Aliens Begin Registration at P. O. 27th

As a part of the national defense program, a nationwide registration of aliens will be conducted from August 27 thru December 26, 1940 by the immigration and naturalization service of the Department of Justice.

Registration will take place in the post offices of the nation. This registration is made compulsory by a specific act of congress, and all aliens 14 or over are to be registered and fingerprinted.

Postmaster J. Hurl McClellan will be ready for any and all aliens to register, be fingerprinted, etc., at the proper time. They will be asked to tell where and when they entered the country, the method of transportation, the name of the vessel, the length of time in the country and how long he expects to stay.

He must also describe any military or naval service he has had, and list the names of any organizations, clubs or societies in which he participates or holds membership. Also, he is required to describe his activities in any organization and to affirm whether or not the organization furthers the interests or program of a foreign government.

To make their registration easier, aliens are being asked to fill out sample forms, which will be available prior to registration, and take them to post offices where they will be registered and fingerprinted. Every registered alien will receive by mail a receipt card which serves as evidence of his registration. Following registration, the act requires all aliens, as well as parents or guardians of alien children, to report changes of residence address within five days of the change.

The act provides that all records be kept secret and confidential, and will be available only to persons approved by the attorney general of the United States.

A fine of $1,000 and imprisonment of six months is prescribed by the alien registration act for failure to register, for the refusal to be fingerprinted, or for making registration statements known to be false.

Mrs. A. Shirley has returned to her home in this city after spending the past several weeks in Tyler as a guest of her son, Dr. Clayton Shirley and family. Mrs. Shirley received a serious hand injury recently and went to that city for medical treatment.

EDWIN RIDDLE OF NEAR CORYELL CITY BRINGS IN FIRST BALE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PAYS 15c FOR THE 500 POUNDS

Edwin Riddle busted in here about 2 o'clock Monday with the FIRST BALE OF COTTON to be ginned, at least in Gatesville from the 1940 crop.

Mr. Riddle from his 500 pound bale received 15c per pound from the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce, free ginning from Powell & Caruth Gin Company, and the usual year's subscription to the Coryell County News.

The present market, according to buyers is around 9c or a little better.

Mr. Riddle said down at the gin, he had plenty more like it, and that the cotton was raised on the farm near Coryell City, which is owned by Mrs. Bill Shomell.

Also, down at the gin, "Babe" Routh, Francis Caruth, Charles Francis Caruth and Charles Powell did the actual ginning work while Mr. Riddle and a News representative watched the operation, or rather the ginning.

The bale is now located on the square where it can be seen.

That bale is one of the forecasters of the Fall weather that is to come, and so was that cover-reaching-for-weather that blew in Sunday night. Also, the appearance of Fall merchandise advertisements in the columns of the News.

REASONS WHY EARL HUDDLESTON SHOULD BE ELECTED

1. He knows the needs of the people and has had six years experience in the legislature and knows how to do the work.

2. He will work for the masses and not in special class, including the aged, the young, the doctor, the lawyer, school teacher, banker, business man, barber, laborer, and every class. Is especially interested in agriculture and the farmer. Will work for all worthy legislation in their behalf. Will vote and work to raise the truck load limit to a reasonable limit. Served on Committee of Agriculture last term as Vice Chairman, and will be in a position to render some valuable service next session along this line.

3. Will cooperate with the Governor, the legislature and all state officials in trying to solve the various problems of our district and state, seeking at all times the will and assistance of the people of my district.

It has been impossible to see each of you personally but I ask you to take this as a personal solicitation and assure you that your support will be appreciated now and always.

Sincerely,
EARL HUDDLESTON
Candidate for Representative 94th District.

ROY EVETTS HAS STATEMENT FOR BEAT 2 VOTERS

To the people of Beat 2: I want to take this means of thanking the people for the many favors shown me in the closing campaign. I also want to use this means as a personal solicitation of each voter's vote in the Saturday election.

