959 Enrolled in School: 527 Are in High School; More Coming!

Truck Over Turns Near Levita Fri.

Friday morning a truck owned by a local lumber company and reported to have been driven by a man named King, overturned about three miles South of Levita. The accident is said to have occurred when King, attempting to change gears on a steep grade, stalled, and being unable to hold the truck was forced to let it roll backwards down hill where it finally left the highway and overturned.

King, with the exception of a few minor cuts and bruises, was uninjured in the crash, but the truck, which was loaded with lumber, was badly damaged.

Child Drowns At Straw's Mill

Little Norma Jean Pack, 3 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Pack of Straw's Mill, was accidentally drowned some time around 4:30 Saturday afternoon in the water trough at the Pack home. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, and interment was made at Bethel.

Grandparents who survive are: Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Culp and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pack.

Clifton Lions Boost Fair

According to information received by Guy Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, a delegation of some fifty or more Lions from Clifton, will be here Wednesday, boosting the Central Texas Fair, which is held annually in Clifton.

This year the fair will be September 28, 29, and 30. The delegation will arrive about 11 o'clock, and plan to have lunch with the Gatesville Lions Club.

Trucks Sideswipe Near Junction

Trucks driven by Leonard Gilbreath of Leon Junction, and Tommy Bundrandt sideswiped each other Saturday night about 7:30, and Mrs. W. H. Shelton sustained a fractured leg. Treatment was given by a local doctor Sunday morning.

Both trucks were reported to have been loaded with a number of people, and Mrs. Shelton was sitting on the "inside". The group from Leon Junction were going to Flat for some kind of program. No one else was injured.

Miss Winiford Byrom, who will re-enter SHSTC, left Sunday for Huntsville.

Purmela Schools Open 25th

Purmela school will begin its school session on September 25, 1939 with a short program at 9:00 o'clock with registration following. This will be the eleventh year as a standardized school.

The teacher personnel will be the same as last year. The teachers have spent most of the summer in better preparing themselves as teachers. Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Huckabee studied toward masters degrees at the University of Texas and Mrs. Warden attended NTSTC, Denton, where she took special work in the field of primary education. Reading tables, book racks, magazines racks, and display boards have been added to the school plant during the summer and improvements in many ways are being planned for the school year.

The continued cooperation of the community is invited to help make this a better school year for the boys and girls of Purmela community.

COUNTY JUDGES AND COMMISSIONERS AT TEMPLE

Representatives have been requested by the County Judges and Commissioners' Association Convention, which will be held in Temple, September 21-23, according to Guy Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Thursday night, there will be a barbecue at the Blackland Experiment Station, followed by a dance on the roof of the Doering Hotel.

Friday night, there will be a banquet honoring Judge J. J. Loy, president of the state association. Hon. Sam Rayburn, majority leader in Congress is slated to be the principal speaker.

All of the courthouse officials from all neighboring counties are invited to attend these festivities.

KILLEEN HAS "PROGRESS EDITION" OF "THE HERALD"

It's a big'un! The Friday issue of The Killeen Herald, which is entitled the "Progress Edition", four sections, 32 pages of seven columns each.

Business houses in Gatesville have a page in this edition, including Painter's, Leaird's, R. E. Powell, G. P. Schaub, Morton Scott, Davidson Bros. & Co., Wm. Cameron Co., Inc., H. B. Davis, Western Auto Associate Store, Perry Bros., Gatesville Auto Supply, The National Bank of Gatesville, Alvis-Garner Company, and Guaranty Bank & Trust Co.

This is a very creditable edition, and the publishers of The Killeen Herald, should be the envy of others of this section who try for cooperation of this kind in their publication.

Clinton Chamlee was a visitor in Waco Sunday afternoon.

A. Shirley made a business trip to Fort Worth Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hancock of Mound were shopping in Gatesville recently.

Miss Margaret Haase left Friday for Waco, where she will enter Baylor University.

Joe Ricketts left Monday morning for Huntsville, where he will attend Sam Houston Teachers College the coming year

According to Superintendent Erce W. Brooks, there are already 959 enrolled in Gatesville Public School system, and a possibility of more coming in as the school year advances. This was the report Monday afternoon.

Of these 959, there are already 527 enrolled in the high school, which will make the high school Class AA within a year or so.

Distribution of these are as follows: 112, 9th grade; 146, 10th grade; 154, 11 grade; 115, eighth grade; 70, 7th grade; 62, 6th grade and approximately 300 in the elementary school.

OPENING EXERCISES WERE SATURDAY

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, children, mothers and grandmothers gathered at the school gym for the opening exercises. Also business men and other interested folks were present.

