OLD TASCOSA LIVES

Again In Texas Newspaper-man's Book

LAUTHOR - NEWSPAPERMAN JOHN L. McCARTY of Amarillo is a native of Bell County and has many relatives still living in Central Texas. He is shown above autographing copies of his new book.

A new Texas book written by a busy Amarillo newspaper man and published this week with a record advance sale for many a Texan the adventurous story of the far panhandle country where "Maverick Town", the story of Old Tascosa, the history of four hundred years—from Coronado to Bay's ranch is telescoped into four swift decades of the rise and fall of the capital of an early day cattle empire.

As raw, rough and ready as any settlement of American frontier days. Tascosa boomed and busted within the memory of men now living and today is a ghost town with the winds whispering through the cottonwoods and around the old stone courthouse. But Tascosa is a maverick ghost town—still in the Tascosa tradition—with an epilogue as romantic as its frontier days. Old Tascosa now is Boy's Ranch, where Amarillo business men and ranchers, under the leadership of Cal Farley provide a ranch home and school for 50 underprivileged boys of the Panhandle area. The rugged old courthouse which once represented law for ten big Texas counties now is headquarters for a boy's ranch where the best of the old West still lives. But Boys ranch is another story, already told in movie, by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. A chapter of Maverick Town went into the picture for background.

The new book written by John L. McCarty of the Amarillo-Globe News, puts the author into the very front rank of Texas writers. His deep interest in the Panhandle country and his research, but above everything else his feeling and sympathy for the people who straggled in the early days of the Canadian river settlements enable him to catch the spirit and the color of the times for his lively chronicle.

In many respects Tascosa epitomizes the old West from Indian days, the open range era, the buffalo hunters, the coming of the ranchers, sheepman and cattleman, then the homesteaders. After them came barb wire, which changed the whole free world of the plains, from the piling up of frozen cattle on the drift fences, to the basic economics of the cattle business. Finally, the railroads—but first the talk of railroads—the hopes and tragedies of towns where railroads were to bring the realism of dreams of world contacts, and new prosperity. But for Tascosa, the railroads

The board approved a mock-up for chamber of commerce highway signs to be painted.

Dr. Gaines B. Hall Writes From His New Pastorate

Dr. Gaines B. Hall, former pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, writes briefly:

Dear Mat: I have just read the paper and enjoyed the News of Gatesville and Coryell County. It's good to read what you are doing in t hehome town. Thank you so much Am getting started nicely in my new work and like it very much. Of course, I miss the many friends there, who were so gracious during my stay in Gatesville.

Best of good wishes always, cordially yours,

GAINES B. HALL

Wonder if Dr. Hall could arrange with Walter Woodall and his Imperial Sugar Company of Sugarland to trade out a subscription to the News for a sack of good old granulated sugar?

Hamilton County Fifth Sunday Singing At Littlefield Church

The Hamilton County Fifth Sunday Singing will be held in the Littlefield Baptist Church Sunday, September 29 in Hamilton.

Everyone is cordially invited to be present at one o'clock in the afternoon, according to President Ollie McDurmitt.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cox of Daltart were visitors here this week. Mrs. Cox formerly lived here 49 years ago, and they were looking over the few old landmarks. Mrs. J. E. Knight of Wichita Falls, Mrs. Cox's sister was with them, on their tour of the town. Mr. Cox, who dropped in the News Office said they should have visited here sooner.

Carl F. McCutchen and Eddie B. Glass, Jr., graduates of Flat High school have enrolled in Temple Junior College. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McCutchen and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Glass respectively of Flat.

and barb wire spelled doom. The town was literally fenced in by the great stretches of wire running clear across the top of Texas. The railway from Ft. Worth to Denver failed to cross the Canadian at the easy river-crossing at Tascosa, where trail herds, cowboys, adventurers and traders rested in the valley before heading for Dodge City.

The conflict of the homesteaders the little man, as McCarty calls them, and the great ranching syndicates, the LX, LS, LIT, XIT and others, rung like a theme through the story of Tascosa. Law and order came slowly but surely, as to all the American frontier, but not until after adventurous days when Billy the Kid, wintered in Tascosa, the killings and the wide open life of bad men, big and little, which finally gave way to serenity and then eclipse by other boom towns on the plains.

Issued by the University of Oklahoma press with fine craftsmanship and illustrated by Harold D. Bugbee who adds new lustre to his name as a Texas artist, the book on old Tascosa is an important literary event in the Southwest.

It is indexed and contains 15 pages of excellent photographs.

Broomcorn Proves a Money Crop To Coryell County Farmers

Numerous reports from different sections of the County indicate that broomcorn is developing into one of Coryell County's best money crops. Cash returns of as high as $80.00 an acre have been reported. The Victor Wright farm at Turnesville netted $2800.00. From 35 acres. The price of broomcorn ranges from $275 a ton to $325, depending on the quality. Kansas seems to be the principal location if the concentration of broomcorn. It has been produced for years in South Texas and parts of Oklahoma. Broomcorn should be cured in the shade, not left in the field too long after pulling. The kind of seed and rate of sowing are two other factors influencing the quality.

