FIRE DAMAGES ROOM IN HOME OF DR. J. T. BROWN

Fire damaged the living room of the home of Dr. John Thomas Brown about 7 o'clock Saturday night when a curtain blew into the stove, starting the blaze. The north window had been raised only a few inches when the wind changed, and no one was in the room at the time.

A neighbor discovered the fire, and quick work by the fire department and other neighbors saved the house from being demolished. The blaze damaged the wallpaper, the floor, and pieces of furniture, including a bookcase. It was all covered by insurance.

INFANT SON OF MR. AND MRS. DICK HINSON PASSES AWAY

Surviving besides the parents are the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Everett of Gatesville, Rev. and Mrs. Henry Hinson of Temple, and one aunt, Miss Clara Belle Everett of Denton.

Car Overturns With Four: No One Is Injured: Car Is

The tin only, got the shaking when a car driven by Francis Manning overturned on the old Waco road near Cox's Springs, Thursday night, following a tire blow out.

In the car with Manning were John Mings Davidson and their "dates". Nobody, as we've said, was hurt. The car, brought in by a wrecker, needs some little attention, de-denting, etc.

Mexico and Brazil Want Coryell Poultry

Thru an exporter, Oscar Wildeen of New Orleans, "birds from Coryell are going to be "Flying Down to Rio" and will be "South of the Border, Down Mexico Way" according to County Agent Guy Powell.

At least, Oscar Whilden, has had requests for White Holland Turkeys of a certain fineness for Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and Indian Runner Ducks for Old Mexico.

Now, if you've got any Spanish speakin' ducks or turkeys of this variety, see Mr. Powell. This is a publicity story, and no free advertisement, because, we want our Coryell County "birds" to go places and do things.

FFA-4-H Boys Sell Pigs In Mason and El Paso

Good pigs bring good prices, and just recently 4-H and FFA boys have sold 30 pigs in Mason county, and this week, 20 more were sent to El Paso.

Particularly interesting in these sales is the fact that the buyers required that the pigs weigh a certain weight at weaning time.

This is one of the ideas that the pig-culturists have been trying to get over. When pigs or other produce is offered for sale, there are requirements to be met, and the buyers buy only if the produce comes up to a certain standard set by them.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Blackshire and his mother, Mrs. Bulah Blackshire, of Washington, D. C. have been visiting relatives and friends here.

SECOND ANNUAL TIN CAN MATINEE TO BE HELD: DATES ANNOUNCED LATER

Gatesville, and for that matter, Coryell County will have its Second Annual Tin Can Matinee at a date to be announced later, according to advices from both of the motion picture operators, L. B. Brown of the Regal and Ritz Theatres and Charles Powell of the Palace Theatre.

The News is to cooperate with these men in furnishing the publicity on these particular shows at no cost.

As was the case during 1939, it is possible, the Lions, Boy Scouts, Firemen and other clubs and agencies will cooperate in some way to make this show the success it was last year.

You might say, "What is a Tin Can Matinee?"

Folks, it's a free motion picture, with the exception you don't have to go. You can leave a tin can of some sort of food at the show as your admission, or can leave 10 dozen cans, and not go at all. It's just one way to see that everybody gets a "big square" on Christmas Day.

Both Mr. Powell and Mr. Brown are backing this Matinee with both feet, and when called to ask if they wanted to repeat this year as they did last, no sales talk was necessary. Both immediately said "Yes".

This year, as was the case last year, Superintendent Ercell W. Brooks stated that the school would be glad to cooperate with this movement, and that it is possible the school children will be dismissed on that morning to attend this charity matinee.

Folks, this is a no profit, no publicity proposition, and the only idea is to "get the job done" for those who won't be able to get the job done, come Christmas Day. What's a few cans, among friends?

SEWING ROOM HAS 21: MAKE 1200 GARMENTS A MONTH

Twelve hundred garments a month, 57 articles per WPA worker is the record set in by Mrs. Clara Melton, sewing room supervisor, which employs 21 workers.

These garments are turned over to the Commodity Store room here, and in turn issued to WPA and other families needing them, on orders of the county case worker.

County commissioners court furnishes half of the material and Uncle Sam the other half. The sewing room has a payroll of $750.00 a month.

