1968Miss Texas Pageant Competition Begins

Gatesville's Miss Texas hopeful, Miss Regina Balch, entered into the first night of the three performance 1968 Miss Texas Pageant in Fort Worth, Wednesday evening in the world - renowned Will Rogers Colosseum.

With the opening overture played by John Giordano, and the Miss Texas Orchestra, the excitement and anticipation rose in each of the member's of the audience and mumbles of well wishes concerning their favorite, sung out over the hall.

Following the overture, the contestants took their respective places on the stage. The beauties were dressed in evening gowns for their presentation to the audience. Present on stage were qualities of beauty and poise to please the most critical of critics.

County Judge Proclaims

July 27th has been proclaimed National Farm Safety Week. The Coryell County Farm Bureau is urging all persons who live on farms and ranches -as well as those who have agriculture related jobs -- to be more conscious of good, sound safety practices at work, in their homes and on public roads. Why? Because more than 700thousand farm residents were killed in accidents during 1967.

Modern farming is a complicated and highly skilled profession. It is also a hazardous occupation. Each year, thousands of farm residents are killed in accidents and many more

In 1967, 280 Texans died in farm related accidents, an increase of more than 28 percent, from 218 in 1966 to 280 this past year. During the tenyear period from 1949 to 1959, an average of 162.2 fatalities were recorded.

More than half of the marked increase of 62 farm deaths from 1966 to 1967 can be attributed to the following increases during that one-year period: farm machinery other than tractors, 8 to 22; drownings, 29 to 41; animals, 4 to 13. This tragic loss can be curtailed and even halted if good, sound safety habits are observed. The Coryell County Farm Bureau urges you to do your part. The skilled farm operators who die in these accidents are not easily replaced and represent a vital loss to agriculture.

Observe National Farm Safety Week - July 21 through 27th, and be conscious of good safety practices.

"What Government Gives, It Must First Take Away"

After months of wrangling, Congress finally passed a longexpected tax increase -- and at the same time, voted to force cuts in government spending by $6 billion. In commenting on passage of the tax increase package, U.S. News and World Report notes: "At this point, you can be sure of one thing: Taxes are going up. You cannot be really sure that spending will go down." If precedent is any indication, spending cuts will be illusory. New spending measures could easily wipe out the pluses of any cuts. A lot depends upon whether the people themselves are ready to accept the comparatively slight sacrifices that government fiscal responsibility would call for.

Writing in the July issue of The Reader's Digest, Representative Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, and often called the "most important man on Capitol Hill, "tells why we must control federal spending -- difficult as that may be. The pressure on Congress to appropriate tay funds is almost irrestible. on Congress to appropriate tax funds is almost irrestible. These pressures are so great that many have concluded government spending is no longer controllable. Mr. Mills himself concedes that the difficulties are great. He describes how on one day, February 8, 1968, eleven congressional committees met to consider numerous spending proposals. These included $1.3 billion for the Colorado River Basin and additional billions for aid to higher education. On the same day, Congress received the President's $3. billion foreign aid message and, in Mr. Mills' words: "That same day, more than 70 new bills were introduced, calling for everyting from a new $60,444,000 federal building to a $150 - million - a - year scientific research program" This was not all. Again, on the same day, the White House requested a $1.2 billion supplemental appropriations for welfare spending. And the cretary of the Interior called for funds for a national shrine

Even as the demands for new tax dollars mounted, spending on old programs continued. In a 24-hour period, the government paid out $474 million -- $54 million more than it took Mr. Mills points out that federal programs, once started, inevitably increase in scope and cost. Few ever disappear. He quotes a Tax Foundation study, which reports that in 13 years, no fewer than 112 new federal programs have been launched. In the first year of their respective operations, they cost $3.6 billion. By fiscal 1968, their annual costs had risen to $16.5 billion. Most discouraging, in the opinion of Mr. Mills, are the endless overlapping and duplication of these programs and agencies. "At present, 30 separate programs help with teacher training, 57 . . . for job training, 35 for housing. More than 260 programs administered by 16 separate agencies and departments are included in the war on

Mr. Mills believes most strongly that the only way to bring federal spending under control is through creation of a new Hoover-style commission -- "a 12 - man, independent, bipartisan Government Program Evaluation Commission drawn from the top ranks of American leadership outside government -- to be set up to go over federal programs periodically to determine whether our tax dollars are being well spent." However, in the long run, the establishment of ach a commission will be in vain without public support, and a realization that the security of our homes, our jobs, our savings -and our freedom -- are at stake. Without this realization, as Mr. Mills puts it "... even if we could eliminate every obviously wasteful government project, the expansion in federal spending would still not be curbed. The passage of the new tax bill may have the salutary effect of helping us to realize the truth of the old saying, "what government gives, it must first take away."

