Mr. Ward Burris,
Dear Wardie:

I jest got back from a trip and I met a lot of people. It's funny, no two people are alike, and both of 'em are glad of it.

I went to a couple of teas while I was away. Ain't it funny how a feller can feel like a million bucks on Saturday night and 30 cents on Sunday morning?

One feller I met at a party got a few under his belt and he was a tellin' me he was a goin' home late that night and tell the wife a few things. I advised him to tell her just one thing and stick to it.

My boy friend got a job at Del Rio, and then he quit. He got a job as bookkeeper, and found they had a fifth column in their ledgers. Oh, he's a patriotic cuss.

While I was away a drivin' around the state I learned a lot about the danger of speed on the highways. I also learned too that there's a heap of danger in a parked car, if a gal cain't rassle.

I was glad to get back home. Home is a great place, but times is a changin'. I can remember—back in the days when banks paid 3 per cent and there weren't no un-American activities to investigate—we wore sunbonnets in the day time and my mother read the Bible at night and we said our prayers before goin' to bed. Maybe we could use a little more of that and send some to Hitler.

I'll be a seein' you, Pal.

Yourn,
LOONY LUCY

Amber Light Wins Followers: Red, Warns, Green, OK

You wonder why all of that! Well, if you stop at a certain stop light at an important intersection, it's not because we're warning you not to.

You'd better disregard that red stop sign at least—take it to mean danger, because there IS danger there.

It's the one at Main and Lutterloh, and the first light we've ever seen inhabited by yellow jackets, and the natural part, is, they're on or near the "amber" light.

We just thought you'd like to know, and especially the City boys who work on these lights.

A SUMMARY OF WORLD, NATIONAL AND STATE NEWS

BOTH WINNERS IN DESERT?

Cairo, Egypt, June 18 (UP)—Britain's North African army fell back Wednesday from a three-day desert blitzkrieg of tanks and planes. The main objectives were reported achieved, several hundred German prisoners were captured and great numbers of enemy tanks, guns and aircraft destroyed.

IMMIGRATION RESTRICTED

Washington, June 18 (UP)—The United States on Wednesday night imposed drastic restrictions on European immigration in a far-reaching move directed at aliens who become either willing or unwilling agents for Germany thru fear of torture of their kin in their homelands.

The move—aimed at curbing subversive activities—was revealed by the State Department.

R.A. F. OFFENSIVE NOW ON London, June 19 (UP)—Britain's greatest aerial offensive of the war, which has heaped more than 4,500,000 pounds of explosives on Germany and Germany-occupied territory, was carried into its eighth day late Wednesday. RAF fighters attacked German shipping in the English Channel and bombed a military camp in northern France.

NAZI ON RUSSIAN BORDER

Ankara, Turkey, June 17 (AP)—A strong force of German dive bombers and troop transport planes was reported to have been shifted to the Moldavian fields of Rumania near the Russian border Tuesday night as Nazi propagandists in southwestern Europe dummed up talk of an approaching blitzkrieg against the Soviet Union.

NAZI-TURK FRIENDSHIP PACT

Berlin, June 18 (AP)—Germany took Turkey, a non-belligerent ally of Britain into camp as a friend Wednesday night in a pact binding each party to respect the other's territorial integrity for ten years and to take no measures which directly or indirectly would be aimed at the other.

VICHY CLAIMS WINS, SYRIA

Vichy, France, June 18 (AP)—The French high command reported important successes in Syria Wednesday and French military commentators declared Britain had "launched the Syrian campaign, as everywhere else, with too small a force."

NAVY PLANES CONVOY.

Ottawa, June 18 (UP)—A report was current tonight in informed government circles that collaboration, which would mean close to 100 per cent protection for Atlantic shipping convoys, had been arranged between the Royal Air Force and the air arm of the U. S. Navy, with close coastal cooperation from Canada's air force.

