Under the GSPA proposal, the Secretary of Agriculture will ask the land grant college of each state, in cooperation with the commodity and farm organizations, to conduct an intensive study of the cost of production of each price supported commodity produced within the state. Language Arts To Be Leveled In Primarys

Milton Oyler, principal of Richland Hills Primary, announces that the Language Arts in grades one and two will be non-graded or leveled this 1972-73 school year.

The philosophy of the non-graded program is first, children should be able to develop at their own rate of learning; second, children should be able to make continuous progress without omitting or repeating any part of the language arts program, three, children differ in their rate of growth and development just as they differ in height, weight, and emotional makeup; and fourth, children should be taught at the level at which they are achieving, regardless of age or length of time that has been spent in school.

Oyler states that grades one and two will be divided into levels, and as the child completes requirements for each level, he will advance to the next level at designated times during the year. This eliminates the child repeating work he has done the year before, and he begins at the level he reached and continues through the progressive levels.

Each child will have home room teachers and will move to the different levels for language arts and then back to the home room for other subjects.

The levels are organized according to the basal reading program: Level I-Readiness; Level II-First Pre-Primer; Level III-Second Pre-Primer; Level IV - Third Pre-Primer; Cont. on Page 3, col. 2

Lazbuddie Public Schools will continue to have a dress code when the school doors open this fall. Officials feel that the new codes will be more to the liking of most of the students and parents and yet retain the elements of decency and respect which is the basis of the education system.

The new dress code as adopted by the Board of Education is as follows:

Student Dress
 It is the avowed objective of the Lazbuddie Schools to provide a comfortable learning atmosphere that will contribute to the optimum development of each student. In order to accomplish this goal it is felt that students, teachers, and parents should be made aware of the guidelines concerning student grooming and dress so that when the student arrives at school he can function comfortably. Therefore, the following policy is being provided in order to assist all parties to achieve this climate.

Boys
 A dress shirt or sport shirt with all but the top buttons fastened is considered most appropriate. Shirts may be worn outside the trousers if they are so designed and present a neat appearance. Clean, ankle length trousers are in order. Shoes and socks are required.

Examples of dress considered inappropriate for boys includes:
 faded, ragged or faded garments worn primarily to attract attention; clothing with emblems, pictures, symbols or writing that is not deemed to be school connected; earrings, necklaces worn outside the clothing; tinted glasses (unless by doctor's prescription); tank shirts, muscle shirts or underwear type shirts; and military garments with insignia of rank or grade thereon.

Boys haircuts must be at least on half inch above the eyes in front, trimmed in back so that hair does not lay on shirt collars, trimmed on sides so that hair does not touch or overlap ears.

Artificial means of concealing hair length such as wigs, combs, or straps will not be permitted. Male students should be clean shaven with the length of sideburns not exceeding the bottom of the ear and not flared and permitted to grow without regard to good grooming.

Boys (Grades 1-3)
 Shorts may be worn provided the shorts reach mid-thigh.

Girls
 A dress or skirt with blouse or sweater is considered appropriate attire for girls. Blouses and dresses should have at least shoulder length sleeves and be made of other than transparent material.

Blouses shall be worn inside the skirt unless designed for outside wear. Skirts should be of sufficient length to avoid exposing undergarments while sitting, stooping or reaching.
 Standards shall be determined in part by the size and build of the individual. For a guideline the skirt should be between midthigh and ankle. Coulottes and pant dresses are permissible as long as they are of skirt length and do not reveal undergarments. Bras are required for all adolescent age girls. Pant suits, jeans and blouse or sweater are permissible. Shoes are required.

Examples of dress considered inappropriate for girls include: frayed, ragged or faded jeans; shorts, hip huggers style pants or jeans, hot pants, jump suits, T-shirts or shirts resembling tank shirts for boys; bare midriff or backs, hair setting clips or rollers; clothing with emblems, pictures, symbols or writing that is not deemed to be school connected and military garments with insignia of grade or rank thereon.

