TWO MEXICAN CHILDREN DROWN NEAR MOUND SUNDAY P. M.

The dark, treacherous rapid waters of the Leon river claimed two young victims late Sunday afternoon as little Manuel Saenz Jr. and sister Rebeccah were swept down the stream when they stepped from their car in the middle of the slough formed by the overflow of the river.

The Saenz family were returning from a visit in Temple when their automobile was drowned out when they drove into the water just this side of the bridge spanning the river near Mound. They attempted to leave the automobile and waded to the shore when the two children were swept off their feet and washed down the stream. The mother and father had the smaller children in their arms and were unable to render any aid, however, the smaller children were saved.

Funeral services were held in the Presbyterian Church Monday afternoon at two o'clock with Rev. Edward Bayless of the local church assisted by Rev. D. E. Lujan from the Mexican Presbyterian church in Waco. Interment was in the City Cemetery.

PAINTER'S BARGAIN FAIR SALE ATTRACTING LARGE CROWDS

Painter's Bargain Fair Sale, which opened Thursday, is one of the biggest ever staged by this firm. The News printed five thousand big four-page filled-with-bargains circulars for this great store-wide event. These circulars were then mailed to every home in this trade territory.

Big crowds packed the store for the first four days of this sale, which is one of the two sales which Mr. Painter stages for his customers every year. They hold only two sales each year, and people of the county have learned that when Painter's say sale they mean sale.

In our interview with Mr. Painter, he said, "Our months of preparation for this great sale have been well repaid by the enthusiasm that the hundreds of customers have shown over our money saving values."

Batting It Out

"OUT OF THE GULCH"

Last time you read this balony, we were at a "controlled" road, coming down from Yosemite. From there, then.

As soon as we were taken thru the controlled road, which really should have been a control road, we went down grade some two thousand feet down to Merced, which is back on the highway we started on thru Fresno, etc. We then passed up a pass, about 1700 feet or approximately so, and finally came out on our old 101 to Gilroy, which is on the main highway to San Francisco. Gilroy is still off the coast, but is on the main coast route, which we follow relatively close from Los Angeles to British Columbia, where we are now headed.

Next morning, Friday morning we left Gilroy, and drove in to San Jose, where we saw Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Peterson. Mrs. Peterson was the former Miss Annie Rivers Bigham, and a former resident of Gatesville.

San Jose, and vicinity, can't be beaten for scenic beauty, hills, valleys, fruit trees, every imaginable fruit, nut, berry, flower, and everything else the ground produces. The beauty of the filling stations is also outstanding, as well as the homes, businesses,—everything. From San Jose, we saw in Palo Alto Stanford University, and drove thru the university grounds. Nothing in Texas compares with it in beauty or buildings, including the University of Texas.

Other towns you may or may not have heard of include San Mateo, Redwood City, Burlingame, Daly City, and Colma. Colma, we believe, is where Sutter's Mill is, where the first California gold was discovered.

Daly City, at the Motorville Inn, was where we slept during our stay in and around the Bay Region. To the main city, we had to also pass thru South San Francisco, enroute to the Fair.

Next, we went to the Golden Gate Park in San Francisco, which has a 49 mile drive thru giving you some idea of its size. In the park, or rather at the western edge is the Cliff House, where there is a splendid view inside (it was cold as blazes to us) of the seals on the Seal Rocks. The Pacific was not so pacific and the water was breaking partially over the rocks. Seals were swimming and sunning themselves in the water and on the rocks.

We got to Frisco about noon, found the camp, put up, then went to the park, and went back down on the main drag, Market Street where we parked and waited for a "rubber neck" bus.

This bus, took us to Chinatown at night, where we saw all the "chink" joints, which of course, can't be described. We visited here the telephone exchange, Joss House, a Chinese Temple, the Market Place, stores etc.

Going back to where we started from, the San Francis Hotel, a high hat place if we ever saw one, we went to Telegraph Hill, one of the highest points in the city, from where we saw Treasure Island lighted at night, and many other points of interest. Telegraph Hill is the locale of the San Francisco Artists Colony, and was formerly used as a signal hill for ships and military reasons.

Coming down, we went to the Fisherman's Grotto, where the dago fishermen, and there are thousands of them, have their boats, and sell crabs, lobsters, and many other wild denizens of the deep. The stench of these boiling pots will never be forgotten. Nearby was Joe DeMaggio's Club, one of the high spots of San Francisco, which has about 250 night clubs, and as many or more hotels, but very few tourist camps. The tourist camps are in the nearby towns. This concluded Friday's sight-seeing, and we turned in for the night.