According to a salesman who has made this his territory, farmers might increase their income by giving more study to methods of harvesting and curing. Coryell County has always been known for diversified farming and this high income from broomcorn will probably give this product its proper place in the rotation, according to Agent W. T. Graham.

CHAPTER VII

TED was restless. Waiting in line at the cashier's booth of a neighborhood movie house, he kept shifting from one foot to the other. Then he would swing his right foot, and then his left. Regi, who was waiting nearby, looked at him curiously, unable to understand it.

lobby and up to a door marked "OFFICE OF MANAGER."

"I'd like to report a loss," he said to the individual at the desk.

"Certainly. What is it?" The clerk picked up a pencil.

Calmly Ted planted his naked foot on the desk and wriggled his toes. "Six eight-and-a-half B. Black," he said. "And I'd like it delivered tonight . . . to Allen . . . 493 West 120th. I'm very much attached to that shoe. Thank you."

out of the room. But since his feet were not on the same level, his gait was slightly reminiscent of John Barrymore and his peg leg in "Moby Dick."

"Did you see a one-legged man come out of that aisle?" he asked Regi confidentially as he took her arm. When they reached the street passersby stopped to stare at his loping gait.

"This is terrible," exclaimed Regi after enduring the stares for sev-

"I'm sorry. I keep forgetting. But you must have a lot of friends that could give you a j.b."

"That'd be a fine friend that would give you a job," he jeered. "No friend of mine had better try anything like that."

"You and your ideas," she laughed. "You wouldn't give an inch, would

"Nope. Would you?"

"No!" she said after a little pause.

"I wouldn't give an inch."

As he spoke there was a knock at the apartment door downstairs.

"Oh, I nearly forgot," cried Regi, as she jumped up and started climbing through the skylight. "It's a surprise for you."

"Stay here, Regi," Ted pleaded softly. "That's the nicest present I could have."

She shook her head and hurried inside. When the door opened a porter from the barber shop trundled in a huge sun-lamp.

"Say, what's that? A lighthouse?" asked Ted.

"Take your shirt off and get under it," she commanded. "You're coming back from Bermuda soon and you've got to be sunburned."

"Will it hurt?" He eyed the contraption doubtfully. "You have to know how to operate these machines."

"Now, there's nothing to it. They told me at the shop fifty minutes on each side . . . or was it fifteen? Well, anyway, just stay under it till you think you're done."

"Nothing doing!"

"Are you getting undressed or do I have to undress you?"

"All right . . . all right." He started taking off his shirt and under-shirt.

"You'd better do something about looking up the time when your boat gets in tomorrow. Where's the paper?" Regi inquired.

"The only one in this what's the name of the whole business."

"No sign has been something of a success," Ted said as she read the paper. "Gee, man, I want to look at that sprouting pole."

Again there came a knock at the door.

"Four husbands, shee, man, man," said an utter from the theater.

"Say, that's about the tenth guy that's thought we were married," said Ted from under the sun lamp.

"Yes," Regi was moved but did not show it. "Funny, isn't it?"

"Not so terribly funny. I've heard lots of funnier things. We might make a darned good couple."

"Have you forgotten we're heels?" she asked scornfully. "You're not going to lose sight of your plans, are you?"

"Are you?" he answered, scarcely above a whisper.

"I suppose not." Her breath caught, then she straightened her slim shoulders. "Certainly not!"

"I'm not either." His tone became gay. "Well, we had a lot of laughs, didn't we, Regi?"

"Yes. We had a lot of laughs," she choked, biting her lips. Then, unable to stand it any longer, she added: "I . . . I'm awfully tired, Ted, and you've had enough of that lamp. I've got to go. Good night."

She ran out of the room as Ted looked after her in bewilderment.

Waiting at home, they went up on the roof of the apartment house to enjoy the fine spring night.

"Finally he purchased the lottery, and they entered the lottery and won a tiny sporadic check."

"How did you get that check?" asked Regi.

"I won it." He was concise.

"You couldn't get your feet wet up there like this."

"You couldn't? Well, I did."

"Your shoes aren't wet," she said, looking down.

"That's the socks. I just washed them. They're the only pair I've got."

"They made their way over people's legs to their seats."

"Now, take those socks off," whispered Regi.

"But they're almost dry. I can't feel them." He sneezed, looked at his companion, then bent down obediently.

When the show ended in a tearful and happy "clinch" they started to get up. Ted stopped abruptly and looked down.

"Wait a minute," he whispered.

There followed a desperate scramble to retrieve his shoes. Other people watching through the aisle looked at the two in wonderment.

"I've only got one shoe," panted Ted.