Local Policeman Has Unique Interest

Collects Historical

Relics . . .

Fabian Klecka, Gatesville's night patrolman, has a unique side interest in old Indian relics and other historical items.

Klecka has just recently returned from his vacation trip to Lake City, Colorado, where he visited Turk Brown and, of course, spent much time at the bottom of only gold mines in that area.

One would think that with all the collectors in the world, by now there would be no rock unturned. The mines Klecka prowled through in Colorado contained several relics of the past, including an old gold sifter used in the mine around Klecka found several hand sifters, while in the mine, and a brass lantern, dated 1866. Fabian has been collecting about twelve years. He got his start from his father who used to take him to Indian camps when he was twelve years old.

Asked how many items he had found, Klecka said, "Once I started to count the Indian relics, I got up to 7000 and stopped, with several boxes still uncounted". Klecka esti-mates that he has over 12,000 items in his collections,

Some of his oldest Indian relics date back as far as 20,000 B.C.

A gun collection, totaling 125 guns, completely fills one room of the Klecka home, at 126 N. 26th Street, Cap and ball pistols, rifles dating back to 400 years, civil war pistols and four brass framed 66 Winchesters, The Winchester 66 was the first repeating rifle and it had a tre-mendous effect on western development. The four 66's are valued at $1500.

Klecka's collection contains a section of straight razors, dating back before the Civil War, tweleve old saddles, old saddle bags, 300 types of barbed wire, a collection of harnesses, a spur collection, Civil War swords and old powder flasks, Each item tells part of the U, S. History and the development

At right Fabian holds an old powder horn. Several displays of arrowheads decorate the three display rooms of the Klecka

Klecka reported, "I have several sites in Coryell County where I plan to do some digging". A collector always has a shovel near.

As city night patrolman, Klecka cannot get completely away from his collection since he carries one of the first Army 45 caliber automatic pistols made in 1911 by Colt.

EVANT NEWS

By Cornelia Kreid

Rain is surely in the news. From one to six inches fell in Evant and vacinity last Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. Something like a rain of cloudburst proportion fell at the Claibourne Walton place, and over on the east side of the highway 281 area, at Owen Lee's someone and a half was re-ported. The Kreid Ranch decided on two and three tenths to two and one half inches, after checking a guage or two. Old fashioned fall weather prevailed for several hours, bringing out an extra quilt and whippoor-will-cries, that night. Word that Mrs. James Carter, daughter of Mrs. Lona Burney, is on a tour with a library research class in foreign countries is news to many readers of this column. Mrs. Carter, a former resident of Evant, now lives in Washington, D.C. and works there as a librar-Her study this summer, will add some twenty - seven hours toward her goal as hold-er of a Master's Degree in in Library Science. Not only will the class remain in session, for seven weeks, which began July 1, but it will go to the places in which many classics were written, study-ing the back ground of the authors and see the work which is displayed in their native countries . . . While on the subject, we might add that the Carter's daughter, Rosalie, who married a marine captain several months ago, is still attending her duties with music in her country, while her husband has again been sent to VietNam.

Glen D. Shave and son, Craig, spent a few days with the Frank Shave family. Craig remained for a longer visit. His bro-ther, Roye, was already with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Wigley and Mr. and Mrs. Shave, where he will spend the remainder of the summer. Glen was highly impressed with all the fresh fruit and vegetables this area supports just now, stating that in all the city of Wichita Falls, where they live, not a single fresh vege-table is available.

More moving among the residents of Evant has taken place. Mr. and Mrs. George Nall have moved from the Bob Campbell house to that which was vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Upham, when they purchased the Self place and moved, near Bee House. Mr. Joe Eason, formerly of Lamesa, is presently employed with Evant Funeral home, as embalmer, For seven years, he was employed with a Gatesvill firm. His wife, presently mpany in the city of Lamesa, il remain there for the time rs. Tennie Bowman Wilison, died Tuesday, and was ried from Evant Funeral ome, Thursday of last week, in Hurst Ranch Cemetery. She was of an old and well known family of Mills County. Her husband was buried in Hurst Ranch Cemetery a few years ago. The Bowman family have a community named for them, or perhaps just a cemetery, in Mills County.