Girls (grades 1-3)

When these studies are com-

 them as a basis for computing
 the National Average Cost of

 be done by multiplying the ty-

 the weighted average cost fig-

Through the use of CCC

 "We know that such a study

 like approach to setting the price levels for grain sorghum

A candlelight ceremony in the chapel of the First United Methodist Church at 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 19, united in marriage Miss Cathy Lynn Mardis and Thomas Charles (Tommy) Taylor. Officiating at the double ring service was Rev. J.B. Fowler, pastor of the church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mardis and Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Taylor, all of Muleshoe.

A double kneeling bench centered the altar. A memory candle in a setting of greenery with two white tapers and a three branch candelabra decorated with palms and a bow in shades of pink completed the setting.

Wayland Ethridge, organist, played wedding selections including "The Twelfth of Never," "More," "Somewhere My Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Matron of honor was Mrs. Johnny St. Clair of Lubbock. She was attired in a hot pink chiffon gown featuring long sleeves cuffed with soft ruffles, ruffled boat neck and a chiffon sash at the waist. She carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses, pink daisy poms, elegance carnations and figi mums.

Gus Taylor of Abilene served his brother as best man. Jim Mardis, brother of the bride, of College Station and Mike Sowder, nephew of the groom, of Goodland were ushers.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white dotted swiss designed with a round neckline edged with Venise lace embroidered with seed pearls. The lattern sleeves ended with french cuffs edged and appliqued with Venise lace and pearls. The semi-Empire waist and ruffle of the fully gathered skirt were edged with strands of seed pearls. The chapel length illusion veil was attached to a band of Venise lace embroidered with seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a summertime colonial cascade of pink sweetheart roses, elegance carnations, pink figi mums, gypsophilia and English ivy with streamers of light and hot pink ribbons tied with love knots.

In carrying out the tradition of something old, new, borrowed and blue; the bride carried a silk handkerchief given to the bride's great-grandmother, on her 50th wedding anniversary a wedding Bible given to her by her brother; a pearl pin worn by her mother at her wedding and a blue garter. She also had in her shoe a penny minted in the year of her birth.

The mother of the bride wore a light pink dress with long sleeves trimmed in tan lace, complemented by a corsage of hot pink carnations.

The groom's mother chose a light purple two piece dress with long sleeves and a pleated skirt complemented by purple and white accessories and a light pink carnation corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony in the recreation hall of the church. The registration table was covered with a pink net cloth with hot pink streamers centered with pink daisies and was centered with a white flocced candle decorated with pink daisies and greenery. Guests were registered by Vicki Renfro of Tahoka.

The serving table was covered with a white dotted swiss cloth trimmed with white lace insets. The centerpiece of pink daisies and elegance carnations surrounded a candle which was a gift of the shower hostesses. The three tiered cake was decorated with pink flowers entwined into a staircase bordered by candles topped with fresh pink daisies and elegance carnations. Presiding at the serving table were Teresa Johnson from Big Spring and Mrs.

Jerry Scoggins from Levelland. Other members of the house-party were Mrs. Ben Gramling and Mrs. Jimmy Crawford.

For travel the bride wore a light pink sleeveless knit dress with a flared skirt with inverted pleats. White accessories and a corsage of elegance carnations completed her attire.

The couple will be at home at 2026 State Street in Abilene.

The bride is a graduate of Muleshoe High School and attended South Plains College at Levelland where she was a member of the Tex-Ann Drill Team and a candidate for Miss Caprock.

Out of town guests attended the ceremony from Abilene, Big Spring, Childress, Tahoka, Levelland, Farwell, Goodland and Mangum, Okla.

Lubbock Vows Read For Pair

The First Baptist Church of Lubbock was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Miss Debora Ann Fletcher of Dallas and Timmy Demp Foster of Lazbuddie. Dr. Robert Pinder read the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m. on August 19.

