LEAIRD BUYERS IN DALLAS MARKETS TO REPLENISH SHORTS

Demands for goods, some of which has been sold to the bare counters, is the reason for Byron Leaird's going to Dallas wholesale markets yesterday.

Mr. Leaird, Sr., said yesterday goods would be bought to fill in ladies coats, dresses, hats and then there is to be a Christmas, and items will be added in this part of Leaird's Department Store.

COTTON'S STILL DOWN COTTON REPORT TOO: PRETTY SOON, NONE

According to V. R. (Happy) Lee, here are the ginning reports this year, as compared to last, taking the period as of October 18, each year.

MID-TEX WOOL AND MOHAIR COMPANY NOW MOVED

Mid-Tex Wool and Mohair Company, formerly located at the southwest corner of the square have moved to larger quarters in the building formerly occupied by the Cooper Company, Inc., across from the Fire Station, on North 8th street.

Bevie De Merville, local manager said it was necessary for them to move on account of the need of more space for handling the increasing wool and mohair which is clipped in Coryell county.

This time, the ginnings are 7,867 bales ginned for '41, as compared to 11,497 for '40. That's bad, we'd say, even with the AAA checks. Figuring about $100.00 or better a bale, and that's $363,100 dollars short, at least, which is too short, or is it?

Merchants To Take 11th: List Not Available

An attempt has been made to "sign up" merchants to close Armistice Day, November 11, Tuesday week, and a list of the ones signed to close was taken, but was not available late yesterday.

Tuesday of the week will feature the annual Gatesville-Hamilton football game here, and too, there are many other attractions, besides the intense patriotic interest these days.

Interest Grows At Baptist Revival Now In Progress

Despite the inclement weather, the interest and attendance continues to increase in the revival meeting underway at the First Baptist Church. There are only two more remaining days.

Members of the church in particular are urged to give attention to the meeting, and special services are being arranged for Sunday morning. Efforts are being made to have the entire enrollment of the Sunday School present and every teacher and officer is urged to be in their regular place to assist in the work.

Sunday night's service will be the last service and the public is earnestly invited to attend the remaining services.

Special attention is called to the fact that Sunday, the offering for the State Mission Round-up will be received.

ANNUAL COLT SHOW TO OPEN HERE ON MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3rd AT GIN LOT

One of the Fall Events conducted by County Agent Guy Powell will be held Monday, November 3 at a local gin lot. That is the Annual Colt Show.

Showing this year will be divided into the following classes:

Saddle Horses: 1, colts foaled in '41; 2, yearlings foaled in '40; 3, over 1 year, prior to '40; and 4, stallions over 1 year.

Draft Horses: Same classes as Saddle Horses.

Mules: 1, colts; 2, yearlings. There will be a special class added for gaited saddle horses or mares over 2 years.

This Annual Colt Show attracts large crowds and always brings out a number of fine animals. The Army is still looking for horses and mules, too, even with this mechanized warfare that we are now reading about.

"FOOD FOR FREEDOM" CONFERENCE WAS HELD AT TEMPLE THURSDAY: ANOTHER 4th

"Food for Freedom", the Tripple F was held at Temple yesterday for two days when the AAA farmer-committeemen and members of the county USDA defense board in 19 counties of AAA District 8 met. J. B. Roach, local AAA head, County Agent Guy Powell, County H-D Agent Sidney Gibson, County Committeeman Frank Blair, Frank Brown and N. Foote attended.

The main topic of discussion will be the signing up of farmers on the defense farm plan sheets, and an educational program will be planned.

R. M. Evans administrator of the AAA, Washington, D. C., who has just returned from England will speak at Waco Hall, Tuesday afternoon, November 4th at 1:30 o'clock along this line, and farmers and business men interested in National Defense and its relation to agriculture are urged to attend.

Among the other agencies taking part in the Temple meeting were the SCS, SMA, Extension Service, FCA, Vocational Agriculture, Farm cooperative, FSA, farm bureau federation, and the State Grange.

FBI To Instruct In Civilian Defense Course 30-31st

The FBI will inaugurate a Civilian Defense Course for the heads of city, county and state Law Enforcement Agencies and their executive aides from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. October 30 31 in the Municipal Auditorium at San Antonio, ac-

Six Boys Leave For Army Next Thursday Morn.