UNCLE JAKE SEZ

Oswin K. King

Economy is good stuff until it gets t' th' point where a man will use his thumb an' fore-finger insted o' a handkerchief.

Love is what maiks a gal's giggle sound like a musical gurgle.

"IF WE had a winnin' club we'd maik all kinds o' money." I has often herd owners o' baishball clubs say that. In most cases they wus right but, ya don't want a winnin' club what'll run so fer away with th' race it kills interest. That's what has happined down at Houston, home o' th' Little Cardinals.

Th' Buffs 'peer t' be alreddy labeled champions agin. They is so fer out in frunt I don't see how inny other club kin hope t' figger out a plan t' catch 'em. 'Course if a cupple o' pitchers, two outfielders an' mebbe so a cupple o' infielders wud have t' go t' a hospital sum other club mought have a look in. But th' Buffs all 'peer t' be very healthy so they is no chance fer that.

So, what's happined down at Houston where they has a winnin' team? Th' attendance is way off an' gittin' worse as th' Buffs git further ahead o' th' pack. Th' fans jist ain't interested in seein' their boys knock other nines over night after night. They is jist taikin' th' ball team as a matter o' course an' air goin' t' movies at night.

Th' reason th' Buffs is runnin' away with th' race ain't only 'cause they is th' Texas branch o' th' St. Louis Cards. Jist t' be a farm fer a major leag outfit ain't enuff. Look at th' San Antonio Missions what air under th' wing o' th' St. Louis Browns. Th' Browns jist didn't have th' stuff t' farm out th' Cardinals had.

As I sed at th' start o' th' season, that outfielder White th' Browns left at San Antonio is a real major leag prospect. He is provein' he is an' you'll hear a lot more 'bout him in yeers t' cum.

But, it taiks pitchers t' win pinints an' ya gotta have a pretty fair hittin' club frum start t' finish an' not two or three .300 hitters an' th' rest not hittin' th' size o' their hat. Th' Dallas Rebels bear this out. In Gregory, Clarke an' Becker th' Rebs has three o' th' best in th' leag. Gregory looks like he mought turn int' a real major leag slugger.

With two real chunkers th' Rebs mought be up there contestin' th' lead with th' Buffs. Th' Rebs jist can't tie on t' fellers like Pollet, Martin, Pintar an' Wilks fer a minor leag has gotta have a major leag outfit b'hind 'em t' git four chunkers like that t'gether at one time.

Big leag scouts keep their eyes on pitchers more than other players. A feller in a college or small leag kin twirl a cupple o' fine gaims an' th' scouts will be on his tail. A outfielder kin hit .500 in twinty gaims fer a college or small leag outfit an' they won't give him a tumble. "Wait until he gits up further where he'll face real pitchin'," is their ideer on this.

Sum o' our greatest hitters o' th' gaim had t' actually fight their way up. Miny o' 'em got disgustid an' gived up 'fore they got int' high enuff company t' rate a visit frum a scout. Yep, they travel a thousand miles t' see a pitcher what wins six straight gaims but won't go on t' th' next town t' see a young feller what's hittin' .500.

More great players got in th' major leags by accident then by bein' sint up by scouts. A scout kin see an' jidge a player so fer an' no further. He can't hardly figger out a feller's disposishun 'cept by hear say or other things what go t' maik up a great player 'sides knowin' how t' throw a ball an' how t' hit one with a bat. Th' small persintage what maik good on scouts' recommindashun prove this.

Yep, it's fine t' have a winnin' team but not a TOO winnin' one like th' Houston Buffs. After all th' fans want see a contest an' it 'peers th' Houston outfit will have t' go int' th' major leags t' find a nine t' give 'em one.

WIVES AT BASTROP JOIN PAT MAYO
HOLT AND MISS LA VERNE BRYSON

The marriage of Miss La Verne Bryson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Gordon Bryson of Bastrop, to Pat Mayo Holt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat D. Holt of Gatesville, was solemnized Wednesday evening, June 18, at 8 o'clock in the Methodist Church at Bastrop.