Ice cream desserts are truly an American tradition. The more colossal a concoction you can dream up the better. Give your family a chance to be imaginative and have your own ice cream parlor contest—you have to provide the makings, of course, so be sure to include a variety of syrup toppings. A peppermint one, for instance; just combine 1/2 cup maple-honey flavor syrup and 1/2 teaspoon peppermint extract. Or Rum Syrup; Combine 1/2 cup maple-blended syrup and 1/2 teaspoon rum extract.

Damaging Sorghum Infestations Midge Likely To Appear

Dr. Robert McIntyre, area Extension entomologist with the Texas A&M Extension Center cautions that economically damaging infestations of the midge may occur in late blooming sorghum during the last two weeks of August and September. The Extension specialist has been monitoring the population buildup of the sorghum midge since early June with funds provided through a grant from the Grain Sorghum Producers Board.

Dr. McIntyre says several factors suggest that damaging infestations will occur in this late planted sorghum. First, inclement weather prohibited uniform plantings. Second, cool temperatures delayed crop growth while high rainfall and humidity were favorable for midge development. Third, early monitoring of Johnson grass, the primary alternate host of the midge, showed much higher midge infestation than in previous years. Fourth, midge emergence from grain sorghum heads collected over the 10 county survey area has not been unusually high but more general in its distribution. Five, actual field observations of adult midges early in August point to the fact that the first and second generations of the midge population developing on grain sorghum will be emerging by mid-August. The sorghum midge can not build up on Johnson grass in sufficient numbers to cause economic losses in grain sorghum. It can only build to damaging levels on its primary host, grain sorghum. The specialist relates that the majority of the sorghum on the South Plains is beyond the bloom stage and is not susceptible to midge attack. The keys to effectively preventing grain sorghum losses due to the midge are: (1) understanding the habits of the midge and (2) realizing how and when sorghum is damaged. The midge overwinters in the florets or "seed husks" of its host plant as a larva or maggot. Pupation and adult emergence occurs in the spring about the time Johnson grass begins to bloom. The adult midge, an orange colored, fragile looking gnawer or fly is about 1/12 of an inch long. The adults mate, and females begin laying eggs soon after emergence. Each female may deposit from 50 to 250 tiny white eggs during her 24 to 48 hour life. Eight to 10 eggs may be placed in each floret or grain. However, a single larva is capable of destroying only one developing seed. An average of 16 days is required for the midge to develop from egg to adult. During June and early July, a midge population maintains itself on its alternate host, Johnson grass. When early sorghum begins to bloom, the midge migrates from alternate hosts to grain sorghum. Early grain sorghum infestations are not sufficiently damaging to warrant control. These early populations contribute directly to late heavy populations which cause economic damage. The most damaging populations commonly occur with the emergence of the third generation in grain sorghum. Since the third generation is emerging during mid-August, producers should begin monitoring their fields to determine if midges are present. Female egg laying is limited to that portion of the head bearing fresh yellow blooms. Field egg laying is limited to that portion of the head bearing fresh survey should be conducted early in the morning when winds are low and the midges are most likely to be active. At four different locations in the field, one should place a wide-mouth jar quickly over 25 individual blooming heads at each location. If midges are present, they will rise to the top of the jar and can be easily counted. Control measures should be applied only when infestation levels exceed an average of 2 adults per head. The timing of the application of insecticides for the midge control is very critical since midges attack only the bloom stage, and the adult female is so short lived. When a producer finds 2 midges per head and 30 to 50 percent of the heads are blooming, control procedures should be initiated. A second application should be made within five days if adult midges are still present in sufficient numbers to warrant control. Where adverse weather follows application or short residual materials are used, reduce application intervals to 3 days. In fields where yields are high, a third application may be justified. Insecticides recommended for midge control can be found in Texas A&M Extension bulletin MP-339, "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects and Mites on Sorghum". These bulletins are available at your local county agent's office.

Beef cattle prices averaged $35.60; effective parity is $36.80. Grain sorghum averaged $2.01, while effective parity is $3.33.

Parity—that measuring stick used to compare farm income with non-farm income—is now at 75 per cent. So even though farm prices have been increasing, total farm income is still about one-fourth below the rest of the economy.