DAIRY DAY SATURDAY: TURKEY SHOW, FRIDAY AT MERIDIAN

"Elsie" didn't have a chance to show off Monday. It rained out Dairy Day.

Elsie will show here Saturday, the day Dairy Day has been postponed to.

No list of possible entrants are available, and we'll just have to invite you in to see what happens. TURKS TO MERIDIAN

A live and dressed turkey show is going to be held at Meridian Friday, and a number of the "broad-breasted" folks are going over, including W. J. Watson, Mrs. Stewart Williams, M. D. Martin and Frank Lam.

They'll show their "broad-breasted" turkeys at that show. Kingsville, Texas, is asking for some of these big boys, letting us know how news will get around, especially good news.

Gatesville Man Chairman "Texas Highway Week"

H. K. Jackson has been named chairman of the observance of Texas Highway Week, December 2 to 6 inclusive, announcement from the Texas Good Roads Association, sponsors announce.

Mr. Jackson will head a committee to arrange and stage the Highway Week program, and will probably announce the plans for the week's celebration, later.

This will be observed thruout the state, and proclamation has been made by the Governor "to take inventory of the manifold blessings brought by the highways of Texas, and to consider the progress that has been made in the past towards a completed highway system, and to give serious thought to the future highway needs of the state."

Miss Martha Jo Taylor returned to her home in Dallas Monday afternoon after a five weeks' visit with her grandmother, Mrs. John T. Post, and other relatives and friends here.

Hal Anderson of Conroe, student at Southwestern University, was a guest of Miss Jane Thomson over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay of Waco spent Thanksgiving Day with relatives here and also attended the Gatesville-McGregor football game.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Freeman announce the arrival of a 5 pound baby son, born Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fleming spent the week end in Stamford and Anson. Mrs. Alice Hoover returned home with them for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stockard of Ann Arbor, Michigan are visiting Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Beard this week.

A SUMMARY OF WORLD, NATIONAL AND STATE NEWS

COMMUNIST START STRIKE?
Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—Attorney General Jackson disclosed today an FBI report to defense officials attributed the strike in the Vultee Aircraft Corporation to "communist influence".

LEAHY TO VICHY
Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 23 (AP)—The selection of Admiral William D. Leahy, retired, as ambassador to France was announced today by President Roosevelt. Dispatches from Vichy said officials there were "delighted" with the president's choice of Leahy, and that his selection marked the sincere friendship of the president of France.

BAPTISTS ASK WHISKEY BAN
Dallas, Nov. 23 (AP)—Delegates to the closing state Baptist Student Union golden jubilee convention today heard charges that prescription whiskey in dry counties was being sold to persons of all ages. The convention adopted a resolution asking the legislature to enact laws making mandatory a physical examination to determine whether whiskey was needed before a doctor prescribed.

TEXAS AFLOAT
Ice glazed highways and snapped communication lines in the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandle Saturday night while in east Texas as the heaviest rains in years halted traffic and harrassed residents. Amarillo reported the situation growing worse as a 14-mile wind whipped wires and trees loaded with an inch of ice. Some Panhandle communities were without power.

Logansport, La., Nacogdoches and Palestine, Texas were practically drowned when a rain of 13 and one-half inches fell in 36 hours. Water was already in the stores of these towns, and still rising.

Also, the Brazos, Trinity, Little, Leon, Lampasas, and Colorado rivers were booming, and the Red and Sabine were carrying more than they could handle and were spilling it over the lowlands and bottoms.

SPEAKER BLASTS MODERNS
Speaking before the closing general session the Texas State Teacher's Association convention in Ft. Worth, John Brown, president of John Brown University of Siloam Springs, Ark., said:

"Yesterday had you asked the courageous, God-fearing leadership of America what three agencies were the contributing factors in making this nation the greatest nation beneath the sun, the immediate answer would have been 'God, motherhood and honest toil'."

"But today," the speaker said, "if you ask some of our modern, liberal, communistic professors what education is, they will tell you, 'Books, books, books! God? America does not need God! Motherhood? Free love, which means lust, is to take the place of motherhood! Work? Only saps work!'"

President Brown pointed out that with an educational program costing 10 billions of dollars to build and two billion five hundred million a year to operate, and with pitiful spectacle of having more than 5,000,000 young people out on some form of relief."

