Officials: County unemployment dips slightly for April

By THOMAS JENKINS
Staff Writer

Howard County's unemployment rate dropped from 5.7 percent in March to 5.5 percent in April, a trend Virginia Belew, area manager for the Big Spring Workforce Network, said she expects to see continue.

"The Howard County unemployment rate has experienced a drop from last month's figure, but is even with the figures presented in April of 2005," said

Belew. "We are beginning to see the seasonal workforce emerge for the summer employment season, and we anticipate another drop in the unemployment figure as Solitaire Homes and the several new retail stores begin to report their hires."

The number of unemployed residents dropped from 738 in March to 716 in April, compared to 732 reported in April 2005. The number of employed residents rose by nearly 100, with 12,283 in March and 12,392 in April. Both figures are still down from the 12,605 reported in April 2005.

The civilian labor force also climbed in April, reaching 13,108 compared to the 13,021

Summer lunch program about to get under way

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

For local children, the next month will give lie to the saying, "There's no such thing as a free lunch."

Big Spring children 18 years of age or younger will be able to eat breakfast and lunch free of charge from June 7 to July 7, thanks to the summer lunch program offered by Big Spring Independent School District.

Knox

BSISD Food Services Director Joann Knox said the summer program, which will offer meals at five local campuses, is required of school districts which have 60 percent or more of its students qualify for free or reduced-cost meals.

"The officials in Washington want to make sure that kids who receive (free meal) benefits during the school year don't go without a nutritional meal in the summer," Knox said.

Salvation Army needs your help in keeping folks cool

By THOMAS JENKINS
Staff Writer

As the mercury begins to rise in West Texas, the Salvation Army will be doing its part to help keep low income families cooler with its annual fan drive.

The Big Spring Salvation Army collects donated fans and money to purchase new fans, which are then distributed to area residents in need of help in beating the summer heat.

"With the hot days of summer ahead, we know there will be a tremendous need," said Capt. Russ Keeney. "Last year we were able to give out more than 100 fans, and we expect the need to increase, as it does every year."

Paula Lafler, a social worker with the local Salvation Army, said she hopes to see the program — which begins June 9 and continues through June 30 — reach those in the community who need the help the most.

"We're trying to target the elderly because they are the most susceptible to heat related illnesses," she said. "We're also trying to target families with children 5 years old and younger and who are at home through the day during the summer months."

"Every year the people of Big Spring come together to help provide these families with a fan to help ease some of the heat. This program has always been a great success and we're aiming for yet another successful year with everyone's help."

NO REFUSE REFUSED

ABILENE (AP) — A good chunk of this city's trash will soon become electricity to help power Dyess Air Force Base.

The base will use 42,000 tons — equal to 4,000 dump trucks — of garbage annually at a new power plant which will be built on the base. The trash will be fed into turbines to generate the power. About 35,000 tons will come from Abilene, with the remainder coming from the base and Tye, a small town a few miles west of the city.

"If this becomes the prototype, it will go all over the Department of Defense, perhaps all over the world," said Abilene Mayor Norm Archibald.

DOUGHNUT CHAMPION

ELKHORN, Wis. (AP) — What kind of officer swears off doughnuts for a year?

In this case, one who ate 13 in three minutes, good enough to earn the title of world champion doughnut-eating officer.

Walworth County Jail Training Sgt. Howard Sawyers, who accomplished the feat last month at a law enforcement convention and said since then he has not been in a hurry to have another one.

Sawyers finished third in the competition last year but said he discovered a championship technique this year — dunking the doughnuts in water to make them soggy.

"You rip 'em, you dunk them and you shove," he said.

U.S. will join talks if Tehran suspends uranium enrichment

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major policy shift, the United States said today it is prepared to join other nations in holding direct talks with Iran on its nuclear program if Iran first agrees to stop disputed nuclear activities that the West fears could lead to a bomb. "To underscore our commitment to a diplomatic solution and to enhance prospects for success, as soon as Iran fully and verifiably suspends its enrichment and reprocessing activities, the United States will come to the table," Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice said at the State Department. The Swiss ambassador to the United States was called to the State Department earlier Wednesday to receive a copy of Rice's remarks for transmission to Iran, U.S. officials said. The United States has had no diplomatic ties with Iran and few contacts at all with its government since Islamic radicals took over the U.S.

Embassy in 1979 and held diplomats there for more than a year. The Bush administration has been deeply suspicious of Iran's intentions and the prime mover for tough United Nations action against the clerical regime. Until now, the United States has refused repeated calls from European nations, other diplomats and former secretaries of state to join the European talks. For its part, Iran has for months refused to do what the U.S. is now demanding as a first step to talks — suspend its enrichment of uranium, which Tehran claims is for peaceful purposes. Iran did voluntarily suspend those activities while talks were active with the Europeans last year, but resumed and stepped up those activities this spring. Suspending uranium enrichment and related activities in order to talk with the United States would not preclude Iran from later insisting that it be allowed to continue those activities. At that point, the United States and its allies would be expected to move for tough U.N. Security Council action, possibly including economic or other sanctions. Rice will meet with foreign ministers from the other permanent Security Council members on Thursday in Vienna to finalize a package of incentives and threats to be presented to Tehran. "We hope that in the coming days the Iranian government will thoroughly consider this proposal," Rice said. European diplomats told The Associated Press that the package and the U.S. announcement of a willingness to talk were conditioned on pledges from Russia and China to eventually support tough actions such as sanctions if Iran continued to defy a U.N. call to stop its disputed activities.

reported in March and 13,337 recorded in April 2005.

Belew said the recent job fair held at Howard College indicates many area residents are looking for new opportunities.

"So far, the feedback from employers who participated in the job fair indicates they received some very good candidates for their applicant pool," said Belew. "We encourage employers to continue to list their jobs in WorkinTexas.com, or through our office. All job seekers, whether they are employed or unemployed, benefit from posting their application in the system to keep track of opportunities available."

Although the drop in the unemployment rate is encouraging, Belew said Howard County continues to report one of the highest rates in the area.

"The Texas unemployment rate is 4.8, while the Permian Basin Workforce Development Area is listed at 4.3," said Belew. "The national rate is listed at 4.5. All of these are lower than the previous month's figures."

Unemployment rates for surrounding counties include Andrews, 3.9 percent; Borden, 4.1 percent; Dawson, 7.1 percent; Ector, 4.2 percent; Glasscock, 5.0 percent; Martin, 5.2 percent; and Midland, 3.4 percent.

