Keeping Up With The Joneses; Things We Didn't Know

By FRANK E. SIMMONS
News Feature Writer

Keeping up with the Joneses is a rather difficult job, for they came from hardheaded Scotch stock who brought from the old country many of the characteristics that belong to the Gael.

When this land, now known as Coryell County, was a part of Milam County, three men and their families settled in the region of where Neff Park is now located. One, F. M. Grimes, settled near where Horse Creek empties into the Leon River. Another, E. A.

Culpepper, settled on a hill overlooking Eagle Springs. The third, Jesse Jones, settled in the edge of the timber about a mile south of Eagle Springs. The Grimes descendants, and the Culpepper descendants still reside in that settlement; even unto the fifth generation. It was in 1852 that those settlements were made.

Jesse Jones brought several slaves with him from the state of Alabama and opened up a large plantation that lay principally in the Leon bottom. He erected a cotton gin, set up a sorghum mill, and a grist mill. He used horsepower to operate all of these mills. Of course all of this required several years time. About 1854 Mr. Jones erected a large double log house. There were four large rooms with hall between the two at each end of the house. A large open fireplace for each room. Two of these fireplaces were for cooking.

The house was built of hewn logs and is still standing, and in a fine state of preservation, a monument to the pioneer who erected it. Jesse Jones was born in 1810. His wife Martha was born in 1826. They settled this farm in 1852, and here Martha Jones died in 1858, leaving one son, Flave Jones. Mr. Jones later married a second time to a Miss Westbrook. To this union several children were born. Wm. F. Jones, who married Vesta Allen; Jesse C. who married Elizabeth Strickland. Jimmie Jones married Killie Seaton. Mrs. Fannie Kincannon and Mrs. Alabama Embry, were daughters by the second marriage.

Jesse Jones and his first wife were people of religious convictions, for we find they were charter members of Coryell Baptist Church, which was constituted in June 1854, and was the first church organized in Coryell County.

In 1857 among other "good and honorable citizens, freeholders in the state, and householders in the county" he was called to do Grand Jury service in ferreting out the sins of the recalcitrants of that early time. In his home was a library of valuable books and his son William F. inherited many of those books at the time of the father's death in 1873. A set of these books "Gibbons Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" passed from Wm. F. Jones, into the possession of John M. Simmons, about 1892.

In the years prior to the Civil War, another settler named Sam Baugh built a log house in the settlement. He later contracted with Jesse Jones, who was to take his slaves and quarry stone to erect a substantial stone residence. The stone was quarried but the war of 1861-65 came on and the building was deferred until 1871, when a fine stone house with 3

Thanksgiving

Ever Heard the Story of the FIRST THANKSGIVING?

Imagine the first harvest Thanksgiving in America, more than three hundred years ago. It probably started while families were gathered at someone's home after the day's work. The talk probably turned to events of the day and the bountiful year they've been enjoying . . . and in such an informal way as this, perhaps, they proclaimed the first Thanksgiving! Carrying through their plans was not so simple, for protection against Indians was needed all along the way. But they were successful because they knew all precautions taken for safety could not be too great.

Too, this Thanksgiving Day has been designated as "Thanks Day" a day to thank folks for something nice they've done for you, and a movement is on throughout the United States to make this a reality. Let's make it so here.

