Jaycee Lighting Project Cost Set At $3,000

The Gatesville Jaycees are nearing the end of the lighting project started better than a year ago. Several displays have been discussed and many companies have been contacted concerning different types of lights for the courthouse lighting.

Final selection of Verde-Ray corporation's quartz light was announced last week. Community Development Chairman, Tom Kennedy, reported that the fixtures have been ordered at a total cost of approximately $3,000.

The Jaycees have held the cost of the project by supplying the labor for the project themselves.

Kennedy pointed out that the Jaycees have approximately $1,000 earmarked for the program and are planning fund raising projects to add to the fund.

The project should be completed by early July and will soon become a trade mark for our community. The display will advertise a proud town and county to all who travel through Gatesville.

Advertising Gatesville can pay off in many economical ways. It would be worth a small contribution from each of us.

The agreement became effective June 18.

Gatesville Schools Quality For Additional Funds

The Gatesville Independent School District School Board has accepted a resolution drawn up by the Coryell County Board concerning the annexation of the Turnersville School District to Gatesville.

The closing of the Turnersville Schools followed a complicated procedure of annexation to Gatesville, followed by dis-annexation of parts of the district to Jonesboro, Cranfills Gap and Clifton School Districts to qualify Gatesville for the incentive aid program.

To qualify for the incentive aid program, a school must have over 750 students, and of the four schools involved in the breakup of the old Turnersville School, only Gatesville could benefit from incentive aid program.

To be eligible, the entire Turnersville district had to be annexed to the Gatesville Independent School District and then not more than 10% of the total Gatesville Independent School District could be dis-annexed to the other districts.

The County School Board resolution completed the necessary work to qualify the Gatesville Independent School District for incentive aid of $75,000 over the next ten years, one additional classroom teaching unit, $50,000 in Title I funds and other benefits. The Gatesville Independent School District will receive an estimated $200,000 in funds.

It seems to me someone needs to speak up for the twenty five strikers who were recently fired by the United - Gulf States Telephone Co. The strike was illegal and they probably used bad judgment in walking out, but the fact remains that they are our friends and neighbors and for years have been underpaid while we were being charged more for telephone service than the citizens of Waco.

Even if you do not understand or appreciate Unions, you must know that if the majority of the employees want a Union they should be entitled to it and the company should recognize that Union as the bargaining agent. Also it stands to reason that when 100 percent of the employees walk off a job, something is wrong and the management should try to find out what it is.

Many of those pickets were my friends and my friends, I saw Mrs. Norman Storm, our County Judge's wife on that picket line. Waldene Clemmons Cummings and Wavaley Hinesley Dallimore are life long friends and school mates and I know their intentions are honorable. Myrtle Music, Bonnie Chappel, Willie Taylor, Frankie Meeks and Bobby Cotton are other friends and neighbors I saw walking that picket line. I do not believe these people damaged telephone equipment or threw nails into the parking lot. I have driven through that parking lot once a month to deposit my check and there have always been nails in the driveway.

Mr. Businessman, the telephone company has replaced these 10 and 20 year veterans with employees making $1.60 per hour. This little switch in employees will reduce the annual payroll in Gatesville by approximately $40,000. I wonder if our phone rates will go down accordingly?

These people need our support, they have mine, how about yours.

State Legislature Seeks Solution To Revenue Problems

House Committee on Revenue and Taxation, has come up with his own tax plans for providing the state's needed revenue.

Many of the other legislators have plans of their own on how the state should fine needed additional revenue.

Thursday's session will probably be long and tiring.

Speaker Ben Barnes has alerted them that he wants "some kind of a tax bill" approved by the House by the days end and into the hands of the Senate prior to the weekend recess.

Most reliable sources predict a rough road ahead for the governor's program and should the house finally agree to accept most of his proposals, the chances for victory in the Senate appeal slim.

Numerous senators have been conferring with Barnes, privately, making suggestions on what they would support in the way of a tax measure.

No alternate has been arrived at, although they have told friends that they do not agree in full with Connally's plan.

Thursday, the Senate will get first taste of Connally's miniature bottle liquor by the drink bill, already given House approval.

