Navy Day, Today

OCTOBER 27TH

For some reason or another, they celebrate Navy Day, today.

Anyway, since the Nazis have sunk one of Britain's largest and best protected battle wagons, the Royal Oak, it looks a shade bad for the big admirals and others who have been holding out for the "battle wagon" navy. General Billy Mitchell told them just after "the last war" that these big bundlesome "wagons" were obsolete, and they don't believe it yet.

Of course, they look nice on parade, but as to handling, they are about as easy as it would be to put a rudder on the City of Gatesville, and try to steer it.

They're fine for "big steel", but lighter craft, including submarines have proven time and time again, more effective.

It all amounts up to the American slogan, "I Love a Parade". They make beautiful pictures in the movies and in the rotogravure sections, and that's what is wanted, a show.

An Admiral can't strut on a rolling destroyer like he can on a big battleship.

Anyway, for the "working Navy", the naval air force, the light cruisers, minelayers, sub chasers, submarines, and the other light craft, we're glad to say, Whoray for the Navy!

Miss Mary Evelyn Eubanks, student at Baylor University, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Eubanks, at Ewing.

COUNTY-WIDE TRAINING SCHOOL TO BE HELD SOON

Plans for a county-wide Church Training School, to extend over a period of three weeks and reach into as many churches, are now underway, according to Edward S. Bayless, pastor. Five courses will be offered in the school, two to be taught by the pastor and three by Miss Nell Block of Taylor, Director of Religious Education in Central Texas Presbytery.

The school opens in Gatesville in the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday, November 5. Closing Friday night of the same week, it will open in the Prairie View Community Church Sunday night, November 12, to run thru Friday night. The last session of the school will open in Unity Presbyterian Church, Turnersville, Sunday night November 19 and extend thru Friday night.

A class in missions will be taught for children each afternoon Monday thru Friday, from four to five o'clock. Miss Block will teach this class, and announces that it will be a "laboratory (demonstration) class" open to any Sunday School teachers or workers who may care to observe the work.

The evening will be divided into two class periods, the entire session being from 7:00 to 8:55. First hour will be two Bible classes: one for children taught by Miss Block; and one for young people and adults, taught by Mr. Bayless. The latter class will be a survey course in the New Testament, corresponding to the Old Testament course offered in the Co-operative Training School last year.

The second hour will offer a choice of two courses. Miss Block will teach a class for Sunday School officers and teachers, designed to be of general aid in that work. Mr. Bayless will teach a course entitled "The Program of the Church."

According to advance notice being distributed among the members of the churches, "friends of other denominations are cordially invited. The only strictly Presbyterian courses will be that on the Program of the Church, and that will be informative rather than doctrinal, which should be of general interest." The course

MRS. P. R. HOBIN CELEBRATES 83RD BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Lots of things have happened between the time a pioneer family in Missouri welcomed twins in the home, back in 1856, and the day this week when one of those twins celebrated her birthday in her home at Turnersville.

Some of these interesting happenings of the long past Mrs. P. R. Hobin, 83, lived over, and recounted to her host of friends who came to wish her "many happy returns of the day". For on Tuesday "Granny", as she is affectionately known, was the cheery center of a crowd of friends, some who had known her since shortly after Mrs. Hobin, a bride, had moved to Turnersville; and others who had known her since they as children had come over to the happy Hobin home where eight young Hobins lived.

Born on October 24, Mrs. Hobin saw little of her native Missouri. Her family first saw Texas from a boat in Galveston harbor, when the twins were just five months old. A hazardous overland journey brought them to a spot near Jonesboro, where one of the twins died at the age of nine months. Later the family moved to a farm near Hamilton, and still later into Hamilton proper, a village then with a few houses and two or three stores.

Some of Mrs. Hobin's most vivid memories are of the Indians. She never saw any herself, but with all her neighbors lived in constant fear of them.

"The only schooling we got" she says, "was going five or six miles and never knowing whether we'd

"WAR SHOCKS"

The City of Flint has been awarded to Germany by the Soviet Union. U. S. demands that the ship be returned to the U. S. by none other than FDR.

Looks like this old World War crate could be the "Flint" that would start fireworks.

This ship is one of the government built ships that were built during 1916, 17 and 18, and has been leased, rented, or sold to private operators since the last war. Many of them are in "bone-yards" or "parking lots" for ships, and have been laying there rotting since 1920 or earlier. They are pulled out during busy seasons, and then put back to rust and rot.