D. W. Diserens, directing the GHS band played three selections, and following this, Superintendent Erce W. Brooks introduced all the teachers, both old and new. Then, following announcements the students went to their respective rooms, registered, and in general got ready for the 1939-40 school term, the business of which started Monday morning, and yesterday afternoon, everything seemed "quiet on the Western front" as if the school had been running for some time.

Noticeable down town, were the many busses, and also the drivers, who bring their busses down to be serviced, and to await the 4:00 o'clock signal.

Anyway, we're all set for a new school year—Gatesville's biggest business institution is in full operation.

J. M. SANDLIN BUYS RITCHIE CAFE

J. M. Sandlin has recently purchased the Ritchie Cafe, located on the west side of the square next to Murray's Grocery and Market and is now operating under the new management.

This is Mr Sandlin's first business venture in this city and he'll appreciate your patronage.

It's National Dog Week

It's National Dog Week, and if you don't believe a dog is your best friend (besides your pocket-book) get one! He's one that won't two-time you!

And, going up the political scale, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel has proclaimed this National Dog Week, September 17 to 23, and urges people to supply homes for homeless dogs.

Anyway, you could treat your dog a little bit extra good this week, kind of make it "Christmas" for him or something.

Mrs. C. E. Gandy was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Doyle Baldrige, in Waco Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Homan, of this city, was a Brownwood visitor recently.

Flat School Opens Mon., Sept. 18th

Flat school opened yesterday, as scheduled, putting an end to summer vacations and sending hundreds of happy, carefree children of the Flat school district scampering back to the halls of learning.

After a short program and completion of registration, the school under the supervision of C. T. Humphries and a capable staff of teachers, is all set to launch fully into next year's program.

Enrollment is reported to be extra large this year and the community as a whole, is working together to make this coming school year a great success.

ELEVEN LEFT FOR AGGIE-LAND MONDAY

Eleven boys left Monday morning to take up their higher education at A & M and were John Rufus Colgin, Jack Hearne, Joe Hal English, Thomas Bone, Douglas White, Jim Edwards, Bobby Melbern, John Albert Lester, L. D. Wittie, J. F. Collard, Jr., and J. F. Clark Jr.

Four others went down before, making the total fifteen. They were Billie Joe Cass, Robert Nateur, Kenneth Adams and Dewey Duncan.

Joe Ricketts, who will attend SHSTC also went part of the way with the boys that left yesterday morning.

White Hall To Open On 25th

A. B. Graham, advises us, that a change has been made in the opening date of the White Hall school and it will not open until the 25th.

Some of the school's openings have been deferred on account of the cotton situation in some communities, and this is the purported reason for this change.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Rogers and children, Miss Eva Rogers, and Mrs. Elzie Timmons visited relatives in Abilene last week end.

Our Neighbor, Mexico

As Seen By
Gene, Lola and Dotsy

(Editor's Note: Beginning this issue, we present a tour of Old Mexico, as seen by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Torbett and their daughter, Dotsy. The "tour" was furnished us by the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Torbett of Gatesville, to whom the letter was written. "Gene" as we know him, used to slide a big trombone in a band here, years ago, and "Lola" is a member of the Powell family that live in the southeastern part of the county, and both are known to many Coryell countians.

We'll leave it to Hubert Morse the linotype operator to cut this into episodes, but it will run currently in the News until the trip is over. Let's go with Gene, Lola and Dotsy! It's a great trip. Also, we'll put some enclosed pictures our window so you may see some of what they saw.)

Sunday P. M. Sept. 3, 1939
Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Torbett, Gatesville, Texas.

Dear Folks:

It's Sunday afternoon, and between Radio Casts, forecasts,

News Casts, and that is new, and that which is expected to happen momentarily in Europe and elsewhere, relating to the new war, or the resuming of hostilities of the last one, (which was not finished when we all came home).

You know that for many months I have been threatening to write you a nice long juicy letter, but until we returned from our recent trip to Mexico, really had very little that "I could write home about" However, our recent trip was so jamed with thrills and everything that it was really "something to write home about" and while the letter may not seem to be a purely orthodox letter, and may be more or less like a "Beadeker Tourist Guide", nevertheless I will try to describe more or less in detail some of the high spots of our recent trip.

Needless to state that the trip as a whole, is actually beyond all description, but in a small way I am going to try to tell you a few things about it.

You probably had not thought of it, but we live only about 750 miles from the city of Mexico, a city which we have always wanted to visit and being so near it seemed that it would be a shame if we did not take advantage of the occasion and make the trip while we are so near, and still young and devilish enough to get a kick out of it.

