Football Game To Be Friday Night

Friday night, Gatesville High School will meet the Bulldogs of Hamilton High School in the Annual Armistice Game instead of Monday, November 11, as most of us had thought.
This is just a reminder to everybody that the game will be in Hamilton, Friday night, instead of Monday.

A. C. P. Checks Are Out At AAA Office: 700 More Due

J. B. Roach of the AA offices announces $65,685.98 has been received by local farmers as a part of their 1940 A. C. payments.
Seven hundred applications will receive consideration before December 1, in as much as they have carried their total soil building allowances and are eligible to receive these early payments.

Even The "Country" Is After Rats: City Is Over

First we had a rat-ridance campaign in Gatesville, and now, according to information, a County Rat Campaign is under way.

Pity the poor rat!
Distribution of poison is to be thru the 4-H boys and girls and FFA boys. Chairman have been designated in every community who will take orders for the poison.

November 5 is the dead-line for receiving orders, and they must be turned into the County Agent's office by 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. The poison will then be obtained and ready to distribute November 8, and someone should pick it up at the office,—the amount the community orders.

At a meeting of both the City Council and the Commissioner's Court, the site at North Lutterloh and East Saunders street was selected by the Court as the site for the County-City Hospital. A consideration of $4,080 was paid for the location.

The "Lot with the brown house" cost $2,750 and the house and lot just north of it cost $2,330. The "brown house lot" was owned by Mrs. "Cotton" Graham, Sr, and the other by Howard Compton. The "lot with the brown house" has more frontage, and is also the corner lot, and for this reason, brought more money.

The City of Gatesville has agreed to pay $2,750 on the purchase price according to City Councilman J. O. Brown, to furnish water, and the sewer connections for the first three years, will amount to a considerable sum of money.

This is a large step in the direction of this new County-City Hospital, or whatever it will finally be called, and of course, the time for the start of the clearing up of the property in preparation for building, still remains far in the background.

Needless to say, the "ball has started rolling" and it's not due to be too long.

HALLOWE'EN CARNIVAL AT PIDCOKE TO BE FRIDAY, NOV. 8TH

South Americans Visit Coryell: Look For Stock

Coryell's getting "notoriously" famous in the horse and mule business, and here comes the latest!

Dr. Fidel Ochoa of the Institute Nacional de Agronomia, Medellin-visited here said: "In the past we have looked to England for our breeding stock, but under present conditions we expect to get them from the United States."

With Dr. Ochoa was De Mary Ochoa, his wife and Dr. H. Bonilla G., Bogota, Columbia who also was a Veterinarian representing the Columbian government and also with the party was Oscar R. Whilden, exporter of New Orleans, Louisiana.

Mr. Whilden, exporter handled an order last year of 3,000 mules for the Turkish Government.

This visit, is considered by local officials to be a compliment to Coryell county, when people as far away as South America make a 6000, mile trip to inspect our stock with the idea of prospective purchases.

Continued effort along the "stock-line" will eventually line the pockets of Coryell county stockmen with plenty that is not there now, IF Coryell county stockmen continue to improve their stock. This continued improvement WILL pay dividends.

Congressman Poage Advises WPA Job, Pidcoke, Thru

In a letter received, Monday, Congressman W. R. Poage announces "final Presidential approval of the WPA project for the Pidcoke School.

"This project involves $65,093.00 and will mean a very substantial improvement of the school plant at Pidcoke. The Project is now ready to commence at any time that the State WPA office at San Antonio feels that they can assign an adequate number of men to do the work".

This will be a nice addition for the Pidcoke school, and folks in that community will be happy to know that it has finally received approval in Washington.

Read This! Order Numbers Are not Official, Yet!

Don't pay any attention to the almost complete page of Order and Serial Numbers in this issue of the News. It's our mistake—they're all wrong. We're sorrier than you are—it took two men three fourths of a day to set them.

THE ORDER NUMBERS HAVE NOT BEEN MADE YET! That's the official information from the Local Draft Board.

They are making up the "Order numbers" now and the Order Numbers will be "Determined" from the sequence in which the Serial Numbers were drawn in Washington". The Order Numbers will be assigned from the Local Board. We have unintentionally given out some "wrong numbers", and you can be governed by this, as "official".

upon reason rather than emotion, upon sanity instead of prejudice, upon personal environment and heredity rather than the welfare of society as a whole?

Like most other good Americans, I will avail myself today of my sovereign right to cast a vote in the presidential race. Today, you and I are little sovereigns in our own right. In most of America, citizens of every class, race, color and religion can cast their votes according to the dictates of God and their consciences without interference or dictation from any man.

