Cogitations & Aphorisms of Jodok

When the sun got so hot Monday that I had to desert the street corner for a few minutes and went inside for a little while, I found this paragraph or news item or whatever it may be, sticking in the typewriter:

From Amarillo News-Globe, Sunday, Aug. 9, 1936:

"Speech tours and political complexities, by Edward J. Duffy: 'With the government attitude toward business, a talking point of many leaders, Vice-President Garner told a Texas audience: 'I want to get the government out of this business of the government in business.' Query: Is Vice-President Garner really SUPPORTING the 'New Deal?'"

There was no name attached to the little item, so conjecture is all I have to guide me as to the authorship. Anyway I can not answer the query. All I know is that Mr. Garner is supposed to be supporting the New Deal, but that expression naturally arouses some doubt in my mind.

Dr. Stover is responsible for the following odd advertisements, being given here, as they are some he has collected at various places and handed them to me. They read thusly:

At a filling station: "We will hold your baby or crank your Ford, but we will not cash your checks."

At a cafe: "Use less sugar and 'fr like hell. We don't mind the noise."

On the road to Carlsbad cavern: "Jim White's Camp. Hot and cold water—hot in summer and cold in winter."

And this is one I saw in a neighboring city: "Permanent Waving up stairs." Nothing wrong about it, however. Just sounds odd.

It just occurs to me from what I hear on the streets that we are beginning to need rain and that it must come pretty soon, according to some of the statements, if we are to have much row crops here this year. Cotton, it seems is doing very well so far, and will not need much more moisture to make a fair crop.

Well, it will be pretty bad for us old plains people if we do not raise a crop this year, but putting two and two together and judging from what I hear from other localities and other states, we are still in a fairly good way comparatively speaking.

Mr. Jack was heard to remark that he had a letter from a man in Indiana, which stated that he did not believe he would have enough corn for a good mess of roasting ears, or words to that effect.

Harve Meade was heard to say that a letter from his brother in Indiana stated that it has been 108 in the shade and so hot they cannot do much work, and that the wheat there was not worth cutting, and that they cut their hay in the forenoon and is cured ready for hauling in the afternoon.

An item in an Illinois newspaper stated that half of the Illinois corn crop had been ruined by the July drought, and I have heard many remarks to the effect that practically all crops in the state of Oklahoma have been ruined by the hot and dry weather, and that farmers are selling off their hogs for lack of something to feed them with.

That last remark seems to have a local foundation for its verity, as Claidge Fallwell, is engaged in buying hogs of all ages over in Oklahoma, and hauling them in here by the truck load and selling them to local farmers at reasonable prices.

And from the great corn state of Iowa comes the report that the corn crop has been ruined by heat, lack of rain and grasshoppers. It is said that the stalks in some places are green but no grain has formed on account of the heat and drought.

Now, it pains me to know that such conditions exist in these, our sister states, as such conditions will surely bring hardship on the people of those states, but when I hear people cursing the Panhandle as being a "God-forsaken" dust bowl and desert, I just like to call their attention to the fact that there are others just as bad, probably in other respects, but just as bad. And more than that we have good cool nights, with but few exceptions, so that one can get a good night's rest, provided he will go to bed early enough. And our prospect for a crop so far are good.

A CARD FROM JUNE

The Star is quite proud of a card received last week from little Miss June Maurer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Maurer.

June is in the Scottish Rite Hospital at Dallas, but expects to be home within a week, and she is one of the Star man's best friends. June says: "Dear Mr. White: I will be home soon. I am coming up to your office and help you. You do not need to send the paper for I will be home in a week."

Yours truly, June.

WPA WORK AT STAND STILL

It is reported that the work on the WPA project on the Frio Draw at the south edge of the city has been temporarily suspended pending the allotment of more funds for the project.

There seems to be no definite information as to when this will be. Although the workers are all laid off, the bosses are still on the job but are unable to secure any information as to the resumption of work.

REVIVAL SERVICES

The revival services that were begun at the local Baptist church Sunday evening are being well attended and much interest is being manifested.

Dr. Mitchell is a fluent and forceful speaker and his sermons are being well received by the congregation and excellent singing under the leadership of Rev. Evans is an attractive feature of the services.

