HUDDLESTON WRITES A BRIEF WORD AS THE LEGISLATURE CLOSES

I am sure most of you have noticed in the papers, that the Legislature is adjourning today, July 3rd. I think this has been one of the best sessions of the Legislature which I have ever attended. I believe we have accomplished some good things down here this Session among which are the adequate provisions for the aged people of our State. Also, taking care of the Teacher's Retirement Program and Aid for the Blind. As all of you know the Social Security Program was the number one problem of the 47th Legislature, and it is my honest opinion that this question has been settled and some other important pieces of Legislation which we could not mention which pertains to the Education and State Institutions and also Legislation in behalf of our farming class which I think will be helpful.

I have worked hard during this Session of the Legislature to try to carry out promises which I made to the people, however, I do not feel that I deserve any praise for this.

I want to say that I sincerely appreciate the support of the good citizens of my District. I do feel that we could have done the work which we have done had it not been for the loyal support of the people of our District. Of course, I realize that we still have other State and National Problems, but I sincerely believe that if we will all work together that we can preserve our democratic form of Government. I think we can all unite on this problem and I am glad to say that I am proud of the people of my district and am glad that I have had an opportunity to serve the people of Coryell and Hamilton Counties during this Session of the Legislature.

I shall always do my best to serve the people of my District and State.

NORTH EAST WEST SOUTH

A SUMMARY OF WORLD, NATIONAL AND STATE NEWS

NAZIS LOSE MILLION?

Berlin, July 6 (UP)—Adolf Hitler's legions smashed into the Stalin line of fixed fortifications Sunday, opened the hardest phase of the greatest battle of all time, and it appeared probably that before the Germans open a road to Moscow they will have lost more than 1,000,000 casualties on the eastern front.

Berlin, (AP)—Minsk, capital of White Russia has been in German hands for three days, a German soldier war reporter wrote in a DNB, dispatch dated Sunday.

The reported said the Germans and Russians engaged in a bitter street fighting in the city of 140,000 people.

DUCE'S FLEET BLASTED

London, July 6 (AP)—Submarine sinking of an Italian cruiser, probably the 10,000 ton Gorizia, and three Axis supply ships and the crippling of a 9,000 ton Italian merchant cruiser were claimed by the British Admiralty Sunday after a spurt in Mediterranean warfare.

PERU, ECUADOR BATTLE

Guayaquil, Ecuador, July 6 (AP)

—A border clash between Ecuadorean and Peruvian troops and a fight between Ecuador's naval cutter Atahualpa and a Peruvian launch were belatedly reported Sunday.

JAP THRUST SOUTH SEEN

Shanghai, July 7 (AP)—The likelihood of new conflicts, possibly Japanese moves to the south or against the embattled Soviets, threatened the Far East Monday as the Japanese war in China entered its fifth year.

ARMISTICE OFFER REBUFFED

Anara, Turkey, July 6 (AP)—Britain has proposed a painless armistice in Syria with generous surrender terms to the Vichy troops, it was reported Sunday, but the French commander in the Levant, Gen. Henri Dentz, is described as determined to fight to the end.

SOFT COAL MEN SIGN

Washington, July 6 (AP)—A two year contract, boosting wages of 1,500,000 soft coal miners was signed Sunday by the CIO's United Mine Workers and the southern coal operators after four months of negotiations.

HOLIDAY FATALITIES 525

By Associated Press
Death came to at least 525 persons over the three-day holiday ending last Sunday night and, as usual, the automobile was the biggest taker of lives. Texas got 16.

25 SHIPS TO RED SEA

Washington, July 6 (AP)—The flow of lend-lease munitions to Egypt to reinforce Britain's defense of the middle east was reported authoritatively today to have reached almost a ship a day.

Officials familiar with administration of the 7 billion lend-lease fund said that between 20 and 25 ships a month were being dispatched either by way of the Atlantic or Pacific routes to the Red sea.