You have made your choice and I have made mine. Many of us doubtless are wrong in the choice we have made—wrong in that a majority of the American people will not agree with our preference today.

Yet it is hoped that by the grace of God the candidate will be elected who will lead the United States toward the attainment of those social, economic and political objectives which inspired the Constitution and which have propelled patriotic Americans to strive through war, disunion and depressions toward a better world.

I have faith in the American people—in the ultimate wisdom of the choice which they will make today. The decision before them is a momentous one, to my mind the greatest which has confronted them since 1864 when the election of Lincoln meant prosecution of the war against the South (and ultimate preservation of the Union) and the election of McClellan signified cessation of the war and admittance of the right of the South to freedom from the North.

The next president of the United States in actuality will be named by that great body of Americans who owe allegiance to no party, who disregard the labels of Republican and Democrat on election today and who accept dictation from no party bosses.

Numbering perhaps 15,000, 000 the independent voters cast their ballots generally on the basis of a sane, sensible analysis of the issues and candidates involved—the manner in which all Americans should vote.

In the crucial states of the East and the Middle West, the tide will be turned by the independent voters.

At a time like the present, with issue sat stake which will determine the domestic and foreign policies of this nation for decades to come, it is particularly fortuitous that the independent bloc of voters has been substantially supplemented by independent bloc of voters who will disregard party labels for the first time in their lives.

As pointed out before in this column, it is impossible to vote a straight Republican or a straight Democratic ticket in this election, due to the composition of the two major party tickets.

Mr. Roosevelt frequently has voted G.O.P. candidates; his running mate is an ex-Republican. Mr. Willkie is an ex-Democrat; his running mate, though a Republican, consistently has backed the Republican leaders in his Congressional career.

Issues and personalities, the platforms and programs of the two parties and of their candidates—should and will, I submit, decide the outcome of this election. Party labels will not be the primary consideration with Democrats enthusiastically supporting Mr. Willkie and with Republicans by the thousands in the Roosevelt camp.

I hope, fervently and sincerely, that my candidate is elected. You, doubtless, hope with the same urgency that your individual choice, whoever he may be, is named.

Yet I, for one, do not feel that my personal judgement necessarily is infallible. I may be wrong, whether I am right or wrong, whether you are right or wrong.

That, in brief, is my faith in the American process government.

FORTY-EIGHT BAYLOR STUDENTS BECOME ALPHA CHI MEMBERS

Forty eight Baylor students have been named by Dr. W. H. Juniper as eligible to become members of the Gamma Chapter of Alpha Chi national honor scholarship society.

Membership in the organization represents the highest five percent in scholastic standing among junior and senior students. The selection is made on the basis of all the grades a student has made since he entered Baylor.

The highest five per cent of the summer and previous June graduating classes were also invited to membership. Initiations are held annually.

John Palmer Reesing Jr., Gatesville, ranks first in the senior class with a total of 155 honor points and an average of 5.74 out of a possible 6.00. Peeler Williams, Waco ranks first in the junior class with 121 honor points and an average of 5.76 out of a possible 6.00.—The Daily Lariat.

CHAPTER THREE SYNOPSIS

The Canadian North West in 1885 faces bloody civil war when the Metis, a nation of half-breeds, threatens to rebel against the authority of the North West Mounted Police and the British Crown if certain demands are not met. Dusty Rivers (Gary Cooper), a Texas Ranger, comes to this wild country searching for a notorious criminal, Jacques Corbeau, Corbeau, with Louis Riel and Don Duroc, is leading the rebellion. At Fort Carlton, Dusty meets April Logan, frontier nurse, and sweetheart of Sergeant Bret, who has just been ordered by his superior officer to take a patrol of twenty men and capture Corbeau.

CHAPTER IV

THE Fort was alive with activity. Troopers saddled their horses, looked to their arms; others loaded the supply wagons, as Jim Bret, overseeing everything, barked his orders.

Dusty Rivers, standing by, was, for the moment, unconcerned. He was looking at April. He had admired her tender skill as she had attended to Fenton. Now he walked close to her, swept his big Stetson from his head.

"I think you're pretty wonderful, ma'am," he said, and as she looked at him, surprised: "I'm Dusty Rivers. From Texas. And I want to tell you, ma'am, that I never expected I'd find anything like you in Canada."

"And what did you think you'd find?" she asked crisply.

"Well, if it's women you're askin' about, ma'am, I thought they'd be somethin' like your scenery,—good to look at, but sort o' cold. You're good to look at all right, ma'am, but you're sure not cold."

"Well, I never in all my life heard—" began April Logan. She did not finish. She was looking into Dusty's eyes and in spite of herself a little shivering thrill coursed through her, so that she was grateful when Ronnie interrupted.

