Business Picked Up For Everybody Even "The Law"

Headlining the events of this week are the hold ups, burglaries or hijackings at Clifton. Clifton Mercantile Co., is said to have been "pushed over" for $2,000., and they also got into at least 5 other business houses in Clifton. This was early Monday morning. Their first operation was kidnapping the night watchmen, taking him out in the country, pasted tape over his mouth and tied him up.

Then, home. Local officers picked up two negroes, Alvin Reed and H. B. Broadus, who, officers said, had 1 1/2 pints of liquor and they were booked on that charge. Saturday night.

B. M. Franklin, of Stamford was the other liquor hauler, so the liquor man says, and he was charged with having 8 cases and 3 pints Friday.

Then, there was that "window peeper" a soldier who was taken in by the officers and turned over to the MP's.

And, a drunk was picked up on the east side of the square and another was arrested for DWI.

A local negro had his friends on the Hill going, when he is said to have been brandishing a shot gun, and "declaring" himself, and naturally was taken in tow by the officers.

An automobile belonging to a man working at North Camp Hood was stolen and taken for a ride, and was recovered inside the camp.

E. T. Mayes Sr., is still "afoot", somebody connected his wiring in his car in his garage on S. 14th and took off with it early been heard of the car since.

Lt. O. H. Hagan, or Hogan, said to have been driving a car at 11:1 Saturday night, hit the back end of J. M. Sandlin's car, bounced, cut off a 10" in diameter tree, hit 2 more trees before stopping. Injuries were only slight, considering.

At 8:45 a. m. Saturday, a gravel truck driven by Seleso Fersybarra for Wilson Motor Co., was in a collision at Lover's Lane, head on with a six wheeler owned by the Southland Ice Company. Both drivers were slightly injured, and the gravel truck got the worst of it. E. J. Graves of Waco was handling the six wheel-

12,000 TROOPS WILL PARADE AT NORTH CAMP HOOD OPENING, MAY 29

Marking the fulfillment of plans made for the Tank Destroyer Center, the official opening of North Camp Hood will be at 2 p. m. Saturday, May 29.

On that day the public will have an opportunity to see Camp Hood at work with all training being conducted at full swing.

Special flag raising ceremony will be held at 2 p. m., followed by a road review of 12,000 troops on foot.

Four large bands will be massed at the flag raising ceremony and will play during the afternoon.

An exhibit of the tank destroyer weapons and a typical battalion area will be open to the public and visitors may drive around the firing range and see the kind of training which is given to the soldiers of the Tank Destroyer Center. Stands will be erected at the headquarters where the ceremonies will take place.

North Camp Hood will be the headquarters of the Replacement Training Center, and the Basic Unit Training Center, all a part of the Tank Destroyer Center.

Traffic to the North Camp will be routed thru Gatesville and down Highway 36. Also open to the public that day as an access road to the North Camp will be the Range Roads through South Camp.

BUTC MOVE IN

For all practical purposes, according to W. R. H. of the Temple Daily Telegram, North Camp Hood will be completely occupied this week end.

Construction on the big 35,000 man cantonment was due to be completed next Monday, so there will be a few odds and ends to be wound up after that time.

Indications are now, the camp actually will be turned over by Major Thomas G. Gammie, area engineer to Lieut. Col. Donald R. Dunkle, post executive, May 17. That was yesterday.

Completion of movements of the B.U.T.C. will be made this

MRS. F. A. THOMSON SR. OF TEMPLE BURIED HERE SATURDAY

Mrs. F. A. Thomson Sr. of Temple passed away at her home Friday after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Thomson lived in Gatesville until 1913, moving to Temple at that time when Mr. Thomson organized the Thomson Grocery Company there.

The body was brought here for funeral services and burial. Services were held at the First Methodist Church at 4 p. m., conducted by Rev. Roy Langston, pastor of the First Methodist church of Temple assisted by Rev. E. L. Craig. Burial in city cemetery.

107 Mile Hike

One battalion already is marching from Camp Bowie to North Camp Hood, and two more left Bowie Saturday.

They'll make 12 to 15 miles per day, or night, and will get field training and will arrive at NCH when all facilities are ready for them.

Sixteen battalions will make up the BUTC when it is at its maximum strength, with 2 battalions being activated each week and 2 being turned over each week to the Advanced Unit Training Center at South.

