"A HEN MAKES AN EGG" MOVIE FOR POULTRY AND TURKEY RAISERS

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the City Auditorium, a moving picture "A Hen Makes An Egg", will be shown, sponsored by Guy Powell, county agent.

This educational picture will be of special interest to poultry and turkey raisers, and is a "color" movie, showing the making of an egg in all processes and just how poultry takes the feed and assembles the yolk and white making material to complete the egg.

Also important is the effect of external and internal parasites and diseases of poultry, and how, thru proper sanitation and management to prevent these expensive leaks. The picture shows the fundamental principles of profitable poultry production.

It is a highly recommended picture by all who know poultry and poultry raising.

TEPELINI TAKEN, GREEKS

REDS STIR ECUADOR CLASH
Quito, Ecuador, Jan. 12 (AP)—Demonstrating civil guards stoned the presidential mansion today and attacked police in an attempt to release a group of aviators from Quito jail but were dispersed by officers using guns and tear gas bombs.

After the clash, police and soldiers patrolled the city. The demonstration officially was attributed to communist agitators.

TURKS READY, IF NAZIS GO
Istanbul, Jan. 12, (UP)—A high Turkish official told the United Press today that Turkey would declare war if German troops cross the Rumanian frontier into Bulgaria.

SOLONS LINEUP FOR AID SCRAP
Washington, Jan. 12, (UP)—A bi-partisan drive to limit drastically the supreme power which the "lend-lease" bill to aid embattled democracies would vest in President Roosevelt gained momentum tonight as democratic leaders prepared to start the measure on its way through congress this week.

Four objectives in the drive are: (1) Reasonable security for defense weapons obtained from this country under the plan. (2) Limitation of one or two years of the proposed presidential powers. (3) Elimination or revision of the provisions allowing craft of foreign friendly powers to be repaired or outfitted in American air, military or naval bases. (4) Continued certification by army and navy officials that this nation's defense would not be weakened by materials sent abroad. Abandonment of such assurance is projected in the legislation.

F.D.R. CREATES NEW JOB
Hyde Park, N. Y., Jan. 12, (AP)—President Roosevelt created a new government division of defense housing co-ordination Sunday to help eliminate delays.

Charles Palmer of Atlanta was appointed to the office which is a part of the office of emergency management in the White House executive office. Defense housing problems have been handled by a unit in the commission, of which Palmer has been in charge. White House officials said lack of authority had caused delays. In effect, Mr. Roosevelt has shifted the work from the defense commission to an agency under his immediate supervision.

NOTES OF A BYSTANDER:

The Wireless: Info Please has been topped in the ratings by Truth or Consequences, a comparative newcomer. Topped by a full point, a milestone in radio history . . . Bill Shirer, back in N. Y. from Germany, made a very cagey report on how the Heinies are taking the war. Maybe he's protecting his sub, or maybe he has to go back. He did admit, however, that panic hits Berlin when the air raid siren blows, which is very comforting to know.

The Story Tellers: Add required reading: Raymond Gram Swing's reply to Anne Lindbergh in the Dec. 21st Nation . . . Balanchine's gag: "Yes, but suppose it's the pilot's time?" in Collier's is the next to the oldest gag of them all . . . An attractive Florida mag is called Rendezvous, edited by big timers . . . Talk about ingratitude! Emil Hurja, the poll-marker, who gave the only ray of hope to the G.O.P. during the campaign, gets what thanks? He's cited in The Republican, the party organ, as "Class Duncie"!

The Story of the Week! The legend is that there is in existence a recent letter penned by F.D.R. which historically approaches in importance as literature Lincoln's letter to Mrs. Bixby . . . Commenting about some prominent people, who had asked him to intervene for appeasement, the President is reported to have written a New York jurist: "Apparently the issue of living in a totalitarian world continues to be misunderstood. I can understand your fears, that in that eventuality, your children and grandchildren would suffer obliteration from the world. But my concern must be adjudged the greater. My children and grandchildren would have to live in it."

The Front Pages: An Italian newspaper recently claimed that Paul Revere was an Italian. The editor probably figures that anyone who goes around frantically screaming, "The British are coming" must have come from Italy . . . The no foreign war group has endorsed Lindbergh because they believe he is a great lover of peace. Perhaps they didn't see the magazine article Lindbergh wrote, in which he urged that we go to war against the Asiatics . . . Incidentally, that bunch has expressed high regard for two people who are proud of getting medals from Hitler

. . . Any other questions? . . . Add coincidences: The same week Hitler warned us against further aid to Britain, a group of anti-aid to Britain organizations sprang into prominence . . . The Overseas Press Club forced the resignation of George Sylvester Viereck, it was explained, because he fetched Bundists and Gestapolecats to meetings. The other members, perhaps, were afraid of being judged by the company they kept.

