VARIETY CLUB TAKES OVER BOY'S RANCH MANAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Dawson, who have been in charge of Boy's Ranch at Copperas Cove, the home for boys from "across the tracks", have resigned, and the institution has been taken over by the Variety Club of Texas, which has appointed a superintendent.

In the change Mr. and Mrs. Dawson also sold their own home place to the club and were given what is known as the "Town House" at Copperas Cove, where they will reside for the present.

Boy's Ranch will continue at Copperas Cove, and the Variety Club plans to make a large home for unfortunate children there, carried on along the same lines underwhich the institution has been operated in the past.—The Copperas Cove Crony.

'SIAM'S' POPULAR BUT STILL LONELY

BERLIN—Siam, the 25 year old elephant bull who took up residence in the Berlin Zoo the same year Adolph Hitler moved into the German Chancellory, 1933, is still shuffling around in his compound there, but his eight best friends died in the war.

The eight friends, all elephants, were killed during the heavy air raids on Berlin, which together with the dwindling food supplies very nearly depopulated the Zoo, once one of the best in the world. There are now about only 200 animals left in the sorry ruins of a once gay and popular establishment.

Cages are all askew in many parts of the zoo. The heavy netting of the aviary was pierced in many places by heavy bomb fragments. Walks are broken and the

COMMISSION TO DEVISE A-BOMB CONTROLS

LONDON, January 21 (AP)—Creation of a special commission to devise controls of atomic energy was approved by the political and security committee of United Nations Assembly today.

This action was taken after Senator Tom Connally of Texas said the Commission will not have the power to make any country reveal its atomic secrets or to take any other action other than recommendations.

MARINES TO "STABILIZE" IN CHINA

750,000 CIO'S IDLE IN 30 STATES

By The Associated Press

The great steel strike—largest in the industry's history—was gaining momentum last night in advance of the 12:01 a. m. Monday deadline set for 750,000 CIO steelworkers in 30 states to leave their job.

No further government attempt to avert the stoppage was in sight. President Truman's 18 1/2 hourly increase was accepted by the union but not by the industry.

grass is untended. Nevertheless the zoo is open for business and both Germans and Allied troops are frequent visitors.

Peanuts are not forthcoming and Siam shows it. His thick hide hangs about him like a GI blanket. The elephant is now fed on a diet of potato peels and weeds. The good hay is saved for the zebras which have been losing weight lately. The rhinoceros likewise is on a diet of potato peelings and a poor grade of hay.