AN ANALYSIS OF AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY

Great decisions are in the offing for the American people. To assume that the presidential election settled all questions of American foreign and domestic policy is to admit that the democratic process no longer is working in this republic.

If the American people were told today by their newspapers and radio that Britain had capitulated to the Germans, they would be profoundly shocked. Many of them undoubtedly would feel that "the British have let us down". Yet many do not consider that we are letting the British down; that we are not giving them the maximum aid possible when they are fighting a battle that is equally America's battle as their own.

By the presidential election the American people ratified the policy of extending material aid on a large scale to the British as the best means of defending our own hemispherical security. But will "material aid" alone lead the British to an ultimate victory over the German barbarians?

Will it be possible for us as individual Americans to pursue our activities in the coming months and years, confident that the aid which our government is extending to the British will tide them over this period of imminent danger of conquest and destruction?

We believe that "no" is the answer to both of these questions, that more than material aid from this country is imperative to insure British victory and that Americans as individuals must vitally concern themselves with the issues and potential consequences of this struggle.

Britain is battling the greatest military machine the world has ever known—a gigantic totalitarian empire embracing all of central and western Europe from the Arctic Circle to Spain, from the Baltic Sea to the Black Sea. Britain is fighting without allies on the European continent, and is herself challenged on a dozen crucial fronts. Britain is fighting not only her own fight but the battle of the Czechs, the Dutch, the Belgians, the Norwegians, the Danes, the Poles, the French—and the Americans!

No, we have not been militarily attacked or subdued—yet. But it is foolhardy to permit our pride to delude us into believing that we could win a prolonged struggle with triumphant totalitarianism dominating all of Europe, Asia and Africa, embracing some 1,750,000,000 people against our 135,000,000. The entire Western Hemisphere has only 331,000,000 inhabitants, and the United States would not be any means be assured of united support by the American republics in any war with the dictators.

We probably would win the initial battles. We probably would keep our shores free of enemy soldiers for a decade or so. But the dictators could wait, if in control of the remainder of the world.

A war pitting the United States against the world—and that is precisely what this struggle would be—would be fought with the same tactics which have reduced democracy to a shambles in the Europe of 1940: diplomatic and economic pressure, sabotage, treason, bribery or destruction of possible allies, destruction of the outposts of defense, and eventual blitzkrieg attack.

With Britain defeated, the United States could be assailed from a dozen points: from Dakar, from which air and propaganda attacks could be launched against Central and South America; from Alaska, which would fall prey to Soviet and Japanese encroachments; from Mexico, which is peculiarly susceptible to Communist overtures; from Colombia, which has never forgiven nor forgotten the detachment of Panama by diplomatic action.

Let us not delude ourselves into believing that this is a war to decide the fate of rival British and German imperialisms, of the European status quo or of control of Africa. This is a war to determine whether the philosophy of freedom shall reign unchallenged over the face of the world or whether oligarchs in Berlin, Rome, Moscow and Tokyo are to dominate every phase of life on the three continents.

Directly or indirectly aligned against the forces of democracy are Germany, Italy, Soviet Russia, and Japan. Tiny, plucky Britain, bulwarked only by her woefully weak dominions is fighting this battle alone.

Birthday Celebration Held At Bush Williamson Home

The Bush Williamson home near Slater was the scene of a memorable occasion on Sunday, November 17, when his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren together with a host of other relatives met to celebrate "Uncle Bush's" eighty-first birthday.

The day was spent in pleasant conversation just visiting and talking over old times with each other. At the noon hour each one tried to do full justice to the bountiful dinner that had been prepared. What a lovely feast it was! The table fairly groaned with good things to eat and the dining room buzzed with pleasant conversation.

Miss Martha Lou Phillips, Bert Floyd, Miss Sara Frances Graham and Fisher Culberson were hosts and hostesses to members of the younger set when they entertained with a barn dance at Tippit's Thanksgiving night.

Draped crepe paper, pumpkins, hay and stalks of corn lent the suggestive atmosphere to the hall, where such dances as the Paul Jones and square dance proved prize.

All guests came dressed in gingham frocks or overalls, and Miss Madlon Copeland and Charles Smith, judged as the most attractive and best dancers, received a prize.

A large number of the high school and college sets were present for the gala occasion.