"The local Workforce Network has more than 131 jobs listed," said Belew. "Job seekers are encouraged to use WorkinTexas.com to find employment, or visit our office at 310 Owens for assistance. We have many employers that are recruiting aggressively. Job seekers interested in any of these employers can contact Carla Gross or Mary Gregg for more information."

"We continue to have a critical demand in our area for heavy equipment operators, correctional officers, diesel mechanics, oilfield workers, journeyman plumbers, electricians and welders and customer service representatives, nurses and food service supervisors."

they can make a monetary donation.

"The box fans that we normally purchase usually run about $12 each," she said, "but with the rising cost of everything, it could end up being higher."

Keeney said the summer vacation for school-age children and rising costs will only compound the danger presented by stifling summer heat.

"The kids will be out of school and temperatures are rising with each passing day," said Keeney. "Summer can be fun for most of us, but our seniors and toddlers are affected the most by heat exhaustion and dehydration. And with our current economy, gas alone is costing most working families $40 a week. The less fortunate families and those on fixed incomes can not afford simple luxuries like fans."

"That's where we step in. Every year the people of Big Spring come together to help provide these families with a fan to help ease some of the heat. This program has always been a great success and we're aiming for yet another successful year with everyone's help."

Those in need of fans can apply for assistance at the Salvation Army Office Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. with an hour break for lunch at noon. The office is located at 811 W. Fifth Street.

Donations can be made by purchasing fans and taking them to the Salvation Army office or earmarking monetary donations for the fan drive.

OUR VIEWS

Don't forget to go enjoy Stargazing event on Saturday

Residents of Big Spring and the surrounding area will get a chance to view many of Mother Nature's wonders Saturday when they turn their eyes toward the heavens during the annual Stargazing event at Big Spring State Park.

Slated for 8 p.m. until 11:30 p.m. near the park office at the top of Scenic Mountain, the program will offer something for everyone in the family.

"It's a great time for families to spend some quality time together," said Park Ranger Rocky Salazar. "It doesn't matter how old you are, seeing the stars and the different heavenly bodies through a telescope is just amazing."

Members of the West Texas Amateur Astronomy Club in Midland will provide several high-powered telescopes for those attending to get a better look at the night sky.

Salazar noted that members of the astronomy club really love taking part in Stargazing. And that means there will be plenty of knowledgeable people to answer questions during the presentation.

Several planets should be in view during the program including Saturn, Mars, Mercury and Jupiter, as well as four of its largest moons.

Earth's moon will be a "first quarter moon" Saturday, so half of it will be visible and participants will be able to look at mountains and craters on its surface.

Salazar said the group should also be able to see M13, a large globular cluster in the constellation Hercules.

If the weather doesn't cooperate — there are too many clouds or it rains — Salazar said the plan is to reschedule the Stargazing for July 29.

For more information about the stargazing event, call 263-4931.

We here at the Herald encourage our readers to take advantage of this once-a-year opportunity. You'll not only be enjoying something that's rarely available to most of us, but you'll also be supporting the Big Spring State Park and its staff.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

You are the best of all options, Lord.

Amen

Please don't blame the baby

I don't mind that ABC News decided to replace Elizabeth Vargas with Charlie Gibson in an effort to stop the slide of its evening news show in the ratings. Truth be told, I'm a big fan of Gibson's, and I never really understood what Vargas or Bob Woodruff had done to earn their anchor chairs in the first instance. Once Woodruff was injured in

SUSAN ESTRICH

Iraq, the whole concept of young, traveling co-anchors was obviously off the table — and once the ratings started slipping, it was clear that some changes were going to be made.

But why blame the baby? Why use family as an excuse?

Yes, it happens that Vargas is pregnant with her second child. And it happens that she is going on maternity leave. But she had one child when she took the job and another on the way for the last six months that she's been doing it, and she showed no signs that she was unable to handle motherhood and the best job in television. She had been planning to take a leave and come back — her husband had been joking that she would only be taking two weeks off. The problem wasn't her family, and it wasn't the inability of a woman making seven figures to juggle work and children.

She didn't jump. She was pushed. It wasn't that she was having a second child, but that she was coming in third in the ratings. So why pretend?

The idea that you save face by saying that you're stepping aside to spend more time with the family is nothing new. Men use the excuse all the time, and no one thinks for a moment that they're telling the truth. No harm done.

But real harm is done when a woman in a very high profile position is fired and family is given as the real reason. The danger in these circumstances is that, unlike in the case of a man, people do believe it. And then consider the message that is sent.

If you can't anchor the news with two small children, what about all the women who work even longer hours for far, far less money producing the news — or making widgets, for that matter? If it doesn't work for Vargas, with her salary and clout, what about everyone else? Are we/they, by definition, worse mothers than Elizabeth Vargas?

Should other women follow her example, if they really care about their children, and switch to less demanding jobs? Is that the message that Vargas, or ABC News, is trying to send?

What does it say about Katie Couric, a single mother who is about to become the first woman solo anchor? Is Elizabeth Vargas holding herself out as a better mother because she is putting her children first, unlike Katie? To be sure, Katie's girls are older, but as any mother will tell you: little kids, little problems; big kids, big problems. The demands children make on a mother just increase as children grow into teenagers. They need us more, not less, as they grow up, even if (especially if) they don't always admit it. If you were to take Vargas at her word (and of course, no one should), the message would seem to be that anchoring and motherhood don't mesh. But I'm certain she meant no such thing.

Elizabeth Vargas is a good girl. She did what she was asked to do, and said what she was told to say, albeit with tears in her eyes. I don't blame her. She had no choice. But the boys who wrote the lines should have given her better ones, ones that didn't put the blame on an as-yet-unborn child.

Someday, Elizabeth Vargas' second child may ask her mother why she stopped anchoring the news.

The honest answer will be that it had nothing to do with her children. That is what, I trust, she will tell them. Why tell the rest of us anything different?

Audie Murphy: War hero, movie star

Audie Murphy was born in 1924 at Kingston in Hunt County. He was one of 12 children in a poor family. He perfected his aim by shooting squirrels and other game for family meals.

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

"I know of two times the family was so poor they lived in a boxcar with no running water and no electricity," says Adrien Witkofsky, executive director of the Audie Murphy American Cotton Museum in Greenville.

She says when World War II broke out, Audie tried to join the Marines, but they turned him down.

"I think in not so many words they told him to come back when he grew up," Witkofsky added. "He was only 5 feet, 7 inches and weighed just 130 pounds, but he wanted to serve his country. The Army gave him that chance."

He took part in the campaigns for Sicily and Italy and was in the first wave of the invasion of southern France. Murphy's heroic efforts made him the most decorated soldier in World War II. In addition to the Medal of Honor, he earned every combat decoration the Army offered.

