Among the final courtesies paid Miss Leah Dale Franks, whose marriage to Joe Ricketts took place Sunday, was the delightful affair given by Mrs. Elworth Lowrey and Mrs. Eugene Alvis at the home of the former on College street Friday evening. Bowls and vases of yellow and white chrysanthemums lent additional charm to the reception rooms, where tables were arranged for bridge and 42.

Miss Franks, the honoree, scored high in the bridge games, and Miss Mamie Sue Halbrook was second high score winner. After prizes had been awarded the winners, the hostesses presented the honoree two lovely gifts.

A delicious refreshment course of date-nut cake topped with whipped cream, and coffee and nuts was served to the following guests: Misses Truie Pearl and Thelma McGilvray, Aurora Yongue, Mamie Sue Halbrook, and Mesdames M. H. Shepherd, Jr., Clarence Shepherd, E. W. Jones Jr., Billy McMordie, Johnnie Bradford, Francis Powell, A. L. Welch, of Longview, Charles Powell, Crawford Scott, Edgar Franks, C. E. Alvis Sr., A. W. Ellis, M. W. Lowrey, and the honoree.

Miscellaneous Shower Given Bride-Elect

Mrs. Wood Russell was hostess in her home in the King community Wednesday, November 6, with a miscellaneous shower complimenting Miss Willie Basham, bride-elect of E. J. Conner. Mrs. Russell was assisted in the hospitality by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Howard Russell.

After a number of games were played, the bride-elect was blindfolded and ushered to a special chair. Seated with her were here mother, Mrs. Lee Basham, and her aunt, Mrs. Curt Moore. After the blinds were removed from her eyes, she thrilled in unwrapping and admiring the many useful gifts which were piled around her.

Delicious cake and hot chocolate were served at the conclusion.

In attendance were the following, Misses Ruth Sanders and Floy Basham, and Mesdames Jim Carpenter, Lena Brown, Ben Herring, Jim Saunders, Frank Woods, Burnell Basham, Charlie Maynard, Barry Dickie, Stumpy Dickie, Lloyd Russell and son Billie Lloyd, Snow Wilkenson and daughter, Webster Sanders and son, George Edd, Homer Baize, Robert Smith, John Scott and the honoree.

Mrs. C. L. Thetford Honored on Birthday

Despite the bad weather, Sunday, November 10, the children of Mrs. C. L. Thetford entertained with a surprise birthday dinner in honor of her 70th birthday anniversary. The crowd began gathering early in the morning and by noon most of the guests had arrived.

The white birthday cake with pink decorations which was baked by Mrs. George Thetford, centered the long table of good eats. The candles were lighted at the noon hour and blown out by the honoree.

The dinner, served picnic style, was enjoyed by the following: Mr. and Mrs. George Thetford and three children, Betty Sue, Durward and Theon Dean of Purlmela. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thetford and children, S. C., Randell, Yvonne and Avis of Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Fay Thetford and children, Reg-nold and Inez of Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Oran Thetford and daughter, Oranez, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Meyers and children, Robbie Mae, Dorothy Sue, and Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Chambers and daughter, Dolliva Ann, of Purlmela.

Mr. and Mrs. Wess Strickland of Levita, Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Edwards of McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Morris of McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. G. Lawrence of Ludders, Texas and daughter, Oma Lagene, and H. L. Hubbard of Carlton. Afternoon callers were, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Comer and sons, Amos and Jimmie Don.

The honoree received many nice gifts. The guests departed late in the afternoon wishing Mrs. Thetford many more happy birthdays

GHS Hornets Vs. Marlin Bulldogs On Marlin Gridiron Today

The Gatesville High School Hornets, battered and bruised after their battle with the Hamilton Bulldogs at Hamilton last Friday night, have been working diligently preparing for their encounter with the Marlin Bulldogs at Marlin Friday afternoon which will be their last away-from-home game of the season.

Somewhat weakened by the loss of Crow, Hornet quarterback who is out with a broken wrist, the Hornets are doped by many to go down in defeat before the classy Bulldog aggregation who have been giving some of the district's strongest teams a run for their money. The Hornets, however seem to relish tough competition and have turned in their best performances when the going was the hardest.

