COL. W. A. DUMAS HAS REPLACEMENT CENTER COMMAND

Charged with one of the Tank Destroyer Center's biggest tasks is Col. Walter A. Dumas, above, who is in command of the Replacement Training Center where newly-inducted soldiers are converted into tank destroyer replacements.

A veteran of the Siberian campaign in the first world war, when he served as a lieutenant, he has had a long military career marked by many important assignments since that time.

Although not a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, Col. Dumas was an instructor in tactics there . . . the only non-graduate of West Point ever to teach in the tactics department. He was an instructor for two separate tours of duty at the army infantry school at Fort Benning.

He is a graduate of the Command and General Staff school and of the Army War college. At the outbreak of the war and for some months thereafter, Col. Dumas was G-3 (plans & training officer) of the Fourth Army at San Francisco. He was commanding officer of the 317th infantry, 80th division, at Camp Forest, Tenn., before reporting to Camp Hood Nov. 10.

Col. Dumas's command will occupy half of the new northern camp near Gatesville. Recruits are arriving at the Replacement Training Center's temporary area in the heart of the main cantonment at the rate of 1,050 per week for 13 weeks training. At full strength, RTC will have 15,000 to 18,000 men.

The RTC will share the new camp with the Basic Unit Training Center.

Miss Wanda Miller spent the week end at Flat with Misses Winnie Bell and Pauline Whigham.

Pvt. and Mrs. Harry Flentge of Waco spent the week end in this city.

NEWS

FROM Camp Hood, Texas

Marine Corps Major Walseth, who was stationed with the marines on Guadalcanal during much of the fighting with the Japs is spending some time visiting the Tank Destroyer Center.

OCS candidates will use the new obstacle course now being built east of the cantonment adjoining the OCS area, for training.

This will include all types of barracades, fences, traps, barbed wire entanglements, and several innovations which will make this one of the most unusual courses in the army. OCS classes will make this half mile daily.

The rifle range is being enlarged from 50 to 80 targets.

All combat or tactical vehicles in the army now carry the big star emblem in white on their sides and tops. Administrative vehicles do not carry the star except where they may be in theatres of operations.

Major Edwin H. Andrew, assistant finance officer at Camp Hood during the six years prior to his entering the army was with the Bankers Trust Company of New York. Before that, he represented the National City bank of New York in Tokyo, Yokahama and Calcutta. He was graduated from Andover in 1920 and Yale in 1924, and is from Danbury, Connecticut.

Lieut. Col. Kenneth S. White has been assigned to the post intelligence office at Camp Hood, and was in civilian life, a lawyer and in 1936 was a delegate from Wisconsin to the National Republican convention at Cleveland, and the same year he was elected to the state senate for four years, and has served 13 months in the army during World War I, returning to the U. of Wisconsin, where he was graduated from law school in 1921.

Col. M. A. Devine, Jr., Co. of OCS has a colorful career, as follows: Born, San Francisco, Calif., educated at St. Ignatius U. and was one of greatest Pacific coast quarterbacks received appointment as 2nd Lt. 1917, attended General Service School, going over during World War I with 15th Cavalry.

Served with 2nd division, 2nd French Cavalry division, and became aide de camp to director of military supply.

Returned to U.S. in '23, and was adjutant until '30, when he was made instructor of 158th cavalry. In '37, was senior aide to the commanding general and governor of Panama Canal. In '40, he was military and air attache to Republic of Argentina, Paraguay and Uruguay, and was only American officer ever decorated by Argentine.

Was a great horseman, and a member of American Riding and Steeple chase team in Europe from 1919 to 1923, and won the British French and Belgium High Commissioner Steeple Classes. Was only foreigner ever to be awarded the French Medal of Merit as an outstanding rider of 1922, and was the only American to win the Grand Military Steeplechase. Played No. 3 on U.S. Army Headquarters of the Army of Occupation Polo team, and No. 1 on the British team which included some of Britain's crack players, and has a four goal handicap. In '30, he captained the team that represented the War Department.