The Senate Committee on Cities, Counties and Towns will meet Thursday to review the house bill, at 2:00 p.m.

Sen. Joe Christi of El Paso sponsor of the mini-bottle plan in the upper chamber, said he plans to junk his own measure and substitute the House bill for committee review.

He is expecting the panel to vote approval and send the measure to the Senate early next week for their debate. Sources state a 50-50 chance for the measure.

The way has been cleared for the conference committee to begin work on the $2.50 billion general spending redesigning.

The House has refused to accept the Senate's version of the bill covering next year's appropriations and the Senate did also.

Sincerely yours,
/s/ Tom Post Thomson

Music Fit For A Chief

When Los Voladores Flying Indians perform at Hemisfair '68, the music that accompanies them will be fit for a chief—for José Villanueva de la Cruz, the Totonac chief, plays a reed flute and small drum while dancing atop a 114-foot pole.

These authentic Totonac tunes are the accompaniment while the Flyers descend from the top of the pole at the Frito-Lay/Pepsi-Cola Pavilion in a series of 32 revolutions. Secured only by the ropes around their waists, the Flyers eventually fan out to a radius of thirty feet before reaching the ground.

For more than 400 years this ceremony has been performed, because it has a religious as well as agricultural significance for the Totonacs. The climb to the top of the pole symbolizes their desire to be closer to the male god of the heavens—whose essence is fire and earth. Their descent represents the union of this male god with a female god of the earth who is water and cold—resulting in a pleasant climate and a good harvest.

The costumes of the Flyers, too, are symbolic. They wear cloth pants and shirts trimmed with birds' feathers, because they believe that the spirit comes back to earth in the form of an eagle or another bird.

At Hemisfair '68, the sound of music will come from the most unexpected places—when Chief José Villanueva de la Cruz raises his flute to his lips and begins the Flying Indians Spectacular.

Industry Urges State Control of Safety Programs

The proposed federal program on occupational safety and health would "cost untold millions of dollars and still not be as effective as safety projects carried out by the states," said William K. Zinke, Vice President - Industrial Relations of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Mr. Zinke spoke at a one-day workshop in New York, which was seeking the most effective means for forging further improvements in industry's health and safety record.

Noting that work-connected accidental deaths have decreased 67 percent since 1912 despite a 100 percent increase in work force, Mr. Zinke said that this is the greatest decrease in accidental deaths in any sector of our economy. Actually, three out of every four deaths and more than half the injuries suffered by workers in 1966 occurred off the job, and time lost as a result was 150 percent greater than time lost due to work-connected injuries.

The NAM official said that the inevitable conclusion is that an employee in the United States is much safer at work than he is at home, on the highway, or on the farm.

"There is indeed a great deal that can be done to make work safer and healthier, and tremendous resources are available to achieve this objective," Mr. Zinke said. "If distrust and antagonism can be replaced by cooperation and understanding, a mobilization of these resources can make a great contribution not only in solving this problem but also in solving many of the nation's other problems as well."

WORTH TALKING ABOUT

PUBLIC CONTROLS - Pinpointing the greatest influence on government spending, Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, says "... control of public spending rests with the people who create public sentiment and elect officials of government... Congress is not going to practice restraint unless the message comes through loud and clear from the people generally."

"Recently the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce took this state's proportionate share of the $186.1 billion federal budget and prorated it among the various counties within Pennsylvania. I was interested, and more than a little shocked, to see that Lancaster County's share of that budget is $305 million. That's just about equal to the total annual wages and salaries paid to manufacturing employees within the county, and only slightly below the total assessed valuation of all our taxable real estate."

