Gatesville Explorer Scouts Leave For Canadian Trip

Nine members of the Explorer Post 174 of the Gatesville Boy Scouts of America will leave Gatesville this week for an extended camping trip in Canada.

Robert Hill and David Powers review the trip plans the Explorer Post 174 began Tuesday morning, August 6. The nine boys will travel by canoe, the entire Canadian trip.

Well, it's Carnival time in Gatesville and the Jaycees and their wives were busy as bees this weekend, readying the south side of our Gatesville square for excitement packed opening night, August 5th.

The gala carnival will have two more big nights, August 6, and 7, after last night's packed affair.

On hand to thrill kids of all ages are rides of all kinds - from the gentle hobby horses to the fastest, jerkiest rides around. Supplying the fantastic fun rides for this year's three-day carnival is Mr. Gene Laddell of Fort Worth.

In addition to the rides, the Jaycees and their wives will man twelve carnival booths with prizes galore.

The rides and booths will open at 6:30 p.m., each of the three days. There will be five adult rides and four kiddie rides and a million ways to enjoy an evening.

The Jaycees place all revenue from the carnival into their general fund to make improvements on the Jaycee baseball park, rodeo arena, Pee Wee football and other civic projects.

Dean Will Not Debate Naman

Texas Farm Bureau President Sidney Dean today said that he has no intention of taking part in a series of proposed public debates with the Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman to discuss Farm Bureau policies. Dean's remarks were in answer to a statement issued by Naman this week.

Naman attacked Farm Bureau policy development, charged the organization as bearing the major responsibility for the low wheat and feed grain prices farmers are now receiving and suggested that Dean answer these charges in public debate.

In regard to Farm Bureau policy development, Dean said, "The 105,653 farm and ranch families who make up the membership of the Texas Farm Bureau are well aware of the method by which all policies of this organization are developed. For it is the members who initiate and adopt the policies through member and delegate action at county, state and national conventions."

The president of the state's largest farm organization termed the remarks, blaming Farm Bureau for causing low prices of farm commodities as ridiculous, and said, "The low price of wheat and feed-grain, as well as other commodities, is the result of present supply management programs which have been and continue to be oppressed by Farm Bureau."

"In 1963, the Secretary of Agriculture and his supporters promised $2 wheat if given a supply - management program. Having had this program in effect for several years, wheat prices are now at a 26 year low. And after more than thirty years of efforts in supply - management legislation, farm parity income is at its lowest ebb," Dean added.

Clary pointed out that the hottest temperatures of the year to date was 97 degrees and that occurred on June 12, 1968.

"There have been several 96 degree readings, but only one 97 degree reading", reported Clary.

Sunday afternoon showers measured only .01 of an inch of rain at the official weather instrument station, two miles south of Gatesville on Highway 36.

Bull Responsible For Two Accidents

Highway Patrolman, J. K. Hamilton, reported four wrecks over the weekend. Two of the wrecks occurred within five minutes of each other.

Saturday morning, at 11:20 a.m., on a county road, eleven miles northwest of Gatesville, Daniel Parr, of Purmela, driving a 1951 Chevrolet pickup and James Dean, of Evant, driving a 1962 Ford stationwagon were in collision.

Patrolman Hamilton said, "Dean was traveling west on the county road and Parr entered the county road from a private drive." Both vehicles were damaged approximately $150.

Sunday, August 4 at 10:00 p.m., Mr. George House, of Pampa, Texas, driving his 1964 Chevrolet pickup, north on FM 116, nine miles north of Copperas Cove, struck a bull which had strayed onto the roadway. House's pickup received $200 damage.

Patrolman Hamilton reported that at 10:05 p.m., Sunday, five minutes after the House pickup struck the bull, Mrs. Marjorie Baker of Copperas Cove, struck the same bull in her 1966 Oldsmobile. Hamilton reported that Mrs. Baker did not see the animal lying on the road and struck the bull with the right front of her car. $200 damages was done to the Baker auto.

Monday morning at 12:50 a.m., Floyd Sutton of Gatesville struck a culvert on Highway 36, south of Gatesville. Patrolman Hamilton reported that Sutton, driving north on Highway 36, apparently went to sleep and ran off the right side of the road, striking the culvert. The 1966 Ford received $500 damage. Sutton was treated and released from Coryell Memorial Hospital.

