Manpower Situation Worsens: More Go Into Service

A quota considerable number went to Dallas last week to be accepted or objected by Uncle Sam and his various jobs, but here are the ones he put his O.K. on and the local manpower shortage gets worse and worse.

These were the okayees: Gilbert A. Wise, Willard O. Sharp, Alton C. Huff, Moody W. Harper, Ernest W. Barrow, William C. Witt, Lawrence B. Coward, Rufus M. Holder, Jr., Jack W. Watson, Leslie B. Tippit, Jr., Kenneth R. Fry, Wayne E. Fleming, Albert J. Symank, Wallace D. Snoddy, William F. Puckett, Granvel L. Boone, Rex A. Lee, Joe D. Boone, Bennie M. Irvin, Kenneth R. Marriott, Billie C. Evans, Nelson C. Schmidt, Philip Robinson, William R. Russell, Travis T. Hagan, Willie W. Sheridan, Kenneth D. Malone, Elgin D. Ethridge, Turner L. Stevens, J. M. Johnson, J. D. M. Graham, Bernie R. Brown, Lawrence A. Newton, Cecil W. Davis, Denver C. Barker, and Jimmie F. Thompson.

CRIME IS BANKRUPT HERE: EVIDENTLY DON'T PAY

Jail about empty, one man picked up on a DWI charge on Main street by Sheriff Joe White, and was out Thursday on bond, and that's the crop.

State Highway Patrolmen had nothing to report, and from the city, it was the same.

Either a calm before the storm, or we're getting good, and, maybe something else pays better than crime, just now.

OPA RENT OFFICIALS TO BE HERE NEXT WEEK

Ike P. Robinson and William S. Kenyon of the Temple OPA Rent control office will be here next week beginning Monday to confer with anyone having rent problems, and to register property that is to be rented.

This will be for both landlords and tenants, and they will be in the District Court Room in the courthouse from 9 to 5.

WE DON'T HAVE $973,000.00 IN BONDS SOLD YET: THE ANSWER! BUY BONDS

County Chairman J. A. Painter tells us "rush 'em up", the time is short, and the bond sales are not too fast. With a quota of $973,000.00 we are still not near it. Something over $200,000.00 in bonds have been sold according to incomplete reports, and the final date, tho close, is not yet in sight.

Arnett has more than doubled its quota, coming in with the results just a short time after the bond selling opened, and Plainview has either doubled or just about doubled its quota.

No report has been given from other communities including Gatesville, but it's just not too nice to talk about.

We gotta whip up, and SELL and BUY these bonds: Banking reports are not too optimistic, and tho there have been some large buyers, the little buyers are not as many as is expected.

Of course, the quota is going to be reached, and in the USA the total has been announced as nearing the $15,000,000,000 goal.

But—

We're not doing our part!

Remember, the Fifth army is at Salerno—Coryell county boys are at Salerno. Other Coryell County boys are in the steaming jungles of the Solomons, New Guinea. Others are in Iceland, on the Aleutians, are in North Africa, are in England, are in Nazi and Jap prison camps, are flying fog, rain, cold, and Hell-fire over the hot spots (and we mean from AA guns, Stukas and Zeroes) over Germany, the French and Dutch coasts, over New Guinea. Coryell county boys, as John R. "Killer" Kane wrecked the Rumanian oil fields, blasted Hamburg and are in every bit of the war, and are 100 per cent.

Do you want them to remember WE are anything less than 100% back of them. Buy your LIMIT, and then, buy some more, BACK THIS ATTACK and, BACK IT NOW! Make the Quota, then, double it. That'd not be too much!

BOTH ENDS OF CAMP HOOD MEET HERE TONIGHT: KILLEEN-GATESVILLE

Looks like it's going to be a battle of the Hoods, or, just outside the "Hoods" when Gatesville High School Hornets meet the Killeen Kangaroos, at the local gridiron tonight at 8:15.

The Hornets, fresh from a 27-0 win over the Waco Kittens Saturday night past, have been put thru the paces this week by Coach Madison Pruitt, and they're keyed up and rearing to go.

The Kangaroos are said to have a fighting, scrapping team, and the fans are due to see a real battle between two teams who are rated a little above the average for early season play.

Last Saturday's game brought the fans out in big numbers and the "management" was very well pleased with the gate, and more and more are expected tonight.