EVANT NEWS

By Cornelia Kreid

Without even having time to ask a week off, this will be the last letter until Bryan and I return from Glen Lake Methodist Camp, Glen Rose, Texas. This is very sudden, exciting and will be a happy experience for the inexperienced two of us. Our son launches his "camping" and I flair forth as counselor for a house full of little girls. . . That is not too new for me, for I used to keep as many as five at the time, and never kept but one boy one day, until Bryan came for "keeps". If someone else wants to make up the news for next week (and several get the idea at the same time) the spot Evant is usually in need not be blank. Mrs. George Griggs, who underwent surgery in Gatesville hospital last Tuesday, is making a satisfactory recovery and due home soon. Mrs. Jim Ray was conveyed to Hamilton County General Hospital one day last week. No word as to her condition has been reported. She is a patient in January Care Home, part time.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Calhoun and daughter, Nevada, are visiting in the home of his sister, Mrs. Willie Lovings and with his father, Rob Calhoun. The harvest is almost finished; only one 2/10 inch of rain was recorded in this area, last week, and the hay did not mind that very much. Some one suggested there will be enough hay to fulfill need for a seven year dry season, but farmers hope it will not be so.

Mr. Elmer Brooks has just completed the overseeing of the work being done on the Langford Cemetery. A new fence, beautiful new entrance and well kept cemetery was ready for the unveiling ceremony held in honor of the late Frank Gholson, Sunday afternoon, in that place. Credit need not wait longer for another week. Mr. Brooks is solely responsible for this decided improvement in the Langford Cemetery.

At three o'clock, officials of Lampasas Historical Association, together with descendants and friends of the Gholson family gathered in the shade of the giant oaks, in Langford Cemetery to pay tribute to the man who is second in a family to serve as law enforcement officer, as he was the son of a Col. Gholson, who came from Tennessee and settled in the Robertson Colony, where his distinguished son was born in 1842.

This is the first cemetery marker of such kind to be unveiled by the Lampasas Historical Survey group. Present to clip the ribbon and hand it to Mr. Albert Gholson, age 86, and only living son of the early Indian fighter and pioneer, was Mr. L.H. Baldwin, Lampasas. The late Mr. Gholson was easily recognized as the first man to come to the minds of the committee, when the first plans were laid to so honor a citizen who had helped so much to establish a better society, as had Mr. Gholson, in serving as Texas Ranger.

Although not meeting for the purpose, the fact was revealed and attention brought to light that the concrete marker erected by the government honoring Civil War Veterans, had been placed at the Frank Gholson grave, also.

The four "next of kin" in one family, present, included the grandsons, Frank Gholson, Robert Gholson, Preston Gholson and T.R. Gholson, who are sons of the late Roy Gholson, son of the first Frank Gholson, T.R. Gholson made the response for the family, after speaker, L.M. Stephens, Lometa, had delivered his message of vital historical and personal interest. Mr. Stephens, as a child, of seven, heard stories from his own father of the Rangers which included serving with Mr. Frank Gholson.

Pope Gerald, Hamilton, a former teacher of old "Rawhide", was included among guests, outside the family relations, who was present. He had boarded in the Frank Gholson home, which still stands, just off Highway 281, a double story rock structure.

The youngest child, a great-great-granddaughter of the late honoree, was Elizabeth Saver, daughter of Burnell and Elaine Conley Shaver, Dallas, who was present with her own grandmother, Mrs. Elmer Conley, and great grandmother, Mrs. A.O. Arnold. Very proudly this child stood as a representative of her generation, smiling, as she was photographed with her elders.

Other out-of-town relatives, not named Gholson, included Mrs. Hershel Lyle, Austin, and the Hulan Arnolds, Dallas, the Barkers, San Antonio, and perhaps someone who momentarily slips the memory. This was quite the nicest event in the community, over the weekend, and with so much interest, it propels the minds of the patrons of the oldest cemetery in this area, to consider some permanent way of keeping up the appearance, with the years, to be unequalled by none, in this area.

Guests in the afternoon, Sunday, in the Chester Sheldon home were Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Sheldon, Phil and Mrs. Sam Heimer, Gatesville and Overton. An interesting incident they told was of meeting their cousins, the Hulan Arnolds, Dallas, on a recent vacation trip to Galveston, Small world, this!

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Sheldon spent part of last week with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. C.L. White, Abilene. While there, the group were privileged to visit their son and grandson, Randy White, who was in Boy Scout Camp at Buffalo Gap, and attend the family night program.

Of special interest is the wedding of Miss Cheryl Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Horton who will be married to James Lee Stone, June 22, at 8:00 o'clock in the evening, at Evant Church of Christ.