MEASLES IMMUNIZATION TODAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

Today, from 4:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m., the Coryell County Medical Society will conduct a county-wide Measles inoculation program.

The free doses of measles vaccine will be administered by local physicians to all children from ages one to ten years, at a special clinic set up at the Gatesville High School in the lobby at the main entrance.

The vaccine will be administered with a jet injection, which painlessly implants the vaccine under the skin by pressure.

Doctors involved in the immunization program estimates that 3,000 children in Coryell County are susceptible to the disease and need the inoculation.

The goal of the CCMS is to eliminate the disease entirely and estimates are that 2000 of those needing the vaccine could be handled today.

Tiger Among Newsmen

TV Reporter At National Conventions

Sander Vanocur is described by NBC Field Producer Jack Fern as "a tiger of a newsman." If picking up the scent and relentlessly tracking down a news story has much to do with it, that description fits well.

floor reporters. Mr. Vanocur will report happenings from the floors of both national conventions. Again, as in 1964, Gulf Oil Corporation will sponsor the NBC coverage.

"To be where the action is at the conventions, you must keep moving," says Mr. Vanocur. "moving in the general direction of action." Here his first-hand acquaintance with key political personalities enhances his confidence and his ability to move instinctively in the right direction.

At one point in Atlantic City in 1964 he recognized a Mississippi civil rights group without credentials making their way onto the floor and heading for empty delegate seats. Before the action to oust them started, he had a TV cameraman there to cover his report.

Again following his simple axiom, he noticed then - Senator Humphrey take a seat up in a gallery box. Mr. Vanocur held up his microphone toward the Senator, who smiled and held up his hands as if to say "not yet." The newsmen waited patiently, tenaciously. Later President Johnson entered the Humphrey box and sat. Again Sander Vanocur's microphone went up, this time to the President. Again he got a wave-off. Finally, still standing below the box on the convention floor, Mr. Vanocur received the nod he'd been waiting for. With a leap upward, he grasped the rail with one hand and scaled the wall into the box. His three-hour vigil was rewarded with an exclusive interview with the President prior to Senator Humphrey's nomination as his running mate. "When I looked at the re-run of that leap the next day, I realized I could never have done it again," said Mr. Vanocur. "It was a sheer surge of animal strength."

While physical prowess occasionally helps a floor reporter, an alert mind is his most vital asset. A reporter with pencil and pad has time to reflect and consult. On the floor there's no copy reading. He's concerned with content and fitting in. When he opens his mouth perhaps 20 million people are watching and listening. If he makes a mistake it can't be erased. But Sander Vanocur possesses the rare quality of being coolest under pressure. "Whether I'm speaking extemporaneously or writing for a deadline, I seem to express myself most cogently under these circumstances," he says.

As a political analyst he brings to Gulf's NBC convention coverage an impressive background. Born in Cleveland, Ohio in 1928, he was graduated from Northwestern University social whirl of the Capitol. For relaxation, Mr. Vanocur enjoys tennis, swimming, and reading.

Looking forward to this year's conventions, he sees more uncertainties than at any in recent memory. And in Mr. Vanocur's words, "Whatever happens to the U.S. is going to determine the course of the rest of the world." However, in this unpredictable world it seems certain that Sander Vanocur will be stalking and reporting the action from the front row.