Since the toll on the Bay Bridge, as they call it, is 50c a trip, and parking on Treasure Island is reported about the same, which would be $1.00 a day, just going, we were told to drive to the ferry, near which we parked the car for 25c and took the ferry for 10c to the Island.

Looking at the fair from San Francisco, it doesn't look very big, but don't let that fool you—there are about 20 miles of streets. Of course, they have the Elephant Trains, which transport folks on a 35c sightseeing trip. We walked many of the exhibits were similar if not duplicates of the Pan American and Centennial Exhibits in Dallas.

Press Courtesies came in very handy, and we used press cards for gate entrances, and also, had access to the beautiful Press Club, which is exclusively for the Newspaper, Radio and publicity people who visit the fair.

The Press Club has a bar, a dining room, and a lovely place to "take it easy". There is no "workshop" here. A number of the better known cartoonists, and others in the business of the Fourth Estate have left original cartoons here.

First of importance, was the "Cavalcade of the Golden West", which was very, very good. It was staged by the same man who staged the Cavalcades at the Texas Centennial and is a historical pageant.

Of particular interest to us were the foreign exhibits, France, Italy, Norway, Colombia, El Salvador, Guatemala, Chile, Peru, and many others.

Railroad, Telephone, Utility and many California counties and sections of the country which were superb. Description of these would be prohibitive, and tiring even if we could do them justice, which we can't.

One of the interesting places, was the Ghiradelli Chocolate exhibit, where this brand chocolates are made. Stones, big stone rollers are used to thoroughly crush the cocoa beans which make the chocolates. After crushing, the centrifugal force of the rotating stones, slings the chocolate out. It is then mixed and further crushed and ground to its fineness by steel rollers. Here, we got some Nu-Malt, one of their original creations, which we don't get in Texas, and delicious it is.

In one of the exhibits, we saw "Wrong Way" Corrigan's Crate, and also, in the same exhibit, which was the TWA Air Line ex-

LOCAL CLUB ENTERS STATE SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT

A local club composed of players from the various teams of the league will represent Gatesville in the big state-wide tournament being held in Waco next week. This club will represent the Firemen, who paid the entrance fee, and when it became apparent that their club was not as strong as it was first thought it would be, they asked Pat Olsen cagey softball performer, to pick and manage a team in the tournament.

Olsen has selected sixteen performers to compete in the tournament. Every club has at least one man on the club. The official list turned in by manager Olsen reads as follows: Jones, Highway and Olsen, Arnold's catchers; Holt, Red and White, Blanton, Highway, and Ricketts, Coca-Cola, pitchers; Thornton, Coca-Cola, Post, Arnold's, Hearn, Arnold's, Morgan, Firemen, Tackett, Coca-Cola, and Whatley CCC, infielders; White, Arnold's and Ward, Coca-Cola short-fielders; Gilbreath, Arnold's, Wiggins' Coca-Cola, and Ray, Firemen, outfielders. Jones may play in the outfield if Olsen is able to handle the catching burden alone.

Olsen, in picking the team, stated that he was not necessarily selecting the heaviest sluggers; but picked the boys whom he felt would hustle all the way, would be steady afield, and had more speed on the basepaths.

This club will meet the City Ice Service of Waco on the Cotton Palace field Thursday night at eight o'clock. If they win this contest, they will meet the winner of the Malone-Belfalls contest in Katy Park Friday night.

At a meeting of representatives from the various clubs over the county here last Saturday a Women's County Home Demonstration Council was organized with Mrs. W. E. Hayes of the Priscilla Club as chairman and Mrs. W. B. Duncan of Harmon as secretary-treasurer.

Paul Hinson of Ames, 1934 graduate of GHS and popular young athlete narrowly escaped what might have been a serious accident with two other boys last Friday night when the car driven by Hinson hurdled the sidewalk on the south side of Main street in front of the J. A. Fletcher home and came to a stop in the front yard of the J. R. Curtis home.

Among those present from this vicinity in Marlin Friday night to help welcome Tom Connally back to Texas following the adjournment of Congress were Mr. and Mrs. George Gilmore and family, Conrad Powell, and "Uncle Billy" Sadler.

Rev. Fred Rose of Ballinger will direct the services at the Church of Christ Revival which opens at Straws Mill, five miles southeast of Gatesville, Friday evening; the meeting will last ten days.

The all-day service at the First Methodist Church here last Sunday will be long remembered as a highlight in the life of the church; more than 700 people attended the affair and were inspired by the program of the day.