The Rev. L. D. Hardt performed the single ring ceremony before an altar banked with ferns interspersed and illuminated with white cathedral tapers burning in branchedandelbra.

Mrs. Ernest Percy of Bastrop, organist and Conrad Fath of Austin, vocalist, furnished the wedding music. Mrs. Percy, attired in a powder blue crepe with a corsage of interlocked gladioli in coral shade, played a prelude of music, which included "Liebestraum" by Liszt, "Antantino" by Lemare, and "Sweet Evening Star" by Wagner. She also played the traditional wedding marches, and during the ceremony she played softly Halleck's "Call Me Thine Own". She accompanied Mr. Fath, brother-in-law of the bride, who sang "At Dawning" and "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," preceding the ceremony.

Dr. Bryson gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white silk jersey gown fashioned with a draped bodice, short draped sleeves, low waistline, and a very full skirt which extended into a slight train. Her full length veil of bridal illusion fell from a coronet of white rosebuds. She wore pearls at the V neckline and carried a bouquet of white rosebuds.

Miss Anita Cook of Austin, maid-of-honor, wore a yellow silk jersey frock, styled like the bride's. She carried an arrangement of yellow rosebuds and wore a cluster of the same flowers in her hair. Her only jewelry was a double strand of pearls, a gift from the bride.

Pat Daniels of Galveston attended the bridegroom as bestman, and ushers were Wendell Lowrey and Erle Powell, both of Gatesville. The bride's mother was gowned in a rose beige lace and the bridegroom's mother wore a peacock blue taffeta. Both Mrs. Bryson and Mrs. Holt wore corsages of interlocked gladioli.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the garden of the Bryson home.

The couple will sail June 25 for Australia, where they will make their home for a year. Mr. Holt will be employed by the Keith Murdock papers there. During May he was announced as one of the three winners of a Pulitzer traveling scholarship to study in some foreign country for one year.

Mrs. Holt received her bachelor of journalism degree from the University of Texas in 1939 and her bachelor of science degree in education the following June. She was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and associate editor of the Daily Texan. Last spring she taught journalism and sponsored student publications at the Grandfalls-Royalty High school.

Mr. Holt received a bachelor of arts degree in economics in June, 1940, and a bachelor of journalism degree in Austin from the University of Texas. He was an honor student there and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary society. For the last year, Mr. Holt has been a student in the graduate school of journalism, Columbia University, New York City, and received a master of science degree this last spring.

For traveling the bride chose a redingote of jade silk faille with matching print dress. Her accessories were black, and she wore a shoulder corsage of yellow interlocked gladioli.

Among the out-of-town guests were, Mrs. J. W. Bursleson, Mrs. Clyde R. Bailey and Mrs. Francis Powell, all of Gatesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Britain and sons of Port Arthur are visiting Mrs. E. E. Britain in this city and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hall at Arnett.

Miscellaneous Shower
Given In Oglesby
Honors Miss Kinslow

The home of Mrs. V. G. Lawrence in Oglesby was artistically decorated with daisies and zinnias when Misses Maurice Lawrence, Margaret Pollard, and Evelyn Magee honored Miss Patsy Kinslow, bride-elect of Bill Witt of Gatesville, with a miscellaneous shower Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. C. Fox registered fifty-five guests as they entered. Punch was served from a beautifully lace-laid table and a crystal punch bowl surrounded by the chosen flowers. Misses Jo Berta Draper, Mary Beth Green and Maurine Coleman assisted the hostesses in serving.

A program, consisting of piano selections by Mrs. Luther Ward, reading by Miss Kathryn Green, vocal solo, "Our Love's Dream", by Mrs. S. W. Martin, was given during the afternoon. The bride-elect was presented the beautiful gifts in a clever manner by little Miss Joan Lamb.