The Story of
The Sprouting Telephone Pole

Can you imagine a telephone pole that grows out the Jack's tabled beam-stalk? The tall telephone pole shown above did just that . . . only it did its sprouting in sand. The two poles shown in the picture are actually the same size and serve the same purpose. However, one was bought four years ago, the other this year. And this sprouting telephone pole is typical of the climbing costs of all labor and material required to provide you with telephone service. Will the pole stop sprouting? Who knows? But we do believe you should know how difficult it is to continue good service under present conditions of higher operating costs.

Hold the Line

The Office of Price Administration died officially on June 30, 1946. Before it had been inoperative ten days, everybody whose life and work were affected by it knew the nation had sustained no serious loss. Calamities that were supposed to fall upon the consumers of America did not happen. Some prices rose a little; others fell. The law of supply and demand was still working. It had not been on vacation.

In the building industries, among real estate and lumber people, timid home seekers had predicted the wildest of run-away prices because of the unprecedented housing demand. Everything necessary to make prices sky-rocket was present, but the crepe-hangers were disappointed. Industrial leaders went into huddles and resolved for moderation, regardless of pressure from eager buyers.

Returned to Life

The dead bureau was resurrected on July 25 by political pressure. One powerful factor was the influence of thousands of bureaucrats whose easy jobs were all but lost. Lame and weakened by legislative modifications, the OPA lives and has certain functions. But those 25 inactive days proved something: The longer we lived without the OPA the more useless it appeared.

Individuals who want to stay in government, whether they serve any useful purpose there or not, may be expected to keep on trying, during the next few months, to justify a supposed necessity for governmental price-fixing. In reality, increasing production may be depended upon to hold most prices down. Prices of some things will advance in spite of anything the OPA can do.

Look for Advances

In subsidized industries, where sharp advances were expected at first, operators are using moderation in making upward revisions. While industrial leaders "hold the price line," channels of trade are filling up steadily with new production and growing stocks hold prices down. Meat is only an example. Livestock hurries to market. Steaks and chops are on the menu again.

There will be exceptions! It is likely that the human race will never be free from opportunists ready to profiteer when there are no restraints and crafty enough to run black-markets when restrictions are in force. Maybe there actually was an unhappy couple in California on July 2, whose sandwiches advanced in price from 15c to 40c while they were being toasted. Anyway it was a good story.

Good Citizenship

We, the American people, are heirs of a dearly bought liberty. We have an opportunity to prove that we are worthy to inherit it. We can do this by a fair approach to every price problem. Whether we are manufacturers, marketers, or consumers, we have a part to play. We do not need anyone to play the role of dictator. Truly no price was ever fixed successfully by statutory law.

Consumers can keep prices right by shunning racketeers who play their customers for suckers, by patronizing merchants who appreciate their confidence and by refusing to buy unnecessary things. We should be slow to retaliate against price rises that are needful. If workers, especially, will let growing production adjust prices before calling for higher wages, it will go far toward hastening recovery for everybody.

Farmers Know What a Profit Is For

AS his own boss, the farmer has long since found out that a profit is not just an extra sum, above the bare cost of doing business, which can be used as you please. It is the main source of funds necessary to pay for a new silo, buy better machinery, and improve the house and the barn.

In spite of the great rise in income, farm profits are no more than necessary to keep the farm plant producing efficiently. It's the same with the iron and steel industry which makes the materials for the farmer's tools:

In 1945 steel companies had left, after meeting all expenses but before paying dividends, only a little more than one-tenth of one cent on each pound of steel sold. The profit on each dollar invested was less than five cents. Year by year since 1941, when the war started, earnings have been declining.

Although last year's output of steel was 19 per cent greater than in 1940, the last prewar year, pay rolls were nearly double but dividends were lower.

There are many misunderstandings and misrepresentations about profits. Some people forget that reasonable profits are a necessary incentive of the American system, which results in abundant low-cost farm products and abundant low-cost steel products.

It is up to those who know what profits are for, and what they can do, to see that they are not destroyed—and with them our high standard of living:

Steel mills need all the scrap iron and steel they can get. The shortage is serious. Farmers can get extra dollars and help increase steel output by sending worn-out machinery, etc., on its way to the furnaces. AMERICAN IRON AND STEEL INSTITUTE, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York 1, N. Y.

U S O Invites Public To Open House

Tonight, Tuesday, Oct. 1st, open house will be held at the local USO club for the soldiers stationed at our near by camps, soldier's families, GSO girls and the general public. Members of the Girls Service Organization will be hostesses and a large attendance is expected.

The regular Tuesday night club activities will be in progress. A table tennis tournament will be at 7:30 o'clock, bingo will be played, silhouettes will be cut, shell-craft will be made, and voice recordings cut.

Additional features for the evening will be a short concert by the 32 piece High School Band under the direction of Mr. Allan Allen; a program, USO on the Air, with John Anderson as master of ceremonies featuring a skit with Harry Flentge, an Ex-GI, being interviewed by a young soldier from Camp Hood; piano numbers by S-Sgt. Robin Graham of South Camp who has recently been presented over radio station KTEM; vocal numbers by a group from the High School Coral Club, accompanied by Miss Mamie Sue Halbrook; culminated by President Truman's radio address inaugurating the USO campaign for funds for operating through 1947.