Leonard Stroud, world's champion trick rider, and a group of his cowboys and cowgirls, together with a motorcade of Hamilton boosters were in Gatesville Friday afternoon in the interest of the Hamilton Western Jubilee held last Saturday.

The Federal Farm Administration has made public the County allotments of the amount of cotton each will be allowed to produce tax-free under the terms of the Bankhead Act this year; Coryell County's allotment will be 14,853 bales.

Rollicking fun and hilarious laughter were rampant when the Fire Department defeated a team of all-stars in a "donkey" softball game on the lighted diamond at the Fair Park here last Saturday night, 5-4.

Many longing, wistful eyes have been peering into Arnold's Drug Company show window within the last few days at the attractive display of prizes which will be given away at the annual Golf Club Fourth of July Tournament this year; the trophies have been contributed by the local merchants.

Cities of over 2,500 population had 21 less traffic deaths, a reduction of 12.28 per cent, a saving of five lives.

Deaths on the highway system were reduced by 72, or 18.80 per cent. On country roads there was a fatality increase of 10, or 16.39 per cent.

Of the total traffic fatalities during the first five months of this year, 54.8 per cent occurred on state highways, while 58.41 per cent of the total for the same period of 1938 were on the highways, the Highway Engineer said. For the entire year of 1938, highway deaths accounted for 61.5 per cent of the total traffic toll. "This five months reduction and the progressive traffic campaign being conducted in the state stimulate us to redouble our efforts to drive and walk safely", Mr. Gentry said. "We can make Texas one of the safest states in the nation."

California has 24,000,000 acres of publicly owned forrest land.

STARRING TOMATOES

College Station, Texas—The tomato is one of America's contributions to the world. Early explorers carried it back to Europe where it was first regarded as a curiosity, then as a poisonous plant, and finally as the "love apple".

Italy first recognized the tomato as a prized food, and it was grown there for nearly three centuries before it came back to America.

Since 1835 it has had a valuable place in American gardens.

This is the history of the tomato as set forth in a leaflet, C-147, Starring Tomatoes, recently issued by the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service in support of its campaign for more food on Texas farms. The leaflet is now in the hands of county agricultural and home demonstration agents.

Every individual, states the publication, needs a serving of tomatoes or citrus daily.

In addition to a discussion of the food and health values of the tomato, the leaflet contains directions for the canning and a wide selection of tomato recipes.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR EGGS?

Stephenville, June 21— How would you like your eggs? And how would you like to win $1000 in cash?

If you will send your answer to the first question to Miss Ethel Bob Montague at John Tarleton Agricultural College, Stephenville, Texas, you may have a chance to answer the second query.

The $1000 prize offer was announced today by John B. Collier, Jr., of Fort Worth, who is president of the Texas Poultry Federation.

Any Texan interested in food preparation is eligible to send dinner or luncheon menus containing at least one egg dish, with the complete recipe for this dish, to Miss Montague. Any entrant may send more than one menu provided each is on a separate sheet of paper with the sender's name and address in the upper right hand corner. All menus must be typed.

The five most original, healthful and appetizing egg-meal recipes submitted by Texans will be sent to the World's Poultry Congress, convening in Cleveland, Ohio,

WARNER BAXTER BRINGS CISCO KID BACK TO SCREEN

Amigos! Senoritas! The gayest, most gallant gun-fighter of them all is back! Warner Baxter again dons the sombrero and silver-mounted guns of his most famous character in the 20th Century-Fox production, "The Return of the Cisco Kid," which opens Saturday at the Palace Theatre.

O. Henry's lovable outlaw, who inspired the greatest legends of the colorful West, meets his most thrilling adventures—and his most beautiful señoritas—as he rides back over the border in his most exciting and most romantic film.

But while a hundred posess hunt the bullet-proof bandit whom no jail can hold, and a thousand señoritas sigh for him, Cisco yearns for the one girl he can't have.

Production chief, Darryl F. Zanuck gave lovely Lynn Bari her most important role to date as the beauty for whose love the romantic bandit robbed banks, burned down jails—and generously risked his neck.

Dashing Cesar Romero presents a picture that is a far cry from his usual suave characterizations, as Lopez, the Cisco Kid's faithful but bloodthirsty henchman, while Henry Hull who lately scored as the irascible newspaper editor in "Jesse James," is seen as Miss Bari's sly but lovable old granddad. Kane Richmond is also featured as Cisco's successful rival for Miss Bari's heart, while other prominently cast are C. Henry Gordon and Robert Barrat.

from July 28 to August 7. There a national board will select 20 finalists to compete for the $1000 national award.