The 16,000 men in the other half of the new camp, those of the Replacement Training Center under Col. Walter A. Dumas already are pretty well established. The RTC is back on its full training schedule, reviewing more than 1,000 recruits per week and graduating more than 1,000 individual specialists.

Hospital to be ready. Some utilities aren't ready, the theatres and recreation halls are not complete, but the camp is taking shape in a hurry.

The 3,000 man prison camp has been completed and is ready for North Village, the civilian housing project of 580 units is not quite ready for occupancy. It is being increased in size and to it will be added a 272 unit trailer camp. This is in addition to the bachelor quarters—men's and women's units—which are part of the original construction project.

One group of buildings for one WAAC company is rapidly being completed, but a second group, just authorized in a separate contract, is just getting started.

Firing ranges already have been finished and are in use, and altho some units like the laundry and bakery still lack some of their equipment, Col. Dunkle expects them to be in operation in a few weeks at the most.

NORTH EAST WEST SOUTH

A SUMMARY OF WORLD, NATIONAL AND STATE NEWS

RAF BLASTS BERLIN

London, May 16 (AP).—Swift RAF Mosquito bombers attacked Berlin and other targets Saturday night, and Allied fighters, including American high altitude Thunderbolts, raked Adolf Hitler's Atlantic Wall positions Sunday in the rolling preinvasion sky offensive. Read it, now it's "Adolf Hitler's Atlantic Wall" and "pre-invasion sky offensive". Big worded journalism, i.e. bull.

U.S. BATTLES FOR ATTU

Washington, May 16 (AP).—American ground troops, apparently denied air and sea support by heavy weather, presumably are battling furiously against the Japs on rocky Attu in the Aleutians. More 'n likely, battling the weather, mostly.

WALLACE POPS OFF

New York, May 16 (AP).—V-P. Henry A. Wallace told a Central Park "I Am An American Day" rally Sunday that in every country he visited on his recent Latin-American tour there were millions of Americans at work in the service of the common cause.

STILL BATTLING LEWIS

New York, May 16 (AP).—John I. Lewis, of the UMW announced here Sunday the miners would not be represented before the War Labor Board in Washington Monday morning. Why don't they put him up for "Vag". No visible means of support. They will you and I.

BRITS BOMB SICILY

N. Africa, May 16 (AP).—A lull in the aerial as well as the ground activity has settled on the Mediterranean and its shores as Allied fliers and soldiers ease up in the interval between the violent battle of Tunisia and the next place of the war. RAF Wellingtons raided Palermo, Sicily.

TORNADO HITS FT. RILEY

Fl. Riley, Kan., May 16 (AP).—A series of tornadoes swept thru the western Kaw river Valley Saturday wrecking 41 frame buildings at the cavalry replacement training center at Ft. Riley and inflicted extensive damage on half dozen towns. 200 soldiers were injured and only 28 required hospitalization.

WOP KING ABDICATE?

London Sunday dispatch said today that it was believed one of the outcomes of the meetings between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill would be an offer for Italy to make a separate peace or "face the treatment and fate prepared for Germany and Japan."

REDS ERASE 1300 NAZIS PLANES

Washington, May 16 (AP).—The Treasury's desire to obtain a payroll tax of at least 20 percent was met by informed legislators Sunday as an indication President Roosevelt may not veto "ship-a-year" revenue legislation if it wins final Congressional approval. Poor devils, have to get along ever 2 or 4 years. Skip 1 year, pay 3 times as much, next one. Some system!

Aid to Enemy

"Any American who willfully neglects to pay his taxes on time or to invest every cent he can in War Bonds is surely giving aid and comfort to the enemy . . . We have a job to do and we are all called for service to our country. Our dollars are called to service too. Let us all ask ourselves, 'Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?' " — Secretary Morgenthau.

