EVANT BOY ELECTED PRESIDENT STUDENT COUNCIL, S.W.S.T.C.

Brents Broyles of Evant, a student at Southwest State Teachers College, San Marcos, was elected president of the Student Council recently. He was elected as a "dark horse."

Broyles' name was not on the ballot, but when the votes were counted, it was found that he had over 200 more votes than his other two opponents, and 70 votes failed to be counted because his name did not appear on the ballot.

"Gib Stoop" Broyles, as he is called by his classmates, was aided in his campaign by the Coryell County Club, the membership of which is made up of students from this county.

He is to be congratulated on his winning this honor for this is the first time anyone from this part of the State has been elected to the office. Usually students from the south and southwestern part of Texas are awarded the honor.

C. H. Hagan Jr. Killed In Crash at Waco

Charles Howard Hagan Jr., age 17, died Sunday at 2:45 p. m. in a Waco hospital from injuries received when the motorcycle he was riding was in collision with an automobile driven by A. W. Bailey of Waco at an intersection in that city early Saturday morning.

The youth never regained consciousness after being taken to the hospital. Doctors said his death was caused by brain hemorrhages resulting from internal injuries. His condition was such that complete examination could not be made.

Funeral services were held from Compton's chapel in Waco at 2 p. m. Monday with burial in Gatesville cemetery, Dr. J. M. Dawson conducting.

Surviving are his father, C. H. Hagan Sr., of Waco; two brothers, Tommie and Bud Hagan of Waco; and one sister, Miss Nadine Hagan of Waco. He also has relatives residing in this city, where he was born and lived until several years ago.

James Weaver, who attends TWC in Fort Worth, was home the past week end for a visit with his parents at Ames and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jones of Temple were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jones Sr., Sunday.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE JOHN H. SHARP SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Associate Justice John H. Sharp, whose first term in the Supreme Court of Texas expires this year, will be a candidate for re-election this summer, he stated recently.

Judge Sharp was a "country lawyer" in Ellis County before his appointment to the Commission of Appeals in 1929. He was elected to the high court in 1934.

He is widely known as a Judge who has actively and consistently advocated every practical measure looking to the simplification of both trial and appellate procedure in the interest of promoting substantial justice and preventing reversals on merely technical and unsubstantial grounds.

For the purpose of effecting these ends, he is working in close contact with the committee preparing new rules for practice and procedure for submission to the Legislature in 1941.

Judge Sharp was born on a farm in Robertson County, and went from the public schools there to Southwestern University at Georgetown, where he graduated.

Upon receiving his law license, he moved to Ennis, and practiced there until his appointment to the Commission of Appeals of the Supreme Court. His only public office prior to that was as chairman of the Board of School Trustees at Ennis, and Mayor of that City.

All three occupants of the trailer were badly bruised but their injuries were not thought to be serious. Cleo Whaley of Mound was the most seriously injured, receiving severe lacerations on the right side of his face.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR CRASH VICTIM, SATURDAY

The accident occurred when a truck which Howard was towing behind another, got crosswise in the road overturning the front truck. Another occupant of the truck was seriously injured and not expected to survive.

Mrs. W. T. Newberry of Waco spent Friday and Saturday with her mother, Mrs. E. J. Brooks, in this city.

"QUIZATORIAL" PRESENTED BY THE HOSPITAL COMMITTEES: ANSWERS TOO

Q. Do they have County hospitals in any other counties in Texas?

A. Yes, there are county hospitals in more than a dozen counties of our size and wealth.

Q. Are they self supporting?

A. No. They have a fund to help pay expenses just like the Five Cents on the Hundred Dollars we are to vote on.

Q. Do the people in these dozen or more counties like the plan?

A. The universal answers from every one of them is that they would not think of doing without it.

Why the apparent sudden need for a hospital in Coryell County?

A. The need is not sudden; it has existed all the time, but be it said to the lack of interest of Coryell County, our indigent patients have been a great burden on the hospitals especially of Waco, Temple and other towns. We have not been fair to them. The need is more apparent because these hospitals are not going to stand for our lack of interest any longer, and you or me, my child or your

MOTHER NEFF PARK "DRESSES UP" FOR MOTHER'S DAY FETE

A crew of ten men have been busily engaged at Mother Neff Park the past few weeks preparing for the huge crowd that is expected to jam this scenic spot on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 12th.

A special program has been arranged with Governor W. Lee O'Daniel as the feature attraction.

PEARL SINGING CONVENTION DRAWS WIDE VARIETY OF SINGERS

The Coryell County Singing Convention was held at Pearl last Sunday, May 5th and a huge crowd attended.

Many out-of-the-county quartets, special groups and song leaders took part on the program. The next meeting place of the convention was not reported.

