Life Of President Harry S Truman: The Chief

Introducing Your New President, Harry Truman

By The Associated Press

He was Vice-President, Harry S. Truman, until shortly after 3:35 (CDST) Thursday, April 12, 1945, when President Franklin Delano Roosevelt died at Warm Springs, Ga. President Truman was sworn in as president about three hours later.

Here's some background furnished by the Associated Press to the News, about your new President, Harry S. Truman. First he was born May 8, 1884.

"It was Harry S. Truman's idea to have a Senate Committee keep a watchful eye on expenditures as the United States hurriedly prepared for global war, and it was his as chairman of that committee that lifted him from relative obscurity to national prominence.

"When elected to the Senate in 1934 with the blessings of the Kansas City Democratic machine of boss Tom Pendergast, Mr. Truman was scarcely known outside Missouri. He came up for another term in 1940 after the Pendergast organization had been riddled by federal attack and its leader sent to prison on a charge of "bossism" as an issue, he ran as a New Dealer and won. It was in that campaign that he coined the phrase for himself—"the good right arm of the President".

"The quiet, bespectacled Missourian went to the Senate early in the administration of Franklin Roosevelt. He became one of the "silent Senators," rarely taking the floor and making few public speeches outside his home state. "He attracted scant attention at the beginning of his second

Summary Of Funeral President Roosevelt At Hyde Park Sunday

Taken from Associated Press stories in the "dailies," here's a brief summary of the funeral of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Watching with strained faces was President Harry S. Truman, members of the family, dignitaries of the government, sad-faced groups of plain people—the employees on the place and neighbors from the countryside.

"A detail of grey-clad cadets from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point fired a volley of three farewell salutes. A bugler sounded "Taps", soldiers, sailors and marines who had held an American flag over the casket folded it and handed it to Mrs. Roosevelt.

"The body had been brought to Hyde Park overnight from Washington, where funeral services were held Saturday in the East Room of the White House.

The Cabinet Supreme Court, representatives of other lands members of Senate and House, an dother high officials accompanied it.

Behind the cassion bearing the body, a negro cavalryman led a black horse draped in black, carrying saber and boots symbolic of Roosevelt's position as head of the nation's military forces.

It was 10 a. m. when the first gun of a presidential salute was fired from a battery in the library grounds to the east quarter acre of the garden. An honor guard lining the hemlock hedge around the garden stood at attention.

At 10:30 the national anthem sounded, and as the wheels of cassion noisily ground the gravel of the roadway, the notes of "Near er, My God To Thee", were played.

The Rev. George W. Anthony conducted the services, and took his position at the grave. The family followed, with Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, the second son, on the left.

Mrs. Roosevelt, her face wan and drawn, was on his right, and next to her was the only daughter Anna and her husband, Col. John Böttiger and behind them were the daughters-in-law.

The pastor repeated the Lord's prayer.

Services followed were the ordinary Episcopal burial rites for the dead. There were no words of eulogy only the word of God. Near its conclusion, the Rev. Mr. Anthony recited the poem written by John Ellerton in 1870: "Now the Laborer's Task is O'er; Now the Battle-Day is Past".

Shortly afterward, as the service was over, after a prayer, the crowd gradually melted away.

IMPORTANT "FATS" CAMPAIGN BEING PUSHED HERE

Them fats, the fats that make a lot of things the soldiers and sailors must use, are a very vital part of the waste collection business.

Right now, an advertising campaign is being carried in local newspapers, and we've investigated and found that you can take your fats to Gatesville Frozen Foods, and if you have a dead animal, don't forget to call Hamilton Soap Works. They'll come after it. This is very necessary.

So the city folks have done it! Well, WATCH OUR SPEED!

WORD comes from Washington that the fat-salvage problem has got to be licked in the small cities, the towns and on the farms.

We women have to save enough used fats in our kitchens to help make munitions, medicines, fabrics, soap for military and civilian use, and many other essentials.

The job, to date, has been done largely by city people, because arrangements for collecting the fats were made in the cities first. And these city folks are turning in more than twelve million pounds a month!

Now we're called on. And will the women on the farms and in the towns and small cities break that record?

Don't worry—just watch our speed!

HOW TO DO IT: Save all used fats in a tin can. Keep it handy to the stove. Scrape your broilers and roasting pans, skim soups and gravies, for every drop counts. Keep solid pieces of fat, as meat trimmings and table scraps, in a bowl.

Melt down once a week when your oven's going, add the liquid fat to the salvage can.

Take the can to your butcher as soon as it's full. He will give you two red points and up to four cents for every pound. If you have any difficulty, call your County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent. This message is approved by WFA and OPA, and paid for by Industry.