"He saved many, many lives," Witkofsky continued. "He was overseas about three years and was wounded several times. Some of those wounds he carried with him the rest of his life. Some of them caused him severe discomfort."

When he got out of the Army, Audie went to Hollywood.

"He was in 44 films, a lot of them westerns. He wrote a book, 'To Hell and Back,' which was turned into a movie, and he played himself," Witkofsky added. "From doing some research, I found out he was not the first choice for the role. After interviewing several more applicants, the casting people agreed he should play himself. The movie told about his exploits in combat, losing his best friend and getting wounded."

Audie attended school to the fifth grade in the community of Celeste, but didn't get much more formal education. That didn't keep him from accomplishing a great deal. He wrote poetry and country songs. He's in the Texas Country Music Hall of Fame. Roy Clark, Teresa Brewer and many well-known people sang his songs.

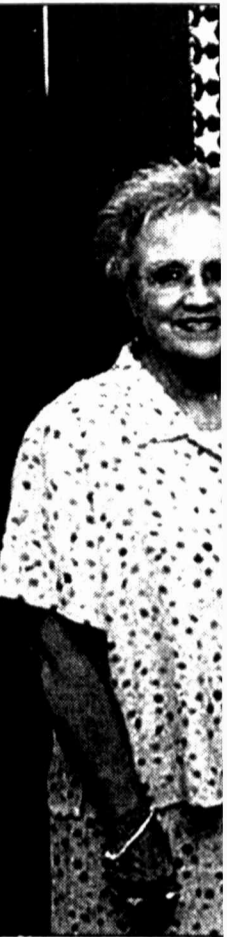

Audie Murphy died at the age of 46 when a plane taking him on a business trip crashed into a Virginia mountain.

The Audie Murphy Museum honors veterans with a special ceremony the middle of June every year. This year it takes place on June 16-17.

The museum has a life-size statue of Audie in front of the museum. He is in full battle dress carrying a German weapon.

Witkofsky says he ran out of bullets and had to use a German gun he picked up in the heat of battle.

Parent's Corner

I was standing in the checkout line of one of our markets the other day and began chatting with the lady standing in front of me. In the process of our conversation she asked some questions that have probably crossed the minds of most parents.

DARRELL RYAN

Allow me to share some of those questions and some possible solutions.

"My child has started questioning everything I ask her to do. She talks back and is rude. What can I do?"

Talking back is your child's way of testing the limits, a necessary step toward independence. For most kids, talking back is a healthy sign.

It usually comes in spurts and will go away if you handle it firmly. Allow your child to know what you expect and what the consequences will be if your expectations are not fulfilled.

Be a good model and communicate with respect. Teach your child what back-talk is and let him or her know it will not be allowed.

Refuse to argue. Your child cannot argue if you quit talking or leave the room.

"Are there any special things I should do to prepare my child for the school day?"

Try to make sure your child goes to school fed and well rested with all of his homework completed.

"What should I do to help my child with his homework?"

Find out what your child's homework assignments are. Turn off the TV and create a study space for him.

Help your child with his work if he needs it, but don't do the work for him.

"What should I say to my child to encourage his success in school?"

Parents should ask their children what they are learning in school, then discuss it with them or have them explain it. If your child is young, read to him.

If your child can read, make sure he does. Ask your child to read aloud to you.

Interact with your child. Communication is important to both his success in school and to good family relations.

Praise your child for the things he does well, but resist the urge to bribe him for good behavior.

"What habits should I practice at home to show my child the importance of school success?"

Parents who read are more likely to have children who do so. Try to take a little time each day to read a book or the newspaper.

Institute a special time for homework. You can read, pay bills or write letters while your child does his work.

"What can I do to teach my child to be responsible for his actions?"

You should establish certain expectations for your child. Show him how to consider his decisions and how to weigh the pros and cons of those decisions.

Have him make two lists. On one, list the things he can affect by his actions. On the other, the things over which he has no control.

Help him focus only on the first list. Teach him to study ahead instead of waiting until the last minute.

Teach him to set goals and to post them in a prominent place, then to check them off as he achieves them.

"What should I do when my work or other responsibilities limit the amount of time I can spend with my child?"

It's not necessarily the quantity of time you spend with your child but the quality. Try to make your time together special and engaging.

Ask your child about his day, about what your child learned in school or about things that he is interested in.

Tell your child something about your day, maybe even about something you learned.

"Who should I turn to for help when I believe my child is not making progress?"

Your child's teacher is the person who should be able to help you most with this issue.

If you feel that your child is not making progress, you should schedule a meeting and go in to talk with his teacher.

Together you may be able to pinpoint the source of the problem and the teacher should then give you suggestions about what to do and who else to talk to.

"Whom should I contact if I believe problems with my child's health, or well-being are hindering his success in school?"

First you should talk with your child and also someone who knows your child well.

This may be someone in his school, a pastor, an after-school teacher or sports coach. It is important to try to identify the nature of the problem before you try to solve it.

Then make an appointment to talk to the school guidance counselor. The counselor can give suggestions about further steps you and your child can take to resolve the problem.

Parenting is not an easy task. Sometimes we have to do and say things we wish we could do without.

The old saying, "It's going to hurt me more than it hurts you" is certainly a true statement. But we are still parents and what we do must be done through love.

By going the "extra mile" of putting in time to assist our children, we can often help them in such a way that we can avoid unpleasant actions later.

There is a saying, "The bridges you cross before you come to them are over rivers that aren't there!"

Our children are precious to us. We must remember they are also going through tough times.

Let us take every opportunity we have to help them be a success and be the person they have the potential to be!

Darrell Ryan is director of curriculum for the Big Spring Independent School District.

Man accused of firing shots at noisy neighbors

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A 66-year-old man faces a charge of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon for gunshots allegedly fired when he got upset with his neighbors as they played around their pool.

Jessie Filmore Jr., 66, was released from the Tom Green County jail Tuesday after posting $10,000 bond, according to jail records. There were no injuries in Monday's incident.

Police say Filmore began yelling at the group as they laughed and talked around the pool on Monday afternoon. "He started telling us to shut up — a lot of vulgar language," resident Natalie Cardenas told the San Angelo Standard-Times for its Wednesday editions.

Filmore accused the group of being too loud and told them he had a sick mother, Cardenas said. He then disappeared into the house and returned with a small handgun, Cardenas told the newspaper.

The gun was a .25-caliber automatic pistol, according to police reports.