We crossed the river here at

Reynosa, opposite McAllen, and the distance from there to Monterrey, being only about 150 miles we easily accomplished the first step of the trip the first afternoon, and spent the night in Monterrey. Leaving Monterrey early the next morning we took two days to accomplish the balance of the trip, and during the first part of the trip we drove down a beautiful valley lying between two ranges of the Sierra Madre mountains, about one o'clock in the afternoon we crossed the "Tropic of Cancer" and were really and truly in what the Geographies used to term the "Torrid Zone" and headed straight for the equator; the first day we accomplished some 355 miles, and spent the night at a small village in the heart of the Indian country at the foot of the mountains. Early the following morning we began the ascent of the mountains, this part of the trip consists of about 130 miles of constant mountain climbing, just one continual round of corkscrew and hairpin curves, which gradually leads to the summit of the Sierra Madra mountains, ascending eventually to an altitude of 8,000 feet above sea level, which is the highest point on the route. This part of the trip took about 5 hours as it was necessary to drive slow and careful at the same time getting an eye full of the most wonderful mountain scenery in the world. The highway is a masterpiece of engineering construction, and while actually it is sliced out from the sides of the mountains, which are almost perpendicular, at the same time the ascent is so gradual, that half of the time you do not realize that you are climbing the mountain but seem to be descending. The highway is so constructed, that the ascent is gradual, and the ascent is never more than a 16 per cent grade, and it is unnecessary to even shift gears during the whole of the trip. This part of the trip is really beyond all description, the scenery is wonderful, mountains and canyons on all sides. You can look over the railing on one side and gaze into yawning chasms, and canyons, from 1,000 to 2,000 feet deep, then turn around and look up, and you have to look twice to see the summit of the mountain peaks, rising abruptly from the running board of the car from that side of the road. This part of the country is inhabited by primitive Indians of the Axtex tribes, they live and exist practically in the same surroundings, and under the same conditions as they did before the coming of the Spaniards. And it is said they still practice most of their Pagan religious rites, probably with the exception that the human sacrifices have been eliminated. We saw lots of them along the highway, all of them dressed exactly alike in coarse white cotton clothes, and universally bare-footed. They practice agriculture and cultivate the almost perpendicular mountain sides, crops being principally corn, which requires no cultivation after being planted, and doubtless produces about 10 gallons of liquid refreshment and maybe so 500 tortillas per acre, in fact the mountains are so steep that the Indians have to strap themselves to a tree, a post or a boulder to keep from falling while the gouge out a hole in which to drop the seed when planting. It is said that none of them had ever seen an automobile until the Pan American Highway

Merry Wives Club Entertained

A delightful social event of last week was had Friday afternoon when Mrs. Frank Kelso entertained members and additional guests of the Merry Wives Club at her home on Saunders street. At 3:30 the guests assembled at the home, which was decorated throughout with sunflowers and queen's wreath.

Games of 84 furnished the diversion for the afternoon, after which the hostess passed a refreshment plate, consisting of delicious ice cream and cake. During the games, punch was served.

Members present were: Mesdames B. B. Garrett, Pat Holt, E. H. Nesbitt, Levi Anderson, J. M. Prewitt, T. M. Davidson, B. H. Melbern, Ed McMordie, F. J. Battle, C. F. Caruth, and Edgar Franks. Guests included: Mesdames G. W. Byrom, Elworth Lowrey, Guy Powell, R. W. Ward, M. W. Lowrey, Irene Bradford, Will Powell, Byron Leaird, Sr., E. W. Brooks, Morton Scott, J. D. English, and Reid Powell.

Former Gatesville Man To Wed Louisiana Girl

Another in a series of courtesies for Miss Billie R. Jones of Shreveport, La., the bride elect of George Dawson Harris of Lafayette, La., and house guest of Mrs. George W. Harris of Waco, was a luncheon tendered Friday at noon by Mesdames L. N. Douglas, Russell Tatum and John Jolley at the Douglas home in Waco.

Miss Jones was honoree at a reception tendered by Mrs. Harris at the Harris home, Thursday evening when 125 guests called to greet the visitor. Several courtesies are planned for her during next week. Miss Jones and Mrs. Harris went to Austin Saturday evening to be the guests of Mesdames W. R. Marrs and A. D. Stewart following which they will go to Fort Worth this week where they will be tendered a luncheon Wednesday.

Mr. Harris was a former Gatesville resident, and his father, the late George W. Harris, was superintendent of the schools here.

"Tacky" Party Compliments Methodists Intermediates

Teachers of the Intermediate Department of the Methodist Sunday School were hosts and hostesses to members of the department when they entertained at the church Thursday evening with a social which took the form of a "tacky" party.

Tom Post Thomson and Mrytie Sue Jones were voted the "tackiest," and Milroy Powell and Helen Thompson won the title of second "tackiest."

After various games had been played, refreshments, consisting of ice cream in dixie cups and cold drinks, were served to approximately 20 guests.

Owl Club Meeting At Martin Home

Complimenting members and guests of their club, the Owl Club, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Martin entertained at their home on Pidcocke street Thursday evening. Bouquets or rosebuds adorned the rooms and also the tables, which were arranged for the playing of 84.

