

Texas high school coaches are the dryest conventioners we've ever seen, and you can rest assured your sons are in good hands when under the care of a Texas High School Coach.

Friday morning about 1 a. m., we began attending the Texas High School Coaches Convention, rather, Coaching School at Abilene, and we never even smelled the filthy stuff.

According to reports there were 1,049 coaches there from all over the state. There were also some 150 or more school football coaches, a bunch of coaches of the North-South Game, college football coaches, etc., etc., etc., and some 15 or 20 sports writers of the Texas Sports Writers Association, in the absence of President, George White of the Dallas News, Harold V. Ratliff of the Associated Press was the head knocker.

Almost had to sleep in the street since didn't know til 6:30 Thursday evening was going, and left at 10 to 8 for Abilene town, arriving at 1 a. m. at 35 mph. in the V-8 60, '37 vintage.

The N-S Game was the main attraction and 12,000 fans turned out filling Fair Park Stadium. "Him", meaning "Santone" Townsend was the "featured" player of the game, and the Odessa fans let you know it. They kept holler-ing: Let "Him" play. They didn't mean nothing but Townsend, and he's living up to his notices.

Coach Lloyd Mitchell was there, with his tribe, but they left for points west before we got to see them. Even missed the N-S Game which, as they say, "officially opened football in the Southwest this season."

O, you might be interested in the N-S score, and maybe you've already heard it was 4-0, the North on the heavy end. And, each boy was presented with a watch, and one boy, who inscrammage, didn't even get to go, was also given his.

We nicknamed this meeting the T-shirt Convention, because that's just about what every coach there wore. By the way, Jenkins of McGregor was there, and, there were others, we met, but they are rather numerous.

Mrs. S. A. Cole is ill at her home, 411 West Leon.

Wes Scott Makes Hall of Fame In Golfdom: Hole in One

Every golfer wishes for, but it's a rarity if he ever gets it, and that's "A hole in one".

Wes Scott did it, Sunday a week ago on No. 1 hole, a 200 yard shot from the tee and it made the cup in 1 flat. Most duffers, take 3 or more.

With him, and his verifiers were Judge R. B. Cross, Pete Patterson and Bryon McClellan.

Other notables in this acing of golfdom include Pat Holt, Tom Carlton, and Pete Patterson.

Miss Thelma McCarver, Miss Lee Patterson and Miss Evelyn Williams spent last Tuesday night in the J. W. Williams home in Jonesboro.

E. C. Farmer, J. F. Clarke and Ernest Cummings were named for the tax equalization board.

Sherrill Kendrick, appearing for the school board, requested the city fathers, to state what they'd collect taxes for Gatesville Independent School District for, with the District furnishing all the materials. The city made them a price, which has to yet be accepted by the School Board.

Warrants were okehed for a pick-up to cost $825.00, 2nd hand, and for a new motor for the distributor (asphalt pavement, that is,) was also given their blessing.

Then they okehed the payment of the current bills.

18 Tractors Break 57 Acres Stubble In 4 Hours, 25 Minutes

Speed on the farm, and, what a remarkable picture it would make. Eighteen neighbors of the Carroll Jayroe's, broke with eighteen tractors, 57 acres of stubble in four hours and 25 minutes, Thursday morning.

Mrs. Jayroe is very sick, and that is the reason the neighbors helped the family out.

The eighteen tractors and plows broke 22 acres in 25 minutes in one small field.

Included in the tractor owners were Ruel Johnson, Walter Huse, Eliza Wallace, Preacher Edwards, Bud Summers, Herman Sadler, Theon Hall, Blanchard Edwards, C. A. Tubbs, Bill Edwards, Mr. King, Bill Martin, Herbert Richter, Buck Gauer, E. L. Gatlin, R. F. Brown, R. J. Nettles and Carroll Jayroe.