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

Let's say you're declarer in four spades and West leads a heart. You win with the king and draw three rounds of trumps. Since you have an inevitable heart loser, you must now try to avoid losing three club tricks.

If you play the ace and a low club — hoping the suit divides 3-3 or that either opponent has the doubleton king — you go down one against proper defense.

But if you play the clubs more carefully, you make the contract. After cashing the ace of clubs, you should continue with the queen rather than the deuce. This slight modification in the play yields a much more satisfying result. West's king and East's ten fall on the same trick, so you lose only two clubs instead of three.

It might be argued that playing the queen is right if you see all four hands, but that there is no justification for playing the queen if you see only two hands.

It is not difficult to refute this argument. Obviously, if the opposing clubs are divided 3-3, it makes no difference whether you lead the deuce or the queen.

But if the clubs are divided 4-2, the card you play will frequently make a difference. Since the player holding the doubleton will be dealt J-x or 10-x twice as often as K-x, it is clearly better to play the queen than the deuce.

Finding the proper percentage play of the queen is by no means a complicated mathematical proposition. It's plain common sense, that's all.

Texas braces for hurricane season

HOUSTON (AP) — With a new hurricane season starting this week, Dallas' top emergency official said Tuesday that he has yet to see many details from the state's revamped evacuation plan.

Kenny Shaw, director of the office of emergency management for Dallas, said among the missing details is how his region is expected to handle the 40,000 evacuees he said state officials told him to expect from Harris County in the event of a major evacuation.

But that number was for a 16-county area around Dallas and not just the city, said Kathy Walt, a spokeswoman for Gov. Rick Perry.

Shaw also said the state also never gave him details about a new plan to track evacuees using scannable ID bracelets. The new technology, aimed at letting families track loved ones during an evacuation, was unveiled last week at the state hurricane conference in Beaumont, officials said.

Shaw didn't attend, but since Dallas stands to absorb a large number of evacuees from Houston under a new shelter hub plan, he said he didn't know why he didn't find out about the ID program sooner.

"You shouldn't have to go to a conference to be informed about this stuff," Shaw said.

Walt said the conference was "an appropriate venue to make that announcement" about the bracelets.

Houston Mayor Bill White, who appeared at the Houston/Galveston Hurricane Workshop on Tuesday, said he's confident that cities will "act in good faith" if their resources are needed during a hurricane.

Texas soldier killed in Iraq

DALLAS (AP) — A Texas soldier has been killed in Iraq, the Department of Defense said.

Spc. J. Adan "Adam" Garcia, 20, of Irving, died Saturday when his convoy came under small arms fire, officials said. He was returning from an explosive ordinance mission.

Joe Garcia told Dallas-Fort Worth television station KXAS that the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks fueled his son's desire to serve in the military.

"Time and time again, you know, he told me that he believed in his mission," his father said. "He was in full support of what, you know, the Americans are doing out there and frequently told me about the good things."

Garcia was assigned to the 1st Brigade Special Troops Battalion, 1st Brigade Combat Team, 10th Mountain Division (Light Infantry), Fort Drum, N.Y.

Trial under way for soldier in prisoner abuse case

EL PASO (AP) — Jurors were selected and testimony began Tuesday in the military trial of the final soldier charged in the Army's Afghanistan prisoner abuse investigation.

A jury of eight men and one woman, comprised of four officers and five enlisted soldiers, began hearing testimony in the trial of Pfc. Damien Corsetti, of the 519th Military Intelligence Battalion.

Corsetti is accused of dereliction of duty, maltreatment and assault for abuses allegedly committed while working as a counterintelligence soldier at a U.S. prison at Bagram Air Field in 2002 and 2003.

Corsetti, one of four MI soldiers charged in the abuse investigation, asked for a jury trial and was the only one of the soldiers who did not plead guilty.

Authorities launched the investigation into abuse after two detainees died in December 2002. Corsetti is not accused in their cases.

Bastrop animal center to expand

BASTROP (AP) — A major expansion of the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center's animal research facility will give participating animals a calm and healthy home, officials said.

The $31 million addition to the Michale E. Keeling Center for Comparative Medicine and Research includes offices, laboratories and a naturalized animal habitat, complete with tropical plants and an indoor waterfall.

Christian Abee, the center's director, said healthy animals are important to quality research. The new 73,000-square-foot building is scheduled for occupancy in August 2007.

"The more we can provide in the form of calming environments, the more we can benefit from the overall research," Abee said. "Our veterinarians, handlers and behaviorists care for — and care about — these animals. We value them and their role in contributing to the health of not only our patients but humankind in general."

The animal research center north of Bastrop opened in 1975. The more than 100 faculty and staff members assist cancer scientists at M.D. Anderson and other biomedical researchers in their studies of human health.

Man dies while making pipe bomb

LONGVIEW (AP) — A man indicted on federal drug and firearms charges died in an explosion as he was making a pipe bomb that fire officials say he planned to use against agents.

