Central Texas Conference Ended Sunday; Appointments Made

Additional NYA Funds Given

Aubrey Williams, NYA Administrator, advised State Youth Administrator J. C. Kellam Friday that Texas had been allotted an additional $25,000 for use in the National Youth Administration's school aid program.

The allotment was made for the benefit of schools located in drouth areas, Administrator Kellam explained. He said the additional funds will be distributed at once.

"With this new allotment the total number of secondary institutions participating in NYA's school aid program will reach 2500 within the next two weeks and the number of needy students aided will total approximately 20,000", Mr. Kellam declared.

He added that in addition to secondary schools, 84 Texas colleges and universities are included in NYA's student aid program with job quotas enabling them to offer assistance to some 10,000 college and graduate students this year through part time employments.

Frances McCoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. McCoy of Gatesville, has been appointed by President Umphrey Lee of Southern Methodist University as a member of a committee to arrange for Religious Emphasis Week to be observed on the campus Nov. 18-24.

Purposes of the week are to consider the meaning and relevancy of the Christian religion for the world today; to present a challenge of the Christian interpretation of life to the student body and faculty of the University and to secure the thoughtful allegiance of the University family to the Christian way of life.

Open Letter To Deers and Ducks

Dear Deers and Ducks:

Have your fun before Wednesday! After then, you might as well make up your minds to come in and either get in Howard Compton's, Ed Flentge's, Bythel Cooper's, L. B. Brown's, Happy Holcomb's, Charlie Liljeblad's, the Ashby boys', the Ray's or somebody else's trophy room, because, it'll save you a lot of trouble.

For the Deers, especially, just walk up Main street, from either the east or west, and go on down to the Ice Plant, where Mr. Routh will keep you cool. It'll save time, trouble and dollars.

To the Ducks, you'd better wabble than fly, cause these, or some other hunters are after you.

It's not all confined to the rougher sex—there's Mrs. Bythel Cooper, Mrs. Dawson Cooper, Mrs. Ed Flentge and others who pull a mean trigger.

The Armistice is all off on Deer and Ducks after Tuesday, and L. B. Brown, Earl Heath, and Jim Ed Pruner leave today for Banderia county where L. B. says they're going to make camp and "get ready" for the Blitzkrieg.

Ain't it nice to be hunting animals in the old U. S. A. instead of hunting men, like they're doing in Europe and Asia, and too, they make such nicer trophies, and the eating is a lot better, that is, unless you're a cannibal. So far, we haven't heard of any cannibals among the Nazis, French, English, Japs, Chinks, or Reds.

Native Coryell Countian Dies

Alex Grimes Armstrong, 70, a native of Coryell City, died at his home in Crawford Sunday. Funeral services were held at Crawford Presbyterian church at 2 p. m. Monday, the body lying in state at the church from 1 p. m. until the time of the services. The Rev. Arthur Loper of Gatesville, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Daley, pastor of the Crawford Methodist Church, conducted the services. Burial was in the Crawford cemetery.

Mr. Armstrong was a member of a pioneer central Texas family and settled in Crawford in 1882. He served as deputy United States Marshal for many years during the republican administration. He was postmaster at Pecos, Ranger and Crawford, and at the time of his death, was justice of the peace for precinct seven in McLennan County.

Surviving are his widow; a daughter, Mrs. T. E. Roberts of Waco; a son, A. M. (Jack) Armstrong of Sweetwater; six grandchildren; and one great grandson.

Lonnie R. Briggs, instructor in Abilene High School, was a guest of friends in this city the past week end.

Miss Julia Ann Melbern and Miss Loraine Thomas witnessed the A. & M.-SMU football game at College Station last Saturday.

Hamilton Boys in Wreck Near Here

Morris Busby and two other boys from Hamilton narrowly escaped serious injuries when the car in which they were riding skidded and overturned about two miles north of Gatesville last Friday night. They were returning to their home after witnessing the football game in this city.

Mr. Busby was the only one of the three who received injuries. His shoulder was bruised and his ears were badly cut. He received medical treatment at the local hospital, and returned to his home Saturday morning.