REDS DEMAND JAPS "SAY"

New York, July 6 (AP)—A German-language broadcast on the British radio said tonight it had been learned in London that Russia has sent a "sharp note" to Tokyo asking for a precise answer on whether Japan will adhere to the neutrality pact agreed upon by Russia and Japan last Easter Sunday.

The World calls it PROGRESS!

GRANDPA and grandma simply didn't know anything about home insulation, automatic furnaces, electric washing machines, radios, modern furniture, automobiles.

Such things, if they were invented at all, were "new."

How does the news of new things travel? How is it that one day all our homes lack some useful piece of equipment and almost the next day millions are buying and using the new product?

Along comes a newspaper. It tells Mr. and Mrs. U. S. A. all about new things. This is part of the service a paper renders, just as much as is the reporting of fires, elections or baseball games.

But news about products doesn't stop with what the reporters and editors say. Along come manufacturers and merchants. And in their advertising they describe and offer their goods. The banks and the finance companies and the power companies and others add their help by telling us how we may finance new things we want or save up to buy them.

Over in the "Classified" section of the newspaper we find offers of jobs and bids for work by which we can earn the money to buy the things we want.

Put all this together and you have Business, American style. Keep it together and you find millions of nice folks with nice, comfortable, well-equipped homes. There is still room for improvement. Our freedom of speech and freedom of choice in America may be occasionally abused. But some pretty good U. S. horse sense seems to tell us that Russian "five-year plans" and German "New Orders" and other short cuts are mighty apt to lead through the thorn patch, instead of down the good old American Road to home sweet home!

Three hundred newspapers in America are publishing this advertisement. They are doing it because they think we can all get along better in America if we know more about what makes the American way of life "work." Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York.

Miss Louise Pennington
Weds Roger D. Edens
In Waco Thursday

Miss Louise Pennington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pennington of Waco, became the bride of Roger Dawson Edens of Baytown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edens of Waco, in a ceremony performed before the chancel of the First Baptist church in Waco, at 5:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Dr. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the church officiated.

Vows were spoken before the altar, which was banked with palm, ferns and tall baskets filled with white gladioli. Nuptial music was given by a trio composed of Misses Dorothy Nell Mosley, Elizabeth Murphy and Mrs. Ray Byrne, who were accompanied by Miss Zelda Smith, organist. The trio sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white nylon over taffeta fashioned with a tight fitting shirred bodice and sweetheart neckline trimmed with a tiny pleated ruffle. Her only ornament was a diamond lavalier belonging to her mother. A lace handkerchief, belonging to Miss Jane Andrews of Houston, completed her costume. Her bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis was tied with taffeta streamers.

Mrs. Billy Forisha of Denison, sister of the bridegroom and matron of honor, wore a gown identical to that of the bride in yellow and carried a colonial bouquet. She wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the bride. Miss Dulce Muirhead, maid of honor, was gowned in a blue frock fashioned after that of the matron and carried a similar bouquet. She also wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the bride.

Frank Haussner of Houston attended Mr. Edens as best-man. Groomsmen were Robert Edens, brother of the bridegroom, Glenn Riddle, Bill Boyd and Henry Schutza.

Following a short wedding trip to north Texas cities, Mr. and Mrs. Edens will make their home in Baytown, where he is an employee of the Humble Oil and Refining company.

Mrs. Edens was graduated from Baylor university this June. While in Baylor she was active in speech work, serving as president of the Baylor theatre for one year and vice-president of Alpha Psi Omega honorary dramatic fraternity. In the fall of 1940 she was president of the University Urbanites.

Mr. Edens was graduated from Baylor in the summer of 1940. He was president of the Esquire club at that college, advertising manager of the Daily Lariat and assistant manager of publications. Both Mr. and Mrs. Edens received their educations in the Waco public schools and were graduated from Waco High school.

Mrs. Edens is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lutterloh of Waco, who formerly resided in Gatesville.