There are special prices to soldiers and students, and the adults have a price of their own, but all that doesn't matter, if you are there, and now, with gas and rubber like they are, when they bring this great American sport to your backdoor, you can't help but get interested.

Coach Pruitt has not worked out any hard fast combinations yet, and every Hornet will get his trial under fire, and they say the Kangaroos can provide just that. It looks like a big game, and here are the probable starters for the Hornets. Quarterbacking will be handled by Frye and Edwards.

Ends: Whittenburg, Williams. Tackles: Gartman and Edwards. Guards: Copeland and Morgan. Center: Frye.

Backs: Henderson, Boynton, Lengefeld, Voss and Deavers.

You'll get your "names, numbers, positions, weights, etc., at the gate on programs that will be provided, and we'll see you all there at 8:15.

FROM North Camp Hood

A popular innovation in the WAC Detachment at North Camp Hood was the fudge party held recently, attended by more than a hundred enlisted men specially invited from the ranks of the Replacement Training Center there.

The evening started with a fudge making session in the WAC mess hall, with a hearty community sing enlivening the proceedings. Many of the soldiers then wandered over to the day room to dance play table tennis or just sit around and talk.

The WAC PX was open to the men, and, since it is conveniently close to the day room, was heavily patronized.

The informal evening was a well balanced affair Judging from the comments overheard, it is safe to predict that many future social events of a similar nature will occur.

The WAC day room is open to enlisted men who have been invited by the girl soldiers on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings weekly.

Second Lieutenant Jeanette E. McGowan has reported to the WAC Detachment where she is working with Lieutenant Elizabeth Stewart, Executive Officer, who expects to be transferred shortly, according to Captain Margaret M. Phillips, WAC commanding officer.

Lt. McGowan was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., and majored in psychology at the University of Pittsburgh, from which she graduated in 1938. She was a practicing psychologist in California and New York for two years and enlisted in the WAAC in September, 1942, receiving her basic training at Ft. Des Moines, Iowa, the First WAAC Training Center. The lieutenant attended WAAC OCS from January 11th to Feb. 23, 1943, and after receiving her commission she was assigned to the Second WAAC Training Center at Daytona Beach, Florida, where she was battalion adjutant, company executive officer and commanding officer. She enlisted in the new WAC and was sworn in as an officer in the Army of the United States at Daytona Beach on September 1st, and reported for duty with the North Camp Hood WAC Detachment on September 6th.

A well-founded rumor has it that a certain Coast Guardsman is expected to visit the lieutenant within the next few weeks with the avowed intention of changing her name!

—Buy Another Bond Today—
For thirteen years Private John

L. Crowder, of Barnesville, Ga., tended to his own business as a coal and feed dealer. Then suddenly the Government took an interest in him, and on August 13, 1943, Friday, Crowder was inducted into the army.

The Private had previous military experience behind him, for in cadet days in military school he served in Co. B, and later, when he joined the Georgia National Guard, he again found himself in Co. B.

So when Private Crowder landed in B Area at Ft. McPherson, Ga., after his induction, he began to have his suspicion; sure enough when he arrived at North Camp Hood he found himself assigned to Co. B of an Army Specialized Training Program battalion.

"Well, I'll 'B'—" says Private Crowder.

Our Soldiers Are Buying Bonds— You Can Do As Much!

Miss Leota Keyes, social hostess at the Leon Drive Service Club and one of the famous Keyes quadruplets, has announced her engagement and forthcoming marriage to Master Sergeant Robert Hall of the Replacement Training Center on October 15th. Recipient of many congratulations is the member of the "team" as she goes about her work of making the soldiers feel at home in their club.

Bonds Will Win The War— Back The Attack!

Private Francis G. McCorry of a Headquarters Company, Tank Destroyers Group, is among those in the Army who had an unusual job in civilian life. Private McCorry was a "pusher" on a New York subway. Among his duties was cramming the human "sardines" into a relatively small car during rush hours. Those who saw the movie, "Sergeant York," will recall the character "Pusher," another soldier who also shoved 'em in the subway "can" and put the lid down.