His wedding in Germany was the last ceremony of an American officer of the Army of Occupation.

General David L. Stone, his father-in-law, was the commanding general of the army and navy and supreme commander of Panama before retiring in 1940. He has a brother, also, Colonel Devine, and another, Captain Devine who are at undisclosed army posts.

Company "B" of the Student Regiment has two legislators, First Lt. James E. Bolin of Louisiana, and First Lt. Samuel R. Haskell of Camp Hood.

It happened this way. Corp. Goldberg of Company "B" Student Regiment issued First Lt. Edward J. Gorecki the necessary equipment. A few hours later Lt. Gorecki again appeared to check out equipment. Corp. Goldberg insisted that he had already done so and even produced the necessary documentary proof. Upon seeing this, Lt. Gorecki realized that it must be his brother! The brothers had not seen each other for about seven months, and unknown to each other, they were both detailed to attend the same course at the Tank Destroyer School.

Remember Bobby Waugh, fighter. Well, he's or was at Camp Hood. Left recently for another organization. He is really Pvt. Vincent Folgeras, 99 pounds of soldier, and won the Florida boxing championship in the fly weight division in 1938. He met Kid Chocolate the famous Cuban twice winning a decision and drawing, the second. At Ft. McClellan where he was inducted, he fought 16 fights, getting 16 KO's. Added to this fame, he dived off a pier to save a man from drowning two years ago and got a specially made medal for this exploit.

Dear Wardie:

I ain't a feelin' very well today. I got a cablegram from the Boy Friend, what's in Australia. It said, "Sited W. A. A. C., Dated same."

I don't know what I done to her, but I passed the Widder Jones on the road the other day and the way she looked at me, you'd think I had a can of gasoline and two pounds of butter hid away at home.

Uncle Mort got a letter yesterday that his mother-in-law is a comin' fer a visit. Now, Uncle Mort says, that "second front" they been a talkin' about will really be opened.

It's a funny thing, these people. Some hifalutin' folks you used to couldn't reach 'em with a ten foot pole, now you can get perty close to 'em with a gasoline hose, a pair of nylons, a pound of butter or a can of coffee.

Uncle Tobias said he's read a whole lot about them Japs a losin' lace. He said he bet they had lost some other parts of their anatomy too, before the Marines got thru with 'em at Guadalcanal.

I seen where Hitler was a worryin' about his worn out tanks. Well, they must of been some reason why our war dep't. took out on our guys in the fat and forty bracket, too. But even so, I betcha our worn out tanks is better'n theirs.

Aunt Mamie had a woebegone look yesterday and I asked her what was the matter. She was a 'ongin ter the good old days of washin machine, radio, refrigerator and automobile salesmen again fer some front door excitement.

I'll be a seein' you, Pal. Keep 'em fixin'

Yourn,

L. to R., Major Walter R. Lawson of Kissimmee, Fla.; 1st. Lt. Stuart J. Seborer of Washington, D. C.; Capt. Gus C. Henson of Moline, Ill.; and 1st. Lt. C. J. Thompson of Akron, Ohio.

Men of the 809th tank destroyer battalion at Camp Hood not only believe in fighting this war. They believe in paying for it as well.

The men have subscribed 100 per cent, no less, to the war bond drive for victory.

When the idea was presented to them, both the officers and the enlisted men lost little time in backing up the bond officer, Lt. Stuart J. Seborer. Lieut. C. J. Thompson's reconnaissance company led the way. There were forms to be filled out and night work to be done. Cpl. Edwin Brown and Cpl. Gerhard Tiller worked constantly, getting the applications completed and signed.

In each unit the men saw their progress on charts made by Col. William Paine and Pvt. Henry Wiener, just four weeks after the idea had first been launched, the battalion reached its goal. Every single man had pledged to fight the axis with bonds as well as guns.

Makeshift Substitutes FOR FUSES ARE Dangerous

Penny Used as Fuse Is Cause of Blaze

A penny, used to bridge a burned-out fuse, Monday was held responsible for the early morning fire that drove the family out into the street in night clothing and caused $1,000 damage to their five-room frame residence at West Daggett. Roof of the house at West Daggett caught fire as a brisk breeze carried burning embers to it, and firemen estimated damage there at $250. Assistant Fire Marshal Owens announced the cause of the fire, which was reported at 6:33 a. m.