A glance at the records shows that neither team has hung up any spectacular victories this year but have enjoyed an average season and everything points to a good game between two hustling teams when the Bulldogs and the Hornets clash Friday afternoon.

This being the last away-from-home game of the season the local fans are expected to support the Hornets to the limit and many will join the auto parade to Marlin for the game which will begin about 2:45 p. m.

Here's the probably starting line-up for the Hornets:

- 60 Oldham—B
- 99 Gribble—E
- 57 Sydow—LG
- 77 Anderson—C
- 55 White—RG
- 51 Bone—RT
- 90 Manning—RE
- 61 Sexton—Q
- 88 King—LT
- 44 Fry—B
- Davis—B

Humble To Broadcast Four Big Games Saturday

Four football broadcasts have been scheduled by the Humble Oil & Refining Company for Saturday; radio followers of the Southwest Conference race will have three conference contests and one non-conference game to choose from.

Of most importance in final Conference standings is the game between the Rice Owls and the Texas Aggies. The Humble broadcast of this important clash will begin at 2:20 p. m. The Conference game between SMU and the University of Arkansas will also be put on the air at 2:20 p. m. The third Conference game of the afternoon will be played by Texas Christian University and the University of Texas at Fort Worth. Humble's broadcast of this game will start at 1:50 p. m.

Baylor defends the Conference intersectional laurels Saturday in a game with Tulsa in Waco. The broadcast will start at 2:20 p. m. with Hal Thompson handling the play-by-play.

Buffaloes Beat Pearl Dragons 16-11 Monday

The Turnersville Buffaloes racked up a 16-1 win over the Pearl Dragons in a sizzling six-man contest on the Pearl gridiron on Armistice day. The game was previously scheduled for Friday of last week but was postponed until Monday due to unfavorable weather conditions.

No high-lights of the game was reported other than it was closely contested game with both teams turning in good games.

Oglesby Noses Out Pottsville 6-0 Friday

The Oglesby High School Tigers journeyed to Pottsville last Friday afternoon and beat back a determined crew of Pottsville gridriders by a close score of 6-0.

The game was played on a wet field and neither team was able to get loose for any substantial gains. Pottsville evidently is gaining ground judging from the good showing that they made against the strong Tiger aggregation and if the end of the season was not so close at hand they would undoubtedly climb up toward the top of the percentage column. By defeating Pottsville the Tigers are still in the running for the six-man crown, along with Flat and Copperas Cove, the other two contenders.

Mr. Ward Burris, Sports Editor, The Express, San Antonio, Texas.

Dear Wardie:

Well, the last county I had, it was 26,000,000 Democrats and 22,000,000 Republicans had voted in the 'lection. If Adolph and Benito wants to bop Uncle Sam in the hat with a couple of mud balls, them figgers above will read, 48,000,000 Americans.

I seen where one town in South Carolina voted 28 to 1 fer Roosevelt. I wonder how that Republican got lost?

I wonder what Mr. Roosevelt is a goin' to think about that many people a votin' fer "evil influences"?

Mr. Willkie can now go back to Indiany and put out a shingle:

"Attorney at Law."

I want to withdraw my nomination of Texas fer the Southwest Conference championship. Rice bopped 'em, and SMU made 'em stay bopped.

There's been so much tradition upsettin', like Thanksgiving, third term, stanford, etcetery, that 'Im a goin' to bet a old rooster and a settin' hen that the Aggies beats Texas on the last Thursday in this month, which is Thanksgiving Day in about one third of the states.

I was a goin' up to see that Aggie-SMU game 'til I read in the Express that tickets were scarcer'n a Republican campaign sticker in Texas on November 6th, inst, 1940. Its a gettin' late now. I got to hear my 7 o'clock radio program and go to bed.

I'll be a seein' you Pal.

COPPERAS COVE BULLDOGS TRIUMPH OVER FLAT YELLOWJACKETS, 12-6 FRI.

The Copperas Cove Bulldogs sparked by a hustling end named Horner and Fabian, a back, defeated the Flat Yellowjackets by a score of 12-6 at Copperas Cove last Friday and checked the Jackets march to the six-man championship of Coryell county. Undeclared since the start of the season the Jackets had hoped to upset the Bulldogs and annex the trophy.

