Haven't heard of the President "proclaiming" yet, but the Governor has, and so has the Mayor. This week, starting Saturday, it is Fire Prevention Week, and there will be a bunch of activities along this line. It's a good idea to clean up your premises once or more a year, and why not Fire Prevention week. There's none better! Every fire costs you money in taxes, as well as insurance rates. It's especially time to Save, Now!

TEXAS FARMERS ARE ASKED TO "PRODUCE" NOT, "REDUCE"

It's new, but a USDA release rubber stamped USDA State Defense Board, asks Texas Farmers to produce 162,000,000 pounds more milk and 18,000,000 dozen more eggs as their share in the food production drive for national defense.

"Food goals" are announced at a regional defense meeting at Memphis. They want more peanuts for oil, vegetables, several feed crops to help meet the food needs of this nation, to feed the nations resisting aggression, and to improve the diet and well-being of Texas farm people. A local goal will be assigned by the County USDA Defense Board, and also by county and community AAA committeemen, who will contact each farmer.

"Bums" Loose Last 3 And Series

Monday afternoon, "Dem Bums" were proved to be just that. They dropped the final game of the World Series to the New York Yankees 3-1. Sunday's was the heart-breaker of the series, and there were two men out, two strikes on the batter, in fact, the last batter struck out, but the catcher failed to catch the last strike and the runner beat it out to first. At that time, the Dodgers were one run in the lead. The next batter hit a single, 2 on, then De Maggio cracked out a double, and the first 2 came in. It kept up, until the final was Yankees 7

Here's The First Cotton Report Of '42: Down!

V. R. (Happy) Lee, Special Agent Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, Cotton Ginning Report, shows 1,661 bales of cotton were ginned in Coryell County from the crops of 1941 prior to September 16, as compared with 3,083 bales for the crop of 1940. That's cutting the dollars out in a hurry.

Dodgers 4. A booted ball game. Saturday's game, probably the best from a baseball standpoint ended with that favorite score, Yankees 2, Dodgers 1. So, another, the 1941 World Series is history!

You "MUST" Leave Address At Draft Board: 9 Go 14th

Of primary importance is this, the law says so: "If you leave the county, even only temporarily, leave your address at the Selective Service Office." Many who have registered, are on "defense projects" elsewhere, are out west picking cotton, and have left no forwarding address. The LAW says leave that address. Two of the boys due to leave the 14th, left no address, and they cannot be found to be examined. There might be trouble—you'd better LEAVE that address. Now, here are the boys that are to go the 14th: Hazen L. Ward, Claude Woodrow Christian, Paul Alexander Martin, Robert Lee Brown, Bentley Cecil Curry, Earl Bohne, Alvis Dudley Morgan, Willie Mack Jacobs, and Arlie Deward Smith. The 14th, will be the first time any July 1 registrants have been called, and four of these boys registered on that date. They are Alvis Dudley Morgan, Willie Mack Jacobs, Arlie Deward Smith and Paul Alexander Martin.

Two Wrecks: Two Cars: 1 Broken Arm: Cars Wrecked

Thursday, about 3:30 p. m. as John Carlyle was driving with Mrs. Carlyle and Gus Buth to Waco, Carlyle's car overturned following a blow-out, and his left arm was broken at the elbow. Mrs. Carlyle was cut and bruised, as was Mr. Buth. Mr. Buth was going to a Waco hospital for treatment.

Next, was sometime before 1 o'clock Monday morning, when 5 soldiers returning to Camp Bowie, were unhurt in another blow-out on the rear of a Plymouth Coupe, which overturned about 5 miles west of Evant. Three of the men were on the seat, and the other two in the turtle back. The car was practically demolished.

NEW DEPUTY IS NAMED FOR CORYELL COUNTY IT'S RUFUS BURLESON

Rufus Burleson was named Wednesday morning as Deputy Sheriff with Sheriff J. H. Brown, succeeding Ted Liljedahl who resigned on account of his health. Mr. Liljedahl accepted a position with Bill Nesbitt's Grocery. Liljedahl has had considerable trouble with his eyes, and the strenuous work in the Sheriff's Department made this step necessary.

Mr. Burleson has for the past 20 years been a member of the staff of the State Juvenile Training School and is well known by citizens of Coryell county.