Friends and relatives are being invited. Mrs. Lillburn Green is opening her home for a bridal tea on Saturday afternoon, June 22, honoring Miss Beverly Sheldon, bride-elect of Gary Hudson, Co-hostesses are Mrs. Buddy Arnold and Mrs. Delvin Marwitz. Miss Sheldon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boots Sheldon.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Dorothy Denise Derwin- Michael Kent Thompson

MRS. MICHAEL KENT THOMPSON

Miss Dorothy Denise Derwin was married to Michael Kent Thompson in a double ring ceremony, Saturday, June 8, at half after six in the First Street Church of Christ, Minister Clay performed the traditional candlelight ceremony before a colonial arch garlanded with ivy and pring flowers which formed a background on the church podium. Large baskets of Gladiolus, stock, and majestics were placed on colonial pedestals. Two seven-branched candelabra, holding tall white tapers flanked the decorated arch. On either side of the church podium, large fifteen-arched candelabra also held tall white tapers. Tiers of polished jade and merald foliage completed the decorations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of silk linen. The moulded bodice was fashioned with a ring neckline and elbow-length sleeves of French lace outlined with seed pearls. The slim A-line skirt was complimented by a full train of like material, extending from the shoulders. Lace appliques outlined with seed pearls were repeated on the train.

Her veil of silk illusion fell softly below her shoulders from a pearl tiara. The bride carried a cathedral bouquet of phalaenopsis and miniature spray orchids with stephanotis placed on a lace covered Bible.

For jewelry she wore a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Steven Neeley of Denton was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Daniel J. Michaelis of Denton and Mrs. Ray Lawrence of Lampasas.

George Thompson of Gatesville, brother of the groom and Harrell Van Clary of Lampasas lighted the candles and served as ushers along with Ray Bostick, also of Lampasas.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Derwin chose an aqua blue silk wored dress with a high ring neckline and matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a pink double-knit dress with matching accessories. They wore pink rosebud corsages.

Miss Darlene Yarbrough of Lampasas registered the guests in the foyer of the church.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church hosted by the bride's parents. The bride's table was laid with a white net cloth over pleated satin and crystal and silver appointments were carried out. A flower arrangement of spring flowers centered the table. The three-tiered wedding cake topped with love birds, was served with punch.

Miss Melanie Smith and Miss Cathy Tomlinson presided at the serving table. Other members of the houseparty were Miss Sharleen Clary, Miss Kathy Clary, Miss Karen Lilley, Mrs. W.T. Yarbrough, Mrs. J. For going away, Mrs. Thompson chose a lime green and white striped Ban-Lon dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis from her bridal bouquet.

After a short wedding trip to Lake Texoma in Oklahoma, the couple will reside at 1018-1/2 Prairie, Denton, Texas.

Food For Thought

Mrs. B.A. Snoddy

"And knew not until the flood came". Matt: 24:39

We often hear of tragedies that occur in our localities or neighboring ones, or maybe a news item and the remark will be made, "We just didn't know until it had already happened". Maybe a loaded gun, taking the life of a friend, or a loved one; or leaking gas, which no one realized was happening until too late, and whole families are overcome. We heard an eye-witness account, just recently, of the tornado that struck down upon a little town in Arkansas, which came without warning to anyone, until it had happened, leaving several killed and quite a number hurt, also great property damage. The above scripture that I've chosen to think about this week, has to do with the culmination of all things as we know it.

This thought burns in my heart as I look about and see the masses of the people that seem unaware of what is happening all around us.

The American people, generally, believe the written word of God is Truth, so all I wish to bring you are quotations, giving you the books, chapters and verses, where you can find it.

The writings of the Prophets cover some fourteen hundred years of time, but as you study them, you will note that they all agree, which makes us know that they wrote, as they were moved upon by the Holy Ghost.

Quoting Nahum 3:3 & 4: "The chariots shall be with flaming torches in the day of His preparation - - - the chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against the other in the broadways; they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightning". The old prophet Nahum had never seen a car, but since it was a way of travel, he called them chariots. Is this not a good description of the car? This was to be in the days of His preparation.