Six more have heard the "call" of Uncle Sam's fighting forces, and they'll take a bus Thursday morning for an Army Induction Station, either at San Antonio or Dallas.

These six are: Gorman Love, Robert Albert Mack, Farrell Eugen Carlisle, Rubby Tolbert Cockrell, Joe Ben Edwards and Herman Gus Richter.

After this call, no boys who have not been okeh'd by the Army Induction Station will be sent. They will be okeh'd before they are called.

According to M. W. Acers, Acting Special Agent in charge.

Courses the first two days will be for heads of the agencies, and will be followed at a later date by an extended six day course for subordinate officers.

These courses include: Traffic convoy work guarding protected places and areas, utility surveys, blackout enforcement, cooperation with other emergency agencies, action in case of grounded enemy aircraft, gas decontamination, prevention of malicious acts, internal security investigations, evacuation problems, looting, maintenance of maps and charts, traffic, police communications, police personnel, training programs, equipment problems, protection of police personal and property and air raid precautions.

Mrs. J. L. Adams of Lubbock is a guest in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Dave Culberson, and other relatives and friends in this city. Mrs. Adams is the former Miss Jim Ellen Wells.

LET'S HOPE THE "V" IN VALLEY MILLS DON'T MEAN "VICTORY"

And, that the "V" in Gatesville does!

Because, tonight, mud or no mud these two clubs, the GHS Hornets and the Valley Mills Eagles meet to see which is the whicker.

Now, both Eagles and Hornets should be able to fly over the mud that more than likely will be in the Stockyards Stadium, but they will have to take the aerial route, and a slippery ball for an aerialist is like a parachutest jumping in a fog—he knows he's coming down, but not exactly where.

Where will the Hornets come down? Well, we will just have to say, we're in a quandary, just as 9|10 of the typewriterwreckers were last week in weeding out the winners.

We just wouldn't know!

Anyway, fans, get your rain-togs, rubber shoes (if not priorated) your rain hat, and you can watch these two clubs mud around for a couple of hours, until some man blows the last whistle, and then we'll find out who won. If not too many of you gather, we can all get under the covered stand on the west side, but then, we shouldn't mind a little water when this 1941 model of the GHS machine will mud and water it out too, and, many times, with a mixture of both.

Last time we seen'em, they were practicing for aerial war and protection, but the last two days they must have gotten back on the ground, and are punting and trying the line work, which is safer in this kind of weather.

The line-up, starters, won't make much difference, as there'll be plenty substitutions, anyway.

NORTH EAST WEST SOUTH

A SUMMARY OF WORLD, NATIONAL AND STATE NEWS

JOE SAYS "YES" TO FDR'S 4TH
It took four proposals from President Franklin Delano Roosevelt to get Joe Lewis to say "yes" and to get the 53,000 CIO miners in the "captive" mines to get back on the job. Joe answered Thursday morning.

HOUSE DELAY CRIMINAL
Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—Controversy over the defense housing program exploded before an investigating committee and on the Senate floor Wednesday, with one government official accusing another of criminal delay while Senators disagreed as to whether Sidney Hillman should be blamed for his part in the so-called Currier case.

Note: This was a contract let to Currier, but Sidney said the wrong union had the job, and the low bid was turned down. Funny doin's.

RUMANIANS TO QUIT
With the Rumanian Army of Occupation at Ochakov, Oct. 20—Rumanian troops stationed in this area believe the Russian war is over as far as they are concerned.

KHARKOV FALLS
(By The Associated Press)
The evacuation of Kharkov in the upper Ukraine was acknowledged early Friday by the Soviet command, and it appeared the Crimea and the lower Don Valley further to the south likewise were in growing danger.

On the central front, however, the Russians appeared to be firmly holding the Moscow approaches—although German advances had occurred in areas of secondary importance well above and below the city.

ARGUING NEUTRALITY LAW
Washington, Oct. 29 (AP) Opposing revision of the neutrality law, Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin told the Senate Wednesday that the statue had "accomplished the purpose for which it was intended—the purpose of keeping the United States out of war."

Leaders expect this epithet throwing to last until the end of next week, but, are confident now of doing whatever they're trying to do with it. Why not now?