Concluding the courtesy, the hostess served an appetizing ice course.

Fellowship Club Entertained

Miss Orpa Mayo and Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Bayless were hostesses and host to members of the Fellowship Club when they entertained at the home of the former on east Leon street last Thursday evening. Vases and bowls of crape myrtle were placed at vantage points about the rooms, and three tables were attractively arranged for the playing of 84.

A refreshment plate, which consisted of ice cream and cake, was passed at the conclusion of the games.

Twenty-four guests were included in the courtesies.

Gaston-Ables Nuptials

Miss Marvis Pearl Gaston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Gaston of this city, and Harley Ables of Wills Point were married Sunday, September 10, at 10 a. m. at the home of Rev. J. H. Long, who read the ceremony.

The bride's sister, Miss Claudene Gaston, and Elmer Farmer were the only witnesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ables have many friends here who wish them much happiness. Mrs. Ables has attended Gatesville High School, and Mr. Ables has been employed here for some time.

The couple will make their home in or near Gatesville.

500 See Bouts At Temple

Saturday night was the first of the Temple Central Texas Amateur Athletic Council's preliminary Golden Gloves boxing tournament, and nine bouts pleased the 500 customers attending the opening.

Joe Kunschik, State Boxing Commissioner, and Travis McCall, State Boxing Inspector, attended the fights, and spoke well of the events.

Lloyd Densman, 11, of Marlin went on against Steven Marinek, and Densman looked like a veteran, only for his age.

In the other bouts, Erwin Boren, 150 won over George Dillander, 150; Jack Baker, 112 won a close one over Tommy Caffrey, who was in the State Golden Glove Tournament in Fort Worth last year, and appeared in the Gatesville District Tournament.

Herbert McKinley, 176, with a good left, won over Tom Pickett, Temple football star; Billy Vann, 135 won a technical knockout over Raymond Miller; G. B. Dolan, won a split decision over J. D. Jordan; Darrell Boren won TKO over Mike Attas, when the latter became sick in the final stanza.

Tom Morris, 195 kayoed Ed Dusek, Jr., in the third. Charlie Skupin, 165 won TKO over Dale Weaver.

Dr. D. H. Kaump, chairman of the Association, told the fans they could look forward to other interesting bouts in the near future.

ARE YOU ONLY A 3/4 WIFE?

MEN because they are men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness for three weeks of the month—but a hell-cat the fourth.

And make up your mind men never will understand. There are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood into womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and go "smiling through." Over a million women have written in reporting benefit. Why not give this world-famous medicine a chance to help YOU?

IRVIN BERLIN'S "SECOND FIDDLE" BOASTS DAZZLING TALENT PARADE

Irvin Berlin's new songs, Sonja Henie's sunny brilliance, Tyrone Power's gay romancing, Rudy Vallee's singing and Edna May Oliver's fun—one of the greatest combinations of talent ever gathered for one show is making Irvin Berlin's "Second Fiddle" the sensation of the preview critics who have lavished on the 20th Century Fox film a chorus of praise.

It's something new in screen entertainment, this film which will open at the PALACE Theatre on Saturday, and it's filled with romance, dazzling spectacle, fresh comedy, six new Berlin songs and surprises galore, including sensational tangos on ice, snow rumbas, ice ballets, and the new ballroom dance craze, the "Back to Back."

Bearing evidences throughout of the magic touch of Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox production chief the screen play by Harry Tugend is a highly realistic story of film's long search for a girl to play the heroine of a best-selling novel and what happens when she is found.

This is right in line with the new trend, set by Zanuck in his production of Irvin Berlin's "Alexander's Ragtime Band," of combining music with a story of real dramatic worth into perfectly blended entertainment.

"Second Fiddle" introduces, also, new-star Mary Healy, lovely young actress whose first screen appearance finds her in a romantic role opposite Rudy Vallee. The producers expect great work from this newcomer and her performance is hailed as fulfilling every expectation. Included with her in the cast are Lyle Talbot and Alan Dinehart.

For the first time on the screen Sonja Henie has a skating partner on the ice, young Stewart Reburn. The handsome Canadian athlete appeared with the ice star during her triumphant personal appearance tour of the country last winter.

Sonja also hangs up her skating shoes temporarily to join Rudy on the ballroom floor in the "Back to Back," a new dance created by Harry Losee from the song written by Berlin for the film.

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE SAYS THERE'S PLENTY OF WHEAT

With the war-dragoons loose in Europe, the nation's ever-normal wheat granary is expected to be tested for its ability to absorb the shock of international combat.

The United States has a domestic demand, year in and year out, for around 650 to 700 million bushels of wheat.

If it maintains its historical share of world wheat trade, the United States will export from 30 to 100 million bushels.