"Kiss your kid brother goodbye, sis," he said gaily.

"Get to your post, Logan!" Jim Bret's voice broke sharply over the scene. He had been watching, they knew.

And because of that, Dusty could not resist his dig: "I'll be glad to take care of any chores, boy, if you can't," he said to Ronnie.

The sergeant controlled his irritation. "There are some things about you I don't like!" he said thinly, turned on his heel and walked away.

But Dusty only grinned. He turned and patted the astonished April's hand. "I'll be back, ma'am," he said cheerfully, and was gone.

He swung up on his horse, rode to where Jim Bret sat, waiting to give the marching order. "What part of the parade do I ride in, soldier?" he said.

Jim Bret looked at him coldly. "You don't ride. Corbeau's in Canada now. He's our prisoner."

"Well," said Dusty, "I guess that's so, if you can get him and—" he added, grinning—"keep him!"

He rode to a place at the side of the ranks before Jim Bret could answer.

They were ready, then. Inspector Cabot stood at the door of the Commandant's office and nodded at Jim Bret.

"Patrol!" the sergeant's voice sang out crisply in the Fort's enclosure. "March—"

He did not complete it. A man had run from the telegraph shanty, waving a paper, and shown it to Inspector Cabot.

"Halt the patrol, Sergeant!" said the officer. "Dismiss them!" And when the dumbfounded troopers had fallen out: "Come into the office, Bret. You too," he said to Dusty, "and Tod McDuff." When they were assembled, he continued: "Change of orders." He pointed to the telegram. "We wait here until Colonel Irvine arrives with reinforcements from Regina. They've called out the militia."

"But my God!" cried Jim Bret. "By that time Corbeau will have the Crees and Blackfeet on the warpath. Couldn't we wire to Colonel Irvine and—"

"The wires," said Cabot quietly, "were cut two minutes after this came through, Sergeant Bret."

"Cut!" Jim Bret was aghast. "Then that means—" His jaw hardened. "It mustn't happen, Inspector," he said quietly. "Corbeau and the Indians, I mean. I ask permission to go as a single Scout to seat beside her, after lifting her there. McDuff, watching, dourly took a seat in the rear of the wagon, leading the two saddle horses, and pulled out his knitting. They drove off just as Jim Bret rode by.

"Going our way, Jim?" asked April.

"No," he said, eyeing Dusty, "not this time, April." Then Jim Bret grinned. It was as if he had accepted a challenge. "Good luck, cowboy," he said to Dusty Rivers. Dusty Rivers touched his forehead in salute. "Good luck, soldier," he called, as they drove off.

The day was peaceful. In the distance, the snowy peaks glistened in a brilliant sun; nearby, the hillsides were vivid with the greenery of northern pines; behind them, the log stockade of Fort Carlton receded in the distance. Dusty, looking at the beauty of the Canadian landscape, sighed, turned to April.

"Going our way, Jim?" asked April.

Big Bear's camp. Somebody has to stop Corbeau."

"Nae, nae," protested McDuff. "'Tis the thought o' a loon!"

But Cabot was looking at Bret. "Permission granted," he said softly.

Dusty Rivers rolled a cigarette. "Well," he drawled, "that's fine. Now how about permission for me, Inspector. I got business, too." And as they looked at him suspiciously: "Oh, I'm not goin' where he's goin'."

"Where do you want to go?"

"Batoche. I figure to find Corbeau in Riel's capital."

"You can't make an arrest in Canada."

Dusty shrugged. "If I gotta have a nurse," he said, "let him—" he indicated McDuff—"come along."

The Inspector considered, then said: "Go ahead, then."

Outside, Dusty and Tod found April. She was harnessing her wagon. "I'm going to Batoche," she told Dusty. "I can't leave my hospital just because of a little trouble."

"Now that's right odd, ma'am," said Dusty. "Tod, here, an' I were figurin' on the same thing. Here, let me . . ."

He took the harness from her, completed the job, while she watched, interested in this stranger who was so direct and so calm about everything. And when he had finished, he climbed up on the

"Now in Texas, ma'am," he said, "it's pretty too, but sort o' different. It's rollin' country and in the spring the blue-bonnets come up and cover the ground like a carpet. They look beautiful. So blue. Like your eyes, ma'am."

She looked sidewise at him and smiled. "I'd like to see Texas," she said.

"I'd like for you to, ma'am. Funny," he added, "I was just thinkin' about that. I'd like to show it to you."

He placed his hand on hers and she did not, strangely, withdraw it. They drove on in silence, their eyes on the far off peaks, but suddenly they were jerked back to the present by the sight of a white woman driving a wagon frantically down the road.