First Arrivals at State Fair's 53rd Exposition

—Courtesy The Times Herald, Dallas

Yes sir, another Coryell County FIRST! The first of the visitors to the State Fair of Texas for 1941 was none other than Miss Dorrice Hedgepeth of Harmon community, and FFA Sweetheart. She is shown in the picture handing her ticket to Gateman Woody Cole. Miss Hedgepeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hedgepeth, the principal at Harmon School, was billed as Fair-Goer No. 1, an honor, both to Miss Hedgepeth, and to Coryell county and Gatesville and Harmon Community. Usually, there are special events and courtesies for Mr. or Mrs. or Miss Fair-Goer No. 1. Gettin' picked out of nearly 7 million people as the No. 1 Fair-Goer, is somethin', is somethin' we'd say. Just think one in 7,000,000. That's percentage, or is it? In Friday's issue of the News, we'll have an exclusive story of Miss Hedgepeth's trip to the fair, and the thrill she got out of being "Miss Fair-Goer No. 1 for 1941".

When THIEF MEETS THIEF

Starring DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS Jr.

SYNOPSIS
Ricky Morgan, American youth, escapes from the clutches of Jim Dial, unscrupulous racketeer, leaving in Dial's possession an incriminating cameo ring which Ricky broke when accidentally killing a man. Dial goes to London, establishes himself as "Colonel Fane", and becomes engaged to Glory Howard, luxury-loving heartbreaker to whom he gives the ring. Ricky learns where the ring is and breaks into Glory's apartment. They fall in love. Glory gives Ricky the ring and leaves Fane to live near Ricky. While Ricky is out securing a job to "go straight," Glory disappears, leaving him a curt farewell note.

Chapter Four
For a short moment Ricky was stunned. All thought, all feeling had been banished from his mind by the shock of that brief, cryptic message on a little sheet of paper.
Then a wave of anger, of blind, unreasoning rage, swept over him. Scarcely realizing what he did, he seized the note, tore it into tiny bits of paper, and threw them on the floor. Then, his gaze alighting on his contract — his 130-a-week windfall that was to have been the foundation of his and Glory's happiness — he tore that into shreds too. And then he sat down on the edge of his bed and gazed at the floor for a long, long time while bitter thoughts chased one another through his fevered mind.
He made no attempt to win her back. It was over — done with — she had deserted him in his poverty to marry a rich man whom she did not even love.
A few days later Sander came in and informed Ricky that Glory's marriage to Colonel Fane was to take place that afternoon.
"Good!" exclaimed Ricky sardonically. "She didn't ask me to the wedding, but I'm going just the same!"
"What good is that going to do?" inquired Sanders.
"Well, I may get a few laughs." Sanders decided to accompany his friend and keep an eye on him.
The crowd outside the church was large and festive. At the edge of the throng lingered two onlookers — one a tense, watchful youth, cynically interested in everything that went on; the other a bored, indifferent elderly man who plainly wished he were somewhere else.
From inside the church the wedding march swelled the familiar organ strains; the crowd stirred, began chattering, and threw rice as the bridal couple emerged arm in arm. Colonel Fane and his bride traversed the lane kept open for them through the crowd; the former smiling, nodding and preening himself, the latter looking straight before her, expressionless. Glory stepped quickly into the waiting limousine; but Fane, before following, turned for a last triumphant grin and wave of his hand to the crowd. And in that instant his features were fully visible to those at the outskirts of the throng, and Ricky saw that the man who had married the girl he loved was his old enemy, Jim Dial!
The car sped off in the direction of Fane's sumptuous home, while Ricky stood gazing fixedly after it as if he had seen one returned from the dead.
"What's the matter?" asked Sanders.
"It's Jim Dial!"