Mr. J.M. Winters has been moved from Rotunda Convalescent Home, Gatesville, to January Care Home, in Evant. His condition seems to show little change from day to day. Mrs. V. Gordon, who had an infected toe, spent a few days in Hamilton County General Hospital and returned home the middle of the week,

Mrs. Edward Perkins is able to sit up more and is enjoying the "fruits" of her neighbors and family, who are so kind

Mrs. R.E. Lee, came for a month's stay at January Care Home, but after seeing all her friends, she says, and members of her family, she had her "stay" out and returned to her apartment in Waco, as her son, Clayton, came for her.

The sunshine proved good peaching drying weather; it is a wonder I don't write peach every other sentence, for we have bushels out drying. Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Horton and Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson had a short vacation trip to Corpus Christi last week. Reports on Pvt. and Mrs. James Slone, sounds good. They are making new friends inthe service men and wife teams at Fort Bragg. Twice James has been scheduled for a period of sevaral days out in the filed;

twice his departure has been postponed. Chyrl has already made plans to remain with new friends, if he has to be away. It is amazing how we make mistakes of thinking the early citizens of our United States were the only pioneers. A small town couple, who are making good pioneers has just been pointed out.

Rob Calhoun, one of our older citizens, who makes his home with his daughter and grandson, Mrs. Willie Lovins and William, is not so well these days. Mrs. Lovins, wife of a service man, who is stationed in Greenland, is another example of what young women can do in emergencies. She came back to her home town, rented a house, moved her father in with she and her charming son, and is rendering a service "beyond the call of duty" on the home

Mrs. Gertrude Newton and Mrs. Owen Lee received word that their daughter and sister, Mrs. Leota Glover, Fort Worth had sustained a broken arm, but is doing as well as she can. Mrs. Newton, a patient in the January Care home, is still making pretty hand work and enjoys company as much as she ever did.

MEXICAN SALAD

Here is a main dish meal that promises to be an exciting adventure into the wonderful world of saladry!

It's a hearty bologna and vegetable salad that is nutritious as well as beautiful with its exciting contrast of flavor and texture and color. Red beans, bologna and hard-cooked eggs are the basic components. Sliced celery, chopped onion and dill pickle provide crunch, and also serve as flavor accents, eliminating the need for any spices, even the standard salt and pepper. Simple ingredients and preparation are definite advantages in this main dish Mexican Salad. The bologna is fully-cooked and can be added directly from the package, comments Ellen Edwards, Home Economist. Simply cut into wedges before combining with other ingredients. Cooking the eggs is the only advance preparation necessary. The dressing? An ingenious blend of two ready-bottled ingredients—mayonnaise and French

This salad is so tasty and colorful, why not serve it in a Mexican setting for a very special family supper? A basket of steaming tortillas and tall glasses of iced tea will complete

I told Mrs. Woolley that I didn't have time to go fish-ing with her. She insisted, even when I explained about the okra to pick, hollyhocks to chop and weeds to get out of the iris.

I said, "Wind's in the east, fish bite the least!" But she wanted to go anyway so I fi-nally gave in. We went out to a tank she knew about that had been stocked with fish a few years ago.

We had a real good time pulled carnat ling fish out of that tank. But dal aisle. they were all about two or three inches long. Mrs. Woolley said, "Too little! Let 'em grow and I stopped her just in time from throwing them back.

Then I had to tell her that the fish were so small because the tanks had not been fished enough and had become so overcrowded none of the fish had a chance to grow to proper eating size.

"Well, now what are you doing?" she demanded when started to put all those little fish in the bait bucket to take home.

"Why, I'm going to do just like those smart old Indians and bury them in my flower beds for compost," I told her.
"I might have known," she grumbled as we headed for home, "I'll bet you'll have every cat in the neighborhood over there tonight!" I didn't though. After those fish were nicely buried, the cats didn't suspect they were even there. I think I'll just pick up the grand-children and go fishing for more free fertilizer again next week.