Gasoline Rationing Must Continue, Warns Ickes

THERE will be no relaxing of gasoline rationing restrictions for pleasure driving this year. Indeed the increasing consumption of gasoline and fuel oil by the military and war industry is draining our petroleum reserves faster than we have been replacing them. These and other enlightening facts about the oil situation are discussed by Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior and Petroleum Co-ordinator for National Defense, in the April issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine.
 "I wish I could make a prediction with respect to gasoline that would be popular, but I cannot," writes Mr. Ickes.
 Mr. Ickes gives a simple, lucid explanation of the oil problem and its importance to the United Nations in the current global conflict.
 In commenting on any possible Nazi fuel shortage, Mr. Ickes says: "I am not depending upon the evaporation of the Nazi oil supply to end the war soon, and I wouldn't advise anyone else to do so."
 He cautions Americans to expect a continued tightness in the gasoline situation.
 "The East Coast will be called upon for more and more supplies for ourselves and for our Allies," says Mr. Ickes, "not only in North Africa, but wherever else they may be fighting like Titans against the Huns. And barring discoveries of important pools that have not yet been made, California is faced with the prospect of having to import oil in the not far distant future. This would institute a further drain upon our Eastern and mid-continent supplies.
 "With the coming of warm weather, our primary duty will be to fill our storage tanks with fuel oil against the demands of next winter. This duty will be even more imperative than it was last summer. The use of gasoline save for the most essential purposes is out for some time to come!"

FROM North Camp Hood

Among the post department heads assigned to North Camp Hood's administration under Lt. Col. Donald R. Dunkle, are these:
 Lieut. Col. Clark, post surgeon, Lieut. Col. Byron Z. Hughes, quartermaster, Capt. Byron G. Kollenborn, post engineer, Capt. Vernon W. M. Lemens, personnel officer, Lieut. Rollin Teas, supply officer, Major F. F. Nolde, finance officer, Capt. Shull L. Irwin, adjutant, Capt. Frederick F. Heyle, provost marshal, Capt. A. D. Grossman, post exchange officer, Capt. John L. Denson, billeting officer, Major Maury L. Boykin, chemical warfare officer, Capt. Blake, special service officer, and Lt. David S. McManus, range officer.
 Lt. Col. E. W. Bacon, commanding officer of the Second Training Group of the Advanced Unit Training Center was promoted last week to the rank of colonel.
 Technical Sgt. Harold Eberhart of Chicago, in charge of the message center at Tank Destroyer School headquarters, reports that his younger brother, Donald, 18, was inducted last week at Camp Grant, Ill. The sergeant had also been inducted there. Private Eberhart is now at Camp Robinson, Arkansas in the same regiment, same battalion — and the very same company where Sergeant Eberhart had been trained!

Warrant Officer Roger A. Harris of the Tank Destroyer Center is putting into shape plans for a glee club to represent the post. He plans to gather together and train a chorus of 40 voices.

A patient in dental clinic No. 2 in the Tank Destroyer School area, might well be seeing double when, at the call: "Private Taute!" — two attendants, looking exactly a like come a-running. But the patient needn't blame his molars. From Erick, Okla. via Fort Sill, the Taute Twins, Ray and Roy, inducted and trained together, their serial numbers one digit apart, promoted to Pfc. on the same day were transferred to Camp Hood together and recently were assigned to the dental clinic—together.

Who Has The Money For 2nd War Loan?

"Where is all the money coming from to meet the 13 billion dollars of the Second War Loan goal?" is a question heard on many sides. It will come out of the 45-billion dollar surplus earnings of 1943, according to statistics reported by Treasury experts.
 During 1941 personal savings of individuals amounted to 9 billion dollars. During 1943 this surplus or prospective savings will increase by 36 billion dollars over 1941 when consumer goods were easy to get.
 Now that prices are high, thrifty people will make their goods last longer and place more money in War Bonds.

To Hasten Victory

No American wants this war to go one minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—it is imperative that every American do his part in the Second War Loan. There is an investment to fit every purse. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice offered by our boys in service. They give their lives — you lend your money.

Here's another from Cpl. Norris Graves Jr., who's at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., where he's in the Medical Corps of the Army. Norris is one of our "Exes", and we're always delighted to hear from them.

He writes: "Just a few lines to let you know that I have been permanently stationed at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. I graduated from a radiology school in April along with 39 other Air Corps boys at Springfield, Mo., and was assigned here upon graduation.

Really have it swell here as I am where I can get into St. Louis for all the baseball games. We also have our local league and teams here at the camp, and have been lucky enough to rate with the first string at short stop, of which reminds me of the days with Arnold Electric in the City League in Gatesville.

Guess most of the old sportsmen have started battling for Uncle Sam, and I'll close hoping that we all keep our averages up with the 'murderers row'.