The six young ladies representing the choral club will be Misses Helen Grubb, Doris Nell Ray, Lela Beth Fowler, Marjorie Swindall, Henrietta Barsch and Bettye White. Mr. John R. Colgin, Jr., will be in charge of the table tennis tournament, and Miss Maude Alice Painter assisted by Misses Thelma McGilvray, Truie Pearl McGilvray, and Bess Holmes will direct the silhouette cutting. Mr. E. T. Mayes, Jr., will arrange the radio and public address features. Special guests will be officers of North Camp, a group of GIs from South Camp and S. L. Price, County chairman of USO campaign.

After the formal program, Mrs. Anna Bell Chamlee will be at the piano for a sing song of old favorites. Refreshments will be served by GSO Girls. Dancing to recordings will complete the evening.

This party was arranged by Mrs. Mildred Campbell, director of our local club, in order that the public may see for themselves the operation of our USO Club which is now in its fourth year here, to provide a gala evening for the men still in uniform, and to give an opportunity for Coryell County folks to express their friendliness to these soldiers now making their home in our community. All senior volunteers who have served the men in uniform so faithfully through these past four years are especially urged to be present.

9 Injured and One Killed In Two Accidents, US Highway 84

Still taking it's toll is Old Bloody 84, and Thursday noon Johnnie Hoover, six, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hoover, was fatally injured and died before reaching a Waco hospital. Mrs. Hoover was the former Miss Mary Meeks of Gatesville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Meeks. Also injured in this accident was her mother, Mrs. Hoover, and Mrs. Studie Lee Payne of Waco, who was formerly Miss Studie Meeks of Gatesville. Hugh Albert Koon of Palestine, driver of the other car, and Ligon Phillip, Louis Flanagan and Marshall Bell were injured.

The accident happened, according to the Waco News-Tribune, when Mrs. Studie Lee Payne, driver of one of the cars, lost control of her car as she was attempting to get back on the highway, after slipping off in the mud. The car slipped too far over, and the other car crashed into it.

The second accident, late Thursday night, had as it's injured W. E. Mickle and Ernest Dolloff, both of Hamilton, who were taken to a Waco hospital after the car in which they were riding hit a bridge guard and plunged into a small creek a half mile west of McGregor.

Mickle suffered head injuries, and Dolloff got cuts and bruises. The car was so badly demolished Constable Billie Wheat of McGregor and Highway Patrolman J. D. Warren could not find the license plate until Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Torbett and daughter of Harlingen were visitors here this week with Mrs. J. S. Torbett, Mr. Torbett's mother. John E. Donaldson, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Donaldson of Flat has just recently enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps and is taking his boot training at San Diego, California. Funeral Rites Held Here Saturday For Little Johnnie Roberta Hoover

In the sanctuary of Gatesville First Baptist church on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, Dr. Lawrence Hayes officiated in the last sad rites for Johnnie Roberta Hayes, six-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Hoover of Killeen. For the ceremonies the altar was banked with beautiful flowers.

The cortege passed from the church to the Gatesville cemetery where the tiny white casket was lowered in the grave and the beloved child sleeps underneath a mound hidden by lovely, fragrant flowers. Pallbearers were friends associated with Mr. Hoover as employees of Southwestern Transportation Co.

Survivors of the child are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Hoover and a half-brother, Roys Vann Pennington, 14, recent residents of Killeen. The child is mourned by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Meeks, and three uncles of this city, Leonar, Manson and Raymond Meeks and an aunt, Mrs. Studie Lee Payne of Waco, and a number of other relatives.

The child and her mother had been visiting Mrs. Payne at her home in Waco, and were enroute back to Killeen when Johnnie Roberta's life was claimed in an automobile wreck. Her mother and aunt are still patients in Hillcrest Hospital at Waco, where they were carried for treatment following the tragic accident. The mother of Johnnie Roberta is the former Miss Mary Meeks, who was reared in Gatesville, and is known as a loyal and ardent worker in First Baptist Church here.

The sorrow stricken family and relatives have the sympathy of the entire people of this city and section of the country, and of Killeen, Mr. Hoover's life-long home town.

Mrs. Beerwinkle At Home To Members Of 84 Club For Thursday Meeting

On Thursday evening Mrs. E. G. Beerwinkle was hostesses to the members of the Thursday 84 Club at her home 1403 East Main. Beautiful lillies in artistic arrangement adorned the reception suite.

Following greetings the jolly company chose partners for the game tables, which were attractively appointed for the occasion. Following the awarding of score prizes, a delicious refreshment course was served to the guests, including all of the club personnel.