Gatesville at a Glance

by Sally Jones

Coryell County Court House Gatesville, Texas

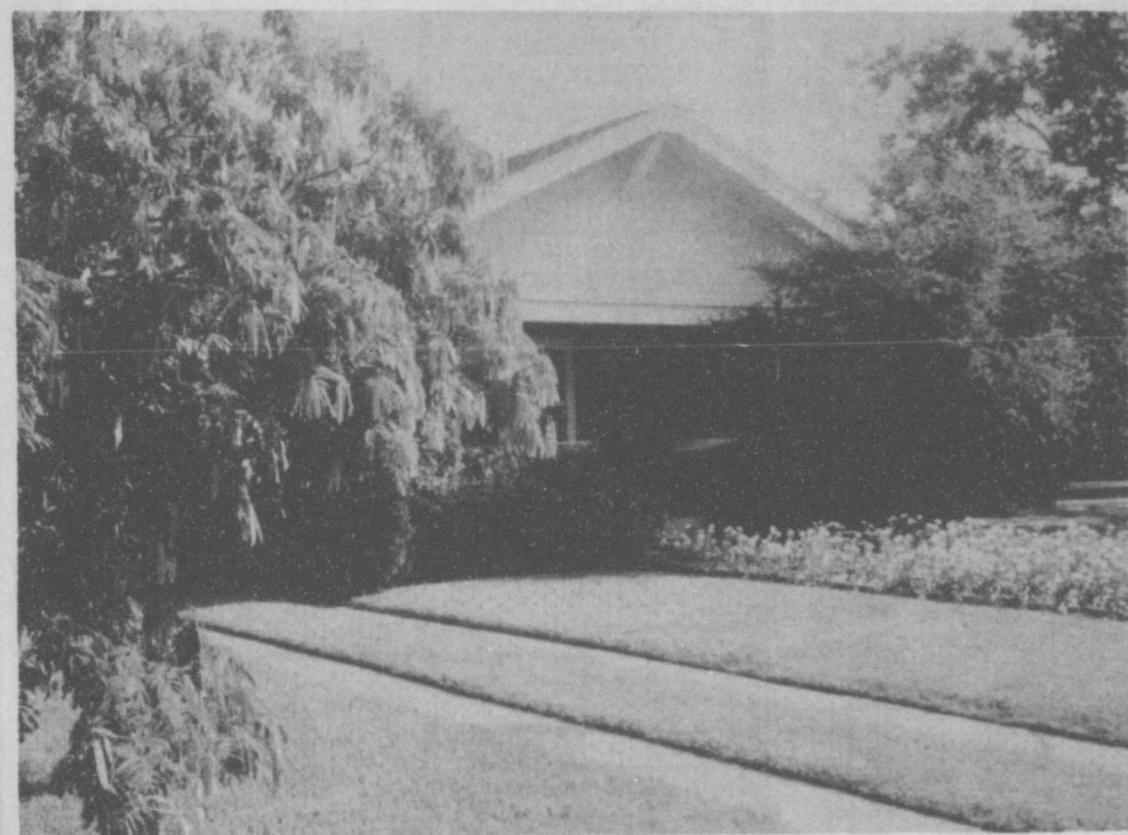

WHAT A WELCOME MAT . . . greets the friends of Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Jackson, Sr. of Gatesville! "Edging" the sides of the smooth, wide sidewalk, leading to the lovely Jackson home are bright, pure white periwinkles. In the flowerbeds to each side of the walk, a sea of white blossoms "welcome" all who approach the home.

Surrounding the large front yard, is a white scalloped fence beside which huge, gorgeous red roses bloom, in the spring, supplying the velvety contrast of a red rose to the white pastered fence.

The house proper is a contrasting factor also. The walls are built of reddish brown brick, with varying intensities of reddish brown blending together. The trim of the house is pure white, which is in sharp contrast with the dark brick.

"OUTDOOR" CARPET . . . From another view of our News Camera, one can see a fine example of thick, natural "outdoor" carpet! Very rarely do the homeowners in this hot area produce such thick carpet like grasses. With plentiful shrubbery and a lazy Mimosa tree to the side of the shape-edged driveway. The greenery around the Jackson home reveals a cool, shady welcoming first "glance" at the Jackson home.

OHIOANS VISIT CRISS . . . Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Criss of Gatesville, were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Criss of Akron, Ohio and his grandmother, Mrs. Hazel Byers of Somerton, Ohio. The Crisses enjoyed having their Ohio guests for two weeks in Gatesville. The relatives left for Ohio, Sunday, August 4th.

BRAVE FLIES AND KIDS AGAIN . . . We Jones, Mrs. W. Mat, Johnny, Pat, Michael, Sally and Vicki Hollingsworth, must have nerves of steel--after such a "successful" backyard excursion, the other day, we braved the flies and kids again, Friday night.

We changed the location though and re-grouped on the B.E. Chambers place. We even added to the ranks! In the absence of Joe's mob, we added the Jack Mitchell Family - Jack, Gladys, Larry, Richard, Karen and Kevin, Oh, me -- oh, me-- after three attempts, we got the fire started - then things moved smoothly. We ate burned weiners, on either cold buns or burned buns (you had a choice you know - fph...fph...fph...) Plus there was either too much mustard or chili to conveniently drop on your kee and run into your shoe. All kiddin' aside, it was a delightful evening and I for one, can't wait to do it again.