REDS STOP DAGOES
Rome, Oct. 29 (AP)—The official Stefani agency reported that Italian troops on the eastern front had been halted and put on the defensive for the last eight days by Russian counterattacks.

HIKING PAY, BAD, BANKERS
Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—Federal Reserve officials confessed Wednesday they were embarrassed because they were planning to raise the wages of hundreds of lower paid employees thruout the country.

KEARNY SCRAPPING NAZI SUBS
Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—The destroyer Kearny was torpedoed in the course of an all-night battle between escort warships and a Nazi U-boat wolf pack that attacked a convoy of merchantmen in the bleak waters southwest of Iceland it was announced.

The Kearny, before it was hit, dropped a "series" of depth bombs but if there was any evidence that the sub was hit it remained a secret of the Navy.

Wanted!! Correspondents To Write Me

Mrs. T. H. Permenter, News Correspondent from Levita has been in bed, sick, for three weeks, and she's requested other News Correspondents to write her. We think that's a good idea, and anyway, here's what she says:

"As I have been in bed over three weeks and am still no better I would be glad if some or all of the News Correspondents would write me a card or letter."

Well, that'll be a grand thing to do, whether you're a correspondent or not. Drop Mrs. Permenter a card or a letter; she'd like it.

The House has just voted 259 to 138 to repeal that provision of existing law which forbids the arming of merchant ships and to expressly authorize the President to arm such ships. This seems to be a very simple matter, but a great many people consider it very dangerous. I realize that almost anything that the nation does or does not do these days is dangerous, but I feel that the most dangerous thing that we could possibly do today would be to convince the Japs and the Axis that we were afraid to protect our nation or to allow our people to protect themselves. The prohibition against the arming of merchant ships was passed in order to make sure that our ships might not provoke a difficulty anywhere in the world. Since that time Hitler has seen fit to sink our ships even though unarmed. Since the passage of that act the world has become involved in a war, the outcome of which directly effects our own safety. Our ships must sail the seas if we are to secure the rubber, tin, coffee, etc., that we need, and if we are to sell any of our products to our South American neighbors. Today it is difficult to get crews to man these unarmed ships. This bill will give those men some feeling of security. It will show the aggressors that America intends to defend herself.

I think the bill will probably be followed with another repealing those provisions of existing law that prohibits our ships from going into the ports of belligerent nations. The whole neutrality act was based on the theory that the sheriff and a band of robbers were shooting at each other across the street. The act assumed that even if we had a right to stroll down the street that it would be very foolish for us to do so. That was all very well so long as our safety at home was not threatened. Now it is apparent that the robbers are about to get the best of the officers of the law. That if the robbers kill the sheriff they are strong enough to loot our house and to torture our family. In addition, there is a little yellow sneak-thief who has been stealing chickens in the neighborhood, but who has been given a gun by the bandits who are fighting the sheriff. It looks as if the yellow man was only waiting for an opportunity to rob the corpse of any of those fighting with the officers and to break into our back door as soon as the bandits began firing at the front. The officers of the law are about out of ammunition. For my part I think that it is about time that we lined up with the forces that are trying to put down lawlessness, just like our Texas forefathers did. We better get some shells to the sheriff even if we do risk a stray bullet ourselves than to turn the place over to the bandits.

The news that we have had the past two or three days is increasingly grave. At this moment most everyone in Washington expects the Japs to follow Mussolini's example and attack Russia if Hitler appears to be defeating her. It seems probable that Hitler will take Moscow, but it is not nearly so sure that he will defeat the Russians even if he does. People here think that the Russians will not fold up as France did but will fight on and if they do it will place a terrible drain on Nazi resources. America's most immediate danger is still on the West. Japan is rendering the Nazi cause tremendous aid by tying up a great Russian army in Siberia, which should be available for use in the defense of Moscow. Japan is likely to attack any moment. If she does a full fledged Oriental war is almost sure to break out involving Japan, Russia, China, Great Britain at Singapore and Hong Kong, the Dutch East Indies, Australia and of course the Philippine Islands and the United States. In short, the times are dangerous, but not entirely hopeless, but we cannot further appease anyone. We must hold our ground. To retreat even one step would be fatal.

