Searchers reported finding the body of Magdaleno Rodriquez, 15, an inmate at the Gatesville State School for Boys at 7:30 a.m., Monday.

Rodriquez fell into the Leon River on Friday morning at 9:20 while on a science field trip with 23 other classmates. The youth, a non-swimmer, slipped into the water near the lowwater crossing west of the Riverside School.

Witnesses reported the boy struggled to hold on to tree limbs along the river bank. One classmate attempted to rescue Rodriquez at a point approximately 250 feet down stream, but Rodriquez struggled free and searchers could not relocate him.

Searching and dragging operations were begun immediately, 10:00 a.m. and continued during daylight hours for three days. Early in the search, water rescue unit from Fort Hood attempted to search with diving equipment. The unit reported currents were too swift for any effective under water search.

Late Thursday afternoon, a helicopter from Fort Hood entered the search, but soon found the air search ineffective becaus of the tree-lined banks. Several ttempts were made to simulate conditions of the drowning and trace the behavior of objects in the fast moving waters. All failed to lead to any conclusion,

The following news story was given by the Lawton, Oklahoma newspaper, The Cannoneer, in regard to the welcome Fort Sill gave the 113th Light Maintenance Company, ween their tenance Company upon their arrival at Ft. Sill.

'The men of the 113th Light Maintenance Company, a re-cently mobilized National Guard Unit out of Gatesville, Tex., were formally welcomed to Fort Sill Tuesday morning by Brig. Gen. John J. Kenney, assistant commandant of the U.S. Army Artillery and Missle School. Speaking at Theater 4 be-fore 113 soldiers from the 113th, Gen. Kenney briefly outlined the military functions and structure of Fort Sill and discussed some of the recreational facilities in the Lawton -Fort Sill area.

The assistant commandant also introduced Col. James D. Ramsey, commanding officer of III Corps Artillery; Col. Ray H. Smith, commanding officer of the 1st Field Artillery Brigade; and Sgt. Maj. Bobbie McGuire, post sergeant major.

About half of the soldiers in the 113th arrived at Sill at 6:00 p.m. Monday night in a 23-vehicle, 17 trailer convoy. They detrucked in the parking lot west of B-2429 and were greeted by Gen, Kenney; Col. Ramsey; Col Smith; Lt. Col. John E, McGlone, command-McGlone, commanding officer of the 3d Battalion, 25th Artillery (which is sponsoring the Texas company); and Lt. Col. E.B. by Roland Magill

Has anybody seen my puppy he chawed his string in two He's a wobbly little thing, because he's nearly new Mommy bought his little basket I don't know what it costed But I can't bear to look at it, my little puppy's losted.

Mommy says I'm nearly four a boy too big to cry But if I don't find my puppy soon

I'll just lay down and die. The Poleece man on the corner said that he would try To find for me a better dog but that only made me cry.

For there ain't no better dog I know that for a fact He trailed a dry land turtle and rolled him on his back. Once he found a big black bug a hanging on a jimpson weed And yelped to me to come and see what a monster he had treed.

Mommy baked me ginger cook-so hot and sweet and brown, But that big lump in my throat wouldn't let them go on down. , find my puppy please, he's as losted as can be Last night as I was most asleep I plainly heard him cry to

Mommy made me peanut brittle but I couldn't eat a bite kept hearing Tippy crying all through the night. Please, Mister, fin my puppy I'll, I'll give you anything My agate taw and marbles my barlow knife and sling,

My little pet green lizard and all my buck skin string. Won't somebody help me please

I'm so skeered he's sick You'll know him by his waggy and by his sweet wet lick.

If my Tippy's one went dead, my heart cries out to know For then I'll know he's safe in Heaven where every small boy's puppies go.

Notice is hereby given by the Parks and Wildlife Department that a public hearing will be held at Gatesville, Texas on June 10, 1968 at the County Court-houe at 8:00 p.m. for the purpose of gathering information concerning proposed hunting, fishing and trapping regulations for the above-named county.

As the result of action by the Texas Legislature, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission is responsible for the setting of seasons, bag limits, and means and methods of taking the wildlife resources in Coryell County. All interested persons are urged to attend and comment upon the proposed regulations.

DECEPTIVE HOME FURNISHINGS ACT AS "INSTANT DECORATORS"

How do you please an entire family...with just one extra room? Make it a student's study ... a second bedroom ... a comfortable family room . . . and a guest suite. Home furnishings that double in function can change the look of a room in a flash. Put these "instant decorators" to work for you as interior designer Miss Michael Love, N.S.I.D., does in this attractive setting for fiber producer, Dow Badische Company.

"Wall-to-wall carpeting is a vital element here," maintains Miss Love, who designs, "literally from the floor up." This narrow bed-sitting room grew deceptively wider after instalmulti-level pattern called "Smooth Sailing." Because the setting is designed for 'round-the-clock use, Miss Love chose C. H. Masland & Sons carpeting made of Zefkrome acrylic fiber for easy cleaning and maintenance... and the lustrous look and feel of fine wool. This unique acrylic has color built right in, for a depth of lasting

Scaled to give the entire room an expansive air, and essential for the double life, is this versatile sofa-bed. A bluegreen plaid that invites lounging in comfort, accents the sofa's squared, contemporary lation of carpeting in a rich gold lines. This dominant piece is lightened by the use of see-through coffee table and end

Artful addition is the multicube storage and desk unit in lime, gold and white. The bull's-eye motif on the highstanding section hides pull-out shelving that becomes a bedroom dresser. The center portion acts as a desk. A cube on wheels tucks under the unit's desk portion when not in use, and can hold blankets and linens while doubling as a desk bench or end table.