I feel that I am thoroly capable and qualified to attend to the duties of the Commissioners office and I seek the office for its salary with a will and knowledge to try to earn the money it pays.

I favor the help of WPA projects for benefits of first, school bus routes, second, mail routes; but for county proportionate part of expenditures furnished by machinery contracted by the mile instead of by the day, thus saving time, money and fuel and building more miles of project roads.

I will appreciate your vote and influence on election day and if elected I promise to put forth my very best efforts to be an official that you won't regret having voted for me.

Sincerely,
ROY EVETTS
Candidate for Commissioner, Beat 2.
(Political Adv. 1c)

J. MILTON PRICE MAKES STATEMENT TO VOTERS

I am, and will always be thankful to the people of Beat 2 for the many favors shown me in the past. I am using this means of soliciting your support and influence for a second term. I feel that the experience I have had will be valuable in giving more and better service as commissioner, and will if elected, gladly, at all times do all I can that will benefit the most people.

Your friend,
J. MILTON PRICE

Absentee Voters Indicate Fair Vote, 2nd Time

Indications are that there'll be a "fair" vote in the second primary, if there is anything to the indication of the absentee vote.

County Clerk Charlie Mounce has passed out, or rather, mailed 53 ballots and 24 have voted in person.

This makes it look like about 3/4ths of what was voted in the first primary.

Gerald C. Mann Attorney General Here Saturday

Gerald C. Mann, who is making a month's tour over the State to render a report of his stewardship as Attorney General of Texas, is expected to appear at Gatesville, Saturday evening, August 24.

Attorney General Mann plans to reach every section of the State during August to give a report on the conduct of the activities of his office since he assumed the position of Attorney General on January 1, 1939, and upon completion of the tour, he shall "again devote my full time to my official duties."

In announcing plans for the trip recently, Mann declared:

"When I assumed the responsibilities of this office I felt it was my duty to render to the people of the State of Texas the highest service of which I am capable. It has been necessary for me to remain in Austin in order to properly administer the affairs of the Attorney General's Department.

"I am making a speaking tour into every section of the State and report to the people on the conduct of the activities of this office. As soon as the tour is over, I shall again devote my full time to my official duties."

NEW LADY IN LEAIRD'S READY-TO-WEAR DEPARTMENT

Now, thirteen years in anything is now with Leaird's Department Miss Wallace knows her way around, especially in this department. She, incidentally has been handling Nelly Don and other "standard brand" merchandise which has been carried by Leaird's ready-to-wear department, for these many years.

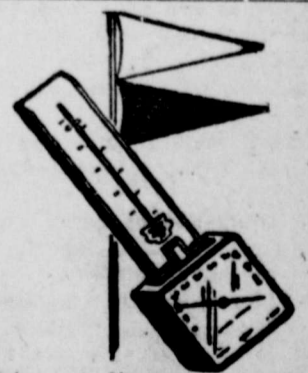

Miss Wallace has a "bubba" here. His name is C. H. Wallace, but you can't blame her. No foolin' she'll be glad to see all of you over in the "RTW" department at Leaird's.

City Secretary Is Certified Water Superintendent

City Secretary Eiland Lovejoy has just received a "diploma" from the Texas State Health Department after a course of training and the necessary experience and qualifications.

The official title or whatever-you-call-it is Water Supply Operator.

Why this is all done, is for this reason. These things are necessary in order that the water supply of Gatesville may finally be passed by the State Health Department. This is commendable, in that it necessitates work on the part of the City Secretary, so that this okie by the Texas State Health Department may be given. In addition, Mr. Lovejoy has something to "frame" now.

SYNOPSIS

Baron Charles de Courland, who has brought beautiful Linda Stewart on safari into the heart of Africa to hunt big game, spends a sleepless and angry night in camp. That he has shot a leopard and has sent an unarmed native boy, Happy, after it, doesn't worry him. What does is that Linda has flown off the afternoon before with Jim Logan, aviator and safari guide, in his airplane, and neither has returned. Logan has learned from Linda that she has been using him as "bait" to snare the baron, whom she wants to marry for comfort and security. Marooned by the storm, she spends the night in a hollow tree.