REV. S. L. CULWELL RETURNS TO THIS CITY FOR 2ND YEAR

A memorable session of the Central Texas Methodist Conference ended Sunday afternoon at the First Methodist Church in Fort Worth immediately after Bishop Ivan Lee Holt read the appointments of the 250 pastors to the various churches for the next year.

The conference, which opened last Wednesday, witnessed the union of branches of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church in this area which henceforth will be designated as the Central Texas Conference of the Methodist Church.

A precedent as old as the Southern Methodist branch of the church was broken when the conference voted overwhelmingly to hold all of its future annual sessions in the First Church of Fort Worth. Previously the conference had moved from city to city upon invitation and by vote of delegates.

The conference increased from nine to ten the number of districts within its confines. This was accomplished by re-establishing the Gatesville District, which had been absorbed in 1937 into the Waco district for reasons of economy.

Rev. D. K. Porter, pastor of the church at Coleman for the past three years, was made superintendent of the new district.

Before reading the appointments Bishop Holt told his audience that comparatively speaking, that few

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Slay spent the week end in Rosebud.

Mrs. Joe Wyatt of Dallas was a week end guest of her mother, Mrs. Homer Wilson.

S. L. Smith of Anna, Texas visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwarz recently.

Claude Jones of Neff Park was a business visitor in Gatesville Monday.

After you have saved that two minutes, what are you going to do with it? asks the Texas Safety Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prewitt visited in the J. M. Prewitt home over the week end.

Tallie Yongue of Brownwood spent the week end here with relatives and friends here.

Sterling Edwards of Hillsboro spent the week end in this city with relatives.

Mrs. Johnnie Davies of Houston is visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Coskrey. Mrs. Davies is the former Miss Zoma Doyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin McCreary and daughter, Raye Virginia, of Temple were Gatesville visitors Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burl McGilvray, Miss Truie Pearl McGilvray of Dallas, and Miss Elizabeth McGilvray of Texas City were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McGilvray, over the week end.

Jack Mayberry from Austin was here over the week end for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mayberry, at the State Training School and other relatives and friends. He is attending a business college in that city.

changes had been made in pastoral assignments for the entire conference, because of the trying period ahead under the new church setup.

In the list of appointments for the Gatesville District which follows, the figures in parenthesis after some of the names indicate the number of years to which that pastor has been assigned to that church.

Roy Chamlee, local chicken raiser, visited the "Heart of Texas Poultry Show" at Waco last Sunday which he reports as one of the largest of the annual Central Texas exhibits. It is easy to account for the broad grin being worn by Mr. Chamlee; his old cock bird won third prize and he also won fifth and seventh in the cockerels. There were 64 Rhode Islands entered in the competition.

NATIONAL COTTON COUNCIL

As champion of the sorely beset American cotton industry, the National Cotton Council has set for itself a comprehensive program and certain laudable objectives which deserve the support of every grower, processor, transporter and merchant who handles the South's principle agricultural product. Under leadership of able, hard-hitting Oscar Johnston, a recognized leader in the American cotton industry, the council should succeed, at least in part, in reating new markets for a commodity which is suffering gravely from domestic and foreign competition. The long period of comparative lethargy on the part of the cotton interests at last yields to a concentrated attack in which the farmer, ginner, cotton mill executive, warehouseman and exporter resent a common front.

Texas, as the nation's leading cotton-producing state, stands to gain immeasurably from any improvement in the cotton situation. Texas became the great supplier of British and Continental textile mills, to say nothing of Japan in later years. Any state which has had to export annually 90 percent of all the cotton it grows is in a highly vulnerable position. With one half these markets probably permanently lost, there must come prompt relief in the form of increased uses of Texas cotton at home. The National Cotton Council has a program designed to increase cotton consumption in various ways, some of which should be immediately workable.

With the appointment as Texas executive secretary of B. A. Stufflebeme, well know in cotton circles, the National Cotton Council has an opportunity to lend practical aid to the whole cotton industry. By helping to remove the vast Texas cotton surplus accumulated in the last seven years, it can substantially aid the entire South and thus justify the generous support it is receiving from cotton interests in general. —Dallas Morning News.

It's Marlin, this Friday night, the next to the last for the season, and should be the Hornets by about 2 or three touchdowns.

After their win in the mud last Friday night, the Hornets have played in just about every condition.