This City of Flint, therefore, must be 25 or more years old, and has about seen its day.

After Ribbintrop's speech at Danzig, it looks like the boys on both sides mean business.

He says, that Britain can expect bombing of their cities, and unrelenting warfare on the sea.

Action on the Western Front is stymied by cold, rain, mud, snow and visibility.

Two day ago, we received from 17 Battery Place New York City, what we think is the rankest of propaganda. It's a printed pamphlet, "Facts in Review", issued by the German Library of Information, giving Chancellor Hitler's address before the German Reichstag, October 6, 1939. This is Vol. 1 No. 10, dated October 14, 1939. The envelope came with only the return address on it, and with a Post Office Permit.

Final vote on the Neutrality Bill is expected, and it is rumored Congress will adjourn by November 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Huey, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKinney attended a banquet in the Raleigh Hotel in Waco Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Foy Murray of Lubbock are the proud parents of a baby son, born Tuesday morning. M. W. Murray of this city is the grandfather.

HORNETS ATTEMPT WEST IN NEXT CONFERENCE TRY TONIGHT

BATTERED HORNETS SHOULD TAKE WEST EASILY

Tonight, Gatesville High School Hornets will take on the West Trojans in a double-underdog battle, with West the slightly unfavored team, having to date, in four games no wins chalked up for them. The Hornets can boast one.

Injuries has Coach Earle Worley wondering as to what the lineup will be, and for that matter, other folks, but the injuries are improving. Probably the worst off among these bench warmers is Bob Foster, who has twin ankle trouble. Jackson, Capt. White and Moore have missed scrimmage sessions all this week, but will probably answer the starting call tonight.

Coach Kozelski of the Trojans sends us his team, weights and positions, but not the line up. Coach Worley has not indicated his lineup either.

Here are the Hornets and Trojans:

BRACKETED

By BRACK CURRY

The war has effected some rather startling transformations in the political scene as viewed from the standpoint of 1940.

For it seems likely that the American reaction to the war will increase the political stature of several leaders while depriving others of the pre-convention build-up necessary for a successful bid for the presidency.

President Roosevelt's plea for abandonment of partisanship for the duration of the war has been reasonably adhered to by the members of Congress, as evidenced by the split in the ranks of the Republican members of the Senate over supporting or opposing the administration on the issue of neutrality.

The schism in the ranks of the Republicans in the Senate, which certainly will provide either the presidential or the vice-presidential candidate for the GOP, is one of the most significant developments of the year from a political standpoint.

Cohesion in the ranks of the House and Senate Republican minorities permitted the blocking of much administration sponsored legislation during the last regular session of Congress. Indeed, it was said at the time of adjournment that the Republicans, as a minority, had made one of the most remarkable records for the regular session in Congressional history.

The irreconcilable split in the ranks of the Democrats was a source of constant encouragement to the Republicans who with Joe Martin in the House and Charley McNary in the Senate succeeded in voting the GOP representation almost en masse on every important bill while the Democrats were divided between conservatives and administration supporters.

But the war, or rather the debate over neutrality, has altered this situation. In the Senate we see Senator Vandenberg of Michigan and Senator Taft of Ohio, two of the leading possibilities for the 1940 nomination, on opposite sides of the fence, the former bitterly opposed to repeal of the embargo on arms, the latter championing the President's course.

Republicans in the Senate have discarded party lines completely, a course which certainly is conducive to sane consideration of the neutrality issue but which is disastrous from the standpoint of party cohesion and stability, with some stolidly backing the President and with others stoutly opposed to the administration-backed proposals.

It may be said with reasonable assurance that, if the war lasts for another year and a half, the availability of either Senator Vandenberg or Senator Taft for the 1940 Republican nomination will be seriously impaired. For if the American people, through their Congress, adopt a course of action either of complete isolation, as advocated by Senator Vandenberg, or continuing trade relations with the belligerents, as favored by Senator Taft, they are not likely to favor the election of a presidential candidate who is in opposition to that course of action.

Thus, if the arms embargo is repealed and the cash and carry sales plan is instituted, Senator Vandenberg will be compelled to abandon his stand on neutrality or go before the Republican convention next year as the advocate of repeal of a policy adopted by Congress as the law of the land.

The convention would be unable to accept the Michigan Senator if it felt that the people were satisfied with the neutrality policy of the government.