All entries must be mailed to Stephenville and be postmarked before midnight, June 30. The recently organized Texas Federation will participate in the World's Poultry Congress for the first time this year.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

The thirty-second annual meeting of the American Home Economics Association was held in San Antonio, June 20 to 23. The following groups were represented at the meeting: Texas Home Economics Association, Bureau of Home Economics, Children's Bureau, Consumers' Counsel Division, A. A. A., Extension Service, Farm Security Administration, Office of Education, Social Security Administration, United States Food & Drug Administration, American Dietetic Administration, Association for Childhood Education, National Child Welfare Association, Inc., and Public Affairs Committee, Inc.

The program was devoted to the following divisions: The Family and Its Relationship, Food and Nutrition, Housing, Textiles and Clothing, Homemaking, and Research.

Not all the meeting was devoted to work, however, but several social and other functions were planned. Monday afternoon, the home economist were invited to attend a tea at the Spanish Governor's Palace, where costumed ladies served. Wednesday afternoon, a conducted tour of San Antonio, included such things as the Alamo, other famous missions, Randolph Field, Fort Sam Houston, Brackenridge Park, and other points of interest, was planned for all those who desired to go. A "Chuck Wagon Supper" was held Wednesday evening at Huisache Bowl. Afterwards, J. Frank Dobie, Professor of English at the University of Texas, and noted author of books on cowboy lore and life, entertained the guests with chuckwagon tales.

Summing up the new idea of rural women, Mrs. Mildred Thurow Tate said in the meeting Tuesday morning, "We are proud of our rural women, and we are proud of the way they look. We are proud to send them to Europe to represent us."

FARMERS' SHORT COURSE HAS HEAVY ATTENDANCE

College Station, Texas—The Texas A. & M. Farmers' Short Course has drawn an attendance in excess of 86,400 persons since its beginning in 1911.

H. H. Williamson, director of the Extension Service, estimated that the current session would add from 5,000 to 6,000 to this number.

The first Short Course was held in January, 1911. It lasted two weeks and was called the "Farmers' Short and Winter Course". Only 15 men attended and they were housed in tents.

In 1912 a winter short course for farmers was again held, but in 1913 the time was changed to July and each year since then A. & M. College has instructed Short Course visitors during July.

Since 1923 the Extension Service has had the responsibility of the direction of the Short Course. Farm women and club boys and girls began to attend the sessions in increasing numbers and today more juniors and homemakers come than do men.

The 1939 Short Course, as in 1938, will be held in two sections—the first July 5, 6, and 7, for 4-H club members, the second, July 12, 13, and 14 for the adults. Reservations for rooms are made through county agricultural and home demonstration agents.

IN MEMORY OF T. A. LOVELL

On June 5, 1939 T. A. Lovell, or "Uncle Tom" as he was affectionately called by his many friends, passed away.

He was born in the state of Alabama, August 1, 1861, making him 77 years, 10 months and 4 days of age at the time of his death.

He came to Coryell county in 1905 and settled one half of a mile northwest of Bee House, where he resided until his death.

At an early age he was married to Miss Syanthy Jane Pitts, who preceded him 21 years in death. To this union was born ten children, nine of whom survive him. A son, John, died as a soldier during the World War in 1918. Those who survive to mourn his death are: Raymond Lovell of Goldthwaite, Leemon of Navada, Edd, Clarence, Spurgeon, and Charlie of Bee House, Comma of Port Arthur, and Sallie and Beatrice of Bee House. He also leaves 11 grandchildren, one great-grandchild, and two brothers.

"Uncle Tom" was loved by all who knew him. Those who needed help or advice knew that they would receive it if they would go to him. Many are the kind deeds and help he has passed on to others. He always stood for the things which he thought were right.

At an early age he was converted and joined the Baptist Church. He loved his church and was ever ready to be of service there. He lived a devoted and faithful Christian life until death claimed him. He was willing, glad, and unafraid to meet his God. At times it seemed as if he was weary of this world and was anxious to go to his eternal home.

The funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. Ollie Williams, his ex-pastor, Rev. Vardiman, and Rev. Goode of Wills Point. In his home there is a vacancy which never can be filled. God needed another in Heaven so he called him away.—Written by a friend.

Last chapters of the the book of Acts are written in the purest Greek of the whole Bible, and one of the most appalling tragedies of literature is the fact that documents telling of the further activities of the Apostle Paul have been lost.

TOPSEY H-D CLUB

The Topsey Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. J. R. Stiles on Wednesday afternoon, June 21. The subject was "Dried Fruit We Use Most". A general discussion followed. Many helpful suggestions were made. The members answered roll call by telling which kinds of dried fruits she used most.