100,000,000 More Pounds Of Used Fats Are Needed This Year!

9TH AAF FIGHTER-BOMBER BASE, Germany—One's on his way out; the other is just beginning, but for the moment the red-headed McCorkles of Ames, are putting on a full-fledged brother act for the 373rd Fighter-Bomber Group in the skies over Germany.

Capt. Truman W. McCorkle, 22, is the old man of the act. He has flown 81 missions and over 215 operational hours with the 373rd. His brother 2nd Lt. Monroe McCorkle, 20, plays the juvenile lead He's just beginning his career as a P-47 Thunderbolt pilot and has flown five missions and somewhat more than 11 combat hours. Young McCorkle took his additional training in Belgium and is now in Germany.

Now, the two McCorkles fly together. The day old McCorkle led a flight, and his brother flew as a wingman. It was one of four days in which the 373rd swept down up on German airfields and knocked out Boche planes on the ground without loss. The first time the McCorkles flew into combat as a team, their squadron accounted for some of this score.

Old McCorkle strafed and knocked out two German twin-engine bombers, but young McCorkle made no claims on return to the base.

Said the junior member of the partnership: "I was too busy following my brother and making sure I was doing everything right to notice whether my fifty calibre were doing any damage.

"We were the top cover flight when our squadron went down on the field. I could see our Thunderbolts being shot at and it gave a funny feeling. Then we made four strafing passes. The Jerries hurled some flak at us on the first two passes, but I didn't notice much on the secon dtwo.

"Aside from the flak it was mostly like another training flight But I was constantly aware of being over enemy territory, always noticing the high number of American planes in the sky."

During one of the flights, the squadron leader said: "North-East of Dinslaken all the towns and even the woods are afire. Dense smoke rises to 7, or 8,000 feet. The roads have been bombed out—along with everyone else—but every once in a while you see a Kraut vehicle weaving around a bomb crater trying to head out of the area. Then you go down with eight gun barrels of 50 calibre ammo"

Pvt. Carroll J. Smith, 18, son of Mr. an drMs. W. L. Smith of

Rt. 2 Gateville has arrived at Camp Wolters IRTC to begin his basic training.

Pleas Walker was a visitor this week-end from San Antonio.

Here's The Details Wired Us By The Associated Press Thursday. Too Late

By The Associated Press

(NOTE: We would liked to have had this in the News along with the "flash" on the Presiden's death but it came just a bit late to be in our regular Friday paper, which is printed Thursday afternoon and evening.)

WARM SPRINGS, GA., April 12. (AP)—President Franklin Delano Roosevelt died suddenly at 3:35 p. m. Central War Time today of a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Commander Howard Bruenn, Naval Physician, made this announcement to reporters shortly after White House Secretary William D. Hassett called a hurried news conference to announce the death of the nation's only fourth-term chief executive.

Mr. Roosevelt died in the little white house on top of Pine Mountain, where he had come for a three-weeks rest. He was 63 years old.

Dr. Bruenn said he saw the President this morning and he was in excellant spirits at 9:30 a m

"At one o'clock," Bruen added, "he was sitting in a chair while sketches were being made of him by an architect. He suddenly complained of a very severe occipital headache (back of the head).

"Within a very few minutes he lost conciousness. He was seen by me at 1:30 p. m. fifteen minutes after the episode had started.

"He did not regain conciousness and he died at 3:35 p. m.

Only others present in the cottage were Commander George Fox, White House pharmacist and long an attendant on the President; Hassett, Miss Grace Tully, confidential secretary; and two cousins, Miss Laura Delano and Miss Margaret Suckley.

Bruen said he called Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntyre, Navy Surgeon General and White House Physician in Washinton and that McIntyre in turn called Dr James E Paullin, an internal medicine practitioner and Honorary Consultant to the Navy Surgeon General.

"Paullin was present when Bruenn gave the statement of the cause of death to reporerers of the three National news services.

Hassett gave newsmen the first announcement. News of the President's death spread like wildfire around the Foundation and atop an adjoining mountain where guests were gathering for a barbecue.

The President's late arrival for the barbecue caused some anxiety. A telephone call was put through and a few minutes later representatives of Associated Press, United Press and International News Service were told to rush immediately to the Carver cottage on the Foundation grounds for some news.

"In response to a question Dr. Bruenn said the President died without pain.

"News of the President's death spread quickly and caused many a tear among the 125 infantile paralysis patients at the foundation here.

"Mayor Frank Allcorn of Warm Springs was giving a barbecue at his mountain cabin this afternoon for the President and about 50 other guests. Allcorn was awaiting the President's arrival when reporters got word through the Army Signal Corps Radio Telephone and Summer White House telephone communication to rush to the Foundation.