Another quotation from Daniel's prophecy, Daniel 12th chapter, 4th verse: "But thou, O, Daniel, shut up the words and seal the book, even to the time of the end: Many shall run to and fro and knowledge shall be increased".

The world has become a small place, people travel all over the world, thinking nothing about it and there was never a time of so much knowledge; knowledge of ways of travel; knowledge in the science of medicine and the human body, with kidney, eye and heart transplants, not mentioning the lesser things. Knowledge of materials, synthetics, soils and things too numerous to mention.

Never before were people so college-minded, the world demanding specialized training. The following are Jesus' own words: "And as it was in the

Newly Married Couples Should Change All Official Records

Brides and grooms have many official records to change reminds Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist.

Working brides should make sure all the records at their places of employment show their new status. Failure to do so can cause confusion later in regard to state, federal and local income taxes, says the Texas A & M University specialist.

In addition, check all insurance policies and their benefits which frequently are offered through employers or labor union. Make sure all the names are in order on the benefits.

Other records that need to carry the bride's new name are social security records, driver license and credit cards. These changes should be made as soon as possible after the wedding.

The Social Security Office has a change of name card that must be filled. The main office issues the bride a new card with her new name.

A duplicate driver's license with the bride's new name can be obtained from the local driver license office for one dollar. If the license expires within 90 days, then the license will be just renewed with the new name on it.

The change of name on credit card varies with the company. The bride should notify the companies that she has changed her name. They will let her know if there are additional forms to be filled out or they will change the name and send her a new card.

Precious Memories

By Roland Magill
By my fireplace in the twilight
I think of days beyond recall
I see faces in the flashes of the firelight on the wall,
In the stillness of the twilight,
As they whisper soft and low
Oh, precious things of memory
From the shores of memory's sea.

Oh, those happy fleeting years,
I wonder where they've gone,
In memory's dream I bring them back and live them over one by one.

By nature's law as we grow old
We look backward more and more
Back along the vanished years to precious childhood's long ago,
Memories of the years gone by
Very often dim the eye.

In Memory's bonded store house
Holding jewels rich and rare
Gems I lost forever
I find them stored there.
The one I hold most precious,
as a child I stored away
They seem to never lose their luster but grow more precious day by day.

Fond memories are on deposit
to enrich the golden years,
Bringing surcease to the heart
With so little grief or tears,
May I face old age with valor
As it comes creeping, oh so slow
May I face the end with courage
When it comes my time to go.
Until I face life's setting sun,
Lord, let the memories linger on.

I can't remember anything
'til after eighteen eighty-two,
I waited until late November
then I reported, spanking-new.
I will remember my last dresses
When I was half past three
And, oh, how proud of my first brides that mama made for me.

Toxic Plants Cause Illness to Children

Children should not eat -- or even chew -- any plant that doesn't appear on the dinner plate. The U.S. Public Health Service receives about 12,000 reports annually on children made ill by eating toxic plants.

The conscientious parent who warns a child not to eat wild mushrooms and tells him how to recognize poison ivy and poison sumac may never think to warn against oleander, yew, rhubarb leaves, polssetta, jack-in-the-pulpit, and jimsonweed. All of those can be deadly, reports Extension specialists at Texas A & M University.

National Safety Council also calls the mountain laurel and castor beans potentially lethal and adds rhododendron, red sage, jasmine and azalea to that category. Plants that can bring on severe digestive upset include the common buttercup, lily of the valley, daffodil bulbs and wisteria.

Some poisonous plants look and even taste like attractive fruits and vegetables. The water hemlock and poison hemlock, both lethal, have been mistaken for wild carrot; the dangerous nightshades bear cherry-like fruits. This group includes the Texas thistle.

Bread has Budget- stretching Qualities

Bits of bread or "Crumbs of Wisdom" works wonders in many dishes, Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, suggests keeping bread crumbs and cubes in labeled jars or cans, ready to use on a moment's notice.

Bread has budget-stretching qualities; all of it can be eaten. Don't throw away the end-pieces; many people think they are the choice part of a loaf of bread; or the end pieces can be added to the crumb container, reminds the Texas A & M University specialist.

