ARMISTICE DAY

Because there are words like Freedom and Democracy, we celebrate Armistice Day. We celebrate it to honor those who were willing to lay down their lives in order to preserve these words. We celebrate it, not as a victory or an achievement, but as a tribute to those who fought for their beliefs. But though it is a day of homage and thanksgiving, it is also a day of firm resolve. For, what kind of justice would it be, if while we celebrate these Armistice Days, we lose what they fought to preserve?

So let us, this Armistice Day, November 11, 1941, reverently pay our deepest respect and gratitude to those who fought, but just as reverently resolve to protect and keep what they fought for—those words again—Freedom and Democracy.

Thursday Accident Gives Injuries To Three: Car Burns

Thursday about 5 p. m. Mrs. Paul Hinson of near Ames, and Miss Ollie Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bell were injured, and Mrs. Paul Hinson's light delivery burned following an accident about 3 miles north of Gatesville on Highway 36, just at the Gatesville State School for Boys.

C. B. Westerfield of McGregor was in the other car, and sustained 2 broken ribs, a cut over the left eye and an injured knee. Miss Bell received a back injury, and Mrs. Hinson a cut on the wrist and an injured neck.

The pick-up caught fire after the injured occupants were brought to Gatesville for treatment, supposedly from a shorted wire. Both cars were badly damaged. Cause of the accident was unknown.

EIGHT CHANGES MADE IN GATESVILLE DISTRICT AT METHODIST CONFERENCE

REV. E. L. CRAIG AND DR. D. K. PORTER RETURN TO GATESVILLE

Eight changes were made by appointments in the Gatesville District at the seventy-fifth annual session of the Central Texas Methodist Conference which ended in Fort Worth Sunday afternoon. A crowd which taxed the capacity of the main auditorium of the First Church heard the appointments read by Bishop Ivan Lee Holt.

All of the 10 district superintendents, including Dr. D. K. Porter of Gatesville, were re-appointed to their former posts for another year. Rev. E. L. Craig, pastor of the First Methodist Church here the past year, was also re-appointed.

Other appointments in the Gatesville District were: Bee House Circuit, R. M. Studer; Carlton Circuit, R. T. Wallace, from Chatfield; Cranfills Gap Circuit, G. C. Williams, from Moshem; Crawford Circuit, J. W. Culwell; Duffau Circuit, W. H. Hogg, from Pearl; Evant Circuit, J. D. Farmer; Gatesville Circuit, P. W. Layne; Hamilton Station, W. E. Shipp; Hico Station, Floyd Thrash; Jonesboro Circuit, to be supplied; McGregor Station, Ernest Roper, from Wink, transferred from New Mexico Conference; Moody Circuit, George Siler; Moody-Leon Station, A. G. Elley; Moshem Circuit, C. F. Bell, from Haslet; Oglesby Station, D. L. Barnes, from May; Pearl Circuit, Frank Stone, from Whitney; Turnersville Circuit, Leslie Scott; Levita, Bruce Weaver. District Missionary Secretary, E. L. Craig. District Director of Evangelism, D. K. Porter.

Former pastors in this district and their appointments include: Brownwood District, Talpa-Crews, W. C. Taylor, from Oglesby. Cisco District, District Superintendent, Roy A. Langston; Cisco, First Church L. W. Seymour; Dublin, J. H. Baldrige from Olney. Fort Worth District, Central, M. M. Chunn; Polytechnic, W. W. Ward. Georgetown District, Copperas Cove, W. H. Steinman. Waco District, Bruceville, A. R. Corn, from Jonesboro; Clay Avenue, Gid J. Bryan; Colcord Avenue, A. K. Marney, from McGregor. Rev. T. Edgar Neal, pastor of the Arlington Heights Church, Fort Worth, and pastor in this city several years ago, was transferred to the Northwest Texas Conference, the annual session of which is to open at Big Spring Wednesday. It is reported unofficially that Rev. Mr. Neal is slated for elevation to a district superintendency.