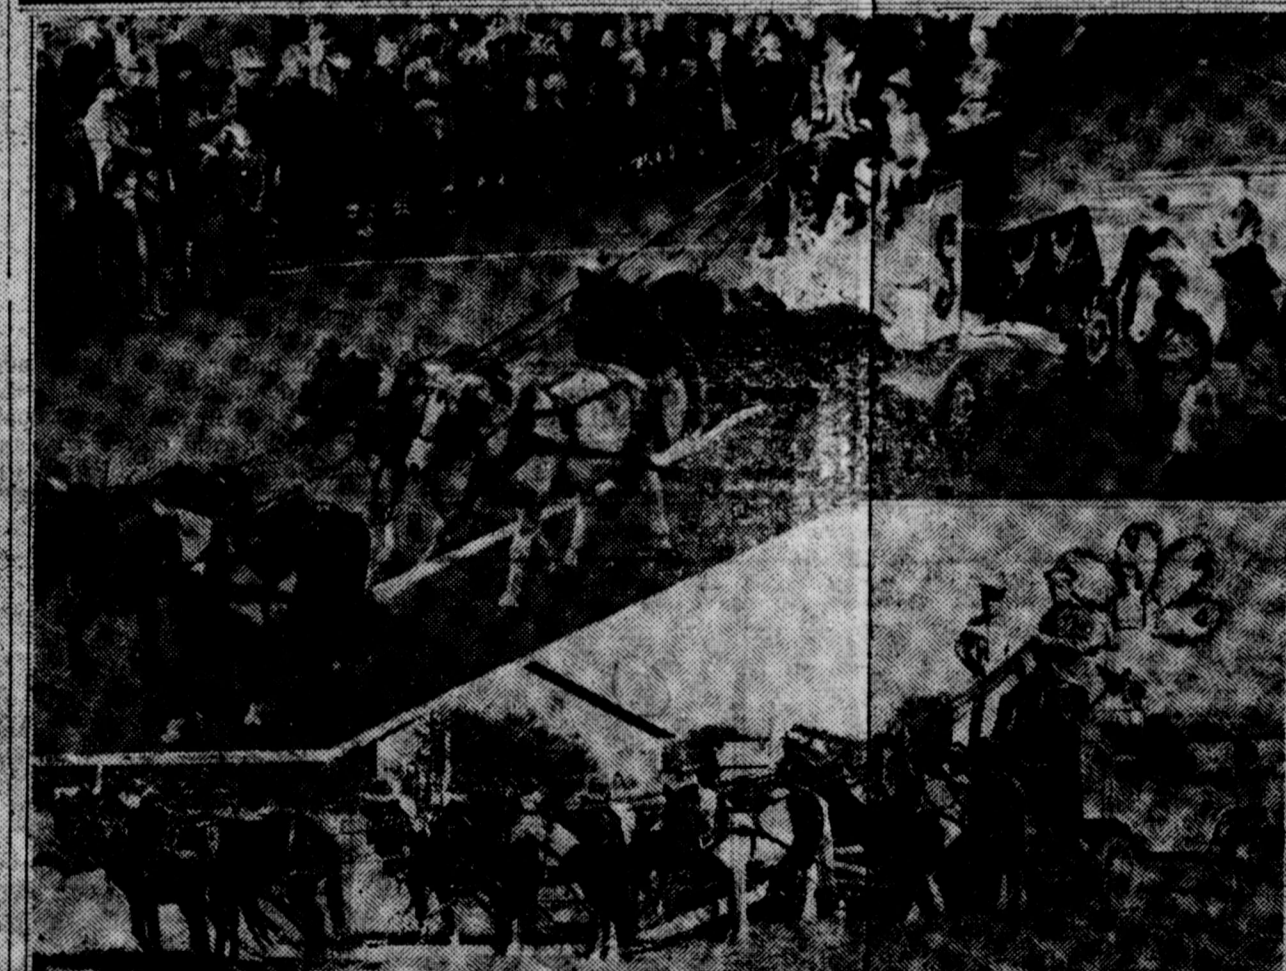

And, Happy Thanksgiving!

SKILLFUL SKEETER

Miss Patricia Laursen, acclaimed the world's most attractive athlete, this year at Syracuse, N. Y., won her third consecutive title as women's national skeet champion. Miss Laursen, a junior at Rollins College, Florida is a member of the Elkstone Skeet Club, where she last three annual Midwest Skeet Championships have been

The martial music of marching bands, the funny antics of numerous clowns, the rumbling blue and gold tableaux wagons bearing pretty Coryell County girls wearing elaborate costumes, and the shrill blasts of the calliope, will feature the grand and glorious Santa Claus parade which will be given in this city on December 6 at 11 a. m.

Pictured above are two of these tableaux wagons with their pony teams as they will look when they transverse the parade route in this city.

rooms and two halls was erected. This house is also standing one mile from Neff Park.

Mr. Jones is said to have furnished many horses and beeves for the Confederate armies.

Jesse Jones and his wife, Martha, were buried in the old Station Creek cemetery where many of the pioneers of their day were laid to rest.