"Mrs. Burns!" cried April, and the wagon stopped. "What's the matter? Where are you going?"

"Anywhere," said the woman bitterly. Behind her in the wagon were several children. "Anywhere away from Batoche. Don't go there, Miss April. They've looted the place, and Corbeau—"

"Corbeau!" That was Dusty. "Is he there?"

"He was," said the woman.

"Come on, Scotty!" he yelled. He jumped down, ran around the wagon and presently he and McDuff were galloping madly toward Batoche, as April's heart contracted in fear.

A refreshment course of pecan pie, mints, cheese crackers, and coffee was served to the following: Mesdames F. J. Battle, Jeff Bates, C. L. Bellamy, C. F. Caruth Sr., T. M. Davidson, W. C. Guggolz, Ed McMordie, B. H. Melbern, Ed Melbern, R. E. Kirkpatrick, Reb Brown, John Burleson, Pearl White, Ross Woodall, Bob Saunders, and J. D. English.

Mrs. McCoy Entertains
Thursday Bridge Club

Members of the Thursday Bridge Club and other guests were entertained at the home of Mrs. D. D. McCoy on East Bridge on the appointed afternoon last week. Decorating the rooms were bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Seated at the three tables were, Mesdames E. L. Stewart, C. E. Gandy, Rufus Brown, Clay Stinnett, Bythel Cooper, Richard Dickie, R. W. Ward, R. B. Cross, Robert Brown, Bob Saunders, E. G. Beerwinkle, and Francis Johnson. High, second high and low score awards were presented Mrs. Cross, Mrs. Saunders, and Mrs. Dickie, respectively.

The hostess served a delectable salad plate at the conclusion.

Copeland Home Scene Of Luncheon For Bridge Club

The beautiful country home of Mrs. Theo Copeland was the scene of a delightful affair when she entertained with a buffet luncheon in compliment to members of the Wednesday Bridge Club on the appointed day. Fall flowers in profusion adorned the reception suite.

The series of contract games which followed the luncheon terminated with Mrs. Chess Sadler holding high and Mrs. Francis Caruth second high.

Sharing the courtesies were, Mesdames Jim McClellan, Mable Gardner, J. D. Brown Jr., Chess Sadler, Stewart Williams, H. K. Jackson, Miller Stinnett, H. B. Thevenet of Dallas, Louis Thomson, Francis Johnson, Francis Caruth, and Roger Miller.

Mexican Supper, Kitchen Shower Given Bride-Elect

A Mexican buffet supper and kitchen shower was the compliment extended Miss Leah Dale Franks, bride-elect of Joe Ricketts, when Mrs. Q. A. McIver and Miss Fred Byron entertained at the home of the former on south Lutterloh avenue Saturday evening.

The dining table was centered with arrangement of chrysanthemums in a modernistic container; under the large yellow chrysanthemum stood a miniature bride and bridegroom. Bouquets of red rosebuds decorated the home throughout. Talisman and yellow roses adorned the buffet and at either side white tapers burned in silver candelabra.

Following the supper, the honoree was presented a shower of lovely gifts.

Attending were the following, Misses Mamie Sue Halbrook, Jane Thomson, Annie Ruth Ricketts, Frankie Mae Blair, and Mesdames, Edgar Franks, E. W. Jones Jr., Johnnie Bradford, Billie McMordie, Crawford Scott, Charles Powell, Bill Nesbitt, Buster Cummings, Clarence Shepherd, A. W. Ellis, and Ola Mae Parks, and the honoree.

Miss Rachel Williamson
Weds George P. Edwards

Miss Rachel Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williamson, became the bride of George P. Edwards of Electra, Texas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Edwards Sr., of Troy, Texas, Friday afternoon, October 25 at the home of the bride's parents. The simple but impressive ceremony was read by the Rev. R. M. Studer, pastor of the Pearl Methodist church.

The bride was lovely in a kahki-green fur trimmed costume suit. Her accessories were brown, and she wore a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums. For something old she wore a gold band ring belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Bush Williamson; the ring was a gift to the grandmother from her husband sixty-five years ago. For something borrowed she wore her mother's diamond bar pin.

Miss Loydeene Williamson, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. She chose a royal blue velvet dress with black accessories and a corsage of talisman roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Ebb Edwards of Odessa, as best man.

Mrs. Lloyd Williamson, Mrs. Bush Williamson and Mrs. Ed Carpenter, mother and grandmothers of the bride, wore corsages of white gardenias.

A reception was held following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Priscilla Ann Carpenter aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. She was assisted by Miss Lewan Farmer, Ferdonia and Joan Robinson.