Folders disseminating information concerning the proposed Coryell County Hospital are being distributed thruout the county this week, according to L. S. Secrest and Dr. T. M. Hall, members of the publicity committee. Efforts have been made to put into these folders all that is involved in the bond issue to be voted upon this month.

A history of the recent movement for a hospital in the county, down to the organization of the Citizens' Committee and the circulating of the petition for the election is included in the folders. The election as called by the Commissioners' Court will be held Saturday, May 25th.

"There are two things for which we are anxious," said Dr. Hall yesterday morning. "One is that every qualified voter will vote in this election. The other is that no voter will cast his ballot until he understands fully the provisions and proposals. These folders are designed to aid the voters in understanding the issues."

Efforts are being made to have these bits of information widely distributed. In case someone is missed, he may get as many copies as he needs by writing either Dr. Hall, Mr. Secrest, or one of the following: Troy Jones, John Reising, Edward S. Bayless.

Turnersville Holds Annual May Fete

Wednesday night, May 1, Turnersville Rural schools held their Second Annual May Fete. There were between 75 and 100 students who represented their respective classes and grades.

Frank Bates as King and Miss Geneva Wright as Queen reigned over the court. Laverne Blackwell was the Prince and Miss Mozelle Brown was the Princess.

Father Time was Virgel Brasher; Herald, Grace Whitely; Jesters, Sewell Walker and R. F. Humes. The royal attendants, clowns, flower girls, cadets, a minuet group, and the May Pole girls added much color to the court.

Beautiful music was furnished by the fine Gatesville Band and was appreciated by approximately 800 people from all over the northern part of Coryell County.

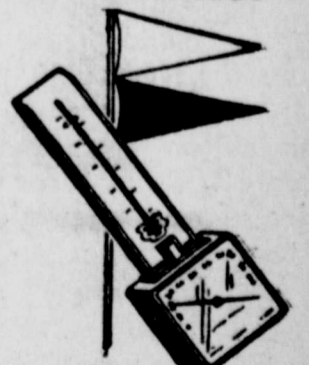

Much credit goes to the sponsor and school teachers for their worthy efforts in "putting it over" in such grand style.

"Smokey" Cantrell Performs at Pidcoke

"Smokey" Cantrell "Wizard of the Magic Wand" and slight of hand artist delux entertained Pidcoke folks last Friday night with a jam-up mystery show.

Cantrell, a former Coryell county boy, is a Linotype operator by trade but he has created quite a sensation in various sections of the state where he has made various appearances as a magician. A very appreciative audience witnessed the exhibition.

Brunettes led this year for the second straight time in the beauty selection at Texas State College for Women, where not a single blonde girl won a beauty page in the college's 1939 yearbook. This year's crop of beauties, presented by Russ Morgan at the annual senior prom in Bralley Memorial Library at TSCW, are five brunettes and one lone blonde.

Chosen from the sixteen class nominees, the brunette beauties are Misses Janice Smith, Denton freshman; Darcas Harrison, sophomore from Tuckerman, Ark.; Mary Elizabeth Cook, Houston senior; Beryl Ann Longino, sophomore from Lufkin, selected at large; and Claire Nusome, Corpus Christi freshman, also chosen at large. The blonde beauty is Miss Gladys DuBose, junior from Belton.

Each of the girls will be featured in a full page picture in the Daedalian yearbook. They were selected by Alexander Hogue, artist; Truman Pouncey, photographer; and Gayle Northe, radio commentator on styles and personalities.

Introduction of the beauties by Morgan, who provided "music in the Morgan manner" for the formal, was the high-point of the prom.

Over 200 senior girls, escorted by boys from all over Texas and neighboring states, attended the dance which is the outstanding social event of the season at TS CW. The six beauties were introduced on an improvised stage at one end of the dance floor and promended the length of the room to their chosen music.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

SUPPOSE nobody ever knows whether telephone service could be made better or not. It's just like the world that way. A lot of guys think they could run the world better than it's being run, but they never will know for sure, because they won't be given a chance. Now, the telephone service is about as good as the world, I reckon. Some say it's good and some say it's bad. I think it's good when they keep the lines open in a hurricane or a tornado or something, and I think it's rotten when I get the wrong number.

So you can always hear somebody razzing the telephone company. I heard one guy that claimed his phone had been out of order a month. Finally he went to the office of the manager, and I don't know how he managed it, but he got in somehow.

"My phone has been out of order a month, and I wrote you two letters about it, and you never done nothing! You never turned a wheel! You jest set here and grin while I don't get nothing for my money but more bills."

"I'll have the records examined in your case."

"But that ain't what I want. I want my telephone to work, and it won't help it any to look up the records."

"But you say we've done nothin'."

"Right."

"Well, here's a folder that shows that is an error. Our office has used all diligence in trying to get service for you. This record shows that we rang you up every day since your phone has quit working and there wasn't any answer. What more could we do?"