War emergencies slowed down the Campfire Girls activities, and the membership here composes only the group known as Bluebirds, who are girls between the ages of seven to nine years.

Four mothers will be selected as guardians of the Bluebird group and four other mothers will be chosen to sponsor the campfire girls, and for who will be advisors of the Horizon group, composed of girls of high school age.

It is explained that the Campfire organization is designed to include girls from families in every bracket of life, the wealthy, those of smaller means, and the underprivileged girl.

HORNETS WIN OVER BLOATED BADGERS WITH EASE: NEXT 'UN COUNTS

Three are over! At least, temporarily. They're Killeen, Taylor and Lampasas, but still, yes, still, we haven't won a conference game, and reports of our future competitors games, might stack up some trouble. Clifton didn't look so bad, McGregor looked worse than expected, and then, there are other teams, and let's forget about any of them but the WEST TROJANS!

And, as far as this just past game is concerned, here's the record, and let's make it that, and start concentrating on TROJAN activities, the game of the moment.

7:30 and the stands are full, almost, except for where the GHS Band is going to sit—the Lampasas band, sans uniforms, are already here. First home game, and a packed, jammed house, even the rail birds are sitting on the rock wall at north. The weather's cloudy, but so far, no rain. The banis are raising Cain, and the 1946 Football Season is under way, for the homefolks, and they said "Let's go" by reaching down for the old necessary, and they're parked in, around, on and under everything available, and now, it's just about that time.

Capt. Jack Bone of the Gatesville Hornets advances to meet Capt. Van Heatherly and the referees, etc., to see who takes what, and in a minute, we'll know, and Capt. Jack Bone, won and will receive and defend the north goal. The Badgers kick, defcnding the south end.

So, in just a second, here comes the play by play, as was originated for you by the News.

Gatesville Bees Win From Crawford In The Mud

Bees of Gatesville High School added another to their belts Thursday at 2 while we were slaving away, and the final was Bees 7, Crawford 2.

The Bees gave the Crawfordians the 2 in the first period when they were pushing them too close to the goal line, by the touchback route.

Then, after sloppy play in the mud, Joe Daniels carried from the 30 to the 5 yard stripe and Benton Gilbreath carried it over and also plunged for the extra.

They played on the Old Football field, and the starting line-up for the Hornets was Jim Manning and Raburn Crawford, ends; Lowell Bell and Kirby Crawford, tackles; Bill Blum and Robert Hord, guards, Gene Anderson, center; anl Backs, Joe Daniels, Benton Gilbreath, David Haskins and Bailey Moore. Our Correspondent didn't get Crawford's line-up.

SPORT SCRAPS By JONES

Next 'un does, and from here on out, that's the pay-off. West dropped to Rosebud 6-13, and Rosebud usually has something. We play West next. Then, Mart slapped McGregor 26-12, and Clifton knocked low Itasea 31-0, and Hamilton, we remind you, beat Hico 48-0.

Looks like we might have to have more than a reputation to top all these clubs. At any rate, let's concentrate on West Trojans who often times fool people, especially, stupid people who think they can't lose, but we don't think any Hornet is going to get that in his dome.

One game that slipped up on us, until we saw the score, was Lorena 12, Gatesville "C" 7. Why don't they tell us these things? It's practically impossible to stay in the shop nearly all time and keep up with three "local" football elevens, and then there are 10 clubs in District, 12 6-Man Football League, as announced by the Texas Interscholastic League, and it looks from this angle that this'll have to be the "Post-Card" League if we are able to give 'em and publicity like we'd like to.

And, if the local team, if it plays away from home, or at home, will send us a "penny Post Card" with the outline, lineups, scorers and any other pertinent information, we'll be glad to "fill in the blanks" a little, and put a "heal" on their stories. When the season gets a little further along, of course, we'll do our best to make a few ourselves.

In District' 12, that affects us, are Coppers Cove, Evant, Fairy, Flat, Jarrell, Jon esboro, Oglesby, Pearl, Pottsville anl Turnersville. A penny post-card from you coaches will do the trick.

Now we hear that Jarrell, and we believe, Oglesby played Friday or Saturday, and by the "Exchanges" 4-County Press, Evant and Pearl clashed the 27. On the Evant club are Aubrey Arnold, Leonard Limmer, James Millap, Douglas Brooks, Jim Ned Sawyer, William Wolf, Van Robinett, Garret Sills, Hershell White, Lee Doyle Millsap, Delton Trouett, M. J. Whitehead, J. D. Manning, James Brookshire, Thomas Earl Carroll and Robert Kreid.

In the "Big Time" SWC Baylor 16, TCU 19. (conference); SMU 7, Temple U. 7; Texas 76, Colo. 0; Ark. 2y, Okla. A&M 21; Texas Tcch 6, A&M, La. State 7, Rice 6.

Partnership
 Did you ever have a joint checking account with somebody? They can be handy things sometimes. So can a tin of gasoline in the basement, but both are extremely dangerous. All parties concerned must of necessity, have a co-operative understanding about how a joint checking account is to be used, how fast and for what purposes. Otherwise, one party's error might cause the other one trouble, no end.

