YEARS AND YEARS GIVEN IN DISTRICT COURT THIS WEEK

A total of the "yearage" is considerable, that was given this week, the first week of criminal court during the July Term of District Court.

Already reported are a number of cases, and those since the Tuesday issue of the News include:

The State of Texas vs. Julius Frederick Turley, charged with kidnaping C. L. Kirby. Pleaded guilty before the court, and was given 5 years in the penitentiary. No jury was used.

Like sentences were given to Charles Mangam and Charles Reynolds, for the same charge.

Ernie Hardie, also charged with kidnaping, was tried by a jury and given 5 years, after entering a plea of guilty, but asked for a suspended sentence.

Alvin Henry Wood and David Franklin Wood, both charged with theft of mohair, entered pleas of guilt, and were given 2 years in the penitentiary.

In the case, The State of Texas vs. Alton Armstrong, on a charge of rape. The case was dismissed on a motion of the state. The Court of Criminal Appeals held evidence insufficient.

The State of Texas vs. Marve Morton, charged with theft of cattle by bailee. Case was dismissed on a motion of the State, on account of insufficient evidence.

The State of Texas vs. C. L. Goff, charged with swindling over $50.00, was dismissed on motion of the state, insufficient evidence.

The State of Texas vs. H. M. (Crickett) Sharp, charged with theft of chickens. Dismissed on motion of State. Pleaded guilty in companion case.

Beginning next week, the civil docket will be again opened, but no announcement has been made as to the cases to be tried.

CORYELL MOTOR CO. SELLS AFTER 17 YEARS IN BUSINESS

IT'S MANNING AND CUMMINGS MOTOR COMPANY NOW

This week, only Wednesday, a deal was completed, whereby an institution of some 17 years standing was sold to new owners.

Wednesday, the Coryell Motor Company was sold to George Manning and Ernest Cummings, and the local representatives of the Ford Motor Company from now on will be known as the Manning and Cummings Motor Company.

According to George Manning, manager, remodeling on the present location will start soon, and will be completed in 30 to 60 days, at which time, they will have their formal opening. Business, however, will continue at the location the same as usual.

Ernest Cummings, will be office manager, bookkeeper and assistant manager. Mr. Cummings has for a number of years been associated with The Thomson Grocery Company of Gatesville, and is well known thruout this trade territory. Mr. Manning has lived in this county for practically all his life, and is known equally as well.

R. E. Kirkpatrick will continue with the new company and will be in charge of the Mechanical Department.

Mr. Manning did not give the details of the remodeling, but the time given, indicates the remodeling will be extensive.

No information was given as to the future of the former owners and managers, except that they will remain in Gatesville closing up whatever business remains for the Coryell Motor Company.

MISS JESSIE FAUNT LEROY WRITES OPEN LETTER TO CITIZENS

To the citizens of Gatesville and surrounding communities:

As one interested in the improvement of the City Cemetery, I am having the iron fence that surrounds part of the cemetery repaired and painted.

Thru my efforts this fence and brick columns was built at a cost of $1250.00, and as it has been neglected so long, I find it will cost more than I have so far been able to collect. I am using aluminum paint to paint this fence which costs $4.00 a gallon.

I would appreciate those that own lots in this cemetery, drive out and inspect the work now being done, and those who will contribute to this work and have not done so, leave their donations at the offices of the Coryell County News or the Gatesville Messenger and Star Forum.

Miss Jessie Faunt LeRoy

Three-Leg Horse Gets Along O. K.

Cows and chickens may hop around on most any number of legs from three to five without stirring up too much comment, but a horse, they say, is a different proposition. Sonny Boy, a bay horse born minus a leg, eats, sleeps, neighs—in fact, he does about everything but fox trot and work. The above picture was taken while the three-year-old horse, owned by E. A. Tharpe of Turnersville, was on exhibition recently at the circle south of Waco.

NOW, WE NEED A LITTLE THEATRE! CURTAIN'S UP

Thespians, dramatists, spellbinders and all others have the proper background at the city hall auditorium.

Curtain's up! Lights! Everything's ready but the actors. Looks like the show ought to "go on". For that reason, there ought to be a Little Theatre.

Anyway, go over and see this brand new curtain.

Mrs. Luther Scott returned to her home here Wednesday night after a trip to West Texas and Carlsbad Cavern.