Portrait of a Man Pecking at a Portable

The N. J. government's dispossessing of the German-American Bund (from the state) sent the blood racing through my veins . . . What a victory for all of us who have been taking their insolence all these years! . . . Why the N. Y. press doesn't campaign for similar action I wish I knew . . . I'd enjoy printing his cap and car numbers—if I didn't think his employers would scold him for being human . . . Anyway, he stopped his Broadway trolley the other afternoon to unload some passengers and saw a blind man on the other corner . . . He left his trolley—and escorted the blind one by the wing to the other side of the congested street . . . Then he dang-danged his bell and went on.

For the life of me I cannot figure out why "Amapola" is so popular. It has the corniest tune of them all . . . And when "Intermezzo" is played a la Beguine I feel like yelling: "Stop!!!" . . . Why do they always try to improve on masterpieces, anyhow? . . . The Commodity Research Bureau's 1941 Year Book shows that the President's Emergency Proclamation means increasingly strict rationing of vital war materials. We're getting invisible ration cards now . . . My idea of a delicacy is the peppery red cabbage at Moore's.

When I read that the authorities say "no sabotage," as in that huge Jersey fire, I wonder—do the enforcement agents know that in Yorkville they brag: "That was our answer to the closing of Camp Nordland" . . . If the fire is due to negligence, the insurance companies do not have to pay off. But if it is sabotage, they have to pay immediately . . . Mr. G-Man Hoover told me that the stories about the fire were inaccurate at first. That instead of the damage being 25 millions, it was only two . . . That there wasn't a thing there of a defense nature—or for Britain—and that no sabotage had been detected . . . In short, columnists are not alone when it comes to getting wrong steers—even newspaper editors fall hard for them now and then—like we ordinary people . . . I know, I know. I'm not a journalist . . . I'm merely a jeernalist. Fch, tch, tch.

The story of the week most unlikely to be confirmed: Japanese propagandists in the U. S. have just released the following flash: That "the Chinese invaded California in 500 A. D." . . . Something to worry about, huh? . . . It must be wonderful to be an out-of-towner and visit the Big Street for the first time and see those lights . . . It seems wonderful to me, who has lived among them so long—and I get a belt, too, out of watching watchers watch them.

I see news here and there and hear it, too, that Washington, D. C., is getting so crowded with people that it has become the nation's boom town. And that Broadway showmen and others are seriously thinking of opening night clubs there to cash in quickly . . . But they would be the suckers if they did . . . Apparently they do not know that Washington is still an early town, and that on Saturday night the bars must close by midnight . . . It is not a place where they stay up late—since nearly all of them must be up early with the other worms . . . The numerous parties given by the elite and officials there—almost nightly—consume all the best customers, anyway—and that's on-the-cuff.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander

Broadway Alien: The orchids go to the editorialist on the N. Y. Times for this: "The Dionne quintuplets are seven years old. In many respects it is a woman's most delightful age. At seven she sits on a man's knee without hesitation, affected or genuine, and without putting the knee to sleep. Unlike the older women of the household, she enjoys listening to him. In fact, she encourages him to talk, and she believes any story he tells her. Her curiosity over what became of his loss is unquestionably sincere. While unduly interested, perhaps, in the state of his exchequer and never too proud to accept pecuniary aid, she is no gold-digger whose gratitude is measured by the amount of the contribution. For as little as two copper cents she will bear-hug his spectacles all out of shape, and he feels sure she means it."

Manhattan Murals: The subway singers who have switched from torch tunes to patriotic themes . . . The sign in the druggist's: "Do you have tattle-tale gray matter?" . . . The Greenwich Village gin-mill which conspicuously features a sign advertising the poor quality of its coffee . . . The 8th Avenue barber shop's sign: "Satisfied Haircuts or Your Hair refunded!" . . . The 42nd Street hawker selling "glamour lies" — plain cravats with noisy stripes.