On the other hand, should the administration's neutrality bill be adopted by the special session and prove impracticable of application or fall short of the primary objective of keeping the United States out of war, Senator Vandenberg would be in an enviable position. He could adopt toward the Democrats the "I told you so" attitude and go before the country as the champion of a policy which had been rejected by the Democratic administration.

If the new neutrality policy is adopted and proves workable, however, Senator Taft will be unencumbered on the question of foreign policy, as he has supported the Pittman or administration bill. He could, if nominated, base his campaign solely upon domestic issue, in line with the strategy of the Republican high command up to the outbreak of hostilities in Europe.

No discussion of Republican presidential possibilities would be complete without mention of New York's dynamic and ebullient Thomas E. Dewey, who is still the favorite of Republican voters for the nomination, according to the Gallup poll.

Dewey's star has been considerably dimmed by the course of events in Europe since Sept. 1. The lustre of a Sir Galahad riding a charging horse of reform is no longer so appealing or so romantic to the American electorate as is the confidence of having at the helm of state a man with a long and adequate background of knowledge of international relations and diplomacy.

The foreign policy of the United States must be charted carefully as long as Europe is at war. Perilous years are ahead for neutrals if Europe bursts into flames on a really great and devastating scale, as now seems likely. It is unlikely that either of the major parties will nominate a neophyte in international relations if war continues in Europe.

Dewey undoubtedly is an excellent vote getter, the necessity of carrying New York State in order to win the electoral college majority may necessitate his nomination for the vice presidency. But an experienced head of state is needed in Washington now and will be for some time to come—and the Republicans are as aware of this as anyone else.

On the Democratic side, the third term issue is as much in the dark as ever. The general consensus of opinion is that President Roosevelt can have the nomination if he wants it but that he does not want to run and will not run unless he becomes absolutely convinced of the necessity of doing so.

Secretary Hull would loom as the ideal Democratic candidate, in view of the international situation, if it were not for his age. But if the European war continues and gives signs of indefinite prolongment, this factor may be disregarded by the Democrats and Mr. Hull named as the nominee.

The drive for the nomination of Vice President Garner is continuing in all seriousness. Elaborate national headquarters have been set up in Dallas and Eastern headquarters will be opened soon in New York or some other strategic city.

Events transpiring since the outbreak of the war point to the possibility, if not the likelihood, of the nomination by the Democrats of a middle of the road candidate who will adhere to the basic postulates of the new deal while promising to eliminate much of the waste, incompetence, lack of coordination and long-range planning, corruption and actual graft which have characterized so large a part of the new deal record.

Following the last Seminal war, most of these Indians were exiled to Oklahoma by the U. S. government. Some escaped into the Everglades of Florida, where descendants of the band are living today.

Church Services

UNITY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

As is customary on fifth Sundays, there will be worship Sunday night at Unity Presbyterian Church, Turnersville. A song service under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams will precede the sermon. The pastor will preach on the subject, "The Rediscovery of an Idea", a Reformation Day sermon commemorating the 422nd anniversary, October 31, of Luther's famous "95 Theses". Sunday School will meet as usual at 10 a. m. Time of evening worship is seven o'clock.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A sermon Sunday morning on the transfiguration scene and a review Sunday at vespers of the book of James are the offerings of the First Presbyterian Church, Gatesville for this week. The hours are 11 a. m. and 5 p. m. respectively. The pastor will preach on both occasions.

"Life Must Be Lived in the Valley" is the title of the morning sermon. Central idea is that while "mountain top experiences" such as those gained at summer conferences, revival meetings, and the like, are inspirational and greatly helpful in the lives of Christians, unless they carry over into the daily life they are of slight value. For life must be lived in the valley."

The review of the book of James at the evening hour brings to a close a month of reading in the book by the congregation and a number of interested friends. The study will be conducted under the head of "Ten Tests of Religion."

Sunday begins the church's "Week of Prayer and Self-Denial" for Home Missions. Last of the series of Home Mission studies will be conducted by the pastor Wednesday night, and a special offering for home mission work will be received on the following Sunday morning.

PRESBYTERIANS ELECT RULING ELDERS AND DEACONS

Well, what'll YOU guess?

West and Gatesville play, and your guess is as good as mine, or anybody else's. Just to make it easy, here's a coupon, and you can do your own guessing.