This total prospective normal consumption of between 730 and 800 million bushels can be produced on 60 to 65 million acres.

The 1940 wheat acreage allotment is 62 million acres, or approximately what would be needed at normal yields to supply ordinary domestic and export demands.

In addition, the Ever-Normal Granary carried over into the current marketing season approximately 264 million bushels, or about 150 million bushels more than the average carry-over for 1924 to 1928.

In Mexico—

was completed and the tourists began to invade the country from Northern Mexico and the United States. The highest point of altitude is reached about 60 miles this side of Mexico, and has been appropriately marked by a highway marker. From this point on into Mexico City, the descent is about 1,000 feet and so gradual that it is not even noticeable, from the 8,000 feet point the highway leads through boundless acres of the Maquay Plant, which seems to be about as important a crop in Mexico as Cotton is in the States. We pass within three miles of "Pachuca" the largest silver producing area in the whole world.

Mexico City lies in a valle surrounded by mountains, lies at an altitude of 7,000 feet and the climate remains practically the same all the year, that is from 60 to 65 degrees, this is quite a contrast from the intense heat we have experienced all summer, and you can readily imagine I wished I had branged along the winter underwear. Mexico City is said to be situated in what was one time the crater of a huge volcano, at any rate the city is approached by what appears to have been at one time a causeway, across or between two lakes that have long ago been drained out, and are now used for farms and dairy cattle grazing. The City itself presents an inexhaustible supply of contrasts, on all sides can be viewed objects of interest, dating from the days of the Spanish Conquest and even more remote periods of antiquity. Aztec ruins are plentiful, and the lowly Mexican Burro, patiently plods its prosaic course along the narrow streets and permits the drivers of the high powered, many motored automobiles to assume all of the responsibility in navigating the narrow and congested streets, while a lowly Indian hut may have for his next door neighbor, a towering modern apartment house, or a mediaeval spanish hacienda. The city itself boasts a population of about one and a half million people, and is in all probability, the most cosmopolitan city on the North American Continent, the streets in the older sections of the city are narrow, and one way traffic is mandatory. The newer sections of the city, have modern homes as beautiful as is to be found anywhere, and in various sections wide boulevards, dotted with statues and monuments to many national heroes. The traffic is terrific, and far more complicated than New York City, and navigating the streets is a major problem. "Strange as it seems" everyone is in a hurry, cars run at fifty miles an hour, busses and street cars pass in unending procession, and pedestrians really have to jump and run, in order to get across the street. The shops and stores are really marvelous, and compare favorably with anything to be seen in the larger cities of the United States, while the smaller shops, arcade buildings etc. seem to be laid out and seem to follow pretty much the ideas in vogue in Paris, France. In fact the whole city reminds me of Paris, while the smaller towns bear a striking resemblance to the provincial towns of France and Germany, perilously perched along the sides of the mountains. (Continued next issue)

Evacuation of London Children

Scene at a London railroad station as many thousands of children were being taken from the city to places of more security in the country in anticipation of German air raids. The total population of the designated evacuation areas is about 11,000,000, but only about 3,000,000 of the residents fell into the first group that was moved. That group included school children, their teachers, pre-school children and their mothers, the adult blind and crippled, and invalids who were in condition to be moved.

the week, W. C. Bradley lead with high score so far yesterday, it being 183.

We've got to look to our laurels, as we saw the boys of the Central Texas Amateur Athletic Association do a little preliminary boxing Saturday night, and they don't look a bit bad, for this early season.

Sport scraps is going to be unusually short this trip, but we'll look'em over. Too, this 6-man business is due to start right away, and they've that fine trophy in our window, which is certainly worth working for.

Next issue, we'll give you the schedule of games for the bowling league, just organized, which will carry this sport on thru part of the winter.

Panama canal traffic tolls for the first seven months of 1939, it's 25th anniversary year, totaled a little more than $13,000,000.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

The Farm Is Still the Best Poultry-yard

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Associate Editor
Farm and Ranch
Breeder-Feeder Association

We have seen numerous spectacular inventions and high pressure methods in every sort of farm activity, among the latest of which is the battery system of poultry production, by which a thousand pullets could be raised and kept as laying hens in a city back yard. One of our turkey raising friends, who had made a reputation as a breeder on his farm, went into the battery system of turkey raising some years ago, and proudly invited the writer out to see his sky-scraper coops. Every ounce of feed was scientifically mixed and carried to the poults, the droppings and litter cleaned up and carted away. Being somewhat old fashioned in our allegiance to nature's own ways, we couldn't help wondering if cod liver oil in the feed would be as good as sunshine, and whether the investment in coops and labor wouldn't have been better spread over more acres, where a turkey could live a turkey's life.