But Private McCorry's story is unusual in other ways. He was born in Northern Ireland, the twelfth of fourteen children, and his parents still live there. The first year after he arrived in America he made application for citizenship and now is a full-fledged American. On his last furlough he went back to New York and married blue eyed, pink cheeked and red-haired Ann Kelly who also has a pleasing brogue. Sure, and he'd like to take a crack at the Germans, making the trip via the auld sod!

THE LEAST WE CAN DO FOR HIM— IS TO DO MORE IN SEPTEMBER!

Here's what YOU must do to Back the Attack

Now, as America goes all out for the INVASION — your dollars must join the fight, too! For the very least you can do for your country — and for your loved ones doing the fighting — is to invest in MORE War Bonds in September.
 Think of Jim fighting with Eisenhower... or Bill with MacArthur in the Solomons... or Bob up in Kiska. They've given their pledge to fight — and die if need be — for their country. They're ready to go all the way.
 And we at home must see them through all the way, too! That means every individual in the country who earns a wage or draws an income or has accumulated funds must invest in at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond if he can possibly do so. Those who can, must invest more. This in addition to your regular War Bond subscription.

 Yes, the least you can do for your men in service is to do MORE in September. MORE in the safest securities in the world — U.S. Government War Bonds. But do it now — it's for the INVASION!

Hornets Hammer Home Quick Victory Over Waco Kittens

Gatesville High School Hornets opened the 1943 season Saturday night with a 27-0 washout of the touted Waco Kittens, and Coach Madison Pruitt had a good chance to try out the different combinations, as nearly everybody from the water-boy up, played and all showed class for an early season encounter.

Markers were made in practically every division of the game, and were badly outplaying the Little Kats thruout the game. However, there was considerable difference in the weights, and most of the markers were from the ground variety, only one coming from passes.

There were three attempts for extra points after touchdown, and all of these were made except one, and all made by running.

As for the Little Kats, they made a few passes to gain a little, but all of these gains added up could not even mark up a 6. A bunch of green tho, they proved to be a good opener for the locals, since they furnished enough, but not too much competition to enable Coach Pruitt to find out who was and who was not.

Waco newspapers actually said "Gatesville proved to have a strong Class A team, outweighing and roundly outplaying the Kittens" which is a whole lot for the neighboring village to ever say for a Gatesville football club. The entire team should get letters just for that.

Well, that's the first hump, but they're going to get bigger as the season goes, and the boys are going to have to show something more to keep in the win column. It's not all "the berries".

Voss-Melbern Wedding Is Held At Voss Home Tuesday Evening

Miss Sophie Voss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Voss, became the bride of Lt. Robert L. Melbern of Camp Lee, Virginia, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Melbern of this city, Tuesday, September 21 at 8:00 o'clock P.M. at the home of the bride's parents west of Gatesville. The Rev. E. L. Craig officiated, using the single ring ceremony.

The vows were pledged before a background of United States flags, ferns and baskets of white gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lace trimmed brown crepe dress with brown accessories. Her corsage was of orchids. For something old she wore a bar pin that had belonged to her paternal grandmother for whom she was named, and for something borrowed she carried a handkerchief of her sister's.

The bride's twin sister, Mrs. Savoy Lawrence of Oglesby, was her only attendant. She wore a tailored dress of light blue wool, brown accessories, and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Lt. Vernon M. Scofield of Austin, and who is stationed at Camp Lee, Va., was best man.

After the wedding a reception was held. Gladioli and rosebuds decorated the dining room and the lace laid table which also held a three-tier cake topped with a miniature bride and groom in uniform. The scene was lighted with white candles in crystal candelabra.

After a short wedding trip Lt. and Mrs. Melbern will return to Camp Lee, Virginia, where Lt. Melbern is stationed.

Since graduation from high school here, Mrs. Melbern has held a position with the Coryell County Agricultural Conservation Association.

Lt. Melbern also graduated from Gatesville high school, and received his B.S. Degree from A&M College of Texas in June, 1943, after which he entered O.C.S. at Camp Lee, and received his Commission in the Quartermaster Corps on September 17th.

A few close friends and relatives attended the wedding. The out of town guests were Lt. and Mrs. James T. Yows of Ft. Benning, Ga., Miss Audrey Kirkpatrick of Austin, and Lt. Vernon M. Scofield of Camp Lee, Virginia.