Food For Thought

Mrs. B.A. Snoddy

"The name of the Lord is a strong tower: the righteous runneth into it, and is safe" Proverbs 18:10

We are living in an age when much thought is given to places of safety. As we drive from place to place, we see signs over the doors of public buildings, "Fallout Shelter". The news medias will interrupt their news casts and programs to give an alert to the people of an approaching tornado; it is a common thing now, to immunize our little children against different kinds of diseases. So we know that there is danger of man kinds, and we are warned in many ways and taught in different ways the surest place of safety. If the people would only observe and obey the traffic laws, we would have so many less tragedies.

The scripture that I have chosen to think about this week, has to do with the deeper things of life, which concern the eternal destiny of the soul. The following verse of the same scripture reads, thus "The rich man's wealth is his strong city, and as a high wall in his own conceit".

Many people are trusting in their material wealth to be their source of protection, an wall that will keep out a lot of life's unpleasant things.

The American people are more blessed than any nation on earth; we have more of the comforts and conveniences than any people, and we have a wor picture of the condition the children of Israel got into in Psalm 106:13 and 15. They soon got the works of God among them, and waited not for His council; they were not satisfied with what God had blessed them with, and requested more and more. The Bible says God gave them their request, but sent leanness into their soul.

As we look around, do we see a spiritual leanness in the souls of the people?

People, generally, are very much like the people were when Jesus walked on the earth. The most of us have some kind of a need and I would like to bring a few instances where the need was met.

The blind came seeking sight, and lepers came, because they needed cleansing; the lame came desiring to be able to walk again, those desiring to be free from tormenting demons came, seeking deliverance. The woman who had spent all her living, and suffering many things of many physicians, heard of the strong tower of the Lord's healing and strength and came running into it, and was safe.

The Lord's invitation is always "Come" - He was a man of action; He never turned any one away.

The scripture I've used seems to denote a need to hurry, it says, the righteous runneth, and is safe.

Was there ever a time when we need to hurry more than now to find a safe place?

"The Lord also will be a refuge for the oppressed, a refuge in time of trouble. And they that know Thy name will put their trust in Thee: for Thou, Lord, has not forsaken them that seek Thee". Ps. 9:9-10.

There hath not failed one word of all his good promise 1 King 8:56, "For the eyes of the Lord run to and fro throughout the whole earth to shew Himself strong in the behalf of them whose heart is perfect toward Him." II Chron. 16:9

"Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy and find grace to help in time of need," Heb. 4:16.

The last quotation is our invitation to run into the tower of the Lord's strength and we shall find safety.

Judge Not

By Roland Magill

Needn't look for faults in others We have plenty of our own To get a true perspective Look a little nearer home Take an honest inward look Most of us would be surprised How little faults accumulate And tend to grow in size.

In pointing out another's faults We add another to our own Lest the thing should boomerang Leave the other man's alone. "No one is perfect, no not one"

Mortal man is prone to err Little faults are in ourselves You can find them anywhere.

You may tear his faults to pieces But that never helps The only thing that you accomplish

A sad dis-service to yourself, If a man has really reformed To his maker he'll atone So don't try to sweep his attic Until you've cleaned your own.

Everybody has some faults Some are great and some are small But I've never seen a man That had no faults at all. So before we ridicule a man Let's think it over, once or twice Judge not, that ye be not judged I think is still the best advice.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Kreid and Bryan, spent Saturday evening in Lampasas. Mr. Kreid attended lodge, while his wife and son visited Mrs. Maude Stephens and had supper at the Hancock Park in that city. Mrs. Stephens was interested in hearing all of the activities in and around Ewart, as she told her late husband formerly lived here.

Miss Sherry Lynn Brim - Ned Grassman Wed In Brazoria

Mrs. Ned Darrell Grassman

Miss Sherry Lynn Brim became the bride of Ned Darrell Grassman, in a double-ring ceremony, recently, in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Brim, 821 Mulberry Lane in Brazoria. The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.S. Brim, Sr., a great-granddaughter of Mrs. Bettie Hinesley and a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hinesley and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Franklin, all of Gatesville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. M.D. Grassman of Bay City.

Rev. Willie Reagan performed the ceremony, with Granva Gurganus, pianist, providing the traditional wedding music. The couple exchanged vows under an arch entwined with fern, lemon leaves and daisies, in the living room decorated as a wedding chapel, with baskets of white daisies and candelabra, holding yellow tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a formal length gown of candlelight ivory peau de soie, featuring long, bell-shaped leaves of scalloped Austrian lace. The bride's ensemble was fashioned by her mother.