The line of decent from Jesse Jones, and who continued to dwell in Coryell County, is as follows: Flave Jones, son, buried in Station Creek cemetery, Willis Jones, late of Gatesville, grandson—Dr. Dean and Kermit, and W. Mat Jones, great grandsons, W. Mat's great-great grandson. Five generations of Joneses in Coryell county.

And that's the best we can do for the Joneses at this time.

GATESVILLE BOY GETS PROMOTION WITH CAMERON

Lorraine Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Webb has just received a promotion by Wm. Cameron Co., Inc., and has been transferred to Waxahachie from Balingier.

Mr. Webb is to be congratulated on this promotion, and that just goes to show, Coryell County boys get ahead in many, many lines of business. Mrs. Webb is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Guggolz of near Gatesville and is well known in the county also.

NOTES OF A NEW YORKER

They say it happened in Federal court the other day. A prisoner from the Federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., was testifying for the gov't in an important case. The lawyer for the defense was cross-examining and said, "You're saying things about the defendant because the government has promised to free you. Isn't that so?" The prisoner replied, "No. I'd just as soon stay right there in pen" "You expect me and the jury to believe that?" sneered the attorney. "Sure," was the answer. "Where else could a mugg like me get a chance to socialize with bankers and corporation lawyers?"

Sibelius, who notoriously dislikes critics (his famous crack is: "They never built a statue to a critic") once was walking in his garden at his home at Jarvenpaa, Finland. It was a beautiful sunny day. The flowers were in full bloom. The birds were singing so very melodiously—their song filled the air. Just then a crow flew by and called out: "Caw." Sibelius turned to a friend and pointing to the crow, said: "The critic."

The reddest face of the week belongs to the New York committee-woman, who was greeting one of the candidates the other night. After several glowing speeches about the man, it was her assignment to introduce him to the radio audience, and she said: "We want you to know that all of us are working night and day—for your well-deserved Ejection!"

One of Dr. Gallup's poll bearers went up to one of the boys who hang around Lindy's and said: "I hear you got $3 from one of the candidates and $2 from the other. I suppose you voted for the man who gave you the $3." "But I didn't," was the retort. "I voted for the $2 guy—he obviously is the less corrupt."

Newspaper men covering LaGuardia field recently were discussing the political comments of Colonel Lindbergh. One of Lindy's critics felt that a flier should stick to that—and not delve into uncharted territory, where he might wind up in a tailspin. For evidence, the Lindbergh opponent quoted Orville Wright, who was once reproached for not challenging Professor Langly, who claimed being the real inventor of the airplane. "You are too modest," he was told, "you should assert yourself more, Mr. Wright."

"My friend," replied Orville Wright, "the parrot is a good talker, but a bad flier."

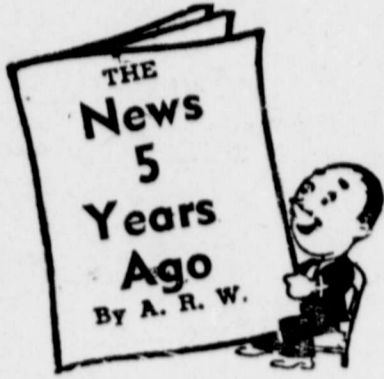

A group of press agents were discussing Elise Chisholm, who in her press agent days was an official of their union. She's now wedded to Sing Sing Warden Lewis Lawes. One of the boys described the warden's residence and revealed that Mrs. Lawes' servants are all trustees—five convicted murderers. "How does she like married life?" someone asked. "Simply wonderful," was the response. "After all, she no longer has to be a press agent and mingle with newspaper men—she's leading a NORMAL life!"

Remember the quip here several months ago (and in dozens of other places later) about the woman who said to the salesgirl: "These are very nice American flag pins, but haven't you got them in some other colors?" It was an Associated Press filler in the Monday papers (as a fact!) datelined from Pueblo, Colo. Sign reported on an Italian destroyer: "Swim, do not run to the nearest port." Eddy Duchin would have you believe that 10 Italian planes were downed over Holland after being attacked by a windmill. Robert Rose of "Tobacco Road" claims that all those one-minute musical commercials (heard between various radio shows) are nothing more than desk space with swing. Definition of an American: One who votes for the man he likes—and likes the American who is elected.