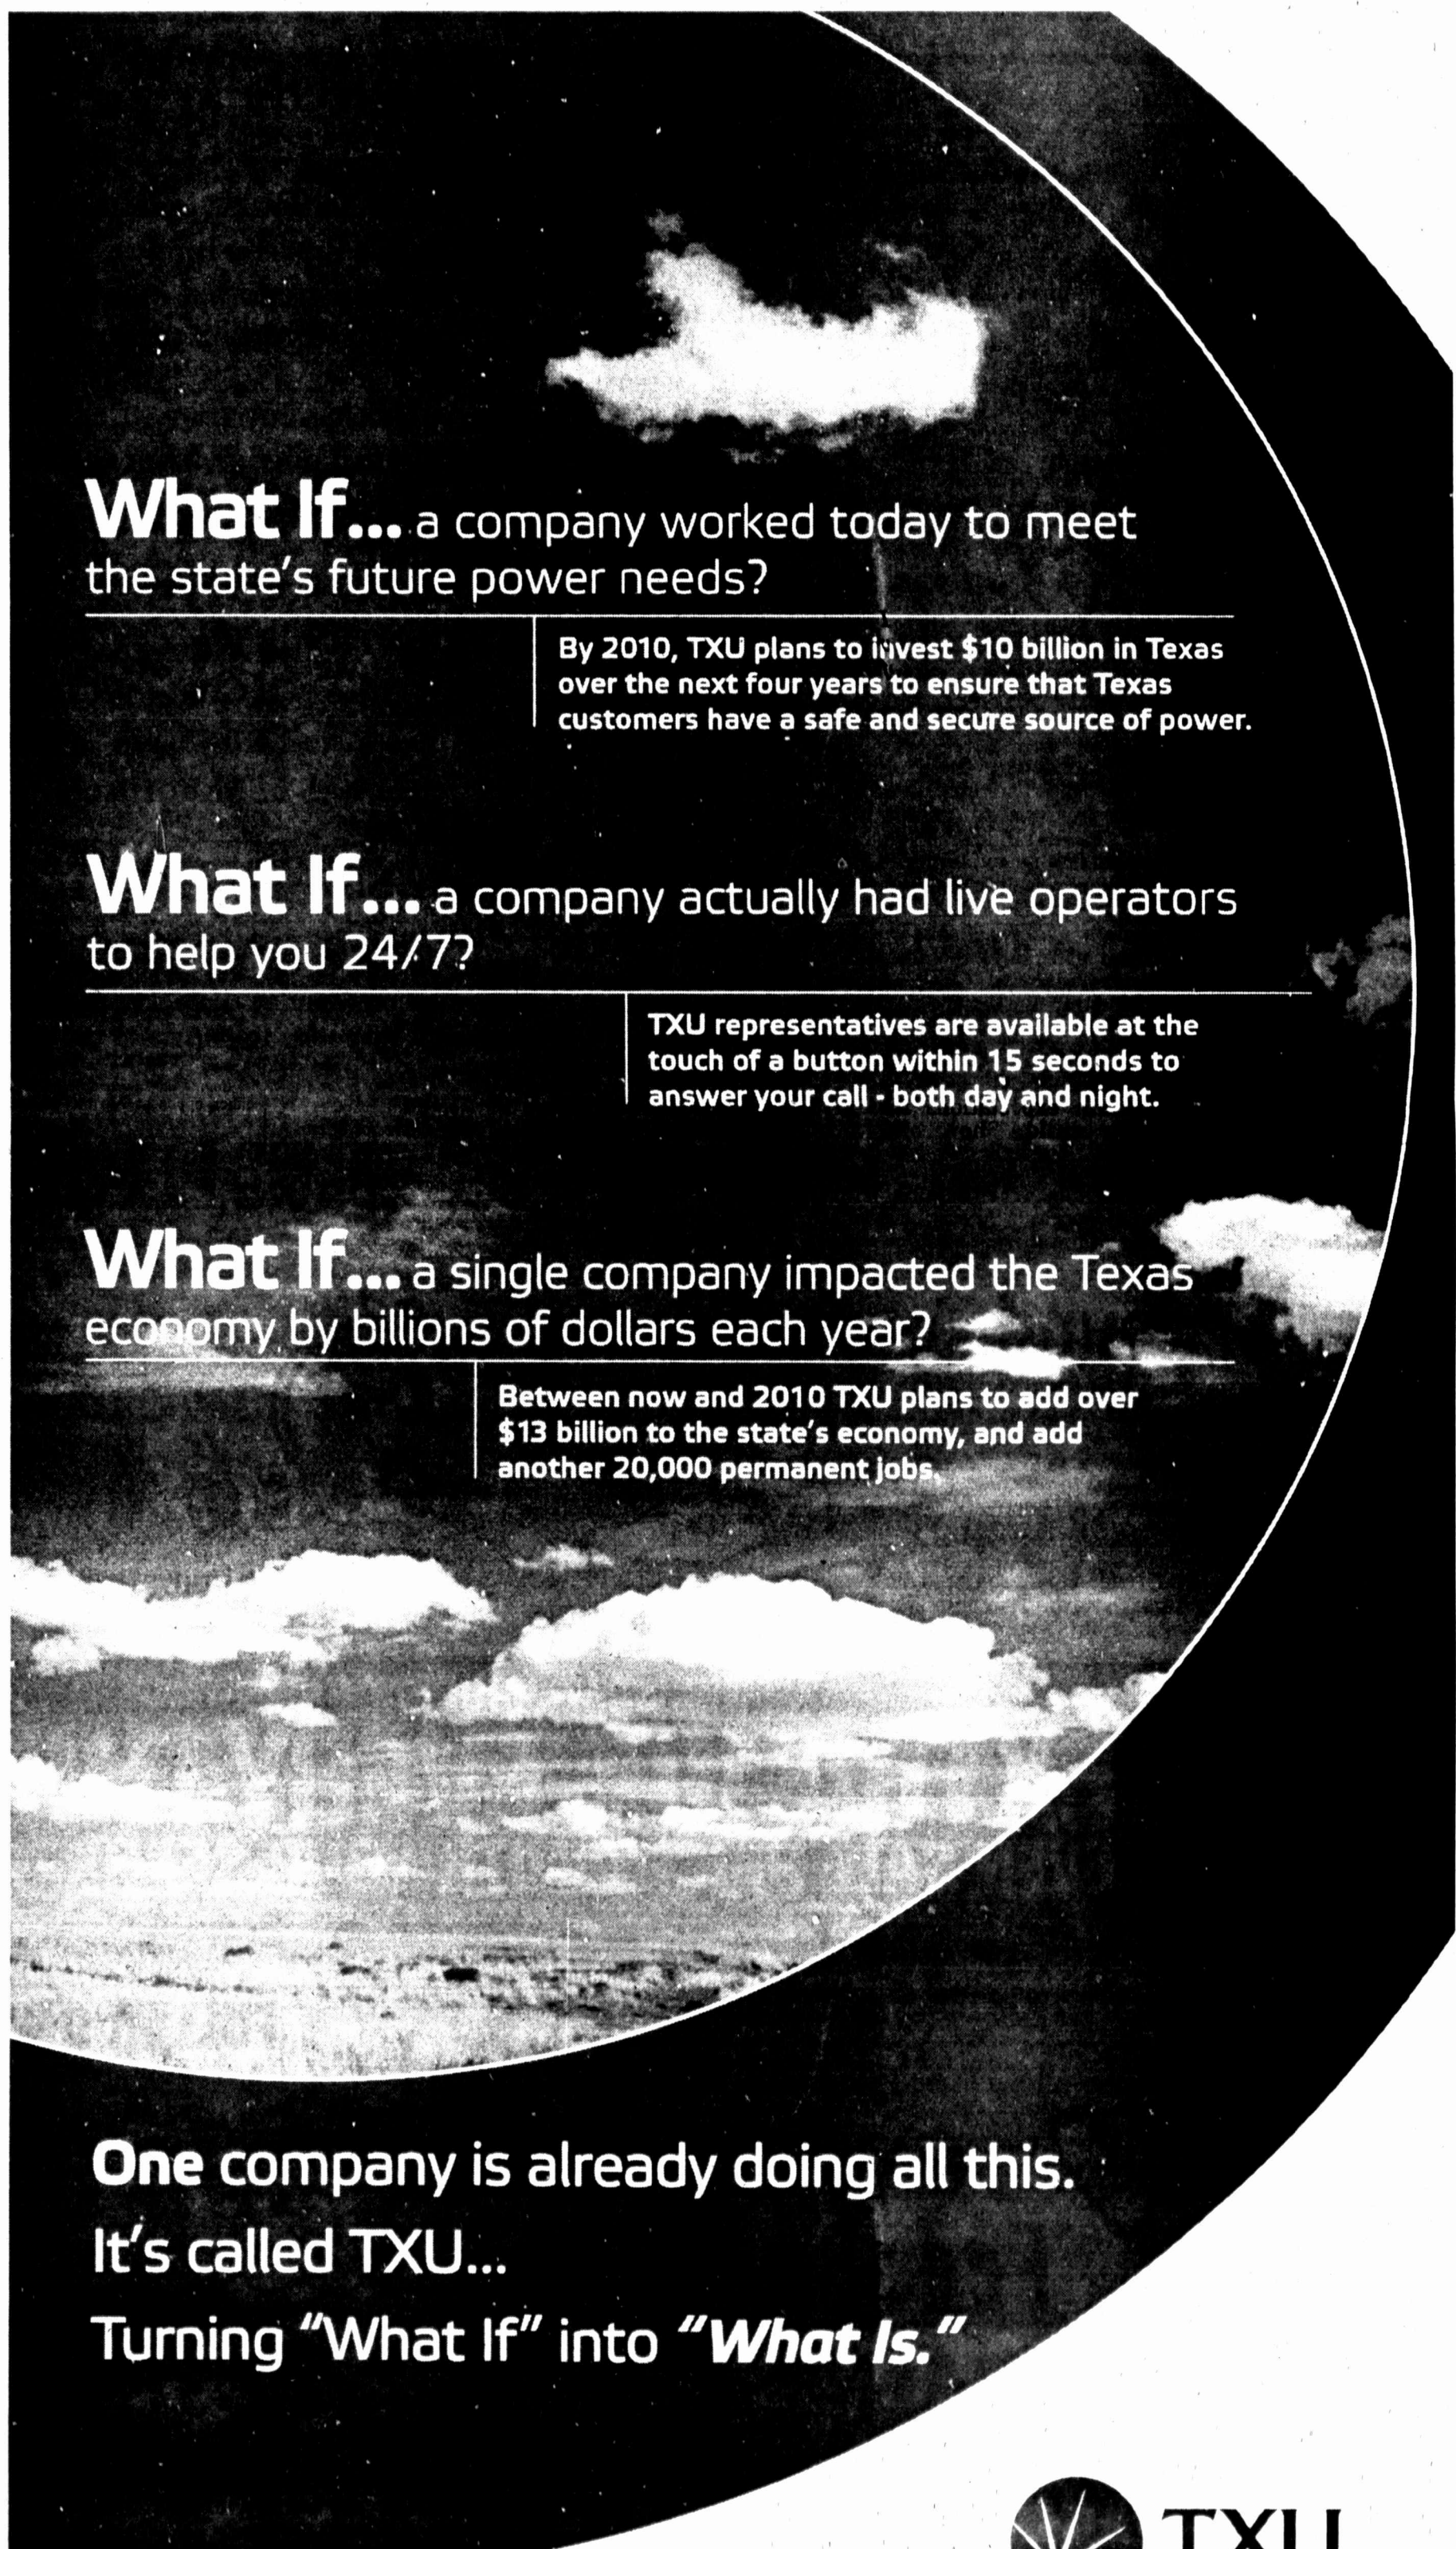

James Charles Torrence, 38, was building the bomb Monday in his home when it exploded, officials said. Authorities evacuated neighbors and detonated a second bomb in a nearby field, said Brian Howell, assistant fire marshal of the Longview Fire Department.

Howell said documents were found in the residence listing names of agents with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and the Drug Enforcement Administration. Officials believe the Longview man was targeting the agencies because he felt they built the case against him, Howell said in a Tuesday story in the online edition of Longview News-Journal.

Officials also found a machine gun and a pistol silencer in the home.

A Stone for Every Journey" (B GRE E) is the story of Elinor Delight Gregg, R.N., the first Supervisor of Nurses for the Indian Service. Her memories are vivid with details of 80 years of an independent woman's life. The first tape is filled with recollections of adventure, frustration, triumphs and personal commitment to caring.

HOLLIS MCCRIGHT

She wonders how the two University of New Mexico nursing students, Melody Johnson and Alice Fryer, can possibly benefit from what she has to say.

Her stories tell of times far before they were born — of miles she traveled through World War I, on Indian Reservations, in Washington, D.C., and all the journeys between and since.

This thoroughly researched, true biography set within a fictional relationship between Elinor Gregg and two University of New Mexico nursing students in the summer of 1966 will instruct readers interested in nursing, gerontology, history and the Women's Movement, and will fascinate the general reader who enjoys a good story.

I met Teddy Jones as she was traveling through the area and she is a delightful person. She co-authored the book with Edwina McConnell.

While reviewing Bob Greene's new book "And You Know You Should Be Glad," I read the following: "It does raise the questions, though: Where do all the memories go? If you don't make an effort to save them, do they just drift away?"

Can you remember your best friend from kindergarten? I can't.

Living in the country, my best friends were my brother and sisters, so I have "family" friends.

Growing up in Brexley, Ohio, population 13,000, Bob Greene and his four best friends, Allen, Chuck, Dan and Jack, were inseparable. Of the four, Jack was Bob's very best friend, a bond forged from the moment they met on the first day of kindergarten.

They grew up together, got into trouble together, learned about life together — and were ultimately separated by time and distance, as all adults are.

But through the years Bob and Jack stayed close, holding on to the friendship that had formed years before. Then the fateful call came — Jack was dying.

And in this hour of need, as the closest of friends will do, Bob, Allen, Chuck and Dan put aside the demands of their own lives, came together and saw Jack through to the end of his journey.

Tremendously moving, funny, heart-stirring, and honest, "And You Know You Should Be Glad" is an uplifting exploration of the power of friendship to uphold us, sustain us and ultimately set us free. What song does the title come from?