We never did learn why our friend soon afterward disappeared from the turkey world. Perhaps we now have the answer. The Texas Experiment Station went to a great deal of trouble and expense to compare results in raising turkeys by the battery system and by the out-door, or what we like to think of as the "natural" system. They found that more of the poults could be kept alive by the battery system, but that the weaklings, thus artificially protected in early life, were never profitable in the long run.

To turn it around another way, young turkeys raised out of doors showed greater loss by death during the first few weeks than those in the batteries. But they died before they had cost much, and those which survived by superior vitality and resistance were the sort that made the most of their future life.

In recent years Southwestern turkey raisers have been met in the northern markets by competition from huge "turkey factories" on the west Coast. They have hurt our markets, not by cheaper production costs, but by a better finish on the birds they send to market. Farmers who use nature's own methods and take proper sanitary precautions, supplement farm feeds with the necessary elements to balance the ration, and "pour the grain to them"—the market turkeys for the last seven or eight weeks before marketing time need have no fear of the competition from the "turkey factory" which has had so much publicity lately.

There was a fellow at Los Angeles years ago who developed a back yard, battery system for hens. It was a typical promoter's set-up. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce gave him a spot on its weekly program as an aid to selling suburban half-acre homesites twenty to forty miles out. A Texas group paid this promoter to come here and explain his system, and sold some suburban homesites with the idea that the hens would make the payments. The promoters made plenty of money but the enthusiastic would-be egg producers seldom did. In the meantime the good old farm hen kept on supplying the market, year in and year out.

Now the specialized poultry farm is an admirable institution, in the hands of the right man, and under certain conditions. We have no fault to find with it. Even the highly artificial "battery system" may have its place.

The one point which should be remembered is that out-doors, on the farm, is the natural habitat of all sorts of poultry, and with ordinary care and good judgement, the farm flock will continue to be the mainstay and the most profitable form of poultry production, for either meat or eggs.

This does not mean "letting nature take its course." It only means working in co-operation with natural forces and conditions. Neither poultry raising nor any other farm enterprise will be profitable without intelligent application of known principles of sanitation, feeding, preparation for market and selling. But the farmer and his family can beat the "factory" system if they want to.

SOUTHERN CITY LAYS 55 BLOCKS COTTON PAVING

Along shady Valliant street in Greenville, Miss., a crew of road workers rolled a huge, eight-foot wide bolt of cotton fabric, white and coarse, and seemingly more suitable for curtains or dresses than for this strange use.

Housewives on Valliant street rubbed their eyes incredulously. What was City Engineer Frank Hall up to, spreading hundreds of square yards of cotton material on the street which had been a gravel one, and which had been scraped down for a new kind of hard-surfacing? They came out on the sidewalk, talking to each other and to the engineer who was putting down the first cotton membrane streets on a large scale in the United States. Passersby fingered the heavy, loosely woven fabric which the workers were fitting upon the priming of asphalt, which had been laid earlier upon the prepared gravel.

Greenville was inaugurating this summer's day a road paving program which would result in the hard surfacing of 55 blocks of city streets with a cotton membrane filler between layers of asphalt. The work was being undertaken experimentally, on a large scale, in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture, which was supplying the fabric. The program had been envisioned by Mayor Milton Smith and City Engineer Hall. And it was fitting that in Greenville, in the heart of the long staple cotton producing Mississippi Delta, this first large scale experiment in cotton paving should be made. Only 30 miles away, at Scott, Miss., Oscar Johnston, president of the National Cotton Council, and operator of one of the world's largest cotton plantations, had himself laid down a mile of cotton road some seven years ago.

The way in which that Scott plantation road had stood up under heavy trucking, automobile travel and plantation machinery had convinced his neighbors that cotton could make an ideal membrane in the building of enduring hard-surfaced roads. The National Cotton Council itself had become convinced this year of the potentialities of cotton in road building. To the task of experimenting in this new use for cotton it had assigned Dean Gilchrist of Texas A. and M. And upon his findings depend the possible use of a million bales of cotton a year in road making.

But Greenville hadn't waited for these findings, for the city officials had already been convinced by the mile laid down at Scott and by similar small scale ventures in New Jersey. The theory behind the proposed use of cotton in such roads is that it acts as a cushion between layers of gravel and asphalt, as well as a binding material, and slows down the deterioration of the hard surfaced road. If cotton is proved to be an important factor in road preserving, its use will be a construction economy, for in hard surfaced roads, the upkeep rather than the initial cost is what burdens the taxpayer.

The actual laying of roads with cotton binder is as simple as ordinary blacktopping. The prepared base is first primed with asphalt, which is absorbed by the base in approximately 24 hours. The cotton membrane is then laid down, but being unrolled the length of the street, doubling and splicing where necessary. Asphalt is then applied to the cotton and covered with gravel, and the gravel cover is rolled and compacted. Finally, asphalt is applied to the rolled gravel, covered with coarse sand and broomed and rolled to a resultant dense, smooth surface.