Eight Teams Square Off Sunday As News Cup Race Opens

The third consecutive Coryell County News Baseball cup race opened Sunday, May 5th as eight Coryell county teams squared off in the initial games of the season. Large crowds are reported to have attended the games which were played on the Blackfoot, Pidcoke, Coryell City and Jonesboro, diamonds, and competition among the teams this year is sure to reach an all time high.

Probably the closest game of the day was played at Blackfoot, where the Blackfoot Indians came through with a 5-7 conquest of the Mound nine. Lanky Otis McBroom toed the rubber in the opening innings for the Indians and gave up five hit and scored a couple of strikeouts. Barton then took charge of the hurling duties and went the remainder of the game allowing 4 hits and cutting down five Mound batters.

Marion "Scaley" Holcomb, Flat high school pitching ace was in the box for the Mound club and pitched the full nine innings. The lead jumped from one team to the other on several occasions during the game and it was not until the twilight of the game that the Indians started a scoring spree that sent a couple of runners across the plate to cinch the victory.

At Pidcoke "Schoolboy" Rutherford pitched six innings of jam-up ball for the cokers to give the Pidcoke team a head start on the Topsey crew. The final score read Pidcoke 21, Topsey 1. With Pidcoke's smashing victory over the Topsey club they have proved to be one of the top ranking teams in the League and will be plenty hard to take after a few more games. The Topsey team also has some excellent talent and is expected to crash through to victory before the season is very much further advanced.

No reports have been received on the Turnersville-Jonesboro game or the Coryell City-Plainview game but full details will be carried in the sport columns in Friday's issue of the News.

All the eligibility lists have been sent in with the exception of Jonesboro though some of them are not complete and subject to change.

State Wins From Jonesboro Friday

Last Friday afternoon the State Juvenile Training School defeated the Jonesboro High School baseball nine after a twelve inning battle, by a score of 3-2. The teams were tied at the end of the 9th and were forced to play three extra innings before the winner could be determined.

Batteries for the Training School were, Stevens and Ransom and for Jonesboro, Williams and Richards.

The State is scheduled to play the "Irish of Ireland" on the State diamond this afternoon.

Amateur Boxers to Meet at San Antonio

The annual Texas Amateur Athletic federation boxing tournament will again be sponsored by the San Antonio Junior Chamber of Commerce, it has been announced by Mose Simms, athletic director of St. Mary's University which will entertain the fighters.

The matches are to be staged in the spacious gymnasium of the University, May 30, 31, and June 1.

The tournament is open to all amateur boxers in the San Antonio area, stated Simms, and the winners will compete in the state finals at San Angelo, Texas.

Hornets to Play Killeen Thursday

According to the baseball coach of Killeen High school he is bringing his crew of "Killeen Kangaroos" to the State Training School diamond Thursday afternoon where they will engage in a tussle with the Gatesville High School Hornets.

These two teams were scheduled to meet recently but due to an unknown reason the game was postponed. The Hornets will repay the game at Killeen in a few weeks.

Sport News

Any baseball team desiring to play the Gatesville High School Hornets at any of the school picnics should contact Manager Red White of Gatesville immediately. The Hornets have a fine club and could go a long ways toward furnishing entertainment at many of these school "breaks".

The Flat High School Yellow-jackets practically have the high school championship in the bag with only 2 or 3 more scheduled games to play before the closing of the season. They are due to meet the Ireland team this week and though the "Irish" always put a scrappy team on the field whether it be baseball, football, basketball or what, it is not likely that they can stop the Jackets.

It is rumored that the Jackets are planning to play the Baylor cubs soon but no definite plans have been worked out as yet.

R. M. "Bobby" Arnold, one of Coryell County's most ardent sports fans, has consented to act as the "Mountain Landis" of the 1940 Coryell County baseball league. Bobby has served in this capacity for the past three seasons and will be in charge of all major discussions if any concerning the playing rules or schedule should arise.

Levita, a community that has furnished some of the county's best athletes have considered organizing a baseball team but due to the fact that an odd team would bring about a complete change in the schedule which has already been worked out, they have decided not to enter the county race at present. If some team should drop out of the running this team could, and probable will, replace the team that is leaving the league. The players on this club would be taken from Pearl, Levita, and Purmela and would be entered as Purmela.

Jonesboro Downs Turnersville 19-11

Here's another report on a county league baseball game that was played at Jonesboro, Sunday afternoon:

Jonesboro made 19 runs, 14 hits and 5 errors and Turnersville chalked up 11 runs, 7 hits and 6 errors.

Pitchers for Jonesboro were Watson and Watson. Catcher, Drake. McCallister and Weaver did the hurling for the Turnersville lads and Jones was behind the bat. Umpires; Drake and Cude. Final score 19-11, Jonesboro.