In speaking about "hay fever" last week I forgot to tell my fellow sufferers that they must lay off of green beans. They just will not do to eat during hay fever season; but go after the onions and sliced cucumbers with a vengeance.

I am still staying with the onions each evening for supper, and all my old enemy is able to do to me is to stand off and make faces at me, it seems that he does not dare to attack me, and I can stand his "faces," just so he keeps off of me. And I sure do like the onions much better than I do "Old Man Hay Fever."

Plenty of ice tea will do no harm and good cold clabbered milk will help a lot, take your bowl of clabber when ever you can get it, but positively abstain from green beans.

We are having some very interesting series of revival meetings. One began at the Baptist Church Sunday and another will begin at the Euclid Avenue Church of Christ tonight (Friday night) and each series will continue throughout all of next week.

Good and earnest speakers will be in charge of each of these series of meetings and will be worth the time of anyone to attend either of them and thus get an inspiration for better living.

I am of the firm opinion that good sound revival meetings are a good thing for any community and should have the undivided support of all good people. In my younger days there was not much that I enjoyed more than a good revival meeting, but I have noticed as I grew older that when men reach their "eighties" they lose practically all interest in such affairs. But they have done worlds of good and many mighty useful men would never have been reached for good to their fellowmen had it not been for revival meetings.

I once heard a revivalist tell a story of a young man who was regular in attendance and apparently deeply interested, and one night while the workers were still moving about in the congregation, the meeting was dismissed, and this young man began a lively scramble to reach the other side of the building, when he came in contact with one of the sisters who was working among her friends, and she asked him if he was seeking salvation. He replied, "No I am seeking Sal Jenkins, I want to take her home." The evangelist gave that as an illustration of the extent of the interest some young people have in revival meetings, and I dunno how he may have been tossing it at me. I dunno.

I enjoy good preaching, I believe, just as well as does anyone, and I have the success and interest of these meetings at heart, but I seem to have reached the age when a good rest in an easy chair at home is a great attraction for me, especially since I have long ago made my decision along the line of religion, and there seem to be little need of my roving more. I attend church once each Sunday for my spiritual food which is not much, and I am very much like the little couplet written by good friend, Rev. Charles M. Stevens, who has already passed to his reward, which runs something like this:

"I may be wrong, Oh heart of mine; If so, then wrong I'll stay; I may be foolish or supine, But I'm satisfied this way."

VACATING TIME!

CHURCH OF CHRIST REVIVAL

The series of revival meetings that will begin at the Euclid Avenue Church of Christ, tonight (Friday), will be under the direction of evangelist Earl Cantwell, who is an interesting and fluent speaker and is noted for his ability at expounding the scriptures.

These services will be enriched by an abundance of good singing of spiritual songs and the entire public is cordially invited to attend. Service each night during next week.

NEW PARTNERSHIP FORMED

A new partnership for the operating of a garage business has been formed here within the past week, between W. M. White and J. L. Dwight.

The new business will occupy the J.W. Parr building on Main street, recently vacated by the C. H. Fallwell garage, and the proprietors hope to be able to serve the public in the garage business within this week.

J. A. CONWAY HERE

J. A. Conway, superintendent of schools at Kress, was a visitor here on Tuesday of last week.

Prof. Conway served four years as superintendent of the Friona schools, and is therefore well known here and has many friends here who were pleased to meet him again.

HOME DEMONSTRATION NOTES

Farmers county will be represented in the South Plains Fair at Lubbock in September, showing the "correct standard bed." Also 4-11 girls will enter their canned products.

Several Farmer county ladies, members of the various demonstration clubs of the county have had their canned products accepted by the Texas Centennial Board for exhibition at the Centennial. They are as follows:

Pork Roast, Mrs. Ora Kepley.
Pork Roast, Mrs. F. E. Kepley.
Pork Roast, Mrs. Ray Daniels.
Cake Sausage, Mrs. F. E. Kepley.
Beef Roast, Mrs. Ray Daniels.
A price of 40c per can has been allowed to these ladies for their products by the Centennial Board.

AUNT JEMIMA SUPPER

The ladies of the Congregational Ladies Aid will give an Aunt Jemima supper at the church basement on the evening of Wednesday, August 19th, to which the general public is invited. They will begin serving at 8:00 o'clock.