THE BAPTIST COLUMN

Part 5

Following the consideration of the meaning of Missions and the Missionary Baptist church in name and in practice we will think on the question of the present program of Texas and Southern Baptists in the matter of Missions. First of all we will hark back to the scriptures and see just what the principle and practices of the early New Testament churches were. From Rome the Apostle Paul wrote to the church at Philippi and thanked them for their "—fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now." (Phil. 1:5) In closing the letter he refers to the fact that they gave liberally of their means to make it possible for him to carry on from place to place preaching the gospel. (Phil. 4:15 ff.) In the eighth chapter of Second Corinthians he calls the attention of the Corinthian church to the fact that the churches of Macedonia (which churches were Thessalonica, Philippi and Berea) gave liberally in their condition of poverty to the spreading of the gospel throughout Europe and elsewhere (II Cor. 8:1 ff.) In the tenth verse of this same chapter he refers to the fact that this Corinthian church had started out a missionary course but had slackened their efforts and in the 11th verse he urges them to get busy and finish the job and keep on at the task. In the 16th chapter of I Corinthians he speaks of having given instruction to the churches of Galatia both in the matter of how and when to give and in the matter of money for missions which he would collect from them (vs. 3) and take to its place of use. In short the plan used in the New Testament days was a plan of sending money regularly for mission purposes, for the preaching of the gospel thruout the civilized world. Paul went to every important center of Europe and Asia preaching the gospel and establishing churches. He did what it would be impossible for any one person to do today. But what he did in that long ago day many are doing today in a much larger world with more nations and more people than ever in the history of civilization.

What then was the New Testament plan? Was it not a group of churches putting together their mission funds and then sending these funds to the mission worker (Paul in this case) or letting him gather them up as the case may be, and spread the gospel throughout the world?

What is the plan of Southern and Texas Baptists today? Is it not identical with that of the New Testament time except that it is on a much larger and multiplied scale? And does it not have to be on a larger scale to reach a so much larger world? Today sixteen nations with a population of 754,864,903 people compose the territory to whom Southern Baptists are sending the gospel. The nations are Africa, China, Japan, Brazil, Arentine, Chile, Uruguay, Italy, Rumania, Hungaria, Jugoslavia, Spain, Syria, Palestine, Mexico and Manchukuo. They are ready to go into other nations and will go just as rapidly as means received will permit. The peoples in the nations (native baptists) have themselves given $374,423.00 (to 1939) to this mission cause. The converts in these foreign nations make the most devout christians known to man today. Their zeal and their effort will put to shame the zeal and effort of the average American convert of our own land. This is a good test and proof of the gospel on the foreign field today.

Jesus, before he went back to the Father in Heaven said "—and greater works than these shall He do because I go unto my Father", indicating that his followers in truth would do a much greater work and work of much broader scope than he did because they would work through the power of the Holy Spirit whom He would send. This is so of the real christian forces today in various parts of the world. We think especially of Southern Baptists because there is where our first interest lies. They work by means of education, evangelism, medical and publication efforts. The schools and hospitals, training schools etc. are of the greatest value in carrying on a continual effort culminating in the conversion of hundreds of souls every year on the foreign field. Around the world, Southern Baptists have more than 1,353 church buildings, 145 missionary residences, 36 hospital buildings to say nothing of several hundred school buildings and three publication houses. There are 2,798 outstations besides the regular churches with a church membership of 203,674.

Working in this vast territory there are more than 422 missionaries (11 new ones recently sent out making 433). Assisting these representatives there are 950 ordained native pastors and 1,411 unordained national workers, 19 native physicians and 140 native nurses. Surely Jesus in person while here on the earth could not have begun to minister to such groups over a period of years. He was confined to cities and villages with limited efforts. But with the coming of the Holy Spirit greater works began, in the years that followed and that are now upon us, to manifest themselves.

Surely this means of labor is in line with the command and commission of Jesus. Churches working thru a common head agency for the distribution and direction of funds make possible such a gigantic movement. To the best of the knowledge of christian men, this work is in keeping with the New Testament principle and practice and does measure up in plan and practice, to the commission of Jesus. If it can be said to fall short of the "Commission" it is only in that we are not reaching enough territory. But we are just as much as Baptist Churches will let us reach until they give more of their means and until more churches give something (which churches have not given heretofore).

BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday, July 30, 1939

In the absence of the pastor, who is in Atlanta attending the Baptist World Alliance, the pulpit of the Baptist Church will be filled at both the morning and evening hour by Rev. Leroy Smith who is one of the finer young men in this section. The public is very cordially invited to attend both these services and the members of the Baptist Church should avail themselves of the opportunity afforded.

IN MEMORY OF JIM HENRY McCLESKY

On Sunday, July 16, 1939, Jim Henry McClesky was found hanging to a tree by a rope he had been playing with since the Rodeo. No one will ever know just how it happened, but he must have fallen from the limb while playing. His parents and one sister were at the house resting, not thinking anything could happen to him just playing around outside. He won a prize at school the past year for going every day; he was always on time. He was just counting the days until school began again.

He has left this world of trouble and gone on to one where there is no more trouble or pain, as Jesus said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, for such is the kingdom of Heaven." So weep not, dear parents, sisters, and brother, as Jim has gone on and will be waiting your coming.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McClesky, three sisters, Waldine, Olene Frances, and Margaret Joe, one Brother, Dayton, and Mrs. Dayton McClesky and son, Joe Dean. —Written by Mrs. Fred Dyer.—Spring Hill Correspondent.

SPORT SCROLL

By POST

The Coca-Cola Bottlers have finally hit their stride, giving their peak performance Monday night as they smothered a hapless Firemen ten, 12-2. And the Bottlers accomplished this feat minus the services of Hazen Ward, their star slugger shortfielder. Dog-Face Ricketts who has been knocked out of the box twice on previous mound appearance, came through with a well-pitched game, allowing only four hits.

The Pearl team, one of the chief contenders for the county baseball title, has been the surprise of the year in baseball circles of this section. When the Tigers announced their entry into the circuit, most fans figured them as just another run-of-the-mine second division club. This contention seemed to be borne out as the Cokers hammered three Tiger pitchers for a total of fifteen runs, and the Tigers lost the curtain-raiser, 15-4. Fans did not think their five to four defeat of the weak Topsey club much of an accomplishment. But when the Tigers slugged out a decisive 5-1 victory over the Cokers in the third appearance, fans over the county began to sit up and take notice. Since then the Tigers have been improving with every game, and are now tied with Pidcoke for second place, and are assured of a spot in the Saughnessy play-off.

This meteoric rise can be attributed to hustling, a fine spirit, and a capable manager. Clay, who is the Tiger pilot, demands that his boys hustle and battle all the way, and has been getting fine results with this policy.

Hull Edwards, burly Arnold Electrician, is in the throes of a big batting streak, his average for the last three games being .666. He got two of the three against Red and White, four out of four against Coca-Cola, including a home run and two doubles, and two out of four against Highway. An important feature among these bingles is that they are driving in runs, Edwards never failing to hit in the clutch. This slugging spree has caused Manager Red White to shift him to the clean-up spot in the Electrician batting order. None of these hits have been of the scratchy variety all of them being clean.

The big "chicken roast" golf tournament is over, the winners collecting last night as the big feast was held out at the golf course. A driving and putting contest took place before the fete began.

According to reports received about town, Captain Jackson won his match from Captain Worley, while other listed winners were Herschel Bradford, Dean Jones, Pat Holt, Buster Cummings, and Troy Jones. No reports have been received from the numerous other matches.

LEADERS MEET 2ND DIVISION CLUBS SUNDAY

There are no highlight games on this week's county baseball card, the schedule calling for the first division clubs to meet their lower brethren. None of these leading clubs can afford to let up, however, for they have to battle tooth and nail to hold their positions in the upper berth of the league standings.

The league-leading Indians of Blackfoot tangle with the defending champion Jonesboro nine in a game which the Indians should win with ease. Gatesville may have some trouble with the hustling White Hall club, although the loss of McBroom, their ace right-hander, left them with a hurling corps composed solely of Bailey McAlister.

Mound, does no figure to have any trouble with the Topsey Club unless, the latter nine pitches Ed Fritz, who is now eligible for league competition after a two weeks waiting period.

Pearl will meet the cellar-bound Turnersville outfit at Pearl, while Pidcoke is idle, their scheduled opponent, Moshem, having been thrown out of the league.

White Hall at Gatesville
Blackfoot at Jonesboro
Turnersville at Pearl.

