Softball Tourney At State "Diamond" Friday and Saturday

Friday and Saturday of this week, the County Championship in playground ball will be completed at the diamond of the State Juvenile Training School, according to Superintendent Ollie Little.

Mr. Little received permission to use the State Diamond, from Superintendent E. H. Nesbitt, due to the fact that the Leon is expected to be out all over the old school athletic field.

This is all, of course, "if it don't rain!"

SOLDIERS FIGURE IN ACCIDENT ON EAST MAIN

Soldiers, stationed it is said at Camp Bowie, whose home was Hillsboro figured in an accident in East Gatesville about 8 p. m. Friday night, and the left front of their car was badly damaged, including the wheel, axle, radiator and fenders.

They are reported to have been in a wreck with Jack Densman of Marlin, driver of a dump truck. The dump truck had its left rear axle damaged. No injuries were reported.

Another wrecker picked up a burned car near Straw's Mill last week, but no details as to ownership or how the accident happened were available.

"I AM AN AMERICAN" RALLY TO BE HELD 18; BIRKHEAD HERE

For the third successive year, the people of the United States will celebrate I AM AN AMERICAN DAY, on May 18. The President, at the request of the Congress, has just issued a proclamation to that effect, and due to this, a program of this nature will be held in Gatesville (county-wide) along this line at the GHS athletic field. Here is the program, as released by Mrs. Tom Mears, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, for the Knox Curtis Post of the American Legion, which has the meeting in charge.

PROGRAM

Band Selections—G.H.S. Band
Directed by D. W. Diserens
Meeting Called to Order—Dan McClellan, Post Commander, Knox Curtis Post, American Legion.
Invocation—Rev. Edward S. Bayless, Pastor, First Presbyterian Church.
Introduction of Dan E. Graves as Master of Ceremonies—Dan McClellan.

Song, "God Bless America"—Mrs. A. W. Ellis, Audience to join in Chorus.
Song, "My Country 'Tis of Thee", lead by Melvin Tharp, and rendered by Children of Coryell County.
Chorus, GHS Chorus, direct by Miss Mamie Sue Halbrook.
Introduction of Speaker—Dan E. Graves.
Speech—Major General C. V. Birkhead, Commander of the 36th Division, Camp Bowie.
Pledge of Allegiance to Flag, lead by Robert W. Brown.
Flag Ceremony—(Probably Camp Bowie Soldiers).
Benediction—Rev. E. L. Craig, Pastor, First Methodist Church.
Special sections will be reserved for the school children of the county, and County Superintendent Ollie Little has asked schools throughout the county to cooperate and bring their children to the meeting, as they are to have a definite part in the mass singing and pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Committees appointed were: Program, C. E. Alvis Jr., chairman, Dan McClellan, Mrs. T. R. Mears, Mrs. E. W. Brooks, Rev. C. M. Spalding, and Joe Bailey Walker.
Publicity: E. W. Brooks, chairman, Rev. E. L. Craig, and Mayor C. E. Gandy.
Speakers Committee: Dan E. Graves, chairman, Rev. C. M. Spalding and C. E. Alvis Jr.
In event of rain, it is said the meeting will be held in the city auditorium. Boy Scouts will assist in seating the crowds expected.

An interesting feature about the speaker, Major General Claude V. Birkhead, is the fact that he is a former Coryell County resident and will probably be well remembered by many of the older citizens. He will be the principal speaker unless unforeseen duties prevent his being here.

All citizens of the county are urged to join in making this one of the greatest meetings of its kind in the history of the county.

Hail Strikes Ewing And Other Parts Of County: Damage

Sunday evening, about 8 o'clock hail roared into Coryell county, on the east and south, and damage is reported from various sections especially around Ewing community, Straw's Mill and the southeastern part of the county as far east as Moody.

The edge of the storm seemed to be about Carden, 3 miles east of Gatesville. The damage was said to be spotted, as in some places it was heavy, and so was the hail, while in others it seemed to skip.