State of Texas, County of Coryell: Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared W. Mat Jones, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Owner-Editor of the Coryell County News and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, as amended by the Act of March 3, 1933, embodied in section 537, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are: W. Mat Jones, Gatesville, Texas.

2. That the owner is: (If owned by a corporation, its name and address must be stated, and also immediately thereunder the names and address of stockholders owning or holding one per cent or more of total amount of stock. If not owned by a corporation, the names and addresses of the individual owners must be given. If owned by a firm, company, or other unincorporated concern, its name and address, as well as those of each individual member, must be given.) W. Mat Jones, Gatesville, Texas.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state). Ayres Compton, Dallas, Texas; S. F. Bethel, Dallas, Texas; Mergenthaler Linotype Co. Brooklyn, N. Y.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

Pearl

Mrs. Leo Brown, Cors.

Cotton picking is just about a thing of the past here.

Mrs. Dessie Myres, who has made her home in Dallas for some time, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Charlie Smith.

Johnnie Carswell and Lige Chambers made a trip to Keen, Texas Monday.

While watching a very interesting football game Friday, Mr. B Moore Sr. was hit by one of the players, cutting an ugly wound just under his eye.

While returning from Hamilton this week, Walter Freeman, trying to see a back wheel on his car while driving, lost control of his car, leaving the highway, and knocking down a fence; past doing some damage, he was not seriously injured.

Pearl still has large crowds on the skating floor each Saturday night. There were several from Plainview skating Saturday night. Always glad to have our Plainview neighbors with us.

James Inabnet of Evant attended the football game here between our boys and Flat on Friday.

Nelda Brown had the misfortune to stick a nail almost through her foot Wednesday. We are glad to report it doing nicely. She was given the lock jaw serum.

Miss Ona Jones is staying with Aunt Lou Oney, who has been ill for some time.

Floyd Smith and family of Coleman are visiting his mother and father here.

Charlie Elam and wife visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parc Williamson of Harmon Sunday.

Mart Short has gone to California.

AWARD of Merit

These advertisements advising our customers on the use of gas service were selected among the best examples of public utility advertising during the past year.

Children live in a different world

...and the climate is 5 to 10 degrees colder!

THE FLOOR is the most popular winter playground. Have you ever asked yourself, "How is the climate down there?" So far as healthful comfort is concerned, it is a different world at floor-level temperature than it is in the comfort zone in which grown-ups move about in the household.

In guarding your family's health against winter illness, give serious thought to proper heating. Give your floor the "Health Test." Note the temperature at floor level and compare it to the temperature at five-foot heights. You'll find it to be 5 to 10 degrees COLDER at floor levels, depending upon the manner in which you heat your home.

Heat your entire home and live all over it this winter. Provide adequate heat in every room and at all times avoid danger of uneven, unhealthful temperatures.

Lone Star Gas Co.
Supplying Natural Gas to Your Local Distributing Company

HEAT YOUR ENTIRE HOME FOR YOUR HEALTH'S SAKE

ABOUT A YEAR AGO when the above advertisements were published we did not know they would be judged among the best public utility advertisements of the year. However, we knew, beyond question, that the message they carried was of vital importance to our customers in safeguarding their family's health during the winter. With another winter approaching we urge you to review these two advertisements in the interest of your family's welfare. Apply the simple, logical formula of "Heating your entire home for your health's sake" as a protection against the dangers of winter illness. Play safe... DON'T GIVE A COMMON COLD AN EVEN BREAK!

(a message especially for mothers)

Yes Sir, he's "tops"!

... and his welfare is an important responsibility.

Children live in a different world

Children spend a great deal of time on the floor at temperature levels far below those of the "breathing line" of adults.

Because heat rises, room temperatures at floor levels are 5 to 10 degrees COOLER than at heights of five or six feet, depending upon the manner in which your home is heated.

Don't give a cold an even break! See to it that temperatures at floor level are healthfully comfortable for your children during the winter season.

THIS is not an ordinary advertisement.

It offers neither goods nor merchandise for sale.

Its purpose is to remind you of the added obligation of parents during the winter season. At the same time we are ever mindful of our own responsibility in keeping your gas service dependable so that you may have the protection of adequate heat to safeguard your family's health.

You see, we too, have children.