CHAPTER VIII

BARON DE COURLAND'S eyes betrayed his stored-up anger and his shaking hand, as he lit a cigarette, betrayed his nervousness when Jim Logan's plane came into sight. He was beside it, looking questioningly from Linda Stewart to Logan as it rolled to a stop. Behind him crowded the natives, who muttered among themselves about the still missing Happy.

"Good morning, Charles!" exclaimed Linda. "We've had quite an adventure!"

De Courland violently tossed aside his cigarette.

"I imagined as much!" he snapped. His eyes were narrow slits as he looked at Logan, demanded:

"What have you to say for yourself?"

"Well, first, Baron, it was too dark." Logan made no attempt to conceal his annoyance. "Second it was too rainy, third, Susie was too valuable for me to risk a take-off and fourth—" He shrugged his shoulders. "I have nothing to say."

"Risk a take-off? Why did you land?"

"Because I asked him to," Linda snapped. "I wanted to take pictures."

"At night?" The baron's voice was chilled steel.

The worried natives, led by Wemba, jabbered excitedly among themselves. Logan listened for a minute and then, without answering the baron's question, fired at him: "Did you shoot a leopard yesterday? Did you follow him? Did you make the kill?"

"The animal disappeared into the brush," the baron replied. "I sent the boy after him. I was very much interested in what had happened to Miss Stewart."

Logan gave him a scornful glance, turned to Linda.

"I'm sorry to walk out on you," he said, "but I have to go look for Happy."

When he had gone, with the natives following him, the baron sneered at the girl:

"So it's Linda now. No longer Miss Stewart."

"Don't beat around the bush, Charles. What do you want to know?"

"I would appreciate an explanation. I couldn't sleep last night for worrying about you."

"I don't know what fantastic notions you have," she replied, "but I do know that you're wrong. I'm going to my cottage."

His look after her was interrupted by the departure of Logan and the natives to hunt for Happy. He watched them disappear into the brush. Then he paced anxiously until they returned.

Logan was carrying the dead

Happy in his arms. Behind him came the natives with the leopard lashed to a pole. Logan went directly to de Courland.

"Happy finished your job, Baron," he said, grimly. "Here's your leopard. I hope it's worth it to you."

Linda came to Logan's side.

"He's dead!" she exclaimed. Tears came to her eyes. "Oh, Happy! He was such a gay little—he tried so hard to fix my tub. He smiled all the time. The last thing he said to me was, 'Happy fix—'"

She turned on de Courland. "Why did you let him go after the leopard?"

"The pelt meant nothing to me. Before I knew it the little fool started running—"

The three didn't have to go far to find the first lion tracks. Logan led the way and, after a few minutes it was he who spotted the great beast. "Your shot, Baron!" he said.

"That was his job," Logan made no attempt to hide his utter disgust. "You said you weren't an amateur—but you let a wounded animal escape."

"Well, you don't need to dramatize it. I'll pay an indemnity to his family."

"I was his 'family.'" Logan swallowed hard. "Your biggest check couldn't pay for one of my boys."

"Are you finished?"

"For the moment. Last night I spotted some elephants. What are your orders?"

"The elephants can wait," de Courland said. "Last night I heard lions. We'll get one."

"Very well. I'll take you myself."

"Charles—may I come along?" Linda asked, suddenly.

"But of course, my dear." De Courland was overly gallant. "I want you to."

While the men made ready for the hunt, Linda stopped in to see Logan and told him how sorry she was about Happy. She blamed herself for his death, saying that if she hadn't held Logan he could have flown back to camp the night before.

De Courland interrupted them by calling for them to join him. They went outside. Before they started, Logan checked the baron's rifle by sending a shot through a tin can more than a hundred yards away.

"I'll try to be as expert as you are," de Courland declared, smiling coldly.