In addition to the supper an interesting program has been prepared which will be rendered for the entertainment of the guests. Do not miss this supper.

GUESTS IN WALTER LOVELESS HOME

The following people spent a part of last week here as guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Loveless:

They were, J. L. Castleman and family, of Olney; and Mr. and Mrs. Van Douglas, of Olton, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Loveless of Oklahoma City, he being a son of Mr. and Mrs. Loveless. They departed for their home Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. M. S. Weir and daughter, Miss Eunice May, who spent last week with relatives in Farwell, returned home Saturday.

FRIONA WEATHER

No moisture has fallen in the Friona territory during the past week, and Monday and Tuesday have been pronounced by many to be the warmest days yet known to this locality.

Farmers say that if the unusual heat continues that crops will be considerable shortened unless more rain falls soon.

PASTOR-AT-LARGE HERE

Rev. and Mrs. Ralph L. Woodward and small son, of Oklahoma City, were visitors in Friona Monday and guests in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Parks, pastor of the local Congregational church.

This is Rev. Woodward's first visit to Friona since he has been placed in the position of pastor-at-large for the Southwestern District. He has come as really assistant superintendent to Rev. J. L. Marsh, whose increasing years cause the entire work of the district becoming too weighty for him. The new assistant expressed the hope that he would find it convenient for him and Mrs. Woodward to visit Friona people frequently.

KANSAS PEOPLE VISIT HERE

Harry Murray and family, of Simpson, Kansas, spent a part of last week here visiting in the home of his uncle, H. W. Wright.

They were on their way to Los Angeles, California to visit Mr. Murray's brother, and will return home via another route, passing through Dallas, where they will stop to visit the Texas Centennial Exposition.

BROWN RESIGNS

At the regular meeting of the county commissioners court at Farwell Monday, County Attorney Perry T. Brown tendered his resignation and it was accepted.

Judge E. P. Lokley was appointed to the office to complete Mr. Brown's term, which expires January 1, 1937.

It is reported that Mr. Brown will move to Mt. Pleasant, in Titus county, where, it is understood, he will enter the practice of law. Mr. Brown has made a faithful official of the county since he entered the office, an able county will lose a good and valuable citizen by his going away.

HOME FROM IOWA

Mrs. S. F. Warren, who has been at Wheatland, Iowa, for the past few weeks, whither she was called by the illness of her father, Mr. H. C. Ficks, who passed away some two weeks ago, returned home last week.

Mrs. Warren states that the state of Iowa has been badly hurt by the recent extremely hot weather and severe drought. She says the corn crop there is practically ruined from the effect of the heat and dry weather, and the invasion of the grasshoppers, that have done much to add to the damage one he the weather.

SCHOOL TO OPEN SOON

The Friona schools will open Monday, August 31, which will be two weeks from the coming Monday.

It is understood that all the teachers have been secured, but a few of them are asking to be released in order to accept other positions that offer much higher salaries than can be paid by the local school.

SERVICES IN DEMAND

The demand for the services of Rev. H. L. Thurston, pastor of the local Methodist church, as an evangelist seems to be constantly increasing among the churches of the denomination.

Rev. Thurston just returned home Sunday from a two-weeks' evangelistic service at Wilson, where he was formerly pastor, he having come from that place to Friona. Rev. Thurston left home again Monday afternoon for Hereford, where he will remain during the week assisting in a series of revival services in the Methodist church of that city.

ANNUAL BUDGET ON FILE

The annual budget for Farmer county for the year 1937 is on file in the county clerk's office for inspection.

Walter Lander, County Judge

M. E. MISSIONARY SOCIAL

The ladies of the Methodist Missionary Society will give a social on the afternoon of Monday, August 17th, beginning at four o'clock, in the home of Mrs. Dr. J. E. Stover.

I THANK YOU

I take this method of expressing my sincere thanks to the people of Farmer county for the very liberal support at the primary election which resulted in my nomination to the office of County Attorney of Farmer county. I shall give my closest attention to the duties of the office and shall render unprejudiced service to all the people. Again I say THANK YOU.

A. D. Smith

WORSE BURNED THAN FARMER

E. R. New, who has been visiting in other parts of the state during the past week, is authority for the statement that other counties of the state are far worse hurt by the warm and dry weather than is Farmer county.