Menus

BLACK WALNUT KISSES

1 cup black walnut meats
2 cups water
3 cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
1-8 tsp. cream of tartar

Put cream tartar in sugar, then add water and boil until it forms a hard ball in water. Pour on buttered plate and add 1 cup black walnut meats. When it begins to harden, pull until it gets white and creamy. Form into a roll and cut with scissors.

DATE CANDY

3 cups sugar
1 cup milk (1-2 cream)
2-3 pound dates, cut
1-2 cup nuts
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tbsp. butter

Boil sugar and milk three minutes, add dates, stir constantly until it makes a firm ball when tested in water. Add butter, vanilla and nuts just before pouring on plate.

DIVINITY

2 cups sugar
1-2 cup hot water
1-2 cup light corn syrup
2 egg whites
1-2 tsp. salt
1-2 tsp. vanilla

Pour hot water over sugar, syrup and salt in smooth saucepan, and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cook without stirring until a very firm ball tested in cold water will form. Remove from the fire and pour gradually over egg whites beaten stiffly as syrup finished cooking. Beat mixture constantly, using egg whisk until divinity holds shape. Add vanilla and drop candy by teaspoons on oiled paper, or pour into greased pan and cut into squares. One cup nut meats, candied cherries or browned coconut may be added when mixture is ready to drop. Pastel tints of green, pink, or yellow in divinity are very attractive.

DELICIOUS CHRISTMAS COOKIES

A basket or unusual box packed with dainty cookies and wrapped in crimson cellophane carries a personal touch that makes a most welcome gift. Be sure, too, to make plenty to fill the cookie jar at home for there will be frequent "pantry raids" around the holiday times.

BUTTERSCOTCH COOKIES

2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup chopped almonds
1 cup shortening (scant)
1 tsp. cream of tartar.

Salt
4 cups flour

Mix all ingredients. Make into rolls. Let stand in refrigerator overnight. Slice and bake
FILLED COOKIES
1-4 cup butter

FLAT TO PLAY OGLESBY HERE WED. FOR DISTRICT 7 SIX-MAN FOOTBALL TITLE

Old man weather apparently has the Oglesby High School Tigers and the Flat Yellowjackets, as well as the Sports Editor, behind the 8-ball. The six-man game between these two teams, which will decide the championship of District-7 is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon of this week on the Gatesville gridiron.

This being a championship game it was hoped that fair weather would prevail until the winning team had been decided.

However, since we have received no word to announce the postponement of the game we presume the game will be played as scheduled, and regardless of unfavorable weather. The West side of the stadium is sheltered and can accommodate quite a large number of fans.

This Flat-Oglesby game has all there is to offer in six-man football and either club would appreciate your support.

Miss Constance Allen of San Antonio spent Wednesday night with her sister, Mrs. Robert W. Brown. Thursday Miss Allen, Mrs. Brown and daughter, Martha Clair, left for Hico, where they spent the remainder of the holidays.

Hornets Enjoy "Feed" At Meeks' Cafe Thursday

Through the generosity of L. D. Meeks, proprietor of Meeks' Cafe and an ardent football fan, approximately thirty-two members of the Gatesville High School football team and their coach were treated to a big turkey dinner last Thursday after the Gatesville-McGregor game.

The menu consisted of turkey and dressing with all the trimmings that goes to make up a big Thanksgiving Day dinner.

This was indeed a courteous gesture on the part of Mr. Meeks and the Hornet team as a whole wish to state their appreciation.

Miss Earlene Russell of Fort Smith, Arkansas was a guest of Miss Dorothy Robuck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Robuck of Jonesboro, during the Thanksgiving holidays. Miss Russell and Miss Robuck are students of Westminster College, Tehuacana, Texas.

between church and state. Sometimes the church and sometimes the state had the upper hand. But when Gregory VII became supreme ruler over both church and state, then the enslavement was complete. With a group of counselors about him he dominated parliaments and chambers, forced all the leaders to lift or to bow down at his bidding, disposed of and created kings and emperors at will. None dared offend him upon penalty of the humiliating and abject kind. When Emperor Henry IV displeased Gregory he was forced to stand in bare feet in the snows of Canossa, to do abject penance, and was finally desposed. It was this scene which caused the great Bismark to utter the famous sentence "We will never go to Canossa again." Hildebrand's supreme authority made him bold to write the well known letter to William the Conqueror in which he declared that the state should be subordinate to the church and that the power of the state as compared to the church was as the moon compared to the sun.