Farm income now is estimated at $18 billion this year. But at full parity, farm income would be about $22 billion.

SHEEP on feed in Texas shows a six per cent increase in the number on feed a month earlier. This, however, is four per cent below a year ago.

Drylot sheep feeders with a lot capacity of 2,000 head or more had 143,000 head of sheep and lambs on feed for slaughter as of August 1.

Current intentions to market the 143,000 head are: August, 53,000; September, 56,000; and October, 34,000. September and October intentions are incomplete at this time because additional lambs could still be placed on feed and marketed during the period.

CANCELLATION OF DDT registration will take effect August 31, except for a few limited uses. The Pesticide Advisory Committee of Texas, which makes recommendations to the Texas Department of Agriculture relating to the use of pesticides, said cancellation should have little impact on agriculture production in the state.

DDT will continue to be registered for use on stored sweet potatoes, use by public health officials, in prescription drugs, and by the military in health quarantine programs.

SCREWORM regulations relating to dipping or spraying of livestock have been changed. Livestock are no longer required to be dipped or sprayed before shipment from one screwworm-infested state to another. However, all livestock shipped from or through areas where screwworms are a recurring problem must still be inspected, any wounds treated, and the shipment certified free of screwworms.

PINK BOLLWORM stalk destruction deadline is August 31 for these counties: Cameron, Willacy and certain portions of Starr and Hidalgo.

Early stalk destruction throughout the state is urged. Extensive insect damage has been reported this year in many parts of the state. Early stalk destruction can reduce insect infestation for the 1973 cotton crop.

Proposed Constitutional Amendment Analyzed

AMENDMENT NO. 1-H.J.R. NO. 58
(Amending Article III, Section 24, of the Texas Constitution to provide annual salaries of $8,400 for members of the senate and house of representatives.)

The proposed amendment to Article III, Section 24, increases the annual salary of members of the Texas Legislature from $4,800 to $8,400. No changes are made in mileage or per diem allowances.

(For full text of the resolution proposing Amendment No. 1, see appendix.)

BACKGROUND During the early days of Texas, the legislature was permitted to set its own rates of compensation except session at which the increase was voted. However, the heavy expenditures of the Reconstruction Government prompted the framers of the Constitution of 1876 to insert a provision limiting per diem to $5; further, to discourage long sessions provision was inserted to drop compensation to $2 a day after the first 60 days of a session. The reduction in per diem after 60 days resulted in nearly adjournment of the legislature and consequently, a need for frequent special sessions. To discourage this practice, and also to encourage those with better qualifications to seek office a constitutional amendment was adopted in 1930 which set per diem at $10 for each of the first 120 days of a session. Pay after the 120-day period was reduced to $5 session.

In 1954 Article III, Section 24, was again amended to raise per diem to $25, to be paid only during the first 120 days of the regular session, and for the 30 days of any called session.

The most recent amendment to Article III, Section 24, was adopted in 1960, when the current compensation rate of $4,800 in annual salary and $12 in per diem for the first 120 days of a regular session and for 30 days of each special session was set. Later proposals to increase legislative compensation were rejected by Texas voters in 1965, 1968 and 1969. A proposal to let a commission set legislative compensation was also rejected in 1970.

FOR: 1. The legislature can no longer be considered a part-time official. Increasing complexity in the problems of state government and greater expenditure of time as a member of standing and special interim committees meeting between sessions leaves the legislator little time to devote to his private business or profession. The $4,800 annual salary now provided in the constitution is scarcely adequate to meet present-day costs of living.

2. Many qualified persons do not become candidates for legislative seats because they are unable or unwilling to make the financial sacrifice involved in service at the present constitutional salary. Raising the salary of members of the house of representatives and the senate to a more realistic level would provide a greater incentive for public service.

3. Under the present salary provided, a legislator is forced to engage in outside employment a business, or a profession in order to have sufficient income to support himself and his family. Such employment could create a conflict of interest which would impair his independence of action as a lawmaker.