That's farm mechanization of the first water, and we're still regretting that no picture was made. These men owned the tractors and equipment, but some of them had others who drove their tractors for them.

B & B Sporting Adds Gold Cup to C. C. B B League Playoff

In addition to the historic old cup, offered annually in the Coryell County Base Ball League, which started sometime before 1938, with the old News County Baseball Championship, the News Monday, received a spanking new GOLD cup for the Coryell County Champions of 1948.

The cup, is for a single year's achievement, and ought to make the 1948 scramble even more intense, and, with the added incentive of 30 percent of the net gate, things are going to be really looking up for the 1948 Champs.

Looking back oon the "Old Mug" we see, Jonesboro was the '38 winner, Pidcoke doubled in '39 and '40, and then came the war, and, in the revived and newly named, Coryell County Baseball League, Coryell City was the first Post-war winner, snagging the trophy for 1947.

Now, with the four league leading winners, or top hands, VFW, Coryell City, Turnersville and Seattle, who finished in that order, there ought to be a battle royal for these two trophies.

The schedule for the playoff has already been mapped by the Coryell County Baseball League Commissioner of Base Ball, John Frank Post, Jr. and unless unforeseen difficulties develop, it'll be "Play Ball" Sunday, August 15 for two double headers in what we believe will be the hottest play off in the history of cup competition in Coryell County.

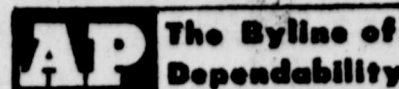

The NEWS wants to take this opportunity to thank publicly B. & B. Sporting Goods Company of Waco, a nice bunch of youngsters, for their donation of this magnificent cup. When you need sporting goods, and it's not in Gatesville, there's no better place than B. & B.!

Palestine Factions Blame U. S. Money

JERUSALEM, Palestine — The most amazing thing about the surging turmoil of this unhappy land is the general agreement among leaders of the warring factions as well as the sideline neutrals that American money is largely responsible for the bitter tension and extreme violence that has developed here. That is about the only thing on which you get an almost unanimous opinion.

"Well, after all, you know, you Americans are to blame for the violence in Palestine," I was told time and time again during three days in Palestine. The British almost shout it at you. The Arabs say it with a courteous but deadly smile. There is frustration and confusion in the faces of Jews when they try to explain that the Americans are to blame. The men of religion—Roman Catholics, Greek Catholics, Armenians, Orthodox, Protestants and leaders of the great YMCA establishment—sorrowfully denounce the violent desecration of the Holy City and tell you it would not have happened except for the stimulus of American money.

"What Americans and what money?" I wanted to know.

"Ben Hecht's money and President Truman's statements," to name two outstanding examples of American intervention in Palestine, was the quick reply.

President Truman's Statements telling off the British and demanding that refugee Jews be admitted to Palestine created a sensation here. The Jews were elated because they regarded it as a definite indication the United States would come into the picture on the side of a Jewish state in Palestine. The Arabs, who have lived here for a thousand years and who outnumber the Jews, were furious. Tension between the two races tightened hour by hour.

Ben Hecht got into the game and violence broke out anew. Hecht was quite a hero among Palestine Jews for several weeks, now he is almost as bitterly hated by the Jews themselves as he is by the Arabs. And President Truman—well, the Jews don't like to talk about him. He let them down.

They learned that his statement was purely for local consumption in New York where an election was on, and that he did not intend to do anything officially about the problems of Palestine. But the Arabs have not forgotten nor forgiven the American President.

Everybody here expected Hecht would fly back to Palestine and become an active leader in the "underground" but, when he chose to remain in the complete safety of his New York apartment, his stock dropped to minus zero.

This is not a two-sided affair. It is three-sided. The Jews and the Arabs are the aggressive contenders, but the Christian world with its great spiritual stake in the Holy City is taking a tremendous interest in the situation. And the tragic truth is there is a good case to be made for each of the three sides.

