"FROZEN FOOD" LOCKERS TO BE INSTALLED HERE

C. P. Mounce and Harry Jones announce they will soon open the Gatesville Frozen Food Lockers Company across the street from the Mounce Insurance Agency on "Little Wall Street" (Utility Row), and construction will be started in the near future.

The plant will be equipped with a chilling room, where meat will first be cooled and aged; a processing room, where it will be cut and wrapped to the order of the patron; a sharp freezing cabinet, maintained at 15 to 25 degrees below zero, where meat, vegetables and fruits will be quickly frozen to preserve their freshness; and the locker room, itself, where a temperature of zero will be maintained at all times. Smoking and curing facilities will also be included.

Five hundred steel lockers will be installed with a capacity of 200 to 300 pounds of meat, vegetables, chickens, berries, fruits, etc. Opening date of the plant will be announced in the future and the public will be invited to attend and inspect the new plant. A further explanation of costs, and other details may be had by seeing either Mr. Jones or Mr. Mounce.

Judge Says 2nd Week Jurors Needn't Report Cases Settled

Word from Judge R. Bates Cross is that the men named for the Second Week Petit Jury need not report, because there won't be any cases to be handled by them—at least, no jury cases.

Now, here's what's already been done, without juries: Ada Williams vs. R. F. (Jack) Williams, divorce, dismissed; Melvin Weaver vs. J. L. Neel et al, suit to try title, judgement for plaintiff; Forene Reese vs. Aubrey Reese, divorce, granted, plaintiff's maiden name restored; Isabell Edwards et al vs. Jesse F. Everetes et al, suit to try title, judgement for plaintiff; Robert W. Brown vs. G. T. Young agreed judgement; J. C. Wedemeyer vs. Sterling Matthews, suit to try title, judgement for plaintiff; A. W. Jones vs. Lawrence Jones, judgement for plaintiff; and T. R. Truss et al vs. Joseph Traller, suit to try title, judgement for plaintiff.

And, the Grand Jury is still working, and no report.

General C. of C. Meeting Called For Thursday

Whether or not you're a member of the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce, if you live in the vicinity, you're especially urged to be in the district court room at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Jan. 23. Have your steno, clerk, or yourself, make a notation of this meeting.

No plan is going to be submitted. You will be asked to make suggestions, criticisms, etc., so that a "set-up" "program" or something-or-the-other can be worked out. Members, naturally are EXPECTED to be present. All others who own property (rent), businesses, professions, positions, or no positions are very urgently invited to be there.

Does this cover it? You ARE wanted at this meeting, as you ALWAYS are at all general Chamber of Commerce meetings. Get it!

LIONS "CHARTER DAY" IS CELEBRATED WEDNESDAY

Gatesville Lions Club Wednesday celebrated "Charter Day" which was the birthday of Melvin Jones, founder of Lionism. Judge R. B. Cross was the speaker, and read a paper giving the life of Mr. Jones. Charter members of the Lions Club were called and they were asked to rise. A special tribute was paid to the late Lewis Holmes who was one of the 25 charter members.

Other entertainment was furnished by Misses Julia Ann Melbern, Mabel Marion Brown and Betty Jo Stewart, who played and sang a number of popular songs.

MOVIE PALACES TO OPEN SATURDAY: FACES LIFTED

All three of the movie palaces will open Saturday, and in at least two of them, you'll see new decorations.

The Regal has been "re-done" according to Mrs. Howard Key, and now they've got Indian Sun Tan and Desert Sand paint scattered artistically throughout the foyer and all other parts of the show.

We haven't been told what kind of pigments The Palace is using, but it's along the same line, and is in the lobby, as well as the main part of the show. Both shows are reworking the display frames on the outside, too.

CONGRESSMAN POAGE IS RECOMMENDED FOR PLACE ON COMMITTEE OF AGRI.

Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage has been recommended by Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee to succeed the Honorable Marvin Jones on the important Committee on Agriculture.

Congressman Poage, of this, the 11th district, not only represents one of the greatest agricultural districts in the nation, but his own personal experience and interests have made him a student of agricultural problems so that he is generally recognized in Washington as the logical man to succeed a great retiring agricultural leader.

As soon as it became known that Mr. Jones was to retire, the Texas delegation unanimously endorsed Mr. Poage for this position. The action of the Ways and Means Committee in recommending him is considered tantamount to election to the place although this recommendation must be formally approved by the Democratic Caucus. Poage was the only member selected to this important Committee from West of the Mississippi River. Poage was also the only member of the Texas delegation who has so far in this session received recommendation to a major committee. The Committee on Agriculture is considered one of the most important in Congress and is of course of outstanding importance to Texas.

When approached on the subject, Congressman Poage said "I deeply appreciate the outstanding honor that has been paid me. It will be my endeavor to use this position as a means of serving the farmers of America and particularly of Central Texas. I know of their struggles and difficulties. I can not promise any Utopia. In fact, I recognize that the war situation is bound to increase the difficulties of agriculture, but I shall at all times be found fighting to secure for our farmers their fair share of the national income which in my opinion means prices and production that will give to our farmers full parity of income."

Congressman Poage, by this distinct honor, has again proven his standing in Washington among his colleagues, and among all the "greats and near-greats" there. It is an enviable honor for his district, that he should receive such recognition in the short time which he has been privileged to represent this, the 11th District of Texas.

No Change In 2 P. M. Mail Schedule: Ireland Mail Studied

In an effort to get additional mail service between Waco and Brownwood, post office authorities at Waco and the Waco Chamber of Commerce recommended the extension of this star route on to Brownwood. This would have delayed the Gatesville 2 p. m. dispatch until late afternoon. Since Gatesville's other dispatch is 8 p. m. we would practically have only one mail a day.

Representatives of the local Chamber of Commerce went to Waco to investigate the matter and Tuesday received a letter from H. K. Coale, Chief Clerk of the Railway Mail Service in Fort Worth, advising them that there would be no change in Gatesville mail service, and that if change was made, it would be additional.