Mrs. Edwards was a 1940 graduate of Pearl High School. She is popular among residents of her community, and her friends are numbered by her acquaintances. Mr. Edwards is a graduate of Troy High School and has attended Howard Payne College in Brownwood three years. At present he is superintendent of the Beckman & Co., Inc. at Electra, Texas.

After a short wedding trip to East Texas and Muskogee, Oklahoma, the couple will be at home in Electra.

Out-of-town guests for the ceremony and reception were, Alex Edwards Sr., Mrs. C. E. Edwards Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carpenter and Priscilla Ann, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Simmons and Carrie Nell Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gunn and J. H. of Waco; Miss Lewan Farmer of Izora; Mrs. Fred Robinson, Fredonia and Joan, and Mr. and Mrs. Bush Williamson of Pearl.

Hornets Trample Groesbeck Goats 15-7 In Non-Conference Tilt

FRY, DAVIS AND GRIBBLE
PILOT HORNETS TO VICTORY
OVER LIMESTONE ELEVEN

Faced by some spectacular ball-carrying by Fry, Gatesville's tip-top backfield star, gave the Hornets a 15-7 decision over Coach Wayne Thompson's Groesbeck Goats in a non-conference tilt here Friday night.

Fry made the first counter of the game in the first quarter on a three yard plunge over his own right tackle after a series of drives had placed the ball on about the three yard line. A safety in the second quarter gave the Hornets 2 more points and at the end of the half they were out in front, 8-0.

Davis carried the mail for the Hornets in their second dash for pay dirt and plowed over right tackle for the Hornets final marker.

The Goats scored their lone touchdown in the final quarter after a series of slick passing plays had advanced the ball down to the one yard line where Anderson carried it over. Little converted the extra point through center.

Hyden, Wilson and Little played headup for the Goats in the backfield and in the latter part of the game unleashed a passing attack and a series of sneak plays that clicked nicely. Fitts starred on the line.

For the Hornets in the backfield, Fry was the tops while King also turned in a good performance. Gribble and White sparked the line.

FIRST QUARTER

Groesbeck receives. Crow holding and Gribble kicking, the ball goes down to the 20 where it is picked up by Little. Anderson makes 1 at RT. Wilson picks up 1 at C. Little fails to gain at center. Anderson gets off a nice kick ball going down to Fry who picks it up on about the 15 and returns to the 20. Here he Hornets start a series of short line drives that carried them almost to the goal line and Fry plows over RT for about

FLAT YELLOWJACKETS LEAP TO FRONT IN 6-MAN FOOTBALL RACE: BEAT TIGERS 40-30

The Flat Yellowjackets maintained their undefeated status in the Coryell County six-man race at Flat Friday afternoon by jumping on the classy Oglesby High School Tigers by a score of 40-30.

Spectators swooned, Coaches chewed cigars and reserve players on both teams practically wore out the benches as the battle raged back and forth in what was termed the most colorful sixman game ever unreeled on a Coryell County gridiron.

The Flat Jackets, weary of being stomped by strong teams in the years past, finally came into their own and now only one more hurdle remains between them and the district championship. Driving hard, they got the jump on the Tigers by scoring a touchdown in the first few minutes of play and from then on were never headed. Almost as sudden a Tiger romped over the line for a touchdown on the battle was on. Oglesby who heretofore has dazzled their opponents with a sparkling passing attack, couldn't even hold the hustling little Flat crew a light who heaved the ole pigskin around like they had lasses in their hands.

Speedy Carter McKelvain, Oglesby's backfield ace teamed with Clearman and Griffin in an effort to halt the Yellowjackets powerhouse drives down the barred green but in most instances, their efforts were futile.

The Jackets made most of their markers on passes while the Tigers had to resort to line drives. The feature play of the game was a 50 yard gallop to pay dirt by Love, Flat halfback, in the first quarter.

Love and Williams starred on the offense for the Jackets, while Taylor, Whigham and Poe served well on defense. McKelvain, Griffin and Clearman formed the spearhead of the Tigers attack.

Regardless of the fact that the Tigers lost to the Jackets, the strenght of the Oglesby team should not be under estimated, and should Flat fail to defeat Copperas Cove next Friday, it looks like a three-way tie for the district championship.

MRS. J. W. HERRING PASSES AWAY

On Monday morning, October 28, at 4:30 o'clock, Mrs. J. W. Herring passed away at her home at Ater, following an illness of some few months. Her family and friends had watched anxiously at her bedside for days.

Sarah Eliza Carnation was born January 10, 1874 in Tupelo, Mississippi. She was united in marriage to J. W. Herring on September 11, 1890. To this union ten children were born. One little child passed away at the age of three months. A daughter, Mrs. Edna Timmons, preceded her mother in death several years. Although she was ill at the time, Mr. and Mrs. Herring had the blessed privilege of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary on September 11, this year.