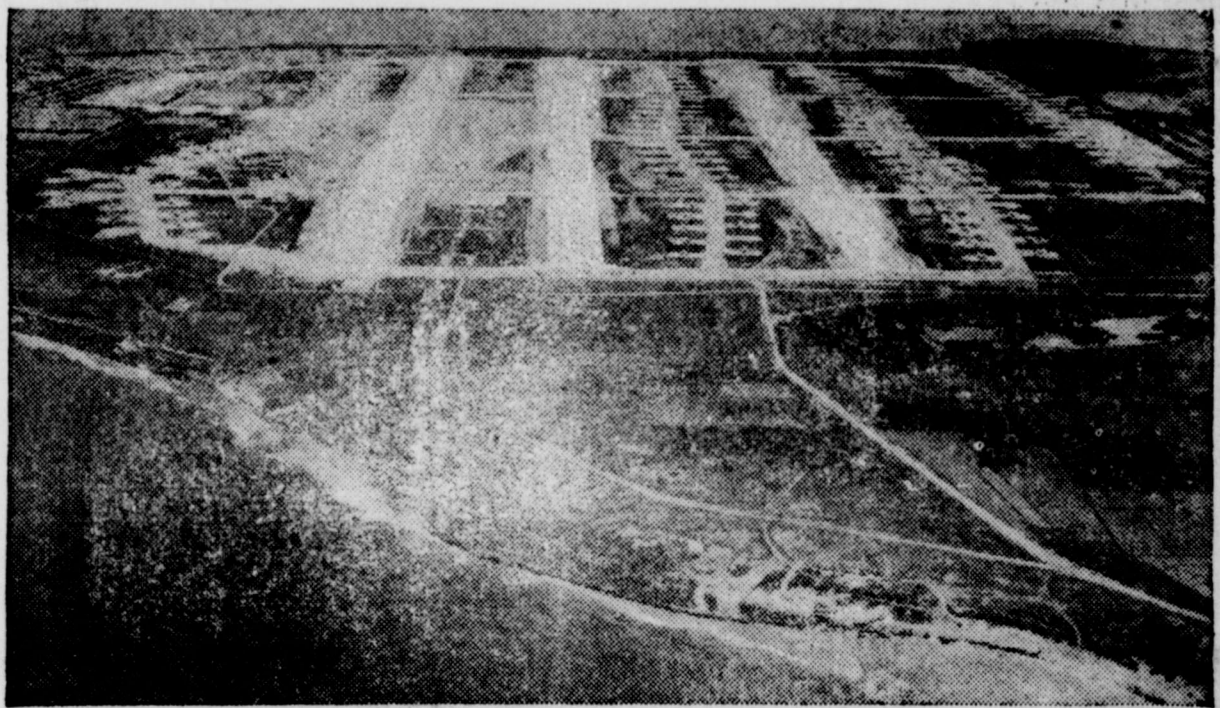

The parrots came through the rough days of the war in the best shape and there is a large and noisy selection of them. The monkeys are having a bad time. They are eating lettuce, cabbage, turnips and spoiled potatoes instead of the bananas, figs, dates, fruit and nuts they once got.

The management had to do away with the sea lions and penguins entirely because of their rich diet. In the old days, the keepers used to drop fresh herring into their big mouths at the rate of several hundred pounds a day.

HOHLE-WINKLER RITES

A marriage of unusual interest to many friends and surrounding territory was solemnized on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 6, at St. Paul Lutheran Church, of The Grove when Mr. Edmund Winkler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Winkler and Miss Edith Hohle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hohle were joined in holy wedlock, the Rev. M. J. Scaer, pastor of the church, officiating.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for their many relatives and friends.

The only saddening feature, signified also by a vacant chair at the table, was the fact that a brother of the bride, Staff Sgt. Charles Hohle, could not be present as he is among the occupation forces in Korea.

BRENTHEN-SILER

Last week through oversight, the Courier failed to make mention of the marriage of R. C. Siler to Miss Johnnie Brenthen, which occurred on Saturday, Jan. 5, at 4 p. m. at the home of Rev. Geo. Siler, Rev. Siler officiating.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Siler.

—The Moody Courier.

DYSON-GILCHREST

Othel Dyson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dyson, and Miss Ovena Velmore Gilchrest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gilchrest, were united in marriage at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the home of Rev. and Mrs. George Siler, Rev. Siler officiating. They were accompanied by two brothers of the bride, C. D. and Barnett Gilchrest, who witnessed the ceremony. The couple will make their home in Gatesville.

Plans to Produce Agricultural Experts at Bluebonnet School Revealed by A&M

Plans for turning the 18,500-acre Bluebonnet Ordnance Plant into a huge spawning-ground of experts in all agriculture fields were revealed yesterday in a brief of proposals to the RFC by C. R. White, president of the board of A&M college.

The college is asking that the plant and land be turned over to it for the welfare of Texas agriculture, the plant having been declared surplus by the government.

The brief proposes splitting the plant into six areas which would cover every phase of agriculture and indicates that dormitory facilities on the property can house 460 students in addition to residences for permanent personnel.

Actual Farming

Vocational training will be accentuated the brief explains and in addition to the regular students, the student farmers who will actually carry out farming operations on tracts of land, and student managers from the roster of A&M graduates, training will be given high school graduates who do not expect to enter college.

As an example, the brief states, "training may well be given in farm machinery repair, tractor and farm equipment operation, dairy and creamery operation, herd management of hogs, sheep, beef cattle, etc."

Student training, with particular reference to war veterans, will therefore involve classes for the 460 dormitory housed men, in addition to the training of married veterans who may be housed either on the project or as constructed with materials salvaged from non-usable facilities on the site.

Practical Learning

After a family had received its training, lasting from two to three years, additional families would be brought in to take over the school sites, the brief pointed out.

Therefore, learning would be practical in that theory classes would be carried on part-time, and actual farm operations carried on in keeping with the theory.

Also proposed was that a limited number of A&M graduates be given farm managerial training on the entire property, receiving a salary comparable to a medical intern and after service of two to four years, be placed in managerial positions with large planters throughout the Southwest.

DIVISION OF AREAS

The six areas proposed for agriculture land use would be:

(1) Approximately 2000 acres on which barn, livestock shelters, storerooms, shops, dormitories, classrooms, messhalls, field headquarters and laboratories are proposed for use in connection with an agricultural terminal training program, agricultural experiment station projects, and operation of demonstration farms. The area is also planned for pens and for feeding out cattle, sheep, hogs and large scale feeding demonstrations and experiments. The area would eventually, become the home of a model dairy and furnish students practical training in dairy techniques and management together with research in creamery operation and use of dairy products.

(2) Approximately 2,000 acres of rolling land, well adapted to range livestock and livestock range management. The portion which is bottom land, is planned for use of rotation pastures to supplement native pastures. It is contemplated that this area may ultimately carry 300 feeding cattle and serve as a basis for range management experiments and demonstrations.

Demonstration Farms

(3) This area represents four 500-acre blocks of land arranged as two sets of duplicates. It is proposed that one tract in each area would be set up as a test demonstration farm using accepted practices of the region while the other adjoining tract would be a test demonstration whereby fertilizers, rotation, soil-improvement crops and supplementary irrigation would be practiced for contrast.

