FIVE-FOOT RATTLER IS KILLED NEAR AMES: 8 INCHES AROUND

One of the biggest "growed" in Coryell county that we've heard of so far, is the rattler that Lewis Weaver killed near Ames. The snake was said to be five feet long and 8 inches in circumference. It had 13 rattlers. Mr. Weaver didn't bring this reptile to put in our window, we didn't mind that a bit. Our window leaks, or would leak snakes.

Miss Jean Hill of Waco and Miss Dorothy Ann Brookshire of Harmony are guests of their grandmother, Mrs. George Bone.

Births

Dr. and Mrs. Burt Smith of Houston announce the arrival of a baby daughter, who was born in that city Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Walter Grant of Gatesville, grandmother of the infant, is a guest in the Smith home there.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Faris of Houston are the proud parents of a baby son, born Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Faris of this city are the grandparents of the youngster.

C. of C. Boxes To Be Opened 'S' Evening, Six

This evening at six, the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce Basket Lunch Party will hold sway at Raby Park (if it don't rain) and in the Grand Stand of the athletic field.

Bring the wife, C of C'er, the little 'uns, and the neighbors, but by no means, don't forget the groceries.

If you bring the friends—and do so—don't forget the extra groceries. It's just a general get-together, and so, come Democratic.

Do They Read It? Ask a Dove Hunter: They Got Us Told

In a story in the News, Tuesday, the dove hunters took a wrong slant, that is, on dove season. We said the season was open, but didn't say where. It WAS in north Texas, but it does NOT open here until the 15th.

We hope Game Warden Sam Turner hasn't been to see you about it, and maybe, this'll straighten things out. We knew next morning we'd left something undone, as no less than 50 people of all ages, sizes and colors told us about it. It's one way to assure our advertisers they DO read it, as if they didn't already know.

Oglesby School Open Monday Morning At 9:00 O'clock

School at Oglesby, opens Monday, September 8 at 9:00 o'clock with the following teachers: Mrs. J. E. Huddleston, Thelma Humphries, Rowena Scott, Frances Hackler, Mrs. C. D. Boyer, Polyanna Speed, Mrs. Burney Hilton, Laura Tharp, C. W. Powell, J. C. Fox, Coleman and Superintendent C. D. Boyer.

The school will open for a short time at 8 a. m. and dismiss at 12:15 to assist in the late cotton situation.

All bus routes will operate on the same schedule with the busses leaving Oglesby at 7 o'clock, but during the short schedule they will run 45 minutes early. The lunch program will not operate at the beginning, but will operate later, beginning in about two weeks.

GATESVILLE SCHOOLS OPEN THIRTEENTH NO FACULTY YET: QUITTIN' DAILY

Hirin' a teacher seems to be a major "project" in the Gatesville schools this year, and only yesterday morning Superintendent Ercell W. Brooks said: "We have two vacancies, and more threatening."

Previously, we'd been given a release with the names of the new pedagogues, but we doubt if it'd be wise to publish it, but will, subject to further confirmation as to "quits."

There they are, or were: Supt. Ercell W. Brooks, Earle Worley, Principal, Mrs. R. R. Anderson, D. W. Diserens, Linnie Fore, Mrs. John O. Potts, Mamie Sue Halbrook, Annie Mae Jacobs, Darrell Jones, Mrs. John Milner, Madison B. Pruitt, Betty Winn Watson, Mary Elizabeth Ross and Joe W. Bradford, all in the high school. Miss Lois Coleman has just quit.

Junior High: Sidney Pruitt, principal, C. A. Barton, Louise Hall, Edna Murray, Lee Colwick, Clinton White.

Elementary School: Maude Alyce Painter, Head Teacher, Elizabeth Bigham, Wilhelmina Cayce, LOIS GRANTHAM, Mrs. Noma Hodson, Bess Holmes, Nell Routh, Carolyn Williams, Mrs. Mabel Hatter, and

Aurora Yongue. Now, for however long Miss Grantham has been teaching, we have been leaving her off the list. This year, we're making up this error and are setting Miss Grantham's name in all capital letters. We fooled you this year, Miss Grantham.