Besides rearing her own family of nine children, Mrs. Herring took two little grandchildren, Mon-Bronson Davis, into her home at the age of eight months and two years and eight months. She cared for them and bestowed a mother's love.

Mrs. Herring is survived by her devoted husband, J. W. Herring, and eight children, namely, Windam Herring of Arnett, Johnnie and Charlie Herring of Ater, Henry Herring of McGregor, Mrs. Lillie Quicksall of Wylie, Texas, Mrs. Addie Vannoy of Arnett, Mrs. Medie Sharp of Gatesville, and Mrs. Little Richardson of Ater; also 42 grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren; one sister, one brother, four half-sisters, one half-brother, and a host of friends mourn her passing.

Mrs. Herring joined the Baptist Church when just a small child. She was united with the Christian Church in 1904 and was a faithful member until her death.

GATESVILLE STUDENTS ON J.T.A.C. HONOR ROLL

By being on the preliminary honor roll, Marguerite Kelso and John F. Post of Gatesville have achieved a great distinction at John Tarleton College. Of the 1300 students at that institution, 115 were on the honor roll. Fewer than ten percent of the students received this honor. To gain this rating, one must make at least 80 in every subject for that preliminary.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest appreciation for every kind word and expression of sympathy during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. J. W. Herring. We wish to especially thank Mr. John Russell for his thoughtful assistance. May each of you be rewarded for your kindness.

Thirty-six head of livestock were taken by Oglesby FFA boys to the State Fair, and Oglesby was represented by Ralin Johnson, Billie Parks Walker, Billie Charles Pollard, Cecil Davis, Donald Spradley, Buddie Merritt and James Etheridge. The total return for their stock was $557.00.

Oglesby was also well represented at the Waco Fair by a combination Educational and Community booth which won 8th, Billie Parks Walker's calf won 2nd.

Altho other winners were reported in a recent issue of the News, the display at the Waco Fair netted the FFA and community $53.32.

In celebration of this outstanding showing a Miniture Free Fair is planned for Thursday night, November 7, at which time the boys will display items to the Waco show.

QUIZ TODAY—
HOW DID THE WORD "HONEYMOON" ORIGINATE? (see below)

NIAGARA FALLS

SINCE 1840 THE ONLY HEAT IN THE DINING ROOM OF ANTOINE'S RESTAURANT, NEW ORLEANS, LA., HAS COME FROM THE OLD GAS MANTLES ON THE CHANDELIER!

WHEN SPEEDED TO 30 KNOTS THE DESTROYER INCREASES IN LENGTH FROM 6 TO 8 INCHES, WHILE A SUBMARINE WHEN DIVING, BECOMES HEAVIER AND SMALLER!

Newlyweds once imbibed a drink of honey and wine for a full month after their marriage. Hence the word honeymoon, (moon meaning month).

The increase in pressure on the destroyer's sides at high speed "squeezes" it into greater length, while the increased pressure of the water when the sub descends, causes the circumference to shrink. Thus, being smaller, the sub displaces less water and becomes heavier!

Gas—today's universal fuel in 14,500,000 American homes, and in thousands of restaurant kitchens throughout the U. S.—is still serving the old lighting chandelier in Antoine's, famous New Orleans, La., restaurant. Odd as it seems—this has been the only light in the dining room for a hundred years, and it serves the purpose.

LIBERTY CLUB HAS CABINET SHAKE-UP AT MEETING

Our Club seems to be keeping abreast of the time. It is up with the British Empire in "Cabinet Shake-ups". At our last meeting the following officers resigned, Mrs. Bessie Brown, president, Mrs. Jack Billingsley, vice-president, and Miss Grace Elam, reporter.

The officers elected to take their places were: Mrs. L. C. Perryman, president, Mrs. J. B. Jones, vice-president, and Miss Pauline Glaze, reporter. This gives all the officers to Coryell County.

The first group entertainment went over with a bang. Mrs. Hill Parrish, Mrs. Willie Wenzel, Miss Pauline Wenzel, and Mrs. A. G. Kautzsch emphasized the Halloween season when they entertained at the Kautzsch home October 22. About 50 plates of delicious refreshments were passed to the guests.

Plans were made for our Club Achievement Day on Nov. 12

All members and visitors wishing to join the progressive tour will meet at the A. G. Kautzsch home at one o'clock. At this time home food storage and stone poultry houses will be exhibited. The next stop will be at the Ed Belvin home, where a frame garden, their new home and their septic-tank system will be considered. The third stop will be at the A. H. Calhoun home. Here a new poultry house and up-to-date equipment, also their new house will be items of interest. From there the group will go to Mrs. John Laxon's home; she will exhibit the impressions of the year's work and her yard. This tour will be conducted by the Club officers: Mrs. L. C. Perryman, Mrs. J. B. Jones, Mrs. Calvin Perryman and Miss Pauline Glaze. Mrs. Loy Gene Brown will have charge of the 4-H girls activities connected with the program.