Also, in regard to the Ireland situation, J. E. Collier, Chief clerk of the Railway Mail Service of San Antonio was here and investigated the situation. Nothing definite has been announced as yet, but it is thought certain that something will be done to improve this poor service.

New Directors For Guaranty: The Same At National

Well, the stockholders of the two local banks met in their annual meeting Tuesday morning, and nothing new was done with the exception of naming two new directors at the Guaranty: H. K. Jackson and Reid Powell. It was voted to increase the Board of Directors to eight, necessitating the naming of two more to the board.

Following the Guaranty meeting the stockholders and employees enjoyed an oyster dinner at a local cafe. After the dinner, the same employees and officers were re-named. Reports were the bank enjoyed a prosperous 1940, declaring a substantial dividend for the stockholders.

The National also had a successful year, declaring a dividend of 15 per cent on the capitol stock. No changes were made in this bank, either in directors or employees.

RE-NU CLEANERS ARE NOW UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Beginning yesterday morning, Billie McMordie, well known in the tailoring business in this vicinity, purchased the dry cleaning plant, formerly owned by J. H. (Barney) Barneburg, known as the Re-Nu Cleaners.

Mr. Barneburg came to Gatesville some two years ago and established a first class cleaning and pressing plant, and has enjoyed his business career here. Mr. Barneburg is leaving shortly for Abilene, according to reports for other activities.

Mr. McMordie needs no introduction to Coryell county people having had about ten years experience in this particular business.

I have never seen such a general recognition of great responsibility that rests on Congress as is evidenced on Capitol Hill at this time. Almost everyone expects the events of the year of 1941 to determine the destiny of civilization for years and probably for generations to come. Surely the rate of production of supplies for the Democracies during the next six or eight months will determine the momentous question of whether or not the United States will be forced into the world conflict. I confidently hope that we may be able to furnish the free people of the world with the means of resisting aggression. If we succeed in this high endeavor we may expect a break in the dark clouds of international despair. We may again expect to live in the sunshine of freedom, and a world order in which force is not supreme. Should we fail to supply them with necessary supplies and materials, the British will fail, the Greeks and the Chinese will fail.—Democracy in the old world will be completely obliterated, and we will stand alone in a hostile world forced to carry on alone and without friends the contest which Adolph Hitler himself has described as a conflict between two forms of government. Should we fail for even a few short months to heed the sound admonition of our great President, it will be too late. We must aid the Democracies with materials and supplies now or attempt the staggering task of defending all sides of two continents with one navy in existence and one still under construction. We must do this or we must assume that the mad-men who have overrun Europe and Asia will be disposed to simply call time out while we build our defenses, and as yet there is no authentically recorded case of a saber-tooth tiger fore-going an attack on a calf just because the calf, if given time, might grow horns and be in a position to make some defense.

The most encouraging feature is the fact that so many of our people are beginning to realize the grim prospects. One year ago very few members of Congress expected to stay in Washington past the party conventions in July. Today, most members realize that it is quite probable that Congress will remain in continuous session for the full year, and all recognize that we will probably be called upon to make some of the most far-reaching decisions. For my part, I agree 100 per cent with the program of unlimited material aid to the Democracies as proposed by President Roosevelt in his speech last Monday, and as outlined in legislation introduced in the House today. Never has there been such a crowd in the Hall of the House of Representatives as there was that day. We tried to accommodate as many as possible of the thousands of officials and other visitors who sought to hear this historic speech. I sat on a pile of books in the aisle. I could see and hear well. I was greatly impressed with the President's argument.

On Wednesday we received the President's budget message. This, unlike the defense message, was not delivered in person, but was sent in writing and read to the House by a clerk. It was nevertheless important in calling attention to the unpleasant fact that our defense efforts are tremendously costly and that we must make sacrifices if we are to have the defense. I am sure that our people will not complain of the new taxes if by paying them we can but avoid the sacrifice of life that has been required of people of many countries.

The Democrats, who have a majority of 101 in the House this session, held their caucuses and agreed to again support Texas' own, Sam Rayburn, for Speaker, and Hon. John McCormack for Majority Leader. The Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee were also selected in the caucus. Of course, with the large Democratic majority those selected by the caucus were later elected by the House. Just as soon as the newly elected Ways and Means Committee can select the members of the other standing committees, consideration of all kinds of legislation will begin.

In the meantime, our entire office force wants to be of help to you in any way we can. This year Mr. Wm. L. Sleeper of McLennan County will be Secretary. Mrs. James McAlexander of Bell County, who has been with me for a number of years, will be Clerk. Miss Iva Earl Heath of Milam County will be Stenographer. Mr. Bonner Jennings of Falls County although not a regular employee of my office, will continue in charge of Publications, and Mrs. Poage although not on any payroll, will have a desk and will continue to help us in all branches of the office. From time to time I may ask each of these to write to you that you may get a well rounded view of the work of your Congressman's office.

IN MEMORY OF AUNT MARY NOBLES

Sunday night, January 12, at a few minutes past seven, God called Aunt Mary Nobles, age seventy-seven, from this world of suffering to that great home beyond.

Aunt Mary's life was making others happy. She had many friends both young and old, for to know her was to love her. Altho her last five years were spent in declining health, she took it all very patient and continued her kind deeds and was most considerate of others. This loss was surely heaven's gain. Weep not of her going dear loved ones, for God knows best.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Turner of Slater. Interment was made in the King cemetery, near her home where she had lived the greatest part of her life. Scott's were in charge.

Pallbearers were, Eugene Bond, Raymond Bankhead, Wells Watson, Loyd Russell, Harry McClesky and Bush McClesky. Flowers girls were, Darlene Hogan, Betty Hogan, Helen McClesky, Ray McClesky, Waldene McClesky, Mary Louise McClesky, and Imogene Curry.

Those left to mourn her going are two daughters, and two sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bond and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bone; three grandchildren and their companions, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bankhead, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bond, and Mr. and Mrs. Quince Bone; two sisters, Mrs. Ann Graham and Mrs. Vanna Burks; two brothers, Tom and Henry McClesky; other relatives and a host of friends.