Copperas Cove scored their first touchdown on the first three or four plays when Fabian tied on to a pass and plunged over the goal line. Six more points were added in the second quarter when Miller blocked a Flat punt and Horner ran for a touchdown, making the half score read, Copperas Cove 12, Flat 0.

Taylor caught a pass in the third quarter and marched over for the Yellowjackets first touchdown but they were unable to repeat the trick and the Bulldogs were out in front 12-6 at the final whistle.

The Bulldogs as a team played a wonderful brand of football and it was only by their continuous drive that they were able to defeat the Jackets. Horner was probably the most outstanding player on the Cove team with Fabian trailing with a close second.

Tiny Love, Flat halfback and the sparkplug of the Yellowjacket aggregation went out of the game with an injury after the first few plays and his loss was felt keenly by his mates who was depending upon his generalship to bring them out of the game undefeated. Blackshear, Poe and Taylor and the other Flat regulars played their usual good brand of ball.

Here's the lineups:
C. Cove                      Pos.                      Flat
Kunkle                      LE                      Thomas
Miller                      RE                      Taylor
Fabian                      FB                      Kennedy
Dewald                      HB                      Love
Adams                      QB                      Whigham

Blackshear also saw service in the Flat lineup.

Officials were: Higginbotham, referee; Beasley, Umpire; Kennedy head linesman.

CRAWFORD PIRATES SMEAR GATESVILLE
"SCRUBS" 27-0 HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Tuesday night in the local stadium the Crawford Pirates smeared the Gatesville High School Hornet's "second string" by a score of 27-0. It was a slam-bang battle all the way but the locals couldn't keep up with the nimble legged visitors who marched up and down the field almost at will and chalked up a lop-sided score.

The most spectacular play of the evening was a 97 yard punt return by a Crawford boy whose name we didn't get. The Hornet squad was made up of reserves from the regular team, a few young gridders from the local Jr. High and several "old-heads" from last year's team to hold them together.

We haven't been informed whether or not the locals will play the Pirates a return game.

TEMPLE IS AWARDED NEXT DISTRICT
GOLDEN GLOVES BOXING TOURNAMENT

The District Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament which for the past two years has been held in Gatesville has been awarded to Temple according to a letter received from Flem Hall, Sports Editor of the Fort Worth Star Telegram. The letter reads as follows:

Fort Worth, Texas
November 11, 1940

Mr. W. Mat Jones, Editor,
Coryell County News
Gatesville, Texas.
Dear Mat:

It is with sincere personal regret that I have to inform you that it will be impossible to award a District Golden Gloves Tournament to Gatesville this winter. You know the circumstances better than I, and following our convention here last winter, Temple has made such a strong representation of its case, that it was necessary to make it a District center.

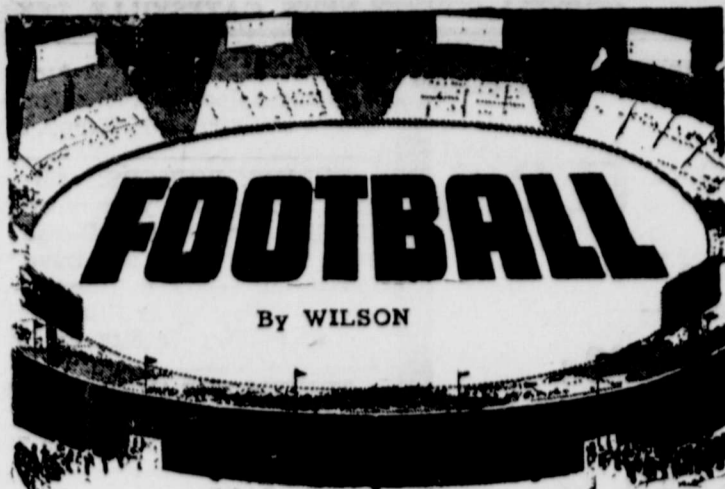

I hope Gatesville will keep up its interest and send its boys to Temple, but regardless of that, I want to express to you my sincere appreciation for your efforts in the past and extend to you my best wishes for the future.

Yours cordially,
FLEM HALL

Sports Editor Evening Star-Telegram.