W. B. Rider, Enfts banker, was elected conference treasurer to succeed Leake Ayres of Gatesville. The following story appeared in the Star-Telegram Saturday morning while the Conference was still in session:

"Described as a 'typical circuit preacher', Rev. George Siler also is expanding his work. The minister already had been serving Stockton Chapel, Willow Grove and The Grove on the Moody Circuit, but during the last year he helped organize still another—the County Line Church, so named because it is located near the Bell, Coryell and McLennan County lines. The wavy-haired preacher is satisfied with his duties and the congregations apparently approve of him, for he has served there for five years. The five churches, with a total membership of 249, are paid up a full year ahead on benevolences, insurance, electricity and other such expenses, Rev. Mr. Siler said. They are in the Gatesville District."

Mrs. R. Thomas and son Bob Thomas just returned from an extended business trip to Tampico, Mexico and vicinity.

THE STORY OF Grace MOORE
The King Steps Out
FRANCHOT TONE

Adapted from the screen version by arrangement with Columbia Pictures

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Under influence of his mother, the Dowager Empress, Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria has ordered Princess Helena, one of seven daughters of the Duke and Duchess of Bavaria, to come to Hellbrun, seat of the summer palace, so that their betrothal can be announced. Helena loves Count Leopold Palfi, young adjutant of the King, and is brokenhearted. Cissy, Helena's sister and favorite daughter of Duke Max, is furious that Helena should have to marry a man she does not love and has never seen. Max is helpless, for it was his ambitious wife and her sister, the Dowager Empress Sofia, who planned the engagement. Sofia and Max have always been enemies, and Sofia is the power behind her 26-year-old son's throne. But Cissy is not to be thwarted. She persuades the fearful Max to come with her, incognito, to Hellbrun in a donkey cart to see what they can do to alleviate Helena's unhappiness.

He hurried out to catch the culprit. Herlicka thrust Cissy into the room, caught a motion of dismissal from the Emperor, whose face was shadowed by the window drapes, and left.

Cissy impatiently addressed the simply dressed figure at the window. "Well, what's the delay? Announce me to His Majesty. What are they doing, preparing the chopping block? Why don't they put me in jail like a criminal? I picked some roses." She walked spiritedly around the room. "Have you ever heard anything more outrageous? The Emperor's roses! He didn't make them, did he? It's a wonder anything grows around here!"

Francis spoke quietly, cautioning: "You'd better be careful that no one hears you. You know there's a law against insulting the Emperor!"

"I'm not at all surprised," the girl fumed. "But there's no law that'll stop me from telling the Emperor what I think of him. I want to be announced! Do you hear me?"

"I'll inform His Majesty that you're very impatient."

Francis crossed the room to the door, opened it, stepped out of sight for an instant, re-entered the room and announced: "His Imperial Majesty, Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria."

Cissy waited expectantly. Francis marched forward, smiling. The girl nearly fainted as she realized she had been with the Emperor all the time.

"Did you wish to see me?" asked Francis.

Cissy swallowed hard. "You? — the Emperor?" she said softly.

"You know you have no right to pick my roses."

"They were so lovely. Your Majesty." The princess, ashamed and awed, spoke in a low voice. "I should be punished. I guess I said some awful things."

"I might," said the young ruler, "make an exception in your case and show mercy." He was inwardly amused.

"Is mercy an exception with Your Majesty?" asked Cissy on the spur of the moment.

Francis was a trifle hurt. "No. Why — is that what my people think about me?"

Cissy was ashamed of what she had said. "No. As a matter of fact, they love you."

"I should talk with my people more often," said the Emperor, pacing. He stood in front of Cissy again. "What do you do? How do you live? What are you carrying there? A dress, I suppose. You're a dressmaker."

Cissy was a little ill at ease. "Well, I don't want to deceive Your Majesty—"

"Oh, I'm not easily deceived," Francis broke in jauntily. "Who is the package for?"