Wrapping and storage conditions help maintain bread freshness. Bread is staling when it loses flavor and aroma, increased in firmness and crumbliness and develops a harsh texture. Always keep bread wrapped. Keep it in a bread box that has ventilation. Bread can be kept in the refrigerator, but it stales more rapidly. Stored in the freezer it will maintain its freshness, says Mrs. Clyatt.

Modern Custom Kitchens

Leaves More Time For Family Recreation

Today's modern kitchens are custom planned, created and installed to meet the family's needs and tastes. They take in account how much the homemaker uses the kitchen, how much entertaining she does, and that the kitchen is a family gathering place. While the kitchen is planned, the homemaker's use of each of the main areas that make up a kitchen are studied; food mixing and preparation, cook and serving area and clean-up.

Custom designed kitchens are planned for good work flow arrangements and the placement of production elements for maximum efficiency. The dazzling beauty of the modern kitchens give the homemaker a psychological lift and keep meal preparation from being a chore.

With more efficient and pleasant kitchens, the whole family has more time for other activities... mother isn't tied down to long hours of meal preparation and the kids are through much quicker with their clean up jobs after the meals. As a result, even dad has more free time because meals are served promptly and everyone is ready to go on with their activities much sooner.

Many families have turned to home swimming pools as a perfect family recreation fun for free time. Pools are no longer a luxury for the very rich, but now are in the reach of most comfortable homes. A family can enjoy good wholesome recreation and exercise through the use of their pools. It not only helps keep the family together but makes the family the social center of activity for their friends.

A sweepstakes now being conducted by Kraft Oil takes advantage of this trend for better living and more recreation. For a grand prize it offers a choice of a completely installed St. Charles Custom Kitchen or a completely installed Futura Hi-Rise Swimming Pool. The sweepstakes is called the Kraft Oil "Sink or Swim" Sweepstakes and offers 1115 other prizes for the home including Lenox Dinnerware, R.C.A. portable color television sets, Sunbeam Electric Frypans and Vera Linen Mat and Napkin Sets. To enter the sweepstakes a person simply sends their name and address on an entry blank with the label from any size Kraft Oil to the sweepstakes address. Entries must be postmarked no later than July 1, 1968.

The grand prize St. Charles Kitchen will be custom designed to the winner's own personal taste. It includes cabinets, refrigerator, dishwasher, oven, countertop range, hood with exhaust fan and the kitchen sink including a waste disposal. The Futura Patio "Hi-Rise" Swimming Pool is 32x16 feet and will be completely installed on the winners lot. It includes a jet stream filtration system, two redwood decks, fence, benches, two tables, twelve chairs, an umbrella and a slide. Although a kitchen is basically a meal-making factory, a modern customized kitchen makes meal planning a big event, gives a showcase for the family's china and is the finest thing that could happen to a busy hostess. It becomes a focal point for everyone in the family. By creating extra leisure time, it permits everyone in the family enough time for that backyard dip in the pool, great for relaxing and exercising.

Shortcake Brunch by Betty Crocker

Here's a new ruffe for brunchtime entertaining. Make a whole meal of creamy, golden-crust strawberry shortcake. Serve warm and generously buttered, heaped with sliced dewy berries -- and with seconds waiting in the wings. Then pass a variety of toppings. A pitcher of rich cream, maybe. A bowl of whipped cream flavored with almond, why not? Another bowl of softened ice cream. Or how about dairy sour cream with brown sugar to sprinkle on top? And if you'd like to add still more fun, move your party to the patio and bake the shortcake on the outdoor grill. Just be sure the coffee's perking in the big picnic pot when guests arrive.

Basic Shortcake Recipe
2 1/2 cups New Bisquick
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons butter, melted and cooled slightly
1/2 cup milk
Heat oven to 450°. Mix ingredients with fork. Knead 8 to 10 times on lightly floured cloth-covered board. Roll dough 1/2 inch thick. Cut with floured 3-inch cutter. Bake on ungreased baking sheet about 10 minutes. To serve, split shortcakes crosswise while warm. If desired, spread with butter. Spoon sweetened strawberries between layers and over top. Serve with whipped cream. Makes 6 shortcakes.
OR
Add a little showmanship. Bake one large shortcake. Split, spoon on the berries and cream, and bring it to the table for cutting. You follow the recipe at left except -- spread the dough in ungreased round layer pan, 8x1 1/2 inches. Bake 15 to 20 minutes or until nicely browned.