AGAINST
1. A substantial pay increase for members of the legislature would further increase the costs of state government at a time when state finances are already overburdened in meeting the expanding needs of a growing population.

2. Under the constitution the legislature is required to meet in regular session not to exceed 140 days every two years. Thus the job of a legislator is not a full-time job and the official holding a seat in the house of representatives or the senate should not receive a full-time salary.

3. Because of high campaign costs, a potential legislative candidate without substantial financial resources would still be discouraged from running for office even if the proposed salary increase to $8,400 should be adopted.

AMENDMENT NO. 2-H.J.R. NO. 31

(Amending Article IX, Section 6, of the Texas Constitution to abolish the Lamar County Hospital District.)

The proposed amendment to Article IX, Section 6, abolishes the Lamar County Hospital District and authorizes the commissioners court of Lamar County to provide for the transfer or for the disposition of the assets of the Lamar County Hospital District.

(For full text of the resolutions proposing Amendment No. 2, see appendix.)

BACKGROUND:
At the general election in November 1960, the Constitution was amended by adding Section 6 to Article IX, which authorized the legislature to create the Lamar County Hospital District. Pursuant to this constitutional provision, the legislature passed legislation authorizing the creation of the Lamar County Hospital District. The district was created and operated for several years; however, the district ceased to function and operate its hospital a few years ago. Privately owned facilities are now being used for hospital care in Lamar County. Since the district is no longer in operation and the county would like to dispose of the assets and facilities of the district, Amendment No. 2, is offered to abolish the district and to authorize the county to take over and dispose of the assets of the district.

ARGUMENTS
FOR: Note: Arguments FOR and AGAINST this proposed amendment have been omitted because of the purely local character of the amendment. This proposal was submitted by its legislative author at the request of the commissioners court of Lamar County.

AMENDMENT NO. 3-H.J.R. NO. 41

(Amending Article XVI, Section 61, of the Texas Constitution to require the commissioners courts in all counties of the state to compensate all justices of the peace on a salary basis beginning January 1, 1974.)

The proposed amendment to Article XVI, Section 61, requires that all justices of the peace in all counties of Texas be compensated by the commissioners courts on a salary rather than a fee basis. Effective date for the new type of compensation would be January 1, 1974.
(For full text of the resolution proposing Amendment No. 3, see appendix.)

BACKGROUND
Section 61 was added to Article XVI of the Texas Constitution in August 1935 for the purpose of abolishing the fee method of compensating all district officers in the state and all county officers in counties having a population of 20,000 or more and providing that such district and county officers be paid on a salary basis. It also provided that county officers in counties with populations under 20,000 and all precinct officers in all counties may be compensated on a fee basis or a salary basis. As a precinct officer, a justice of the peace comes within the purview of this provision.

Law enforcement was never intended as a revenue-raising measure, and in November 1948, the Texas electorate approved an amendment to Section 61 of Article XVI, which required that all sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, and county law enforcement officers, and all constables, deputy constables, and precinct law enforcement officers be compensated on a salary basis in all counties of the state.

The proposed Amendment No. 3 would revise Article XVI, Section 61, to require the commissioners court in all counties of the state to compensate all justices of the peace on a salary basis.

FOR: 1. The proposed amendment would promote integrity and better justice by removing the possibility of conflict of interest which could exist in a court in which the compensation of the justice of the peace is dependent on the fees he collects. Several state agencies and associations of law enforcement officers support the adoption of this proposed amendment in the belief that it will help abolish the speed-trap image now associated with some justice courts and that it will tend to increase the dignity and professional conduct of justices of the peace.

2. The proposed amendment would provide uniformity in compensation of justices of the peace, thus remedying the situation now existing whereby justices now compensated in some areas of the state on a fee basis actually receive two or three times the compensation of neighboring justices who are paid on a salary basis.

3. Under the present system many cases set before justices compensated on a fee basis are routinely appealed and tried in county court. Thus adoption of the proposed revision could expedite the administration of justice by bringing about a reduction in the number of cases appealed and a greater respect for the jurisdiction of justice courts.