MONDAY NIGHT

Coca-Cola 12, Firemen 2

The Coca-Cola Bottlers slammed Doc Ray's pitches all over the diamond Monday night, and these scorching safeties, combined with terrible support on the part of Doc's mates, turned the game into a rout, the Bottlers winning 12-2. Jo-Jo Ricketts pitched masterful ball throughout, the Firemen touching his delivery for only five safeties. Sonny Hair played his usual brilliant game at short, executing three brilliant stops to turn sure hits into putouts. Wiegand led the powerful barrage of hits laid down by the Bottlers with a double and single in three trips to the plate.

CCC 11, Highway 6

A punch-drunk, listless Highway team was no match for a hot CCC club, and went down to the eighth defeat, 11-6, as the camp boys broke into the win column for the first time this year.

Scarborough, lanky CCC pitcher, hurled a great game, going in to the last of the seventh with a 11-1 lead. In the closing frame, however, he eased up and the Highway boys put on a five run rally, all of the tallies coming as results of clean bingles.

Blanton, stouthearted Highway hurler, pitched nice ball but sloppy support and numerous errors were too much for him. He held the Camp boys to seven hits, while his mates were garnering nine.

Bugg Jones, husky Highway receiver, was the leading hitter of the night, slamming out two doubles in three official attempts.

TUESDAY NIGHT

Arnold 7, Highway 3

Arnold's returned to their winning ways Tuesday night after a two-game letdown, and administered the Highway club their 9th defeat of the season, 7-3. Truman Blanton had plenty of stuff on his pitches, but a few hits, combined with errors, proved his undoing.

Johnson, Arnold's imported hurler, made his debut in this circuit by hurling a great game, allowing only five hits. None of the Highway runs were earned, coming as a result of miscues on the part of Johnson's mates.

Hull Edwards jolted Blanton for two doubles in four trips to the plate to lead his team's offensive.

Red and White 12, Coca-Cola 9

The Red and White boys knocked off a league leader as they put on a stirring sixth inning rally to pull the cocky Coca-Cola Bottlers off the top rung and give Arnold's a half game lead, 12-9.

The Bottlers scored five runs in the first two frames, and it looked as if the Grocers had fallen heir to another one of those Bottlers slaughters which have been staged with such frequency the past two weeks. Instead of quitting the Food Store lads rose up on their hond feet and scored six runs in the sixth round, and some more in the seventh to cinch the verdict.

Holt went the route for the winners, and although hit hard at certain intervals, was generally effective. Woody Wilson, Bottler ace, pitched good ball the first two frames, but lost his control after that and had a rocky time of it. His support, however, was not up to its usual standard.

Sonny Hair, blond Bottler short-stop, caught hold of one of Holt's change of pace pitches and sent it bounding off the left field wall for a homer in the third. He also gave a brilliant exhibition afield.

Red and White 8, CCC 7

Red and White 14, Arnold's 4

After edging out the CCC camp in a close game, the Red and White Grocers suddenly got hot and slaughtered the Arnold Electricians 14-4 to throw them back down into a tie for first place.

In their contest with the CCC, Holt was not there, so Manager Lassas Anderson started Huckabee, regular third sacker, on the mound. He was hit heavily throughout his four-inning tenure in the box, the Camp boys getting away to a five run lead. Scarborough, CCC pitcher, was invincible during the early innings, but during the latter part of the game he weakened and was hit hard.

Holt pitched all of the Arnold's game, allowing only four hits. For the first three frames the score was fairly close, but the Food Store boys turned on the heat to turn the game into a rout. Harley Johnson recruit Arnold hurler, was jolted for fifteen hits.

VOLUME VII

GATESVILLE, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 28, 1939

NUMBER 63

The House was in session until after midnight last night (Thursday, July 20) working on the "Hatch" Bill. This is a Senate measure which passed by that body sometime ago without a dissenting vote and with very little discussion. After it came over to the House the public interest seemed to grow wonderfully. The bill is supposed to take "politics" out of relief. It does prohibit any political coercion of relief workers or of other Federal employees. I voted for the bill and for the "Dempsey" amendment, which prohibited Federal employees from taking part in the activities of political parties. I think that we should do all we can to keep our relief program free from political influence, and I know of no reason why we should not prohibit employees of the Federal government in administrative agencies from controlling elections. In Texas, we have seen little of the machine-type of politics that is so prevalent in many of the so-called "doubtful" States. As was to be expected, most of the opposition to this bill came from the Democrats of those "doubtful" States. During the 13 hours of oratory on this bill there were many mis-statements about its provisions, its effect, and its purposes; there was much demagoguery about "denying citizens their constitutional rights" but when it is all boiled down the bill does nothing except prevent Federal office-holders from using their position to control elections, and I think that they should be so prevented. The Democratic leader and most of our delegation from Texas voted for the bill. My only fear is that this bill, like most other efforts to "take politics out" of various governmental activities will be totally ineffective. It is quite likely to fall flat and accomplish exactly nothing, but it is not going to deny any rights to anybody. The bill was finally passed by a vote of 242 to 133.