SCHOOL OPENING BRINGS INSTRUCTIONS FROM OFFICIALS

Registration can begin Monday, September 8, as the authorities want as early registration as possible. Saturday, September 13 is the last day. New students bring your credits or transcripts of work which can be gotten from your school or the County Superintendent's office.

At 9 a. m. Saturday morning, there'll be an open meeting at which the general public is invited. The school this year, is a 12 grade school, and this will only effect first grade students.

Elementary children will report Saturday morning, September 13, and the registration outlined only effects high school and junior high school students.

Child Labor Law Warning Is Given

Austin, Sept. 4 (AP)—Under terms of the child labor law it will be unlawful after September 1 to employ any child under the age of 16 without a work permit issued by a county judge, State Labor Commissioner John D. Reed announced last Saturday.

Exceptions are children working on farms, ranches, dairies or other agricultural or stock-raising pursuits.

Reed said county judges could issue work permits to children between 12 and 15 years of age if their earnings were necessary for their own support, mothers when widowed or in needy circumstances, invalid fathers or other children younger than the child. The applicant must have completed the fifth grade, however.

GENERAL MEETING OF W.P.A. LUNCH ROOM OFFICIALS MON. 8TH

Monday, September 8th, there'll be a general meeting of the WPA Lunch Room officials, in the District court room at 2:00 p. m., and all those wanting to get in on this, are urged to be present.

The WPA serves lunches to many children in the county and this is of interest to almost every school.

INSTALLMENT SELLERS ADVISED TO GET DOPE FROM FED. RES. BANK

A letter to Mrs. Tom R. Mears, Secretary of the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce, advises all merchants who sell on the installment plan, to get in touch with the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, and to ask for rules and regulations concerning this new law, so they won't violate the provisions of the law.

This Installment Law went into effect September 1. If you're interested, the News has a copy of this new law on file, which you may use.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD MEETS WED. 10TH: BUS CONTRACTS

Members of the County Board of Trustees will meet at their usual place, Wednesday, September 10, at which time, the discussion in progress will be bus routes, and the contracts will be presented, signed and sealed at that time.

This is one of the most important meetings the board has during the year, and applies to almost every school.

ANNUAL H-D CLUB EXHIBITS, SEPT. 27: COURT ROOM

September 27, is the date for the Annual H D Club Exhibit, and it will be held this year in the county court room. All clubs are to have their exhibits ready by 10 o'clock on that date.

Exhibits are said to be educational, canning and hobbies, and all clubs are to enter all three divisions.

Mrs. M. T. Carroll is Chairman, and exhibits may be in quarts or pints.

Pidcock Club will donate their canned product exhibit to the new hospital.

A SUMMARY OF WORLD, NATIONAL AND STATE NEWS

NAZIS FLOP, RUSSIES

Moscow, Sept. 4 (Thursday) (AP)—The Red army reported Thursday that its fighter planes in great air battles had beaten off German attempts to knock out Soviet air defenses and gain command of the skies in the Leningrad area.

NAZIS SAY, DESPERATE

Berlin, Sept. 3 (AP)—The desperate resistance of besieged Odessa in the south and use of many Russian tanks in the fierce fighting on the central front featured German war dispatches Wednesday night from the Soviet front, where the high command said all operations continue successfully.

SENATE ADDS 127 MILLION

Washington, Sept. 3 (AP)—Skipping the more controversial provisions for the time being, the Senate started fast-paced consideration of the unprecedented $3,679,800,000 billion revenue bill Wednesday and approved net increases of $127,000,000 over similar legislation passed by the House.

BRITS BOMB NAZIS

London Sept. 3 (AP)—Berlin was authoritatively reported Wednesday to have been shaken by enormous explosions and lighted by the glare of fires in a long attack delivered overnight by strong Royal Air Force units.

LOANS TO LATINIS

Washington, September 3 (UP)—The United States is engaged in negotiating currency stabilization agreements with Mexico, Colombia, and Ecuador as a part of the invigorated economic war against Germany, authoritative quarters disclosed Wednesday night. $125,000,000 to be loaned. "Guess it grows on trees."

JAPS WARNED, CRISIS

Tokyo, Sept. 3 (AP)—Tensely awaiting the approach of a United States tanker with gasoline for Russia, the Japanese nation heard a solemn warning from Premier Prince Konoye tonight that Japan faced the gravest crisis in history.