AGAINST: 1. The fee system of compensation which is now in use in many of the justice courts of Texas has a tendency to encourage greater diligence among the justices of the peace in these courts inasmuch as pay is dependent upon the performance of official duties.

2. When compensated on a salary basis, a justice of the peace may lose some of his independence by becoming subservient to the commissioners court which provides his salary.

3. A change from the fee basis to a salary basis of compensation for justices of the peace could result in the loss of excellent justices from the bench, inasmuch as an aggressive justice of the peace could receive a much larger income from fees than that provided by the commissioners court as mandatory salary.

AMENDMENT NO. 4-H.J.R. NO. 61

(Granting authority to the legislature to establish a constitutional revision commission which would report its recommendations no later than November 1, 1973, and providing that members of the 63rd Legislature would then be convened in January 1974 as a constitutional convention to serve 60 days for the purpose of drafting a new constitution for submission to the voters of Texas.)

This proposed amendment to Article XVII of the Texas Constitution would add a Section 2 to authorize the 63rd Legislature to establish a constitutional revision commission. The commission would report its recommendations to the legislature not later than November 1, 1973. Members of the 63rd Legislature would then be convened in January 1974 for the purpose of drafting a new constitution or revising the current constitution for submission to the voters of Texas. The convention would be allowed to sit through May 31, 1974, and could extend its life for 60 days beyond that date. The only subject matter restriction on the convention as provided by the proposed amendment is that the present Bill of Rights of the Texas Constitution be retained in full.

BACKGROUND
A majority of the state constitutions contain provisions providing for thorough revision; the Texas Constitution does not, although such a provision was proposed in the Constitutional Convention of 1875. In its 95-year history the Texas Constitution has been amended over 200 times by procedures set forth in Article XVII, Section 1. There is considerable doubt that this authority to propose piecemeal amendments authorizes complete constitutional revision. Those holding this view believe that approval of the people is necessary before the legislature may embark on the task of proposing a completely new constitution.

The Texas Legislative Council, at the request of the 55th Legislature, completed a comprehensive section-by-section study of the constitution in 1961. In its report to the legislature, the council recommended a number of specific revisions of certain sections and the elimination of other sections considered obsolete rather than a complete revision of the constitution.

The House of Representatives of the 60th Legislature in 1967 passed a resolution providing for the creation of a constitutional revision commission and charged it with the responsibility of drafting a new or revised constitution and submitting it to the 61st Legislature. In compliance with this directive, the commission submitted its final report and recommended the revised constitution prior to the meeting of the legislature in 1969.

Two joint resolutions (H.J.R. 60 and H.J.R. 64) were introduced in the 61st Legislature that proposed a revised constitution for submission to the people at the general election in 1970. Neither of these resolutions was reported out of committee. A resolution (H.J.R. 3), however, was passed proposing deletion from the constitution of the obsolete provisions which the legislative council had earlier recommended be repealed. This amendment was approved by the voters at an election held in August

For: 1. There is a real need for a more workable basic law such as that of the proposed amendment, which would require less periodic revision.

2. As the legislature has always been entrusted with the function of proposing constitutional changes, the legislative body is the logical choice for responsibility in the preparation of a new or revised constitution.

Against: 1. Constitutional reform cannot and should not be effected through an entirely new document, which is one of the alternatives open to the convention.

2. Constitutional revision is not a legislative function and should not be delegated as such. A constitutional convention should stem from the people, and if the State of Texas needs such revision of this basic law, then members of the convention should be elected by the people and subject to them.

How Good Are Good Bugs?

LUBBOCK...How good are the good bugs? That's the question being answered by Dr. George Teetes, a grain sorghum insect researcher for Texas A&M University located at Lubbock. The emphasis on the utilization of naturally occurring beneficial insects has brought about the need to determine the efficiency of these beneficial insects. This is one area of research being conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station employee, who is working on the development of a management system for the greenbug on grain sorghum.