NEW YORKERS' TOPICS

The famed New York lawyer, who may go to jail for harboring Lepk . . . The buzz about one of our foreign biggies, who has the rep of being "queer," which certain governments hold over his head to absorb him . . . The wide division in opinion over Lord Halifax inheriting Lothian's job. Certain groups do not trust him, and when you say: "But Churchill sent him!" they reply "But Churchill's boss is Bevin!"

The mysterious disappearance of a Norwegian agent, who was beaten up by Nazi seamen, to keep him from making a speech that might have stopped comrades from signing up with Nazi merchant ships sailing from Mex. ports . . . The police can't solve it . . . The persistent rumor about Atty-Gen'l Jackson replacing Chief Justice Hughes on the Big Bench. Jackson is supposed to have resigned from the board of a home-town bank, which clears the way . . . The Bund troopers in Yorkville who handed out thousands of white, blue-edged buttons reading "No Foreign Wars" all week . . . The ugly fact that they were passed out by Gestapolecats is what makes it all so Naziating.

The Vanderbilt dowager's curtsy to Juliana of Holland at the Winthrop Aldrich reception. Everyone agreed not to curtsy, but Mrs. V. confessed to Juliana: "I just had to" . . . "But," butted the Princess coldly: "I don't like it!" . . . The How-The-Mighty-Have-Tripped Department: The Schuberts will star Carmen Miranda in a revue patterned after London's "Crazy Show"—the backers will be Olsen & Johnson!

THEY'RE ALSO DISCUSSING:

The National Maritime Union's sponsorship of a march on Washington in mid-January to protest against the Gov't taking over six ships of the American Merchant Marine. The march will be supported by the American Youth Congress and the American Peace Mobilization group . . . The way the Ethels are clicking on Broadway. Merman, Waters and Barrymore . . . The New York newspaper which is losing about $20,000 weekly. Not small money, anywhere.

Penny Pinching

By NORMAN CHANDLER

Chairman
Newspaper Publishers Committee

NORMAN CHANDLER

LET'S say it costs your grocer $25 to open his store each morning. With that he can pay his rent, his light bill, his clerk hire.

How your grocer gets that $25 is important to you. If he has fifty customers today, he must find some way to make a profit of half a dollar from each. But if he can manage to find two hundred customers, he can break even if he makes only 12½ cents on each one.

This may seem like pretty simple arithmetic. However, there's an if in it. If he can find the extra customers. He could call them on the telephone—at a cost of five cents per call. Or he could write them a penny post card or send them a letter. Some will respond, some won't.

Then he discovers a way to send a message to a hundred prospects for a single penny! He just buys a newspaper "ad" and tells you and all your neighbors about his plan to save you money, give you better values and better service.

Now the funny part about all this is that the penny per hundred he pays the newspaper is what makes this newspaper and every other paper possible! Advertising pennies pay the salaries of reporters in Europe and Asia, the bill for newsprint paper and ink, the cost of wiring you the baseball scores, the market reports, the happenings in Washington and Des Moines and Seattle.

Except for these advertising pennies—which, you remember, saved you money on your grocery bill—this newspaper would cost you two or three or five times what you paid for it!

There's no "magic" about all this. It's just an American brand of penny pinching. A long time ago we learned that one automobile made by hand cost five or ten thousand dollars, whereas a million cars—if they were made and sold—cost only five hundred or so apiece.

Making and selling all the things we need is a sort of habit in America. A rather good habit, I feel.

But in all this thinking about helping you to get the most for your money, let's not forget about your very right to earn and spend and live in free America. You keep that right through your ability to pick the right men and pass the right kind of laws.

And, since you learn who to pick and what laws to approve through the newspapers, you can see how necessary it is to have good newspapers.

If you want to define a good newspaper, you can say it is one which is free to bring you all sides of every question, free to give you both the good and the bad news about what is going on around you.

Trying to decide how much such a newspaper is worth to you is like trying to put a price tag on your liberty! And I think you'll agree that our liberty and our right to govern ourselves is a big penny's worth in a 1940-model world.