"So that's whom she married — the fellow you were telling me about! A blackmailer who smashed and grabbed his way to millions and escaped!"
"He hasn't escaped," said Ricky quietly.
That evening Fane, in the library of his country house, was preparing to work over some papers pertaining to his multifarious shady deals before retiring for the night. He dismissed the butler for the evening just about the time that Glory, having tearfully written a note of explanation and farewell to Ricky, began preparations for her bath and said good night to her maid. The two servants met in the hall.
"Humph!" remarked the girl. "Not my idea of a wedding night."
"Nor mine either," agreed the butler. "Er—by the way, what might you be doing tonight?"
"I don't know . . . Why?"
"Oh, nothing. Just an inspiration," said the butler airily, taking her by the hand and leading her downstairs.
It took Ricky but a few minutes to satisfy himself that there was no access to the Fane house through the windows. He took to the drain pipe, and in short order he was up on the roof.
Leaning over the edge, he looked down on the balcony outside Fane's library window, through which Ricky had seen him from the lawn. The balcony was narrow; it meant a straight drop of at least thirty feet; and if he jumped just a bit wide, he would go crashing down to the ground to certain injury or death. Never before, even in his most reckless stunt jumping, had Ricky taken such a chance. But he was in no mood to turn back now. He poised himself on the edge of the roof, stood a moment, then leaped forward just the least bit, holding his body straight and rigid. Down he went; and as the balcony came up to meet him, he relaxed his body to take in the shock of his landing. Noiselessly, with legs slightly outspread, his feet hit the balcony, and he was safe—a perfect jump!
In a moment he was standing over Fane, pointing a business-like automatic at his malefactor's heart.
"Hello, Ricky! This is a surprise!" Fane's hands went upward as he tried to hide his fear and dismay. "Look here, Ricky, I can explain—" "Not to me you can't. See this?" Ricky showed him the cameo ring. "It's on my hand now."
"So you tried to come between me and Glory," sneered Fane.
"You can have her. I've come to break you. All I want is your autograph." He produced a closely written sheet of paper and handed it to Fane. "It's just a little document telling what a nice guy you are—all about the crooked jobs you've pulled."
"This implicates you, too, Ricky. Is it worth hanging for?"
"That's my business. Shut up and sign it!"
With a shrug Fane took a pen and scribbled his signature on the sheet. But instead of handing the paper back to Ricky, he dropped it on the floor between them.
"Pick it up!" said Ricky between clenched teeth. It was what Fane had been waiting for. He stooped down, but instead of picking up the paper, he seized with a quick, cat-like motion the edge of the carpet on which Ricky was standing and gave it a fierce yank, toppling Ricky over. In a flash Fane was on top of him.

This is the first of a series of six outstanding diagram plays by leading college coaches from Grantland Rice's new Cities Service Football Guide.

FAKE reverse and end around. This is one of the most effective plays that Cornell has used in recent years.

The ball is snapped to the fullback No. 3 who takes one step toward the wingback No. 1. The wingback pretends to take the ball from the fullback as if for a wide reverse. However, the fullback keeps it and spins around and makes a pretense of hitting the line inside the tackle on the short side. As he spins, however, the left end takes the ball from him and carries it either off tackle or outside of end on the strong side. The play is designed to go off tackle. However, we find from experience that the defensive end is sometimes sucked inward along the line of scrimmage and the blocking back No. 2 can block him inward more easily than he can block him outward. Of course, in this case he blocks him in.

The other blocking assignments are shown by the diagram. The center, No. 10, after passing the ball, goes through the line and down the field for the safety man or any other opponent who may be in position to tackle the runner.

GROESBECK GOATS BETTER "MUDDERS" IN FRIDAY NIGHT'S GAME: ENDS 0-13

Weather is no respecter of persons, things, or games, and, with that, the Gatesville High School Hornets lost their second game, and their first conference game in the mud at Groesbeck Friday night by the count of 0-13.

According to the report, one Junior Cotton, Groesbeck star, whipped thru a stubborn Gatesville line for two touchdowns, making the total for the evening.

The Goats scampered on the opening kickoff back to the Hornet 18. From that point on a series of line plunges, the Goats worked it down to the Hornet four where Cotton went over. Again, in the fourth Cotton raced around end for 12 and a marker after Browder had set up the play by intercepting Fry's attempted pass on the Gatesville 31.

Brown, Wright and Wilson in the line, and Browder, Kennedy and Cotton in the backfield, stood out for Groesbeck. Fry and White starred for Gatesville.

Ireland Drops First 6-Man Game To Oglesby In Mud

Ireland's Tigers, clashing with the Oglesby Tigers Friday afternoon, dropped the afternoon's struggle 14-6.