Here's the percentages for Class A, since Friday.

| Team | P | W | L | Pct |
|------------|---|----|----|------|
| McGregor | 5 | 5 | 0 | 1000 |
| Gatesville | 5 | 3 | 2 | .600 |
| Mart | 6 | 3 | 3 | .500 |
| V. Mills | 7 | 5 | 2 | .701 |
| Itasca | 6 | 4 | 2 | .666 |
| Marlin | 5 | 1½ | 3½ | .300 |
| Clifton | 7 | 1½ | 5½ | .201 |
| West | 5 | 0 | 5 | .000 |

With a win this Friday night, the Hornets have a chance to pick up their percentage to .801 but are likely to end the season with a figure reading about .507, that is, if they drop to McGregor on Thanksgiving (?). Dope so far this season, looks like it'll be too bad when the McGregor Bulldogs and the Gatesville Hornets meet, but, "whistling in the dark" this game the greatest of both teams seasons, is the same to the towns as the Texas-A. and M. scrap, and anything's likely to happen. Where there's Life, there's Hope! Something could happen, and might.

Looks like the six-man league, the boys might just as well call the dogs off, and pass the trophy to the Cove. They haven't been scarred this season. Here's the standing now.

|---------|---|----|----|------|
| C. Cove | 7 | 7 | 0 | 1000 |
| Ireland | 7 | 3½ | 3½ | .500 |
| T'ville | 5 | 4 | 1 | .800 |
| Pearl | 6 | 1½ | 4½ | .205 |
| Flat | 6 | 0 | 6 | .000 |
| Oglesby | 7 | 4½ | 3½ | .705 |

It looks like a dog fight for second high in this league with Turnersville, Ireland and Oglesby. Turnersville however has not played as many games as the others, and since they were not scheduled for the opening day, they may not play the last ones.

With the Cove so far out in front, and before the anti-climax of the 6-man business starts, would not it be well to have a bi-district game scheduled here. We imagine the Butter Bowl would be available, if the game could be arranged.

Since the SW conference is on the "downhill" run, the schedule for this week end, conference tussels are: SMU-Ark. Rice-A&M; TCU-Texas. The Bears have a "cripple" in Centenary which has not won one yet. We'd send the scrubs over for this game and let the regulars rest, win, lose, or draw.

Motorists would profit if they would use the old railroad expression "Stop, Look and Listen" at all intersections.

THE ASSASSINATION PLOT AGAINST HITLER

The attempt to assassinate Reichfuehrer Adolf Hitler in the Munich beer cellar where the National Socialist movement was launched in 1923 is potically significant in view of the changes it is likely to bring about in the war policy of the Nazis.

To the Nazi leaders, the attempt proves an excuse for inaugurating a relentless war on land, sea and in the air against the allies and particularly against Great Britain. For Berlin propagandists were quick to charge that Prime Minister Chamberlain was personally responsible for the abortive assassination plot.

It has been apparent for some weeks that both the Germans and the allies were reluctant to bear the onus for launching large-scale air attacks against military objectives, many of which are located in both countries in the centers of large civilian populations.

Whatever the source of the Munich plot, the Nazis are now provided in the eyes of the German people with an excuse for striking at Britain with all the power at their command.

"The British attempted to kill our beloved Fuehrer," the Germans will be told. "Therefore, they must be answered in the only way possible—with guns."

Military observers concede that Germany is in more imperative need of decisive victories than the allies, from the standpoints of maintaining the morale on the home front, of seeking a decision while the Nazi air force is still superior in numbers to the allied air arm, and of bringing an early end to the drain on her meager resources.

With this consideration in mind, it seems more likely that the allied counter-charge that the assassination plot was planned and engineered by German officials, with the knowledge and approval of Hitler, to inflame public opinion at home, is more plausible than the Berlin statement that the British were responsible.

Of course, the true story of the assassination attempt may never be told, just as the facts surrounding the strange burning of the Reichstag building in Berlin have never been ascertained. No one of certain contingencies can be ruled out as entirely false, however, in the present case.

For example, it is possible that the British did inspire the plot in collaboration with disaffected elements within Germany. The British maintain they are fighting an incalculably costly war not against Germany but against the German fuehrer. What would be more logical, then, than that they should attempt to terminate the struggle by disposing of the one man who stands between war and peace for them?