When we think of November 26 and of such cooks as Mrs. Jack Billingsley, Mrs. James Billingsley, Mrs. Onstott and Mrs. Gatlin, we all know that our Thanksgiving meeting will be happy one. It will be at the Billingsley home which is very sacred to the people of this area as the pioneer mansion of Uncle Jimmie Carter, of the first settlers in our country. He was Mr. Billingsley's grandfather.

Although weather-boarding and ceiling covers, the ancient logs, the spacious rooms and the two great fireplaces on either side of the house lend the comfort and cheer of the pioneer days. These ladies have had their two large turkeys in the fattening pen for some time. So we know that they will be juicy and prime. Add to these the many delicious dishes that the Club members will contribute and have the right to expect a feast fit for a king. All members and their families are expected to attend.—Reporter, Miss Grace Elam.

TOPSEY H-D CLUB

Last Wednesday, October 23, Mrs. Bill Allen started her club entertainment off with a grand dinner. Bro. R. M. Studer of Purnella was the honor dinner guest. Twelve members came to help the hostess with a lovely quilt. Visitors were, Mesdames Kyle Homer and Tom Allen, Pidcock, Mrs. Dee Cowan and Otto Frazier, County Line, Mrs. Rector Wolf and Miss Elsie Lenord, Lampasas, Mrs. Barney Hill and Miss Flora Frase, local visitors.

Miss Sidney Gayle Gibson was present demonstrating her tasty dished of jellied meat loaf and boiled shoulder.

The next meeting will be November 9 with Mrs. Clifford Durham. Visitors welcome.

Representative Earl Huddleston, enroute from Austin to his home in Oglesby Friday, was painfully injured in a car wreck, a truck hitting his car from the rear. Rep. Huddleston sustained a severe cut on his foot. Late today, reports are that the injury is healing and he will be able to assume his duties at once.

Mrs. John T. Morgan sustained a crushed vertebra in an accident Saturday night at South Bosque when another automobile crashed into the rear of the Morgan car while they were stopped fixing their lights. She was carried to the Baptist Sanitarium, where she is reported suffering considerable pain.

MAPLE CLUB NEWS

Mrs. Finnis Carroll was hostess when the club met Thursday, October 24. One quilt was quilted. Pal gifts were exchanged and admired. Refreshments consisting of pimento cheese sandwiches, cookies, and iced tea, were passed to the following members, Mesdames J. L. Brookshire, W. W. Carroll, D. J. McBride, O. C. Marshall, Ted Bay, R. T. Brookshire, Sam Shults, W. T. Walker and R. M. Phillips.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. R. T. Brookshire on November 7. Everyone bring your thimble. Visitors are always welcome.

Red Cross Chairmen Elected At Meeting

As a result of a meeting Wednesday of the Red Cross officials here, a nominating committee was appointed to elect a Roll-Call Chairman and a County Chairman.

The committee made the report at a meeting held Thursday and the following were elected: Mrs. Tom Mears, Roll-Call Chairman; Eugene Alvis, County Chairman.

Mrs. Mears and Mr. Alvis succeed Mrs. Turk Brown who has resigned on account of her health.

GAS MEN PREPARE FOR TOUGH WINTER: INCLUDING COLDS

Gas men are preparing for the extreme demands for fuel service that cold weather necessitates. Main lines and all other equipment have been checked for winter roughness.

The company suggests, "checking" your heating requirements and appliances, and not to wait until a "cold spell" hits.

"Winter presents a threat to the family's health, using the common cold as an advance guard to open the door for pneumonia, influenza, and other serious ailments. Overheated rooms contribute to this as much as under heated rooms. Guard also against draughts, over-eating and other contributing causes.

FSA EXPLAINS NEW LEASE FORM

A new lease form has been devised by the FSA, called the "Flexible Lease", which does not necessarily provide for a long-term lease, but it sets up conditions under which the tenant and landlord will be helped to work out arrangements benefiting both and will cause them to want to continue the lease, according to George C. Moore, FSA supervisor.

This lease is usually made with the "automatic renewable" clause, which requires written notice if it is to expire, and automatic renewal if no notice is given.

These may be had at the FSA office over the News building.

Pilot's Persiflage:
Or, Air Chatter

Compression: A rib which performs the functions of a camber rib and also that of acting against the tension of the interior cross-bracing wires. Usually solid, where as the camber ribs are cut away for lightness.