The three didn't have to go far to find the first lion tracks. Logan led the way and, after a few minutes it was he who spotted the great beast. He pointed, and the baron saw.

"Your shot, baron!" Logan said quietly.

The baron raised his rifle, the cold smile still playing at the corners of his lips. He sighted deliberately at the lion's heart. Then he shifted the barrel ever so slightly—so that the bullet would penetrate

Back of the centerpiece was the punch bowl, and at either end of the table white tapers burned in crystal candelabra.

Announcement of the wedding date was made on tiny scrolls tied with white satin ribbons which bore the inscription, "Frances and George, September 12."

Shower Compliments Miss Stewart, Bride-Elect

Honoring Miss Bertha Lillian Stewart, bride-elect of Pete McIver, Miss Nell Routh entertained with a bridge party and linen shower at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harry Flentge, on north Lutterloh avenue Thursday evening. Bowls of bachelor buttons centered the three tables.

After a series of bridge games, the group played bingo-bridge in which the honoree was the winner. For the prize, she was presented a shower of lovely gifts. Miss Leah Dale Franks was high score winner in the bridge games.

Miss Routh served a delicious refreshment course of pineapple sherbet and cookies at the conclusion.

Attending were: Misses Patsy Olsen, Winifred Byrom, Jane Thomson, Fay Byrom, Jewel Witcher, Charlene Chandler of Hamilton, Leah Dale Franks, and Mesdames J. M. Pancake, E. W. WIFE CONTROL? OR, HOW TO SAY NO, WHEN SHE WANTS DOUGH

Want to scare your wife out of extravagance?

Then take a leaf from this Texan's technique. University of Texas librarians, rummaging through hundred year old records in the school's extensive newspaper collection, claim it's a model for disowning debts—not to mention a literary gem:

"She has, without cause, left my habitation and is floating on the ocean of tyrannical extravagance, prone to prodigality, taking a wild-goose chase, and kindling her pipe with the coal of curiosity; to abscond and abolish such insidious, cvlandestine, noxious, pernicious, diabolical and notorious department, I therefore caution all persons from harboring or trusting her on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting from this date, unless compelled by law".

The notice was run in the Brownsville Galaxy, and the Texas Gazette (Austin) in 1830. The Austin editor quoted it under the caption: "March of Intellect".

TAYLOR-WILLIAMS-FARMER REUNION HELD AT LAMPASAS STATE PARK

Some two hundred relatives and friends of these three pioneer families celebrated the third annual reunion verly pleasantly and profitably. Recounting early history of the section, fed our minds and made us greatly appreciate the blessings of peace and progress of our present day. During the grace before we partook of dainty foods of every variety many hearts uttered silent thanks to our God for preserving America from actual warfare so far. Yet aged sires admonished sturdy grandsons that upon their shoulders rested the burden of continuing to maintain American standards of liberty and justice.

After the bounteous feast music was furnished over the loud speaker by Prof. M. Tharp and his famous band of Pearl, Texas, assisted in this delightful entertainment by local singers. Of especial mention were the numbers of Mr. and Mrs. Tullie Ballard and boys; Lewan and Kyle Farmer, Frieda Roy, and Alvira Jean Sargent. All present and many more are invited to be present next year, same place, same date, the second sunday in Aug.—One who was present.

Pidcoke Wins News Baseball Cup Race; Beats Blackfoot 19-2

By WILSON BRAZZIL
News Sports Editor

The Pidcoke "Cokers", the defending champions in the News Baseball Cup Race, successfully defended their title on the State Training School diamond last Thursday afternoon by downing the Blackfoot Indians by a count of 19-2, in the last game of the championship series.

The Indians, with lanky Lloyd Ivy in the box, were almost blasted from the field as a classy field of Pidcoke "willow-wavers" practically made a race track out of the diamond. After several innings during which the "Cokers" runs continued to pile up, Ivy was shifted to short and Jader Barton took over the pitching duties. His luck was no better however, as the Pidcoke crew continued to connect and the scores continued to mount as the game progressed.