According to reports a huge crowd also witnessed this contest. Here's the eligibility list of the Jonesboro club that was also delayed:

ring picture, "The Fighting 69th" will be the next attraction at the Regal Theatre, where it will begin its local engagement on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. In "The Fighting 69th," he shares starring honors with Pat O'Brien and Geo. Brent, with a featured cast including Jeffrey Lynn, Alan Hale, Frank McHugh and dozens of others.

Cagney's name on the star list usually guarantees a good rousing action story, and "The Fighting 69th" is no exception. Cagney is a cocky young buck private in the famed New York regiment and his career in the military training camp is one long series of clashes with authority, as he tries to buck the whole code of military discipline. The burly top sergeant, played by Alan Hale, is his natural enemy, and the encounters between the two of them are in the rough and tumble tradition of "The Cock-Eyed World". United in their attempts to reform the young private are Father Duffy, beloved chaplain of the "Shamrock Regiment," played by Pat O'Brien, and "Wild Bill" Donovan, the colonel, played by George Brent. Both these latter characters are factual, while the roles played by Cagney and Hale are fictional although they undoubtedly had their prototypes in many regiments.

Previewed in Hollywood, "The Fighting 69th" has received raves as the most excitement-packed film entertainment of the year, and many insist that it is Cagney's best role to date, even overshadowing his performance in "The Roaring Twenties". Says Film Daily: "It is an outstanding, distinctive picture, taking rank with the best in screen history."

Besides those mentioned, the cast also includes Dick Foran, Dennis Morgan, Tom Kennedy, William Lundigan and Henry O'Neill. Based on the screen play by Norman Reilly Raine, Fred Niblo, Jr. and Dean Franklin, the film was directed by William Keighley.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

WHO do you reckon has the worst job in the world? I don't know, of course. Most everybody thinks his own job is pretty near as bad as it can get. I suppose even a florist has troubles. But the guy that has the most troubles, I think, is the one that listens to all the complaints at the telephone office, or at the gas company, or at the street car headquarters.

I heard that a lot of complaint-makers held a convention one time, and they all were so depressed by their troubles that they said they didn't expect to find rest, even in heaven. Afterwards they all died. They got together on the other side, and everybody seemed to be getting rested up and pleasant.

"Well," says one of the newcomers, "I'm awful glad to see you guys! And you remember what we used to say about not being happy in heaven? I'm ashamed of myself for saying that, everything's so much better here than it was in our old jobs on earth. Heaven is a lot better than I ever expected to see it."

"Why, you big fish," says one of the oldest inhabitants of the place, "did you think you were in heaven? This is hell!"

Oglesby High School To Stage Annual Play

The Senior Class of the Oglesby High School will present Jay Tobias' "Meet Uncle Sally", a three-act comedy, at the high school gym Friday night, May 10. "Meet Uncle Sally" is a hilarious comedy from the start to the last laugh. The last audience who saw it failed to stop laughing during the intermission, the play was so funny. The plot centers around Ben and Betty Blayne, Hupert Davis and Kathryn Green, whose rich uncle Bill Hawkins, James Ethridge, telegrams that he is coming to visit them and then suddenly changes his mind. The Blaynes invite Miss Dorinda Durant, Willie Magee, to meet the Uncle. When Uncle Bill telegrams he can't come, the Blaynes get their cousin Sally. Searcy Lee Morris, to impersonate him. Here the fun begins. Miss Dorinda falls madly in love with Uncle Bill. The Swedish cook, Kathleen Walker, and the butler, Curtis Casey chase across the stage and back again every few minutes in a comic kitchen feud. What time they are not quarreling, Bob and Elaine Durant, Ralin Johnson and Ruby Rose Powell, are quarreling with the Blaynes. Finally Miss Muggs, Ouida Parish and Miss Kushun, Louise Green, of Ketcham College come to find Sally, who has fallen for young Dr. Snodgrass, Lee Roy Windham. Jack Clearman takes the part of a clergyman. Miss Mary Jane Howard is stage manager and prompter for the play, and the class sponsor, Harold Clayton Bryson, is the director.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN DECORATOR

By
Helen Koues
Director, Good Housekeeping Studio

New Year is the age-old time to make new resolutions. Why not resolve to redecorate your house? Now don't lift your hands in horror and say—"now, with a war on, spend money on redoing a house!" Yes, do it now. Do it right. Do it inexpensively—and here is how. You probably have some sore spot which especially needs attention, or a "pet hate" of a piece of furniture that you long to get rid of, or the upholstery on a sofa and chair is shabby beyond words.