Other cities besides Greenville are also experimenting in cotton roads, through the cooperation of the Department of Agriculture. But the drive to make the nation cotton road conscious awaits the report of Dean Gilchrist.

The Divorce of Lady X

A COMEDY IN TECHNICOLOR
with LAURENCE OLIVIER and BIRME BARNES · RALPH RICHARDSON · MORTON SELTEN
Directed by TIM WHELAN · Released Thru United Artists

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
Beautiful Miss Leslie Steele, fog-bound at a costume ball in a London hotel, steals into the suite of Everard Logan, woman-hating divorce lawyer, and artfully cajoles him out of his bedroom. Introducing herself as "Lady X," she disappears after breakfast, leaving him completely smitten. Logan's friend, Lord Mere, asks him to arrange a divorce from his wife, who was seen emerging from a man's room in the same hotel and in the same costume. Logan, horrified in the belief that it was the same woman, puts him off. He goes to court to argue one of his divorce cases. On the bench is Lord Steele who, unknown to Logan, is Leslie's grandfather.

Was he young or old? Neither—just medium. But of one thing she was certain; the man did not have a beard. . . . But he might have had a small mustache!

Slade rushed in from the ante-room to whisper in Logan's ear the intelligence that Lord Mere's wife was waiting to see him. The young barrister, with panic slowly mounting in his breast, stammered his apologies, bade them wait for him, and rushed out to see her.

Leslie, it appeared, had come to return him his pajamas, done up neatly in a package. Burning with the news he had been receiving of Lady Mere's checkered romantic career, Logan received them with a curt "Thank you."

"What's happened to you?" said Leslie. "You're not nearly so sweet as you were at breakfast."

"What happened? Your husband is here! No," he added sardonically, "not the brandy-seller, or the wrestler. It's your latest, Lord Mere."

"How do you know he's my husband?"

"He told me so. He's told me everything! You'll be surprised to find out how much he knows about what went on at the Royal Parks Hotel. And now he wants a divorce!"

Astonishment, understanding, and amusement flashed in rapid succession through Leslie's mind.

"He wants a divorce?" she said calmly. "Well, you'll help him get it, won't you?"

"Help him to divorce you," shouted Logan, "when I am the co-re-

Chapter Four

Logan, after pausing to make sure that his thrusts had found their mark, resumed his exhortation of his least favorite sex.

"What is man's reward for accepting woman as a rational being and granting her emancipation? His reward is that modern woman has disowned womanhood, but refused man's obligations. By independence she means idleness; by equality, that she should carry on like Catherine the Great; by companionship with man she means that he should wait on her hand and foot. . . ."

"Even though I know the horrible truth, I'm wild about you!"

Without pausing in his stride, he glanced up at the spectators' gallery. There was Leslie Steele, drinking it all in, sitting as if spell-bound by the malevolence of his attack. Her expression gradually darkening with resentment and a determination to avenge herself and her maligned sisters against this whippersnapper of a woman-hater who maligned them with such relish.

Logan swept on to a rousing finish of his oration. "Modern woman has no loyalty, decency or justice; no endurance, reticence or self-control; no affection, fine feelings or mercy. In short, she is unprincipled, relentless and exacting; idle, unproductive, and tedious; unimaginative, humourless and vain. And the sooner man takes down his whip again, the better for sanity and progress. That is the explanation of Mrs. Johnson, and that is the explanation of this case."

Another glance upward at the gallery. Leslie was gathering up her bag and gloves, her face eloquent with the expression of a woman bent on murder.

Back in his office, Logan was receiving the pungent details of what had happened on that fateful night at the Royal Parks Hotel from Saunders, Lady Mere's maid. Egged on by Lord Mere, while Logan cowered behind shell-rimmed glasses and a sheaf of papers he pretended to be busily studying, in momentary fear of being recognized by the domestic, Saunders tried to tell her story.

"Had you ever seen the man before?" asked Mere.

"I—I'm not sure, my lord. I didn't have my glasses on."

"Then you wouldn't be able to recognize him again, would you?" Logan asked hopefully.

"Oh, I didn't say I wouldn't recognize him. I said I didn't recognize him." Logan again retreated behind his papers.

Saunders then tried to describe the man. His height? Well, he was neither tall nor short, but of ordinary height. His color? Well, he was neither dark nor fair, but "what you might call medium."

spondent?" But Leslie, callous at his suffering, continued to play at the game—to foster the confusion in the poor youth's mind.

"Well, if Lord Mere gets his divorce," she pointed out, "I shall be free, and then you and I—so to speak—could get together."