Hail is reported from the size of hen's eggs to baseball size, and in some places the thick hail was smaller, but the results were about the same.

The Leon, handling about all the water it can now without coming out, is expected to overflow its banks (if not already) when the water gets down from Hamilton, Hico, Comanche and other points up the river.

Free Movie To Be At Purmela Wed.

A free movie sponsored by Ernest McCorkle, Allis-Chalmers dealer will be held at Purmela School, Wednesday evening of this week between 8 and 9 o'clock.

In addition to the "commercial" the show will feature news and sports.

FIRST ROUND OF PLAY TO END IN COUNTY PLAY; FEATURE GAMES SUNDAY

The first round of play in the county baseball league will come to a close next Sunday when two games are played in league play. Probably the feature game of the day will be played between the Pidcoke Cokers and the Copperas Cove nine on the former's home field. This game is due to draw many fans since these two teams have been bitter rivals since baseball was introduced in this county. The Copperas Cove team got a bad start of this season when they forfeited to the Pearl nine, but with such capable players on the Cove list that team is due to go far in the county race.

The Pidcoke Cokers have always been up at the top of the ladder in league play, although last season they did not start up in the standings until late in the season, and then they went like a house afire through the playoff which they won from Blackfoot. Probably hurlers for the day will be Ed Fritz for the Copperas Cove team and either W. A. Barry or Knox Trammel for the Cokers.

The other game which will be played Sunday will take place on the Pearl diamond, when the powerful Blackfoot Indians engage the Dragons who are standing middle ways in the percentage column at the present time. Jack Barton will probably hurl for the Indians while it is not known who will pitch for the Dragons.

The County League is just now getting in full swing, but the inclement weather has caused a few of the games to be postponed, but they will be played off when the two teams meet again in the form of a double header.

SPORT SCRAPS

By NORRIS

The County Softball meet will be held this week end on the old athletic field here in Gatesville. This was the only part of the regular County Meet, which was held last month which was not run off. Last year the Coryell City team won the championship.

The Waco Dons play their second scheduled home game of the season Sunday when they meet the original House of David team in Waco. Under the management of Lloyd Russell, baseball coach and assistant football coach at Baylor university the Dons are expected to have a good team this season.

The initial round of the County baseball league will come to a close Sunday on two diamonds in the county. The Copperas Cove nine will be out to down the Pidcoke Cokers, last season's champions, on the Pidcoke diamond.

The other game which will be played Sunday will be at Pearl. There the Blackfoot Indians will meet the Dragons for the first time this season. The Pearl nine has not played a game as yet, but are standing at the 500 percent mark in the league standings since they have won from Copperas Cove on a forfeit, and then forfeited their initial game of the season to the Pidcoke Cokers.

The first doubleheaders which are scheduled to be played in the second round of play in the county league will be June 1. The games that will be played on that date will be at Pearl and Blackfoot, when the Ireland Cards and the Copperas Cove nine invade those teams respectively.

The fishing season has officially opened and from reports over the county it seems that they are really "biting", but the muddy water has kept them from coming up to par.

We notice where next winter that instead of having one league for all schools, there will be three circuits, AA, A and B—just as in football will be wormed. By using this new method it will greatly expand Texas high school basketball.

It won't be long until the softball season starts. We have heard lots of talk about starting the season, and before long a meeting of prospective softball managers will be called to iron out a schedule and a playing ground.

A baby daughter, weighing seven pounds, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Robinson of El Paso Sunday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock at a hospital in that city. Mrs. Robinson will be remembered as Miss Beverly Chamlee. Mrs. John T. Post, who is a guest in the Robinson home, is the great-grandmother of the infant.

WHY ON EARTH DO THEY DO IT?

... insure everybody else but themselves

Naturally you want to be insured against the cost of damage to other people's property and persons. But who's going to pay your damage if you smack a tree or stone wall? Without collision insurance, it's just too bad if you get the small end of the stick.