Long dark centuries followed, before this supreme authority and this unholy union which had crushed humanity's fairest hopes and fondest dreams was ever called in question.

Then came in rapid succession a new generation of fighters for freedom—Zwingli in Switzerland, Luther in Germany, Calvin in France, Knox in Scotland and Wycliff in England and many others. Great numbers flocked to them. Great and mighty men they were. Zwingli's plea for freedom of conscience, Luther's preaching of justification by faith, Calvin's proclamation of the supreme sovereignty of God, Knox's prayers, which made tyrants tremble, and Wycliff's translation of the scriptures. All of these were parts of a great movement which grew until it became like rivers of living water.

But one tragic fact stands out with reference to the work of these reformers. Not one of them came to the logical conclusion of this idea of freedom of religion and separation of church and state. They were content to stop short with partial gains. For example, Luther threw off the yoke of Roman political bondage and straightway established a state church of his own, retaining infant baptism and other evils of the ancient order. Knox did the same thing in Scotland and Henry VIII established his church in England.

The Baptists are the only people who did not come to the idea of religious liberty gradually. They possessed and maintained the full idea from the beginning. The first Baptist stood on the bank of the Jordan and preached individual and personal repentance for the remission of sins and believer's baptism as an confession of faith. This is the reason Baptists are not now and never have been protestants. Informed and intelligent people should know better than to classify them as such. Baptists have never protested against anybody's religion. They have fought for the freedom of all religion—Jew, Catholic, Protestant alike. Baptist conventions, churches and the World Alliance have condemned anti-Semitism and religious persecution everywhere.

At the moment when the Spanish Inquisition was at its highest and hottest a pathway was opened across the Atlantic to new continents. Streams of people began flowing through this channel in search of economic advantages, political possibilities and religious freedom. But attempts were made to set up the same restrictions to liberty in America from which they had fled. Consequently the fight for freedom had to be carried on here. It has been said that when the Puritans arrived in New England they first fell upon their knees and then up the aborigines. They came to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience and to make everybody else do the same thing.

In Massachusetts the Indians were forbidden to perform outward worship of their gods. The Quakers were whipped, maimed and banished. The president of Harvard, because he was a Baptist, was convicted of heresy and forced to resign. In Maryland Jews and Unitarians were denied citizenship and one who spoke evil of the Virgin Mary was fined 500 pounds and one who spoke evil of God was condemned to death. Religious tolerance was granted Trinitarians, but others suffered persecution. South Carolina denied liberty of conscience to any "papist". In Virginia a child born of other than Anglicans was declared illegitimate; Baptist preachers in the state were whipped and jailed and the whole populace was taxed for the support of the Anglican church. In Louisiana Jews were denied citizenship, Roman Catholicism was declared to be the only acknowledged religion and all other preachers were forbidden entrance. Through all these years of confusion and conflict the Baptists maintained their clear testimony for freedom of conscience, for freedom of worship and for separation of church and state.

The first commonwealth in history which guaranteed these inalienable rights was established by Roger Williams and Dr. John Clark. These pioneer preachers lighted torches in the wilderness whose fires were carried throughout the land. They secured the Constitutional enactment which gave man his primary and fundamental bill of rights, freedom of press, freedom of speech, freedom of conscience and freedom of worship.

From Constantine to the Constitution of the United States was a long and bloody road. Same at last the victor's crown.

BAPTIST COLUMN—

There are two outstanding and commanding facts in the picture and on the recorded pages of this age-long terrific struggle for religious liberty and separation of church and state.

First fact is that freedom has gone and come with the ebb and flow of spiritual tides. In proportion to the rise of spiritual religion has been the expansion of man's liberties. Whenever spiritual religion waned and the religious leaders sought to make up for the lack of it, by the utilization of human and material forces, then human liberties have been lost.