A Blown Fuse Should Be Replaced Only With a New Fuse of Correct Size

The fuses on your electric circuits protect you from the hazards of fire. When a "short" or overload causes more electricity to flow through a circuit than it can carry safely, a right-size fuse will burn-out or "blow," preventing the wiring from overheating and protecting electrical equipment from further damage.

For maximum protection, blown fuses should be replaced only with new fuses of correct size. (15 amperes is right for most household branch circuits.) Never put a penny behind a fuse or use other makeshifts and never use a fuse of too large an amperage. To do so is to invite danger and costly damage.

It's a good idea to keep extra fuses of right size on hand and to learn how to use them, if you do not already know how.* Then you can restore service quickly without waiting for a serviceman. And you'll be helping to save precious rubber by eliminating a trip by a service truck.

WHAT MAKES FUSES BLOW

Blown fuses are usually caused by damaged or loosely-connected cords, defective appliances or circuits overloaded with too many appliances and lights. Before replacing a blown fuse, disconnect cord or appliance suspected of causing the trouble. Have it repaired before using it again.

HOW TO TELL A BLOWN FUSE

Notice thin metal strip under glass. If this strip or link has melted and shows a gap, or if glass is scorched and you cannot see link, fuse has blown and should be replaced with a new fuse of correct size. (If your fuses differ from type shown, ask for specific instructions.)

Dear Mat:

I have been promoted to Corporal in the U. S. Air Corps. I enlisted in December and after 29 days I was made Corporal.

I am now attending radiography school at the O'Reilly General Hospital in Springfield, Mo., a swell place if it doesn't quite par up with Texas weather. I am the youngest corporal here, at 18 years and 2 months. Tell the gang "Hello".

Dear Mr. Editor:

Will you permit an old friend to say "hello" to one and all thru your paper. I wonder many times about old friends and new and would like to know where they are, and if they are content with their new homes. As so many had to give up their homes and move away.

Will say we like our new home fine. Of course, it will never mean as much to us as the home we gave up in Camp Hood, but find there are some fine folks in Bell county. Our little home is located on the banks of the Leon river 1 1/2 miles south of Midway. We have 1,000 laying hens so it keeps us busy tending to chickens and too, it helps the war effort.

Word was received of the passing of Elehue Graham on January 15, 1943. He was the son of the late B. F. Graham and used to live in Coryell county near Eliga, but moved to Amarillo in 1908. He has many friends and relatives in Coryell and Bell county. I would like to see more letters from the correspondents that used to write the News.

Will say good bye, and wishing one and all prosperity, and may God's richest blessings be yours.

Hallie V. Hubbard.

Note: The News, too, would like to have more correspondence from the Correspondents. We're always willin' on that score—twice a week!

Nelle Goodall Weds Wendell Lowrey Rites Solemnized In Clifton Saturday

Miss Nelle Goodall became the bride of Dr. Oliver Wendell Lowrey Saturday evening at 8 O'Clock. The wedding was performed before a few close friends and relatives at the home of the bride's brother, Dr. and Mrs. Van Doren Goodall in Clifton. Rites were read by the Rev. John H. Newton, pastor of the Clifton Presbyterian church, and exchanged before an altar of white gladioli in tall white urns banked with palms, and illuminated by white cathedral tapers burning in seven-pronged candelabra. Mrs. E. Ellsworth Lowrey, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly" prior to the ceremony, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mamie Sue Halbrook, cousin of the bridegroom, who also played the wedding march during the ceremony.