Chapter One

I dreamt I went to Manderley again, last night. I dreamt of Manderley, and saw the house once again in its great beauty — a thing of grace, exquisite and faultless. Its clean, grey stone mellowed by centuries, it looked down upon the bright gardens and trim velvet lawns which swept in terrace after terrace to the sea. Framed by the smooth grassland and magnificent trees, it surveyed the rich land which had been its own since Elizabeth reigned.

We can never go back there again. The past is still too close to us. But sometimes in my dreams I do go back to Manderley, and to the strange days of my life which began, for me, on the top of a cliff, in the south of France.

How different we are now, and how much time has passed since then! It is as though each of us can come to peace only after having endured the trial of fire and of our own particular devils, as we have. It is as though only in peace does each moment live its full, long life. He sits before me now, and his steady, well-shaped hands are peeling a tangerine in quiet, methodical fashion, and I remember him on the cliff's crest, in France. I knew then, that first moment, that he was in agony, was about to leave...

I saw him, from behind, and screamed; screamed lightly, to be able to at all, the moment seemed so desperate. He wheeled, and came away from the crest of the cliff.

Even then, in the light of day, his face was full of darkness and pain. There was light grey in his hair, giving his handsome face a

We spoke sparsely, half-gray and half-depressed, until he asked to know what I was thinking.

"I'm thinking that you know everything there is to know about me," I said, "but that I know nothing more about you than I did the first day we met."

"And what was that?"

"That you own Manderley and that you had lost your wife."

The car's speed increased. He said nothing, somehow tensely.

"I wish I were a woman of thirty-six, dressed in black satin, with a string of pearls!" I blurted.

"You wouldn't be here with me if you were." Then, to answer my empty, hungry look, he went on: "I asked you to come with me because I wanted your company. You've blotted out the past for me far more than all the bright lights of Monte Carlo. But if you think I'm just being charitable or kind, leave the car now and find your own way home! Go on, open the door and get out!" This was more than I could understand, and the tears came quickly. He gave me his handkerchief.

"And don't call me Mr. de Winter," he stormed on, half laughing. "It makes me feel more aged than I am. I have several first names — George Fortescue Maximilian. You don't have to bother with all of them. My family calls me Maxim..." I looked up at him, and was swept into his arms, to his kiss.

Mrs. Van Hopper very suddenly decided to leave for New York. We were to sail immediately. In the rush of preparations and packing, I tried frantically to reach Maxim on the telephone. Failing, I left everything and went to his room, and found him just out of the bath. I told him I had come to business that must have been mine when he was young. He spoke simply to me, and I hastened away down the road to the hotel. A minute later he was driving up alongside, offering me a lift, which I refused. He drove away.

When I returned to the hotel (the Hotel de Paris, as I recall), I found Mrs. Van Hopper in a particularly ugly mood and most bitter over the lack of well-known personalities at Monte Carlo. I was to be the employ of Mrs. Van Hopper, a companion, and I suppose I endured her sloppiness and relative snobbishness quite well. Not that she was my employer, but I was slight and very shy; she had few restraints before me.

After dinner, as we sat in the lobby, we saw him. I was terrified to see that Mrs. Van Hopper knew him; with some effort, she mobilized herself for a gushing welcome. As he made his way across the room, he looked right through me. "Why, it's Max de Winter," she whispered, and immediately poured forth: "Mr. de Winter! How do you do?" He seemed quite willing to avoid her, or us, but failed before her jabbering rush of talk. He was harpooned, and also, apparently, somewhat piqued; to be rid of her, he made several incredibly insulting remarks, which she well deserved but of course did not notice. When he had left she told me that his place, Manderley, "Couldn't be beat for beauty" and that she had heard he couldn't get over the death of his wife, who had drowned while sailing. The next morning, she came down with influenza.

The days that came, quickly, after Mrs. Van Hopper was taken ill, are to this day strangely without number. I can only remember how much I enjoyed them, and how much I came to life with them.

I can remember that first morning, breakfasting without her, and suddenly with him when he commanded me to join him. Then, the long rides to the shore and to the cliffs, and the excuse of tennis lessons to Mrs. Van Hopper, and how he spoke of Manderley, with a great and lonely love. On Mrs. Van Hopper's last bed-ridden day, which was my own last day of freedom, we drove for hours.

say good-bye, and of the hateful journey to New York.