For the past two years Temple practically supported the local Golden Gloves Tournament and now that the next District Tournament has been assigned to them it is almost certain to be a success. Gatesville was fortunate in obtaining this tournament in both 1938 and 1939, but since sport fans were slow to grasp its actual worth to Coryell county and lend their support the 1940 District Tournament has been awarded to Temple, and they are to be congratulated upon this assignment.

The Hornets have only one more away from home game remaining in the 1940 season and that will become history Friday night when they meet the Marlin Bulldogs at Marlin.

Comparing records, it looks as if the Bulldogs will take the Hornets in a walk, but Gatesville apparently plays their best when the competition is the toughest and the Bulldogs may get more than they are expecting.

The Flat Yellowjackets were toppled from the ranks of the undefeated at Copperas Cove last Friday afternoon when they were downed by the hardy Copperas Cove aggregation by a score of 12-6.

Since the Jacket's Powerhouse drive to the championship has been checked it looks like a three-way tie between Flat, Copperas Cove and Oglesby for the six-man crown.

The six-man football game between Lometa and Ireland which was scheduled to take place last Friday at Lometa was postponed due to rain according to reports received here.

"A BONER DELUXE"

We dunno how it hapened but in our report of the Hamilton-Gatesville game we stated that Fry made the touchdown for the Hornets when it should have been Crow. In a pile-up it is often hard to distinguish who is carrying the ball and this was undoubtedly a miss-que on our part. However, since Ben Owen played such a whale of a game and is out for the rest of the season we feel that it is our duty to correct this mistake.

Final Six-Man Games To Be Played Soon

The last games on the local six-man football schedule will be marked off Friday afternoon if the weather permits and the top-flight teams will square off in the championship tilt.

Copperas Cove, who dumped the Flat Yellowjackets last Friday will travel to Pottsville to do battle with the Pottsville half-dozen in probably the closest game of the day. Flat is an easy favorite over the Lometa crew, but we haven't been informed where the game will be played. Pearl and Ireland tangle at Ireland in another fre-for-all while the Turnersville squad goes to Oglesby to clash with the Tigers.

This week's games will be the end of the season for most of the teams with only the leading teams remaining in the championship round. After Friday's games the final details will be worked out and all details concerning the final round will be worked out to the satisfaction of the coaches of the top-flight teams and this information will be carried in the sport columns of the News.

Six-man football in this county has enjoyed one of the biggest seasons since its inaugural several years ago and no doubt but what a record crowd will attend the final game.

Deer Season Opens
Saturday, Nov. 16.

Local huntsmen are all set for the opening of the deer, wild turkey, javelina and black bear season, which will open Saturday morning, November 16.

State game departments report a plentiful supply of white tail deer and wild turkey in most famed sections, though black tail deer and black bear are not so numerous in the extreme west section. West Texas ranchers report a huge turkey crop and the bag limit is two a season in 21 of the counties of the hill country and west Texas. Everywhere else it's three a season.

The season on Black tail deer and black bear closes on November 30 the others end Dec. 31.

WAR FOR THE U. S.?

The United States eventually will become directly involved in the European war.

That was the flat assertion of Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, former commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, in a lecture which I heard this week.

Acting upon the thesis that the vital interests of this country are inseparably linked with the maintenance of democracy in Britain and the destruction of totalitarianism in formerly free states, Admiral Yarnell stated that no one man could keep us out of war.

Although President Roosevelt promised in the campaign that he would work unceasingly for peace if re-elected, we must not assume, the Admiral warned, that we shall have peace so long as Europe is in a state of turmoil.

He recalled that President Wilson was re-elected in 1916 on a pledge to keep us out of war, and that within a month after his second inauguration we were in the hostilities against Germany.

Admiral Yarnell stated categorically that in actuality the United States is in the war now, having sold destroyers to Britain in contravention of all tenets of international law and being engaged in embargo action against the totalitarian states.

Only with the complete victory of Britain and of her spiritual allies throughout the once-democratic states of Europe can the United States be assured of peace and security, Admiral Yarnell averred.

For this reason, he advocated that the neutrality act be replaced to permit our merchant vessels to transport materials of all kinds to Britain with American naval vessels as convoys if necessary.