Dr. Goodall gave his sister in marriage. She wore navy blue suit of original design, with white spring blouse. Her navy hat was a pompadour style draped with a waist-length veil and her accessories were in white. She carried a white prayer book upon which rested a white orchid and a shower of sweetheart roses. For "something old, borrowed and blue," she wore a pin brought from England to her maternal grandmother, and now belonging to an aunt, Mrs. C. L. Tubb of Valley Mills. Miss Frances Goodall of Odessa was her sister's only attendant. She wore a spring suit and a corsage of white gladi-

Chapter III

Well from somewhere Jack promoted a den of snakes and the Kid took lessons from the fat lady on lecturing on snakes, but two such imaginative, or should I say mad, people as Jack Tobin and the Kid could never be satisfied with such a tame existence as anything as legitimate and unremunerative an attraction as a snake show; why everyone who saw it was satisfied, but too few saw it as the average person seeking entertainment doesn't want to look at a bunch of snakes even if a young man, who to quote Jack

"has more nerve than I have and I believe has more nerve than you have, will take his life in his hands and go into that den of live rattlesnakes, Mexican boa constrictors, coach whip, black cannibal, and other reptiles too numerous to mention."

In grandpa's day yes, but today they want excitement, someone screaming, "Hold her down in there, the wild man jumping at them and throwing out ropes at girls to make them scream."

Well it didn't appeal to Jack and the Kid either, so something had to be, and was done.

"Kid," says Jack, one day,

"how'd you like to go west?"

"OK Jack, whatever you say, let's go."

And they did, arriving at a city in the Mid West, an ad was seen in the morning papers, Wanted: Young Man to travel with Show. Apply . . . ask for Mr. Tobin. An actor was in demand.

Quite a few answered the ad but one was finally picked, he rode the load out of town on top the canvas and near the snake boxes; a few miles out an awful commotion was heard, stopping the car and walking back to the trailer, Jack and the Kid saw the new Geek fascinated, looking at a small snake that had escaped, the Kid grabs it, opens the box, but not as wide as the new Geek's eyes, and puts it back in with the rest, and the journey is resumed.

Stopping for gas a few miles further on, the Kid walks back to see how the Geek was doing and no Geek.

So again Jack and the Kid are in the market for an actor.

Well Geek or no Geek, Jack and the Kid had to make a living so driving on they finally arrived in a tank town in North Dakota, and set up with a Gilly Carnival, but for once Jack's genius for finding actors didn't work, so what to do? Well knowing a pig's fear of snakes a young pig was bought from a farmer for two dollars, and put in the pit, the same opening was used, "She was brought here for the evolution trial when William Jennings Bryan, the man who so often ran for the Presidency of the United States and Clarence Darrow, that well known criminal attorney debated for a period of three weeks, trying to prove whether or not our ancestors sprang from monkeys or from a type of people just as you see here, etc." Strange to relate neither the Kid nor Jack were killed or even mildly injured, although if conversations could kill they would have both been very, very ill. Next morning the pig was sold for two dollars, and as the town was on the main line, a search of the jungles (hobo) was made and an actor found, and what a character he was, first of all he was crummy (lousy) and his clothes had to be burned and himself deloused, and next he was a shade, a very dark shade on the screwball side, it seemed that he was highly educated, but blew his buttons studying too much. He could tell the name of most of the planets by looking at them, and how many million light years they were away from the earth; and many a nite while he and the Kid lay on their cots out under the stars he'd tell the Kid about them, using highly technical terms which the Kid didn't understand and if he was wrong the Kid didn't know nor didn't much care; yeah he knew Astronomy all right but in most other things he had the mind of a child, and was girl crazy and age meant nothing to him, so he had to be watched just as if he really was a wild man. His clothes and shoes had to be locked in a trunk at nite, and many a big day his meals brought to him while he was in the pit, because if let out the Lord only knew when he'd come back and maybe between two or three big guys who might be saying something about rope, or a gang saying something about rope.

Yes there was a combination if there ever was one, Mad Jack Tobin, the eccentric Kid, and the Magnificently build Geek Dick.

Let's take a few of the happenings that happened while Dick was a part of the strange trio, as the Kid told them to me.