I knew a man once who had a joint checking account with his son, who was a minor. The father didn't deposit all his money in this account. He didn't use it at all, in fact. It was just his way of guiding his son's early efforts to balance accounts and use money wisely. The idea was to teach the boy to distinguish between investing and just plain spending of money.

A Joint Account
 I wish all taxpayers in the United States could realize that they have a joint checking account with Uncle Sam. Moreover, I wish they might suddenly wake up to the fact that everything they have is in this joint account. If Uncle Sam's stubs are not balanced, or if Uncle Sam's checks are not all numbered, Mr. Taxpayer is certain to have to make it good personally when something "bounces."

Government can assess taxes to the amount of what government needs, or thinks it needs, and that's a matter of judgment. During the war our executives spent money faster than it came in, running the country's debt to 268 billion dollars. However wisely the debt was contracted, it will never be any smaller until government officials begin spending less than they collect from the people by taxation.

Balance the Budget
 There is considerable doubt whether those who spend and those who pay have a co-operative understanding about their joint account. They ought to see eye-to-eye. Victory was cheap, whatever it cost in money, but the unpaid portion still has to be met. Moreover the country's best economists think now is the time to start paying off the debt, while nearly all of us are earning good pay.

Recently I saw a summary of proposed federal spending for the next 12 months; a work-sheet from the 1947 budget, currently being considered. This budget can be balanced as certainly as figures can be depended upon to tell the truth. It calls for an outlay of 35.1 billion dollars to come from 31.5 billion of revenue—just 3.6 billion dollars in the red. Such a shortage need not exist.

Stay in the Black
 The deficit can be offset two or three times by economy. Most of the expense items can be deflated some. Such obligations as social security, veterans' benefits, refunds and the interest on public debt are fixed. They can't be cut. But there are seven other general classifications of expenses that ought to be deflated about 50 per cent, all told. If this over-draft can be avoided it's a duty.

Proposed expenses that ought to be lowered are these:

FIGURES IN BILLIONS

Items Might Be Cut	From	To
National defense	$16.0	$8.9
International finance	1.7	0.2
Aids to agriculture	0.5	0.3
General public works	1.1	0.7
General government	1.6	1.1
Suppl. appropriations	0.9	0.7
Proposed legislation	1.5	0.0

SYNOPSIS
 Regi Allen, a manicurist in the barber shop of a swanky New York hotel, has ambitions to marry a millionaire. Although Allen Macklyn, young millionaire paralyzed from the waist down in a plane crash, is intrigued by her, Regi has eyes only for Theodore Drew III, society playboy. Drew plans to marry Vivian Snowden, a wealthy society girl, after a short vacation trip to Bermuda. He misses the boat, however, when he gets drunk at dinner with Regi, and the latter has to put him up in her apartment for the night. Later, she discovers that he hasn't a cent, his father losing everything in the crash. Ted leaves the apartment in bewilderment when Regi refuses his advances. Meanwhile, Macklyn is making plans to marry Regi.

CHAPTER VIII
 REGI, wearing a robe over her nightgown, was sitting on her bed, smoking, and thinking, when there was a timid knock at the door.

"Aren't you going to come tuck me in?" asked a plaintive voice.

With a little hopeless gesture, she rose and opened the door. A few moments later Ted was tucked securely onto the couch. Regi pushed the chair to its usual position against the bed and turned to go.

"That's the last time you'll do that," Ted said softly.

"Uh huh." She looked down at him, her eyes wet.

"Just this once, Regi . . . please, for going away," he pleaded.

"That's a good reason." Her voice was even. She bent down and kissed him on the mouth. It was only intended to be casual but it lingered. Ted slipped his arm around her shoulders. For a second Regi hesitated, then her true emotion got the better of her and she pressed her lips tightly to his.

"Good night," said the girl huskily after a long moment.

"Good night."

She got up to turn out the light. Ted took her hand but she drew it away and pulled out the light.

"Regi," whispered Ted.

She did not answer, but hurried into the other room and closed the door. He sat up in bed and stared after her miserably.

"Ted!"

"Yes?" His heart was thumping.

"I forgot about that boat. You'd better look in the paper."

"Oh!" He tried to hide his disappointment. "Thanks, Regi."

He picked up the paper. The first thing to meet his eyes was a picture of Vivian Snowden, with the caption: "Bride of Near Future." Torn between Vivian and Regi, he lit a cigarette, puffed, then put it out abruptly. Finally he got out of bed, threw the paper to the floor and walked over to Regi's door.

"Won't you come out?" he called.

"I want to talk to you."

"Not tonight, I'm very sleepy."

"Are you in bed?"

"Yes," she lied with only a hint of hesitation.

"Please come out. I won't sleep. I warn you I won't sleep."

"Of course you will. Get to bed now. You have to be up early in the morning."