NOTE: The purpose of these regular weekly institutional advertisements is to make American life and American business better. Your suggestions, criticisms or reactions will be appreciated by the Newspaper Publishers Committee and its chairman. Address the committee in care of the Business Office of this paper.

Performed at Moshiem

Miss Alleene Vickrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. F. Vickrey or Moshiem became the bride of Von M. Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gilmore of Turnersville in a ceremony which took place Sunday evening, December 22, at 7 o'clock, in the First Methodist Church of Moshiem.

Smilax screened the choir rail, while palms and tall baskets of white gladioli, white chrysanthemums, flanked by white tapers in tall candelabras, were used at the altar.

Before the ceremony, which was read by Rev. G. C. Williams, Miss Minnie Fitz-Hugh of Valley Mills, sang "I Love You Truly" accompanied at the piano by Miss Lila Simpson, also of Valley Mills. For the wedding march Miss Fitz-Hugh played "Lohengrin" as the processional and "Mendelssohn's Wedding March" as the recessional. During the ceremony she played "The Love Song" by Cadman.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ice blue wool crepe suit with mink trimming and brown accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of ferns and white carnations. For the traditional something old she wore her grandmother's wedding ring.

The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Fred Vickrey, the former Miss Adeline Bronstad of Clifton, who wore a black alpaca dress with contrasting accessories of gold and a corsage of red rosebuds.

N. Foote of Turnersville, served as best man, and Dudley Henry of Moshiem and Weldon Vickrey, brother of the bride and student of North Texas Agricultural College of Arlington, were ushers.

The couple left for a wedding trip to points in South Texas. Mrs. Gilmore traveled in a black alpaca ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

The bridal couple will be at home to their many friends in Turnersville, after January 15.

PATSY RUTH RUCKER DIES IN PLAINVIEW COMMUNITY

On January 9, 1941 the death angel came into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rucker of the Plainview community and took their little daughter, Patsy Ruth. She was born April 26, 1933, and would have been 8 years old if she had lived until April. She had been in poor health all her life, but had been failing fast for three years. She was always patient and bore her suffering with a smile. She never had the pleasure of going to school or playing with her little friends like other children.

Little Patsy Ruth leaves to mourn her passing her parents, and one little brother, Walter Jr.; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rucker and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Williams of Goldthwaite; several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Everything was done for her that her parents, loved ones and doctor could do, but nothing did her any good, so grieve not, dear ones, Little Patsy Ruth has gone home to live with God where there is no more sorrow or pain.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Stanley Chapel, conducted by E. D. Shelton. Interment was made in the King cemetery, Scott's in charge.

Pallbearers were her uncles, Luther Rae, Flavel Rucker, U. D. Williams and Herschel Williams.—Written by a friend, Mrs. George R. Hodges.

Temple, Jan. 9.—Amateur boxers from 15 Central Texas counties will battle it out in the Central Texas District Golden Gloves tournament in the YMCA arena at Temple Jan. 30 and 31 and Feb. 1, for the right to advance to the state tournament at Fort Worth Feb. 13—17.

Boys 16 years old or over who have never fought for money are eligible to enter the tournament if they live in or go to school in Bell, McLennan, Williamson, Falls, Milam, Coryell, Lampasas, Burleson, Brazos, Grimes, Leon, Limestone, Madison, Hamilton or San Saba counties. All entries will get free medical examination before fighting, and free second service in all bouts.

To enter the tournament, a boy has only to clip the entry blank now running in this newspaper, or from the Temple Daily Telegram, fill it out, and mail it to the Golden Gloves Editor, Temple Daily Telegram, Temple.

Friday night, Jonesboro barely nosed out the Oglesby boys 19 to 13, and the Jonesboro girls swamped the Oglesbyites 31-3.

Mr. Ward Burris,
Sports Editor, The Express
San Antonio, Texas.

Dear Chum:

I see where they are a goin' to have 25,000 pounds of barbecue at the governor's party on January Twentyonct. That's a lot of Barbecue fer 12,000 guests to the party. Two pounds a piece. Over in Europe they gets that much fer a family fer a week, and it ain't barbecued, and they ain't got no biscuits. I see where the party is a goin' to be held on the mansion lawn. I betcha them hungry monkeys tromps down all the grass too. Maybe the Texas Game, Fish, Lobster, Shrimp and Oyster Commission ought to have the Governor's expense account investigated fer that party.

I seen where there was a lot more fly fishin' in 1940 than in any other year. I tried fishin' fer 'em, but I couldn't ketch 'em and had to go back to swattin'.