Moral: If you want to keep from holding the bag yourself, call on us. We've got the answer to that one.

We've got the answer to that one.

MONEY
in the ground

Billions of barrels of Texas oil reserves mean money in the bank for you as a Texan.

On constant deposit in underground vaults, they assure continued wages for Texas workers, lease and royalty payments for Texas farmers and ranchers, and tax revenues for our State and local governments.

Nearly 11 billion barrels of known oil reserves are on tap in 161 counties of our State. Texas oil men are now searching for new fields in 90 additional counties. They discovered last year almost three times as much oil as they produced.

These oil reserves can be cashed only through their production and processing by Texas workers.

As a means of safeguarding this backlog of economic security, you as a Texas citizen can and should expect:

(a) Sound conservation practices, (b) A reasonable taxing policy by State and local governments to permit healthy development without loss of employment through abandonment of properties, (c) Increased use of this great fuel source through creation of new Texas industries.

These oil reserves provide security for you and every other Texan

EYE OPENERS—by Bob Crosby

The Wreck that never Happened!

LONGFELLOW GOT THE FACTS TWISTED WHEN HE WROTE "The WRECK of the HESPERUS." ACTUALLY, SEVERAL OTHER SHIPS WERE LOST IN THE FAMOUS GALE OF 1839 BUT THE HESPERUS NEVER LEFT BOSTON HARBOR!

THE SELF-ROLLING JELLY-ROLL!

A JELLY ROLL, BAKED AT EXACTLY 400° TEMPERATURE IN A MODERN GAS RANGE OVER, HAS NO CRUST. A FLIP OF THE PASTRY TOWEL AND IT ROLLS ITSELF UP!

IN HIS EARLY DAYS AS AN EDITOR, IMPERIALISTIC MINDED BENITO MUSSOLINI PREACHED PASSIONATELY AGAINST ITALY'S COLONIAL EXPANSION!

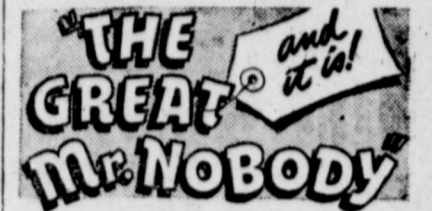

In a terrific gale which broke against the New England coast December 18th, 1839, a score of vessels founded off Norman's Woe, which is the outer harbor of Gloucester. Research in Boston newspapers covering that period showed that Longfellow confused two items. The Hesperus never left Boston harbor and was only slightly damaged by the gale.

It is believed by cooking experts that the exact degree of temperature maintained in the oven of an up-to-date gas range is responsible for the phenomenon of the cake which turns itself into a roll almost automatically when, immediately after baking, the waxed paper is peeled from the bottom of the hot thin rectangle of cake.

EXTRA INCOME FOR FARMERS FROM PREVIOUS LOANS

Farmers have a chance for extra income according to the AAA office, on previous loans, due to the recent rise in cotton prices and the demand for cotton now in the '38 '39 and '40 loans.

CCC Cotton Form R is provided for the transfer of your equity in loan cotton, the AAA advises. In order to receive this, the farmer fills out this form and keeps the green copy from the purchaser.

In order that the AAA may be of assistance to farmers in realizing the most out of the equities in loan cotton, the office is requesting that you forward your copy of CCC Cotton Form R to that office, where it will be filed and available for the future.

This form applies to all cotton which Coryell County farmers have withdrawn from the loan since July 31, 1940, and in the future Forms R should be filed as soon as the equity in the loan cotton is sold.

WASHINGTON, D. C. NAZIS SHY OF MAGNESIUM
 Examination by U. S. experts of the captured Messerschmitt sent here by the British has uncovered one highly significant fact: The Nazis are now using only 1 to 200 pounds of magnesium in the construction of these famous fighter planes. This low Nazi magnesium content is compared to the 400-500 pounds used in similar U. S. planes made of this featherweight metal, one-third lighter than aluminum. Our big bombers use as much as 1,000 pounds of magnesium. The more magnesium used, the lighter the over-all weight of the planes.