We know of the anxious hours in every mother's life when illness threatens those she loves. We have watched with alarm a child's mounding fever of serious illness that started as a simple, common cold. With sleepless, fear-filled eyes we've watched through the night into the sunrise of a new day—as across our worried mind flashed that grim published warning—one death every four minutes from pneumonia! It was then that "prevention is the best remedy" impressed us with its full significance. It was then we recognized the vital importance of guarding against the simple, common cold.

Hicks and granddaughter, Patsy Morris, of Alba, Mr. and Mrs. E. Routh, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Powell and son, Charley.

Lavetta Nell Davidson Complimented on 4th Birthday Anniversary

Little Miss Lavetta Nell Davidson was named honoree at a party given by her mother, Mrs. Tom Davidson, on her fourth birthday anniversary in their home on College Street Wednesday afternoon.

After playing various games, the children were served ice cream cuplets and angel food cake. Favors were candy suckers.

Miscellaneous Shower Honors Mrs. Arlis Smith, Recent Bride

Mrs. John T. Morgan and Mrs. Bob Clemons entertained with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. Arlis Smith, a recent bride, Monday evening in Peyton's private dining room. Mrs. Smith, the former Miss Edna Mae Wendeborn, and Mr. Smith of Goldthwaite were married in this city October 11.

Yellow chrysanthemums formed the decorations for the room, where refreshments were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Winfield, Mrs. A. T. Rogers and daughter, Neta Jean, Mrs. Richard Sexton, Mrs. Louis Hackney, Mrs. Dot Bond, Mrs. Lillie Freeman, Mrs. J. J. Byrom and daughter, Pauline, Bob Clemons, Jack Powell, John Morgan, and Misses Flossie Latham, Jodell Fowler, Katherine Gilmore, Myrtle Wendeborn, Estell Holden, Jewell Wendeborn, Joyce Dickie and Marjorie Ayres, the honoree and the hostesses.

Creston Brazzil Is Honoree at Birthday Party October 17

On Friday afternoon, October

17, from 2 to 4 o'clock, Creston Brazzil, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Blazzil of Flat, celebrated his eighth birthday at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Doc Brazzil.

At 2:30 o'clock Miss Winnie Bell Whigham, the primary teacher of Flat school, came with her entire class. Immediately the children marched into the dining room, where the table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a lovely decorated cake, topped with eight candles. After Creston had made a wish and blown out the candles, refreshments of cookies and grapejuice were served. A red and white color scheme was carried out in the refreshments, which were served to twenty-four little girls and boys.

The diversion for the afternoon was playing games on the front lawn and the fish pond at the back. After each little guest had fished for a small gift, they went into the living room, where Creston was presented a basket of lovely gifts.

Those present were: Polly Anna Clawson, Nelda Bomar, Gilda

land, Janell Green, Clayton Brazzil, Jackie Tippit, Jim Clawson, and Sandra Cross.

Others enjoying the occasion with the honoree were, Mesdames Raymond Worthington, Dan Cross, O. Clawson, Lepel Alexander, C. T. Humphries, M. A. Webb, Bernie Brazzil, Harry Mohrmann Jr., Earl Hamilton, Tommie Bettge, Grannie Cross, Carrie Campbell and E. G. Harper.

Those sending gifts who were unable to attend were, Mrs. T. M. Johnston of Stamford, Mrs. J. R. Graham of Gatesville and Mrs. P. M. Cross and Violet of Flat.

Mrs. Parc Williamson of Harmon community is visiting her sister, Mrs. H. M. Haynes, in this city.

TWO COUPLES HONORED WITH WEDDING SHOWER AT PEABODY SCHOOL

It does come a shower on a Storm sometimes, for Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Storm with Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Cummings were the honored couples. Each couple thinking the shower was for the other made it quite an interesting surprise for both.

Their many friends had so long wished to bestow their congratulations and good wishes upon them, together with their gifts, and had planned the affair several times, only to meet with disappointment, but on Saturday night, September 6, it went over in a big way.

The party met on the lawn in front of the Peabody School house. Nine freezers of ice cream were frozen while Dauris E. and Don Rhoades furnished a program of music.