On yesterday, the House also passed a resolution to create a special committee to investigate the activities and alleged inactivity of the National Labor Relations Board. We have waited all session for the Labor Committee to go into the charges and criticisms of this agency, but inasmuch as that committee has failed to do anything in the face of most violent criticism both from labor organizations and employees we felt that some action should be taken and this resolution was to force it.

Ever since the passage of the Jones-Bankhead Farm Home Purchase Act for tenants, I have been trying to get all of our counties included. Just this week the Secretary of Agriculture assured me that the last two counties Bosque and McLennan, would be included in this years program. Falls County was included in the first years program. Last year Milam, Bell, and Coryell were added. We now have every county in our district included. I don't know of another congressional district that has all of its counties included, and I am very happy that Central Texas can lead the way with this fine program which is supervised by the Farm Security Administration. The Conference Committee that is working on the Social Security bill has not yet reported, but I am very hopeful that they keep the Connally Amendment in the bill. If they will do this, and from talking to some of them, I am hopeful that they will, they will give some relief to both the old people and the tax payers of the Southern States, and particularly Texas. The Connally amendment, which was approved by the Senate, authorizes the Federal government to pay two dollars for each dollar of State money in the first $15.00 paid in old age pensions. It is a good step in the right direction. It is based on the principals that I carry on to their logical conclusion in my bill (H. R.

6997), which would require the Federal government to pay the full cost of the pension. While my bill cares for the crippled and the blind, and applies to all citizens over 65, the Connally amendment effects only those now covered by the Social Security Law, but it would help. However, if the Johnson amendment, which would deny a State any Federal aid if it did not put up $10.00 per month, is retained it will mean that Texas must call a session of the Legislature and levy new taxes or lose all Federal aid. Of course, I believe that the Legislature should meet and levy a tax on natural resources for this purpose.

The Railroad Bill is before the House today, and it looks as if we would have some long drawn out sessions on it. It is a very important measure and one about which there is lots of difference of opinion. Everyone wants to help the railroads, but we do not want to destroy water transportation in doing it, nor do we want to give away too much of the property of the government in doing it. Finally, we want to know that we can hope to get some relief from the present discriminatory freight rates we in the South must pay. I am not sure that this bill will get the desired results, and I am going to follow the debate with interest.

F.F.A. BOYS HAVE BIG TIME AT TEMPLE MEETING LAST WEEK

Future Farmers attend state F. F. A. convention. Bobby Melbern, Bill Williams, Vernis Wolf, and M. G. Slay, Adviser, represented the Gatesville FFA chapter at the State FFA convention which was held at Temple on July 20 thru July 22.

On Thursday various committees met and plans for the coming year were discussed. The program for Thursday also included the State Hill Billy Bands and the Lone Star Banquet.

Gatesville's Hill Billy Band combined with other schools in Area VIII won second place in the contest. This entitled the members to a ticket to the banquet at which they furnished the music. The band boys who attended from Gatesville were Troy Kinsey, William Powell, Joe Black, and Walker King.

The annual Gold Key Banquet was an unusual affair, having four hundred and fifty students, advisers, and guests present. The banquet was the largest that has ever been held by the organization. Following the opening ceremony, the entire group joined in a sing-song. The main features of the banquet was the formation of the FFA emblem by the past presidents of the State FFA. As each placed his part of the emblem with the other parts, mention was made of the progress that had been made from 1928 to 1938.

L. A. Woods, State Superintendent of Public Schools, gave the principal address. Mr. Woods' talk included some of the farming conditions of the South which the farmers of tomorrow will be expected to remedy in order to obtain the most from the farming occupation.

Out of 23,131 members enrolled in Vocational Agriculture for 1938-1939, 139 Lone Star Farmer Degrees and gold keys were awarded to boys throughout the ten areas of Texas. After the guests were introduced, the banquet closed with the formal closing ceremonies.