Through the leadership of the Zionist movement the Jews have converted parts of Palestine into a desert paradise. The achievements are little short of miraculous. Thousands of wealthy Jews have moved here during the last 15 years and have built beautiful homes and developed business enterprises. Nowhere in the world is there a greater contrast between modern and ancient life than here in Jerusalem. Life goes on in the old city behind the ancient walls exactly as it did when Jesus walked and talked among the people of Israel. But on the hills above the old city a new Jerusalem has grown up as a modern Rockefeller Plaza.

For 2,000 years Jews throughout all the world regarded Palestine as their homeland and when they returned they gave it new life, new industry, modern culture and ever-increasing betterment. They feel they have earned the right to make this their homeland and they are standing by their program.

But the Arabs have their just claims, too. They actually have lived here for more than a thousand years. Until 20 years ago they outnumbered the Jews five to one. Ninety percent of the fields and orchards were cultivated by Arabs. For centuries this has been their home and now they are asked to give it up or share most of it with Jewish immigrants. They cannot understand that sort of justice.

"Our people have lived here for 1030 years," an Arab leader told me. "Your own America doesn't want them. Germany drove them out. England will take only a few. The Jews of America, of England, of France and of all the important countries don't want them, but they want us to take all of them. It is politically and economically impossible. The Arabs never will agree to upsetting the population balance of Palestine in favor of the Jews. We still insist to the bitter end, and war, if need be, that Palestine be given its independence and that its citizens shall have the right of self-determination regarding its own domestic affairs. That is what you Americans always preach. Why are you so anxious to have these principles prevail in Romania, Bulgaria, and Yugoslavia and oppose the very same principles for Palestine?"

Another Arab leader, however, told me that "the return of the Jews," as he called it, had been a good thing for Palestine. "They have given our people work. They have shown them how to increase agricultural production. They are much better at business, finance and organization than we are. They will control Palestine, economically, no matter what happens, and it will be good for the country. If they would only agree to give up their determination for political control and agree on a reasonable number of immigrants we could live again in peace. Partition won't work. It will cause more bloodshed. I think if the Americans had kept out of this trouble we might have solved it, but now I don't know.

The British are in the exact middle of all the turmoil. Beset by sporadic outbursts of underground warfare, hatred by the Jews and thoroughly distrusted by the Arabs, the stolid British police carry on with cool heads.

British diplomats tell you the British must stay in Palestine to protect the Suez Canal, but everybody out here knows that oil is the reason why the British are staying on in the Near East. They were deeply angry over President Truman's outburst on Palestine and they bluntly declared that American money has financed the underground violence.

"You won't accept any responsibility, but you keep on butting in and balling up our job here," a British officer told me. "The stake of America and British is mutual in the Near East. Together we are trying to freeze the iron curtain. Then why can't you ment. This might mean start with conservation of the soil for the growing of improved crops with the use of improved machinery where the volume of production will justify. The line of better livestock and the improvement of all facilities for the housing of livestock and crops—in fact doing everything humanly possible to give security to the farm and to people who live on the farm. This cannot be done in a day, or a year, but it is encouraging to see the Chamber of Commerce taking a lead utilizing all agricultural agencies in trying to do something about this situation.

By County Agent
W. P. GRAHAM

County Agent W. P. Graham went to Stephenville Wednesday to sit in on a meeting called for the purpose of explaining the part the County Agent is supposed to take in the work in the Soil Conservation District. The Agent's job is education, and his services are available to the Board of Supervisors in the District to carry on any educational work that they consider necessary to promote the program.

Unfortunately too many people in the county do not know the workings of a Soil Conservation District. Space in this column is too short to go into full particulars, but will say briefly that there was a state law passed making it possible for farmers to set up Soil Conservation Districts. Such a District has been set up for Hamilton and Coryell counties as a unit. The District is governed by five supervisors. At this time Coryell County has two men on the board, Sam Powell of Gatesville, and Virgil Lockhart of Pidcoke. All legal business of the District is handled by the five man board. They together with any assistance they might use, outline the plan of Soil Conservation work for a particular year. Every farmer in these two counties is eligible to participate.