In the box for Pidcoke was limber-limbed Hazen Ward who can play any position on the diamond and play it well, and his luck against the powerful Blackfoot batters held out remarkably well. Only six hits were chalked up by the Indian band, the smallest number that they have collected during any game this season.

Probably a big factor in deciding the outcome of this game was the fact that the Indians were forced to us up every ounce of reserve strength to eliminate the strong Mound team from the running on the previous day, while Pidcoke took advantage of a well-earned rest. Their two victories early in the week permitted them to enter the finals without a game on Wednesday afternoon. Had the Blackfoot crew been able to use the veteran Jack Barton against Pidcoke, the outcome would have been different no doubt, but with two days of hard pitching already behind him, Barton wasn't capable of filling the box.

Now that the championship series is over it is our duty, and privilege to pick an All-Tournament team. In selecting this team we judged solely upon their performances during the playoff series and not upon past records.

Some of the positions have been filled so well by players on several teams that it is almost impossible to choose the most outstanding player, and in these cases it is mostly a matter of opinion. Anyway, here's our all-tournament selection:

Richards, Blackfoot—Catcher
Jack Barton, Blackfoot—pitcher
Gip Burt, Blackfoot—first base
Cecil Newton, Pidcoke—2nd base
Hazen Ward, Pidcoke—3rd base
Sonny Hair, Pidcoke—short stop
Bomar, Mound, Perryman, Pidcoke and Vandiver, Blackfoot—fielders.

As you will notice in the above selection, Jack Barton of Blackfoot was named the outstanding pitcher in the tournament. This was done by virtue of the excellent hurling done by Barton in both the Blackfoot-Jonesboro game and the Blackfoot-Mound game. Whaley of Mound was next in line in our estimation and was almost the equal of Barton. The batting average of these two pitchers was just about a toss-up but by actual service on the mound, Barton has a slight edge.

Holcomb and Wicker of Mound are also creditable pitchers though Wicker didn't get a fair chance to prove his ability. He did pitch a few inning in the 13 inning battle with Blackfoot Wednesday evening but when he took over, Blackfoot already had the game salted away. Holcomb pitched a swell game against Pidcoke in the initial game of the tournament and had it won, had the Mound managers had the foresight to give him relief in the sixth or seventh inning.

It also looks like a toss-up for the first sack between Burt of Blackfoot and Trammell of Pidcoke but we'll give Burt the nod. Burt is the most powerful slugger of the two, but Trammell is "tops" when it comes to catching wild throws and fielding grounders. Due to his excellent batting we selected Burt for this position on the All-Tournament team, but we venture to say that Trammell, with another year or two of baseball behind him, will be one of the outstanding players that this county has ever produced.

Cecil Lee Newton of Pidcoke gets the call for the second base position and had less real competition than any other position on the "big-nine". Slim Long of Blackfoot is next best for this spot.

Ward of the Cokers also gets an all star berth and is assigned to the third sack. Drake of Jonesboro and Whigham of Mound were the runners up for this slot but these two "Old times" couldn't out-class the hustling Ward.

Bruce Bomar of Mound is our choice for the left field position though Bomar would have been hard pressed to nose out Harveston of the Eagles, had he not been forced to retire from the tournament with an ankle injury. Harveston got four hits out of five trips to the plate in the Eagles clash with the Blackfoot Indians on opening day.

Skeeter Clawson of Mound gives Sonny Hair of Pidcoke the only touch competition for the short stop slot but we are positive that Hair is the best short stop in Coryell County. Both have fair batting averages though Hair is the better of the two when it comes to speed and accuracy in fielding the ball.

Vandiver of Blackfoot and Perryman of Pidcoke are the unanimous choice for the other fielding positions and not one single error has these boys had chalked up against them in this championship tournament.

To pick an all-county catcher is also a touch proposition as most of the boys participating in the tournament were about in the same bracket. Regardless of the fact that Richards' batting average is under that of Smith of Pidcoke, Walker of Jonesboro and Anderson of Mound, we believe he has earned a position on the star-studded nine.