The community then attended the matter of organizing a literary club to furnish entertainment every six weeks throughout the school

Back in the vestibule of the school building were two tables laden with many useful and lovely gifts. When the time for the great surprise was near at hand, Mrs. Storm was asked by her husband to usher him through the building where she had been so commanding in her teaching of years passed. Seeing the tables, but thinking they were for the other couple, they passed on. Their friends followed to the vestibule. On returning they found Mrs. Cummings and friends inspecting the presents so they joined in. Mrs. Cummings had been told of the secret. All at once we heard Mrs. Storm as she said, "Marie, you can't have every one, for there is one over there with our name on it". To their great surprise, many presents bore their name. The presents were then opened, and admired by all.

A table, on the lawn, spread with delicious cookies, made a refreshing appetizer together with ice cream for all present.

Mrs. Storm and Mrs. Cummings are to us, Miss Ira Dell Upton, once our teacher, and Annie Marie Butler, her pupil, a few years. We wish both couples long, happy, and successful lives. We expect many visits from them and especially Mr. and Mrs. Cummings since they are near.

Because of the distance, San Antonio, a short visit by Mr. and Mrs. Storm is rare. When they do come it should shower, rain or storm. On one occasion when they were here on a visit, their many friends did storm them with the usual initiation or "old time schoree". All was at peace and quiet in the F. I. Upton home when all of a sudden cow bells, tin cans, horse shoes, iron discs, old shoes, etc, made the continuous roar that surrounded the house. When the couple did approach the scene, rice met them in the face. Everyone enjoyed the games and refreshments of punch and cake.—Contributed.

DARK JOURNEY
CONRAD VEIDT • VIVIEN LEIGH

Copyright 1937 by United Artists Corp.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Beautiful Madeleine Godard, who runs a dress shop in Stockholm as a cloak for her spying activities under command of Major Schaffer of the German Intelligence, attracts the attention of Baron von Marwitz, retired German officer. Von Marwitz is about to declare his love for her when she learns that her porter and spying accomplice, Anatole, has been murdered. Madeleine is ordered by Major Schaffer to Paris, where she is arrested and turned over to the head of the French Fifth Bureau. That official, however, awards her a medal, for it turns out that she is really in the service of the French counter-espionage, posing as a German spy. She is ordered back to Stockholm to learn who is the head of the German Section Eight.

Chapter Five

The Grand Hotel restaurant was brilliant and gay — with that desperate gaiety of war-time Stockholm — the gaiety of wounded soldiers on leave, of exchanged prisoners returning from captivity, of spies and counter-spies who never knew which night might be their last on earth.

Madeleine, having safely made the "dark journey" back once again, sat facing Von Marwitz across a table.

"Why are you looking at me as though you'd never seen me before?" she demanded.

"Because I'm not sure I have! Stopped by a submarine — arrested — grilled by the Paris Police — and there you sit — a slip of a girl, looking as if it were all in the day's work!"

A number of German officers, lean and sallow-looking, filed past their table on their way out of the restaurant.

"Prisoners of war?" inquired Madeleine.

"Yes — released from Siberia on an exchange . . . Hello!" He started. "There's Otto Berndorf — one of my best friends!"

Von Marwitz arose to greet one of the men, extending his hand.

"Otto! Good God, man, I thought you were dead!"

Berndorf made no move, but looked him dead in the eye.

"I read that you'd deserted, Von Marwitz."

Then, with a quick, contemptuous motion, Berndorf struck his old friend a sharp blow on each cheek with his open palm. Von Marwitz, motionless, looked straight ahead.

"Ask him if he wants satisfaction," Berndorf said curtly to the headwaiter. Von Marwitz laughed shortly. "That's all right. And he turned back to join Madeleine.

But Madeleine was gone — fled from the man who would not defend himself in the face of the final insult!

Von Marwitz followed her feverishly to her apartment. "What did you run away for?" he demanded. She made no answer.

"What stupidity!" he pursued. "Did you want a public brawl?"

"I wanted to see you kill that man!" she cried fiercely.

"Well," he said sadly, "I've succeeded in convincing you that I'm a coward!" He turned to leave.

"Karl!" Her voice rang out, full of emotion — half agony, half love. "Karl, come back! I think you're the bravest man who ever served his country!"

He turned again, startled. "And how do I serve my country — as a deserter?"

She decided to take the long leap. "No, not as a deserter. As head of Section Eight, German Intelligence."