Why not start with any one of these as a point of departure for new decorating? One of the great mistakes people make is, that they think unless they can do a room over entirely, they can do nothing. Quite wrong. It's amazing what a transformation can be made with a few strategic changes. But first, when you are redecorating gradually, it is important that you think out what you want the room to be ultimately, as a whole, and work toward it gradually. In other words, have a complete scheme and stick to it, but be content to get what you want, little by little, as you can afford to do so. Each new thing or improvement will be a help in the room and a "job begun is half done" the old sages tell us.

HELEN KOUES
Director of
Good Housekeeping
Studio

Let's take the case of the shabby sofa and chairs. Have new slip covers made for them, or make them yourself, instead of upholstering them. Two things are involved in choosing the material: type of room and the color scheme. Today, however, with the splendid modern materials on the market, and the trend of modern decorating, which, like the younger generation, is much more independent than the hide-bound rules of even a few years back, it is easy to pick a rough surfaced self-toned fabric, in brown, or blue, or green which will harmonize with your present room as well as your future redecorated room. Sofa and easy chairs, being large surfaces, can well be of plain material and are No. 1 in your plan, with the window draperies of cretonne or of chintz of a gay pattern.

Decide, let us say, that your future room is to have tinted walls—pale blue, rosy cream, pale straw, being smart color trends—paint now if you can; if not, make it No. 2 in your plan, and choose the slip cover fabric in a deep dark tone of the walls. The carpet or rug of the future will come No. 3 or 4 in your plan, depending on whether you need new window draperies or a new rug the most.

If you have a basic color scheme such as blue, or brown, you will always be able to find figured or striped curtain fabric which will have blue with yellow and rose and green in it, to give the gay pattern you will want in the room. The same fundamental rule is true of the rug. You will have no difficulty in finding one with the right colors in it either self-toned, or patterned, or a tone of the color you are using, if you want a solid plain color for your floor.

When you buy your window draperies, you will want to cover at least one easy chair with the same material, so leave the recovering of one chair to the future. Also you can at that time cover sofa pillows with the drapery material to tie-in the sofa and windows and balance the pattern in the room.

Gradually will come the replacement of lamps, pictures and ornaments, which you will always select with the thought of the room you ultimately want to have. There is something you may be able to do right now and that is rearrange your furniture in the style of today, for there is as definite a style in the way furniture is placed in a room, as there is in furniture design, or type of fabrics, or color schemes.

If you have a fireplace here is a suggestion of how to arrange the furniture you now have. If you haven't a fire place, here is another suggestion. Doing this, and slip covering two or three pieces will definitely start your redecorating. Think about the plan and see if you can't work it out. I know one woman who has done it (and that's myself), and it works beautifully. Now, after ten years, I have just gotten something I have waited for and it's as satisfactory as my visions of it. There is nothing like making a start toward something you want to accomplish.

Winter Egg Slump Often Caused By Low Feed Intake

Provide More Light and Encourage Hens to Eat More, Advises Poultry Authority.

"They must eat or they won't lay" may sound like a trite admonition for producing winter eggs. Yet the fact remains that the secret of keeping hens at top production throughout the winter depends very much on getting enough feed into the birds every day, emphasizes C. S. Johnson, manager of the Purina Poultry Department.

"Getting enough feed into the birds actually means increasing the daily feed consumption of each hen," says Johnson. "For as the days get shorter, steps must be taken to step up the actual feed intake so that every bird will be sure of getting all she needs to make eggs and stay in good egg-making condition."

There are some very definite and practical things a poultryman can do to increase feed consumption for more winter eggs, according to Johnson.

Checker Feeding Method

"My first recommendation would be to use a concentrated, compressed feed like Layena Checkers several times a day, right on top of the laying mash—all the Checkers the birds will clean up in 15 minutes at a time. Since Checkers are laying mash and grain in highly concentrated form, Checker feeding is bound to achieve greater feed intake."

"The second step in the winter egg producing plan is to provide a 12 to 13 hour feeding day through the use of electric lights. Obviously the birds must have plenty of light and have it long enough each day to give them sufficient eating time."

ITALY AND THE WAR

Premier Mussolini is playing the game of Nazi-Fascist collaboration to the hilt. Whether for strategic reasons or as a clear indication of Italy's future course, the Fascist press and radio have been attacking the Allies since the invasion of Norway by the gray-clad hordes of the Third Reich.

Fulsome praise of Nazi heroism in Norway, forthright statements that Italy soon may abandon her non-belligerent status, and the exchange of Italian and German military missions have awakened apprehensions in the capitals of Europe that Il Duce plans to send his legions into battle with those of Adolf Hitler.

Climaxing the campaign against the Allies by the Italian press and radio, Giovanni Ansador, editor for Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper "Telegrafo", said in an address to the army by radio that "it is not a matter of months but of weeks before Italy may find herself compelled to enter the conflict".