So long as the issue in Europe is in doubt, we must continue to amass our armaments on a gigantic scale, he said.

Eventually, he said, we shall be unable to maintain our present high standards of living, due to the prohibitive cost of building and maintaining a huge defense structure.

Admiral Yarnell estimated that 20 billions of dollars would be required to construct an adequate navy, army and air force to protect American interests in the Western Hemisphere and in other parts of the world.

To maintain our defense forces, and annual expenditure of from six to eight billions of dollars will be necessary, he declared, adding that this sum is more than the total annual income of the federal government.

Admiral Yarnell retired recently from active service after having been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his outstanding work in what is generally conceded to be one of the Navy's most difficult assignments.

He commanded the Asiatic fleet at the beginning of the Japanese invasion of China and during the three subsequent years he was given virtually a free hand by the Navy and State Departments to make and carry out diplomatic policy in the Far East.

By his firm and brilliant handling of the complex problems originating from the Sino-Japanese conflict he won virtually every dispute which arose with the Japanese while retaining their respect and admiration.

On one occasion the Japanese authorities informed Admiral Yarnell that the Yangtze was not safe for navigation by foreign ships. Yarnell disposed of this contention by cruising from Shanghai up the river to Hankow.

Our policy in the Far East since 1937 has been dubbed the "Yarnell Policy."

His long service in the Far East has made Admiral Yarnell one of the country's outstanding experts on the diplomatic, economic, and military history of the Orient.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1940

WASHINGTON.—Little known fact regarding Britain's attempt to aid Greece was that this time, the British were not caught entirely napping. Several weeks before the Italian advance, they had smuggled one division of Australian troops into Greece, and they are now reported to be holding the passes in the rugged mountains of Macedonia.

However, the total Australian force is not much more than 20,000 men, a mere drop in the bucket compared with Italy's 200,000 troops now advancing from Albania.

Biggest help the British can give the Greeks, of course, is at sea. There have been no major engagements between the British and Italian fleets chiefly because the Italians have kept pretty well out of sight. But now, with the necessity of sending a constant stream of supplies to a large army, the Italians are sure to run into some major engagements with the British.

Unquestionably, if the Greeks should fall, it would be Yugoslavia's turn next. With the support of the Yugoslav army, the Greeks would have a real chance, for the Serbs are among the best fighters in Europe. However, the Balkans seem to be following the same policy of the Dutch and Belgians; that is, letting Hitler pick them off one by one.

LABOR TRUCES

Defense Commissioner Sidney Hillman's crack labor advisory board is making use of an old adage, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" to overcome one of the most serious obstacles to preparedness—work stoppage.

Quietly, the board has adopted the rule of getting employers and workers together on a mutual agreement for the settlement of disputes before activity is begun on a de-

This new system ensures labor the protection of its rights, and at the same time safeguards the employer from loss through strikes or jurisdictional squabbles between rival unions.

Illustrative of the plan is the agreement arranged between the contractors building the new six ways shipyard at Orange, Texas, for the Consolidated Steel Corporation of Los Angeles, and the union. It was negotiated by Charles MacGowan, able vice president of the

A. F. of L. boilermakers and a member of the labor advisory board.

Before a spade was put to ground, MacGowan secured from Harry Morton, contractor representative, an agreement guaranteeing payment of prevailing wages, time-and-a-half for overtime, double time for Sunday and holiday work, and no lock-outs. In exchange, Morton secured from labor a no-strike guarantee and arbitration of jurisdictional differences.

U. S. BLANKETS

Cable dispatches have made no reference to it, but one factor cited by military authorities with helping to maintain the morale of bomb-battered Londoners has been several hundred thousand American blankets. They have been a life saver for the harried men, women and children crowded into dank subterranean shelters.

Some time ago the British Red Cross cabled a frantic appeal for blankets for use in air-raid shelters. The American Red Cross decided to buy the durable and warm blankets used by the U. S. army, which average around $6 apiece in mass wholesale lots, but immediately ran into serious tangles.

One was the fact that the government was heavily in the market for blankets for the army and navy, and if the Red Cross also entered the market, prices would certainly skyrocket. So the Red Cross turned to the defense commission's business aces, who immediately called a conference of leading merchandisers from Macy's, Sears Roebuck, Filene's, Montgomery Ward and others.