A 1949 Conservation plan as set up by farmers from each community will be given wide spread publicity; and everyone is urged to participate. Participating may not mean to get everything done in one year. You can participate by starting this fall by planting a soil building crop—winter peas, vetch, or clovers—using superphosphate to increase the growth. You can participate by starting a pasture improvement program. This might mean deferred grazing, reseeding of grasses, and cutting all cedar or other obnoxious vegetation.

COTTON

August with its hot sun is controlling many cotton insects which a month ago were playing havoc with the cotton. Poisoning insects at this stage may not pay. Farmers should make a count of the boll weevil infestation, and if they find that 25 squares on 100 stalks stung by the weevil, then poisoning might pay.

With the lack of moisture the cotton stalks are maturing. If you have small bolls falling off without being stung the cotton is pruning itself, indicating the lack of moisture to mature all the fruit. In some cases it would be done by lack of fertilizer.

If you want to raise good water melons you prune off many of the small melons and leave two to the vine. This is the plan used in many places where they produce commercial watermelons.

You sometimes pull some of the peaches off the trees in order to mature a good crop. Pecan trees and cotton plants do their own pruning when there is a lack of moisture or fertility. Don't mistake this process for insect infestation.

Agricultural Movie

The Gatesville Chamber of Commerce is to be congratulated on financing a movie which will portray the work being done in the county by progressive farmers. This film will show farmers of Coryell County carrying out what is considered up to date practices of modern agriculture.

There is a right and a wrong way to do everything. Marvelous strides were made during the war in industry. This was because large sums of money were spent by the government in research. Agriculture suffered during these times because many of the products, such as insect poison and fertilizer, were not available to use in demonstrations in research work. Since we have peace, or what we hope is peace, now is the time for every county to start a program of agricultural improve-

Few men have a more secure place in English literature than the patron saint of all fishermen... Izaak Walton... born 355 years ago this week; on August 9. In 1653, he published the first edition of his famous book, The Complete Angler, in which he pictured the delights of fishing and much of his own lovable and amusing character. For a quarter of a century, he continued to enlarge his book until in 1676 the original 13 chapters had grown to 21. Multitudes who have never put a worm on a hook, still turn to Izaak Walton's book, not for advice on the technique of fishing, but rather to enjoy its quaint phrases, happy quotations and the songs, poems and anecdotes of the kindly old fisherman-philosopher.

Focus-Week At First Baptist Church August 2 Through 6

keep your bally noses out of Palestine or come in and take the blasted baby? She is yours for the asking, I assure you."

There is no easy solution to the problem of Palestine. Each group is so sincere and devout in its claims and the justification of them. Basically the problem is as old and complicated as the complexity of religion itself.

It seems an utter paradox that violence over religious prejudices could spring up in this Holy Land this land where Moses laid down the first written rules for human behavior; where David and Solomon wrote their beautiful psalms; where the shepherds looked into the blue night and saw that "Heaven declare the glory of God, the firmament showeth His handiwork"; where the gentle Jesus taught the Golden Rule and the beneficent virtue of brotherly love. Practical application of the Golden Rule would solve the trouble, but that apparently is too much to expect in a land torn asunder by the imbedded prejudices arising out of the centuries-old traditions.

Following prayer meeting 20 girls called in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Travis McHargue for a slumber party.

Breakfast was served at 7:00 a. m. with Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Morton as guests.

Thursday, August 5, the group gathered on the church lawn for a formal mother-daughter tea 5:00 to 6:00. Music was furnished by the girls.

Friday, August 6, a lawn farewell party was called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Chambers.

The party given in honor of Miss Marie McHargue, who is leaving soon for Hawaii, where she has been called to do Christian Educational work.