Now for just some titles of new book just in: Amanda Quick's "Second Sight"; "Crime Beat: A Decade of Covering Cops and Killers," (363.259 CON M) by Michael Connelly; "Peyton Place," by Grace Metalious (the original soap opera); "Peter, Paul and Mary Magdalene: The Followers of Jesus in History and Legend," (225.922 EHR B) by Bart D. Ehrman; Terri Hatcher's "Burnt Toast" (a biography of sorts); "Guests of the Ayatollah: First Battle in America's War with Militant Islam," (955.054 BOW M) by Mark Bowden, he was the author of "Black Hawk Down;" and "Capote," (B CAP T) a biography of Truman Capote written by Gerald Clarke.

Remember to always look in the New Book Binder at the front desk for additional books that we have received.

After the success of his brother, Dave Pelzer's best-selling memoir "A Boy Called It," Richard B. Pelzer touched thousands with his own heart-wrenching account of an abusive childhood in his New York Times best-seller, "A Brother's Journey."

Now, in "A Teenager's Journey," (B PEL R) Richard reveals how the horrific treatment he endured as a boy affected him throughout his teenage years. As an adolescent, he found himself turning to drugs — even contemplating suicide — as he struggled to separate and live an autonomous life, away from his horrifying family situation.

His salvation finally came when a surrogate family took him in, offering comfort, hope, unconditional love and ultimately, the transformational power of forgiveness. A very moving, no holds barred book.

Redemption on Coahoma's mind in Austin

• Bulldogettes get set for rematch against No. 1 Elysian Fields

By TROY HYDE

Sports Editor

Redemption is on the mind of the Bulldogettes' softball team Thursday when No. 6 Coahoma takes on No. 1 Elysian Fields in the semifinals of the Class 2A state softball tournament.

Head coach Robby Dickenson said the team will use last year's 4-2 state tournament loss to Elysian Fields as motivation this year.

"We are kind of going up there thinking about redeeming ourselves after the loss last year," said Dickenson.

Elysian Fields went on to win the state title last year, but most of its runs against Coahoma were unearned as they came from mistakes in the field. The Bulldogettes committed three errors in one inning and fell behind early before trying to rally late.

"We need to take care of business in the field and put the ball in play consistently," said Dickenson. "Last year, we kind of hurt ourselves and if we don't do that this year then I think we'll be OK. I think we are as good as any team there."

The Lady Jackets, who are playing in their second state tournament, are pretty similar to last year as they returns seven starters. Dickenson said the team swings the bats well throughout the lineup, but the top of the order is key.

"They can all hit, but the No. 3 and No. 4 hitters are good and the leadoff hitter is very fast," said Dickenson.

Brooke Hickey started on the mound and got the win for the Lady Jackets last year in Austin, but she is gone after graduating. Her sister, Baylee, is now the ace on the hill and will try to duplicate what her sister did a year ago. Baylee Hickey had two hits off Coahoma senior Kali Roberts in last year's game.

"I have heard those two are very similar," said Dickenson. "Baylee is good, but not any better than her sister."

Roberts is expected to start on the hill once again for Coahoma. She did not throw her best game last year in her first-ever state tournament appearance. This year, Dickenson hopes the experience of throwing last year helps her on the big stage.

"She needs to hit her spots and have good control," said Dickenson. "We can't give (Elysian Fields) any free bases. It must earn everything it gets."

Coahoma enters its state-record eighth state tournament with a 28-11-2 record. The Bulldogettes played four state qualifiers this year. Celina beat Coahoma earlier this year and could face the Bulldogettes in Saturday's championship game if both can advance past their first-round games.

"We are really looking at redemption in more than one way if we can play Celina again," said Dickenson. "We didn't play very well against Celina earlier this year,

Coahoma assistant softball coach Erin Stovall, left, cheers on freshman Shelbi Paige as she runs to first base Saturday in Snyder during Game 3 of the regional championship series against Hawley. The Bulldogettes advanced to state after the 11-0 win.

Suns even series with Mavericks

PHOENIX — Raja Bell supplied the grit, and his Phoenix teammates took care of the offense.

As a result, the Suns are even again with the Dallas Mavericks in the Western Conference finals.

Leandro Barbosa scored 24 points on 10-for-13 shooting and the Suns, regrouping after a lifeless home loss in Game 3 two nights earlier, ran away from the Mavericks 106-86 on Tuesday night.

Tied at two games apiece, the series returns to Dallas for Game 5 on Thursday night.

Boris Diaw added 20 points, including a pair of emphatic fourth-quarter dunks that helped the Suns build a 25-point lead.

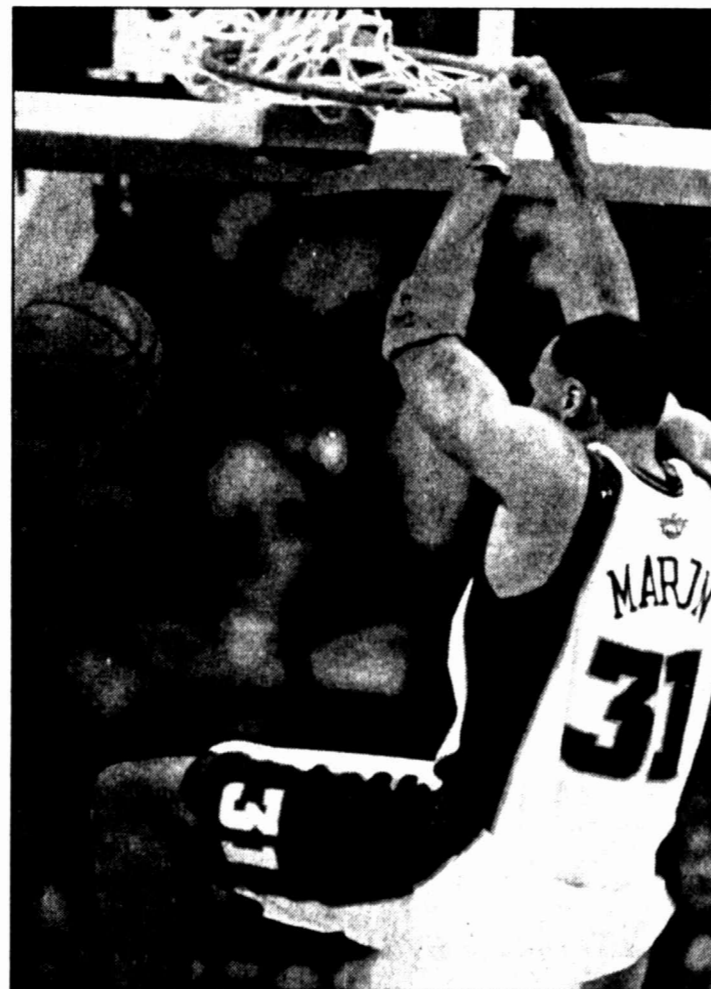

Steve Nash had 21 points and eight assists, and Shawn Marion scored 15 points.