Another cintingency which must be considered is that members of one of the minority parties or persecuted elements in Germany attempted the assassination. although there is not as much opposition to Hitler within the Reich as the British would have us believe, there are dissatisfied and disgruntled elements—remnants of the republican parties, victims of purges or maltreatment at the hands of storm troopers or Nazi officials, Jews, clericals and sincere and conscientious Germans who oppose the war and realize that Germany is the aggressor.

But in considering these two possibilities, this salient fact must be borne in mind: it would have been virtually impossible for any alien or non-Nazi to gain entrance into the Munich beer cellar and to have planted the time bomb which exploded only a few minutes after the departure of Hitler.

Hitler is the most closely guarded ruler in the world today. When he is to make an address in any city in Germany, officials of the Gestapo or political police invade that city several weeks in advance of the arrival of the Fuehrer, ar resting suspicious persons and even prohibiting the arrival of relatives or friends of citizens of the city for the duration of Hitler's stay.

Therefore, it may safely concluded, we feel, that the bomb intended for Hitler was (1) put there by Nazis for the purpose of assassinating the Fuehrer, or (2) put there as a prearranged plan by Hitler and other Nazi leaders to provoke the German people to wrath against the British.

That the latter contingency is not outside the realm of crudity may be inferred from the fact that the Nazis, on the basis of facts available at present, burned the German Reichstag, blaming the act on the Communists and using the fire as a pretext for consolidating the power of Hitler and for destroying the Communist Party in Germany. The facts of this occurrence were never fully ascertained or substantiated but foreign circles were in general agreement that the Nazis were responsible for the fire and later events served to support this belief.

If it is true that the Nazis plan to use the assassination attempt as a pretext for launching a devastating war against the British and probably the French, the world will see within the next few weeks death and destruction on a scale which will make the World War look like an alley brawl between high school boys.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was some folks out in Oklahoma that got them a big oil well, and they didn't know what to do with all their dough, so they hired a smart fellow to look up their ancestors.

"Spend all the expense dough you like," says the oil man to the college prof that he hired. And go to the old country and look through all the cemeteries and everything. Then when you get a book full of stuff, I'll pay you extra for getting it printed, and I'll send copies to all the editors in the country."

So the professor went away for a year, and when he came back, the oil guy says:

"Well, here's the rest of your wages, and you turn in your expense account for the last month and we'll look after it. And now how much do you want about the book?"

"Oh, it'll take about a hundred thousand."

"That's a lot of dough, ain't it? I never thought it'd cost that much to get this stuff published."

"'Twouldn't. This is to keep it from being published. And when I show you the stuff I've dug up on your ancestors, you'll think a hundred thousand is mighty cheap."

WOMAN'S PLACE

You hear a lot—from men!—about woman's place, but the consensus of opinion is that her place is just about anywhere she elects to make it. . . . We know, for example, that throughout the United States she drives automobiles many hundreds of thousands of miles per year, and that she spends literally millions of dollars annually for motor fuels, motor oils and automobile maintenance. . . . So, quite naturally, we make a special point of pleasing the ladies; we do everything we can to make driving an automobile pleasant and comfortable for them. . . . This service is so well organized with conveniently located, completely equipped, capably staffed, clean Humble Service Stations, that many Texas women have shifted the entire care of their cars to Humble's shoulders; the nearest Humble Service Stations remind them when their cars need lubrication, when oil needs changing, when batteries should be refilled. As a result, their cars run right and look good. . . . So can yours—if you, too, will shift the care of your car to Humble's shoulders. Begin today—stop for service at the nearest Humble sign!

The ALEXANDER KORDA'S FIRST MUSICAL PRODUCTION

GAIETY GIRLS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

When Rene Martin's chauffeur splashes Jeanette Dupont, on her way to a rehearsal at the Theatre Comique, he gives her a lift to make amends. The car suffers a minor collision, but Jeanette takes a cab to her destination to escape delay. She is berated for being late and walks off the stage in a huff. Later Thibaud, promoter of the show, is denounced by creditors in front of his backer who walks out. The chauffeur comes to the theatre in search of Jeanette, and chorus girls learn who the owner of his car is. Everybody is sure that Rene Martin and Dupont are conducting a love affair. Especially Thibaud who says, "Find her! Bring her back! Martin's a billionaire. We're saved!"