The second fact which stands out in this long fight for freedom is that, the steps upward to freedom and downward to slavery are in definite, direct reverse order. The upward steps are: (1) Religious freedom, (2) political freedom and then (3) economic freedom. The downward steps are: (1) Economic slavery, (2) political servitude and (3) religious subservience. Freedom of conscience and worship are primary, fundamental and essential to all other freedom. Religious freedom is the first to be gained and the last to be lost. The soul of all freedom is the freedom of the soul.

CHAPTER NINE SYNOPSIS

The Canadian North West in 1885 is facing a civil war with the Metis, a nation of half-breeds incited to rebellion by Jacques Corbeau, a notorious criminal when Dusty Rivers, a Texas Ranger, comes to this wild country to arrest Corbeau for a murder in Texas. When Dusty accompanies the North West Mounted Police under Sergeant Bret on an expedition to capture Corbeau, the outfit is ambushed because Louette, Corbeau's wildcat daughter, entices Constable Logan, brother of April Logan, a frontier nurse with whom Bret is in love, away from his post as trail scout. Bret is ordered to bring Logan to justice. Meanwhile, Corbeau urges Big Bear, Indian leader, to join the revolt. Survivors of the ambush escape down the river. Dusty and April look for militia reinforcements from Regina. Bret and seven Mounted Police head for Big Bear's camp.

CHAPTER X

"So," said Big Bear angrily. He turned his face grimly to look at Corbeau. The halfbreed, watching Jim Bret and the others, had turned pale. "Dead men ride, then."

Corbeau did not answer. There was incredulity and fear in his expression as he watched the eight of them ride closer. The thin red line reached the village, rode straight for Big Bear's lodge and the Indians parted uneasily to let them pass. Then Corbeau, a curse on his lips, raised his Winchester, pointed it at Jim Bret. But Big Bear bore it down.

"You cannot kill the dead," he said with irony.

Jim Bret and the seven reached the lodge, halted the horses.

"Tell your men," said Jim Bret, "to spread their blankets on the ground before you!"

"Tell your men to fire!" shouted Corbeau. "Kill them! Kill the dogs!"

The Indians, tense, sent up an answering shout, but Big Bear said to Corbeau:

"You tell me they are dead. Let us hear what the dead men want." He pointed to the ground, turned to his chiefs. "Put the blankets there," he commanded.

They hesitated, eyeing Jim Bret and the troopers sullenly. But the eye of Big Bear was imperious. The chiefs spread their blankets on the ground before him.

"The spirits of the brave," said Jim, "are still within their red coats. Therefore the coats are sacred, Big Bear. Tell your men to lay them on the blankets."

Again the Indians murmured angrily, but Jim and his men took no notice. They looked steadily at the chief.

As for Big Bear, his eyes gleamed as he looked at Jim.

"The brothers of the dead are brave," he said slowly. Then, to his men: "Lay the coats on the blankets!"

The lances which held the red coats above the crowd sagged a little. The Indians stirred uneasily. For a moment there was sullen silence. Then one warrior, who wore a wolf's head on his skull, stepped forward, drooped his lance, dropped a coat on a blanket. Corbeau, seeing it, stepped forward, frantic.

"No, no!" he shouted at the Indians. "These enemies are in your hands! Pull them down! Kill them now!"

The inflamed mood of a moment before had not died; it merely had subsided for a moment. Now it burst forth again in an angry snarl as the braves raised their voices. There was the click of many rifles, but Jim Bret and his men did not move. Their Winchesters remained at ease across the pom-poms of their saddles. But Jim Bret said:

"If one shot is fired the soldiers of the Queen will come as numerous as the sands of the great salt sea. You and your sons will die and your children's children will never walk upon this earth." He paused. "The other coats, Big Bear. We are waiting."

Again Big Bear pointed to the blankets and now the Indians, after a moment's silence, lowered their rifles. Those with the coats came forward, eyeing Jim Bret with a sort of awe, and laid the garments on the blankets.

"He lies!" shouted Corbeau. "There are only eight of them! Pull them from their horses! Kill them! Kill them!"

But Jim had swung from his horse. He walked to where Big Bear stood and the Indians watched him, did not listen to Corbeau. Jim Bret looked at Big Bear for a moment, then turned to regard the

"Kill them, you fools!" whined Corbeau. "Kill them!"

He struggled, but Jim Bret drew the chain tighter.

"Quiet!" he commanded. "Two men on the left—dismount!" The men swung off their horses, came forward. "Take the prisoner," said Jim Bret.