Richards is a hustler behind the plate and played his position almost without error. Wolf of Mound who has seen action in only a few games this year has been given up by many to be the best catcher in the county though he did not compete in the championship tournament and was not considered in these selections.

Here is our selection for the second best All-Tournament team.

CITY CHAMPIONSHIP GOLF TOURNAMENT EXPECTED TO START SOON

Last Sunday afternoon on the local golf course, Dr. Kermit Jones defeated Horace Jackson in the last match of the present golf tournament.

Whether or not there will be a City Championship tournament here this year has not been learned, but if so it will be announced in the sport columns of the News at the earliest possible date.

Anyway, the News has a trophy for the champion golfer in this tournament and there's sure to be a lot of hustling around on the local course before the champion of the local club is decided.

Last year, Sanderson, a man connected with the NYA, won the trophy but he won't be present for the tournament this year. Golfers who are due to take part in this support to the tournament committee and an extra fast field of sharp shooters are apt to be gunning for the crown.

DESTROYERS FOR BRITAIN

In time of crisis democracies suffer from the fatal defects of proverbs and unnecessary debate.

An advantage which the totalitarian states have held over the democracies throughout the war and during the pre-war period of diplomatic maneuvering was the ability to act quickly, decisively and without advance notice through public debate, thus taking full advantage of the element of surprise.

Indecision in official quarters about the sale of fifty over-age American destroyers to Great Britain is evidence that the United States, even at a period of great emergency, is not free of the elements and attitudes which brought about the downfall of Republican France.

The question of making these vessels available immediately to the hard-pressed Britons has been bantered about for weeks by commentators, columnists, military and naval experts, but only this week has the issue reached the halls of Congress.

Senator Claude Pepper of Florida has introduced a resolution to authorize the sale, but several weeks probably will elapse before a decision is reached. Meanwhile the Battle of Britain is apparently underway and the destroyers are urgently needed.

Recognized military and naval experts are in practically unanimous agreement that the Battle of Britain may hinge upon the immediate re-inforcement of Britain's destroyer flotilla from the surplus reserves of this country.

For destroyers are indispensable in convoy activities, submarine detective, naval blockade, fleet protection and the destruction of an invading sea force.

The capital ships of the British Navy cannot be used for these purposes, as fast, mobile, inexpensive vessels are necessary for these hazardous activities. In the narrow, dangerous waters of the English Channel, the British cannot risk their ponderous battleships and cruisers. Hence the necessity for destroyers.

The situation in regard to the sale of American destroyers is this:

The U. S. fleet has 240 destroyers and is building 57 more. Of the 240 destroyers, over 100 are held over from the World War and have recently been recommissioned.

The British Navy now has 175 destroyers against a combined destroyer fleet for Germany and Italy of 165. At the start of the war Britain had approximately 80 destroyers but has lost 30 since that time. New ships and additions from the Polish and French fleets have made the present total of 175, plus 26 now being constructed.

But of this total, about 25 have been damaged and are now under repair. Additional destroyers are being used in the Mediterranean for blockade duty and others are engaged in convoy patrols, leaving less than 100 available for the defense of the British Isles.

The initiative in this issue rests with the President, as commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy and director of American foreign policy. For him to make a public declaration in favor of the sale would practically insure the approval of Congress.

Mr. Roosevelt is better acquainted with the needs of the British in this respect than any one else in this country with the exception of Army and Navy heads.

His silence on this matter and his unexpected deference to the wishes of Congress, which has never before been manifest in his relations with that body, are difficult to understand, except on the basis of political expediency.

It might be argued that should the chief executive publicly approve the sale he would be accused by the isolationists of violating the tenets of American non-belligerency.

The best answer to that argument is that the President is charged with the defense of this country regardless of any charges that may be brought against him.

To any discerning person, it is patent that the successful defense of the British Isles and the protection of the British fleet are essential to the security of the United States.