DOES FORD PAY GOOD WAGES?

HERE ARE SOME FACTS about Ford Labor.

During the year ended November 30th, 1940, the Ford Payroll throughout the United States averaged 113,628 hourly wage earners, not including office employes, students, or executives. They were paid $185,105,639.12. On this basis, the average annual wage was $1,629.05.

According to the latest available government figures, the annual average wage of all workers in employment covered by old age insurance law was $841.00.

If the 45,000,000 workers of this country received the same average wage as Ford employes, they would have had additional wages of more than $35,000,000,000, thus increasing the national income about 50%. Think what such an increase would mean to the workers of this country and to the American farmer, whose prices are based on the national income.

Wage scales in the Ford Rouge plants are divided into three classifications:

- Unskilled . . . Minimum hiring wage . 75c per hour
 - Semi-skilled . . . Minimum hiring wage . 80c per hour
 - Skilled . . . Minimum hiring wage . 90c per hour
- Higher wages are in consideration of ability and years of service.

Minimum wage scales for unskilled labor at the Rouge plant are the highest in the industry. Top wages for skilled labor compare favorably with, or are higher than, wages in other automobile plants.

Now some facts on Ford labor conditions:

Not only are sanitation and other health conditions the best in the industry, but Ford also leads in safety devices for the protection of employes. Proof of this is found in the following comparison of compensation insurance costs:

The national average rate in automotive manufacturing plants as computed by the National Association of Underwriters is in excess of $1.50 premium on each $100 payroll. The Ford cost of workmen's compensation is less than 50c.

This indicates that the chance of injury in a Ford plant is much less than in the average automobile plant.

The Ford Motor Company has no age limit for labor, and in fact deliberately attempts to keep older workers working. The average age of Ford workers at the Rouge and nearby plants is 38.7.

A recent check-up shows that nearly one-half the workers at these Ford plants were 40 or over, falling into these age groups:

- 25,819 between 40 and 50
- 14,731 between 50 and 60
- 3,377 between 60 and 70
- 417 between 70 and 80
- 12 between 80 and 90

In addition to the so-called regular employes, the Ford Motor Company has hired, and now has on the payroll, at the same regular hourly wage, thousands of workers who are blind, crippled or otherwise incapacitated for normal productive work. They are not selected for their ability to build cars or to maintain the plant. They are on the payroll because of Henry Ford's belief that the responsibility of a large company to labor goes beyond the point at which the unfortunate worker can no longer produce profitably.

The above are facts. They are open to anyone who really wants to deal in facts. Anyone who wants to get a job . . . buy a car . . . or place a national defense contract on the basis of fair labor treatment must place Ford at the top of his eligible list.

Well, folks, Jonesboro is "telling us", and therefore, we know what's happening. Coach, what's the matter with YOUR press agent?

Jonesboro takes on Bowie High School in Fort Worth the end of this month at the Recreation Club gymnasium as a "prelim" to the TWC-SHSTC "main event". That's a dandy break for the Jonesboro boys, as no doubt the coaches from these two institutions will be "lookin' 'em over".

You know, they're always looking for material, and already, TWC has just about, or has had, a Coryell county five making up their squad. It's us another way that it pays to advertise, when you have ability, like many, many Coryell county boys have in the court game. Jonesboro took on Lampasas last night.

After January the "worst" passes, the ash and the horse-hide boys begin talking the national sport. They are, already, and we've been asked the plans.

The plans, of course, belong to the baseball managers of the county. However, by way of suggestion, let's start the County Baseball League early this year, and end it about July 15 (no later). Then pick a first class team, and enter them in the State Semi-Pro Tournament at Waco.

Last year, a very creditable team just lacked one run of winning $50, and could have won it easily if they'd worked out. There's more money above the $50, if more games than one can be won. Looks like it's worth plenty of effort to us.

GHS boys and girls have a full schedule this week. They stopped for the "flu" and probably have games to make up, as well as lessons.

So far, here's the schedule for the week (off a board), Tuesday night: Turnersville boys 23, Hornets 45; Turnersville girls 13 vs. Hornets 22. Wednesday night: Turnersville boys 19, Hornets 22; Turnersville girls 14, vs. Hornets 15. Last night the Hornets took on the M. E. Home boys, and tonight, there's a double header with both sexes furnishing the play featuring Kopperal and Gatesville.

Have you a "little sports" in your school? We'd like to know, too, and may be someone else might, also. Thanks.

Hornettes Take Two Wins Over T'ville

(J. Mc.)

The Golden Hornettes clashed with the sextette from Turnersville on the Gatesville court in a cage thriller Tuesday night. The Turnersville squad managed to split the mesh for the first two points of the game. Then a quick score for Gatesville. The score was tied up several times during the first quarter and the score at the end of this period was 7-7.

In the second quarter the locals slid ahead 13-7 but made only one point during the third quarter while Turnersville made three. In the last quarter the Hornettes came back to make eight points. The final score was 22-13.

Patterson, Perkins, Shoaf, Apel Holcomb, and Captain Black were the Gatesville starters. The Turnersville forwards got off many many beautiful long shots, most of them missing the bucket by a little. Several times these forwards dribbled under the Gatesville guards. The Gatesville forwards made many faulty passes but played a fast game. They were continually fed the ball by the Hornette guards. Perkins set the pace of the game with eleven points. McCallister, Turnersville forward was next with seven.

The return game at Turnersville Wednesday night was a much closer game. In the second quarter Patterson started the ball rolling for the Gatesville squad when she sunk a free shot. In this quarter the Hornettes made eight points and lagged only one point behind at the half. In the third quarter they added five more points to their favor while Turnersville only made two. In the last quarter of the clash the two teams tied up 13-13. A Gatesville forward split the mesh for two points and a Turnersville forward sank a free shot. The game ended 15-14 in the Hornettes favor.

