'Crimes of opportunity' result in grand jury indictments

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

A pair of Big Spring residents who apparently took advantage of "crimes of opportunity" were hit with multiple indictments during Thursday's session of the Howard County Grand Jury.

Rodney Wayne Tubbs, 22, and Sabrina Faye Rivera, 34, both of Big Spring, were each charged with three counts of burglary of a habitation by the grand jury, District Attorney Hardy L. Wilkerson said.

In addition, Tubbs was indicted on three counts of theft. Those charges, normally in the misdemeanor range, were enhanced to state jail felonies because of previous theft convictions on Tubbs' record.

The burglary charges are each second degree felonies, punishable by a term of between two and 20 years in prison and a fine not to exceed $10,000. State jail felonies are punishable by a term of between 180 days and two years in a state jail facility.

"The burglaries were apparently crimes of opportunity," Wilkerson said. "Essentially, they were (allegedly) stealing things easily available from people's garages, items like golf clubs, power tools and the like."

The burglaries occurred during a two-day period in March this year, Wilkerson said.

The theft indictments against Tubbs stem from two instances at Beall's Department Store in Big Spring Mall, in which he is accused of entering the store, quickly taking several clothing items and running out. The third theft indictment is related to the theft of a lawnmower.

Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo ready to begin

By BILL MCCLELLAN

News Editor

It's Rodeo Week in Howard County, and that means lots of tradition, plenty of color and the kind of excitement that only an eight-second ride or a perfectly placed rope can provide.

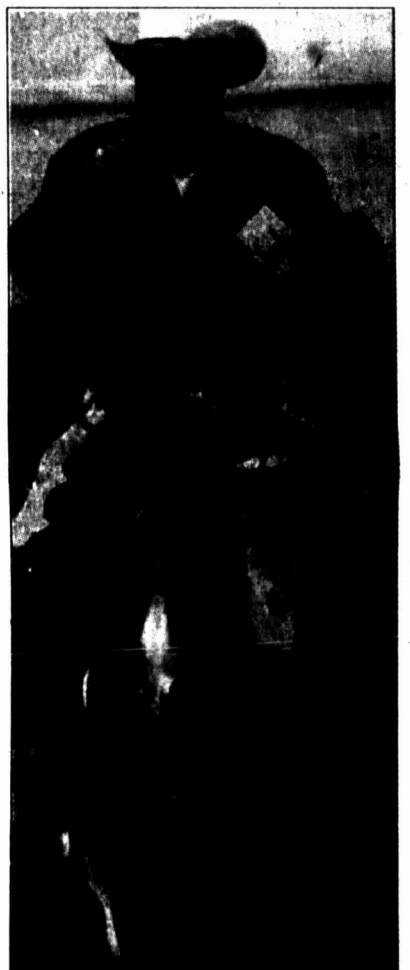

Billed as the oldest continually running professional rodeo in the nation, the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo is primed to burst out of the chutes Thursday through Saturday at the Rodeo Bowl. Gates open at 7 p.m. each evening. The traditional grand entry will get rodeo action under way beginning at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $8 for adults and $4 for children in advance at Ward's Boot and Saddle, First Bank of West Texas, First Big Spring Banking Center, Wells Fargo, Citizens Federal Credit Union, State National Bank and the chamber of commerce.

If you wait and get tickets at the gate, you'll be charged $10 and $6.

What's new this year? The producer for starters. This year's rodeo is being produced by Pete Carr, founder of the Carr Pro Rodeo Company.

"He's been around long enough that he really knows what he is doing and he always brings with him some good help. We're excited to have

'Pops in the Park' funding still shy of mark

By JOHN A. MOSELEY

With a little more than two weeks remaining before the "Pops in the Park" concert and fireworks display at the Comanche Trail Park Amphitheater, organizers say they are still far shy of the approximate $35,000 needed to stage the event.

Held every July 3, "Pops in the Park" features a performance by the Big Spring Symphony and Chorus, followed by a fireworks show that is coordinated with the symphony's patriotic music.

"We're very pleased with the way donations and sponsorships for the show have been coming in," Jan Hansen, chairman of the Big Spring Fourth of July Foundation, said of the organizing committee's fund-raising efforts. "But we need to make sure people understand that we're still not where we need to be. We still need financial help at this point."