"Well Dick liked his job, we told him he was a great actor, playing the horror parts just like Lon Chaney, Boris Karloff and Bella Luguese, in fact we called him Bella, and also told him that, that was the way all those actors got a start, sure we were going to put him in Hollywood, he believed every word of it, and acted so much like a wild man that at times even the Kid darn near believed it.

Now, understand, the Geek was not the only one who roused, Jack on the ticket box and the Kid on the plank over the pit, acted just as wild or even wilder at times than the Geek, in fact I remember one time we were showing in a small town near Yankton, South Dakota, and two internes from the insane asylum after seeing the "show" remarked to me, "We have room for you three guys, so don't keep us waiting," sounded funny then, but I wonder.

Then another time in a North Dakota town, the Geek was in the pit dressed as usual in a red dress, wig, and red bonnet, growling and screaming in the best approved jungle style, and the Kid was explaining:

"She didn't want to come into the world but into the world she came, and there's where you find her, down there with the reptiles she worships as you and I worship our God, they claim that while they were searching for Paul Redfern, that missing aviator who left Georgia in 1927 in a vain attempt to fly to Rio De Janerio, they found an entire tribe of these people and they have it from good authority that Paul Redfern is a captive king of just such a tribe, the reason for believing this is, Paul Redfern, was a white man, came out of the sky in an airplane, therefor, it's believed that those simple minded natives thought that their Gods had sent them a white king on the back of a giant bird." Just then someone snatched the wig from the Geek's head, "Fake—fake" and soon the whole tip (crowd) was up in arms, the Kid jumps down into the pit, puts the wig back on, yelling, "A lot of people say that the old woman looks like a man, and that, I'll readily admit, but if you just remember that those people have been swinging from limb to limb and tree to tree and branch to branch, not for a period of days, months, or years, but from generation to generation, causing naturally the shoulders to become larger, the hands to become larger, and the biceps to become larger, making it therefore almost impossible to tell the difference from an outward appearance, or a physical aspect, the difference between the male and the female; people say she's painted and you know she has a wig, but remember when they opened the tomb of Old King Tutankamen, the ruler of ancient Egypt, they found rouge, powder, cosmetics and lipstick; taking it for granted that she is one of the most primitive of people, it is therefore believed that with them began the use of cosmetics, now if there are any questions anyone would care to ask before I throw in the chicken (yes they were back to serving chicken dinners on the hoof, I'd be only too glad to answer them." "Feed her, come on, hurry up, fake."

Bally!!

"Excuse me just a moment, and as soon as I return, in goes the chicken and off goes the head."