Out-of-town guests who registered were: Mesdames Percie Witt and C. E. Rankin, Gatesville; Mesdames H. C. Adams, Walter Mize Jr., G. W. Lee Jr., and Clem Saunders and Miss Willie Dean Johnson of McGregor; Mesdames Ross Kinslow and C. C. Morris of Rosebud.

ICE Refrigeration Is:
SAFE—No gases nor moving parts to worry about.

AIR CONDITIONED—Fresh, washed air is kept circulating in an ice refrigerator.

MOIST—Foods retain their original freshness.

TROUBLE FREE—Nothing to get out of order, no repair bills to pay.

A modern ice refrigerator is economical. The amount of ice used weekly is very small, and with ice priced as low as it is, this assures low cost of upkeep. The reason that the modern ice refrigerator consumes but little ice is that it is constructed along scientific lines. The space between the inner and outer walls is lined with insulation whose fibers are so tightly packed that outside heat has no opportunity to get into the refrigerator. Similarly, the cold is confined to the inside so that the ice is preserved for a longer period of time.

Washington, D. C. RAILROAD TEST

For National Defense chiefs, June holds a special significance. It will indicate whether government operation of railroads may be necessary.

In June the nation's railroads will meet their first crucial test of whether they are adequately equipped to handle the enormous increase in freight resulting from the defense program.

When the wheat harvest starts in the Texas Panhandle and continues north, the carriers will be on the spot to prove their determined contention that there is no shortage of freight cars, and that they can cope with the great demands of the defense program without the government taking them over as in the World War.

Railroad moguls are fully aware that they face a decisive showdown, and they are making tremendous efforts to meet it.

Twenty-five thousand cars have been mobilized to handle the Texas crop and a strict rule has been laid down that they must be kept rolling. Cars will not be allowed to be used for storage purposes. If a shipment can't be unloaded without delay, cars will not be released.

Cars will be peremptorily recalled if shippers don't load. Circuitous routing is being eliminated. And the railroads themselves are now distributing the materials and equipment they will need months hence, so that the maximum number of cars will be available in the peak season next autumn. This alone is expected to release 20,000 freight cars.

Mechanized Cavalry.

It took a war in Europe to do it, but the U. S. army is now doing a whirlwind job of replacing cavalry with tanks and armored cars. Even Secretary of War Stimson's aide, Col. Eugene Regnier, has gone in for mechanization.

Commenting whimsically on this the other day, Secretary Stimson said: "After riding horses all his life, Gene is now commanding the first reconnaissance battalion of the First Cavalry division. He rides in a bantam scout car and has armored cars and tanks under his command. I tell him this is strange for a man who has sworn that horses are the only thing in life. But he says it takes the brains of a good cavalryman to handle a mechanized unit."

Note—Colonel Regnier deserted his swivel-chair job in Washington for El Paso, Texas, where Gen. Innes P. Swift commands one of the most active army posts in the country.

Conscientious Objectors.

Announcements that 1,100 conscientious objectors will report to non-military training camps in the next few weeks are a lot of hokey. Real fact is that only 201 draft registrants have even been classed as genuine religious objectors.

Out of the 6,000,000 questionnaires received from draft eligibles, less than 2,500 sought exemption on the ground of religious scruples. Of this number, 201 have been OK'd so far. They will train in eight camps as follows:

Fifty at Camp Patapsco, Elkridge, Md.; 14 at Grottoes, Va.; 12 at Lagro, Ind.; 32 at San Dimes, Calif.; 10 at Richmond, Ind.; 40 at Marietta, Ohio; 32 at Colorado Springs, Colo.; 10 at Cooperstown, N. Y.

While operated by the government, the camps are financed by private funds, supplied chiefly by the Quakers, Mennonites, and United Brethren. In some instances the men pay their own costs, at the rate of $35 a month.