Good blocking by Watkins, Tubbs, Adams and Richardson enabled the Irelanders to break lose for several long gains. Russell, Pearson and Coffey were the ball jugglers. Pearson scoring for the Irelanders.

Thanks to Coach W. G. Robinson for this report.

Cop. Cove Dumps Turnersville Sextett In Fast Play, 27-8

Coach C. D. Moag's mighty Copperas Cove Bulldogs trampled over the Turnersville Buffaloes for a 27-8 win Friday afternoon at the Cove.

"Cotton" Adams went over early in the first quarter for the Cove's first touchdown and the try for extra point failed.

Turnersville came back and also went over into pay territory adding the extra. That made it T'ville 8, Cove 6, and the game hung fire for a time with the Bulldogs in the van.

Then from then on, it was practically a Cove battle. Louis Dewald as well as Adams kept the scoring up. G. E. Mangrum added one of the points in a try for extra points.

For the Cove, their ground plays looked good and passes at times were O. K.

Clary stood out for the Turnersville six, and made the marks for the Buffaloes.

Highlights for the Covers were Frase, and Luker who are "freshmen" in the business.

SPORT SCRAPS

By JONES

Well, here they are, as far as known right now: GHS dropped to Groesbeck 0-13; Turnersville dropped to Copperas Cove 8-27; and Oglesby nosed out Ireland 6-14.

The Dogers dropped another at Ebbetts Field, after having it won, except for one put out. The final was NY 7, Brooklyn 4. Today's another day, we hope.

Well, Clifton took Itasca 19-0; V. Mills 12, McGregor 0; Marlin 14, Lorena 0; Mart 26, Belton 0; Hamilton 28, Hico 0; Rockdale 13, Cameron 19.

In the SW Con.: Texas 34, LSU 0; SMU 10, Fordham 16; TCU 9, Ark. 0; Baylor 14, Denver U. 0; Aggies 41, Texas A & I 0.

That's about all.

WARNING, IF YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY IS LATE, IT'LL COST

GRANDMOTHER STANSELL CELEBRATES HER 98TH BIRTHDAY AT LIBERTY

"I want a birthday dinner that all my friends can be invited to." Grandmother's request was overwhelming, but the problem was easily solved when Mrs. L. C. Perryman suggested that we use the community dishes and tables and that each family bring a well-filled basket. The idea took to the extent that never in its history has Liberty experienced such a birthday party. People who have resided here for more than 50 years say that there has never been another birthday celebration to compare with this wonderful love feast. All personal differences and local factions are forgotten where Grandmother is concerned, for she knows and loves them all; and she is very dear to the heart of every Liberty citizen. This was manifested by the great pile of gifts, the bowers of beautiful flowers and the long tables spread across the lawn—that positively groaned under their own weight of choice morsels.

But the most wonderful part of it all was Grandmother herself. She sat in her own easy chair in her accustomed corner. Her eyes, still black and sparkling, shone like two stars. She retained that ease and poise of the gracious hostess as she personally welcomed each guest, accepted their gifts, and administered her own thanks. It seemed a miracle, indeed, that on her 98th birthday she could read the cards and spell the names out, though she wore no glasses or asked no help.

Her chair was carried to the lawn and placed near the center of the tables. As she occupied it, and calmly surveyed the feast, no queen of the May or no youthful June bride could have been more beautiful or more admired. It is undoubtedly by some Divine Providence that she has been given so many bountiful years, and has been permitted to come down to the eve of her life with that serenity and calmness of spirit and soul, that make better individuals of all who are touched by her life-current.

All Liberty knows that her serenity is due to a great extent to her daily environment. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Belvin and their son, Clovis, have always showered upon her the richest blessings of kindness, gentleness and patience. She has always been made to feel that she was mistress of her home and that she was due the honor and consideration that age bestowed upon the Patriarchs of old.

This celebration was on Sunday, September 25th. Monday morning Grandmother was up with the birds, bustling about preparing to start a new quilt from the materials given her the previous day. She is the busiest woman in our community. It is her profound doctrine that in wholesome employment one finds health, peace and contentment.