That Italy may be bluffing in order to exact concessions from Britain and France, or that she may be creating a "diversion" for Hitler in the Mediterranean for the purpose of weakening the Allied effect in Norway, must be regarded as distinct possibilities.

But there are many impelling factors that point to eventual Italian participation in the war on the side of the Nazis. First and foremost of these is the fact that Mussolini wants to fight. The ebullient Duce is growing old and the time is short in which he may create his coveted Italian empire embracing a large part of the Mediterranean. The present war may afford him his last opportunity to re-establish Italian hegemony in which he terms "mare nostrum" (out sea).

Italy stands to gain all or part of her territorial claims if the French and British empires collapse upon the shambles of a German military victory. If the Allies win, Italy can expect the same consideration she received at the end of World War I.

Although the more ardent Fascist

Chapter One

I can see now in all its details, as clearly as though I had left it but yesterday, the dingy little furnished room in the drab Manchester slum street which Dermot O'Riordan and I had shared for so many of our youthful years. I can see the two iron beds in the corner, the two cheap chairs and the broken-down bureau before whose distorted mirror Dermot was shaving in preparation for the most momentous event in his life. "Bad cess to it!" cried Dermot. "I would cut meself today of all days! Hand me a piece of paper, Will."

Without rising from my trunk-packing, I reached over to the table, pulling off the top sheet from a stack of hand-written pages, and passed it to him.

"I can't use this, man!" said Dermot. "It's the story you're writing." His puckish, snubbed nose poked forward inquiringly at me as always when he was excited. "Use it," I said curtly. "That's all it's good for."

"Ah, there ye go now. Letting old man discouragement ride on your shoulders! You've got talent and imagination and heart! Why, man, the whole world is open for you to write about! I've no patience with a man who has no faith in himself, Will Essex!"

"It's easy for you to talk, Dermot," I replied. "You want to be the finest cabinet-maker in England. Meanwhile you work in wood... you can see what you're accomplishing — and you get paid for what you do. I want to be a writer — but no one will pay me to write. I have to take any old job I can find that gives me a bare living and a chance to write on the side... Anyway, there you are — all packed and ready to go off and claim your bride!"

Dermot glanced up at the wall. "All packed! It's a fine packer with its fly-blown window full of breads and cakes. Nothing was changed here; but inside through the open door I could see Mr. Moscrop, now grown old and very fat, and a rather pretty, very prim-looking young girl who must be his daughter Nellie.

With them was a husky, rough-looking youth talking volubly, evidently engaged in some sort of altercation with old man Moscrop. I could hear his tirade, interspersed with crude billingsgate.

"Wot if I am short in my collections? How much do yer pay me for drivin' yer blasted van, anyway? I don't like yer bloomin' job, an' I'm chuckin' it this very minute!"

Old Moscrop, his asthma plainly grown worse with the years and now aggravated by excitement, sat in his chair puffing and wheezing, unable to speak. Nellie had clapped her hands over her ears to shut out the driver's vile language. The youth seized her arms roughly.

"Dainty, ain't yer? Dainty and religious! Yer don't like my language, do yer?" He flung down her arms and turned to the "oor as I stepped into the shop."

Face to face now, we recognized each other. It was Tim Higgins, the neighborhood bully when I had been a boy. Memories came crowding back to me; memories of the times he had stolen my cap and run off laughing, of the times he had caught me and dumped in the mud the washing my mother had tolled over. I sent him reeling through the door with a blow in the face, then followed him outside and thrashed him till he went scurrying down the street.

Chivalrous feeling toward a timid girl and her ailing father had only a little to do with my acceptance of the vacated job which Moscrop offered me. While driving a bakery wagon was scarcely my idea of a career, it paid enough to keep me, with the living quarters over the you are, leavin' my picture of Brian Boru himself hangin' on the wall!" He stepped over and stood in front of the old Irish king's picture, addressing it. "It's humiliated enough I am that you've had to repose in this midwived boardin' house... and you the greatest of the Irish kings! Will, if I ever have a son I'll give him back to Ireland — to live the life I missed!"

"If I ever have a son," I countered, "I'll get him out of a slum like this — out of a life like this."

When Dermot was at last shaved and dressed in his meager best, and the drayman had removed his few effects for the trip to Liverpool where his Sheila lived, we shook hands warmly.

"I'll be seeing you as soon as I bring Sheila back," said Dermot. "Mind you, find yourself a good place to live."

"I'll have to be a cheap one until I get a job. But I'll be all right."

"Sure and you'll be all right. Both of us will be all right." He struck an attitude. "Remember the lad with the banner. Excelsior!"

"Onward and upward!" I responded.

"Me and my hands — you with your head. Goodbye, Will."

"Goodbye, Dermot."

I find myself wandering through Shelley Street, a meaner street even than the one in which Dermot and I lived. The janitress at Number 28 eyed me with open hostility.