A British philanthropist visited a pursuit squadron and offered the pilots a prize of 20 pounds for every Nazi plane they knocked down. Two Canadian pilots were delighted with the offer and kept it in mind when they went on patrol duty. Flying over the channel, they ran into a Nazi air fleet of a hundred planes. "Hurray!" radioed one of them. "Our fortune's made!"

Someone asked Bernie Bierman, football coach of U. of Minn., how he got so much good material. "Well," said B., "during the summer I go out and scout these Minnesota farms. If I see a big guy plowing a field, I go up and ask him if he ever had any education. If he says yes, I lose interest. If he doesn't, I ask where he lives; if he lifts his arm and points to a farm house, I lose interest, but if he lifts the plow and points it at a farm house, I sign him up."

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hair, parents of Bird Hair, will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary Sunday, November 17. Mr. and Mrs. Hair have been residents of this county for more than forty years of their married life. They will hold open house Sunday afternoon to their many friends and relatives.

Mrs. J. P. Kendrick has been very ill during the past week, and has had a trained nurse with her. Latest reports are that she isn't doing so well.

Marvin Franks sustained painful injuries Monday morning when he broke his collar bone while playing with other boys when marking off the gridiron for the fray on that afternoon.

Mrs. Peyton Morgan, well known in Gatesville and surrounding country, has been added to the News' staff in the capacity of office assistant and bookkeeper. Mrs. Morgan is to assist Elizabeth Williams and help in the clerical and bookkeeping work in the "front" office.

Pastor C. A. Morton of the First Baptist Church of this city had a distinct honor conferred on him at the annual State Baptist Convention in Houston last week by being elected to serve as a member of the Baptist State Executive Board, composed of 75 members who direct the affairs of the Baptist State Convention of Texas.

In a nation-wide contest sponsored by Butler Bros. of Dallas and Leaird's, Danny McClellan of Gatesville won the first prize of $500.00 for writing in 15 words or less what he thought about the "Onward" line of school supplies. Billy Clay McClellan of Gatesville and James Scott of Gatesville Rt. 1, also won prizes of $1.00 each. In the contests, the judges were national and included one of the professors of the University of Chicago, and many other well known and competent men.

The marriage of Miss Johnnie Mae Lacy, daughter of Mrs. T. H. Lacy of Houston, to Rev. Brooks Sasse, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Sasse of this city, took place at 8:45 o'clock Sunday morning, November 10, at the Trinity Baptist Church in Houston.

The minds of both the young and old are bewildered because of what has taken place in the world in the last year or so. Governments have passed out of existence. Civilization seems to be breaking down. We wonder if we can be certain about any thing these days. The Bible tells us plainly that all material things are subject to change. All governments will be changed. The kingdoms of this world will become the kingdom of our Lord and Christ. A few references will help us to understand this. "And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever" (1 John 2-17) "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my WORD shall not pass away" (Matt 24:35).

"And I saw a new Heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea." (Rev. 21:1). There are a few certain things: This is still God's world. "The world and the fulness thereof are mine, saith the Lord." The laws of nature still operate. The heavenly bodies still move in perfect harmony. The word of God abideth forever. "The word of God which liveth and abideth forever. . . But the word of the Lord endureth forever" 1 Peter 1:23,25.

Sin is still fatal. "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." "The wages of sin is death" Rom. 6:23. "He that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword". Rev. 13:10.

There is an unchangeable fact that Jesus is the revaluation of God. That God is love. His love passeth all understanding. John 3:16. That the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin. 1 John 1:7. There is another certain fact, that is that Jesus is coming back to earth again. "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour that ye think not the Son of man cometh".

Dear Wardie:

I ain't got much to write about today. I had a cocktail party last night from 5 to 7. Everybody come at 7 and stayed till 5. I'm sorta addled in the head.

My boy friend is dumb, he thinks his cousin at college is out fer the swimmin' team because he spends all his time at Kelly pool.

I'm a goin' out tomorrow and Sunday to try to get some deer and Turkey fer Thanksgiving, which there is two again this year. If I don't get any deer, weel, there's always a goat around somewhere.