Those who were permitted to attend this happy affair were: Rev. Strickland, pastor of the Ohio Baptist Church; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Landers and daughter, Irene, of Salado; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Stan-sell, Hazel and Marguetta Lynch of Decatur; Mr. and Mrs. J. McCarley, Eula McCarley, Berley Stansell of Nacona; Carlene Stansell of Fort Worth; Stella Ryman of Wadsworth; Red Jones of New London; I. W. Jones of Arp; Harold and Ray and Peggy Ryman of Wadsworth; Pat Mahon of Dallas; Mrs. M. G. Fields and daughter, Betty, of Bay City; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McGaha of Girard; Mr. M. R. JOBS FOR TOMORROW

The chemical laboratories of the petroleum industry are now laying the foundation for industries of the future.

Out of their research are being created new products and more efficient ways of making old ones. Synthetic rubber, plastics, explosives, basic chemicals and scores of other essentials developed in petroleum laboratories are already being made on a commercial scale.

These scientific discoveries of materials vital to peace-time needs, as well as National defense, are opening up new fields of industrial activity.

Texas as the leading oil State is playing an important part in the creation of these new American enterprises. As a result, many young Texans now preparing themselves in our schools and colleges will find places in the industries resulting from this research.

The test tubes of today make the jobs of tomorrow.

The Beautiful New CHRYSLER

A Thunderbolt FOR BEAUTY

Yes—a real thunderbolt of beauty! Its utterly stunning lines strikingly resemble that famous show model, The Chrysler Thunderbolt—"Car of the Future." Massive yet sleek—graceful yet dashing. Interiors are luxurious, modern... "Tailored to Taste!"

A Spitfire FOR POWER

Even more power! Power for the zooming age we live in—power from a new, more efficient engine. Combined with Fluid Drive and Vacamatic transmission, this new Spitfire is designed to conserve fuel. We've got a precision instrument called a "tachometer" on our demonstrators which show you exactly how Chrysler's power transmission system gets more power out of every gallon of fuel!

A Wizard FOR EFFICIENCY

Far more extensive use of Chrysler's famous alloy—Amola steel—greater use of Oilite metals. Ne "roughed" bearings... Chrysler's Superfinish—with aircraft precision—conserves fuel and oil, increases performance, reduces wear.

An Eye-Opener FOR SMOOTHNESS

Smooth in line and smooth in action. Chrysler's now famous Fluid Drive and Vacamatic transmission reach new performance peaks with the new Spitfire engine. You flow from standstill into full action with the fluent smoothness of a gliding swan. Why shift gears?

THERE'S a lot that's new... there's a lot that's down-right exciting in this new Chrysler. It answers the questions many people have been asking. It answers them in a way we're all glad to see.

It's a car that's built to the tempo of the day—but with an eye to the future. Come in and get acquainted with a truly great car.

INSURANCE!

It could happen to you . . . a wrecked house, a homeless family, a disorganized life . . . fire is no respecter of individuals. Fight fire! Take common sense fire prevention precautions and avoid carelessness that leads to disaster. Do it now, during National Fire Prevention Week. But don't let it go at that. In spite of all effort, fire strikes, and if it strikes at you, while we can't minimize the heartache, we can prevent loss and provide the money for a fresh start. Insurance does it . . . make insurance your number one fire precaution.

Johnny ISN'T on the Spot!

Here is Sergei Michaelovitch, of Moscow. He'd be surprised to learn that American boys have roller skates and bicycles and movies. Why? All he knows is what Stalin told him: "Children of the capitalist nations are slaves." When it comes to getting the truth, Sergei is on the spot. He gets only what the dictator hands out.

Here is Johann Schmidt, of Berlin. He thinks little boys should go without butter so the Fuehrer can have bombs to kill other boys. Why? Because Hitler's propaganda tells him so, and nobody tells him anything different—he's on the spot, too.

Here is Giuseppe Giano, of Rome. He yells, "Duce! Duce! Duce!" with the rest of the Italian children. He thinks Mussolini is a big hero leading his troops to glorious victory. Why? Everybody in Italy is afraid to tell him the truth!

Here's Johnny Jones—United States citizen, who ISN'T on the spot! He KNOWS what's going on in Moscow, Berlin and Rome, because the newspapers print FACTS. He knows what his own government is doing, too, because the NEWS comes right into his home for the whole family to read and discuss.

* * *

Theirs is the right to approve or to criticize—to change the course of the government's action, if they and their fellow American citizens see fit.

Informed citizens rule this Democracy.