NAME _____

Address _____

Hornets _____ West _____

Just bring or mail this to the Coryell County News office, and the FIRST winner in, who guesses the score, will get a year's subscription to the Coryell County News, or their old one renewed.

In the Class B conference, also: McGregor and Marlin; Itasca-Clifton; VM-Mart.

Last year, West beat the Hornets 21-13, and the tables should be turned this year, only West ought not get but 6, therefore, Hornets 21, West 6, is our guess.

Speaking of 6-men: T'ville at Flat; Ireland at Pearl; Copperas Cove at Oglesby.

Conference games in the SW are Baylor-A. & M.; Rice-Texas; SMU rests; TCU at Centenary; Arkansas at Villanova.

Evant, who played Cherokee last week end takes on one even worse, Lometa, which again looks bad for Evant.

THREE SIX-MAN FOOTBALL GAMES SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 27

By WILSON BRAZZIL

Six-Man Football Editor

This six-man football game, which by the way, is no game for sissies, seems to be gaining in popularity as the season gets underway and especially is this true among the smaller schools of the county who are not able to produce enough football material for a eleven-man squad.

For the benefit of those of you who are just now becoming six-man conscious, we take this opportunity to pass out a little information concerning the six-man league. At the opening of the season a representative of each of the following teams, Turnersville, Pearl, Flat, Oglesby, Ireland, and Copperas Cove, got their heads together and organized a league and worked out a schedule for the oncoming season. These teams received little recognition on their first appearances, but later the fans found this sport to contain all the color, thrills and action of the larger eleven-man games and has been gaining in popularity ever since. Though a comparatively new game in Texas it is recommended as a real sport and good training for college football by some of the highest ranking coaches and athletes in the state.

At the present time the Copperas Cove squad stands at the top of the league with 4 victories and no defeats thus far in the season. Though we've never had an opportunity to see this team in action, their undefeated record speaks for itself and are highly favored by many to take the six-man championship trophy offered by the Coaches. A couple of lads Faubian and Mathias seem to be the main spring of the Cove team and have caused their opponents plenty of trouble.

The Turnersville team ranks next highest in percentage according to the number of games played, and added another victory to their crown by taking the Pearl squad 27-6 under the lights here in the "Butter" Bowl Saturday night. Huckabee seems to be the best the Turnersville team has to offer, and take it from us, he's plenty good. Brasher, Jacques and Walker also play a good brand of football and with a few breaks in the right direction could prove to be a real pain-in-the-neck to the other six-man squads.

Oglesby has always managed to put a fighting team up against their opponents and are making a fairly good showing in the league. Carter McKelvin is the "Iron-Man" of the Oglesby team and one of the best passers in the county. Griffin and Clearman also of Oglesby, come in for their share of the honors.

Up Ireland way Coach Sivells' "Fighting Irish" seem to be getting along O.K. after their two point defeat last Friday by the Copperas Cove team. This game was the closest threat the Cove boys have had this year and were scared out of their wits by Edward and Pearson who make one of the best two-man combinations we've seen in action.

The Pearl team with the exception of two men, Dumas and Moseley, are inexperienced. However, they have managed to chalk up several victories and taking everything into consideration, have made an excellent showing. With another year of football behind this bunch of lads Coach Hedgepeth could send out a real ball team that would be hard to take. Dumas and Moseley form another one of those popular two-man combinations, and deserve all the credit for the games won by the Dragons this year.

Now we take a look at Coach Harry Morhmann's Flat Yellow Jackets, the cellar team of the six-man league. Regardless of four straight set-backs the Jackets have a dandy team and have probably the best passing attack in the league. In every game they've played this year they've tore through their opponents lines of defense almost at will, but bad breaks and injuries have kept them at the bottom of the league. Copeland, chief defense man received a shoulder injury early in the season that has greatly handicapped the Jackets regardless of the fact that he has filled his customary slot in most of the Jacket's encounters.

Three big games are scheduled for Friday of this week when Turnersville meets Flat, at Flat, Copperas Cove plays Oglesby at Oglesby, and Ireland plays Pearl at Pearl. If you have not seen one of these six-man games, make arrangements to do so. You will find it really interesting.