Chapter Two

There was a trying half-hour in Thibaud's office as he charged from one room to another in search of Jeanette Dupont's address. Nobody had thought of her as anything but a chorus girl, nobody expected her to return and nobody knew where she was. Then suddenly Jeanette Dupont stood in the door, as if in answer to Thibaud's prayer.

hundred francs," Jeanette protested.

"Nonsense! What do you think of this? Accept it. And this . . . and this."

When Bernard had gone, there was only Miki who surveyed Jeanette with an amused look.

"Everybody's gone mad," Jeanette appealed to her friend. "I've been given a contract, and now Bernard."

"And you can't understand why?"

"No."

"I suppose the name of Rene Martin means nothing to you?" Then at the look of surprise in Jeanette's eyes, Miki suddenly cried out. "Jeanette, you don't mean to say you don't know Rene Martin."

"I certainly don't."

Miki had begun to shriek with laughter. Between gasps she blurted the story out. Jeanette was furious, helpless. She was determined to expose the whole mockery.

Miki took a more rational view. "Listen," she reasoned. "You've been telling me that if you only got the chance you could become a star. Well, here's your chance. If you believe in yourself, you'll go ahead and be a success, no matter how you arrive at it. And if you let this chance go, you may never get another one."

It was that last sentence that silenced Jeanette's protests.

Rene Martin's sparkling, well-

"I think you've got something. I'm going to make you the star!"

"Clear out, you two," he ordered Clarence and his secretary.

"I've come back to apologize," Jeanette began. "I'm afraid I lost my temper."

"And why shouldn't you? I like a girl with spirit."

"Well, will you forgive me and take me back?" Jeanette asked eagerly. "I know it's a lot to ask after I was so rude, but I'll be willing to do anything. I can sing. And I can really dance. Look!" She threw her coat over a chair and started a difficult routine.

Thibaud took advantage of her preoccupation to sneak out of the room and rummage about in the filing cabinet for a contract form. He returned to find her breathlessly ending her steps.

"Come and sign here," he spoke.

"What?"

"Come and sign your contract. I'm going to give you a part."

She approached the table with unbelieving fascination. "A what?"

"I'm going to take a chance. I think you've got something. I'm going to make you the star!"

Things never seemed more to Jeanette after that. As she left the rehearsal, she was not surprised to discover an affable young man, pushing his way energetically to her side. He showed her a catalog of expensive automobiles. "Which of these two do you like?"

"Oh, I like them both," she answered and he tipped his hat and hurried off.

Jeanette tried to puzzle out the reason for the sudden, giddy reversal of all the things in her life. The apartment was in luxurious disorder. Madame Bernard was presiding over boxes of the most beautiful things. "Oh, my dear," she began. "I've brought such a naughty girl, and I brought a few things for you to look at."

"But I already owe you three-conducted brokerage offices were a hive of well-conducted business. He had surrounded himself with faithful retainers who might have been a little too prim or austere for ordinary taste, but who knew how to run the business. They thought that Martin, angular and long-jawed, was efficient and incisive, but that a twinkle of humor in his eye made him unlike themselves.

That was why there were almost audible clucks of horror as bills marked "For Miss Dupont" began to find their way to his desk. "What are these?" Martin asked Marcel, who wore a gates-of-heaven collar and had a face like a faithful mastiff.

"I don't know, sir."

"One dozen stockings, one satin negligee. . . ." Martin read. "Why are you looking at me like that? You don't suppose? . . ."

"Oh, no, Mr. Martin, there must be some mistake. I know you couldn't. . . ."

"What do you mean I couldn't?"

"I mean wouldn't," Marcel answered in confusion.

Martin resumed his way through the bills. "There you go, looking at me in that way again. I tell you I never even heard of the girl."

"Well, if I were you sir, I should put it in the hands of the police."

"And get involved in a scandal. No, no, this matter must be handled with delicacy. After all, this might be a joke. Get me Miss Jeanette Dupont at the Theatre Comique."