A pearl cascade, extending to a point over the forehead, held the bride's tiered shoulder-length veil of illusion.

She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white rosebuds, daisies, stephanotis and picot streamers. The maid of honor, Miss Glynnda Gayle Brim, sister of the bride, was gowned in a full-length yellow dress, in an empire silhouette, featuring organza puffed sleeves and bows down the back.

Dale Caffy, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brim chose a jonquil shantung dress. Mrs. Grassman chose a pale blue suit.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the family room of the Brim home. Members of the houseparty included Carol Brim, Sue Borel, Wonzie Goodwin and Elaine Drozd.

The bride chose a white linen suit, with yellow accessories and a yellow rose bud corsage, for travel.

The newly weds are making their home in Houston, where both are employed. They also plan to attend the University of Houston.

Among out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brim and son, Randy, of Gatesville.

Everything is about normal again, on Prosperity Hill (west end) of Pearl. The Ballards are home from wonderful vacation and then going to Brownwood Lake for a couple of days, fishing with the Eddie Ballards. C. B. Whatley is home, after staying a few days with his sister, Balue, who had surgery and Lyda Cooper is home after a big chase in Meadow with her son and family, the Scottie Coopers and trying to visit sisters and brothers in Lubbock and Crosbyton, two weeks is not long enough to visit so many for each a night and day. There are still a few smiling faces missing in Pearl, but we won't call names, come on home now.

Mrs. Mag Williamson of Copperas Cove visited from Thursday through Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robinson.

Mr. Charlie Freeman visited with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shook, Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Miller and children from Waco were visitors in the Gordon Shook home, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ivy and children, from Lubbock, visited Mrs. Ivy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bates, last week. The Bates' and the Ivy's met the Ed Garner family, the Danny Stevens family from Hurst and the LeRoy Bates from Dallas on the Brazos River near Mineral Wells for a weekend fishing trip.

Gary Keeton had a narrow escape last Monday afternoon. He and his dad were down on the branch, where they were going to build a fire to fry fish and they came in contact with a rattle snake. The snake struck at Gary, but his blue jeans kept the snake from getting much venom in his leg. He was carried to the hospital where he was treated and released, the following morning.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Manning, last Wednesday, was Carrie Manning, Effie Lauderdale, Sue Little, Dessie Whitt of Gatesville and Essie Bynum. Visiting Lyda Cooper, over the weekend, were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Weeks, of San Antonio, and Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Hart of Gatesville.

Over The GARDEN FENCE

by R.B.

"My land," fussed Mrs. Woolley, "Those pork chops and dressing I made last night tasted flat as an old shoe, no flavor at all."

"I imagine it's that sage you're using," I told her. "You ought to grow your own herbs if you want the real old-fashioned flavor."

"Why I wouldn't even know which ones to plant!"

"I guess garlic, chives and sage are about the most useful herbs you can grow at home," I answered. "With one bulb of garlic for a start, you will soon have all you need. They will live over the winter, just leave at least one bulb in the ground until spring. Chives and sage can be grown from seed, but if you can find a friend or nurseryman that has rooted plants, you will have enough sage for your Thanksgiving turkey, as well as chives for garnishes, the first year."

There are many kinds of mint for the herb garden, but spearmint is the one most commonly found in the garden and used in the kitchen. Here again it is best to start your patch with rooted plants.

At spring seed planting time you can add dill and parsley to your herb collection. Besides being a must for dill pickle making, the green leaves of dill, either fresh or dried, are a delicious addition to a tossed salad. Parsley is a rich source of vitamin C and iron for your diet and is especially good with all egg dishes.

"Herbs like a well drained, sunny spot in the garden," I told Mrs. Woolley. "When you decide on the place to put your, just let me know and I'll be glad to give you some of my extra plants."

Soil Testing Labs

Run Soil Tests

Soil testing laboratories at College Station, Lubbock, Seymour, Nacogdoches and Wharton, ran tests on 3,284 soil samples during the months of April, May and June, reports Dr. C. D. Welch, Extension soil chemist at Texas A & M University.

Most of the samples came from within the state, but 117 samples were received from other states. Three samples were received from foreign countries, Welch said.

Two counties submitted over 100 samples during the three months period, with Harris and Hopkins turning in 199 and 123, respectively.