"SOME RULES THAT SHOULD BE OBSERVED IN THE SHOW RING"

1. The sponsor of the show should see that each and every exhibitor has fair and equal rights, and special privileges to none.
2. If the animals that are in the show are sired by sires that cost from $10.00 up to $1,000.00, and if the $10.00 sire has sired the best animal in the show it should be placed first in the show regardless of the cost of the sires.
3. Each and ever exhibitor, if called on should be required to point out what he deems is the strong and weak points of the animal or animals he is showing.
4. Each and every exhibitor should have the right to ask the judge why he has placed any animal first, and have the judge to point out the points the animal was placed on and if the judge fails he should be put out of the showing at once and another judge put in his place.

Now, if the above rules were used in our show rings the show ring would be a place of education instead of a place of confusion. Now, if I am right, give me your hand when you meet me, and if you disagree with me, give me $5.00 when you next meet me and write some rules that will beat these."

Yours truly,
Signed: J. C. Taylor

Dr. E. M. Bonney, North Texas State Teachers college psychologist has organized a non-credit "Personality club". The purpose is to cause its members, including a number of his students in psychology, to develop new abilities and interests which would enable them to be better conversationalists and more attractive to other persons.

MRS. HOBIN—

get home or not." One pupil did not, she recalls. Indians attacked the school and killed the teacher and took one of the pupils captive. The other escaped. Mrs. Hobin had stayed home that day.

Scouting parties of eight or ten men went out at regular intervals to "hunt the Indians." Often these parties would return without having found any signs of the Red Men; but when tribes were met, fierce and dangerous fighting ensued. On one such trip "Granny" recalls her older brother, Joe, went. Indians were sighted; one of the party was shot and wounded, and a neighbor of the Hobin's was killed. These scouting parties were composed of all the men in the community, each taking his turn.

Asked if the Indians were finally "tamed" or just driven back, "Granny" said with a great deal of feeling: "No, they didn't tame them; I'll tell you that!"

Though too young to remember much about it, Granny recalls that Joe used to carry the mail from Hamilton to Gatesville and back. He made the trip twice a week, taking a day each way. It was dangerous, but then all life was dangerously lived in those days.

Some of Mrs. Hobin's memories of Hamilton are interesting. For instance, for a long time there was no court house. The upstairs of "Mr. Graves' store" served the purpose. And there was no jail. Not that they didn't need one, Granny hastens to add; "it was a tough country!" But when an outlaw was caught, and it seems there were quite a few to catch, they had to guard him until he could be taken to where a jail was.

The most welcome sight in those days was a traveler. "There were so few in this part of the country" Granny recalls, "That anybody was welcome."

Only two of Mrs. Hobin's eight children are now living. They are Mr. John Hobin of Turnersville and Mrs. Olin Sydow of Gatesville. She lives in the same home to which she came as a bride in the early 80's; Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Smith live with her.

Friends who had dinner with Granny on her birthday, or came during the afternoon, were: Mesdames Sam Jones, Cathey, George

Last January I offered an amendment to the WPA appropriation Bill which, ultimately became law, expressly authorizing the WPA to engage in soil conservation work on private property, where the work was sponsored by a soil conservation district. This was done because I believed, and a majority of the Congress believed, that the WPA could find no better projects for rural areas than soil conservation. The work requires experience of the very kind that most of the workers in rural areas have had. Projects can be broken up into small units so that no workers need be required to travel any great distance from his home to a work project. It is work that can be enlarged or contracted readily to meet changing employment needs. Finally, the results actually secured are lasting and beneficial, and are of a type to add to the national income from which all costs of the program must ultimately be paid. It seems clear to me that this work offers the WPA a real opportunity to carry out a worthwhile program. At the same time it offers the Soil Conservation Service and the Soil Conservation Districts that we are now organizing in Texas a real opportunity to get a great deal of valuable assistance at a minimum cost.

I have been vitally interested in this work and have, therefore, tried to keep up with the departmental regulations on the subject. Last week the WPA put out a bulletin of instructions to their local offices in which they expressly prohibited the use of WPA labor for the construction of terraces, but did authorize the construction of spillways, ditches, grades, etc., I was very disappointed to see any restriction on the work Congress had wisely authorized them to do, but I have since consulted now only with WPA officials, but also with several of the officials of the Soil Conservation Service, and while I still feel that it would have been much better if the WPA had not seen fit to circumscribe this work, I am convinced that a great deal of very helpful work can still be carried out. I hope that all the farmers of the new Soil Conservation Districts will give thought to the possibilities of this program. It can be made to serve the double purpose of providing projects on which many of our desperately needy can find work, and at the same time it can give a fine start to the conservation work of the District. In addition, such projects will eliminate the possibility of any conflict or competition with laborers in our cities, particularly in the building trades.