OR
Dust off the patio furniture, pull out the grill and serve Grill Shortcake: Prepare shortcake as directed at left except -- spread dough in ungreased pie pan. Cover with another pie pan. Bake on grill about 15 minutes. Turn pan over and bake 15 minutes longer or until crust is browned. Cut into wedges.

Watch for other fresh berries and try Double Berry Topping: Half strawberries and half raspberries. Or half-and-half strawberries and blueberries.

Scotts Down Guaranty In 9 Inning Contest

The Guaranty Bank squad met and up and coming group of men in the red and white of Scott's Furniture, Wednesday night in the only game played. Starting pitchers were Marshal Edwards for Scott's Furniture and Fred Holyfield for the Guaranty Bank. Holyfield made his first trip to the mound Wednesday night.

Scott's Furniture pulled out to an early lead in the first two innings and at that point, coach Junior Loer put in Jim Saunders for the remainder of the game. Holyfield gave up three runs in his first performance to the hot hitting Scott's nine, but more experienced hurlers have had the same trouble lately.

The Guaranty Green pulled up even with Scott's in the 4th on Kenneth Brown's long smashing double to left field. Ronald Brown scored from third base and Ray Martin raced in from second base.

The two teams were scoreless through the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th innings.

It was in the top of the 9th when Marshall Edwards reached first base on a bad throw to first.

Randy Schoenewolf knocked in Edwards on a short fly ball into right field. Edwards scored from first base and Schoenewolf reached third base on the play.

Guaranty Bank was unable to pick up a run in the bottom of the ninth.

Scott's Furniture has now won two in a row and are working their way up after a slow start. Guaranty Bank has tasted their first defeat, but still have the lead in the junior league.

IT STARTED WITH A WOMAN

While fishing is usually thought of as a man's sport, the first fishing expert was really a woman.

A printing of a bit of outdoor writing penned on parchment around fourteen twenty-five has been credited to a sweet little English nun named Dame Juliana Berners.

Juliana was born of a royal family in England and did some fishing and hunting as a girl with some of her sporting cousins and friends. Later on, she entered a nunnery at St. Albans and wrote the first known works on fishing.

Juliana wasn't any slouch concerning the art of angling, say the fishing experts at Mercury outboards. For instance, here's how she recommends making a fishing rod.

First you cut a smooth six-foot staff of willow or aspen. Heat it in an oven, get it good and straight, and let it dry for four weeks. The next trick is to get a piece of plumber's wire, heat it red hot, and burn a hole clear through the staff. Then store it in a smokehouse for a while.

Now you take a stroll in the woods and cut a slender slip of hazel the same length. Soak it thoroughly, straighten it out, and let it dry in the smokehouse too. The next step is to trim the hazel whip so it can be inserted into the butt section. Now, fashion a metal pin to hold the two together, and you have a two section fishing rod.

Juliana advocates such a two section rod because it forms a good walking staff for a Sunday afternoon stroll, and can easily be transformed into a fishing rod if you happen by a good fishing hole.

For a line, Juliana advocates the long horsehairs woven together and colored with a mixture of ale, crushed walnut leaves and alum. Such a line, she says, blends with the water and fools the fish more readily.

In her tips for anglers she recommends not casting a shadow on the water, fishing below waterfalls or in deep pools, fishing when the wind is west and using a wire leader either out of the south or the west when fishing for pike.

She makes one more recommendation which is just as true today as it was five hundred and forty-three years ago. Choose your bait with care, she says, "for you cannot bring a hook into a fish's mouth unless there is food on it that pleases him."

Fishing wasn't and isn't the exclusive male sport that some people think it is.

FAINTING

When you feel a fainting spell coming on, lie down or, if this is not possible, sit down and place your head between your knees. This helps relieve the nausea that frequently accompanies the fainting feeling. The application of smelling salts or cold water aids in reviving someone who has fainted. It is advisable not to get up immediately upon regaining consciousness. If a fainting victim does not regain consciousness immediately, secure medical assistance as rapidly as possible.