The Gatesville guards broke up play after play of their opponents and took most of the ball off the backboard. Humes, Turnersville forward, was high point with 12 tallies in her name. Patterson was next with 9. The locals would have come out with a much larger score if they had been able to make more of their free shots.

Ball Games Here Tonight—Come

Tonight in the local gym the Hornets and Hornettes meet the Kopperal ball clubs. The girls are the winners of their district and are sure to be real competition to our undefeated Hornettes.

This will be the same brand of basketball that is played at State Meet each year. The GHS cagers represent their school and you. They appreciate your support, so be out to back them. The first game is scheduled for 7:00 o'clock. Be there when the opening whistle blows.

Stars Enter Gloves Tourney at Temple Entries Wanted Here

Amateur fighters from three central Texas colleges are expected to be among the contenders for championships in the Central Texas district Golden Gloves tournament at the YMCA arena in Temple, Jan. 30 and 31 and Feb. 1.

Teams or representatives from Texas A. and M. College, Baylor University and Allen Academy are due to enter the tournament this week. Headliner from A. and M. is Marshal Robnett, All-American guard in football and the college heavyweight boxing champion. His main opposition in the "big boys" class probably will come from Jack Russell of Baylor, all-conference end in football and Baylor's top heavyweight. Russell was favored to win the district heavyweight title last year, but had to drop out of the tournament because of a broken hand.

No. 1 man of the Allen academy team is little Dick Menchaca of Port Arthur, who last year brought Texas its first national Golden Gloves championship when he won the bantamweight division in the Chicago tournament.

However, boys do not have to be collegians or even going to school to enter the tournament. Boys 16 years of age or over who have never fought for money are eligible to enter, although boys under 21 must have their parents' consent.

To enter, a boy need only clip the entry blank now running in the Temple Telegram and other Central Texas newspapers and mail it to the Golden Gloves Editor, Temple Telegram, or to the paper from which he clipped it.

It is also required that all entries be AAU members, and there is a 25-cent fee for this, the only fee of any kind connected with the tournament. AAU blanks may be filled out at the YMCA in Temple, as late as weighing in day. All entries will be furnished free seconds for all fights, but should bring their own trunks and shoes.

Trophies for both winners and runners-up are being ordered this week. District championship winners will have all their expenses paid to the state tournament in Fort Worth, Feb. 13-17, and state winners will have all their expenses paid to the national tournament at Chicago.

He passed away in the Hillcrest Memorial Hospital, Waco, Texas, January 4, 1941, after an illness of one month at the age of 83 years, 3 months, and 6 days. He was laid to rest in Killeen with Bro. METHODIST CHURCH
 E. L. Craig, Pastor

Sunday morning we resume our regular services, following a Sunday our church co-operated with the health authorities in their effort to stamp out the epidemic of flu. At 9:45 Sunday morning the Sunday School will begin. At 11 o'clock the pastor will preach on the theme, "An Ancient Question Made Modern". This is a challenging question which confronts every professing Christian. Hear this message. At 6:00 p. m. the Young People will meet in the League Meeting. Mrs. J. C. Porter is beginning to work with the League Group, and we are asking for full cooperation from the whole church. At 7 p. m. the pastor will preach, using the theme, "A Nameless Quartet." The public is invited to attend these services. A warm welcome awaits you every time you come to worship with us.

Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock the Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet. The president is asking for a report from the chairmen of all standing committees.

At 7:00 p. m. Wednesday the weekly prayer meeting will begin. All members of the church are cordially invited to attend this mid-week service.

Thursday morning at 10:00 o'clock the District Missionary Institute will convene in the Methodist Church. An interesting and challenging program will be presented. The cause of missions will be presented to us in many phases of its approach. The whole church is cordially invited to attend.

Deborah a woman and David a King.

Prophets did not claim inspiration at all times. King David expressed a desire to build the Lord an house, Nathan the prophet urged him to do it. But that night the Lord told Nathan what to tell David. David was not permitted to build the house, but his son Solomon was permitted to do so. (See 2 Kings 7-9).

Sometimes it is a joy to prophecy and sometimes it was a burden. All the book of Jonah and Jeremiah 18 to 20th chapters is a good illustration of it being a burden.

The prophets made known things that lay beyond their intellectual horizon. "And the Lord hath given me knowledge of it: Then thou showedest me their doings." Jeremiah 11:18.

The virgin birth of Jesus was foretold about 4,000 years before He was born. (Genesis 3:15).

SCHLEY BAPTIST CHURCH
 Rev. H. L. DeVaney, Pastor

Sunday, January 19, being our regular day of worship, we are counting on every member of the Church to be loyal to his or her Church and to Christ that is the head of the Church, and be present for the services this coming Lord's Day. Sunday School begins at 10:15 with the Superintendent in charge. Perhaps you have not been able to attend Church and Sunday School any this New Year because of illness so if you are able to go, then a visit to the House of God will help that tired body to get the much needed rest by attending worship. The morning worship services at 11:15. The pastor, Rev. DeVaney, will bring the message. The evening service will be at 2:30 and at 3 o'clock the sermon by the pastor—"Remember God is still on the throne, and prayer changes things".

PRAIRIE VIEW SERVICES
 Dr. Tinsley Smith, medical missionary to the Belgian Congo, Africa, will be at Prairie View Sunday afternoon at 2:45 to speak. The entire community is cordially invited to be present. Worship must start promptly at 2:45 in order for Dr. Smith to make his other appointments for the day.

The prophet is always conscious of what he is saying, and retains his own individuality. He is consciously cooperating with the Holy Spirit in his message. He knows that it is God speaking through him. Got hates false prophets and condemns all who do not prophecy truly. Jeremiah 23:25-31 is a good example of the true and false prophets, "The prophet that hath a dream, let him tell a dream; and he that hath my word, let him speak my word faithfully. What is the chaff to the wheat? saith the Lord. Is not my word like as a fire? saith the Lord; and like a hammer that breaketh the rock in pieces?"