The debate in the Senate seems to be drawing to a close. I sincerely hope that the Senate will act on the bill next week—both because I want to get at least a short visit with you folks at home before the regular session, and because I fear that delay is dangerous to our country.

The highlight of the week's debate has been the crude suggestion by one of the Senators echoing the suggestion therefore made somewhat more adroitly outside the Senate, that the United States needs the islands owned by Great Britain and France in the Atlantic and Caribbean Seas, that those countries are at war and that all we would have to do at this time would be to take what we wanted. Therefore it is suggested that we grab these islands. Somewhat the same suggestion was made as to Canada, and it was intimated that if the Canadian people didn't prefer to be a part of the United States rather than a part of the British Empire that probably we should do something about that also.

To my mind these suggestions are abhorrent. They are based on exactly the same reasoning that was advanced by Mr. Hitler to justify the annexation of Czechoslovakia—the theory that if a powerful nation wants another weaker nation that it is alright to take it regardless of the wishes of the people living in the weaker nation. I cannot approve of this kind of international dishonesty, and I am happy to find the great majority of the Members of Congress absolutely disgusted with the proposal. Should the people of Canada ever ask to become a part of the United States I would be glad to consider the matter. Or if Great Britain or France sought to sell any of their island possessions in the West Indies. I would be glad to trade with them, although I am not at all sure that we need more islands anywhere (those we have are a source of great expense and of doubtful benefit). Never do I expect to be a party of starting my country on the road to imperialism. Certainly, at this time I can think of no more unneutral and cowardly act than to try to despoil one or more of the combatants of her possessions.

Through a provision in the will of Samuel Scotten, who died in 1910, loaves of bread are given to 150 needy Philadelphia families on each anniversary of his birth. It's a lowly vegetable, indeed these days that doesn't annually have some very pretty girl named queen of it.

"SOULS AT SEA"

Paramount's Dramatic Thunderbolt of the Sea tragedy on the "William Brown" with GARY COOPER, GEORGE RAFT, FRANCES DEE and OLYMPE BRADNA directed by Henry Hathaway.

Capt. Emery is in his cabin when Lieutenant Wilcoxon enters. He asks if he should deliver the Blackbird's log and papers to the Naval Commission. But Captain Emery explains he has turned them over to another officer. As Wilcoxon turns to go Captain Emery hands him a package. His entire manner undergoes a change.

"Uh—for your sister, Wilcoxon. I brought it from Lisbon. Not much, tell her, but—well, just a sort of present." Wilcoxon takes the package. At the carriage Frances Dee tells her brother that her maid, Olympe Bradna, is going to America. She is sailing on the William Brown.

Later Captain Emery meets George Zucco, of the British Intelligence, tells him of a letter taken from the papers of the Blackbird in which Wilcoxon's name is mentioned. Zucco has Cooper and Raft released from jail and pays them for their detention. Cooper and Raft start to enjoy themselves by taking in the sights of the town.

George Zucco contends that the slave trade would not be greatly impaired by the immediate arrest of Wilcoxon. He is sure that Wilcoxon will make an effort to secure the papers that incriminate him. Zucco later meets Cooper. He believes his story and enlists Cooper's aid. That night Wilcoxon steals the papers.

He visits Tully Marshall, a slave agent. Instead of being out of the syndicate as the stolen letter mentioned, Marshall buys the William Brown to present to the syndicate, thus becoming a partner. He tells Wilcoxon to resign from the Navy and sail on the William Brown for America. Does Wilcoxon leave his family?

Quick War Relief Given by Red Cross

Shipwrecked U. S. Citizens,
Wounded Poles, Refugees,
Repatriates Aided

Washington.—The American Red Cross moved quickly at the onset of hostilities in Europe to organize relief for war sufferers and give aid to American citizens stranded in danger zones or rescued from sea-warfare catastrophe.

Red Cross officials pointed out that following contact of German-Polish forces on September 1, the organization made available medical relief for civilians and armies of Poland; provided aid for Americans repatriating from Europe as they landed in the United States ports; granted medical and maintenance assistance to American survivors of the "Athenia," first sea casualty of the war; gave financial aid to the American Hospital in Paris, France, and developed a comprehensive communications system to allay the fears of distraught relatives.