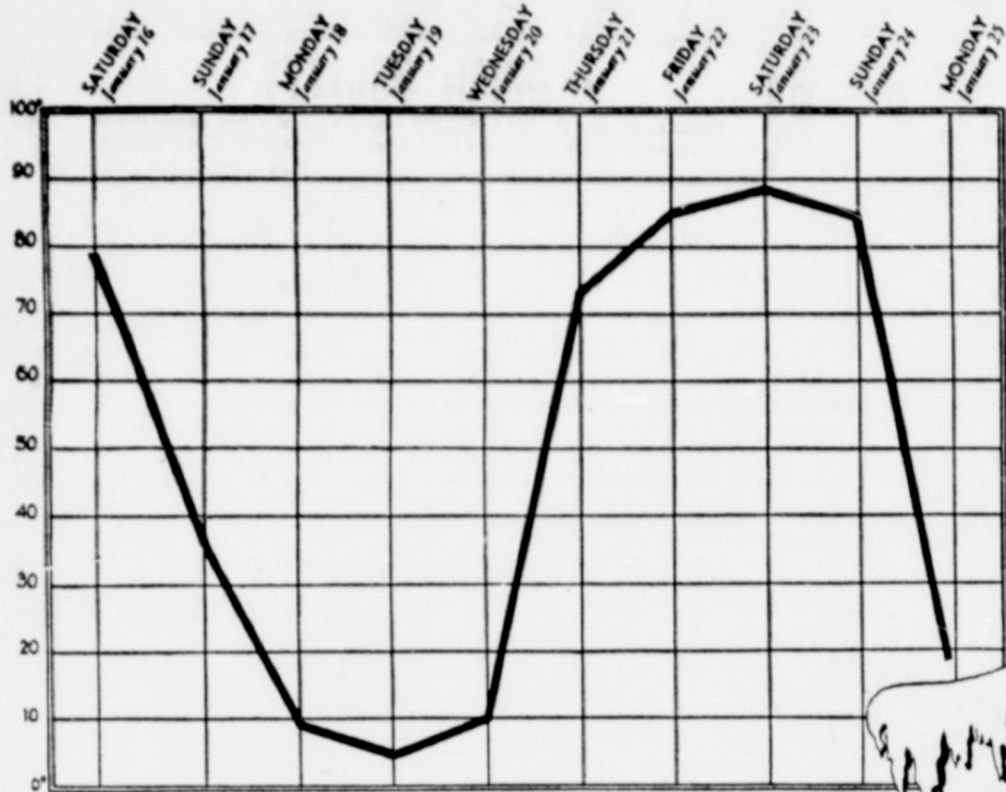

"OK Kid, you're sure learning fast, you're the best man I ever had; let's get a few more of these jerks in there and stall 'em, make her go into prayer, have 'em take off their hats, clasp, anything, but stall 'em."

"OK Jack, you're the Boss."

So after Jack makes the opening, the Kid again mounts the plank "now ladies and gentlemen before eating, the Old Woman, always goes into solemn prayer, and if you gentlemen will show the proper respect by taking your hats off while she prays, I'll then throw in the chicken," the men, businessmen, cow hands, farmers, all remove their hats and hold them over their hearts, and bowed their heads, while the Geek went through a gibbish, and made prayerful motions, This struck Kid as so funny that he couldn't repress a smile; glancing at him the men shamefully sneaked their hats on, to the amusement of the muscle heads (boxers, wrestlers) grifters and other carnies who it seems always find time to spend in the Geek show, after that everytime a Carny came in they'd whisper to the Kid, "Make 'em take their hats off; it became a standing gag among the fraternity, yes the Kid was "with it."

QUICK WEATHER CHANGES

Must be met when they occur with the teamwork of an organization like Lone Star's 4,500 Employees

Above chart shows the abrupt temperature changes during the period between Saturday, January 16, and Monday, January 25, inclusive. Period contains a record January day for HEAT and a near record day for COLD—88 degrees and 5 degrees. Dallas Weather Bureau Temperatures.

Recent reorganization of Lone Star transportation and distribution properties into one company makes for additional coordination of effort in meeting peak demands!

A drop of 74° almost overnight!—where else but in the Southwest could that happen? As the temperature drops, the need for gas service mounts until, for example, on Tuesday, January 19, the demand was over 100% greater than it was on Saturday, January 16. Such sudden and peak demands must be met when they occur. They cannot be prorated over the next few days or weeks. Few industries face the same situation Natural Gas does when a blue Norther suddenly strikes the Southwest with all its wintry fury. Keeping Natural Gas flowing from 75 different fields through a pipeline network of 4,800 miles in step with such abrupt temperature changes to supply the wartime fuel needs of the Southwest is a task that requires the special skill and experience of 4,500 men and women working together as a team. The work of each is important in maintaining the dependable, high-quality, low-cost gas service you know as Lone Star.

January 22, 1943
Dear Friends:

The committees have begun to consider the bills that have been introduced in the new session. This morning the Committee on Agriculture favorably reported out by unanimous vote the bill to include farm labor in the parity formula. A similar bill was passed by the House last session but died in the Senate. You will doubtless hear lots of this bill in the future as it is a matter of major importance. Its passage would not of course, give agriculture the share of the national income to which it is entitled, but it is so fundamentally fair and sound that I feel that our government simply can not afford to call on our farmers for increased production until this measure is passed. I am very hopeful that it will receive prompt and favorable consideration in both the House and Senate.