"I can certainly understand how you trapped all those men," he reported. "Lauderdale—and the Baron de Brissac—and wild man somebody or other."

"Oh—those," she murmured, gradually getting it.

"And now—me!"

"You?"

"Yes. Why shouldn't I admit it? I love you! Even now, this minute when I know all the horrible truth, I'm absolutely wild about you. I want to take you in my arms—"

"Then why don't you?"

He did—suddenly, fiercely, holding her close to him and kissing her. Then, as if awakening from a trance, he suddenly let her go and backed away.

"With your husband in there—and Saunders who saw us both. . . . Wait! I've got to go back in there!"

He rushed back to his office, and resumed his questioning of Saunders, with a strange, fierce persistence, as if delighting in every new hurt he received as he found out further details of Lady Mere's past adventures. In addition to her four husbands, it seems, there had been a few "unofficial" gentlemen friends—first one Mr. Miller, then another Mr. Miller, a Mr. Van Houton, then a Senor Mendoza from the Argentine.

At last he had had enough. "I'll take on the case," he announced, "and I'll get you a divorce!"

"Good lad!" said Lord Mere. "And you're not worried because we don't know the man from the Royal Parks Hotel?"

"I know the man!" replied Logan; then added, as they looked at him in amazement, "That is, I know the sort of fool he must have been!"

Head Football Coach

This is the fifth of a series of six outstanding diagram plays by leading college coaches from Grantland Rice's new Cities Service Football Guide.

THIS play scored the first touch-down against Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl game. It consists of a fake spinner to the strong side, ending in a reverse play outside the weak side tackle.

The center, Rike, snapped the ball to the No. 3 back, Coffman who spun, pretending to give the ball to the No. 4, Cafego, who faked a run to the strong side. Continuing the spin, Coffman handed the ball to the No. 1, Fox, and then cut off the defensive tackle. Meanwhile, the No. 2 back, Bartholomew, blocked the defensive left end out, and our right end, Hunter, blocked the left tackle in. Led by the guards, Suffridge and Molinski, Fox cut through the gap thus formed and scored from the 3 yard line standing up.

TIME TO SHOUT

Cotton is the prince of fabrics. It has been so since Herodotus, that busy traveler, discovered it during the fifth century before Christ and wrote that India had "a kind of plant which produces wool of finer, better quality than that of sheep."

In basic quality, cotton has no peer. It is nature's whitest and most beautiful fiber. It has superior strength, especially when put to the test of wetting. It has outstanding susceptibility to dyes and resistance to stains. In the versatility of its uses it has not even a distant rival. It can be shaped more easily, worn harder, and laundered safely than other materials commonly rated its superior.

Why then is cotton the scandalized and sniffed-at underdog of textiles?

Cotton has taken the brunt of high-powered sales and advertising campaigns by its rivals. The style-makers, the manufacturers, the distributors have been cleverly induced to give other fabrics the advantage. Millions have been poured into advertising which shouts that other products are superior to cotton, by implication, inferior.

Cotton also needs a champion with a loud voice and some merchandising finesse. The National Cotton Council is taking up that challenge. May its cause prosper and its tribe increase.

 A very difficult schedule faces the Hornet gridsters this season in the nine games to be played. Four games have already been scheduled at home with four on the road; the ninth game has not been decided to date. Asked what department was giving him the most concern and worry, Coach Ewing replied, "The whole thing."

It was really a pleasing sight when I saw B. Jones driving two fine horses hitched to a buggy 'round the square. Dessie Lee Hair stepped lively Thursday morning with the air of a real business woman, an unusually pleasant business woman, however.

JOHN PAUL JONES
 AMERICA'S NAVAL HERO. HIS REAL NAME WAS JOHN PAUL -HE ADDED JONES- WHEN HE CAME TO THE COLONIES TO ESCAPE PERSECUTION AT THE HANDS OF SLAVE TRADERS!

BECAUSE THE EARLY ROMAN EMPIRE HAD 2 EMPERORS AT THE SAME TIME, KINGS TO-DAY STILL CALL THEMSELVES "WE"

THE LARGEST GAS RANGE IN THE WORLD IS AT THE U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY, ANNAPOLIS, MD. 34 RANGES ARE COMBINED IN ONE HUGE COOKING UNIT!

The modern housewife accepts the cooking speed of her gas range as a matter of course, but in the U. S. Naval Academy, speed in food preparation and cooking is a necessity. 27 cooks prepare food at 34 gas ranges combined into a single unit; 2100 cadets are served in 20 minutes!

Persecuted because he resisted a mutiny on one of the early slave ships, young John Paul fled from the Island of Tobago. When he turned up in the American Colonies, he had added Jones to his name. Lasting fame was to come to this young lad for his daring naval feats in the War for Independence. Perhaps his greatest victory was over the superior English ship "Scrapis."