God is no respecter of persons, age, color or sex in calling persons to prophecy; neither does rank or standing; educated or uneducated; rich or poor; high or low make any difference in His calling his prophets Paul says, "God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty;..." (1Corinthians 1:27,28). Amos was a herdsman; Elisha a farmer; Isaiah was educated; Moses educated;

School Gets Okeh From Association Regarding Work

Superintendent Ercell W. Brooks has received a letter from J. W.
O'Banion, Chairman, State Executive Committee commending the school for its standing.

Here is the letter:
December 17, 1940
"In the annual session of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools held in Memphis, Tennessee, on December
9-13, your high school was elected to membership in that body for the current year.

The action of the Membership Committee of the Southern Association is significant in that your High School was again unanimously elected to membership without a single adverse criticism. This high rating of your High School is outstanding and emphasizes the constructive leadership of the public schools of your city."

Very sincerely,
J. W. O'Banion, Chairman

NTSTC Choir Director Named V-President Of Music Association

DENTON, Texas—The selection of Dr. Wilfred C. Baine, head of the music staff at the North Texas State Teachers College, as national vice-president and a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Schools of Music at the seventeenth annual meeting of the association in Cleveland, Ohio, has been announced in Denton.

Bain, who was added to the permanent music staff of the Denton Teachers College in the fall of 1938 as professor of music and head of the department, has directed a remarkably rapid growth in the music department at NTSTC. A graduate of the Choir School at Princeton, N. J., and a former member of the famous Westminster Choir, Bain was conductor of the Houghton College Choir before coming to Texas. At the Denton Teachers College he organized and directed the Denton A Capella Choir of 45 singers which has appeared throughout the Southwest in annual tours. He holds both the master's and doctor's degrees from New York University and has studied with John Finley Williamson, Father Finn, Isadore Luckstone, Hollis Dean, and Percy Grainger. He is listed in "Who's Who in Music."

Composed of 120 leading professional schools of music in the United States, the National Association of Schools of Music is the only national accrediting agency in music in the nation. As in other national accrediting agencies membership in the association is by examination only. The organization devotes itself to curriculum research and an evaluation of music teaching techniques with the stated purpose of raising standards in American music education. In 1933 it was selected by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as its official accrediting agency in music.

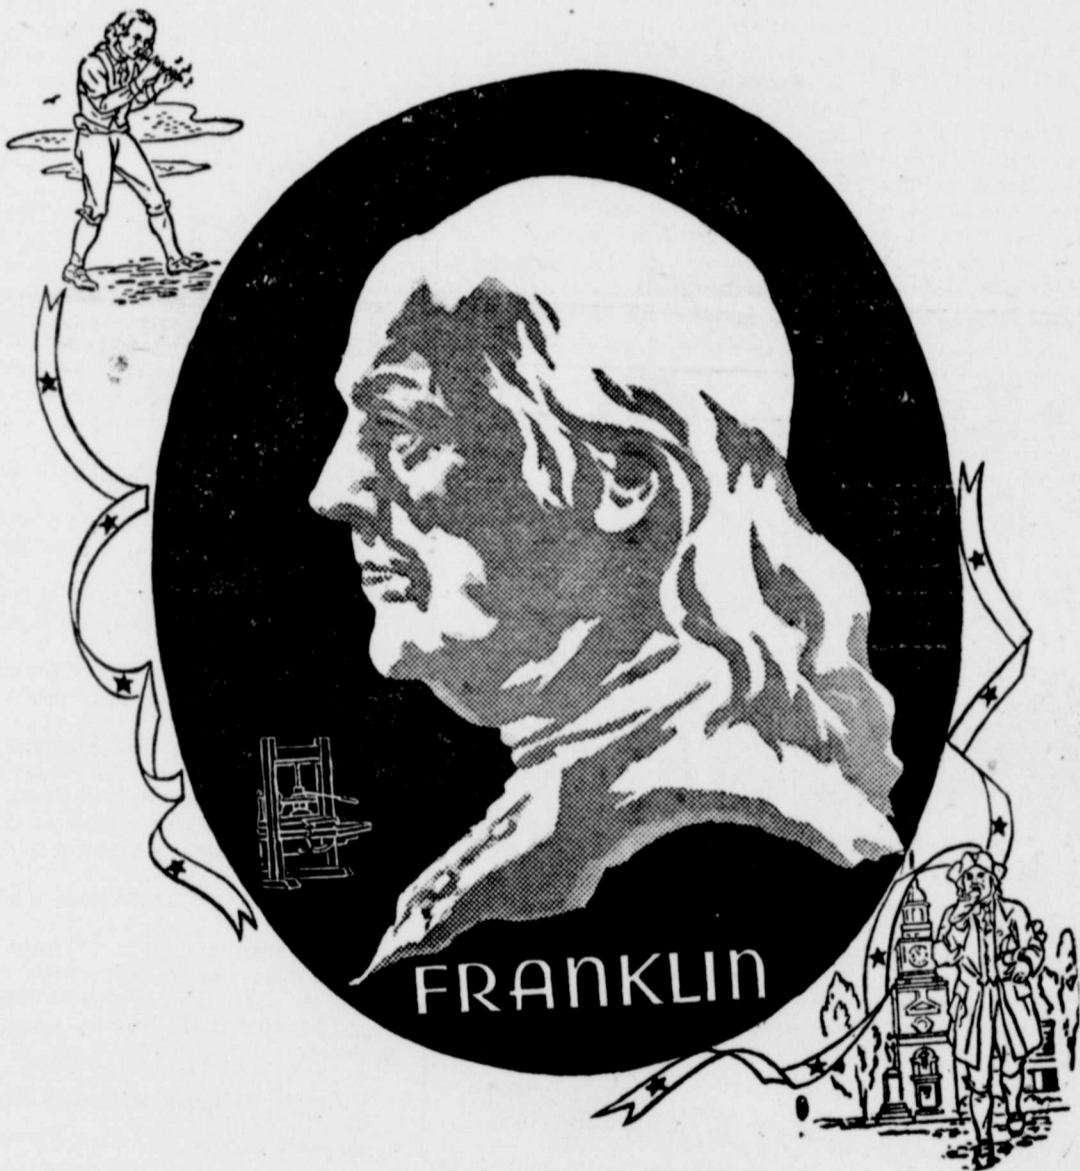

Seven Texas schools are members of the association—Southern Methodist University, Baylor University, Hardin Simmons University, North Texas State Teachers College, Mary Hardin Baylor, Our Lady of the Lake College, and Incarnate Word.