By long distance telephone these experts immediately made a flash survey of U. S. mills, which revealed the discouraging fact that the mills didn't have 200,000 army-specification blankets on hand, even at $6 per blanket. But there were ample "seconds" available, blankets rejected by government inspectors. These could be bought at around $2 each.

And that was done. The British got blankets without delay and at a saving of $800,000. Simultaneously American mills cleared their shelves and the domestic market was undisturbed.

CAPITAL CHAFF

To keep step with the new civilian army, the war department has added a civilian adviser to its press section. He is Harold Jacobs, veteran newsman, borrowed from the wage-hour division.

Dies Committeeman Joe Starnes of Alabama has come to the defense of Rep. John Coffee of Washington, who is being accused by his Republican opponent of opposing the Dies investigation. Starnes sent Coffee a letter commending his support of the committee.

The P-TA supper at the school building last Thursday night with the threatening bad weather, was well attended and was sponsored by the Lions Club of Gatesville. It was enjoyed by all present and was in every way a success.

Last Wednesday was a great day on the ranch of Mr. M. S. Brooks when Mr. Guy Powell, county agent, and a number of the boys came to select about thirty high bred Hereford calves, all of uniform size to be fed until April 1st. These calves have been carefully fed throughout the summer, and are a choice lot. They will do well for they are high bred and will feed out easily and will furnish plenty of competition for the boys. Well, boys, when you finish them, we will try to be with you at your show on April 1st to see the blue ribbon winners.

The election is all over and the old president, Franklin Roosevelt, is our new president and he has added new laurels to his brow by winning a third term that no other president has ever done. Who said it could not be done? Well, strange things do happen, and now we are going to balance the budget by electing a third term governor, W. Lee O'Daniel. He is like Roosevelt, he is a runner.

CHAPTER SIX SYNOPSIS

The Canadian North West in 1885 is facing a bloody civil war with the Metis, a nation of half-breeds incited to rebellion by Jacques Corbeau, who is wanted for murder in Texas. Dusty Rivers, a Texas Ranger, comes to this wild country to arrest him. Corbeau, with the aid of a Gatling machine gun, stirs the Indians into revolt. Dusty accompanies the North West Mounted under Sergeant Jim Bret in an attempt to apprehend Corbeau. Constable Logan, brother of April, a frontier nurse, with whom Bret is in love, is detailed by the latter to scout the Indians. Corbeau's daughter, Louette, however, entices Logan away from his post. As a result, the Mounted Police ride unknowingly into an ambush previously arranged by Corbeau.

CHAPTER VII

"Oh my God!" said Jim Bret "Poor kid!" The patrol had marched on. Jim Bret, with Dusty and two troopers had ridden off the trail to pick up Jerry Moore and Ronnie Logan and hear their report. But Jim Bret now knelt beside the mutilated body of Jerry Moore. Of Ronnie

"Give me ten men," shouted Dusty Rivers to Jim Bret. "I'll hold the road, while you boys fall back!"

Logan there was no sign. The Sergeant stiffened suddenly, turned to the troopers: "Back to the column! Warn Inspector Cabot, outpost killed! Danger of enemy on all sides—gallop!" The troopers whirled their rearing horses, set off at a dead gallop, as Jim Bret and Dusty entered the cabin. They looked around and Jim Bret saw the note. He tore it from the wall and read it. "The klootch!" he said harshly. "The damned klootch got him at last!" He handed the note to Dusty, who read it. Dusty Rivers frowned, as if from some inner painful thought. He twisted the note into a spill, thrust it down into the smoldering coals of the fire that Ronnie had built the night before. The paper burst into flame. "Damn you!" said Jim Bret. "You're destroying evidence!" Dusty nodded calmly. "Evidence that might send a boy to a firing squad." "He'll deserve it if the column rides into a death trap!" "I was thinking of his sister, Jim Bret," said Dusty. The Sergeant turned away, but whirled, as they both heard the sound of rifle fire, then the diabolical chatter of the Gatling gun. "Damn him!" yelled Jim Bret. "They're paying for his mistake! Come on, cowboy!"