After readin' the papers about the war in Europe I think we don't heve near enough Thanksgivin's. We oughter have at least one a week—ever Sunday anyways.

I nominate Minnesota, Texas Aggies, Cornell and Stanford fer a charity feetsball series. Aggies play Stanford, Minnesota play Cornell. Winners play each other, fer the Red Cross. Hot ziggity, wouldn't that be somepin? I'd jest as soon have the proceeds of them games as a controllin' interest in the U. S. mint.

When you gets ready to name youre all-conference team, why don't you jest save time and trouble and name the Aggie starting lineup fer the first team, the Aggie second string fer the second team, and the rest of the Aggie squad fer the third team?

The only way to stop Big John Kimbrough is to lock him out of the stadium before the ball game starts and keep him out.

Well, Son, take yere asperin regular, and I'll be a seein' you.

Yourn,

LOONY LUCY

Hornets Hold Favored Marlin Team To 13-13 Deadlock Friday

GRIBBLE STARS AS HORNETS OUT-PLAY HUSTLING
MARLIN CREW

Flashing a brilliant passing attack that netted two touchdowns the battered and bruised Gatesville High School Hornets played the highly favored Marlin Bulldogs to a 13-13 draw on the Marlin gridiron Friday afternoon.

The Bulldogs scored in the initial period when Wood intercepted a Hornet pass and skimmed over the green for 15 yards and a touchdown. Lokey kicked the point and Marlin was out in front 7-0. The Hornets' opportunity to tie the score came in the third quarter when big "Gorilla" Gribble playing the finest game of his high school career tucked in a long pass from Sexton and marched over for a touchdown. Fry failed to convert the extra point and Marlin was leading 7-6.

In the fourth stanza Gribble again scored on a long pass from Sexton, Sexton converting the point through center and for a brief while the Hornets were leading the Bulldogs 13-6. Radle carried the ball on the Bulldogs second trek to pay-dirt on a series of line plunges but the kick for extra point and victory was neatly blocked by the Hornets and the teams were deadlocked 13-13.

Shortly before the final gun the Hornets advanced the ball to within a few feet of the Marlin goal line, a perfect set up for a touchdown but the Marlin line didn't yield and the Bulldogs took over on downs. Shelton kicked out to mid-field from behind the goal line and the game ended shortly after the ball was put into play at this point.

Gribble won his spurs as a leather lugger in this fray and turned in the best all-round performance for the local aggregation. Sexton passed with accuracy on most occasions while being rushed by the hustling Bulldog line and was a busy cog in the Hornet's offensive machine. Fry and Manning played great games on the offense but fumbles wrecked their style. Eugene White sparked the Gatesville line which as a whole played their greatest game of the season and Riley at center played like a veteran.

Loke, Radle and Parsons in the Marlin backfield, worked like Turks in an untiring effort to smash through the Hornets' stubborn line and in many cases their efforts were rewarded by substantial gains. Neely and Smith at the guard positions and Turnipseed at tackle played good defensive games for the Bulldogs.

We missed the first few plays of the game and when we arrived the ball was in Marlin's possession just inside the Hornet's territory.

Fry makes a nice dive over RT for 11 yards and is finally stopped by Phipps and Shelton. Fry gains 1 at RT. Sexton goes thru center for four yards. Fry fails to gain at RT. Ireland Loses To Pearl Dragons 20-13

Mosley, the Pearl Dragons scoring demon, ably assisted by Haines another promising six-man gridder, ran rough-shod over the Ireland half-dozen on the Ireland gridiron last Friday afternoon by a count of 20-13. Held scoreless until the final stanza the Irish just couldn't get going in time to stop the Dragons victory march.

Fetner of Pearl and Lemmer of the Irish were forced out of the game with injuries and their loss was keenly felt by both squads. Mosley and Smith accounted for the Pearl markers and the Ireland ball carriers were not named. Moore played a great defensive game for the Irish.

By WILSON

Last Friday afternoon the Gatesville Hornets upset the dope bucket by tying the Marlin Bulldogs 13-13 at Marlin. The locals were the aggressor most of the way and with even one little wan smile from Lady Luck they could have won the ball game.