That's why Johnny Jones, as he comes to manhood and becomes a voter, will have a big edge on Sergei and Giuseppe and Johann. HE'S going to help run his government. THEIR government is going to run THEM. HE'S going to choose the things he buys for his monthly salary, just as he chooses candy or sodas for his weekly allowance now. They're going to buy what the dictators tell them.

The newspapers will play a big part in the life of Johnny Jones. They'll give him the facts that make it possible for him to cast an intelligent vote. They'll carry advertisements that make it possible for him to buy wisely.

They'll go on being the backbone protecting American Democracy.

State Bowls Over Evant Gridders In Mud Friday P.M.

We didn't have a boat, not even a raincoat, and Coach White, we didn't forget you had a ball game at the State Gridiron Friday afternoon. We can swim, but didn't want to.

Anyway, the results we got from this "muddin' around" was that the boys of the State Juvenile Training School were better mudders than the boys from chalky Evant, and chalked up a 13-0 win over the Evant club.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor have been in town and have furnished the center of attraction this past week. I did not get to see them as they did not come to the Capitol, and I could not leave my office to join the great throngs that lined all the streets they traveled. The largest crowds that have assembled in Washington since the inauguration were out to meet them. Regardless of everything else, it must be said that they still hold the public interest. All in all, I think that they made a very favorable impression here; although, of course, they did not attract the interest or command the tremendous public admiration that was accorded King George and Queen

Elizabeth when they visited Washington two and a half years ago. While there has been no important legislation on the floor of the House this week, there have been daily sessions and several committees are holding most important hearings. Probably the most interesting of these hearings have been before the House Committee on Banking and Currency. This committee has under consideration the far-reaching price-fixing legislation. Mr. Leon Henderson has testified for almost a month. Only within the last few days have other witnesses been called. Mr. Henderson, who is attempting, under the authority of a Presidential Order, to exercise a kind of control over prices at this time is expected to be the President's choice of an administration of the law if and when passed. There is some personal dissatisfaction with Mr. Henderson among members of the committee, and there is no doubt but what the committee would have acted more promptly had they been satisfied with the personnel of the administrative officer. On the other hand, Mr. Henderson admittedly represents the President's view on this vital subject. He feels that Congress should enact legislation fixing the price of all commodities (including farm crops), but that there should be no legal limitation on wages. Mr. Barouch, who administered the price control of the first World War period, appeared before the committee and urged complete control of all prices including control of wages.

Of course, we all recognize that any price control is going to be very difficult to administer, and very vexious to the public. At the same time, we recognize that if prices are allowed to go uncontrolled that we will soon reach an inflationary stage as was reached in Germany after the last war where most of us, and particularly those on a fixed wage or salary, are going to suffer severely as their salary, even though increased in dollars, will not buy as much as heretofore. In an effort to avoid this, the government may be justified in fixing all prices, wages and profits, but I cannot believe that any price control scheme will ever succeed that does not include control of wages. Wages are the basic element in all production costs. If they are allowed to increase, cost must and will increase in spite of any laws that may be passed, or else production will stop. In a land of free enterprise, industry is not going to produce if we make it impossible for that industry to make a reasonable profit. Hence, it seems to me that we are going to have to include wages in the price control program or abandon the entire program, and inasmuch as it is wage earners and salaried people who are the first and most severe sufferers of inflation, it seems to me that self interest should compel these groups to favor complete control.

On one point I feel very certain — It is grossly unfair to control the price of agricultural products and not fix wages of industrial workers. Agricultural wages are, of course, largely measured in the price of farm products. The average cotton farmer still makes a wage per hour approximately equal to the price per pound of cotton, whether he be half tenant, third and fourth rentor, or owner. Other farmers find the measure of their wages similarly gauged by the price of commodities. To hold the price of these commodities down for the benefit of the industrial wage earner and at the same time place no limit on his wages, is manifestly unfair. Some price control may be inevitable — We must not allow our standard of living to be destroyed by uncontrolled inflation, but I sincerely hope that all groups of our people will realize that they must all make sacrifices to protect the whole. To provide this protection I feel we must have legislation that controls wages and profits as well as prices, but that that legislation must still allow profits from which taxes can be paid, wages that assure the worker a fair living and prices that guarantee the farmer his full and true party.