At her words, his eyes lowered speculatively to the door knob and his hand reached out. Then he checked himself.

"Well . . . good night," he said at length.

"Good night." Regi tried to make her voice sound sleepy. As she heard the squeak of the couch tears came to her eyes. She took up a cigarette, lit it and went to the window where she sat down, looking out. She stayed there for hours, smoking cigarette after cigarette.

Ted also spent the hours in darkness, thinking and smoking. Unable to stand it any longer he finally got up and stepped through the window onto the roof. In the moonlight he caught sight of Regi at her window.

"I . . . I wasn't sleeping very much," apologized the girl.

"Neither was I. I've been awake of your life, you'd have to scratch for a living . . . In a world you know nothing about. It's too late, Ted. You couldn't fit yourself to being poor."

"Other people have done it."
 "Yes. And there's no greater tragedy. With you it would be a thousand times worse. Marry the rich one, Ted," she finished as she pulled away slowly. "Believe me, from the bottom of my heart . . . if I were you . . . that's what I'd do. Good night, Ted."

"Good night," he answered dully as she went to the window and climbed into her room.

When she was gone, a set, resolute expression crept over his face. He went through the window of the sitting room and began putting on his clothes. This done, he found his shoes, slipped one on, then stamped sharply to set it right.

Regi heard the stamp of his foot. It jerked her out of her misery.

"In six months you'd hate me," she said. . . . "It's too late, Ted. You couldn't fit yourself to being poor."

All night. This is . . . swell, isn't it?" He looked up at the moon riding the clouds.

"It's . . . it's lovely."

He turned and looked down at her. She was exquisite standing there, her lips parted, her eyes reflecting the gleam of the moon. His hand reached out, touched her chin and turned her face so that their eyes met and held. His arms went round her.

"We can't." She shook her head slightly, her voice low and husky.

"There's a hundred million miles between us. We're not for each other."

"I think we are," he said quietly.

"In six months you'd hate me," she answered, meeting his gaze.

"Year in and year out, for the rest

Turning off the light she slipped to the door and opened it a slit. Through it she saw that Ted had finished with his dressing. He crossed to the outer door, then noticed the cat following at his heels.

"No . . . No, Kitty, you can't go," he whispered as, with a final glance at Regi's door, he slipped out into the hall.

Deflated, spiritless, the girl entered the empty room and looked out of the front window. A milkman, wagon and horse were the only occupants of the street. Then Ted came out from the apartment vestibule, walking quickly.

"Oh, you coward," sobbed the girl, her forehead pressed to the glass.

"Me-ow! The cat was rubbing against her in the cold grey dawn.

TRADING POST

By UNCLE BOB

Well Folks, since Tuesday's issue of the News, your writer has been "Walking and Talking" with some riding thrown in for good measure, keeping his good ear to the ground, gathering facts and a little "BULL" for the Old Trading Post column, put in most of my time talking to real dirt farmers and ranchers. Of course I talk to town farmers too, men like Monroe Murray, M. Blankinship, Bud Harper and lots of other good town farmers; they know how to farm. Just a few days since I had a very interesting session with Stewart Williams, owner of the Prairie View Ranch, one of the better ranches West of the Leon. Stewart always looks on the bright side of everything and of course gets a kick out of the little things that go to make life worth the living, was telling me about one of his friends inviting him out to eat dinner and as an extra inducement offered to open up a can of "Possum" and cook some Taters. Stewart said he took a rain check as canned Possum was a new one on him, said he had eat lots of "Hoover Hogs" Jack Rabbits to most people, during the Panic of the "30's" but canned possum was one for the book, I agreed with him.

Well it looks like the rich folks on Silk Stocking Avenue, Leon Street to you, have a drag with the City Fathers. They are getting their street paved while us small tax payers remain in the mud; Same Old Story! I reckon they just carry more water, politically, than us poor boys. Is it fair, we ask you; course we wouldn't criticize for the world? Woodley and Seth Basham of Pidecke, two of the best, if not the best, Fox Hunters in Central Texas, had a nice race Monday night, after six hours the dogs tired and they killed the biggest grey fox ever caught in Coryell County.

Speaking of rain, Bonna Martin, of Pecan Grove, says he has had too much rain, volunteer oats will have to be plowed up, before he can prepare land for sowing Fall grain, making double work. Talking with Mrs. T. F. Russell, formerly of Goose Creek, but now owning and living on the old Neutzler place, east of Arnett, she says they have had fine rains and everything is fine. She and her husband are real folks and we are glad to have them in Coryell County.

R. J. Hill, who owns his ranch on the old Hamilton Road, says he has had fine rains and his stock is doing OK. Lawrence Perryman of the Blair Settlement west of Ireland says they have had about two inches of rain and could use more.