Corbeau fought violently, but they twisted the chain tighter and he cried out in pain. He cried out again and again as the troopers dragged him to his horse, sat him on it, bound his legs to the belly. And Jim Bret laughed. As he did, it seemed that the Indians eased. They looked from him to Corbeau, a sorry figure, and back to Jim Bret again. Slowly, smiles broke out, slowly the laughter went up and presently it was loud and gleeful, as Corbeau, fuming, still cried out for them to kill Jim Bret and his men.

Jim waited until the laughter had died, until the Indians were again silent, watching him. Then frantic halfbreed. In Jim Bret's belt were two things: one, a chain upon which was suspended a medal on which was stamped the head of Queen Victoria and which was the symbol of friendship for countless peoples over the globe, the other steel chain twister handcuffs.

Corbeau strode violently to the pile of coats, before Big Bear, turned again to the Indians.

"Are you afraid of eight men?" he shouted. "Kill them, you fools! Kill them! There is no medicine in their red coats. Throw them to the crows! Like this!"

He stooped to pick up one of the coats in demonstration. But Jim Bret had been waiting for just that moment, just that movement. Jim Bret darted forward. With expert skill and speed he wrapped the twister chain about the halfbreed's wrists, drew it painfully tight, held the struggling Corbeau, turned to Big Bear.

"See, Big Bear!" he said, pointing to the western sky. "Before three suns have set there is iron on Corbeau's wrists."

A babble of amazement rose from the camp. From the outskirts of the throng the savages pressed closer to look for themselves.

he turned to Big Bear again. From his belt he took the chain and the medal.

"Will Big Bear kneel to his queen?" he said. "Will Big Bear accept the friendship of his queen and her soldiers?"

The old Indian's eyes met those of Jim Bret in a moment of uncertainty as the silent camp watched. Then Big Bear sank slowly to his knees, but he looked up at Jim Bret.

"The Cree," he said earnestly, "are brothers to the brave."

Solemnly, Jim Bret hung the chain about the chief's neck; solemnly, Big Bear rose, shook hands with the Sergeant.

Jim Bret swung up on his horse, saw that the tunics had been loaded on Corbeau's cart again. He raised his hand in a gesture of friendship and farewell and Big Bear answered.

The thin red line, with Jim Bret before it, rode out of the camp with their prisoner and their alliance. There would be no uprising.

That was triumph and Jim Bret should have savored it, but he was not happy. For as he rode he thought of his next mission; he thought of Ronnie Logan.

TURKEY dishes for HOLIDAY PARTIES

Suggested by Dorothy Greig

MOTHER always claimed that turkey was a perfect party food. "It just naturally makes people think of good times and special occasions with high feasting," she said. And it does. It is a holiday dish.

Individual Turkey Rolls served with Mushroom Sauce.

Then, too, everyone likes turkey—another good reason for giving it honored place on holiday party tables.

Turkey can be served in many ways. First, there is roast turkey. For buffet serving bring in a platter of the white and dark meat in hot thin slices flanked by savory stuffing. Or serve it cold accompanied by pickles and relishes.

Then there are jellied turkey molds, turkey a la king, turkey pies, turkey loaves, turkey casseroles—all flavorful dishes for supper or luncheon parties.

One of my own turkey specialties consists of ground turkey rolled and baked in biscuit dough and served with hot mushroom sauce:

INDIVIDUAL TURKEY ROLLS WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
1/2 - 3/4 cup milk

Sift the flour, then measure. Add the salt and baking powder to the flour and sift again. Then work the shortening into the flour mixture. Add the milk gradually and mix together until a medium soft dough is formed. Toss on a floured board and roll out in a piece 9 inches wide and 12 inches long. Cut into 3 inch squares, making twelve in all. Spread with turkey mixture, roll and place on a baking sheet seam down. Bake in a hot oven (425-450° F.) for 15-20 minutes and serve with hot mushroom sauce. Makes 12 rolls.

Turkey Mixture:

1 1/2 cups ground turkey
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons turkey gravy

Mix turkey, turkey gravy and seasonings all together. Spread 1 spoonful of mixture on each pastry square.