This is considered evidence that German magnesium production is not keeping pace with Luftwaffe requirements. If it were, the Nazis would certainly be using more magnesium in their planes, because of its extreme lightness and strength. Heavier metals increase the dead weight, reducing the ship's lifting power, speed and cruising range, all vital factors in aerial combat. If, as the experts believe, German magnesium production is falling behind war needs, it is highly important. Under the Nazis, Germany took the world lead in the output of this strategic metal.

For years the United States lagged behind because of cartel agreements between magnesium and aluminum manufacturers, which kept down production. In 1939, U. S. magnesium production barely totaled 7,000,000 pounds. By 1940, as a result of frantic defense efforts, this was stepped up to 12,500,000 pounds, still far short of army, navy and aid-Britain requirements.

Large scale output of certain types of aircraft is being held up until several new magnesium plants get into operation. OPM plans call for an output of 75,000,000 pounds in 1942. If no hitches develop, the 50,000,000-pound mark may be reached by the end of this year.

TEXTILE PROFITS

When OPM Purchasing Chief Donald Nelson remarked at his press conference that textile prices were under scrutiny, his words went unnoticed in the press. But to textile insiders they sent cold shivers up the spine.

What Nelson did not reveal, but which they knew, was that his associate, Leon Henderson, defense price regulator, had quietly completed a survey showing that the mill margins (profits) are the highest in history. Henderson's figures show a jump in mill margins from 10.68 in June, 1940, to 16 in February, 1941, and still going up.

If the price paid growers for cotton had kept pace with that of textiles, it would be selling today at around 20 cents a pound instead of 10.71—its present figure. Informally, Henderson has warned textile leaders to watch their step, indicating willingness to allow them to put on the brakes themselves.

TB PROTECTION

At cost of less than a penny apiece, the navy is taking pictures of the lungs of all new recruits, to weed out the unfit before they become government charges for life.

Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, surgeon general of the navy, estimates that the pennies will save taxpayers many millions. Veterans hospitals are full of TB cases from the last war—many of whom probably had the disease before they entered the service.

The new device takes a photograph on a 35-mm. film of a fluoroscope, replacing the larger and far more expensive X-ray picture. So revolutionary is the change that manufacturers of X-ray equipment opposed it for fear of losing business.

The navy did the pioneering in "mass chest surveys," but gives credit as the original pioneer to a Brazilian named D'Abreu.

NO GLITTER

No phase of modern defensive warfare, in which attacking planes must be checked, is considered more vital than the art of camouflage. The British long ago learned that one effective protection against daytime bombing of an army in the field was to make sure no equipment reflects the sun. The U. S. army is following this same sound rule.

All glitter has been ordered removed from military equipment. Even bayonets are being dipped in a special blue finish to prevent shine. The dull olive surface of staff cars, troop transport trucks and other vehicles was designed to this end. It blends with the landscape and is a safeguard against air attacks.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Three years ago Hans Karl-Heinz Sennhenn, young German immigrant, declared his intention to become a U. S. citizen and received his first naturalization papers. Under the Selective Service act that makes him a "declarant alien" and subject to draft. But now a clerk at the German embassy, Sennhenn is fighting being drafted on the ground that he is not a U. S. citizen and does not want to be one.

Mrs. Roosevelt's morning mail consists of 900 to 1,000 letters.

FLORIDA BOUND

AND BACK

And, we're coming back! In fact, we've been coming back for two days, and are not out of Florida yet.

Mothers, when you have about a dozen bottles to boil or scald each night, malt, sugar and good old Carnation to mix, not to mention putting out the daily wash, dressing, bathing and fixing up two youngsters, you'll understand why we've not been getting started early. Of course, too, ALL water has to be boiled, especially Florida water.