Benjamin Franklin
Jan. 17, 1706—April 17, 1790

SAVE! January 17th is the anniversary of the birthday of Benjamin Franklin, one of the great men who helped to build this country. One of Franklin's chief attributes was thriftiness, which he constantly preached to those who knew him. Franklin has been associated with the printing industry. And HE was a man with a THRIFTY reputation. Of course, he was, and so are local merchants who use the facilities of their hometown newspapers.

To send the same message to their customers by any other means except newspaper advertising would be prohibitive. There is no medium more thorough and at the same time, as economical as advertising in newspapers.

Benjamin Franklin knew this, and he was known as a "Thrift Man" and, still is.

F.D.R. RESISTS PRESSURE TO SEND NAVY VESSELS WITH SUPPLIES

The most important question discussed in inner administration circles before the President made his recent defense speech was that of using American warships to convoy supplies across the Atlantic to Irish or British waters. This question probably was in the President's mind also when he wrote the speech.

The problem has been debated among some of Roosevelt's close advisers ever since British emissaries brought word that while England could withstand airplane bombardment it could not withstand the continued sinking of its merchant vessels. The British also made it clear that more over-age U. S. destroyers would not do the trick, because the royal navy was running short of trained crews.

So far, the President has shied away from any such drastic step as using American naval vessels to guard supply ships across the Atlantic. Some of his advisers have leaned toward the idea, but Roosevelt has argued against it. He maintains, first, that it would be in violation of the Neutrality act and could not be done without an act of congress; second, that if an American naval vessel were sunk it would mean war.

Some of Roosevelt's advisers contend that the last thing Hitler wants is to bring the United States into the war; that the effect on the German people (who remember how the United States tipped the scales in the last war) would be devastating. However, the President hasn't fallen for the idea yet, though he is watching carefully the effect of his speech on public opinion.

Note—One of the British emissaries who put American entry into the war bluntly up to Roosevelt was the duke of Windsor. However, the President replied that he had given a firm pledge to the American people not to take them into war and he did not intend to be another Woodrow Wilson.

PANAMA CANAL TROUBLE

Although the Roosevelt Good Neighbor program has been about 99 per cent successful in Latin America, there is one contrary spot which is causing army and navy officials genuine worry. That spot is the most strategic of all countries below the Rio Grande—Panama.

Panama is now governed by a president who has all the earmarks of leaning toward the Axis and who is holding back on the granting of important emergency landing fields, anti-aircraft and searchlight positions on Panamanian territory to the U. S.

The president, Arnulfo Arias, served for six years as Panamanian minister in continental Europe, and now fetes Italian and German consuls in Panama while ignoring the British and Americans.

He has also chosen as his secretary a near-albino named Antonio Isaza, who served as consul in Hamburg and whose fair hair and blue eyes have caused him to be a great rooter for the Nazi theory of supremacy of the Aryan race. Isaza seems firmly convinced that Hitler is sure to dominate the world and has had great influence with his chief in the presidential palace.

It is important to remember that in order to defend the Panama canal, army operations outside the actual Canal Zone, on territory of the Panama Republic, are necessary. This was provided for by the first treaty negotiated by Secretary of War William Howard Taft, and gave the U. S. army the right to use Panamanian soil during emergencies

CHAPTER ONE SYNOPSIS:

Because sudden success is not his, Dr. Bart Morgan (J. Carroll Nash) brilliant young surgeon takes to drinking heavily. His nurse, Margaret Hopkins (Janice Logan), who loves Bart leaves him just before Morgan gets a call to treat a man hurt in an accident on the State Highway.

CHAPTER II

IN THE light from a single auto-mobile spotlight, Bart Morgan studied the face of the unconscious man on the crude table. He glanced up at the face of the man standing in the half-light at the wounded man's head.

"This man is Johnny Franklin—and you're Eddie Krator, Public Enemy No. 1." Bart said, facing the desperado.

"Cut out the gab and get to work," Krator muttered. "Johnny's in a bad way." Spats Edwards and Dizzy Warner, the two guides who had lead Bart to the barn, sidled alongside of Krator.

"Send him to a hospital," Morgan said shortly.

"And have the cops nail him?" Krator's voice was cold. "Uhh. That's why you're here." He nodded to Dizzy and the latter pulled his gun from his shoulder holster. Bart saw the move and realized that he had no choice in the matter.

"All right, I'll operate," he said to Krator, "but I'm going to report this to the police. That's the law, you understand?"

"Sure." Krator's voice was heavily contemptuous. "That's the law."

"I'll need more light," Bart said as he examined the nasty bullet wound in Franklin's shoulder.

"Turn that other spotlight over here," Krator ordered.

"Lower," Bart Morgan ordered as he began to probe for the bullet. Spats obediently swung the light into position. "That'll do."

As Bart cut the sleeve from Franklin's arm, Krator added a final word. "Just don't get careless, Doc."

For the next twenty minutes Morgan worked swiftly in silence. As he tied the final dressing, Krator faced him.

"Will Johnny be all right?" he demanded.

"I've done all I can. I'll go now."

"No rush, Doc," Krator drawled. "Stick around."

"I've been here most of the night. I want to go home and get some sleep."

Krator's voice was steely. "You're staying here until Johnny wakes up."

Morgan shrugged and continued repacking his bag. Krator studied the unconscious figure on the table. He offered his cigarette pack to the doctor. As the latter lighted one, the gangster spoke.

"Looks like you know your stuff, Doc."

Morgan shrugged again. "Thanks," he said drily and seated himself on a box to await developments. Presently he dozed. He was awakened by Krator.