(4) This is an area consisting of 4500 acres of Denton and Saba series soils as well as soils of the Grand Prairie region which are highly productive. It is proposed that this area be used for the production of pure strain seeds and feed to supply the needs of the A&M college system, in addition to serving as a source of supply for a statewide system of experiment stations as well as station demonstration farms and other supply sources in adjoining states. A portion is contemplated for use in the rapid expansion of basic seed stocks resulting from experimental developments of stations in other parts of the Southwest.

Sheep and Goats

(5) This area will consist of 2,000 acres proposed for experimental and development work with sheep and goats including breeding, feeding and wool and mohair production.

(6) Approximately 2,000 acres of deep soil proposed for school farm use on which classes of young men in training will conduct demonstrations in the use of farming techniques, in the production of crops and the employment of soil improvement practices. This area is also contemplated for use with horticultural research and development commensurate with soils, climate and rainfall of this region.

Extensive research activities in connection with the development of new plants as well as to discover uses for farm wastes are also planned if the occupation of the Ordnance plant by A&M college materializes.

Many Experiments

As an example, research on the isolation of starch from grain sorghums is contemplated, and other experiments to develop methods commercially feasible to produce ethyl alcohol, butyl alcohol, glycerol, lactic acid, butaline, glycol, acetic acid and other fermentation chemicals (either from grains or potatoes or what otherwise is farm waste) are planned.

On this project, comprehensive studies in research can be made with supplemental irrigation about which very little is known in the Southwest. An abundant water supply from wells is available, and studies to determine the increase in yields per acre resulting from addition of small quantities of the water a few times during the dry season will provide information on which to base newer farming routines.

Largest in Area

This tract of land, with its buildings and facilities, would be the largest combinations public owned, instructional research and extension activity for agriculture anywhere in the Southwest, the brief contends.

"Operated substantially in accordance with the above proposals its value to agriculture in the entire Southwest is more by far than the cost of the property or the appraised value of the property, the brief declares. "I fused for the single purpose of multiplying basic seed stocks newly-developed strains, the return in value to the Southwest might well exceed the cost of the property."

The Texas Agricultural Experiment now consists of 18 relatively small tracts of land scattered throughout Texas.

Well, Shut My Mouth We're Superstitious

KENT, Ohio—(AP)—Ancient superstition is the basis of the "Emily Post" rule of covering the mouth when yawning, reveals Dr. Daniel W. Pearce, head of the psychology department at Kent State University.

Centuries ago ghosts were thought to inhabit the bodies of everyone, Dr. Pearce explains, so persons covered their mouths to prevent escape of the spirits or entrance of other spirits.

Ghosts were also supposed to cause emotion, pain and action, the psychologist says.

Argentine Farmers Serve 4 Meals a Day

BIENOS AIRES—(AP)—In a new code of labor regulations for harvest hands, the Argentine government stipulated they could work from sunrise to sunset, but must be served four meals. For breakfast, the code ordered cheese and hot or cold meat; for lunch, soup, meat stew and vegetables; for the four o'clock break mate, a kind of tea; and for supper, soup and a meat stew.

Minimum wages from $2 per day for ordinary harvest hands to $3 for machine operators were ordered by the code.

Bahamas Make Bid For Silk Market

NASSAU, B. I.—(AP)—Silk worms and mulberry trees have been imported to the Bahama Islands in an attempt to make the islands a major production center for silk.

About 15 months ago the British Caribbean Silk Co. launched the project bringing in cuttings from Osigian mulberry trees in South America and planting them on one of the 29 islands. Plans call for more cuttings to be brought for planting on other islands.

The Bahamas semi-tropical climate is ideal for silk worm culture, and six crops of cocoons are harvested each year—four more than the number usually collected in Japan.

NEWSPAPERS BEST PROMOTION MEANS DEALERS ARE TOLD

Dallas, Jan. 16 (AP)—Newspapers were described as the best medium for retail hardware merchants to use in promotion of their sales by H. A. Lynes of Indianapolis, official of the National Retail Hardware association, in an address today at the convention of the Texas Hardware and Implement association.

"You just can't beat their pulling power" said Lynes, adding the warning that the retailer should be certain not to use newspapers which do not cover his potential market.

Sidney Latham, member of the Interstate Oil Company commission, was the only speaker of the morning session. He took the place of Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, who was kept in Austin by illness.

WOOL FOR SUITS CALLED PLENTIFUL

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—James A. Hooper, secretary of the Utah Wool Growers Association, says lack of wool and high wool prices are not contributing to the scarcity of men's suits. Hooper said "there is a burden some supply of domestic wool in storage in the United States and not more than $5 worth of wool is used in the manufacture of any suit, even if it costs $100 to make it".