On Friday, demonstration of cotton dusting were given, sponsored by the Blackland Experiment Station. Two types of dusting equipment were exhibited, the ground type and aviation type. The aviation type was given by the Texas Dusting Co. of Bryan, Texas, of which Brazos Gorski is the president. The ground machinery used for the experiment was made by the Simplex Co., and the Choke Proof Co. Both tractor and horse drawn machinery were used. A talk was also given by an experiment station cotton specialist on means of determining the amount of infestation of fleec that would necessitate sulphur dusting. Talks were also made on how to discover and recognize fleec hoppers in cotton.

Friday night the Tri-State Public Speaking contest, including Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Texas was held. Oklahoma won first place, and Texas placed second.

The Saturday session consisted of reports from the various committees. New officers were elected, and Houston was chosen as the next convention site. After the meeting adjourned, the delegates attended and FFA broadcast from KTEM.

Twenty-eight states of the union have women in their legislature this year compared to 38 states in 1938. The number of women legislators this year is 130, compared to 149 a year ago.

Daylight movies will be featured at an agricultural show in Moscow.

SYNOPSIS OF CHAPTER V
Dot Bronson, beautiful girl bandit who has married Freddie Martin, small-time crook, insists that she is going to make Freddie the most notorious and most successful criminal in the world. Freddie, at heart a small-timer is afraid of Dot's ambitious plans and extravagance. While they are hiding out from police, they are joined by Matt Flagler, former "big-shot" criminal down on his luck, who cuts them in as partners in a scheme he has concocted to kidnap a young millionaire and hold him for $200,000 ransom.

CHAPTER VI

JOHN NAST turned in bewilderment to his attorney, who had just entered the living room of the luxurious Nast home. "I don't know what it's all about, Jenson," he said. "I asked you to come when Collins started telling me this story about my brother Burt." He nodded to Collins. "Tell Mr. Jenson, please."

Collins nodded. "Yes, sir. It was like this. Mr. Jenson, I was driving Mr. Burt Nast to the Country Club for dinner, sir. We were about a mile from the Club when a car, which had been behind us, passed and suddenly stopped, blocking the road. Four men — they were all wearing masks — got out, came to our car, and ordered us out. They all had guns, sir."

"They tied me to the fence by the side of the road, and they took Mr. Burt away with them."

"Did the men say anything?" Jenson asked.

"Yes, sir. One of them said, 'Come along quiet, Mr. Nast, and you won't get hurt.'"

"Did they give you a message?"

"No, sir."

"What did Mr. Nast do, Collins?"

"He said, 'What's the meaning of this? If it's a practical joke, I don't like it.' And then one of the men said, 'This is no joke, Mister.'"

Nast shook his head hopelessly. "He's been kidnaped," he moaned.

The lawyer nodded. "That's it." He reached for the telephone.

"Wait a minute," Nast shouted. "You're not going to call the police?"

"His voice showed the cold terror which he was feeling."

"No, John, not the police," Jenson dialed 1-1-0 on the phone, then spoke into the instrument. "Hello... long distance? Get me Washington, Yes, Washington, D. C. The number is National 7117..." He waited for a minute, then turned to Nast. "Now, pull yourself together, John. I'm not calling the police, I'm calling somebody much better. With these people on the job, we..." He broke off to speak directly into the mouth-piece again. "Hello, Federal Bureau of Investigation? Good. I want to report a kidnaping..."

Nast, Jenson, Porter and Gerson of the local police, Pete Griswold and Dan Waldron were seated in Nast's living room when the butler entered with a letter which he handed to Nast.

"Special delivery, sir." Nast stared at the letter for a second as if he were afraid to touch it. "You'd better read it, Jenson," he said.

Jenson took the letter. "You sign for it, John. They may want to be sure you got it."

Nast signed the receipt card while Jenson opened the letter and read it. Nast waited until the butler had left the room. "What about Burt? What do they say?" he begged.

"Burt's all right," Jenson turned to Pete. "The kidnapers demand that all police be withdrawn from the case for forty-eight hours. If we do that, they promise to open negotiations looking to the safe return of the Bronson farm, waiting for the car which they had just heard approach. The three men each had a revolver in his hand.

The car came to the front of the house and then, with a screech, it stopped.

"Who's there?" Freddie called nervously.

"It's me, Curley." The group relaxed. Dot lighted the lamp which stood on the table, while Flagler opened the door.

Curley grinned nappily. "The money's cold as ice," he said. "I passed it everywhere — filling stations, restaurants, drug stores. And just for a laugh, I passed some in a bank."