Australian Opinion on War

Prime Minister Menzies of Australia held some very important conversations with high Washington officials during his recent visit. In these talks he expressed every confidence that Britain would win the war, but he was hard-boiled and realistic regarding the time necessary for a victory.

Coming from Australia, which has a detached and unbiased view of the situation, his opinion is important.

"During 1941," he said, "all of Britain's effort must be concentrated on defense.

"During 1941 we can really begin to concentrate our efforts on building up a real war machine.

"And in 1943—with America's help—we can take the offensive, and we will win the war."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

The appointment of ex-Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana to the U. S. court of appeals makes the third judicial reward for a member of the famous senate lobby investigating committee, whose sensational exposes of utility lobbying led to the holding company law. Hugo Black of Alabama, chairman, is a Supreme court justice, and Lewis Schwellenbach is a federal district judge in Washington.

SYNOPSIS
Mike Balan (Akim Tamiroff), wild Cossack immigrant has made a racket of hijacking cattle enroute to stockyards. When Big George Rotz, a rival hijacker, disputes Balan's leadership, the latter kills him.

CHAPTER II

AS MIKE strolled calmly toward the office, followed by Rotz' former aides, Glinka, another of Mike's Cossack staff, hurried toward the group.

"Well, Glinka, what is on your head?" Mike inquired genially.

"There's a woman in your office to see you, boss. Her name is Mrs. Oliver Simpkins."

"Simpkins? I never heard of her," Mike said. Then as an afterthought, "Is she pretty?"

"No," Glinka admitted. "Then I do not want to see her," Mike decided instantly.

"But she says she's your wife," Glinka added casually.

"Heh? What?" Mike shouted. "My wife? Wife?" He repeated the word like a man who had mislaid something. Then realization struck him. He grabbed Glinka's arm and twisted it. "Why did you let her in?" Mike snarled.

"Ouch!" Glinka moaned. "No, boss, please! How did I know who she was? You never told me about any wife."

"That's right," Mike said releasing his hold. "I forgot myself. Well, send her away. I do not like that woman. After twenty years I do not like that woman."

"She said she won't go until she sees you," Glinka insisted.

Mike's anger threatened to get the better of him. "Oho! She won't go until she sees me, heh? All right. She will see me." Pushing Glinka aside, Mike strode angrily into his office.

Marie, Mike's ex-wife was standing idly beside his desk as he stormed in. Her obvious foreign blood was easily discernable despite a veneer of American splendor put on too thickly.

"What do you want?" Mike roared as he stomped into the office. He half-circled around her, studying her intently. For a moment Marie was disconcerted, then she recovered herself.

"You—you haven't changed, Mykola," she said.

"You have," Mike answered brutally. "You have changed very much, Manya. I would not marry you now."

"You wouldn't have the chance," Marie lashed back. "I've been married to a good man, an honorable man, for fifteen years."

Mike's expression changed. This was different. "What do you think!" he said softly. "What is his name?"

"Oliver Simpkins."

"Oliver Simpkins? What kind of a name is that, Manya?"

"It is a fine, clean name," Marie answered angrily, "and I'll thank you not to call me Manya. My name is Marie."

"Oho," Mike laughed. "So you have changed your name two ways—front and back?" The laugh died.

"Look here, Marie-Manya, what do right. There's no doubt about that."

Another thought struck Mike. "Listen, what name did you give to our son, who was named Boris?"

"I named him Montgomery—Montgomery Simpkins," Marie said defiantly.

Mike was staggered. "Montgomery! My son named Montgomery Simpkins!"

Marie went on firmly. "I sent Montgomery to the best schools in the country. Not a full year did he ever stay in one of them. I had tutors for him—"

Mike cut in angrily. "Oho! I see you have raised a pet!"

"A pet!" Marie was equally angry now. "I sent him to military schools—every good school you can name. He broke all the rules. He got into fights. He ran away."

