to pay the bill. My reason for not voting to liberalize was not because I do not believe in liberalization, but because I thought it bad business for the State of Texas to promise more pensions when they are unable to pay the ones that they already have on the rolls. Is it good business to obligate the State to more people without raising the money to pay present obligations. I have consistently voted for economy on all the appropriations bills, with the exception of the rural aid bill, and I voted against all tax remission bills which take the money from our state funds remitting it back to the counties who were not in as much need as our own. The States owe obligations that should be paid before it assumes the obligations of the counties. In all of my actions I have considered the tax payers as well as the person receiving the benefit.

I have considered our obligations to the school children of this State because I think that the best investment that we can make in the form of social security, and if it were to come to a vote of whether I would give a dollar to the school children or the old folks, I will be frank in saying that I would give the dollar to the school children instead, because it is the investment for the opportunity of the youth who will some day be responsible for you and me after we have served our time.

In serving you, without deception, I have tried to be honest and make my stand on all issues plain and clear, so that you may have the opportunity to judge me accordingly.