Mushroom Sauce:

1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup milk
Empty the condensed cream of mushroom soup into a saucepan. Stir well and then add the milk. Heat, but do not boil. Serve over the "Individual Turkey Rolls".

This next dish is a handsome one to set on any party table.

CREAMED TURKEY IN FESTIVE RICE RING

Creamed Turkey:
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup milk
1 egg yolk
1 cup turkey, diced

Empty the can of cream of mushroom soup into a saucepan and stir well. Then add the milk and heat. Beat in the egg yolk and then add the diced turkey. Serve in the center of the "Festive Rice Ring."

Festive Rice Ring:

3 tablespoons butter
4 cups rice (cooked)
1 cup green peas, cooked
2 tablespoons pimiento, diced
Melt the butter in a saucepan. Add the rice (which has been cooked in boiling salted water), green peas and pimiento, and mix gently. Put the hot rice mixture into a buttered ring mold and then turn out on plate. Pour the "Creamed Turkey" into the center of rice ring.

DEBUNKING FALSE PROPHETS

The country's self-appointed reformers have been telling us that advertising raises the cost of living. Let's see. Let's take an example that everybody is familiar with.

Cast your mind back to what you knew or what your parents knew of the automobile of the first few years of the century. Then a big, heavy unreliable gas eater could be bought, without top, windshield, horn or spare tire for from $2,000 to $6,000. Few people bought this expensive luxury.

But automobile makers saw a vision, a nation on wheels. They advertised persistently. More people bought. As production went up the cost to make each car came down. Part of the saving was put into improvement. Part went into continued advertising. Part went to the public in lower prices. Again more people bought these better cars for less money.

And so it went, year after year. Continued advertising, production and value up, cost and price down, until today you buy an infinitely better more efficient car, complete for less than half of the lowest prices of a few years ago.

The same is true of the refrigerator, vacuum cleaner, washing machine, oil burner, radio, electric light bulb; of packaged foods, clothes, and many another product that will come to your mind as you think this over. Advertising, says Nation's Business, has helped mass production, which cuts the cost and brings the price within the reach of the average family.—Nation's Business.

THEY DO READ IT!

Ordinarily one thinks the number of families reading a newspaper is the number of families that subscribe for it.

That isn't so. Traveling 58 miles on a rural route that extends some 5 or 18 miles from Sleepy Eye, Ollie Neudecker Friday contacted 16 families who were not subscribers to the Herald-Dispatch.

Seven of them said they read the paper regularly at the home of parents or neighbors.

This is one of the striking differences between newspapers and handbills. The paper is passed from hand to hand, even from family to family, remains somewhere about the house ready for reference for three or four days after it is received.

Quite frequently the handbill is passed from the mail-box to the waste basket or kitchen stove.

Who ever heard of anyone calling on neighbors or relatives to read circulars received during the week?—Sleepy-Eye (Minn.) Herald Dispatch.

COOK LEADS MATES TO VICTORY AS MCGREGOR BEATS HORNETS IN ANNUAL DUEL

A huge crowd of rabid football fans jammed the local stadium last Thursday afternoon and saw Coach Lloyd Mitchell's McGregor Bulldogs humble the Gatesville High School Hornets by a score of 13-6 in the annual "Turkey Day Tussle" between these two grid-iron rivals.

The Bulldogs manned by a brilliant backfield, Cook, Poss Medford and Johnson took the lead in the early stages of the game and were the aggressor most of the way. Cook, a member of last year's championship teams exhibited a style that was unmatched by any player on the field and he was given excellent support by his mates.

Sexton, the Hornets hurling ace had trouble finding receivers for his passes until the final stages of the game when they finally began clicking to a certain extent. Fry played his usual good game for the locals but his progress was hampered by the charging Bulldog line. Gribble, Manning and White also played heads-up for the Hornets.

Neither team was able to score in the initial quarter, McGregor tallying the first touchdown of the game late in the second frame.

The Hornets scored early in the fourth quarter when a series of passes and a short line plunge sent Sexton plowing over the line. Fry lost his footing on the wet ground and failed to convert the point, deadlocking the score 6-6. Shortly afterwards a Bulldog sub intercepted a pass from Sexton and scored. Poss converted the point thru center and cinched the victory for McGregor. Their first touchdown was also made on a pass, Cook to Poss who was back of the goal line.