Martin spoke into the connecting phone. "Hello, I would like to speak to Miss Jeanette Dupont. She won't be there until tomorrow?"

"Let me get in touch with her for you," pleaded Marcel.

"Don't be silly," Martin retorted with a slight show of temper. "I must handle this myself!"

Copperas Cove Downs "Irish" to Win Crucial Contest 19-6

By WILSON BRAZZIL
News Sports Writer

Friday afternoon, as a dreaching rain turned the Ireland football field into a quagmire, a water-soaked crowd of interested spectators saw a classy six-man football team from Copperas Cove "out-mud" the fighting Irish of Ireland and win their seventh straight game of the season by a score of 19 to 6.

Copperas Cove scored in the first few minutes of the game by driving hard around right end and gaining ground on almost every play. A pass, Faubian to Miller was complete over the goal line to start the Cove boys on the road to victory. Adams' kick for the extra points was unsuccessful.

Edwards, brilliant Irish end, was greatly handicapped by the slippery field and was constantly shadowed by the Copperas Cove guards. Pearson and Squires broke through on several occasions but were usually smothered before they advanced to the danger zone.

Faubian and Mathias, the two man combination that we've heard so much about, played a wonderful game for the Cove lads, and Adams and Miller played equally as well. From his center slot, the long rangy Adams performed like a veteran and was the outstanding player on the field, figuring in almost every play during the game.

Red Miller, a speedy Copperas Cove gridster, who says nothing and does plenty is credited with the first touchdown by snaring a slippery, bullet-like pass from Faubian. Leonhard, also turned in a sensational game for the visitors.

Ireland's touchdown was made on a beautiful pass, Pearson to Squires who did a bit of fancy broken-field running to elude the Copperas Cove tackles and cross over pay dirt. On a dry field the out come of this game might have been different, however, Copperas Cove evidently would have defeated the Irish, under any circumstances.

Mathias lead the scoring attack for Copperas with two touchdowns to his credit and Miller and Leonhard followed closely with one each. Squires scored for the Irish.

Despite the muddy condition of the field and the wet ball this game was practically void of fumbles, both teams handling the old pigskin with a skill that was almost uncanny.

Although the six-man football season is not over, Copperas Cove practically have the trophy in the bag. Seven times they have marched out on the gridiron and seven times they have emerged victorious. In piling up this splendid record the winners owe a lot to their coaches, MacDaniel and Cullwell who have stood at the helm of this fine team and are largely responsible for the excellent showing this team has made. We also pass posies to Coach Sivells who commands a fine ball team and to the team itself, which is composed of real guys who can give and take with them best of them.

Oglesby Swamps Pearl, 34-6, Fri.

Another "mud-eating" contest took place at Pearl, Friday when the Oglesby Tigers trimmed the Pearl Dragons to the tune of 34 to 6.

This game, like most of the others played this week end, took place in a steady downpour of rain that turned the Pearl field into a regular "Mud-Bowl".

For the Tigers, Griffin and Mc-

Kelvain scored two touchdowns each which Jack Clearman carried the mail on one occasion. Terry and Etheridge are reported to have accounted for the extra points.

A long pass, Dumas to Moseley, a couple of Pearl stars is said to have netted the Dragon's score.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

FOOTBALL PICTURES

Striking football shots are easy at practice sessions—real action, if you have a fast shutter; posed action with slower cameras. Make a collection this season!

THERE'S drama for your camera in this season's football activities—and, strangely enough, some of the finest, most striking football action pictures are the easiest to take.

Naturally, you'll take your camera to the games, so as to get a record of what happened. But for really dramatic shots, the place to go is the practice sessions, where you'll be more free to move about, and can get closer to the players.

If you have a fine camera with fast lens and speedy shutter, of course you can shoot genuine rapid action—such as in the picture above. That leap would call for a shutter speed of at least 1/200 second—if you caught the player at the peak—and preferably 1/400 or 1/500, to be really on the safe side.

But, even if your shutter is too slow for such shooting, don't feel handicapped. In leisure moments during practice, or after the session, most players will be glad to pose for you as if in action. And action poses can be surprisingly realistic.