The deceptively ornamental wall paneling is an inexpensive way to sound-proof a studybedroom. Do-it-yourselfers can either tack unsanded pine boards directly to the wall or mount them on one-by-two strips. Tack wall battens into position to cover the joints where the boards meet. For a full play of texture, roll whitewash over the rough wood's natural feathered surface.

"Full use of the floor space is essential to this setting," Miss Love said. "New second generation fibers like Zefkrome in carpeting give the designer and the owner an entirely new outlook for contemporary room design."

The Texan voiced confidence that food and fiber demands of a growing population can be met if the producers have the money to employ the latest agricultural technology and use the required fertilizers and pesticides on their crops.

He said the per capita investment per worker in agriculture averages around $41,000, compared to about $22,000 per worker in industry, while the net income of farm labor averages only $1.50 per hour as against about $3 for the average industrial worker.

Although actual starvation faces millions in some parts of the world, increased yields per acre resulting from American farming know-how may cause crop surpluses to be a problem in the United States for years to come. He stressed the need for an approximate balancing of supply with demand in order to stablize the agricultural economy and thus assure long range sufficiency in food and fiber supplies and stressed that this was the aim of our farm programs.

"We have already grown 182 bushels of wheat per acre on a commercial farm," he con-

Poage noted that the farmers in the Washington milk-shed get only 14.7 cents out of the 33 to 35 cents paid by consumers for a quart of milk in Washington retail stores. He declared that the American housewife pays a maller pay housewife pays a smaller part of the family income for food than do her counterparts elsewhere in the world.

"Actually, Americans spend only about 18 per cent of their disposable income in the grocery store and farmers get only about one-third of this 18 per cent, "he added.

Hereford And Youth In Spotlight June 13-14

Herefords and youth will be in the spotlight on consecutive days during two big Texas Junior Hereford Association field days scheduled for Thursday, June 13 and Friday, June 14. West Texas State University, Canyon, will host the first of the two events at the college fram and Granite Hills Hereford ranch near Llano will have out the welcome sign for visitors attending the second field day on the 14th.

West Texas State University, cooperating with the Panhandle Hereford Association and the state junior Hereford organization to sponsor the field day, is known throughout West Texfor its excellent beef cattle breeding program and sound research that has benefitted many area ranchers. Dr. Charles Smallwood ably heads the university's agriculture department and will co-ordinate activities for the field day. The city of Canyon is "pitching in" to make visitors welcome and the Chamber of Commerce will furnish a noon barbeque lunch. Located in the beautiful Hill Country area, the Grainite Hills Hereford Ranch is accustomed to frequent visitors who stop to talk Herefords and see the operation made conspicuous by an impressive headquarters' entrance. The 1000 - cow operation consists of 200 registered Herefords, featuring Battle Intense bloodlines and 800 commercial cattle that have produced an enviable number of grand champion stters at major livestock shows. Well known in Hereford circles, James Grote manages the ranch own-and Frank Late, San Angelo. In addition to attractions provided by each host, both field days will feature education programs with a lot of action for youngsters. Judging, weightguessing and speech contests will attract those who enjoy competition. Both programs will provide opportunities to "learn a few new tricks" in the cattle business. production.

In a telegram to Hugh Downs, host for the "Today" show, M.F. Frost, McAllen, said farmers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley "strongly resent" statements made by Celegram Chayer Daleac Colifer sar Chavez, Delano, California, director of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, AFL-CIO. A fruit and vegetable grower and processor, Frost is vice president Texas Farm Bureau. "He (Chavez) left the impression that farm workers in this area are paid starvation wages, as low as 40 cents per hour. This is absolutely false," "Fruit and vegetable growers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley pay the federal minimum wage of $1.15 per hour; some pay above this minimu m set by Congress. Workers often earn much more than this on piece-rate basis," he ex-The farm leader said farmers are concerned about a healthy agricultural industry in the area that will enable both the producer and the worker to earn a "decent living". He added that increased costs of production, caused in part by federal farm labor laws, plus the consequent increase of imports from Mexico have forced many growers of perishable crops out of business during the past five years. "In the interest of fairness to growers in this area, we urge that you give a spokesman for Valley farmers a chance to present their side of the case," Frost said.

New Oat Variety Introduced

A new oat variety which is superior in resistance to crown rust and has a good yielding ability is being released to certified seed growers in 1968. "Coronado" was developed from a series of complex crosto breed high yields and disease resistance into oats. The new variety was developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture. Two agronomists from Texas A & M University, Dr. I.M. Atkins and Dr. M.E. McDaniel, started the project in 1961 at College Station.

The new variety is taller than most other adapted Texas varieties, but straw strength is superior and lodging resistance is good. Coronado kernels are plump and attractive. Forage production is equal to that of other varieties, but seedling growth is slow, according to the two agronomists.

Research here, and across the state, shows that Coronado is of about the same maturity as Ora and is earlier than New Nortex. It is later maturing than Houston or Suregrain. The cold hardiness has been adequately tested; however, it appers to be about the same as Alamo-X or More-Tests at Beeville, Temple and McGregor were conducted for two years. Coronado was shown to be an outstanding yielder in South Texas and a moderate producer in the central test areas. It is adapted only to the southern part of Texas and to the adjoining areas along the Gulf Coast.

Foundation seed will be maintained and may be acquired by writing to the Foundation Seed Section, Texas A & M U-niversity, College Station, Tex-as 77843. The USDA does not have any seed for distribution.