Mr. New stated that in many of the counties through which he passed the crops are already ruined by the drought, which is still a good prospect for a fair yield of all crops, and should rain come within the near future, these crops will be practically assured.

WENT FISHING

A group of young men from Homeland community spent a part of last week in the vicinity of Santa Rosa, New Mexico, on a fishing vacation.

The group consisted of Clifford Boatman, Russell Loflin and Sam J. Jones. The boys caught a goodly amount of fish and had a very pleasant time generally and returned well pleased with their short vacation.

BACK FROM MISSISSIPPI

Ruby A. Oliver, local manager of the Texas Utilities Company, who has spent the past two weeks visiting with home folk and friends at Duck Hill, Mississippi, returned to his duties here Sunday.

Ruby says he had a most pleasant vacation and visit with his people but is glad to be back at his duties here, and his Friona friends are pleased to have him here again.

ADDS NEW MACHINE

At least one business enterprise in Friona is showing signs of prosperity, and that is the Helpy-Selfy Laundry, owned and operated by E. E. Houlette.

Mr. Houlette has been running a small advertisement in the Star each week for the past few months, and he said last week that his business has increased to the extent that it has been necessary for him to add another new Maytag to his equipment in order to take care of the increased business. This makes three machines now in operation at the Helpy-Selfy.

4-H BOYS AND GIRLS RALLY

Miss Margaret St. Clair, Farmer County home demonstration agent, is promoting a "rally day" for the 4-H boys and girls clubs of the county to be held at Lazbuddy on Thursday, August 20th.

This will be an all-day affair and the program will consist of games, demonstrations and stunts with a picnic dinner at the noon hour, the program to begin about ten o'clock and continuing throughout the day, with a few business features during the latter part of the afternoon, looking toward making the affair a permanent annual occasion.

This will be open to the entire public and a cordial invitation is extended to all who may care to attend; but especially are all the 4-H boys and girls of the county and their parents urged to be present.

Bring a well filled basket of lunch and be prepared for a full day of fun and improvement. See your local sponsor for future details.

W. H. Warren and daughter, Mrs. J. C. Wilkinson, spent Tuesday in Amarillo.

DIAMOND SPARKLES NO. 4

By Ed White

Diamond Dust once more becomes Diamond Sparkles after a series of six straight defeats, as the Friona Cards came through with a win of 7 to 4 over Sudan, last Sunday at Sudan before the largest crowd of the season.

E. Minyard, as pitcher, kept the Sudan team hits well scattered, giving them only six hits and struck out seven. The highlights of the game was the brilliant fielding by short stop, Williams, and the hitting by Carson and Magness.

There will be a game here at Whiteway Park Sunday. We expect to have our full team out once more. Following is the box score of the game last Sunday.

A COINCIDENT

Leslie Loveless of Palter, Nebraska, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Loveless of this place, who has been employed for some time at Palter, was in Denver, Colo. Wednesday of last week on his vacation.

While walking down a street he saw a large yellow bus, which looked so much like a Friona school bus, that he immediately started down the street and overtook the bus as it was held up in traffic. To his delight he found it to be the agricultural class from Friona which was on a two-week's tour of some of the western states.

A brother, Jiggs Loveless, was in the group, so arrangements were made at once for him to spend the night with them. Leslie is expected home about Friday for a visit with home folk.

NEW RESIDENT ARRIVED

Mr. J. L. Dwight and family, of Amarillo, arrived here Tuesday afternoon with their household goods and have located in one of R. H. Kinsley's houses on Woodland Avenue. Mr. Dwight comes here to engage in the garage business with W. M. White, in the J. W. Parr building on Main street.

NEW LUNCH ROOM TO OPEN

Guy E. (Happy) Murphy has rented one of the rooms in the Joe Landrum building south of the railroad, perhaps better known as the "Hix building", and plans to open a lunch room.

DENIES DOUGLASS WORKERS DISTRIBUTED PLACARDS OF SENATOR SMALL AND TACK

Dear Tack:

I think what you need is a good, generous dose of liver regulator. I never saw a man so prone to go off at tangents, get all hot and bothered as you seem to be of late. Your outburst in your column of the 5th of this month is a typical case. Just where, for instance, did you get the idea that Douglass supporters "printed placards of Old Tack and Senator Small together and scattered them around . . . among the farmers" of Parmer County? So far as I am able to ascertain this statement of yours is wholly false. I have talked to men who traveled over the entire country during the recent political campaign and I have yet to see a single man who saw one of these placards you refer to in your outburst.