"Doc!"

"What?" Morgan was still half asleep.

"Have a look."

Bart bent over Franklin and peeled back an eyelid. As he released it, Johnny Franklin stirred and mumbled. "This . . . is . . . no . . . time . . . to go . . . fishing . . . Eddie . . ."

Krator stepped closer. "It's all right, Johnny. Everything's all right."

Franklin opened his eyes and stared at them. His uninjured hand went to his bandaged shoulder. "What's that? What's burning my shoulder?"

Bart snatched Johnny's hand away. "Let that bandage alone!"

"Who're . . . you . . .?"

"Take it easy, Johnny," Krator cut in. "He's the doc. He just fixed you up. Those G-men put a bullet in you."

"How're my chances?" Johnny asked weakly.

"A croaker who can do a job like you did on Johnny is worth a lot of dough to me—and a lot more, to you."

"May I go, now?" Bart asked as he picked up his bag.

"Sure. You can go."

Spats, Dizzy and a couple other members of the gang watched Morgan as he headed for the door. Krator crossed to Johnny Franklin.

"How're you feeling, Johnny?" Krator's voice was almost gentle.

"Fine . . . I told you . . . not to stop . . . for fishing," Johnny whispered. "I told you . . . we were . . . too hot."

"Yeah, Johnny. I know. You were right. You're always right."

Back in his shabby office, Bart Morgan heaped the money in a pile on his desk and reached for the "All right, I'll operate," Morgan said, "but I'm going to report this to the police. That's the law, you understand."

"Better than even," Morgan answered.

Krator was relieved and elated. "Sure, Johnny, you'll be okay. Just take it easy." He pulled out a roll of bills and peeled off several of large denomination which he offered to Morgan. "Here's some dough."

"No, thanks. I wouldn't take money for this job."

"Then throw it down the sewer," Krator shoved the money into Bart's pocket, "but I'm paying off, see? You're taking that dough."

"Not for operating on a criminal." "Get wise to yourself, Doc," Krator said. "A guy with what you've got don't belong in a one-horse dump like Midburg." He peeled off some additional bills from the big roll.

"Here, here's some more. Get yourself a swell office in town; go after them society dames and millionaires with heartburn, see?"

"Thanks for the advice, Krator. I'll donate that money to the Police-men's Fund—with your compliments."

"Be a sap if you want to but just toss this little idea around. I can use a guy like you," Krator went on.

telephone book. But before he opened the book his eyes wandered back to the money. A shaft of sunlight brought out the figures on the large denomination bills. Dimly he remembered the words of Eddie Krator:

"Here, here's some more. Get yourself a swell office in town. Go after them society dames and millionaires with heartburn, see?"

Subconsciously, Bart Morgan's eyes turned to a framed card. Slowly he read the words printed thereon:

"Into whatever houses I enter, I will go for the advantage of the sick and will abstain from every voluntary act of corruption."

Hastily he thumbed through the book and dialed a number. As the telephone rang on the other end his eyes wandered back to the sunlit pile of big bills.

A voice at the other end of the wire spoke. "Police headquarters."

Softly Dr. Bartley Morgan replaced the receiver on the hook. Then, as though to shut out the sight of the card bearing the doctor's oath, he crossed to the window and pulled down the shade.

But It's True

During the latter part of the Seventeenth century in Holland, tulip bulbs actually became the medium of exchange. Some bulbs were valued at as much as $25,000. There were entire hospitals set aside for the tulipomaniacs.

The German crown prince, wearing the uniform of a captured English officer, made his way through the British lines, stayed with the troops more than 48 hours, then crawled back across No Man's Land. The rabbit is said to be a perfect dwarf.

However, the Panamanian government under President Arnulfo Arias is now talking about ousting U. S. forces from the vital U. S. army air field at Rio Hato, which is on Panama soil, and is holding back on granting various emergency airports and anti-aircraft gun emplacements. So pronounced are the Nazi leanings of the president that his brother, Harmodio Arias, most influential newspaper publisher in Panama, has quarreled with him. Harmodio (Continued on next page)

"Good morning, you are in tune with Station XYZ, and at this time we have Mr. Ted Mason, your All America Quizzer, who is about to pop the question, "Why should you trade at home?" Our informers are three ladies and two gentlemen for today. Take it away Mr. Quizzer!"

"Thank you, Mr. Thompson. This is your All American Quizzer speaking. We have with us, first of all, Mrs. Mark Johnson, a housewife and the mother of five children. Mrs. Johnson, why do you trade at home?"

"It is as simple as this; there is no reason why I should not trade at home and every reason why I should. I have lived in this town for some time. I know the employees of the various stores and they know me. They know my likes and dislikes. I do not have to waste my precious time explaining to the clerks why their choice of clothes for my children is not what I want. I have a limited amount of money to spend and, as the clerks know about my budget, no embarrassing questions like 'How much do you wish to pay?' are asked. I have no difficulty in ordering my groceries, no details as to what brand and the exact amount. The merchants in my home town will not take chances in giving me inferior products. They cannot afford to and do not want to take advantage of their friends, people whom they meet and associate with every day. I am not one to drive fifty or sixty miles for the benefit of a few bargains. It doesn't pay. In short, I trade at home because it saves time, saves my disposition, and, most of all, saves my money."

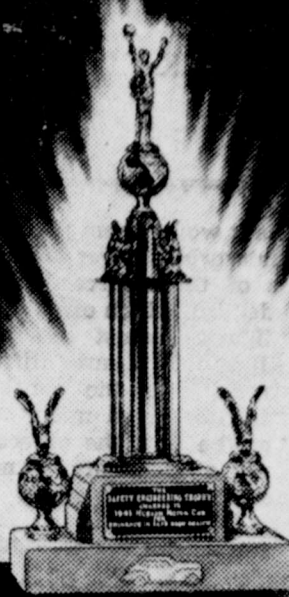

"We will now have a man's angle of this subject, Mr. Wilson."