False: A short, light rib, used for maintaining the camber of the leading and trailing edges of an aerofoil.

Rigging: 1. The framework of and airplane, together with the wires and fittings which hold it together. 2. The art of assembling and aligning an airplane.

Rocket: To rise steeply into air.

Roll-over: A manoeuvre in which the machine is made to turn over and over about its longitudinal axis while flying forward. With a very powerful engine this can be done while the machine maintains horizontal or nearly horizontal flight. Also called "barrell".

Balanced: A rudder having part of the surface in front of its pivot.

Bar: A bar or strip of wood pivoted through its center, and actuated by the pilot's feet to move the rudder.

Post: The vertical post to which the rudder is hinged.

Seaplane: A heavier-than-air aircraft of the pusher or tractor type (which see) rising from or alighting on the water, having wings, stabilizing surfaces, rudders and a power plant for propulsion through the air. (See airplane).

Serve: To bind with wire or fibre, as in an eye splice.

Side Slipping: Sliding toward the center of a turn. It is due to excessive amount of bank for the turn being made, and is the opposite of side slipping.

Skids: Long wooden or metal runners designed to prevent nosing of a land machine when landing or to prevent dropping into holes or ditches in rough ground.

Generally designed to function should the wheels collapse or fail to act.

Tail: A runner attached to the empennage to support it on the ground and in landing.

Wing: A curved bar placed on the under side of the lower wing near the tip to protect it in case of a bad landing.

Slip: This term applies to propeller action and is the difference between the actual velocity of advance of an aircraft and the speed calculated from the known pitch of the propeller and its number of revolutions.

Soaring Machine: See "Gilder."

Spar: A long piece of wood, one of the compression members of a wing, running transversely to its direction of motion.

Spread: The maximum distance laterally from tip to tip of an airplane wing.

Stability: The quality of an aircraft in flight which causes it to return to a condition of equilibrium when meeting disturbance. (That is sometimes called "Dynamical stability".)

Directional: Stability with reference to the vertical axis.

Inherent: Stability of an aircraft due to the disposition and arrangement of its fixed parts.

Lateral: Stability with reference to its longitudinal (fore-and-aft) axis.

Longitudinal: Stability with reference to its lateral (athwartship) axis.

Stabilizer: See "Fins".

Mechanical: Any automatic device designed to secure stability in flight.

Stagger: The amount of advance of the entering edge of the upper wing of a biplane over that of the lower. It is considered positive when the upper surface is forward.

Stalling: A term describing the condition of an airplane which from any cause has lost the relative speed necessary for steering and control.

Statoscope: An instrument to detect the existence of a small rate of ascent or descent, principally used in ballooning.

Stay: A wire, rope, or the like used as a tie piece to hold parts together or to contribute stiffness.

Stream-Line Flow: A term in hydromechanics to describe the condition of continuous flow of a fluid, as distinguished from eddying flow where discontinuity takes place. Stream-Line Shape: A shape intended to avoid eddying or discontinuity and to preserve stream-line flow, thus keeping resistance to progress at a minimum.

Douglas Leigh, the Broadway electric-sign-magnate (his newest is the Wilson sign at 46th Street for the White-Lowell firm) tells this about Capt. White . . . About a decade ago White and a handful of men were pioneering the African Airways, and one of their group (a famed war ace and stunt flier) attempted a dangerous hop from Eastern Africa to Central Europe . . . When no word came, White assigned one of his men, a British aviator, to search for the missing pilot . . . Risking his life in the uncharted skies, the British birdman finally spotted the wreck on a tiny isle, radioed for help and rescued the disabled flier from his doom . . . Ten years later, the life which was saved by a British Royal Air Force plane was to dedicate itself to the death of Britain . . . The man the Englishman rescued was Captain Udet, Germany's star stunt man, who is in charge of invading parachutists.

Stringer: A long, thin piece of wood, parallel to the spars, passing through the ribs to prevent them from warping.

Strut: A compression member of a truss frame. For instance, the vertical members of the wing truss of a biplane.

Surface, Detrimental: All the surface of an airplane which furnishes neither lift nor thrust.

Keel: All the surface of an airplane visible from the side.

Sweep-Back: The horizontal angle between the lateral (athwartship) axis of an airplane and the entering edge of the main planes.

Tachometer: An instrument to give the instantaneous speed of a revolving part.

Tail: The rear portion of an aircraft, to which are usually attached rudders, elevators, and fins.

Tail Skid: A skid under the tail used in landing.

Tail Fins: The verticle and horizontal surfaces attached to the tail, used for stabilizing.