"You'll find no cheaper lodgings around 'ere, Mister, but you can look elsewhere for all I care."

"A family I knew used to live here a dozen years ago. Name of Essex."

"Never 'eard of 'em."

A strange sadness came over me. "My mother moved to this house the day she was married," I muttered. "She had nine children in it. She buried five from it. She died in it herself. And you never heard of her!"

I moved slowly along to the corner. There was Moscrop's bakery, shop that went with it; and the long evenings were free to me to go on with the new novel I had undertaken. Nellie was friendly in her shy, respectful way, and her father came to rely upon me more and more as his affliction grew worse. Nellie was somewhat awed with my writing but disapproved of my indifference to her efforts to convert me to the faith that occupied most of her thoughts, or to accompany her and her father to the weekly chapel services.

When I had been with them some months, Nellie asked me one chapel night to escort her to the services. Her father was feeling too ill to go out.

"Your chapel means a great deal to you, doesn't it, Nellie?" I remarked. "As much as writing this book means to me, I suppose."

"Oh, much more! That's just your work."

"Why, Nellie," I answered with mock severity, "haven't you heard that 'work is worship, and labor holy'?"

"I'm sure that isn't in the Bible."

"Never mind," I laughed. "I'll take you to Chapel. Who knows — you might convert a heathen."

"I'd like to," she said shyly.

"Thank you, Mr. Essex."

I sat through the services as attentively as my thoughts of my postponed writing would permit. When we returned home we found Mr. Moscrop lying in a huddled heap at the foot of the staircase, as though he had been trying to gain his bedroom during a particularly severe attack.

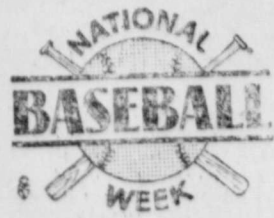

I bent over the inert form for a moment, with Nellie's frightened sobs in my ears. Then I arose and placed my hands gently on her shoulders.

"There's nothing we can do, Nellie. There's nothing anyone can do!"

She leaned against me, letting her grief and fright and loneliness pour themselves out unchecked. Perhaps I had already known that sooner or later I was going to marry Nellie Moscrop.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

Summer legumes (Peas) when interplanted or grown in combination with corn or any other soil-depleting row crop, will qualify for a soil-building payment at the rate of $1.50 for each 4 acres of the soil-depleting crop, provided at least one-third of the land is occupied by the peas and a good growth and a good stand is left on the land, if subject to erosion, or turned under. Peas that are harvested by mechanical means for seed, grazed off by livestock, or cut for hay will not qualify for a soil-depleting payment.

Peas, when planted alone, will qualify for a soil-building payment at the rate of $1.50 per acre, provided the peas are not harvested for seed by mechanical means, cut for hay or grazed off, and a good stand and a good growth is turned under or left on the land. They will however be classified as a neutral crop.

Please disregard any information, other than that given above, which you may have received in regard to the conditions under which peas, when planted alone or in combination with a soil-depleting crop, will qualify for a soil-building payment.

The State AAA Offices advises that farmers who have planted vetch or hubam clover in their oats and who expect to harvest the mixture as a hay crop, which will be classified as a neutral crop, and receive soil-building payment on same, must cut the mixture prior to the oats reaching the dough stage.

Producers are reminded of the fact that this practice was not provided so that they might harvest of sheaf oat crop off their neutral acreage, but to encourage the planting of legume crops, the vetch and hubam clover being the primary crop and the oats being sown therein merely as a nurse crop.

STARTING BABY CHICKS SIX TIMES A YEAR HELPS MAINTAIN HIGHER AVERAGE EGG YIELD AND INCOME

This plan keeps just enough pullets coming in to provide full houses of laying birds all year long.

Many poultry raisers today are wisely maintaining steady year 'round egg production and egg income by starting baby chicks six times a year, according to J. H. Burrell, Purina Mills Poultry Specialist. This is much more efficient and profitable, he says, than the age-old practice of starting one or two bunches of chicks in the spring with resulting "peaks and valleys" in egg volume and earnings throughout the whole production cycle.

"On the old one-or-two-time basis," says Burrell, "poultry raisers built up markets at certain seasons of the year when they had plenty of eggs. Then they lost those markets at other seasons because they were out of eggs. But this up-and-down problem is now being eliminated by poultrymen who put off 4 to 6 broods of chicks during the year, according to the size of their flocks. The new plan keeps just enough pullets coming in to maintain full houses of laying birds all year.

How the Plan Works

"An individual poultry farm I know of that is brooding chicks six times annually has a total laying capacity of 2,500 birds. They take off 750 chicks per hatch starting in January and continuing once a month through April. The fifth and sixth hatches come off in September and October. By this procedure they bring 300 pullets into production in June, July, August, September, February and April and are able to keep the flock at full 2,500 bird laying capacity the year around. The balance of the pullets resulting from this system are sold.