Norman H. Davis, chairman, cabled the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva on September 1 asking what relief would be needed from the American Red Cross. In a first step in consolidating Red Cross relief forces throughout the nation, 3,700 Red Cross chapters were authorized to begin producing refugee garments and to accept contributions for war relief.

A quick response from the Polish Red Cross to Chairman Davis' cable to the International Committee resulted in an American Red Cross appropriation of $50,000 for the purchase of 45 items of medicines, and for army blankets and a quantity of large hospital tents capable of housing 50 stretcher cases each.

A grant of $25,000 was also made to the American Hospital in Paris to evacuate American patients from the hospital and to purchase in the United States a 100 bed hospital unit for shipment to the American organization, it was said.

To meet needs which were thought likely to result from bombardment of rural villages and the passage of hostile armies, the Red Cross called upon 21 of its large city chapters to roll surgical dressings of a special new type for European warfare injuries. More than 500,000 yards of gauze were purchased and 40,000 pounds of cotton, enough to make 157,000 surgical dressings.

On September 2, the American Red Cross announced it was organizing to meet repatriating American citizens at seaport cities through chapter reception committees. Citizens without resources were given temporary shelter, and aided to resettle in their former homes or work.

Between September 5 and 7, the American Red Cross cabled $20,000 through the State Department to help American survivors of the "Athenia," who had been taken into Irish and Scotch ports.

Red Cross chapters were instructed to accept funds for the purchase of supplies for impartial distribution and funds for purchase of supplies for a designated country to be expended through the Red Cross society of that nation.

"The Red Cross is not interested in the origins of the present conflict," Chairman Davis declared following his cabled offer of assistance to the International Red Cross Committee. "As a part of the great International Red Cross it is our duty to do what we can to aid the helpless civilians who will suffer during the hostilities."

This is the third in a series of six outstanding diagram plays by leading college coaches from Grantland Rice's new Cities Service Football Guide.

THIS is the modified Notre Dame box formation with key back about 5½ to 6 yards back for running, passing and quick kicking. This maneuver has been very effective against aggressive defense linemen because of its passing semblance. The strongside guard and tackle split on the guard and pick off the two defensive fullbacks, allowing the defensive guard to chase the quarterback who is faking a pass. The quarterback (No. 2) must start back with the snap of the ball and the key back must fake giving him the ball as they pass each other. Weakside tackle traps strongside defensive guard; centre and guard move weakside guard, and key back (No. 4) breaks to the right across the line of scrimmage, with two men down field for final block offs. This fake pass and run up the middle is very useful as check play if your team is essentially a passing team.

Record Number of Disasters Reported by Red Cross for Year

The American Red Cross gave emergency relief and rehabilitation aid to 130,000 sufferers of 157 disasters in the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30, according to a report submitted by DeWitt Smith, newly appointed director of the Red Cross disaster relief service.

Mr. Smith said the number of disaster operations exceeded that of any previous year, with cloudbursts, epidemics, fires, windstorms, snowslides, and other catastrophes striking in 43 states and the territory of Alaska. Red Cross disaster relief expenditures totaled $2,276,109 for the year.

"Since its founding in 1881 the Red Cross has aided victims of 2,495 disasters here and abroad, expending $143,000,000 for rescue, food, clothing, shelter, medical and nursing aid and the permanent rehabilitation of families unable to re-establish themselves," Mr. Smith said.

W. J. Wimpee, big 155 pound Senior end is expected to be one of the mainstays in the Baylor forward wall Saturday when the Bears go up against Texas A. and M. in College Station in their second conference game of the season.

Both the Bruins and Aggies are undefeated in loop play so far this year and the winner of this contest will be a step nearer the conference crown. The A. and M. eleven handed T. C. U. a 20 to 6 setback last week end, while the Baylor team was falling before Nebraska by a 20 to 0 count.

The Washington state flag was officially adopted March 5, 1923.

DON'T GIVE A COLD AN EVEN BREAK!

DURING the common cold months, or winter season, it is especially important to take every precaution to protect your health. Quick changes of temperature should be avoided. Sudden changes of temperature, such as occur when going from a warm room into a cold one, make it easy for you to "catch cold." Don't give a common cold an even break.

Prevention is the best remedy. However, if you should catch cold, consult your family doctor before it has an opportunity to undermine your health.

For your health's sake, and to obtain the greatest value from the fuel you use, heat your entire house and provide adequate ventilation during the short winter season.