"I never told him about you until the other day, when I told him I was going to ask you to send for him," Marie continued. "Do you know what he said, Mykola?"

"What did he say?"

"He said: Don't bother, Mother. I'll blow in on the old man and size him up."

Mike's quick anger flared. "That fresh kid said that!" he bellowed.

"About me, his father? Don't let him come near me."

"He's at your house now," Marie said, maliciously pleased with Mike's anger. "The only reason I came here was to warn you not to send him back to me just because he was too much for you." Without a backward glance at her ex-husband, Marie flounced out of the office.

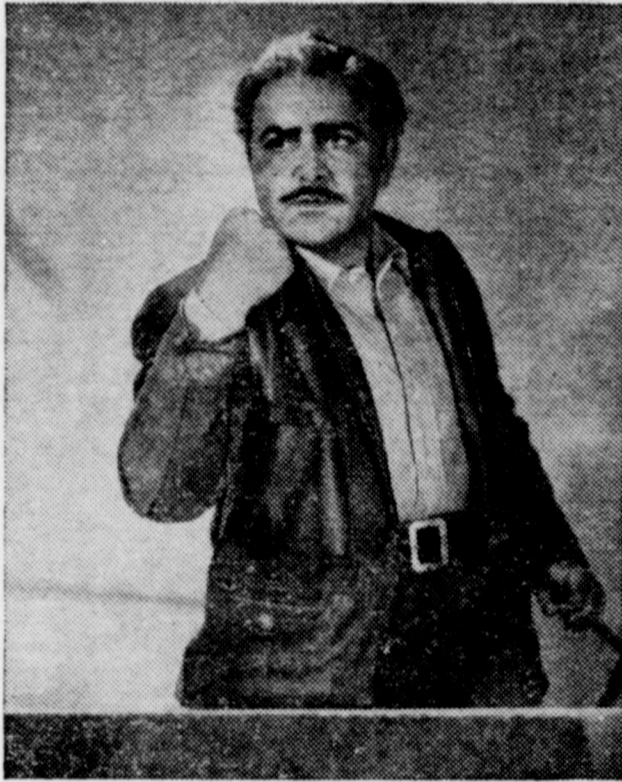

For a few minutes Mike stood, head on chest, going over the surprising events of the past few minutes. "What am I going to do with a son?" he mused aloud. "Bah! I know what he is like. He upsets a sugar bowl and right away she thinks he is a giant." He shook his head angrily. Then his mood changed. "If he were a real man, now. . . . A real Cossack's son, I would know what to do with him."

Once again his mood changed. He dismissed the paternal dream abruptly. "Glinka!" he shouted. "Glinka, go up to my house and kick my son out on the street."

Absent-mindedly Mike stirred the litter of papers on his desk with the butt of his whip. Glinka watched him curiously and then started for the door.

"Wait!" Mike said without turning. "He will size me up, heh? Well, I will size him up. I will go up and kick him out myself."

"Wait!" Mike said without turning. "He will size me up, heh? . . . well, I will go and kick him out myself!"

you want from me, money? You get no more money from me."

"I did not come here to get anything from you, Mike," Marie's voice hardened. "I came here to give you something."

Mike was broadly ironical. "It must be something very special fine," he said.

"It is," Marie was even more grim. "It is your precious son!"

Mike's surprise was genuine. "Heh? What? My son?" he blurted.

"I do not want him," Mike said promptly. "I won't take him. When you left me, you make a big fight for our son. You make me promise never to see him again. Well, I keep my promise. Anyhow, what the devil can I do with a little one-year-old boy?"

"You crazy Cossack! One-year-old boy! Do you think time stands still for your son? He is over twenty."

Mike was startled. This simple fact hadn't occurred to him. It opened up new vistas. His voice was softer when he spoke.

"Tell me, Manya—is he big? Is he strong?"

"He's an overgrown ox," Marie said angrily. "He is your son, all