PROBE THE "47" AT SCHOOL

They're "probing" again, at the State Juvenile Training School, and the investigation of the 47 who "broke". The committee is a House committee on eleemosynary institutions. They are also to "investigate" the other 20 eleemosynary institutions of the state.

SPIES ADMIT GUILT

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Federal Government, moving on two fronts to smash German spy activities in this country, indicted four more persons Wednesday on charges of conspiring to send vital defense information to Germany, and immediately obtained guilty pleas from three of them, including an 18-year old girl.

 The Methodist church invites all who are not otherwise connected with some church in town to worship with us and to feel at home among us. Next Sunday is monthly Communion Day. Methodism practices open communion and invites any who desire to participate with us in the observance of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The pastor will bring a short meditation Sunday morning on the subject, "Hearing God in the Silence." Sunday evening the pastor will preach on the subject, "Life's Most Pleasant Surprise."

The public is cordially invited to attend all services at the Methodist Church.

HARMON SERVICES

The Harmon community announces regular preaching services, beginning this month, on the first and third Sunday nights and on the second and fourth Sunday afternoons. Rev. Edward S. Bayless of Gatesville will preach. Worship will begin Sunday night, September 7, at 8:00 o'clock, with a song service. Cordial invitation is given to all who can be present.

PRESBYTERY OF CENTRAL TEXAS TO MEET IN LOTT

The Presbytery of Central Texas meets in Lott on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. J. P. Kendrick has been elected representative from the First Presbyterian Church, with Frank Kelso as alternate.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A series of studies in the Psalms begins Sunday evening at 5:00 in the First Presbyterian Church. The first lecture will be of a general nature, by way of introducing the study and giving a rapid view of the Psalter.

The series of eight will include two sermons on Psalms chosen by popular vote of the congregation. Those attending the lectures will be led to classify the Psalms for special occasions, and on one day will sing various ones of the Psalms which have been set to music.

The morning sermon Sunday has as its title, "And Peter." The words are taken from Jesus' specific mention of that apostle when referring to the Twelve after the resurrection. The thought is that no one can stray beyond the special attention, and redeeming love of the Christ.

Hours of worship, together with mid-week plans, are as follows.

Sunday School, 9:45. Mr. Frank Kelso, superintendent.

Morning worship, 11:00 a. m. Sermon by the pastor, "And Peter"

Vesper Worship, 5:00 p. m. Beginning of a series of studies in the Psalms, by the pastor.

Mid week worship, Wednesday at 7:45. Beginning of "Religious Education month" with program centering around the theme, "The Use of the Bible With Children."

Mrs. C. C. Sadler and family who have been visiting Mrs. Levi Anderson and other relatives in Salem, Illinois and also in other Texas points is expected home this week.

"I WANT A DIVORCE"

Based on a story by
ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS

Serialized from the Paramount Picture starring
DICK POWELL and JOAN BLONDELL

CHAPTER SEVEN SYNOPSIS
Allan MacNally, young attorney, marries beautiful Jerry Brokaw but complications ensue when Jerry doesn't want her husband to handle divorce cases. She relents, however, to let Allan handle the case of Jeff Gilman, their good friend. He does it so cleverly that Jerry is inclined to let him accept the offer of Brokaw's Brandon, flashy divorce lawyer.

CHAPTER VIII

THE MacNally's lives changed considerably during the six months Jerry had consented to let Mac assume practice with Brandon. They were out of debt in a flash, it seemed to Jerry, even though their expenses soared. Allan became dissatisfied with their old apartment, although Jerry held out for staying there as long as she could. Her idea was not to live on the scale Mac's new income provided. She wanted to keep on living more or less the way they started out—but breathing a lot more easily because there were no debts—and put the extra money away so that Mac could break with Brandon, go into business for himself, and handle the sort of cases he had before.

But finally she gave in to Allan's persuasions and they had taken a house in one of the better residential sections outside Los Angeles. With the house Allan insisted they must have a maid, which left Jerry with practically nothing to do all day long beyond contemplating their new life, and deciding she didn't like it. She was seeing less and less of Allan. Business kept him tied up, he always said. She didn't doubt him for a second, but it didn't make her any happier either. And when they were together, he wasn't the same person. He was preoccupied with his work or else so tired he'd fall asleep in the middle of a conversation. But he was doing handsomely, making lots of money, and building a reputation for himself, equal to his partner's, in the divorce mill.