"It's for Princess Helena," she said. "I wanted to take it to her — myself."

"Why?" Francis asked curiously.

"Well," blurted out the princess, "I would like to see the — the future Empress!"

Francis evinced surprise. "You mean to say it's known that I'm to be engaged tomorrow?"

"It's true, then, isn't it?" Cissy went on quickly, "that Your Majesty will marry Princess Helena?"

The Emperor laughed. "Yes, I've heard that my mind has been made up for me by my ministers and my mother." He paused. "So you would like to see the future Empress? I haven't seen her myself yet, but I can arrange that you do." Francis walked to his desk and sat down, pen in hand. "What's your name?"

"Cissy — that is — Elizabeth Schmidt. My father calls me Cissy."

The Emperor laughed as he rose and handed her the pass. At that moment there was a knock on the door, and Count Palfi entered hurriedly. He was startled at seeing the princess, but quickly recognized her signal to ignore her.

"Your Imperial Majesty," said Palfi, "His Royal Highness, Duke Max of Bavaria, has just arrived, and asks for a few minutes — on a very important matter."

Cissy was astonished. What was her father, a short while ago afraid of even approaching the palace, doing there now? She looked at Francis. He was plainly nervous.

FACT

This newspaper prints many facts. You may or may not LIKE the particular facts it prints, but your newspaper must report, as accurately as it can, exactly what happens. For instance, a rainy week end may spoil a city man's picnic but save a farmer's crops. The paper may report the FACT of rain from either the farmer's viewpoint or the city man's. The FACT doesn't change—It DID rain.

OPINION

Suppose the weather experts predict fair weather tomorrow. That is OPINION. Not fact. But you want opinions, as well as facts. Or suppose some scientist PREDICTS that chemistry will replace farming and we'll take pills instead of eating beefsteak. That is HIS OPINION; right or wrong, you are entitled to hear it. The editor has opinions—everyone who thinks does—and everyone in America has the right and perhaps the duty to express sincere opinions and beliefs. Your newspaper is pretty careful to tell you the WHO, the WHERE and the WHY of the opinions it prints.

ACTION

Every American newspaper is simply PACKED with the doings of people who have put fact and opinion into action. All that America—or any democracy—asks is that PERSUASION be used, not FORCE, to back up fact and opinion.

In a democracy every man has a right to his own beliefs—and a right to convince others, if he can, by lawful and peaceful means, to agree with him. So our newspapers arm us first with many facts, second with a variety of opinions. Upon these facts and opinions are based the actions of many groups, sects, political parties, merchants and manufacturers, as well as individuals.

And yet you . . . one single American citizen, have the precious right to make up your own mind—with all the evidence and the argument spread out before you in newspapers that are free from censorship and government control.

In Germany, Italy, Russia, Japan, a government agency decides what the people shall read and hear. Not so in America. Do your part to preserve the American way of life.

Read, each Tuesday in this space, the messages about your liberty and how America's newspapers help you defend it. Your letters of comment will be appreciated by the editor and by this committee—Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Chapter Two

Looking for all the world like a pair of peasants, Cissy and Duke Max arrived at Hellbrun and went to the Golden Ox Inn. Cissy had had trouble with Max on the way; after listening to her mad schemes to steal Helena from the King's palace, the good-natured Duke was very sure he wanted to go home and have a glass of beer and forget the whole business. But Cissy was insistent, and finally won out.

The tavern was filled to capacity with sixty girls of the ballet, which had come from Vienna to dance for the Emperor on his birthday, and Pretzelberger, the short-tempered proprietor, was about to turn Cissy and Max away when the Duke whispered his identity and warned him to keep the secret. Pretzelberger frantically gave his own room to Max, and the ballet master's to Cissy.

Despite his promise, Max settled down to sampling the inn's beer as soon as Cissy's back was turned. Cissy saw then that if anything was to be done, she would have to do it herself.