Lovely gifts were received by Miss McHargue, and refreshments of ice-cold watermelon was served to all.

Shepherdess' Flock Inspires Her Poetry

IGNACIO, Colo. (AP)—The little woman in the big straw hat sat on a rock in the sun and scribbled on a pad of paper. Nearby a flock of sheep chomped on the high grass of a mountain meadow.

The open air scribbler was Mrs. Elizabeth L. Smith, a small-framed but hearty grandmother of 72 years, and what she was writing was poetry.

Mrs. Smith may or may not be the only regularly employed woman shepherder in the west. But it's an odds-on bet that she's the only one who writes verse and once had a go at shipbuilding.

Mrs. Smith lives with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barnett, who run a sheep ranch on the Southern Ute Indian reservation five miles north of Ignacio.

"I enjoy scribbling verses when I'm out here with the sheep", she said, "but I'm getting lazy about it lately."

The verse writing goes back 34 years to a time shortly after Mrs. Smith first came to Colorado. One day a dog sprang upon one of her sheep. In breaking up the unequal battle, she had several ribs cracked. She says she was laid up for several weeks and took to writing jingles to pass time away.

Shortly after the first World War, Mrs. Smith took a home-stand site near Ignacio and "proved up" on it after several years bone-tiring work.

She got restless during the last war and did a hitch in the machine shop of a shipyard in Oregon.

Mrs. Bernice Chambers had her tonsils removed last Wednesday.

The Texas Poll

The Statewide Survey of Public Opinion

By JOE BELDEN,
Director, The Texas Poll

AUSTIN, Texas, August 7.—In Texas politics, at least, it is geography, not class consciousness, that has a telling influence on how people vote.

Repeated surveys by The Texas Poll tend to discount the theory held by some politicians that the poor are inclined to support one candidate while the upper classes line up behind another. There seems to be no more foundation for this theory than for the belief that most men are likely to prefer one candidate while women go for another.

In the U. S. Senate race, it now can be shown that the division of voters is about the same among men and women, upper and lower classes, veterans and non-veterans, labor and non-labor voters, as it is among the general public. Each of the leading candidates drew his support not primarily from certain classes of voters, but in about the same proportion from all classes.

Take the case of Coke Stevenson, who placed first in the July 24 primary. While Stevenson is not a veteran, he received almost the same percentage of votes from the veterans that he did from the entire electorate. This he did even though it was constantly being emphasized that his two principal opponents, Lyndon Johnson and George Peddy, are war veterans.

In bidding for the labor vote Stevenson won the endorsement of the State Federation of Labor and for this was bitterly criticized by his opponents. But it is now clear that the labor vote did not go overwhelmingly for Stevenson. From labor union members and their immediate families, Stevenson polled less than a majority of the votes.

The Texas Poll is able to disclose these findings because its pre-election measurement of Stevenson's strength, based on a cross-section of all classes of voters in all parts of the state, coincided almost exactly with election returns:

Stevenson's Strength
Pre-election poll 40.1%
Election returns 39.7

Difference 0.4
Since the poll measured Stevenson's strength within a margin of one-half of one percent, it is assumed that a breakdown of the survey results will show how various classes of people actually voted. The figures below show, for instance, that of all men voters, Stevenson polled 39 percent, and of all the women, he polled 43 per cent.

By military service:

These figures are evidence of the weaknesses in the theory of bloc voting. It is apparent from survey results and election returns that the top candidates in the senatorial primary, Stevenson, Johnson and Peddy, polled their strength, not primarily from certain classes of voters as against others, but chiefly from certain geographical districts where they were well known or where concerted publicity and organizational effort made them well known before election day.

TEEN

TALK:

Have you a gripe against the movies?

It seems even the most faithful teen-age movie fans manage to find a few things wrong with movieland's cinema offerings.