The Club decided to send Mrs. BoBo Ray, who is ill in the hospital, a gift. It was also decided on after this when a member was ill to send her a card of good cheer.

Refreshments were served to fourteen members and two visitors. The visitors were Mrs. Bill Allen and Mrs. Anna Loyd. After refreshments were served a pleasant hour was spent in conversation and piecing on a quilt for the hostess.

The monthly Club social was held Saturday night, June 24. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Laura Terry on June 5.

SYNOPSIS
Heathcliff, a gypsy boy, comes to Wuthering Heights as a foundling, and grows to love Cathy Earnshaw, daughter of the master. Mr. Earnshaw dies, and Cathy's brother, Hindley, treats Heathcliff brutally. Cathy receives the attentions of her wealthy young neighbor, Edgar Linton, and infuriates Heathcliff. He leaves Wuthering Heights, and Cathy runs out into the storm to find him — too late.

to him.
"Oh, Edgar, I love you! I do!"

In the years that passed after Cathy's marriage to Edgar, she grew very lovely in the fulfillment of her dream of becoming the first lady of the county. Her recovery had never been complete, and she remained pale and delicate.

Isabella had matured into a high-spirited young woman, who countered their reflections upon her unmarried state with expressions of disdain for "fops and pale young poets."

And one day Heathcliff returned to Wuthering Heights.

He came first to Thrushcross Grange, asking to see Cathy, who in terror of her own heart at first ordered Ellen not to admit him. But Edgar reassured her.

"What nonsense, Cathy, to tremble before a little ghost that returns... a dead leaf blown around your feet," he said, placing his arm around her. "You may smile at him without offending me, Cathy, because it's my wife who smiles—my wife, who loves me."

"Yes... yes, I was silly," Cathy smiled. "Thank you, Edgar."

Heathcliff's steps sounded in the hall, and he appeared, and looked, indeed, to be quite another Heathcliff. Not only was he handsomely dressed, but he carried himself with the utter assurance of a man who had thrown himself against the world, and conquered.

"Mr. Linton," he said, bowing. "Come in, Heathcliff," replied Edgar, in command of the situation. "How are you, sir?"

Chapter Four

For nearly five weeks, the Lintons—Edgar and his sister Isabella—tended the convalescing Cathy, warming her with smiles and tender care, until she was once more close to health, and could sit in the sun. Heathcliff had really left the moors; there was no word of him, and none spoke of him.

Then, one day, Edgar could no longer bear to hear her words of gratefulness and not answer with those in his own heart.

"Naturally, dear Cathy, I'm kind to you—who wouldn't be?" he said. "But—oh, never mind... if I can make you happy just by being kind, that should be enough for me. After all, what else can I give you?"

"What else?" Cathy asked, her eyes meeting his. "You can ask that? Don't you know what else you have given me—that its your own self you've given me—your strength?"

"Cathy, my darling... let me take care of you forever..."

"My strength?" Cathy struggled to reveal what lay in her heart.

"You'd understand if you knew what my life was before. It was like the moors—endless and desolate—and I was lost in them... calling for someone in the darkness to save me—and nobody, nobody answered. I couldn't even see the trace of a path... I was so frightened, so alone—so terribly alone..."

Edgar stood tensely still, for the first time understanding her real feelings, while Cathy went on, not looking at him.

"Then suddenly you were there—you held out your hand and led me back—to happiness, to a way of living I thought I'd lost forever. What you said long ago was true. There was a strange curse on me—that kept me from being myself—or at what I wanted to be... from living in heaven..."

Now do you understand?"

Kneeling before her, Edgar took Cathy's hand in his.

"Cathy, my darling..." he said quietly. "Let me take care of you forever. Let me guard you and love you... always."

Searching his face as if the terror of being alone had seized her, she took his hand in her hands.

"Would you love me always?" she asked.

"Always—always," Edgar replied, and all his devotion to her was in his voice and eyes.

Cathy was married to Edgar at the village church, on a clear autumn day. Smiling happily, he took her arm as they came to the waiting carriage.

"Come, Cathy..." Edgar whispered.

She made no answer, but stared at the circle of cheering villagers, with something frightened in her look.

"Come, dear... whatever are you staring at?"

She shuddered slightly. "A cold wind went across my heart just then. A feeling of doom..." Then, smiling at him, she said, "you touched me and it was gone."

"It's just the dampness, darling... these old stones..."

"Hello, Cathy." He addressed her in a lower voice, turning to her. Cathy returned his look mutely.

Isabella had entered the room, and Edgar introduced her to Heathcliff.