Here are two hints. First, keep the camera near the ground, tilted slightly upward. This low position makes the figures tower dramatically—and also yields a good sky background. Second, use a color filter if you possibly can. A medium yellow filter will be best—it gives good tone quality to the sky, brings out whatever clouds there are, and the exposure increase required is very slight.

See if you can't build up a good album of striking football shots this season. Gridiron shooting makes a splendid camera specialty—and the pictures are distinctly out of the "routine snapshot" class.

Though information is rather meager concerning the Evant-State game played on the State Juvenile School's gridiron Saturday afternoon, the State team coached by Rabon Balch is reported to have won by a score of 30 to 7.

The Evant Elks who have made an excellent showing this season just couldn't get going in the mud and couldn't stop their opponents who marched back and forth between the uprights to soundly outplay the Elks and cop the contest.

Hornets "Out-Mud" Bulldogs to Win Annual Battle 12-7

By WILSON BRAZZIL
News Sports Writer

"Here's mud in ye eye," was the battle cry of Coach Worley's GHS Hornets Friday night, as they slipped and slid hither and yon over the Butter Bowl to defeat their annual Armistice day rivals, the Hamilton Bulldogs by a score of 12 to 7.

This was a game that had been looked forward to with much anticipation by both teams, the rivalry having started some 20 years ago when the two teams clashed in an Armistice "free for all."

Since then, it has been the fondest hope of each team to defeat the other and get possession of a huge battered cowbell that is the symbol of victory in this annual contest. The winner gets to keep the bell until they are defeated.

For the Hornets, we'll pick Jones as the outstanding player on the field who played one of the best games of his career for the black and gold. On more than one occasion, while being heavily rushed by the crimson line, he would plant his toe in the old water soaked pigskin and send it zooming far down the field and out of the danger zone.

Outside of several bad fumbles, probably due to a wet ball, Little Jack Jackson and Bob Foster played a good game, slashing away on long end runs, that paved the way for several Hornet touchdowns.

On the line, White, Ward and Wittie, a triple W combination played a jam-up game and proved to be a brick wall to the pig-packing Thompson who was forced to take to the air in an effort to score. Only a few times did the Hornet line look ragged and yeild to the Bulldog's rushing attack.

Thompson from his fullback position played a brilliant game for the visitors and was ably assisted by Davis, Fuqua and Stamp who repeatedly bucked the Hornet line and crashed through for several substantial gains. It was Davis who carried the ball for Hamilton on a long left end run that netted the touchdown and a perfect kick from Adams that converted the extra point.

A break at this stage of the game in Hamilton's favor, would have probably spelled defeat for the Hornet team.

Both teams played a square game, minus the usual ear-pulling and eye gouging that heretofore has come to pass in many of these Hornet-Bulldog battles.

Now for the play by play:

Methodists Review
Activities in U. S.

Borrowing their idea from Congressional committee hearings, Methodist women throughout the United States on Tuesday (November 14) will sit in on an examination of the activities and accomplishments of their church in the fields of social welfare, and missionary work.

The hearing, a united endeavor on the part of Methodist women meeting simultaneously in some 2,000 local churches is a part of Fellowship Week, one of Methodism's annual observances. The week, designed to emphasize the story of the church's world-wide service, is sponsored by the Million Unit Fellowship Movement which was organized to stimulate spiritual life in the church and to provide a better financial underwriting for its missions and benevolences.

Planned by the women's department of the fellowship movement, the hearing will be the women's third annual "safari", or journey of exploration into the activities of the church's eight world service commissions, Mrs. J. M. Ayann head of the women's department, outlined the program plan for the united meeting, which will be carried out in each church by local women leaders.

Representatives of each commission will be summoned to appear before the local committee. They are the American Bible Society, the Board of Hospitals, Homes and Deaconess Work; the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals; the Board of Pensions and Relief, the Board of Education, the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, the Commission on World Peace, and the Board of Foreign Missions.

On the witness stand, each representative will explain the work of his commission and will answer questions, both from the committee and from the audience. Final witness in the hearing will be the "World Service Dollar," which will describe exactly how each part of each dollar contributed is used to extend Methodism's world service.

The hearing will be all-day sessions and, at the luncheon recess, a special message to Methodist women from Miss Georgia Harkness, professor at Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Illinois, will be read.