July and August are good months to collect soil samples for fall planted crops, as sampling during this period allows the laboratory to process samples and get reports back to the farmer in time for him to plan his fertilizer program, said Welch. September and October are usually busy months in the soil testing laboratories; thus, some delay in sample processing can be expected, the chemist said.

Although the excessive moisture in many areas resulted in delayed fertilization of row crops, the "overall" use of fertilizer compares favorably with past years, noted Welch.

During the three months of April, May and June, 712,788 tons of fertilizer were distributed, compared with 567,796 tons for the same period in 1967 and 565,928 tons in 1966. On an annual average, fertilization this year is up about two percent over previous years, Welch said.

Insect pests on beef and dairy cattle will do only as much damage as the producer allows, Phillip J. Hamman, Texas A & M University Extension entomologist says.

Blood feeders or "biting flies" have been giving ranchers more problems during this wet, insect - favorable weather, and fly control may insure more profit by reducing meat and milk loss, stopping disease transmittal and energy losses.

Horn flies are one of the most bothersome and prevalent insect blood feeders in Texas. Control measures for the horn fly depend upon good management practices. Fresh manure is the medium in which the eggs are deposited, and by keeping manure from collecting in the area, the pest can be partially controlled.

The horn fly is usually found in great numbers on the backs of animals, but on hot days, the blood feeders will move to the belly, sides and face to escape the heat. Texas does not have trouble with the face fly, but horn flies which are on the face to close to moisture from the nose and mouth are often mistaken for the face fly.

The "biting flies" also include such pests as the stable fly, horse fly and the common mosquito. The incidence of diseases such as pinkeye is many times increased because of the presence of these blood feeders on the faces of cattle.

Livestock insecticides used as wettable powders, soluble powders, ready - mixed pour-ons, emulsifiable concentrates, smears, dusts and aerosols can give temporary control of blood feeding insects, but the producer should be ready to re-treat animals when needed.

To control the bothersome pests, Hamman suggests using the recommended insecticides listed in MP - 691, "Texas Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry." Copies of the publican can be obtained at any county agricultural agent's office or by writing to the Department of Agricultural Information, Texas A & M University, College Station, Texas, 77843.

Texas Watermelon Producers Report Weather Problems

The Texas watermelon crop is having its share of trouble this year, although quality is considered fairly good.

Un-cooperative weather has been the main worry maker. Frequent and heavy rains, along with unseasonal cool temperatures, have denied the hot weather the melons need for quick growth and normal marketing.

As a result, the overall crop is two to three weeks later than usual. Ripening times have been closer together from south to north, causing too much harvesting and marketing overlap from one production area to another.

Under ordinary conditions, the Rio Grande Valley watermelons ripen earlier than those in other regions of the state because the farmers there can plant earlier. In chronological order, the state crop then comes off in Crystal City area and South Texas, Central Texas (including the Hempstead deal), East Texas, North Texas and finally the High Plains.

The harvesting and marketing overlap has brought on sagging prices and a strange development in the trucking situation.

Dr. John Larsen, Extension Service horticulturist at Texas A & M University, says the Rio Grande Valley, for example, has experienced a truck shortage. Since melon ripening times are closer together this year, truckers out of the northern states can get their loads in Central Texas without going all the way to the Valley.

He said a recent report out of the East Texas deal shows a similar situation there.

Prices are not to the farmers' liking. But then they seldom are, except early in the season when scarcity bolsters the market.

The Charleston Grey is the most widely grown commercial type melon in Texas, followed by striped varieties (the Garrisonian for example), and the Black Diamond.

Larsen said prices are generally the same throughout the state on a wholesale and retail basis. A report out of East Texas describes melon quality as generally good, with 18-24 pound Charleston Greys going for about 1-1/2 cents a pound. The 24 - 30 pounders bring around 1-1/4 cents. Striped melons, varying from 18 - 30 pounds, sell for 1-1/4 to 1-1/2 cents per pound.

A Dallas market report says melons of all types have been selling for 1-1/4 to 1-1/2 cents per pound in the wholesale and retail market.

Watermelon farmers, Larsen said, claim they can make money if they can get a cent and a half a pound -- if the cost of getting the melons out of the field doesn't run too high.

The horticulturist said Texas watermelon acreage this season is estimated at between 70,000 and 80,000 acres, down from recent years. At one time, melon producers planted well over 100,000 acres.