"Obviously, months and dates for putting such a plan into effect may be changed by a poultry raiser to any months suitable for rounding out the program to fit individual locations and circumstances," says Burrell. "The big point is that such a system when properly functioning helps to furnish a uniform weekly supply of eggs through the year.

Salesmanship Important Factor

"Another important step in paying the way to poultry profits is to practice salesmanship in the merchandising of eggs and poultry meats," says Burrell. "When a poultry raiser knows he is producing a quality product he should have an effective method for telling people about it in a truthful, convincing way. Of course, the only way to develop and maintain quality egg and meat output is through following a well planned, workable program that operates on the basis of high uniform production, efficient labor and low overhead.

"In more detail, this plan is explained in the new hard-cover Purina Poultry Textbook, to be had for fifteen cents with the purchase of Purina Poultry Chows from any local Purina dealer.

BRACKETED—

cists envision an Italian empire encompassing most of the territory adjacent to the Mediterranean. Mussolini has contended since 1935 for three primary concessions from Great Britain and France: 1) Djibouti; 2) representation on the board of directors of the Suez Canal Co.; 3) guarantees for the Italian minority in Tunisia.

In the general readjustment of territories and boundaries which inevitably would follow an Allied victory over Germany, Italy probably would be granted these claims. But since the advent of World War II Italian claims have been revised upward and, according to reports from Rome, include demilitarization of Allied fortifications at Gibraltar, Malta and Suez and the complete neutralization of these focal points of British and French colonial power.

Patently, to grant this claim would be to strike a death blow at both the British and French empires. The Mediterranean would truly be "mare nostrum" for Mussolini if this objective were achieved.

If Mussolini projects Italy into this conflict, it will be against the wishes of his people, his army, the Church and leading industrialists.

The Italian people want peace. Despite the preachments of Mussolini that Italians must "live dangerously," the Italian people do not want to take part in this war. After three costly campaigns in Ethiopia, Spain and Albania, they hope for an era of peace.

Having boasted for years that Italy's might rested upon 8,000,000 bayonets, Mussolini regretfully "discovered" during the fateful Po maneuvers last year that his country could neither feed nor clothe 1,500,000 men. Boots and bayonets were lacking. The country had less than a three month's supply of oil and insufficient reserves of scrap iron and copper.

Italy has wheat for less than a year. Limited supplies of cotton are available. Her coal problem is acute. From 12,000,000 to 14,000,000 tons of coal a year would be needed in war time. In pre-war days most of this coal came by water from Germany and Poland. This supply is now at the mercy of the British blockade, as the German railway system is unable to accommodate this additional load.

With the first signs of Nazi-Fascist military cooperation, the Roman Stock Exchange took a sudden 50-point drop, indicating the nervousness in industrial and financial quarters over the possibility of war with the Allies.

Should Italy take the fatal step, she would immediately be subjected to the Allied blockade which is slowly strangling Germany. The Italians would then be dependent upon supplies from Germany and the Balkans, but Germany has insufficient supplies for her own uses and the Balkans have been unable to fulfill even the German demands for wheat, foodstuffs and metals.

Impartial observers estimate that Italy would be in a desperate situation economically within six months after the outbreak of war, providing the Allies were not knocked out by the axis combination within that time.

Doubtless Mussolini would count upon a lightning blow characteristic of Fascist methods, that would sweep the Mediterranean clear of Allied ships. But it is extremely doubtful that he could maintain his position on the sea for any length of time despite the increased burden placed upon the Allies navies by the war in Scandinavia. The French navy alone is larger than Italy's fleet.

If rational reasoning prevails in Italy, that country will not enter the war. But no prediction based upon rational considerations has been safe since quixotic Adolf Hitler came to power in Germany. The minds of dictators are impelled by the exigencies of the moment, by personal whims and desires, often by hunches.

Il Duce's dream of power may outweigh all other negative considerations and Italy may be plunged into this holocaust with unpredictable consequences for herself and for the world.

ALL mothers and fathers want their children to have worthwhile employment when they grow up.

The Texas oil business is manned by Texans . . . the Texas boys and girls of yesterday. 225,000 of them earn good livings for themselves and their families—a yearly payroll of $271,000,000.

Oil pays good wages . . . maintains reasonable working hours . . . and offers opportunity for promotion.

Old age retirement and unhampered development of the oil business will provide many new jobs each year for our young Texas workers.

But the growing tax burden is a serious factor in wages and employment, since the Texas oil industry now pays taxes equal to 36 per cent of its labor payrolls.

Unwise laws and excessive taxes can retard and stop the growth of this industry which means so much to the future employment of our boys and girls.