They leaped into their saddles, set off at a gallop toward the battle. They rode hard and presently they saw the scene below. The Mounted Police, caught in the crossfire in Beardy's Basin, were meeting the attack. Dusty and Jim Bret heard the bugle below "Commence Firing," glanced at each other, spurred their horses forward. Riding low, over their horses' sides, they sped through the fire, Indian fashion, until they reached the column. "Keep your fire low!" shouted Jim as he leaped off his horse. "Don't waste a shot!" Under pressure of the terrific fire, but with disciplined efficiency, the Mounted Police dissolved themselves into fighting formation. Here and there a trooper fell, as they dismounted, but there was no panic. It was as if they had rehearsed this scene many times, so precise was their action. Every seventh man took the horses to it! Have the bugler blow." Jim Bret gave the order. The notes of the bugle sounded clear, even above the terrible din of the battle. And still there was no panic. The Mounted Police moved to carry out the new orders. The wagons were heaved upright, even in the leaden sleet that filled the air about them; the horses were brought,—what was left of them; the wounded were carried and loaded in the wagons. The retreat began. "Give me ten men!" shouted Dusty Rivers to Jim Bret. "I'll hold the road, while you boys fall back!" He looked around, but it was hard to count ten men still on their feet. For an instant he and Jim Bret stared at each other; then, grimly they followed the retreating column, firing as they went, leaping from cover to cover, but their fire was deadly. There was no rush. Slowly, painfully, the shattered column made its way to the post. Slowly, relentlessly, the army of the Metis followed, but at least there was no Gatling gun now. Corbeau had to carry it as they traveled and the rifles of the police, though few, were still not to be braved by the breeds. They reached the Fort, closed the big gates of the stockade. "Man the bastions!" said Jim Bret. There were not many, but the bastions, the fire parapets were manned, even though the painfully wounded were needed to complete the complement of defence. Within the Fort, the doctor was busy. He hurried to Inspector Cabot's stretcher. "Attend the others!" snapped Inspector Cabot, but his voice was falling; and when the doctor hesitated: "That's a command!" He looked up as Jim Bret came to stand by him. "How many?" he gasped. "How many got back, Jim?" Jim Bret opened his mouth, but did not speak for a moment. "Not many," he said finally. There were, in fact, only eight who had survived without hurt, besides Tod McDuff and Dusty Rivers, but no need to tell Cabot that. For Inspector Cabot, Jim knew, was dying. The Commandant closed his eyes and for a moment it seemed that he had gone. But he opened his eyes. Feebly, he motioned for Jim Bret to lean more closely and Jim knelt beside him. "Logan deserted?" said Cabot, and when Jim, his face twisted with his pain, nodded: "Bring him to justice, then, Jim Bret!" The voice rang clear in that moment, but faded almost immediately. "You!" he continued weakly. "You, personally, Jim Bret!" The Sergeant nodded again and Inspector Cabot pressed his hand. "Hold—them—off," he whispered. "The—others—will come. Hold..." Inspector Cabot died. Jim Bret looked up at Dusty Rivers, his eyes suspiciously misty. Then they hurried from the place as a burst of firing came from outside. Fort Carlton, with its little band of defenders, was besieged by the Metis.

the rear. The others, running low, carbines in hands, deployed in a wide, semi-circular defence, taking advantage of every irregularity of ground for cover. Tod McDuff, looking, in battle, more like an Indian than a breed, crept here and there, seemed almost to blend with the landscape and fired coolly whenever a movement showed itself in the heavy greenery of the mountainsides. "Turn over the wagons!" shouted Inspector Cabot. "Use them as barricades!" The wagons were turned over, the troopers using them as cover, but Inspector Cabot, perhaps thinking of the effect he would have on attackers and attacked alike, disdained to protect himself. Between the lines he walked erect, swinging his riding crop, giving his orders. "Fire at the flashes!" he told them. "Conserve your shells!" They did as bidden, but the fire of the Metis began to tell. Here and there the troopers began to fall; the hideous fire of the Gatling gun that sprayed the entire basin kept the survivors from answering effectively. And finally Inspector Cabot, preserving his magnificent indifference as he walked in the enclosure, went down, a bullet in his chest. They rushed to him and he called for Jim Bret. "Take over!" he said weakly. "Fall back on Carlton and defend