However, I must be frank in admitting that one of Small's loyal supporters in this country took one of the Small advertising placards and covered up the Senator's face with a picture of you and posted it up in Farwell. To my knowledge, only one of such placards was defaced. And, mind you, this was done by a Small supporter, and not by a Douglass friend as you charge in your column.

You allege that you are very unpopular down in Parmer County because of the Hamlin trial. For your information permit me to say that any and all the so-called gossip circulated in Parmer County that would tend to connect you with the Hamlin affair originated in your home city—Amarillo, from and among your friends and neighbors. Personally, I took very little stock in the reports that emitted from your home city; neither did the people here believe you were connected with the affair, but I just wanted to put you right on the source of this gossip. All that was in it here had its origin in your own home town, Tack, and was not the product of local minds.

And while we are on the Hamlin case, which you seem to delight in refreshing, permit me to say that the hole nasty spectacle was dumped into our laps without our invitation. If any invitation was ever given that would suggest bringing the case here, it was done by a lone individual, who in no manner represented the voice of the county as a whole. We never asked for it! It was a nasty affair, and I am sure the people of this county will join me in inviting Amarillo to wash her own soiled garments in her own back yard hereafter.

The fact that the case cost the taxpayers of Parmer County nearly $1,000, which the Potter County officials decline to pay back to this county, was the smallest part of the objectionable feature of the whole rotten mess. If you are such a believer in fair play to your neighbors of the Plains, as you pretend to be, you could at least see that this county is reimbursed to the extent of the cost of the Hamlin trial. But you won't do that. You will begin to hedge about legality and technicalities in order to outlaw the debt. But the fact remains that Potter County owes Parmer County about eight hundred dollars, to be exact, for the expenses incurred in washing Potter County's filthy rags. If you print this and are anxious for some more good reading, I think I can accommodate you.

(All I know about those placards is what was told me and all I know about how I am in disgrace down there is that I've heard and from anonymous letters, of which I have had quite a few. As to the cost of the Hamlin trial, every cent of it should be paid by Potter County. I am having this investigated and will write more about this later. I do not believe in hiding behind technicalities. E. R. T.)

Sheriff and Mrs. Earl Booth, and children of Farwell, spent Sunday in the W. H. Warren home here.

Holier Than Thou?

(Editorial)
(Panhandle Herald.)

Aren't we ever going to hear the end of that senatorial race between Curtis Douglass and Clint Small? Just as we thought that the scars of battle were being healed, Old Tack of the Amarillo News-Globe starts the fight all over again. In a reply to a letter from Perryton, Gene Howe proceeds to rake the friends of Curtis Douglass, as well as everything else that didn't please him that day.

"If you have the ability to think at all, Mr. Shindler, you know that I have had no part in delaying any movement up in Ochiltree county, and if any one up there is so narrow minded and bigoted and unfair as to blame me for this, that person can go straight to hell with my compliments." Old Tack leads off a long tirade.

This writer is not particularly interested in any argument between the people of Ochiltree county and Gene Howe, but we cannot pass up the statement "that the campaign waged in behalf of Curtis Douglass was rotten and lousy and I do not intend to back up. I was mad when I spoke over the radio because of the attacks made on Amarillo," Old Tack wrote.

"But during the recent campaign against Senator Small, the Douglass supporters printed placards of Old Tack and Senator Small together and scattered them around and pasted them on telegraph poles out among the farmers. The idea was that I was an undesirable citizen and that Clint and myself were birds of feather," Tack wrote further.

The Herald believes that the campaign waged in behalf of Clint Small was the meanest and dirtiest political battle ever waged in the Panhandle. So that makes The Herald even with Old Tack in his thoughts about this senatorial race.

Reports were circulated the last few days in the campaign that Curtis Douglass killed Johnny Holmes, former district attorney. You can put it down that Douglass did not circulate that lie.