Wandering about the inn, Cissy came across the ballet girls lined up to receive passes into the palace grounds from Colonel von Kempen, the Dowager Empress' adjutant. Immediately an idea came to her, and she slipped into the line.

Cissy snatched a pass from von Kempen and went out quickly.

In a few minutes she was entering the palace grounds, armed with the pass and a box. The box contained her sister Helena's cloth of silver dress, which Cissy purposely did not include in the bride-to-be's luggage.

Within the palace, Emperor Francis Joseph, whom Cissy had never seen, was speaking with Baron Herlicka, Majordomo of the Court. The Emperor, dressed at the moment in a simple lounge suit, was a handsome young man with twinkling eyes. He stood at the open window, looking out into the garden. Suddenly he spoke: "Who's that picking roses, Herlicka?"

"Picking what?" exclaimed Herlicka in amazement. He dashed to the Emperor's side. There was Cissy in the garden plucking the precious flowers. Francis was amused and intrigued; Herlicka was furious.

"That's—that's—prohibited!" he sputtered. "In fact, there's a sign there! Your mother wanted them kept especially for your birthday. Why — this is an outrage!"

"Quite right," agreed Francis, "that girl ought to be arrested."

The Baron showed his surprise. "But, Your Majesty, isn't it unusually severe to arrest someone for picking roses?"

"Well, she's unusually pretty," commented the Emperor. "And I intend to make an example of her. Bring her up here."

"As you wish, Your Imperial Majesty," said Herlicka, dumbfounded.

HERE'S THE PERCENTS FOR SIX-MAN UP 'TIL FRIDAY, OCT. 31ST

Here's the percentage for the six-game players in this district:

| Team | W | L | Pct. |
|--------------|---|---|-------|
| C. Cove | 5 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Pottsville | 4 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Flat | 4 | 0 | 1.000 |

| Lometa | 2 | 3 | .400 |

| Ireland | 0 | 5 | .000 |

By JONES

This was up-set week; last week end.

Flat, in the Six-Games, knocked out a favored Copperas Cove six, 28-22, and a little bit of an up-set was Pearl's win over Turnersville, 12-6. Pottsville came thru as expected and got 33 to Oglesby's 6, altho it was not expected to be that bad.

The BIG upset was in the SW conference with Baylor's 7-7 tie with the National No. 1 ten, The University of Texas. It'll go down in history. We even would have liked to see the game end, Texas 7, Baylor 6. Anything can, and does happen in the SW conference.

SMU scared the Aggies, who finally won, 21-10 and some call that a fluke. Rice didn't manhandle

If any Baylor linesman gives Tulsa trouble in Tulsa next Saturday, it will be W. B. Godbold, the Bears rugged tackle who gave Texas a headache all afternoon last week.

Godbold was in on almost every line play in the tilt and turned in one of the best defensive tackle exhibitions ever seen in Waco.

Arkansas much, the game ending 12-12, and TCU fiddled along and won from weak Centenary 14-0.

Class AA in this district is just about settled with Temple and Waco the leading lights. It'll be a battle when they meet, and we'd like to see Temple have it.

Armistice day, yesterday, and GHS dropped one to Hamilton, or did they?

How to become A SKILLED DRIVER

BRAKES vs. HORN

If all cars stopped in TIME, there would be no accidents. It is highly important that you learn not to "outdrive" your eyes. You must be able to stop in the assured clear distance ahead. If you can see ahead only 20 feet—and no more—you must be able to stop in that 20 feet. Stopping is important, but what is even more important is being READY to stop. Know what your brakes can do. They vary. Whenever you get into a strange car, test the brakes first.

Some drivers, instead of preparing to stop in time, just blow the horn and hope for good luck. When two such drivers approach a corner, there's bound to be a mess. The skilled driver, when he KNOWS he must stop, STARTS HIS STOPPING EARLY.