It wasn't nearly as grim as Jerry always had made out, he had decided. In fact, Allan had come to look on himself as a benefactor to unhappy women who were tied to men, who for one reason or another had become objectionable. They were unfaithful, or tyrannical, or unsympathetic Mac had discovered, from his client's tales of woe.

Mrs. Tyrrel was a good example, he decided, on his way to the court house to go through the final motions of getting her legally untied from Mr. Tyrrel. She wasn't a bad sort, rather nice in fact. But she hadn't been able to call her life her own the way Tyrrel had treated her.

It didn't take Mac long to convince the judge just that, when he presented the case of Tyrrel vs. Tyrrel. His honor had pronounced the usual "Divorce Granted" in record time. But he called to Mac, before leaving the bench and beckoned him up. Mac had a fleeting moment of worry that something might have gone wrong.

"Has it ever occurred to you," the judge asked, "and I'm probably in my dotage or I wouldn't bring it to your attention, that if all the money and energy and grief expended on this sort of thing was used in an honest effort to effect reconciliations, that it would make a great deal more sense?"

Allan agreed soberly that it hadn't.

"Well if it ever does," the judge concluded, "come talk to me about it. Although there probably wouldn't be much money in it," he added sarcastically.

Mrs. Tyrrel was waiting for Allan at the elevator. "You're a genius," she bubbled. "You positively are. You must come for lunch this minute and celebrate my freedom."

"I don't think I can," he begged off.

"But you must. Besides this is business," she insisted. "I'm meeting Mabel Furness at Cerino's—you know she's practically the tops socially—and the poor lamb wants a divorce. You can write your own ticket," she added significantly.

"Well, all right," Mac agreed. "I'll see you there. At one?"

"One is perfect," the ex-Mrs. Tyrrel purred.

Allan had a feeling in the back of his mind that he should be lunching with some one else. But he consulted his appointment book, his secretary knew of no engagements, so he went on to Cerino's at the appointed time, although he couldn't shake the belief from his mind.

He had merely forgotten that it grandmother admitted. "But Mac sees it his way, and we have to think of that. Being human, each one of us thinks that the way he sees it is right. No, my dear," she went on, "you have to stand back of him, and not nag or harp, till he comes around to seeing it different. That's your job."

They were interrupted by Wanda, who came in to say hello and leave Jerry a birthday present. She had just come from the hairdresser, and she had an air of excitement and bright expectancy.

Grandma Brokaw picked up where she had left off. "In the long run," she said philosophically, "your hopes and disappointments don't matter. The important thing, first, last, and always is—"

"Love!" Wanda chimed in vehemently. "I'll surprise you all some day. Don't look so astonished. I know what love means—now," she added quietly.

"Why Wanda Holland," Grandma

"Every time I see Mac's name in the paper featured with the breaking up of somebody's home, I get sick to my stomach," Jerry said.

was Jerry's birthday, that Grandfather and Grandmother Brokaw were coming in from the country, that there was to be a birthday luncheon and that he had promised to take the afternoon off, and spend it with them all.

The three of them were sitting around the MacNally living room waiting for him to put in an appearance, while Jerry fumbled excuses for his being late, and Celestine, the maid, announced more than once that the cheese soufflé was not improving by the delay. Finally Jerry gave up.

"We might as well start," she announced, leading the way into the dining room.

"Don't be upset," Grandma Brokaw said soothingly. "You'll see. Something important has turned up to keep Mac from being here. It will be all right when you know what it is."

"Oh, it isn't only today, or his not showing up," Jerry said stubbornly. "It's the whole course our life has taken. It seems so wrong to me to build a reputation on other people's misery. Every time I see Mac's name in the paper featured with the breaking up of somebody's home I get sick to my stomach."

"That's the way I see it, and that's the way you see it," her

Brokaw turned to her "You're still in love with David. So that's why you're all primed up. It must be time for him to come collect little Davey. No don't deny it," she warned, "because it's sticking out all over you."