"Well," he went on. "I've never seen such a change in a man. What's brought about this amazing transformation? Did you discover a gold mine in the new world, or perhaps you fell heir to a fortune?"

"Or perhaps, Mr. Linton," Heathcliff replied in an even voice, "I made it more spectacularly on the English highways, but the truth is... I remembered that my father was Emperor of China and my mother an Indian queen, and I went out and claimed my inheritance." He crossed to where Cathy sat. "It turned out as you once suspected, Cathy, that I'd been kidnapped by wicked sailors and brought to England—that I was of noble birth..."

Cathy's voice fluttered. "Are you visiting here long? I mean, in the village?" she asked.

"The rest of my life..." he replied quietly. "I have just bought Wuthering Heights—the house, the cattle and the moors."

Later, when Heathcliff had left—after explaining that he had gained control of Wuthering Heights by secretly paying Hindley's debts—Isabella remonstrated Edgar for his outburst of indignation at the news.

"You dismissed him as if he had been a servant!"

"Don't tell me you thought him anything else, Isabella?" Edgar replied, staring at her.

"I thought him fascinating and—and very distinguished."

"I hope I've misunderstood you," Edgar said slowly. "It's impossible that any sister of mine could consider Heathcliff anything but a surly dressed-up beggar—a lout and a boor. I shall take precautions to insure your never seeing him again!"

At this, Isabella walked angrily out of the room. Cathy, trying to control herself, looked up at Edgar.

"I dread the consequences of this visit, Edgar," she said. "I greatly dread them."

GATESVILLE STOPS MOUND FOR FOURTH WIN

The widely-heralded Mound Club could do nothing toward stopping the victory onrush of the Gatesville Hornets, and the locals copped their fourth win in four starts putting on two late-inning scoring sprees to win 9-5. It was a loosely-played game, with lots of errors. The locals still did not play the type of ball local fans believe they are capable of, seemingly putting out just enough effort to win and no more.

Tooter Hall pitched a great ball game, allowing only two earned runs, the other tallies coming as an aftermath of the many miscues made by his mates. He held the losers to eight hits, and also had a fine day at bat slamming out 3 bingles in four trips to the plate.

The locals pounded Scaly Holcomb, Mound's starting hurler from the box after he had been touched for eight hits and five runs in 3 and 1-3 innings. Wicker stepped in and pitched creditable ball the rest of the way.

Bugg Jones starred at shortstop for the locals, handling ten chances cleanly without an error. He also got two safe blows in four trips to the plate.

Mound opens this crucial battle by tallying twice in the opening stanza and things look bad for the Hornets. Clawson, third-sacker for the losers, sends a high pop fly just back of the pitcher's box, which the Hornet infield allows to fall between them unmolested. Clawson steals second, and goes to third on Anderson's infield out. Bomar then sends a hard grounder to Jones at shortstop, whose throw to the plate was too late to catch Clawson, Bomar pulling up safe at first. Bud Evans who led the Mound attack with three singles, sent one to right field for a clean hit, scoring Bomar. Hall then pulls out of a bad hole by striking out the next two batters.

The Hornets even things up in their half. After Miles ground out, Olsen singles. Edwards then sends a long triple into left field, the longest hit of the day. This blow leaves Holcomb very shaky, and he grooves one for Jones who sends a sizzling grounder between first and second for a clean hit, scoring Edwards. McAllister forces Jones at second, and Thornton slams a hump-backed liner over the shortstop's head sending McAllister to second. Rogers strikes out to end the inning.

Mound takes the lead with another run in the second, and Gatesville ties it up in the third, when Holcomb walked two men, and Hall stepped into one of the youngster's benders.

Gatesville then takes the lead in the fifth frame when three hits and two runs jolted Holcomb from the box. Gatesville fans, who have been a bit worried up to now, take a long sigh of relief and settle back in their seats to enjoy the game. But Mound keeps pecking away, and finally ties it up with a run in the sixth after tallying one in the fifth.

The locals then see that the ball game is not over, and tally two runs in the seventh and two more in the eighth to put the game away.

The Hornets slammed out a total of 15 hits during the fray, enough to win any ball game. One outstanding shortcoming of the Hornets was that they left many men stranded on the basepaths, many of the supposedly good hitters failing to come through when a hit meant a run.

Pearl sent the dope bucket a spinning with a resounding whack when they handed the Pidcock club their first defeat, 5-1. Theo Whatley, Pearl pitching star, hurled a great game for the winners, allowing only five hits. Eric Wiegand, Pidcock hurler, went the route for the losers, although he was hit freely in some stages of the fray.

Moshem forfeited its game to Topsey.