SAMMY LILLIBRIDGE
An Original Story

What Has Gone Before

Jack Tobin and the Kid are touring the country exhibiting a "geek", or fake wild man. They have met many different types of people, some good, some not so good, Fat ladies, midgets, tattooed men, confidence men, wise men and fools. They have found that comedy and tragedy are very closely related. We now find them still at the State Fair, still exhibiting "Hilda" world's strangest creature alive.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Hilda Alive, wasn't faring so well financially, in the first place they had to set up on the independent midway which was out of the money; and those shows with the elaborate outfits down on the Carnival Midway, were just a little too much competition. Then to, with all the free exhibits, and free shows it really was tough, each exhibit tried to out-do the others by giving free ice water, providing seats, giving free movies, etc., yes this was big league stuff and Hilda should have never left the minors.

But Jack and the Kid weren't discouraged, if they didn't get it here, who knows the next one might be the one.

The Kid didn't much care as he'd long ago gotten used to disappointments, and besides there was too much to do and see here, to get much time to worry about not making any money.

Even the grandstand shows were different. At the small fairs the grandstand attractions were the same for the most part every day. One day was horse race day, the next day automobile racing day, the next thrill day, and so on, and while the show at the smaller fairs consisted of quite a few individual acts, at the State Fair an entire review was presented, just the same kind of show that you pay anywhere from two dollars on up, to see, the cast must have contained at least two hundred people.

Another day and the show was comprized of a nationally famous radio hill-billy show.

The horse races were the best available, and one or two of the races the Kid saw a girl jockey win. Who said that a woman's place is in the home? You should have seen this girl rider, all the home she wanted to stay in was the lead in the home stretch.

Then there was Thrill Day, and this particular thrill day was destined to turn out disastrously.

To begin with one of the features of the day was a jolopy race, old cars ten to fifteen years old, resurrected to make one more desperate try for glory, there were cars in that race that are no longer manufactured and few people ever think of their ever having been in existence. There's a great moral in those old cars, once they had been fine, new, sleek, shiny cars, the apple of their owners eye, they'd been pampered, boasted about, polished, but now, just has been, something to bring shrieks of laughter merely at their sight. Was it possible that we ever prized those funny looking junk heaps? I believe that there is the answer as to why young people don't listen to their elders, it's been the same ever since the beginning of time and who am I to criticize? I'm as bad as the rest we all are but some won't admit it.

Well as I started to tell you, in the first jolopy race one of the cars upset and the driver by some miracle wasn't killed but just battered up a bit, anyhow wasn't this what those people had come to see? It was called thrill day wasn't it?

Next on the bill was two troupes of driving fools. Fellows who drove cars up on ramps and hurtled them through space, drove thru flaming board walls, crashed two cars head on, and dived two cars together, poured gasoline on them and set them on fire, then driving at a terrific speed up a ramp, hurtled thru the air, landing on the two flaming cars, it's certainly peculiar what some people will devise and do to thrill other people, and incidently make a living; but I believe from what I've learned thru meeting and knowing those dare devils personally, that making a living out of those daring feats is secondary; they love the work, love to make parachute jumps, crash cars, upset them and roll them over while going at a terrific rate of speed.

The feature of the day was to be the Bat Man. A fellow who wore a pair of wings, who jumped from an airplane and soared around for a while like a giant bat, and then pull the rip cord of his parachute and 'chute safely to the ground. That's what he was supposed to do, but what he did is another story.

Jack and the Kid was standing near him and two girls were taking pictures of him. "That guy sure likes to have his picture taken," Jack remarked to the Kid. "Well it might be the last time he ever has it taken," the Kid answered, little dreaming of the prophecy contained in his words.

All in time the Bat Man was announced and introduced from the stage, and left to get in the plane from which he was to jump. Kissing the girl he was engaged to be married to in a few weeks, he climbed aboard, and the ship took off. It then circled in front of the grandstand and the Bat Man waived to the packed grandstand. It had by this time turned cloudy and rain was threatening, although the people in the grandstand, unschooled in aeronautics, of course, didn't get the full significance that an atmospheric condition such as this would cause what aviators term a low ceiling, meaning that a plane cannot fly as high as it can under more favorable conditions. The Bat Man had been warned of this condition and the manager of the Thrill Show had tried unsuccessfully to persuade him not to make the jump. The fellow who was jumping from the ballon had decided not to risk it, but no amount of persuasion could stop him. Those people had paid to see a show, he was paid to put it on and he was going to put one on regardless of the ultimate results.