He stood stock still for a long moment, making no denial. Finally: "Why do you tell me now?"

She rose to the bait — with a counter-bait of her own. "Because I know you're in the German Service too!

"I know more than that," he said quietly. "I know that you're not Swiss — you're French! I know that you've outwitted us for three years while you were serving your country as I served mine!"

They stood looking at each other, with a mutual pity mingled with welling affection. Then, yielding to the same sudden impulse, they were close in each other's arms.

"Darling!" breathed Madeleine. "At last, no more lies!"

He kissed her with infinite tenderness; then they separated. Her mood changed suddenly.

"Now I want you to take me away," she cried gaily. "Away from my friends — my business — no time for anyone but you!"

"That's my dream," he agreed. "Where shall we go?"

"I've a villa on the Mediterranean — near Nice."

"That's France," he pointed out. "And I'm German."

"Then how about Switzerland?"

"How shall we get there — without walking through the trenches?"

One retreat after another was suggested — but the war made them all impossible. At last they gave it up, yielded to black discouragement. The war was a fiery barrier between them.

"So that's the end of our dream!"

mused Madeleine. She broke into quiet sobbing.

Von Marwitz hurried back to the hotel, broke in upon the revelry of the German officers who were being dined by Muller, and revealed himself as the head of Section Eight — much to the discomfort of his friend Berndorf. Summoning Muller, Schaffer and their lieutenants, he gave them quick, terse orders — orders for an immediate and desperate coup to be attempted at once.

Meanwhile Madeleine was not idle. She slipped out to Bob Carter's office at the British Intelligence, told him and Faber of her quains.

The next morning strange things happened in Madeleine's shop. Quickly, yet almost imperceptibly, the store filled with mysterious shoppers who looked at everything but bought nothing. Singly, by twos and threes they trickled in, these paid agents of the German Intelligence, and soon were crowding the store so that it was almost impossible to move about.

Behind the curtains in her private office Madeleine watched the growing, ominous crowd with mounting alarm. The very weirdness of the proceedings, even more than any definite danger, filled her with terror. She tried to telephone Carter, but found that the wires were cut. She tried to leave her office, but was pushed back, as though by accident, by the crowd.

Then quickly, as if by magic, the assemblage parted and made way for Rugge and Bohlau, Muller's lieutenants, who hurried into Madeleine's office and jostled her out through the crowd into the street.

A waiting car stood at the curb, and to it Madeleine was propelled.

Suddenly, just as the car door was opened for her from within, a corps of Stockholm police came charging up. The crowd melted away as magically as it had gathered: the car drove off; and Madeleine was left on the curb with the policemen and with Bob Carter, who had followed them.

"You have abused the hospitality of a neutral country," charged a police officer. "That means deportation to your own country."

Madeleine shrugged resignedly, and Carter grinned broadly. It was as he had planned — Madeleine at last was to be given safe conduct to France to stay there, safe from the hell of spying and deadly danger in which she had moved so long!

Von Marwitz was not long in hearing the news. He, too, smiled strangely.

"The French counter-spy," he told his subordinates, "sails for Le Havre from Gothenburg. Signal the fleet to stop her ship — I will board it tomorrow!"

METHODIST CHURCH
 —v—
 E. L. Craig, Pastor
 Sunday School at the Methodist Church will begin at 9:45 next Sunday morning. Dr. D. K. Porter, District Superintendent, will preach at the 10:50 hour. We are making this a special last Sunday Communion Service. Let all members of the church attend this service.

At 6:45 p. m. both the Intermediate and the Senior groups will meet in their League sessions. At 7:30 the fourth quarterly conference will be held. All members of the conference are urged to be present. There will be no preaching service, but a devotional and a featuring of the conference. All church members should be present at this conference in order to hear the annual reports which will report all the year's work. It will give you more respect for your church and inspire you to become more effective in her program.

Tuesday afternoon at 2:45 the Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet at the home of Mrs. J. H. Hamilton on East Main St.

Wednesday evening at 7:30 the mid week prayer meeting will begin. At 7:30 the same evening the choir practice will begin. All members are urged to attend the practice.

Wednesday evening the Annual Conference will convene at the First Methodist Church, Ft. Worth. It will be informing and inspiring to any of you who can visit it any time during the session.