"Since we no longer talk in terms of total elimination of insect pests, we must learn much more about the beneficial insects that we plan to depend on," states the researcher.

"This is especially true when we use naturally occurring predators and parasites in conjunction with insecticides to keep insect pests below damaging numbers," Teetes continues.

"The 'environment' regulates insect populations but both the biotic and abiotic components must be considered," states Teetes. The abiotic components, such as wind, rain, blowing sand, sunlight and temperatures are factors which can be measured quantitatively. "What we are doing is attempting to remove portions of the harsh abiotic environment and then measure how greenbug numbers increase under these situations," states the scientist.

When the biotic components (predators and parasites) are removed, the effect on greenbugs can also be determined. Teetes explains, "that by use of various methods including cages out in the grain sorghum field, we can measure how much effect predators and parasites have on greenbugs and we can get some idea of the ratio of 'good bugs to bad bugs' that must be present to have an effect."

"When we simultaneously remove the harsh abiotic and biotic components, we in essence allow insects (greenbugs) to increase at the rate commonly referred to as their innate capacity for increase," Teetes states. It is under these situations that we can see how Mother Nature through time had equalized forces to naturally regulate animal numbers.

"From our studies, we have realized several very important principles." For example, rain, especially hard blowing rains typical for the High Plains, drastically effects greenbugs. When greenbugs are protected from rain, it would be expected that their numbers would increase greatly. Basically, this is true; however, when greenbugs are protected from rain, their predators are also protected and greenbugs don't increase to the point that would be expected.

"Of all the many factors, such as economic thresholds and the use of selective insecticides that go together to develop a pest management program, we still lack much information on the natural forces regulating pest populations," Teetes explains. We plan to increase our emphasis in research in this area.

At the beginning of love and at its end the lovers are embarrassed to be left alone.

John Tower United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

Two years ago, I co-sponsored the Comprehensive Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism Prevention, Treatment and Rehabilitation Act of 1970. That public law will expire next year. I have noted with a certain amount of satisfaction the significant progress that has been made since passage of the Act toward the development and implementation of a comprehensive program to address the problems of alcohol abuse and alcoholism. In the Senate, I have co-sponsored new legislation to extend the authority of the Act for three more years. The true extent of the problem of alcohol abuse and alcoholism is just being realized. Dr. Merlin DuVal the Assistant Secretary for Health and Scientific Affairs, has stated that alcohol is the most abused drug in the United States today. Many of us are shocked at the level of drug abuse among today's youth; but even more of our society suffers the results of alcohol abuse.

There are more than nine million alcoholics or problem drinkers in America. The most visible victims of alcoholism are the inhabitants of skidrows in the urban areas. Yet, this represents only about three to five percent of the alcoholic population of the United States. Most alcoholics are in the nation's working and homemaking population and it is apparent that alcoholism represents a significant drain upon our nation's productivity in the form of lost man-hours away from the job, in the financial burdens placed upon our courts and law enforcement agencies, and in the cost of rehabilitation efforts.

The Texas Commission on Alcoholism estimates that there are some 425,000 alcoholic persons in Texas. That number represents about four percent of our state's population.

The consequences of alcoholism and alcohol abuse are tragic. Reports show that alcohol is responsible for some 28,000 traffic deaths each year, and that the average alcoholic dies some ten to twenty years earlier than the average American. In addition to intoxication, the illnesses associated with alcohol abuse and alcoholism include emotional disorders and chronic and progressive diseases of the nervous system and of the heart, liver, muscles and other bodily organs and tissues. It is difficult to estimate the social price the nation is paying in terms of broken homes, unemployment and poverty which is attributable to alcoholism. It has been estimated that alcoholism drains the national economy by some 15 billion dollars annually.

Public intoxication and alcohol-related offenses account for more than 40 percent of the arrests in the United States annually. Our judicial system is already overburdened, but more importantly, judicial action provides no lasting solution to the alcoholism problem because it does not provide for rehabilitation.