Here are teen-agers' ten pet movie peeves as revealed in a nation-wide polling of 7,500 youngsters recently completed by a Hollywood studio.

The bobby-soxers oppose:

1. Turning a female sad back into a raving beauty just by yanking off her horn-rimmed glasses.
2. Virile-type heroes who run the emotional gamut by clinching or unclenching their fists.
3. Using near-decrepit men as the grand passion for a sweet young thing.
4. Having every embryo violin genius eke out a living, on the side, as a pugilist.
5. Heroines who emerge from earthquakes, tidal waves and other disasters with wardrobe unruffled, and tresses unmussed.
6. Portraying school youngsters as speaking only jive jargon.
7. Showing every jam session participant as a swooner.
8. Depicting the average co-ed as nursing a secret crush for the football team captain, or the handsome young English teacher.
9. Unseen 100 piece orchestra which renders the air when a singer, alone in a jungle wilderness, bursts into song.
10. Cooley gals who, when their lover boy asks the question, pop their eyes and murmur—"What do YOU think?"

Eagle Lion executives conducted the survey to shape preproduction plans for "Mickey," the story of a teen-ager. The picture stars 16-year-old Lois Butler, who was plucked from John Marshall high school classroom in Los Angeles for the role.

There is a feminine version of the Woody Woodpecker haircut now being worn by the boys. Whereas the beau brummels wear their hair brushed up from the ears to form a topknot on top like woody's, the girls form their topknot out of curls. If the topknot slips forward, advice is to be nonchalant, actually you'll look more woodpecker-ish with a slipping topknot, experts say.

Uncle Sam Says

Regardless of the heat wave, you can't afford to be lazy about your future, because the future holds for you what you hold for the future. Ben Franklin didn't make this statement, but any United States savings Bonds payroll saver who works with you could claim this life of advice as his or her own. All he has to do is to sign his name once on the card for the United States Savings Bonds payroll savings plan. His employer does all the rest. These savings saved through the payroll savings plan get Mr. Sumner's $10,000,000,000 four dollar 10 years savings. U. S. Treasury Department.

JOE GIVES A LESSON IN ECONOMICS

ECONOMICS—Some of you will maybe say, well, what does Uncle Josephus know about economics—where is that guy going to get the big words that go with that subject? Well, sisters and brothers, with a dictionary it is easy to scare up some 6-syllable words that don't mean too much, but sound scholarly. A dictionary and some gall—and you are all set. Well then, says Henry, I reckon you qualify. Thank you, I says.

The lesson today is on "profits" and to begin the lecture, take the farmer's wife who sells 2 dozen eggs for one dollar. If there was no profit for the farmer's wife and it cost her $1.10 for feed, and chicken house repairs, space used, medicine for the little chickens, and little chicken casualties, then she would quit eggs—and Mr. Town-man and Mrs. Town-woman would have their bacon a-la-eggless.

And the farmer's wife's profit, or a steelmaker's profit, or a clothing storekeeper's profit—without same we would all go eggless and steel-less, also naked. That's pretty good, says Henry—didn't think you had it in you. Thanks again, I says.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

Coryell City's Sixth Inning Sunday Takes Final Game

First class base ball was played Sunday at least until the sixth stanza, when the fireworks started. Ira Westerfield singled to center field, and was thrown out at second when Landfried hit to right field. Strumpler, next up, grounded to third, and got on on an error. Kellerman singled to right field, and Landfried crossed the home plate.

Strumpler followed, when pitcher Richter hit past third, and Ira Gholke fanned. Then, Newt Westerfield smashed a single thru 2nd and Kellerman came home. Giebler hit to short, who muffed, and Richter and Westerfield tallied. Nichols Muffed A Giebler's grounder, threw late to first, and first baseman threw bad to third, and Giebler came in. Ira Westerfield grounded out, pitcher to first. There are the six runs.