No reports were received on the other games.

Batting It Out—

hibit, we saw some of the giant clipper ships used in the Pan American or Pacific air lines. Also, in another exhibit, we went thru one of the new Boeing Army bombers. Anchored nearby, was the California Training School Ship, on which California boys are trained to be ships officers.

STILL AT THE FAIR

We quit all of a sudden. It was "bean time". We stopped away ahead of where we last stopped writing, since we didn't send out any "releases" while in San Francisco.

However, we believe we just about cleaned up the first and second days, Friday and Saturday, the 16 and 17. Of course, we walked, walked, walked, and it took a lot longer to see what we skimped over than it took to tell it. But, it can't all be told, as Hubert, Mr. Bethel, Wilson, Johnnie and Annie Ruth wouldn't have anything to do if we filled up the News with this gab.

Anyway, next day, Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson came up from San Jose, and brought lunch. We tramped thru the exposition, and continued seeing,—the feet getting tired, the calves, and well about the entire body.

Monday, was the final windup, and before going to the fair, we took time off to go over the Bay Bridge, about an eight mile drive clear over the bay, which is some bay to landlubbers, across an island, and then over the Oakland Bridge span into Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, and then back on the Southern Pacific Ferry from Oakland, and then took the Ferry back to the Fair, for the finishing up of the exposition.

That day, we finished the Foods and Beverages Building, in fact, everything we hadn't "done" before, and in the afternoon saw the big show of the fair at this time, Zeigfeld Follies, which we didn't think was so hot, not nearly as much as Ziggy himself used to put on. This show was put on by his wife. Another show is booked to open June 24 at this show.

The final wind-up came about 6:30, and we bought a very few souvenirs, which at a place like this, it takes a lot of resistance to keep from buying so many, as they have millions, but we know our pocket books. We rode down the waterfront after crossing the ferry for the last time, and "shipping" looked bad, in fact, it was since 10 checking clerks have struck, and as a result, some 5,000 longshoremen and other workers in the shipping business are out of work. Ships failed to sale on schedule, and traffic was at a standstill. Federal flunkies and big shots were here to "get things started" but hadn't done the job as yet. Unions in this part of the world, it seems, just about controll everything—One of the waitresses where we ate said it was ridiculous, even tho she was a member of a union. It's a racket out here, and almost every one who works, must belong to some kind of a union.

Our first day at the fair (we're going back, a little was San Diego Day, Arizona Day, Denmark Day and several other days. We just happened to be at the San Francis Hotel waiting for the rubberneck bus when Governor Jones of Arizona came to the hotel. The bus driver said there were also due some 25 or more movie stars, and Jean Herschot, or however you spell it, came in to celebrate with the Danes, and they certainly had a big day.

All our stay in San Francisco was very cool, in fact, too cool. Franciscans said the weather was usually three or more days cool, and then it got warm again around Frisco. We happened to hit the cool spell. Also, another party told us June, July and August were the coldest months of the year in this section. We believe her. This is just a little hint to be certain and bring coats, if not a top coat, then a sweater and coat.

At the tourist camp, about five minutes after we drove in. Mrs. Ed F. Rice and daughter and another girl, all from Waco drove in and registered. She was out to Gatesville at a Methodist Conference a couple of Thursdays ago, just a day or two before we left Gatesville.

Well, we've got to leave Frisco, or make a book of it. At about 7, this morning, Tuesday, 20th, we left camp, went down town to the post office, where one issue of the News was waiting, the 16th. Since we didn't go via Phoenix, we haven't had a copy except this one. Mildred got a letter from her mother, and Dean sent us a camera.

Then, driving down the famous Van Ness avenue, near where the writer went to school in 1914 for a week or two (California law), we headed toward the also new Golden Gate Bridge, near old Fort Mason, and with Alcatraz, Al Canone's former home, we went over and still on 101 toward Santa Rosa, San Rafael, leading to Eureka, which is in the redwood territory, and near the coast again.

Just after leaving Frisco, we got between the mountains, in a beautiful valley, full of all kinds of fruit trees especially grapes and apricots. Here is one part of California which certainly does go in for wine and wine products. No wonder California went wet. It's their life, and their living. After we hit the fruit belt, just before getting into San Bernardino after coming over the mountains there, we have had one continuous fruit stand. Of course, just like in the Valley in Texas, these are sucker's paradises, where, if you buy from these you may get stuck, and can get fruits, better fruits at the corner grocery store, and cheaper than at the stands. They can sell their fruits that won't sell to the packers, to the tourists.