SYNOPSIS
Mike Balan, who makes a racket of hijacking cattle enroute to stock markets, meets his son, Johnny, for the first time in twenty years. Their tempers clash and the two engage in a fist fight. This display of Cossack temperament wins the old man's favor and the two become great pals. They plan a round-the-world trip. Meanwhile, Johnny meets Trina, a singer who is a member of Balan's strange household and the two fall in love. Trina tells Johnny that she will follow him wherever he goes.

CHAPTER VI
AS TRINA and Johnny reached the house the sound of a galloping horse caught their attention. In the faint moonlight they recognized Mike astride the big stallion. The horseman whirled his steed and thundered back to the stable yard. As Johnny stared, fascinated as always by his father's dare-deviltry, Trina kissed him softly and slipped into the house. Johnny stared after her for a moment and then went to meet Mike.

"Come on, Johnny. Now that I had my ride, you and I will have a real Russian steam bath and then you will sleep like a chicken under an old hen." Mike led the way to the bath house where Glinka was already preparing the bath.

"Glinka, I have just made an important decision," Mike joyously announced. "Johnny and I are going around the world! Johnny, you have made me young again."

As father and son shed their clothes Mike continued to dream and plan aloud.

"We will go in a month—a week—we will go tomorrow," Mike continued. "Tomorrow I will sell my business to those boys who were with Big George Rotz—and when we come back I will steal it away from them again." He chuckled in high good humor. "Come on, Johnny—before the steam is gone." He led the way into the heated room.

"Now I will show you how the Russians take a bath. Glinka, make the steam more hot," Mike bellowed. He picked up a couple of bunches of tied spruce twigs. "Here, you take one of these and beat me with it. And I'll beat you."

Mike slapped Johnny a vigorous welt over the shoulder.

"Hey! That stings," Johnny protested.

"Sure it does. Now you do the same to me. No, harder. Like this." Mike swung the twigs with real force and Johnny returned the blows with equal vigor. For a time they whacked away at each other lustily. It was Johnny who stopped first.

"Wheh! I feel as though a million hornets were eating me," he said laughing and mopping the perspiration from his face.

"Sure. That is right—it feels fine, eh?"

"It does make you feel good," Johnny agreed. "Alive and tingling all over." They seated themselves on a bench and Mike became grave.

"Johnny, I must tell you something. My business—it is what they call a racket. I have many gangs working for me. They go out and raid cattle. They cut them up and bring the meat into my packing plant and I sell it."

"They've hanged plenty of people in this country for that," Johnny grinned.

"You do not believe me, I think, but what I say is true," Mike insisted. "I am a cattle thief."

"Gosh, Mike, I thought you were kidding," Johnny protested. "But it won't make any difference to us. I'll always stick."

Mike stared silently at Johnny. When he spoke his voice was soft with emotion. "I talked very true, I think, when I said we have washed all the past away. We start out fresh and clean, like two good friends who trust each other." He threw out his arms and took a deep breath. "Ah. It is good to be free! Come, Johnny, now we get a good rest, because we leave tomorrow."

As Mike, followed by Johnny, stepped out of the bath house into the dressing room three men with drawn guns covered them.

faced the chief of the special agents. "I must know what charges you have against me," he protested wearily.

"Rustling thirty-two head of Government cattle out of the yards at Avondale Junction and transporting them across the state line."

"Government cattle!" Mike was genuinely surprised. "But I have no Government cattle."

"I guess they just crawled into your pens when you weren't looking, with their little Government tabs still under their tails," the agent said with heavy sarcasm. "You slipped up on that. We found thirty of them. What did you do with the other two—eat 'em?"

Still stunned by the blow, Mike suddenly broke into a bellow of

"Who are you, sir?" Mike asked politely. "Federal Bureau of Investigation agents," the other answered.

"All right, Balan—come on out, with your hands up," the leader of the three barked. As father and son advanced Mike hastily sized up the situation.