"Mr. Quizzer, I buy at home because I sell at home. I am the owner and operator of a feed mill and I don't expect the people in my home town to patronize my mill if I do not patronize their business. Turn about is fair play. Maybe I can't afford to sell as cheaply as they do at some places in other cities, but I think that my prices on feed are reasonable. Then, if what I have to sell is at a rate low enough for the people to buy, the products from those from whom I have to buy may be purchased for an amount that I can afford. Business is like that. I am going to continue my business as long as people will buy from me, and I will continue equally as long to buy from my customers. They help me to make a living, why shouldn't I help them?"

"Mrs. Hudson, you say that you shop almost entirely in your own city and think it a wise plan. Why?"

"For the same reason that most women look for when they are trading, I can get superior merchandise at home for the least amount of money. That is what we are all looking for, and I have found it right here at home. The stores in this town price their merchandise within the reach of any purchaser's pocket book. They can't purchase huge quantities of material at a cut rate because there are not enough people to consume the amount that must be purchased at such a low price. Therefore, they secure a small amount of a good grade of merchandise at the lowest possible cost to satisfy the customer. The wealth is not so unevenly distributed here as in the cities and yet, we the people of this town have pride and a desire for something better than that which is of a cheap grade. Our home town knows what we desire and satisfies our demands."

"Mr. Austin, you are next."

"I do not want to appear heroic, but I am patriotic and do love my own little city. I trade at home to save and protect all this which I love. I think that it is the duty of every citizen of this town, to trade at home with our friends and fellow citizens. It is the only way to improve and protect the welfare of our town. We must trade among ourselves. I do not mean complete isolation, but it is not a selfish thing to desire and to put forth an effort, not only to help to keep from losing that which we have built up in our town, but to improve and increase what we possess."

"Mrs. Reese, why do you choose your own stores to trade in?"

"Maybe I lack energy and vitality, but it is just too convenient of our town here for me to want to trade anywhere else but right in my home town. I can let the children do my shopping and, with the aid of the clerks, they make wise selections, or I can call by phone and obtain what I want. At Christmas time, if there is no convenient place to hide the toys from the children, I can leave them at the stores and get them when I want them. Personally I cannot see how anyone could resist trading at home."

"I don't know about you folks, but if I ever trade away from home again, I shall never feel any other way but guilty. I thank you ladies and gentlemen, and this is the Master Quizzer signing off."

AIR CORPS FICTION

Few people know that in his private life the man who stands at the head of the expanding army air corps is an author of books for boys.

Maj. Gen. Harold H. ("Hap") Arnold, chief of the air corps, has written six books that read like the Rover Boys and bear such titles as "Bill Bruce and the Pioneer Aviators," "Bill Bruce Becomes an Ace," and "Bill Bruce on Border Patrol." The father of three boys, General Arnold used to write aviation stories for them as a fireside hobby.

REALISM vs. IDEALISM

What place has idealism in a world which has largely repudiated the aesthetic for the harshly realistic, substituted brute force for the agencies of thought and reason?

For the moment—and I employ the word "moment" to cover a span of years—the answer is that idealism has no place in the world of today. No place, that is, until the battle for freedom is won.

The world in which the creative arts flourish is a world of peace. Man escapes from the harsh realities which pursue him even in tranquil eras through the pen, the stage, the sundry arts. These pursuits assume the status of leisure habits in peace time and must of necessity be discarded when the scourge of war descends upon man.

As the European peoples must forego the use of perfumes and automobiles for the duration of the conflict, so much the people of the world live for a moment without the invigorating stimula which the idealistic mind produces.

No writer more than I has emphasized the necessity of facing the harsh realities of the present world situation. We cannot find a solution of the problems and dangers confronting civilization in a dream world of fantasy. Only force can conquer force.

But after that task is accomplished, as enervating as it may be to the human and material resources of the world, the idealist will fulfill an invaluable task in the reconstruction of that which the baser instincts of man have destroyed.

After peace has been established on a world-wide basis, idealism can serve as a propelling motive for the creation of a new and better world order.

Idealism, like liberalism in the political field, provides the initiative for reforms and for new thought and ideas. But the more realistic forces of realism and of conservatism generally are delegated the task of making a practical application of these thoughts and ideas.

So will it be in the new world order which many of us hope to see created in the not too distant future. In the new world toward which we aspire—a world of international peace, justice, and equality for all men—idealism will provide the inspiration, the basis, the groundwork.

But realism will preserve the peace and its accompanying virtues by organizing a practical, international police force to prevent the genesis of another Hitler or Mussolini to bring travail to peace-loving peoples on four continents.

This it would seem that the good of our world accrues from a synthesis of these forces of realism and idealism which often appear to be aligned against one another. Yet, like the minute differences which separate the conservative and the liberal on many vital issues of the day, the objectives of both are often identical and complementary.

Remember Way Back When...

- cooking involved long hours over a hot and cranky cast-iron stove that needed constant tending?
- the weekly washing was a back-breaking day-long session with tubs and scrub board?
- ironing was done with heavy sad irons that were heated on the stove and were always too hot or too cold?
- housecleaning was a dusty ordeal with broom, dust pan and carpet beater?

That is the way life was lived in a big percentage of American homes as recently as 25 years ago. In those days, housekeeping was a wearying round of toil that began at daybreak and ended only at bedtime.

Today, things are different. Thanks to electricity's tireless hands, the woman of today is no longer a slave to round-the-clock drudgery. Her electric range cooks meals automatically. Her electric washer does the laundry quickly and effortlessly in a fraction of the time required by hand methods. Her electric iron, vacuum cleaner and food mixer make short work of what were formerly tedious, arm-wearying tasks. Her electric refrigerator safeguards the family food supply and her radio brings entertainment at the turn of a dial.

In less than half the span of a lifetime, electricity has completely transformed American home life. It has brought the American homemaker comfort, convenience and leisure that make her the envy of the entire world. And, although it has steadily widened in usefulness, it has steadily decreased in cost. To enjoy its manifold contributions to better living, the average family pays less than the price of a pack of cigarettes a day.