Even this writer was accused of saying that Curtis Douglass had been intoxicated in Borger just a few weeks before the election. And that is another damnable lie, which was not circulated by Douglass workers. Had this writer believed that Douglass had been drunk in several years, he would not have supported him and my friends know it.

Dozens of workers went into the various counties the few days before the election and poisoned the people's minds as much as they could. If Old Tack does not know that, just get a little low-down from the Small campaign committee.

Curtis Douglass would have been nominated for state senator, had not it been for the lies circulated against him the past few days of the campaign. It is with regret that we read of this "holier than thou" attitude from Old Tack. Just why he should be so blind as to think that the Small committee waged a perfect campaign is beyond conception.

We would like to see some of the pictures of Small and Old Tack, which the latter alleges was used in the recent campaign. We would like to know in what counties they were circulated. This writer knows that just a limited amount of literature was distributed from Panhandle headquarters because of lack of funds. No such anti-Small literature was printed with the sanction and consent of Panhandle friends of Douglass or the candidate himself.

It is my belief that Small's friends used plenty of underhanded tactics in this campaign, and this "holier than thou" view of this situation by Old Tack just cannot be accepted by The Herald.

Infectious Money

On every penny there are between two and three thousand live germs, according to a Czechoslovak scientist. He has counted the number of germs on banknotes and on coins in general use. Silver is bad for germs. They flourish better on nickel—and best of all on copper or bronze. Most of the bacteria on coins are harmless. In contrast, those on banknotes are twice or three times as numerous and many are capable of producing diseases. Microbes live on coins from one to eight days, and on notes from 75 to 100. Then they die, and new ones replace them.—London Tid-Bits Magazine.

Capri Small Island

Capri is an island in the Mediterranean, at the entrance of the Bay of Naples. It is 21 miles south of Naples and has an area of 5 1/2 square miles. On the island are ruins of Roman baths and aqueducts and of the 12 grand villas built by the Emperor Tiberius. To the west of the town of Capri is the Blue Grotto, a cavern entered from the sea, one of the most renowned resorts in the Neapolitan area.

"Old Ironsides"

The name "Old Ironsides" was an affectionate one conferred on the stanch frigate after her great exploits during the War of 1812. Her first great triumph in that war was her victory over and capture of the British Guerriere on August 19, 1812. Later she fought and took another British frigate, the Java, off the coast of South America. Before the war was over she had beaten and taken two other frigates in battle, the Cyane and the Levant.

Men With Vision

The foot of the rainbow is never where you think it is. Perhaps there is a pot of gold there, but there are many more pots of gold that you will pass by on your way to realize your dreams. Some men have the vision to see them.

Cathedral of City of Mexico

The cathedral of the city of Mexico stands on or near the site of the Aztec temple destroyed by Cortez in 1521. The foundations were laid in 1573 and the church was finished about 1811. It is 400 feet long and the height of its towers is 204 feet.

Dyer Became Painter

Tintoretto, the great sixteenth century artist of Venice, was so called because his father was a dyer, "Il Tintoretto" meaning "the little dyer." His real name was Jacopo Robusti, but all his works are signed by "the little dyer."

Money Beans

The ancient Aztecs and Mayans of Central America used cocoa beans for legal tender at the time of their conquest by the Spaniards. They were used as a beverage, too, but only the wealthy could drink their "money."

Ceremonies accompanying the laying of cornerstones extend to greatest antiquity. Sacrificial rites were practiced when laying foundations of buildings in early Bible times.

Nurserymen in Florida found the demand growing for the plant so, in 1890, they started importing it from China. A few years later the kumquat found its way to California.

From Hayes on, they have used the printed "penalty" envelope and more recently simply the envelope marked "The White House."

"Red School House"

The term "Red School House" is used as a symbol of popular education because a few generations ago it was customary, particularly in New England, to paint the frame school houses red. This was done not because of any symbolism between that color and education, but merely because red paint was the cheapest obtainable. Clifton Johnson in his "Old Time Schools and School Books" says of the old district school, however: "The structure was generally roughly clapboarded, and it might possibly receive a coat of red or yellow paint, but more likely paint was lacking both outside and in."

Mutiny on Ships

Mutiny is nearly always accompanied by extreme violence, and that is why, in the old days, the skipper of a ship had about him a few specially selected strong men to deal with an outbreak immediately it was suspected.