Higher and higher climbed the plane and in the meantime on the ground men were riding motorcycles thru tunnels of fire, and crashing cars with apparently no thought whatsoever of life and limb.

One fellow when he attempted to crash thru a brick wall, broke his safety belt, the belt that was to keep him from jaring against the steering wheel, but it broke and he was taken to the hospital, where it was found that he had broken a couple of ribs.

Just as he was being taken to the hospital, those on the ground who had been watching the plane with the Bat Man, decided that he was high enough to make the jump, so, acting according to a prearranged plan, a fire was built in the center of the race track, to signal him that all was well and it was time for him to make the jump.

The crowd let out a roar and cries of "there he goes" arose as a dark spot was seen falling rapidly away from the plane, but something must be wrong, wasn't he supposed to soar like a bat? Well he wasn't doing any soaring, he was just falling, closer and closer he plummeted, end over end, then the crowd began to sense that something was wrong.

Cries of "Pull the cord man, for God's sake pull the cord," was torn from throats parched with fear and terror.

Women were fainting, men were screaming and cursing. Why? Why? Didn't he pull that cord? He was a young fellow, his whole life before him. Why in God's name didn't that 'chute open?

Still he fell end over end, and over end, until as was inevitable he struck the earth, and another person, just as the Gladiators of Rome, up to the present time, died in that pursuit of one of the oldest known professions, that of supplying amusement and thrills to the public.

The crowd sit for a moment in stunned silence, as people usually do after tragedy struck, and the Kid looking at those near him noticed a pretty young girl, who had bitten her lower lip through, and as the Kid saw her, lapsed into merciful unconsciousness, yet it was the girl the Bat Man had kissed just before he went up to make his fatal plunge, the girl he had planned to marry, as soon as he'd made enough money by jumping.

We humans seldom think of the consequences that those most near and dear to us must suffer when we undertake a dangerous assignment; she had to live, and during every waking hour and in her dreams, see a well known and well loved one's body falling, always falling, end over end, and wake up in the middle of the nite screaming, "Pull the cord, for God's sake pull the cord, My God why doesn't that 'chute open?"

Then the ambulance siren sounded and cut into the Kid's thought, and awakened the crowd from it's stunned state, cars were started and people were running toward the place he'd landed. The Kid found himself running to, funny how all these people just had to satisfy a morbid curiosity, they couldn't help the Bat Man, but they had to get there, just had to see him. It seems it's just human nature, a fire in the middle of the nite will attract thousands of people, smash a car on a lonely road and before you know it, you have a large crowd, funny animals these humans.

The next day there was a man there to take the Bat Man's place, he'd heard about it over the radio and wired the manager of the Thrill Show, that he'd heard of the fellow getting killed, and that he would take his place. He arrived the next day and there were more people crammed into the Fair grounds and into the grandstand that day than at any other two days of the fair, but they were doomed to disappointment, as the Fair Board put its foot down and would not allow him to jump.

He and the Kid became very stories and facts about Dare Devils and how that there were two cases on record of parachute jumpers surviving, although he sustained injuries, lived to tell about other landed in a safe way.

Another peculiar accident happened when a jumper's 'chute hung up on the tail rudder of a plane and the pilot headed for a river. He landed the jumper in the river all right, but instead of being killed by a fall he was drowned.

He told the Kid about jumpers arrying sacks of flour and tearing the sack open, leaving a white stream following the 'chute; and about a girl making her first 'chute jump and never pulling the rip cord.

Sudden death was an every day occurrence to these people who took a fatalistic attitude, if your number came up it just came up, but of course there was no use to take unnecessary chances. If it was going to happen it would, but try to stave off the inevitable as long as possible.

At that time there had been 14 Bat Men, and the thirteenth was dead. He was number fourteen, when would he get it? I wonder. That day the fellow with the ballon went up and made as nice a double 'chute jump (opening one 'chute and cutting loose from it, falling a ways, and then opening another) as has ever been

"Any American who wilfully neglects to pay his taxes on time or to invest every cent he can in War Bonds is surely giving aid and comfort to the enemy . . . We have a job to do and we are all called for service to our country. Our dollars are called to service too. Let us all ask ourselves, 'Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?' " — Secretary Morgenthau.