"Why in Heaven's name go with her then?" he asked.

"I've told you — I can't afford to lose my job."

He picked up his clothes from a chair and went into the bathroom, leaving the door half open.

"Which would you prefer — New York or Manderley?" I heard him say.

"Please don't joke about it," said Mrs. Van Hopper's waiting. "I think I'd better say goodbye."

"I repeat what I said — either you go to America with Mrs. Van Hopper or you come home to Manderley with me."

"Do you mean you want a secretary or something?"

"No, I'm asking you to marry me, you little fool."

I sat dumfounded and feeling unreal, with my hands in my lap.

"But you don't understand," I said. "I'm not the sort of person men marry."

"What on earth do you mean?"

"Well, I don't belong in your sort of world — in Manderley — for one thing."

"I'm the person to judge whether you belong there or not. Of course, if you don't love me, that's different. A fine blow to my conceit!"

"I do love you! I love you dreadfully. I've been miserable and I've been crying all morning because I thought I should never see you again."

He laughed, and gave me his hand. "Bless you for that," he said quietly. "All right then — it's settled."

I begged him to tell Mrs. Van Hopper, whose restraint over fury and snobbish surprise when she heard, was remarkable. She was quite brutal and vulgar toward me when he left the room, of course.

That same day Maxim and I were married by the Mayor. We drove north to England, and to Manderley's great iron gates. Just as we were winding up the driveway — just before I first saw the magnificent house — it began to rain. The car was open, and my hair fell in wet wisps around my face.

Wartime Lighting Suggestions

HOW TO GET MORE LIGHT FROM YOUR PRESENT EQUIPMENT

Use Shades with Light Linings to Reflect More Light

If your lamp shades are not white or very light-colored on the inside you're losing a lot of valuable light. Dark colors soak up light like a sponge—in some cases as much as 30% to 50% is lost. Clean your lamp shades regularly, or if they're too dark or discolored with age, replace them with clean, light-lined shades that reflect light instead of absorbing it. You'll find you'll get a lot more light from the same bulbs.

HOW TO CLEAN LAMP SHADES

Parchment paper shades should be dusted with a clean cloth. Silk shades with fancy trimmings such as appliqued ornaments, and shades of shrinkable material should be dry cleaned. Plain silk or rayon shades can often (but not always) be washed successfully provided they are stitched and not glued. To wash, first remove all surface dirt with soft brush, then hold by wire frame at top and dip up and down repeatedly in lukewarm suds made from mild soap flakes. Rinse through three or four lukewarm rinses using same up and down dipping motion. Dry very fast, hanging in shade outdoors in warm, breezy weather, or suspending over radiator or stove, using fan to accelerate drying, in inclement weather.

Electricity
... is vital to war production. Use all you need but don't waste it just because it's cheap and isn't rationed.

SPORT SCRAPS

By Jones

Hornets vs. Killeen, Friday nite. And, in the SW Conference, it will be A&M vs BAAF, at College Sta., Ark.-Mo. Mines, Fayetteville; Rice-Randolph Field, Houston, SMU-Tulsa at Dallas, and Texas-BAAF at Austin.

In the Class AA of interest around here will be Waco and Brackenridge of San Antonio. Waco dropped one to Marshall last week by a handsome count.

And back in our own class, McGregor Bulldogs and Belton tangle up, and we'd guess there'll be Hornet scouts there to see what the Bulldogs are going to have. Coach Butter Laudermilk of Gatesville was singing the usual coaching blues last summer. However, McGregor always will deserve watching.

Back in baseball, and let us say, we don't see why that don't end before the football season. Why not the World Series in August. They lose a lot by not having it before the footballers start, and anyway, who cares.

Cardinals and Yanks look about the tops, but then, it isn't over yet. Anyway, soon it'll be a World Series, and watch our window. We're going to clean 'er up and get ready.

GATESVILLE STATE WACO STATE HOME SCHOOL MEETS

This p. m. at the gridiron of the Gatesville State School for Boys, you'll see some real football when you go out.

The game is the Gatesville State School for Boys, the Trojans as they are now known vs. the Waco State Home at Waco. These Waco Boys know the angles and you never know what the score's going to be when they meet a team. Game is called at 3 o'clock, and if you want a touch of football before the GHS-KHS game tonight, here's your chance.