Bell made a surprise start for the Suns after missing the last two games with a slight tear in his left calf.

He had only nine points but gave some much-needed intensity to the team in 32 minutes of play.

"I've been to war all season with these guys," Bell told TNT at halftime. "I wasn't going to watch tonight."

Dirk Nowitzki managed only 11 points for the Mavericks on 3-for-13 shooting, breaking a string of 42 games when he's scored at least 20 points. It was the first time he's scored fewer than 25 points in the Mavs' eight games against Phoenix this season.

Josh Howard led the Mavericks with 16 but left with an apparent shin injury with 5:47 to play.

Phoenix never trailed after the first quarter. The Mavericks stayed close, despite the shooting woes of Nowitzki, until the Suns blew it open with a 20-4 outburst at the end of the third quarter and start of the fourth. Diaw dunked over Nowitzki for a three-point play to start the fourth quarter to make it 82-67. Another dunk by Diaw ended the surge and put Phoenix firmly in control for good, 87-69, with 10:14 to play.

The Suns shot 54 percent, including 7-of-15 on 3-pointers, compared with 42 percent for the Mavericks.

Nash made a 12-footer, then Nowitzki missed a jumper at the halftime buzzer and Phoenix led 51-46.

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

With balletic grace, our sister planet Venus has recently entered the sensual
extravaganza that is Taurus.
This, along with other aspects,
brings a sparkling finish to the pursuits of romance and pleasure. Though all that glitters is not gold, it's certainly fun to suspend disbelief. After all, some that glitters really is gold.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). There's a modern belief that people in good relationships totally understand one another.
You disprove this. You surrender to the foggy beauty of a complicated person, content to remain mystified.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You're still in a passionate mood, but it's a quiet, smoldering kind of feeling. You prefer to experience heart-pounding emotion in the privacy of your own space.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). The planets align to create a metaphorical
stone wall in your financial realm. Since when have you been stopped by a stone wall? You're an expert at scaling such obstacles, and you have all the equipment you need.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll swing back and forth between what it takes to fulfill your need for belonging and what is required for you to feel free. It helps to apply yourself to the art of being noncommittal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22).
You're an excellent spokesperson when you believe in someone or something. If you give a presentation today, it will be a smash hit. There is discussion of a permanent, mutually beneficial collaboration.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept.
22). Events fall into place in a way you hadn't planned and can't seem to control. It's like being a guest at your own wedding. Don't fight it. Let people show you their talents. Enjoy the ride.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23).
As usual, you make friends with the difficult people around you. Their negative energy wanes as your kindness waxes.
Entrepreneurs: A lucky lead could involve you in a cutting edge business.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.
21). This is not a good time to be David battling Goliath. It takes more than a rock to bring the giant down now; strategize at night. On a financial note, it turns out the check really was in the mail.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). When you drop some emotional baggage, a love life in limbo will finally progress. Singles:
Create your own coincidence; romance starts with a casual conversation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Pursue romantic intrigue only if you feel there is chemistry, too.

begins. FUN is something Virgo often recognizes in hindsight. While an experience is happening,
Virgo is busy negotiating with the inner critic in order to achieve a state of laid-back relaxation. On the ride home or a day later, Virgo realizes what a nice time he or she was really having. By the week's end, the experience qualifies as FUN.
For Virgo, identifying those FUN moments as often as possible leads to more of them. With practice, eventually Virgo can recognize the FUN in real time.

CELEBRITY PROFILES:
Somebody bring her
"some water," because
Gemini singer/songwriter
Melissa Etheridge has one hot year ahead. A human rights activist and equal opportunity superstar, Etheridge has never shined brighter. Recently, she and her partner
Tammy Lynn Michaels
have announced the impending arrival of a new baby toward the end of the year. I see this child's birth symbolizing
the onset of the next phase of Etheridge's never-ending prowess as a musical artist.

Annex's Mailbox : Advice for those in need

She tells me scary stories of ingrown hair and how I could cut myself, and speaks badly about waxing and using depilato-ries, since I have sensitive skin.

My mom uses tweezers to remove her hair. I tried it twice and found it incredibly painful. I would like my mother to respect my choice and let me shave, but she won't.
I've already talked to her,
but she still turned me down. So I've been using scissors, but people still seem to notice the hair under my arms when I wear sleeveless shirts or a swimsuit. My best friend started hinting to me about my hair, but so far, I've ignored her.

What should I do,
Annie? I can't shave or use creams, tweezers are too painful, laser is too expensive, waxing looks scary, and I don't want to use scissors for the rest of my life. — Want To Go Bald

Dear Bald: There are women who like their underarm hair, but since you don't, we hope Mom
will reconsider shaving.
You are just as likely to get ingrown hairs from tweezing. There also are creams to help deal with sensitive skin after shaving, and depilatory creams made especially for sensitive skin. If Mom won't listen to you, discuss it with your father, another relative or an adult friend — someone who will talk to Mom on your behalf. Good luck.

Dear Annie: This is for
"Simi Valley, Calif.," the 55-year-old self-employed hairstylist who feels she can't last another 10 years at her job. Tell her to go to a trade school.

I am 60 years old and wanted to get out of nursing. When I was unable to find a job with the skills I had, I went to a trade school and took a course to be an administrative assistant. Within a month of completing the course,
I was employed and now

also borrows all of our about them when he returns them. He is full of suggestions that he doesn't take himself. Bill has to know everyone and everything before you do,

and he lies to make himself look good. We once confronted him about a lie, and he got mad and stayed away for months.
However, the phone calls and visits have started again.

How do we get this guy
to go home to his loving wife so we can have our lives back? — Go Away in the Midwest

Dear Go Away: You've
been way too accommodating. Regardless of the reasons that Bill is hanging around, it's time to pull up the welcome mat.
Tell him, "Bill, we love you, but we need some privacy. You are welcome to drop by now and then,
as long as you call first to see if it's convenient." If he shows up unexpectedly, stand by the door, remind him he was supposed to call, say it's an inconvenient time, and tell him he will have to leave. If you don't have the courage to do this, he will be a fly in your oint-

Don't you wish your advertising could stop consumers that effectively? Let's face it, most of the time it gets lost in the shuffle. It takes a certain ingenuity to stand out in a crowd. You've got to be provocative. Unpredictable. A little smarter than the next guy. And you've got to have a real feel for the medium you're working in. We put those talents to work for our advertisers everyday...and at no extra cost. It works for them. And, you'll have to admit, it just worked for you!