Wanda gave her grandmother a hug, and sat down in a state of blissful confusion.

"Won't you have a cocktail before you start," Jerry asked

"I've been on the wagon for months," Wanda said. "I'm a reformed woman. And no lunch either, thanks. I just had a bite at Cerino's. Which reminds me," she went on, "I saw our handsome, successful spouse there."

Jerry's face went white and set into tense hard lines. But Wanda didn't notice, and kept on offering her information merely as that, with no idea that it should be a surprise to Jerry.

"He was knee deep in Mabel Furness, that Tyrrel woman and a lot of little silver foxes," she laughed. "If you're not careful you'll be turning social and soon too. I'm surprised at you, Jerry. I didn't think you or Mac liked that variety."

"You're right about me," Jerry said firmly. "But Mac will have to speak for himself."

"Next, Ladies and Gentlemen, you see... NOTHING!"

Those who ride on the dictator's bandwagon don't see much of the scenery. They don't know what is passing by, because they are blindfolded by the dictator's censorship.

washed out, detours—so the passengers can make sure the driver is doing right.

They can't see whether they are being driven to the right or to the left or straight over a cliff to destruction.

When the American passengers buy, they don't take orders from the driver. They buy WHEN they like and WHAT they like. Newspaper advertising shows them the competitive values of what American merchants have for sale. They KNOW what they're buying—get the values they want for their money.

All they know is what the dictator tells them—the propaganda he barks at them through the megaphone of a censored press.

Even if they stop at a hot-dog stand, the dictator's passengers don't get a break. They don't get to choose what they want. They eat what the dictator tells them to, even if the hot dogs are stuffed with sawdust. They have no freedom of choice.

Sightseeing is different in America. The passengers ELECT the driver. He goes where THEY want to go, or they get another driver. What's more, they know all the routes, because the newspapers have mapped them out, accurately and honestly. And the newspapers report every day on the developments on route—rough roads, bridges

Maybe this seems a little far-fetched? Well, just remember that if you were living in a dictatorship you couldn't read what you're reading right now! It is the ability of the newspapers of America to print the truth in their news columns, the truth in their advertising columns, that assures us that OUR national tour is taking us forward, and not just "taking us for a ride"—like the dictator's passengers.

A letter from those of you who share our views will hearten us. A letter from those of you who disagree will chasten us. And newspapers, if they are to serve you well, need both the heartening and chastening of an alert readership. Address the publisher of this newspaper.

SPORT SCRAPS
By JONES

Whether or not, it's football time, and the sun has already, along with General Hardknocks, taken five or more prospective Hornets off the list. They thought it was too tough.

Anyway, there's some what ain't quittin', and they've been taking it these last few days, while we've been hunting electric fans, we fans, who'll get the "shock" of our lives in seeing these "charges" turn on the heat.

In case you forgot, didn't know, or want to be reminded here's the schedule: ("H" means here; "T" means there).

- Sept. 26 M. E. Home—H
- Oct. 3, Groesbeck—T
- Oct. 10, West—H
- Oct. 17, Clifton—T
- Oct. 24, Itasca—T
- Oct. 31 V. Mills—H
- Nov. 6 LaVega—H
- Nov. 11 Hamilton—H
- Nov. 20, McGregor—T

Now Coach Pruitt gave us this from memory. The errors, if any (you dove hunters) are not ours. If any of you other coaches have a schedule, and are not trying to hide it, we'll be tickled to death to run it for you.

It's still fundamentals, and was until Thursday evening, when Coaches Pruitt and White are going to line 'em up, call Squads East and West, and they'll be deploying and attacking. Fans, it's your turn, and there are lots of free seats. We've made arrangements for the north gate to be open, so you won't have to climb the fence as we did last season.

The squad this year, is about 36 and was 64 last year. Pruitt seems to think, even with fewer numbers, there is still more quality and the team will be faster, the line lighter, and all over, smarter. Sounds good to us.

Now, if anybody else hasn't reported for practice and wants to get going, Coach Pruitt'll give you the necessities, and welcome you.

Too, there'll be "A" and "B" schedules, the latter not announced, and no matter if you play like the writer did once, you'll get a chance to play, more than likely.