I guess this war will bring on another depression later. A depression is when some people has got to do without what most of the people has already been a doin' without.

My boy friends has been a takin' music lessons on the accordeen. He tried to play the Unfinished Symphony last night. It's finished now.

They say they's still lots of people out of work. If more of them would quit lookin' fer positions and look fer work, they could find it.

When Pasadena clears up the traffic around the Rose Bowl it's shore a going to be hard on the radio comedians. What'll they do fer jokes the next week.

Well, I'm a goin' to bed now. I'm out o' sorts. I met a old friend down at the Emporium and he got on my nerves. He took too long to drink a short beer.

I'll be a seein' you, Pal.

B & PW CLUB TO RECEIVE DONATIONS FOR EQUIPMENT

At a business meeting Tuesday night of the Business and Professional Women, the Club voted to be a receiving committee with a single committee appointed, composed of Mrs. Turk Brown, chairman, Miss Sidney Gibson and Miss Thelma McGilvray, working with the Club as a whole, to receive any donation that any group or individual might wish to give for the purchasing of equipment for the new hospital.

This is not a soliciting committee, but it has been customary, and since there has been a number of people who stated that they would like to give something to the hospital, the Club has agreed to serve for this purpose.

Anyone desiring to give any piece or suite of furniture or any type of equipment for the hospital, may contact this committee. The committee will be in position to quote them prices on individual pieces of equipment or suites.

Any individual piece or group of equipment will be recognized with an engraved plate as the donor wishes.

Final say on validity of the AAA came from the U. S. Supreme Court yesterday, as they declared the law unconstitutional in its attempt to control production. Striking at the very heart of the law, the decision held that control of crop production even by voluntary agreement and the payment of bounties exceeded the limitations placed on the power of the federal government.

IN OLD CORYELL

By Claude Miller

In old Coryell, my county by birth, It's one of the finest old counties on earth;

She's rough and she's rolling along the Leon.

When a youth there I wandered in days that are gone;

I recall the wild Indians and arrows and bows

That we used as young warriors as we trudged thru the snows;

How we tropped the gay red bird out back of the school

Where briars were thickest close by a deep pool.

Doc Gilder, Jule Turner, Drew Graves and that gang All picked on "Fat" Miller; I thought they would hange; We fought and we wrestled, and poor old Ross Jones Pinched my fat leg and I most broke his bones. He yelled for the teacher in fearful despair For I had my poor victim secure by the hair. So being quite husky and the teacher was new He proceeded to whale me. Ye Gods! that was true.

How well I remember the wagon load bunch As we drove out to Dodd's Creek for a camp and a lunch, And the holes of blue water where I learned to swim Were shady and cool with a high rocky rim,

The narrow guage road, when she first hit the town.

Oh, boy! We got "cocky" and "Did 'em up brown".

Got artesian water and a bunch of saloons,

And a band of musicians that couldn't play tunes.

I remember the bus with six yellow steeds;

They were pretty as pictures and the very best breeds,

Then a torchlight procession, when Cleveland went in,

And the shouting and shooting was really a sin.

A little old-fashioned were Coryell folks;

They swore quite a bit and told smutty jokes.

But rough as the were, I remember quite well

We had a wonderful friendship in old Coryell.

The road through the valleys kept winding around

As the mockingbirds thrilled with a wonderful sound;

The cedars and oaks and all kinds of trees

Made up a picture that is grand, if you please,

Not many folks rich, just plain common stuff,

And really the nesters you'd think rather rough,

But a world of gold hearts, I'm sure I can tell

Lived out in the hills of old Coryell.

CHAPTER 1

The telephone on the desk was ringing as Margaret Hopkins opened the hall door and hurried into the shabby office. She was wearing a street coat over her nurse's uniform.
"Dr. Morgan's office," she said au-tomatically as she seized the telephone. "Hello, hello! Dr. Morgan's office." A click told her the line had gone dead.

As she replaced the receiver she noticed the half-emptied flask of whisky on the desk. She turned and studied the sleeping figure on the couch. Mouth open and one hand dangling, Dr. Bartley Morgan obviously and unmistakably was dead drunk.

For a long moment the girl studied the sleeping man. The face was darkly handsome but weak, she admitted to herself. The hand that dangled near the floor was slender
and powerful—
the hand of a born surgeon. She stooped and lifted
the inert arm and placed it on the couch beside its sleeping owner.
Here eyes softened.
With all of his faults—and Margaret Hopkins
was not the sort
of woman who refused to face facts
—she loved Dr.
Bartley Morgan,
she admitted
mournfully to herself.