And, if you'd see some of the water we've seen you'd think it was not fit to wash dirty feet in, and it's not. In fact, if a Floridian "took to drink" you couldn't blame him, especially if you'd seen some of the swamp filth we have.

Yesterday, after we left Vero Beach, on the East Coast, and bade the Atlantic good bye, we headed west via nothing that amounted to much. The only thing of interest we saw, practically all across Florida was the famous Bok Tower, which is just a mass of material in the middle of a large orange grove. Anton Brees, Carillonneur, gives recitals at noon, and that means, he's got a contraption that rings a bunch of great big church bells, each with a different tone, and is operated like a pipe organ. The bells in this, as in other towers ranges from small "soprano" bells to the deep mellow "bass" ones. As it happened, we got there about 4:45, and it was closing time for the "keepers" and the recital was at noon. Anyway, it might have scared the Jones Boys, Inc., but it's doubtful.

Since we didn't see much yesterday, this would be a good time to tell you what you actually see, if you looked very close. Well, the cowboys in part of the country have seamen's papers, as well as other qualifications. The cattle, and there are many of them, roam the swamps and bayous, and the gate on a roundup, is our guess. Many times the road is the only piece of land you can see in sight. Of course you can see the grass sticking up out of the water, trees, shrubs, etc., but there's still water there.

Then, there's the pigs, a la the razorback variety, and they must be of the wild variety, because ten or more, yes, sometimes 50 miles from any place you'll see a sow and pigs, or a lone hog of some sex qualifications, wandering around, rooting in a muddy ditch, and they really look rough. They are long and angular, and it seems the "pickin's is bad". Don't imagine any Virginia ham, comes from any of these bullies.

Crops, besides the oranges, citrus fruits, and truck crops, that's about all they raise. Fishing seems however, to be both a great sport on the coast, and also pretty great along the swamp roads, highways, etc. There is a new development here, and that's the "tung" business. That's a very important tree that we get a lot of from China. It's used in manufacturing something, and it is just being introduced in the states. Tung oil is made from it. And, Florida, if there ever was a state, needs some new industries. The real estate boom is going down, it seems, and nothing is left but the "tourist crop."

This last crop is the life blood thing is done here to attract, cajole, and humor the tourist while that bad, there are some "gypts" as we've hinted and some things that are made up for the "easy mark", but in general, Floridians, are really nice to you, and more friendly than in other states we've gone thru. The exceptions are the ones where folks are operating places, and have just come down from the north or east. They don't get very friendly.

Well, we finally made Tampa last night, and drove thru Ybor city, the Cuban part, which is "in a bad way", as is most of the West Coast of Florida. St. Petersburg, was our "tie-up" for the night, after we'd passed the Gandy Bridge, which, with a two-way toll proposition, cost us 90c. The bridge is slightly over 3 miles between the two cities, but the drive from gate to gate is 14, and then it's about another 7 to whichever you are going.

Strangely as it may seem, Tampa is known as the Cigar Capitol of Florida, or should be, but they don't grow a stalk of tobacco anywhere in the state, and NONE around Tampa. All of the Tampa tobacco comes from Havana, and the Tampa Cubans roll the tobacco into cigars and it is sold all over the U. S.

St. Petersburg, from the looks of it, is where they go to die. There must be thousands of old or elderly people in that city, if there were anymore than we saw sitting on the benches on the sidewalks. Now these benches are not set parallel with the sidewalks, but at right angles, or across, and they are 6 or more feet in length, giving you an idea about the size of the sidewalks in this city. And, too they're not just on one street, but on every side street of any importance in the downtown district. More surprising than ever is they are set just about as far apart as church pews, and are literally covered with well-to-do-looking old folks. They sit there and visit chew the fat, talk about the kids, their aches and pains and operations and who they used to be, and what they used to do. You know, they're grand folks, and have "seen plenty" in their day, and like to talk about it, and who can blame them.