It was a grand game, to us, even with Sherman playing. He was the big HE in the ball game, but we liked the way the Gatesville High School Hornets showed their fight, and, they had it. Two or more times, they drove by end runs and off tackle slashes to within striking distance of pay dirt, but lacked that little bit of hitting pay dirt, and their passes in the fading moments of the game could not connect.

It was Sherman, tho Sheer-Man, and what a man. A back nonpariel in this little conference, passer, punter, blocker, plunger, broken-field runner, and if they do anything else on a gridiron, he does that too. He started the show in the first with a 59, then a 65, and then a 75 yard run for pay, and there were no flies on him, each time, going over standing up. Mr. Sherman, Gatesville was pleased to meet you!

Well, with Sherman, there was Cook and Hix, two other nice backs, who didn't show so much because they are not needed.

Fry, at times approached Sherman but he usually hit a snag after passing the line of scrim-

...and do be careful!"

"Five mornings a week, nine months a year, we mothers of Texas get our children ready for school.

"In our home and a million other Texas homes, that's one of the first and most important duties of a mother's day. Sometimes Dad finds out what a job it is when he has to do it by himself."

All of us want our children to have the best education possible. Most of us look to the public schools for this.

Fortunately, Texas has the best public schools in the South. Helping to build and operate them is the Texas petroleum industry which pays 24 million dollars a year in taxes for school purposes.

These petroleum taxes pay an average of one-fourth the cost of educating our children. Altogether, they meet the entire expense of schooling nearly 400,000 Texas boys and girls.

In addition, oil has contributed substantially to the 70 million dollar permanent school fund. Oil is also responsible for much of the 30 million dollar permanent university fund, which has made possible the expansion of the University of Texas and A. & M. College.

Furthermore, taxes on petroleum products add another 11½ million dollars a year for the schools of our State.

Our children get a better education today because of the Texas petroleum industry.

National Pledge Campaign Directed At Bottleneck of Nondefense Savings

A Pledge

To the President and the Congress of the United States

FOR DEFENSE TODAY — FOR HOPE TOMORROW

BECAUSE it is becoming obvious to all thinking Americans that to afford defense and at the same time ensure a stable America in the future, all nondefense, nonessentials of government must be cut to the limit; and,

BECAUSE in the past so many individuals and organizations, while demanding national economies of their congressmen have, at the same time brought pressure to bear on those congressmen to push local projects and expenditures not truly vital to the community; and,

BECAUSE the pressure for these nonessential expenditures in their aggregate, destroys any possibility of bringing about a sound, reasonable national spending policy; and,

BECAUSE this emergency places upon every American and every organization a moral responsibility not only for defense today but for security and stability tomorrow.

I PLEDGE, in this emergency, to serve the interests of my country, by not asking of any public official any expenditure which can be deferred or which I do not truly believe to be now vitally essential either to defense or to my own legitimate welfare or to that of my state or community

The "For Defense Today — For Hope Tomorrow" pledge shown here is being distributed to millions of citizens by the recently organized Citizens Emergency Committee on Nondefense Expenditures Washington, D. C., in cooperation with taxpayer organizations in 20 states

Henry M. Wriston, Chairman of the Citizens Emergency Committee, in explaining the objectives of the pledge campaign said, "Most Americans who have really thought about our national problem today — and that includes most members of Congress — admit that we cannot pile the staggering costs of defense on top of continued nondefense, non-essential spending of the last decade without endangering our hope in the future. They admit non-essential spending of government should be pared to the limit."

But, Dr. Wriston pointed out that the very people who demand non-defense economies are too often the ones who put pressure on their legislators to push appropriations of local interest that are not vital at this time.

The "For Defense Today — For Hope Tomorrow" campaign, according to Dr. Wriston, will afford the American people the opportunity to be heard before it is too late. It will also give millions a chance to pledge their support to the President and the Congress of the United States in effecting vital economies in order to insure the future economic stability of the country and the investment of ideals, hope and freedom that every American has in that future.