In the last of the 6th, Robinett thrown out at 3d, after Jones hit long fly, also dropped. Jones made first tally for Turnersville when Johnson hits short to centerfield. Heirden flew out to Giebler.

In the last of the ninth, Jones grounded, pitcher to 1st; Johnson did the same, 3d to 1st. Hieren took a walk. Crawford hit thru 3rd, Hieren walked in on balk. Watts was thrown out at first by Westerfield, 3rd base.

That's the count. 6-2.

Statistics: Coryell City 11 hits, 6 runs, 3 errors, Richter got 3 strikeouts, Giebler 2, and Giebler walked 1.

Turnersville: 5 hits, 2 runs, 6 errors, and Knudson got strikeouts, Watts, 2.

Line-ups were: Coryell City: N. Westerfield, Giebler, Haferkamp, I. Westerfield, Landfried, Strumpler, Kellerman, Richter, Gholke.

Turnersville: Roberts, Robinett, Nichols, Jones, Johnson, Heirer, Crawford, Gilmore, Knudson.

This leaves Coryell City 2nd in the league for the season, and they are scheduled to meet Turnersville in a two out of three series beginning August 15, at which time VFW will meet Seattle in a similar series. Then, the two teams that win these series will meet for the Championship of the Coryell County Baseball League 'CupS' Yes, two cups!

"LOOKING AHEAD"

"Aid" or Waste?

Suppose your doctor should say, after having drained off about three quarts of your blood: "Why, my poor man, you look anemic. I'm sorry for you. Out of my well-known generosity I am going to give you a half-pint of blood." You wouldn't consider his reasoning to make good sense. Yet, the backers of federal aid to education, arguing that "poorer" states are not able to support adequate educational programs within their borders, fall back on that sort of thinking.

For the federal government to take from Arkansas $98 million a year in income taxes and then offer back $8 million in "aid" because of Arkansas poverty, just doesn't make sense. If the federal government would eliminate its present wasteful spending and reduce income taxes by only 10 per cent, that alone would be worth more to the "poorer" states than passing back to them this proposed "aid."

Operation: Wasteful

It must be remembered that Washington has no money to give anybody. The federal government can hand out only that which it collects. It can only tax the states to get money with which to "aid" the states. We should remember, moreover, that such aid will always be weighted with bureaucrats and political hangers-on, to be paid for by the same states that get the "aid." The local way is not only the responsible way, it is also the economical way.

The federal government has no record for the economical operation of anything. Should our public school system become federally controlled, I would definitely expect it to become a wasteful operation. (Most of our Indians are educated in federal schools. The cost per student is several times greater than in our regular schools.) A federally operated school system would show the same waste and inefficiency that is typical of federal operations in general.

How to Become Poorer

We have a national debt so monstrous already that there is mounting concern whether we shall be able to meet present obligations and maintain economic stability. Therefore, I look upon federal economy and efficiency as an issue of prime importance. The same thinking that begs for federal aid to education can be allowed to wreck the government by adding financial burden upon financial burden, when the treasury has more debt than anything else.

As an Arkansas citizen, I am fully aware of our own educational problems, in one of these "poorest" states. Yet, we have tripled our per capita income since 1939. Scores of new industries have been started in the state, and our agriculture is prosperous. We can support an adequate school system. What Arkansas needs most is a suitable reorganization of our outmoded system, not federal aid as a crutch for all present weaknesses.

What America actually needs today is deep moral purpose in her education, rather than a more extravagant system. Our educational advantages have increased greatly in the last 40 years, but the juvenile crime rate has increased just as fast. There are those who would make federal aid the answer to juvenile delinquency, a problem which goes back largely to home and parents. Yet, the moral purpose that America needs so much suffers a real set-back every time we hand individual freedom to federal bureaucrats.

To carry out this project he urged all young men in Texas to join their local Junior Chambers or, where none have been organized, to call on him for assistance in organizing new Jaycee chapters.