Bart Morgan
stirred restlessly,
mumbled and
opened his eyes.
For a minute he stared vacantly at Margaret, then his eyes focused on
her. "Did I hear the phone?" he mu-tered as he pulled himself half-way erect. His voice was thick.

"Why didn't you answer it?"
There was a bitter under-note in the girl's query. "It might have been a patient—and you need patients!"
Morgan got to his feet unsteadily.
He could feel the reproach in her eyes. "Sorry, Margaret," he mu-tered as he poured out a stiff drink and downed it quickly.

"It doesn't seem to be any use."
The girl's voice was low and unhappy. "You just won't try."

Morgan was suddenly on the defensive. "Try? For what? Buried here in this hole—"

"Because you won't let that alone." She gestured toward the flask of whisky. "Why, Bart? Why?"
"I don't know," Morgan admitted
after a long pause.

"I can tell you why," the girl answered and her voice had an angry quality to it. "I've seen why. When you drink, it makes you feel big. It makes you think you're all the things you could be." Her voice broke. "And then when it wears off, you're right back at the starting line."

"That's right, I guess," Morgan agreed, sinking wearily into the office's lone arm chair.

"Then you won't stop it? You have the makings of a fine surgeon.
You could be big . . . if you really tried."*

Morgan stared unseeing into space. Watching him, the girl's face softened. Finally he arose, weaving slightly, and faced her.

"I'll try, Margaret. I'll never take a drink again."

"You've said that before."

"I mean it, this time."

"I hope so for your sake." She was silent for a moment. "I'm going away, Bart. I'm going to get into some big hospital. You don't need a nurse in this office . . . and I'm only standing still here."

"So you've finally had enough of it." The older woman glanced toward the office door.

"It will be better . . . for both of us."

"For you, anyway," Mrs. Higgins agreed. "He'll end up in the gutter."

"Don't say that," the girl said, quick to defend Morgan. Her voice changed. "You'll try to help him,
won't you?"

"He can stay as long as he pays his rent. You're smart not to throw yourself away on the likes of him.
And don't tell me you don't love him.
I know."

Margaret smiled. "But he doesn't know."

"That's a break for you," the elder woman said as Margaret hurried toward the street door.

"Just help him if you can. Please."
The door closed behind her.

In the office Morgan stared dazedly at the familiar room. He picked up the bottle and was about to pour
a drink when the telephone rang sharply. Holding the bottle in mid-air he listened as
the instrument
continued its shrill summons. Finally he put down the bottle and lifted
the receiver.

"Hello. This is Dr. Morgan," he said, fighting to keep the thickness out of his voice.

"There's been a bad accident four miles north of town on Route
56," a man's voice
said from the other end of the wire. "Can you come right out?"

"You have the makings of a fine surgeon," Margaret said. "You could be big—if you tried."

Dr. Bartley Morgan was suddenly afraid. "Don't leave me, Margaret," he pleaded. "Stay here. I need you."

"Sorry, Bart. I'm going home and pack. I'll leave tonight."

"Tonight?" This sudden decision had him floundering.

"Goodbye," Margaret extended
her hand.

"You'll let me hear from you?"
Morgan was stalling desperately for time in which to formulate an argument.

"I'll write," Margaret promised as she started toward the door.

Morgan halted her. "I don't know what to say—except good luck," he muttered.

"Thanks—and don't forget your promise about the whisky. Goodbye."

As she closed the door behind her,
Margaret came face to face with Mrs. Higgins, landlady of the lodging house in which Dr. Bartley Morgan's office was located.

"I'm leaving, Mrs. Higgins—leaving Dr. Morgan and Midburg tomorrow morning," Margaret said.

"It will take about twenty minutes," Morgan said, quickly estimating the amount of preparation and travelling time he would need.

"We'll be waiting by the side of the road," the invisible speaker agreed.

"I'll watch for you," Morgan said
as he replaced the receiver and clumsily began packing his bag with emergency instruments and drugs.

Twenty minutes later, Bart Morgan was halted by two dim figures waving a flashlight at the side of the road. "You Dr. Morgan?" one of them demanded.

"Yes. Where's the accident?"

"We got the fellow over there,"
the speaker gestured toward a dim hulk in the darkness "in that barn."

As Morgan followed his guides into the barn, he caught sight of a gory figure stretched out on a crude table of planks and boxes. Blood was gushing from a gunshot wound
in one shoulder.