"Who are you, sir?" Mike asked quietly.

"Federal Bureau of Investigation agents," the other answered.

"Mike's voice was mildness itself. "May I ask you, sir, the reason for this visit?"

"There are about a dozen reasons. Come on, get going."

Mike turned to Johnny. "Put on your clothes, my son, quickly. Do not keep the polite officer waiting." As Johnny proceeded to dress hastily Mike stalled for time. Picking up his gaudy Cossack uniform he said: "I cannot put these things on to go with you. Johnny, you are dressed enough. Take the rest of your things to the house and bring me other clothes."

"You stay here," the agent checked Johnny.

Suddenly Mike threw himself on the three men. "Run, Johnny, run," he yelled. Johnny dived for the door and raced around the house. Leaping aboard the big stallion he galloped away into the night.

Handcuffed and bruised, Mike laughter to hide his real panic. "Sure! I ate them!" he agreed. Then, regaining his composure, he said seriously: "This must be a mistake, sir. I have never heard of Avondale Station."

"Then how did you get those cattle?" the agent insisted.

Suddenly the picture of Big George Rotz and his search for the hi-jacked steers flashed into Mike's brain. If he told the true story of where he got those steers he would be facing a far more serious charge than cattle-rustling. They could hold him for murder! There was nothing to do except take the lesser of the two raps. Mike made his decision.

"It is a hand from the grave," he remarked mystically.

"What's that?"

Mike caught himself. "I can show you the bill of sale for them," he argued.

"I've seen that bill of sale," the Federal man sneered.

"You think there is something wrong with it, eh?" Mike demanded. "But I will stick to it."

"Go right on and stick to it," the agent said, "and it will ride you straight into Leavenworth Prison." And it did!

Dear Wardie:

I jest got up and dropped by the Express to see you but you wasn't here and I guess you was a trying to sleep off that daylight time limit double header they had a Friday night and Saturday morning. I went to Seguin yesterday to that bathin' beauty revue. I runned on to an old pal, Col Max Starcke, and we talked over old times so long I didn't get my uniform on in time to enter the contest, but with all of them perty gals I guess I'd a finished 17th in a field of 16.

Then I come on to San Antonio to see that double header. I thought the first game was fine but that second game looked like the Langtry Lizzards a playin' the Pecos Horned Toads. Even the umpires got blind as the five hour punishment went on into the mornin' and the players got worse and the wens all like to passed out. I'm goin' to run fer the legislature next time and interduce a bill designed to prevent cruelty to baseball wans at nite double headers. I was a goin' home early this morning but here it is noon, and I guess I'll have to take a nap about Uvalde or Brackettville on the way to Langtry, and when I get there I'm a goin' to do a lot of high class sleepin'.

I wish you'd ship me out a box of them homin' pigeons you used in Seguin. Then when I write you a letter, I'll just send it in by the pigeon and save three cents to buy defense bonds with.
Well Chum, be a good boy and when you get yere vacation come out and see me and we'll crack a bottle of habenero er something.
I'll be a seein' you Pal, and "Keep 'em Flyin'."

Yourn,

Enjoy the Comforts of a Screened Porch

You can add a NEW screen porch (materials and labor) for as little as $352 PER MO.

Built to Cameron's Value-Giving Specifications - FHA Credit Requirements

No part of the home gets greater use than the porch. But without screens, multitudes of bugs reduce porch pleasure. At present low building and financing costs, Cameron's can economically add a new screened porch to your home, or repair and screen-in an old porch. Don't deny yourself the multiple pleasure of a screened porch - for cool relaxation, eating or sleeping.

SPORT SCRAPS

By EDWIN

The city softball league will probably start sometime the last of this week. The city is doing a little work on the field at the present but everything should be in order by the last of the week or the first of the next. According to reports there are still five teams planning to enter and their managers should have about everyone lined up by now.

Anyone that might like to enter a team can get all information at the News office.