I am encouraged that we are finally recognizing that alcoholism is not in itself a criminal act. It is an illness which requires rehabilitation through a broad range of health and social services tailored to persons at the differing stages of alcohol abuse and alcoholism. While legal action may help to keep our public places free of persons who are intoxicated, the criminal law is not an appropriate device within itself for preventing or controlling health problems. Alcoholism and alcohol abuse are massive public health problems and must be dealt with as such.

It was to address this problem that the congress enacted The Comprehensive Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism Prevention, Treatment, and Rehabilitation Act in 1970. The Act created the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism which has two principal overall goals: to assist in making the best alcoholism treatment and rehabilitation services available at the community level, and to develop effective methods of preventing alcoholism and problem drinking. To achieve these objectives, the Institute fosters, develops, conducts and supports broad programs of research, training, development of community services and public education.

One of the vital parts of the Act was the authorization of formula grants to the states to enable them to develop comprehensive and integrated treatment and rehabilitation programs on the community level. I am pleased that Texas was the first state to have its state plan approved by the Institute and was the first state to receive its block grant. The state grant amounted to $1,631,000. This together with grants to institutions for research and rehabilitation programs enabled Texas to receive a total of more than 4.8 million in federal funds during the past two years from the Institute since its formation only two years ago.

I have been encouraged by the programs that have developed since the original Act became law.

ESSENTIAL TOO!

The boys on the field are carrying the bulk of the game, but all the boys on the bench are eagerly awaiting their opportunity to get in the game. Some will get to play, others won't, yet each is essential to the team. During practice each week their efforts help build a better team. To function properly, a church must work as a team. The Pastor and his associates carry most of the load. Many others are needed to help train and teach, or do many other tasks. However whether or not you can serve the Lord in some capacity, your presence in the worship services does help you and others too.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedom which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Congressman Lloyd Bentsen

Every day I become more disturbed by continuing reports to my office that the quality of mail service in Texas is deteriorating rapidly. And the same thing seems to be true in other parts of the country.

Constituents report that many smaller post offices--facilities that are vital as community centers as well as for their intended function--are being closed.

Tremendous reductions in work force are reported. And as the number of these dedicated, conscientious workers decreases, there is a resulting curtailment of mail service which seems particularly acute in rural areas. For example, many post offices are no longer open on Saturdays.

And postal workers are caught in the middle; unhappy that they are not able to provide the service they have in the past. In Congressional testimony earlier this summer, James H. Rademacher, President of the National Association of Letter Carriers, listed several specific instances of reductions in postal services.

For example, he said that the Postal Service today devotes 13,000 hours less daily to mail collection than it did five years ago.

He also pointed out that many Americans are complaining about cutbacks in services offered at postal windows.

And he said one of the results is that the U.S. Postal Service is losing out in competition for the parcel post business. Rademacher noted that, in 1967, the Post Office Department delivered twice the number of parcels that were delivered by its strongest competitor, the privately-owned United Parcel Service. Last year, though--for the first time in history--United Parcel delivered more parcels than the U.S. Postal Service. And it delivered them at a profit of more than $30 million.

In addition to apparent reductions in service, I am also receiving disturbing reports about startling slowdowns in de-about startin slowdowns in delivery time for first-class mail.

Real County Judge W.E. Sansom of Leakey, Texas, informs my office that today it takes 10 hours longer for a letter mailed from Leakey to reach Uvalde than it did in 1884. Judge Sansom explains the reason is that mail for Uvalde-- 41 miles from Leakey--doesn't go direct. It is routed, instead, through San Antonio, a distance of more than 200 miles. And the situation in Leakey is likely to get worse, according to Judge Sansom. His town's post office lost all of its postal clerks in a cutback as of June 30, leaving only the postmaster to handle all the mail. Another Texas constituent has described a situation in which a lady in his town mailed a check to pay the laundry bill. The check was mailed on a Friday, but didn't arrive at the laundry--a few blocks away--until the following Tuesday. The apparent reason for this is that the letter was sent to a regional processing center, in a city some distance away, then returned to her town for delivery.