We also favorably reported a bill to require the Farm Security Administration and other governmental agencies that have sold homes to people, on long time, to allow those people to pay the indebtedness at any time they can. As I see it, the only reason for advancing federal funds for the purchase of homes is to help people become home owners. There have, however, been some governmental officials who have wanted to have as much control over everybody as they could. Therefore, these officials have done what they could to keep these purchasers in debt to the government, in order that the governmental bureaus might more easily control the lives of the people. I don't believe in this sort of thing. Neither does the Agriculture Committee of the House. We are trying by this bill to break up this reprehensible practice.

The House has held some very interesting sessions this week, but most of its work has been confined to the appointment of the committees. The regular committees were selected as usual by the two major parties. Each party selecting its allotted number of members on each committee. The outstanding incident of this committee organization was the effort of a majority of the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee (who nominate the members of other committees) to place the American Labor member, Vito Marcantonio, on the important Judiciary Committee. Mr. Marcantonio is generally recognized as the most radical man in Congress. He has publicly expressed his sympathy and admiration for the Russian form of government. I am perfectly willing for the Russians to have any form of government they want in Russia, but I don't want their form in the United States. Mr. Marcantonio was prior to the entrance of Russia into the war a most violent isolationist. Since that time he has changed his views on the war and has also devoted much of his time to creating bad feeling between whites and negroes. He boasts that he is going to pass an anti-poll tax and an anti-lynching bill at this session. I feel that he is totally unfit for a place on any important committee and certainly the Democratic Party should not attempt to honor a man who holds such views. I was, therefore, greatly pleased that the Democratic Caucus to whom all Democratic Committee nominations must be ultimately referred refused to approve the action of the Ways and Means Committee. I feel that it would have been an insult to the Democrats of the South had this man been seated on this committee as a Democrat.

However, the action of the majority of the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee in this instance should show the public just what those of us who want to restore this government to the people are up against. Another clear example is the recent coal strike. This strike was a plain violation of pledges of the unions not to strike. It was a violation of the written contracts with the coal mine owners. It was nothing short of open treason, and yet we have so far been unable to get either the President or a majority of Congress to even make the unions responsible for their acts. We allow Mr. Lewis's union to bind the operators and the workers with a contract which the operators cannot break without subjecting themselves to damages. At the same time we do not make Mr. Lewis or his union

THE DECORATOR'S CORNER

BY Betty Wood

Painting Wallpaper: Believe it or not, now you can get rid of that faded old wallpaper with a few swishes of a paint brush. No steaming or scraping or sizing is required and the room can be back in service the same day.

This decorating miracle is made possible by a new type of paint, a plastic-base finish that covers practically any surface and usually with one coat. It uses water instead of turpentine for a thinner, and doesn't have that pungent paint smell that oil-paints always have, and you can sleep in a room the night after it's finished.

Is Paper Tight? The only thing to be careful about is loose wallpaper. If the paper is loose you won't get perfect results, but the paper can be any design, any color, any age, any type. The new finish covers them all and its beautiful pastel colors make a room look larger, more modern and restful.

Known as Kem-Tone, the new finish is washable, dries in an hour, and doesn't show lap-marks. It comes in paste form, and you add a half gallon of water to each gallon of paint, thus reducing costs.

This new finish can be applied either with a wide paint brush or by a new device called a Roller-Koater. Consisting of a fabric covered roller on a handle, the new paint spreader literally rolls the finish on the wall with a richly stippled effect. When you're thru, you douse it in water to clean it, and you wipe off splashes from floor or woodwork with a damp cloth.

As for colors, the decorator has a wide choice of beautiful new pastels and deeper tones. Ivory, peach, light blue, light green, jonquil, pebble gray, Yorktown white are some of the pastels available, and no less than twenty-four "in between" pastels can be obtained by intermixing the different standard colors. These intermixes give you the same effect that decorators used to obtain by laborious tinting with concentrated colors, and they're so soft and subtle that you're less apt to have color clashes with your present furniture and draperies. For example, a grayed blue-green is very attractive because it changes tone under day and evening light and is an excellent background for either blue, green, gray or yellow furnishings. Most of these "in between" colors can be obtained by mixing equal parts of two standard colors.