American Consumers Waste 12 Percent of Typical Family Income

Habitual credit-buying, TV guided, hasty shopping American consumer wastes about $920 a year, or 12 percent of the typical family income.

The largest money waste is in food buying. Potential savings here are estimated at $416 per year for a family of four.

Finance charges, medicines and toiletries, car operation, insurance, home furnishings and clothing all offer possible savings. The waste of family money over a 20-year period is estimated to be enough to pay all college expenses for the family's two children.

Here are ways to save on day-to-day expense.

Round steak, a popular weekend supermarket special is a good choice when well trimmed. Meat tenderizers, pounding or pressure cooking can give consumers the best of two worlds—economy and flavor.

Expensive canned fruits like Elberta peaches and Bartlett pears can be bought in cans of chunks and pieces for a fourth less than canned halves; mushroom stems and pieces are much less than buttons. A store's own brand of fruits and vegetables are usually several cents a can less than a "name" brand of the same product, with no difference in quality.

Buy towel and bedsheet regularly since flaws will not affect either use or wear.

When requesting a new hookup of electrical power, gas, lights or water, you are usually charged a deposit. After paying bills for a year, request the deposit back from the utility company, which, otherwise, may hold it indefinitely.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS BY VERN SANFORD

What's the most popular cartridge in the world today? To make the question even simpler, what is the best-selling cartridge in Texas?

If you answer the .30/06 you're wrong. The .30/30? Wrong again. Far and away the most popular is the .22 Long Rifle.

Just about anyone interested in guns has a .22 rimfire of one type or another. In fact, some people who are not remotely interested in hunting have a .22 around the house. It's handy for plinking an unwanted pest or for protection.

Furthermore, every major firearms manufacturer sells .22 rifles and ammo. This tiny cartridge and rifles chambered for it are as American as baseball and football.

But don't let the small size of the cartridge fool you. There's a lot of power wrapped in that diminutive package. The Long Rifle pushes a 40-grain bullet from the muzzle at 1,335 feet-per-second, and out at 100 yards it still is zipping along at 1,045 fps. At the muzzle it develops 158 foot-pounds of energy. At 100 yards it still has 97 fp of energy.

The Long Rifle (the Short was developed for plinking and is okay for squirrels and cottontail rabbits when in the hands of a proficient marksman) is adequate for any small game up to and including the jackrabbit. Deer have been killed with it, but the .22 rimfire is now outlawed as a deer weapon in Texas.

The Long, an in-between of the Short and Long Rifle, serves no useful purpose except to please a few customers who still demand it. The Long Rifle is a much better buy, is more accurate and more efficient.

Much of the credit for the .22 rimfire as we know it today belongs to Joshua Stevens who, oddly, was a maker of firearms, not ammunition. Back in late-1864, Stevens founded J. Stevens and Company and started making guns on his own. He had worked in several gun enterprises and figured he was ready to make his own mark in the world.

His first shop was part of a small grist mill on the north shore of the Chicopee River in Massachusetts. Here he began making a break-action, single-shot pistol. Soon he branched out into rifles and shotguns.

He developed several pistols for the then popular .22 rimfire cartridge. But he was not satisfied with the low-powered .22 Short, nor with the awkward combination for more power by using a longer case and keeping the same 29-grain bullet of the .22 Short.

Stevens enlisted the aid of a famous ballistician, William M. Thomas, at the Union Metallic Cartridge Company to find a more accurate and powerful .22. Result was the .22 Long Rifle introduced in about 1889.

This shell uses the same case as the .22 Long, but employs the heavier 40-grain bullet. The Long has the same slug as the Short. Thus it is sort of a hybrid of the two, yet really doesn't do the job as well as either of the other two. The Short and Long Rifle both are much more accurate.

If you prefer plinking, use the Short; should you like hunting, employ the Long Rifle. The Long is absolutely unnecessary.

How well the cartridge was designed is reflected in the .22 Long Rifle of today, which has not changed much since 1889, except for the substitution of smokeless powder for black powder. Otherwise, it is the identical cartridge. It has stood the test of time. And for any cartridge, that is the ultimate test.