Aunt Mary Cross of Flat (90 years young), was shopping in Gatesville on Tuesday. Saw Howard Lowry of Mound, mounted on his tractor pulling a trailer, on our streets, guess he brought a bale of cotton to the Gin. Howard keeps abreast of the times by using his tractor on the road as well as the fields. The writer accepted an invitation from two of Coryell County's Big Shot Ranchers to eat double-thick Porter House's with all the trimmings at a Cafe on Main Street, and were they delicious. Course we have good eats in Poverty Flats, that's where I live. We then went out to the Auction Sale on the Hill, they sold lots of cattle and the price as usual was high. C. P. Mounce, a real Dirt Farmer and held Friday at the Methodist church by Rev. Pat Brown, burial was in the Copperas Cove Cemetery. She is survived by a son, four daughters, five sisters and two brothers and a host of other relatives.

Mrs. Mike Hagerly of Burlington and daughter, Hilda Hagerly of Houston, Mrs. Ike Hunt of Cameron, are visiting their sister and aunt, Mrs. William Bell.

Mrs. Ted Hicks and little daughter are spending the week end in Lampasas.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Schorn At Copperas Cove Friday Morning

Mrs. Bertha A. Schorn, a resident of the Copperas Cove community for the past 58 years, died Tuesday, September 24 in a Lampasas hospital. Her last illness was brief. She was a native Texan, born in Winchester, March 9, 1876.

On March 12, 1898, Miss Bertha Kattner was married to Theo. Schorn, and the couple made their home for a number of years in Lee County, Texas. To their union seven children were born, of whom two died at an early age. Mr. Schorn preceded his wife in death, January 2, 1932.

Surviving their parents are Mrs. Julia Ritter, Mrs. Alma Kube, and Eugene Schorn of Copperas Cove; Mrs. Ida Ritter of Salinas, California, and Mrs. Lilly Weems of Leavenworth, Kansas. Other survivors are five sisters, Mrs. Fred Groth, Mrs. Fred Beckman and Mrs. Henry Kunkel all of Copperas Cove; Mrs. Henry Daudé, Lariat, Texas, and Mrs. Walter Schorn of San Marcos and two brothers, Henry and John M. Kattner of Copperas Cove. She leaves three grandchildren and one great grandchild. Mrs. Schorn is mourned by a large number of relatives and a legion of friends.

Funeral services were held at Grace Methodist church on Friday morning at 10 o'clock with Rev. Pat Brown, pastor of the church, officiating, assisted by Rev. E. E. Schmidt and Rev. W. H. Steinman.

Rancher, sold some mighty nice stuff through the ring, heard him holler P O one time. Don't know what that means, but guess the Auctioneer did for he laughed right out loud. Jim Saunders, of King, sold some twenty-five or thirty head as did a lot of other farmers and ranchers, as usual I got my jug full and went on the outside of the barn and watched Red Creacy Shoe a Horse, and can tell you all about good Horses if you will listen, might "BULL" you too.

I was afoot on the old Hill and wondering if I would have to hoof it back to the City, when along come that Prince of Good Fellows and Man about town, Harry Jones and gave me a ride back to the City in his new car. Certainly got the old Man out of a hot spot, sure appreciate the courtesy, put at the Locker Plant, saw George Wymer and Bilet Jones, Bulling each other, or would those boys Bull. Noticed Tex Ritter Scott holding down the Old Ice Plant while Judge Harry Flentge attended court in Waco. You can always count on Tex. Well guess I had better get this copy in for the Editor will want to Blue Pen-cil it before it goes to press.

Relatives Attend Funeral At Canton Of Mrs. Pauline Teel

Sorrowful news to many Gatesville and Coryell county friends of the young matron, Mrs. Pauline Jackson Teel, wife of Eddie Foy Teel of Canton, Texas, is that she died on Saturday, September 23, at 4:30 in the afternoon. Mrs. Teel passed away in a Wills Point, Texas Hospital only a few hours after the birth of her daughter, Patricia Pauline.

Mrs. Teel was a niece of Mrs. Painter, and among survivors in this section are her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Haley of Ames. She was the daughter of the late Tom Jackson, and her mother, Mrs. Jackson lives at Canton. Pauline Jackson lived here in Gatesville the greater part of her life as a member of the family of Mrs. Painter, and was loved as a daughter by her aunt. Her sweetness of nature and her exhalted Christian character endeared her to all who knew her as well as her relatives.

The bereaved family has the sympathy of all Gatesville people.

Burial was in Copperas Cove cemetery under the direction of the Wallace and Son Funeral Home. Christened with a dedication ceremony when only a few days old, Bertha Kattner united with the Methodist church while still a very young girl and her life had been exemplary as a Christian. The people among whom she had lived so long said of her that she was one of the best known women of that section of the state, where she was loved and respected by every one and the entire community of Copperas Cove feels sorrowfully the irreparable loss they have experienced in the sudden death of Mrs. Schorn.

so he and Mrs. Jeter have been traveling, mostly in Texas, but were on the last lap, and will go back now to their home city to "den up for the winter."