Now, don't get the idea entirely that there are not "youth" in St. Petersburg. Why, the night we were there, they were having the Florida Junior Chamber of Commerce Convention, and had even turned a beautiful Coca-Cola Bottling Company plant into a dance. Too, the lads and their lassies were flitting around one of the many fine hotels in the city.

Another curious fact around St. Petersburg is that the railroad station goes down, or rather the railroad track goes down one of the main streets. That's not unusual in small towns, but is in the larger ones.

Tampa is a shipping point, and the West coast business city. One of the principal exports here is fertilizer and other allied products. This includes phosphate, guano, and other mixtures and preparations.

Grandma is a "flop" as a pacifier for Joe Kermit, and he's sounding off, and plenty. The other bozo is sleeping in the basinet, Mama is driving and this yelling is driving us all nuts. Better stop and let the "Main Mama" take over, she's the only one that can get the job done, and sometimes it's not so easy for her.

You'll hear more of this tomorrow, not the Joe Kermit business, but the "baloney"!

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN
W. R. POAGE

I am deeply disappointed at the failure of certain groups of CIO labor leaders to realize that the continual strikes they are ordering in defense industries are, if continued much longer, certain to destroy all labor gains and are very likely to destroy our country at the same time. The great soft coal strike has already reduced our out-put of steel and that of course reduces our out-put of all vital machines and munitions. All of the Northern mine owners have agreed to give the men all they demanded. The Southern mine owners have also agreed to the same wage increases ($1.00 per day). There are, however, certain additional demands that the CIO makes against the Southern owners to which the owners say they can not agree because of the freight rate differential that exists against the South. Regardless of the merits of the claims—regardless of who is right or who is wrong in the Southern coal fields. They could be operated today on the very conditions that the CIO itself outlined. They could produce the coal so vitally necessary for our defense industries, and if the union has a valid dispute with the Southern operators it could still be settled without disrupting production needed for national defense, but rather than recognizing the necessities of the nation the CIO seems to be determined to use those necessities to force a settlement in its own favor. No citizen or alien (and a number of the CIO officials are aliens) has a right to use our nation's difficulties for private gain. This happened in France. France fell because of the failure of its industries to produce the equipment that its armies needed. If we follow the same course, we will suffer the same fate. That would, of course, destroy everything that labor has worked for. It would substitute concentration camps for social security and forced labor for the "Fair Labor Standards Act".

I can not believe that my country is going to follow such a course. I think the masses of our laboring men are too intelligent and too patriotic to allow any group of selfish leaders to cause this to happen. But if they are to prevent it, they must act quickly. It will soon be too late. The people of France could not realize one year ago how close they were to tragedy. I am afraid that many men in high places in government do not realize. I have pled with leaders here in Congress to take prompt action and still they delay. I confess I don't understand it. I realize that there are some men in Congress who want to use the present situation as a means of destroying all labor unions just as there are labor leaders who are trying to use the situation to destroy our government, but surely neither of these groups are in the majority. Most members of Congress want to be fair with labor. We would much prefer that labor itself would follow the request of William Green and see that there were no strikes in defense industries. If Mr. Green's policies were carried out there would be no need for governmental action, but unfortunately there are other leaders who are not so patriotic and since the goods we need to arm our boys and to supply our friends are being slowed up, the government must act. I think we should have already taken action.

I am not going to do any injustice to labor, but I am going to vote to make good America's promise to produce and deliver the goods that Great Britain and China as well as our own troops, need. America can not wait any longer. To further delay, to continue the present stoppage of defense industries to fail to get American supplies to Britain—each and all invite American involvement and disaster. America is face to face with war. We can not avoid it by sticking our head in the sand as Lindberg would have us do, and we can not win it by turning our industry over to John L. Lewis. As a Representative of the people of Texas, I pledge you I am going to vote to keep American industry running full speed and to guarantee continuous delivery of munitions to Great Britain.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
Signs of approaching trouble become apparent to the British authorities in the wild Northwest Frontier Provinces of India when it is learned that the untamed natives of the fateful Khyber Pass region are somehow obtaining machine guns. Captain Frank Carruthers of the British Secret Service returns from a mission in the hills to report to the Governor that all the Frontier Provinces are uniting preparatory to a great uprising. Carruthers suggests that headquarters be established in the key frontier town of Tokot and a Treaty of Protection offered to the Khan as a bid for peace and a guarantee of the safety of his little son, Prince Azim. Carruthers is chosen to head the expedition, but before he goes he proposes marriage to the Governor's niece, Margorie. She consents to share his dangers at the Frontier.