With this game out of the way the stage is all set for the Gatesville-McGregor Turkey Day Tussle which is to be played in the local stadium next Thursday. Hornet stock again went up after McGregor lost to Itasca 7-0 Friday night and a bitter battle is always the case when the Bulldogs and Hornets meet each Thanksgiving. Off handed the Bulldogs look the better of the two but pre-season dope isn't worth a plugged nickle in the traditional duel and only the actual contest can decide the winner.

All reports on the six-man games haven't been received and we know nothing definite concerning the championship round.

There's something in the air about a girls football game to be played on the local field in the near future. More information on this is due later.

Sort of out of line with the pig-skin parade, but reports are coming in from various teams who are starting basketball practice. The GHS Senior girls, Jonesboro and the Pearl Dragons are already at it or will be soon.

eight conference tilts during the season.

Inasmuch as Clifton is undefeated but has a tie game with McGregor against it, it will be necessary for Mart to face the Cubs in the event the Panthers whip Marlin or gain a tie score.

Superintendent Jackson of West is chairman of the district committee and Superintendent E. W. Brooks of Gatesville is secretary—Waco Times-Herald.

Dragon Basketeers Play Pidcoke Tues. Night

The Pearl Draongs open their basketball season with a practice game with the Pidcoke Cagers Tuesday night according to reports from the Dragon camp.

This is merely a practice game to initiate both clubs into the basketball season which is near at hand.

Gatesville To Stay In Loop

The committee representing district 15-A, Texas Interscholastic league, at a meeting here Wednesday night voted to retain Gatesville as a member of the district during the 1941 season, added Valley Mills as the ninth school in the loop, decreed that a round-robin schedule be played to decide the champion, and held that in case Mart ties or defeats Marlin on Nov. 21, the former will have to play Clifton for the district championship.

The action taken by the committee Wednesday night eliminated any possibility of the Gatesville school being transferred into double-A competition along with Waco, Temple, Corsicana and other member teams of district 10.

With a ninth school added to the district race in 1941 it will be necessary for each team to play

CHAPTER SEVEN SYNOPSIS

The Canadian North West in 1885 is facing a bloody civil war with the Metis, a nation of half-breeds incited to rebellion by Jacques Corbeau, who is wanted for murder in Texas. Dusty Rivers, a Texas Ranger, comes to this wild country to arrest Corbeau. When Dusty accompanies the North West Mounted Police, under Sergeant Jim Bret, on an expedition to capture Corbeau, the outfit is ambushed by the Metis when Constable Ronnie Logan, detailed by Bret to scout the trail, is enticed from his post by Louvette, Corbeau's daughter. The survivors including Bret and Dusty retreat to Fort Carlton where they are besieged by the Metis. Meanwhile, Bret is ordered to bring Logan to justice.

CHAPTER VIII

DUSTY RIVERS said to Jim Bret: "You'll be goin' after the kid, then?" And when Jim nodded: "It will kill his sister." He said it in a matter-of-fact tone, as if he had no concern, but that made it all the more deadly.

"Shut up!" snarled Jim Bret. "Shut up or—"
He did not finish. There had come a slackening in the fire of the halfbreeds and they looked out of the fire slots to see a wagon hurtling down the road behind two galloping horses. A trooper swore and raised his Winchester, but Jim Bret knocked it down.

"Easy!" he said. Then: "It's April Logan."

She came on and the breeds did not molest her. The gate swung open and admitted her, slammed shut to prevent any rush. Dusty, watching from the parapet, saw her go into the post's hospital, then, with Jim Bret, settled down to the grim vigil, once more. But as if April had inspired a truce, the firing did not resume with intensity. Only now and then came a spasmodic shot, when a movement showed somewhere along the stockade.

"Seems like they're kind o' callin' it off," said Dusty.

"Not the breeds," said Jim Bret. "They can afford to wait. Go down, if you like, and get some coffee and food."

Dusty went. He went to the hospital, where April was working with feverish intensity.

"Seems like you always turn up

But they were silent, turning their faces away. She looked at them, then back at Dusty Rivers, her eyes wild, and for a moment it seemed as if she would faint. He took her, then, into the room adjoining the hospital, made her sit down.