Powder leaned eagerly toward Flagler. "Then let's split it and get out of here."

"Not till thing's cool down," Dot interrupted. "A week or so, maybe two."

Freddie grinned. "They kept their word. They didn't hand the serial numbers over to the G-men."

"The what?" Flagler stared at him.

"The G Men Government men. That's what I call 'em—G-men."

Dot laughed. "That's a swell name for those guys!"

Flagler patted Freddie on the back. "That'll make you famous, kid."

"I'm not interested in fame. Freddie shook his head. "Right now, I want to take Dot out, and show her a good time. So let's send Nast home like we promised."

Dot's eyes narrowed. "I've been thinking that over. Why should we take chances?"

"He doesn't know where he's been," Freddie said. "He doesn't know us."

"Just the same," Dot insisted. "If he never showed up—if they never heard from him again..."

Freddie jumped to his feet. "I won't go for that," he shouted. "I won't let you do it, Dot—not you! You understand? Not you!"

"I dunno," Flagler drawled. "We been using Dot's brains up to now. We're willing to go on using them."

Freddie shook his head. His eyes bulged and he looked half mad. "She's not going to do this," he screamed hysterically. He turned to Dot. "You know why I won't let you do this," he continued, in a slightly calmer tone. "Because if you do, we're finished."

Dot stared at Freddie. For the first time since they had come together, she saw herself losing the mask of power which had always kept him under her thumb. His tone told her that for the first time he meant what he said. And her voice was more gentle than he had ever heard it before as she said, "All right, Freddie. Just the way you want."

Dot stared at Freddie. For the first time since they had come together she saw herself losing the mask of power which had always held him under her thumb.

Mr. Nast." He paused. "If we don't, they say we will never hear from them again."

Pete glanced at Dan. He turned to Jenson. "May I have that letter? There may be fingerprints." He took the letter which Jenson handed him, slipped in into a cellophane envelope and put it in his pocket. "I suppose, Mr. Jenson," he said, "you're willing to pay whatever ransom they demand?"

Jenson nodded. "Yes, sir. We want Mr. Nast back."

"Would you let us help the bank count the money?"

Nast's voice was helpless. "I... I don't know what to do... Anything you want... but please stay out of it for forty-eight hours."

Pete nodded. "As far as the Federal Bureau of Investigation is concerned, we're out."

Porter rose from his chair. "And we'll quit, too. Gerson and I will have all our men withdrawn immediately."

Dot, Freddie, Martin, Flagler sat with Powder, one of Flagler's toughs, in the darkness which hooded the Bronson farm, waiting for the car which they had just heard approach. The three men each had a revolver in his hand.

The car came to the front of the house and then, with a screech, it stopped.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

ADVERTISING'S NO MYSTERY

SOME of us remember well when John Slattery started in business. He couldn't have been over 25 and he had only a few hundred dollars in capital. But he did have a wife and two fine boys. He wanted to make them comfortable. He quit his job, went in on his own.

At first he would come to us and in his frank, likable way ask if we would buy from him. We liked John. It flattered us to have him invite us to become his customers. We began trading with him.

He treated us so considerately and so honestly; he gave us such good service; he was so grateful for our patronage, that we enjoyed being his customers. It made us feel good. Others felt the same way. His business grew.

Then he began asking more people to trade with him than he could reach in person. He had to run small advertisements in the newspaper, which he wrote himself after store hours.

As he grew larger he ran larger advertisements, and where in the beginning he had a handful of customers, now he had several hundred.

Charles Roth

He continued to advertise in the newspaper. His business continued to grow. He couldn't know all his customers by name now, of course, but they felt that they could buy from him with confidence because he had been recommended to them by another friend whom they had always trusted.

This other friend who recommended John Slattery was the newspaper which carried his advertising.

Whatever you read in the newspaper you naturally feel you can believe, because you know that a reputable newspaper will not accept advertising from any but honest and reliable concerns.

Because this young man starting in business made use of that aid he built his business. As his business grew he was able to give his customers better service and more for their money.

Although few of the persons reading his advertisements and becoming his customers realized it, they were all indebted to the newspaper for its service in bringing to their attention an opportunity of getting more for their money by publishing advertisements of this enterprising young man.

Advertising is serving us in this same way every day, by bringing information of where we can buy most advantageously, by helping us to find what we want at the lowest possible prices.