Prince Azim enjoyed enormously the visit of the British troops to Tokot. He enjoyed the bright uniforms, the martial music, the friendship of Captain Carruthers. But most of all he enjoyed meeting fiery-topped Bill Holder, the demon young drummer of the regimental band, a slangy, rough-and-tumble boy of Azim's own age. Bill, taking a fancy to the Hindu Prince, set about teaching him to play the drum and ended up by inventing for the Prince a pride drum signal which he could use to call on his friends for help in danger. Azim proudly demonstrated his personal drum call to Carruthers, who good-naturedly complimented both teacher and student on their virtuosity. But Carruthers had more important concerns during his stay in Tokot. For one thing there was a visit to Ghul, made on the advice of Carruthers' old friend Muhammad Khan, son of a royal native family who had gone to school with the Captain in England. Ghul received Carruthers, but made no attempt to hide his hostility. "The trouble with your England," he observed insolently, "is that she is afraid to fight. You dodged fighting in Africa, you dodged it in Europe and in Asia.

Chapter Two
As Captain Carruthers rode toward the outskirts of Tokot at the head of a detachment of infantry, a scattered burst of shots greeted him. Far down the road could be seen a number of horsemen riding wildly toward them, waving guns in the air. At their head rode a small boy of perhaps twelve, shouting excitedly. "Stop it! Stop shooting!" he cried. Then, to his men: "Arrest those snipers!" While his followers rounded up the snipers from among the bordering foliage, he rode up to Carruthers. "My father, the Khan, has sent me to greet you. But please don't judge the warmth of his welcome by the size of his messenger." Carruthers, experienced in the ways of the Hindus, realized that the young Prince himself had ordered the shooting to test the courage of the English under fire. He chided the boy, yet could not help liking him for his infectious smile, his handsome features and his obvious joy in life. So Carruthers agreed not to tell the Khan of his son's mischievous prank; Azim in turn agreed always to tell Carruthers the truth in the future; and they became staunch friends.

"My father, the Khan, sent me to greet you!"

Why should I promise not to fight you when the time comes?" "Because," returned the Englishman calmly, "we would beat you, Prince Ghul. Yes, we hate war. We are ready to pay the greatest price for peace. But if we have to fight, we are in the habit of winning our battles...if not the first, then always the last." Carruthers then offered Ghul the treaty of peace and protection; but the Prince, full of his dreams of conquest, refused to listen. At last Carruthers left, feeling that his mission had failed. The next day, while the British Fiery-topped Bill Holder.

In his suite in the old Khan's palace at Tokot, Ghul, the Khan's younger brother, was making his own private plans for the future of the Province in collaboration with the Princes of some neighboring provinces. Tall, lean and ascetic, a man soft of speech but of iron will, Ghul was known as a dreamer and a mystic — thought by some to be half mad. He had many hates, but above all else he hated the English. "Give me the few months I need," he told his followers, "and the English will be swept into the sea. The towers of the old Mogul Empire will rise again by the waters of the Jhelum." The conspirators—Abdul Hakim, fiery Muhammad Ali, crafty Fazl Nur and the rest — granted their approval.

paraded through the streets of Tokot on their way to Peshawar, Ghul was giving final instructions to carry out his conspiracy against the Khan and the little Prince. "We know how to deal with the boy," said Abdul Hakim. "But who will take care of the father?" "That," smiled Ghul, "will be in my hands." (To be continued)