"They don't know," he said. "They don't know where he is."
"They won't tell me! You won't tell me! and Jim— Where is Jim, Dusty?"

As if in answer, Jim Bret came through the door. He looked at her and knew, for on April Logan's face was the terrible question. He read it in her eyes, and he looked like a man who has been summoned to hear his doom. But Jim Bret was a soldier. He walked to where she sat, looked down at her, then raised her gently, his hands beneath her elbows.

"Tell me!" said April Logan. It was almost a whisper.

"Sorry!" she spat the word at him. "Sorry!" She laughed bitterly. "Go ahead! Do your duty! I know it means more to you than mercy or love. Go on! Kill that boy who was foolish enough to put love before duty. Don't tell me you're sorry. Just do your duty and kill!"

Jim Bret looked at her and shook his head, as if to clear it. Her weeping overwhelmed her and she fell into Dusty's arms. The Sergeant's face tightened, but he said to Dusty:

"Tod McDuff has gone through the lines to bring a bateau and canoes down the river. Tonight we'll burn this place and take our chances retiring under cover of the smoke. It's our only chance. They won't wait another night, now that they've felt us out and know there are only a few. And the reinforcements are days away. You take April and the wounded down river to meet Colonel Irvine you, ma'am?" he said.

Dusty held her close, comforting her as best he could.

"Why not?" she said. "The half-breeds let me through. I know them well, you see. I even treated a few before I came here."

There was little time for conversation, then. She had work to do. All day she worked and through the night and when morning came she was reeling.

It was not altogether fatigue, for she had heard the wounded talking. They had talked about Ronnie Logan, but every time she had drawn near to them, they became silent. A horrible fear gnawed at her heart, almost overwhelmed her. She felt she must cry out, when she felt a hand at her elbow. It was Dusty and he had brought her coffee.

"Drink it!" he commanded, and she took the cup, downed the steaming liquid. "Better?" She nodded and he patted her, but she stiffened with anxiety.

"Dusty," she said slowly, "what are they saying about Ronnie?"
"Don't talk," he said, and started to propel her toward a chair. "Just rest. You need it."

But she resisted him. "What are they saying, Dusty?" And when he shrugged, she turned to the wounded men, who looked at her curiously. "Where is Ronnie?" she demanded. "Where is

"I will tell you," said Jim Bret. His voice was husky and broken; his voice was filled with the ultimate grief. "I will tell you and you will hate me. But know this, April: I will love you always, though you hate me, and I will understand your hatred although it separates us forever."

"Tell me!"
Jim Bret took a deep breath. "Ronnie isn't dead," he said flatly. "He deserted,—left his post, left his companion sentry who was murdered and scalped. He could have warned the column, and all those men lying dead out there might be living now, if Ronnie had— But he ran away." He looked at her with tragic eyes, but he could not keep, altogether, the bitter contempt out of his voice, then.

"He ran away with Louvette! He ran away with that halfbreed brat!" She recoiled as if he had slapped her; she stifled a little cry that rose in her throat; then her eyes flamed.
"I don't believe you! I don't believe you! If you prove it a thousand times, I still won't believe you!"
"I hope you don't, April," he said, "but I have to bring him back. If I have to follow him clear to the Pole, I'll bring him back! I'm sorry, April."

if we get through. I—"
He shrugged. "I am taking the men to Big Bear's camp to stop Corbeau. You might—" he looked at April, then—"pray that I do not come back."

Dusty Rivers met Jim Bret's eyes and nodded and knew, in that moment that he had never seen, would never see, a braver man.

Dusty held her close, comforting her as best he could.

"Ronnie!" she cried, her voice muffled against his chest. "Ronnie! He couldn't have done it, Dusty. He just couldn't!" She was silent for a time, before she raised her head, looked at him. Then she said: "Do you love me, Dusty?"

"I love you," he said.
"Then take me away. Far away. Take me to Texas where—where the bluebonnets are."

His arms tightened about her. "For always?"
"Yes, yes," she said. "If you want me."

He kissed her and held her close, as the afternoon fell away and they were startled, when Tod McDuff appeared in the door.
"Get ready," he said. "It's time. We're going through the lines."