"Miss Louise Hackmeister, veteran White House Chief telephone operator could hardly talk in her excitement to round up those who had to be informed.

"Tears and quivering voices accompanied the announcement of the President's death by Hassett.

"Miss Tully, Mrs. Alice Winegar, Hassett's secretary, and Miss Dorothy Brady presidential stenographer, sat tense on a sofa as Hassett gave the news.

"Mr. Roosevelt arrived at Warm Springs March 30. He had been underweight and his doctors wanted him to take it easy to see if he could not regain the poundage at which he felt comfortable.

"Rumors had been heard the last few days that the President was not picking up as much as his doctors would have liked.

"He received reporters last Thursday, and in the presence of Sergio Osmena, President of the Philippine Commonwealth, told of his desire to grant full independence to the Islands by autumn.

A FURTHER ON HAPPENINGS IN THE STATE LEGISLATURE

Representative Earl Huddleston
As most of you know the regular session of the legislature consists of one hundred and twenty days. We have already been in session a little over three months which leave only about thirty days more.

There have been several hundred bills introduced here in the Legislature effecting practically every kind of business and every person in the State of Texas. Under the rules, each bill must go to a committee, an any person in the State of Texas is entitled to be heard for or against such bill. So you can see it takes quite a bit of time to hear all of these bills. Then after the hearings are held and if the bill is voted out of the committee they must come before the House and Senate and again a full discussion is had on each bill. Up to date we have had hearings on many bills and quite a few bills have been passed, such as emergency bills for our schools, state institutions, our aged people, and veteran's legislation. We have also passed on a number of local bills for the various 254 counties in Texas. We have not yet passed any of the appropriation bills for the coming two years which require quite a bit of time and study I have always advocated getting through on time if possible. From the financial standpoint I do not care to stay in Austin; however I do feel that we should provide for the things which need to be done before leaving here. I also feel that we should provide to take care of the aged of this State and for our men and women who are serving in our country in this present war so I shall use all my influence to this effect. I will state also that I do not feel it is necessary to levy any new taxes at this time because according to the State Comptroller, we will have adequate funds to take care of all the things mentioned above.

Mental Hazard

Driving a golf ball over a pond requires a type of skill altogether different from lifting it across a like-size patch of green grass. I don't know golf but men who play well have made me understand the difference. They call it a mental hazard, and life is full of them. A mental hazard seems to be something that offers a threat but presents no actual hindrance.

Observation makes me believe that the magnitude of many world problems, currently discussed in print and on the air, creates a mental hazard. Utter bigness causes people to turn their thoughts away from facts that concern them vitally. Postwar planning is a good illustration. It is something that needs the serious attention of millions of thinking Americans.

Like Seeing Ghosts

I have heard several intelligent people recently talk as if postwar planning might be something outside of their world; a job for some mysterious committee of mental giants or supernatural beings. Actually, only a small part of postwar planning needs to be central planning. It is a job for us all and the sooner we start it the more promptly prosperity will follow peace.

People who imagine they see ghosts are harmed as much by them as if they really existed. People who get alarmed at a big undertaking and run away from their part of it, are in much the same class. Planning is for everybody with a job, every firm with a business, every family with a farm. Things are going to be different soon, and we will need to be ready.

Millions Unemployed

Spectres of unemployment shaped in the smoke of war are scary enough to frighten even the wizard statisticians who know how to tame wild figures. That street corner estimate: "20 million without jobs," is probably 25% high. America has 40 million people working now at jobs they can keep after the war. After the war, however, 55 million will have to work if the nation prospers.

The difference is 15 million. This many will come from our armed forces and from war baby industries; too many to be idle. Fewer job hunters than that made 1932 a very bad year. But (not counting the jobs that will die with the war) our industries are using 40 million people now and should use 55 million in peacetime. It does not divide exactly even, but call it a gain of one man in four.

Intelligent Guessing

Men who won the war, men from uniform and men from munition plants, are returning to peacetime pursuits and we must have work for them. Anybody can plan on a one-man scale. The first step is for each of us in his own shop or office to figure out about three things that might happen to his business when peace comes. Then line up these "could be" postwar changes in 1-2-3 order, the most likely one first.

Step No. 3: Plan what's best to do in each of the three cases. Try to make plans justify four workers where three work now. Nobody can plan for you. Nobody knows your business like you do. When war ends, every man should have quick access to his own deliberate thinking, and be ready to welcome peace. It is an idea for small business, but small firms normally employ 85% of America's workers.