Just about to forget something, which we certainly should not. During San Diego Day at the fair, a boys band, supported by an undertaker (attention, Morton Scott) played. It has a reputation, we were told by San Diegoans of being one of the best boys bands in the United States, and after enjoying an hour's concert, we believed it. It was the best boys band we ever heard. But there's competition in that business in San Diego.

Another undertaker in San Diego supports an all-girl band. Both bands have about 125 pieces, boys ranging from about 6 or 8 to high school age. There was a,—well, it's pronounced "Zellophone"—solo by a boy of 12, that was remarkable.

We're going to take the "writer's" privilege and digress, when we think of anything that particularly appealed to us, and that's the reason for this butting in, of these side line stories.

When we left Frisco this morning, we started with coats. This valley, however, between two ranges of hills is really warm. Coats have come off, and the pavement, macadamized as, is getting "runny". So is the perspiration.

Vinards are everywhere. Limes, Oranges, and citrus fruit has just about stopped, and we're nearing the red wood sections. This is Italian-Swiss-Russian section of California, and at Petaluma, we passed the big "north of Frisco" poultry and dairying section. Part of this valley has gorges and the railroads running in the valley under the high mountains must go thru tunnels. However, there isn't so much of this and the orchards and vinyards just continue, along with the grain fields.

Just now, and it's after dinner, we have passed the first red wood sawmill. It's only about 15 miles to Willits where the red wood trees will be close to the highway. Of course, there are many side roads that can take you to the red woods quicker, but then, why drive off, when you can keep on the straight and narrow and see them anyway.

Well, we thought we were in the red woods, we plainsmen, but it or they were only fir, spruce and others including pines. They looked horribly big to us tho.

However, we'll start another about the redwoods.

SPORT SCROLL

By POST

Most fans who are regular customers at the softball park and who saw the Coca-Cola Bottlers, defending champions, whip the supposedly good Highway club with ease Thursday night, 9-2, believe that the Cokes will walk off with this year's title just as easily as they paced last year's race to the finish tape. The Bottlers may repeat, but your correspondent believes that they will have a much tougher time of it this season.

The Red and White Club, which gave the Bottlers the most trouble last year, are better equipped for the long haul this year, with much better pitching than any other club in the city circuit. Too, a club that won as easily as the Cokes did last year, usually begins to get careless, over confident, bloated with success. They also will find the law of averages against them.

The Bottlers, although they try to conceal, must have misgivings about losing Sonny Hair, by far the best shortstop in the league last year. Hair was one of the mainsprings of the Botler defense last summer, and was also a dependable hitter.

Hair, by the way, has not performed up to standard this year, and is going to take a month's rest before returning to the wars. Hair had a busy time at school, participating in football and tennis, and spring football, which is a tough grind, left him physically stale. He came home and went to work in a local drug-store, and states that after a hard day's work he is too tired to play softball. He thinks that a month's layoff will put him back in shape.

The All-Star team, picked by league commissioner Pat Olsen and several advisers, will meet the City Ice Service club of Waco Thursday night on the Cotton Palace grounds. This Waco tournament is a state-wide affair, with a considerable amount of cash going to the winner.

KIPLING'S "GUNGA DIN" HAS REACHED SCREEN; IT IS MIGHTY ADVENTURE

This great picture opens Saturday at the Regal Theatre, and will run three days. Cary Grant, Victor McLaglen, Douglas Fairbanks Jr. star in gripping film version of famous ballad made on gigantic scale, and abounding in thrilling scenes.

A colorful chapter in the history of British rule in India, revolving around a native outbreak along the Northwest frontier in the nineties, is the picturesque setting against which are land the stirring scenes in the screen epic based on Rudyard Kipling's famous poem, "Gunga Gin."

With these stars in the film, it ranks as one of the most pretentious screen spectacles of recent years. Joan Fontaine has the principal feminine role, with Sam Jaffe, Edardo Ciannelli, Robert Coote, Montagu Love and Abner Biberman heading the huge supporting cast.

Grant, McLaglen and Fairbanks are seen as a happy-go-lucky trio of sergeants of the Royal Engineers, British Army, stationed at a cantonment near the Khyber Pass. When the telegraph line from the frontier mysteriously goes dead the three modern musketeers are sent out with a repair party, meet a murderous group of Thugs, the religious stranglers of India, and barely escape with their lives after a thrilling hand-to-hand battle.

Filmed with thousands of players in the huge Indian settings built on a vast scale on the flanks of the California Sierras, where the landscape bears a striking resemblance to the mountainous ramparts of the Khyber area, "Gunga Gin" ranks among the "biggest" pictures of the year, and as one of the most impressive screen achievements in screen history.