Donations making the concert and fireworks show possible come from local businesses and individuals, as well as corporate sponsorships. What's more, they make it possible for organizers to open the gates for all comers free of charge.

"It is the entire community's celebration, that's something we always want to stress," Hansen said. "It's a chance to gather with friends and family at the park and

INTENTIONS WERE GOOD

AMARILLO (AP) — Caitlin Campbell couldn't spell collyrium but someone couldn't spell her last name.

A billboard went up in this Panhandle city to honor Caitlin's eighth-place finish in the national spelling bee. It reads: "Congratulations! Caitlin Cambell for making Amarillo proud."

Lamar Outdoor Advertising said it plans to replace the downtown sign with the correct spelling. Caitlin, 14, made it to the ninth round of the first prime-time network broadcast of the Scripps National Spelling Bee earlier this month in Washington. She left when she misspelled "collyrium," a term for eye lotion.

A 'NEW DIRECTION'

House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi said Saturday

Democrats want to increase the minimum wage, lower prescription drug costs and slash interest rates on student loans as part of the party's new domestic agenda, named "New Direction for America," which was rolled out during the past week.

BURN BAN DECRIED

Judge Ben Lockhart, acting on behalf of the Howard County Commissioners Court, has issued an outdoor burn ban for all of Howard County.

A second order issued by the court prohibits certain fireworks in unincorporated areas of the county. No person may sell or detonate fireworks classified as "sky-rockets with sticks" and "missiles with fins" in the county.

The order does not prohibit common fireworks, classified as Class C explosives, or large fireworks devices designed primarily to produce visible or audible effects by combustion, deflagration or detonation.

Parents charged in bedridden daughter's death

TEXAS CITY (AP) — A Galveston County grand jury has indicted the parents of a bedridden 11-year-old girl who weighed 34 pounds when she died last month. Jorge Alberto Vazquez, 40, and Veronica Vazquez, 37, were charged with causing serious bodily injury to a child. Their daughter Bethany, who had cerebral palsy, died in May at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston.

A preliminary report by the Galveston County Medical Examiner's Office listed malnutrition and medical neglect as the cause of death, Texas City police detective Brian Goetschius said.

The girl's mother called 911 on May 23 and reported that her daughter was not breathing. The girl was taken to the hospital, where she later died.

Motorcyclist fatally shot

GEORGETOWN (AP) — Deputies fatally shot a motorcyclist they were chasing for traffic violations when the pursuit ended in a cornfield, officials said.

Authorities said the motorcyclist, who was not identified, had briefly lost the deputies Friday evening before he was spotted again and chased until the pursuit ended in a field near Georgetown.

The motorcyclist pulled out a handgun and officers were forced to shoot, Williamson County Sheriff's Department spokesman John Foster said. "The deputies had no alternative but to use deadly force," he said. "It is something no law enforcement officer wants to do, but they had no choice."

The chase also sparked a fire when the engine from one of the patrol cars ignited a field. But firefighters from nearby Weir extinguished the flames, Foster said.

Dallas may ban realistic toy guns

DALLAS (AP) — Toy guns can appear as dangerous as the real thing — robbers have passed them off as weapons and police have mistaken kids' games for possible crimes, activists say.

The concerns have led the Dallas City Council to consider banning businesses from selling fake weapons that appear highly realistic and prohibiting children from playing with them in public. The proposal is being refined in the city's Public Safety Committee and is expected to be adopted later this month.

"We just want to do everything we can to stop the proliferation of violence in our community," said the Rev. David L. Ferrell, a community leader who supports the ordinance.

from the front yard of a local residence.

The grand jury also returned multiple indictments against Freddie Ramos, 25, of Big Spring, who was charged with driving while intoxicated with child passengers and abandoning/endangerment of a child, both state jail felonies.

The endangerment charge arose from an incident in April when Ramos allegedly left children unsupervised in conditions that Wilkerson described as "filth and squalor." Three months earlier, Ramos had been arrested on the DWI charge by Department of Public Safety troopers.

Also indicted by the grand jury were:

- Nathaniel Ryan Allard, 24, Big Spring, for unauthorized use of a vehicle.
- Ray Alvarado, 29, Big Spring, for violation of a protective order and assault with previous convictions.

RODEO

him," said Richard Atkins, one of the directors on the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo board.

Carr raises and provides some of the most sought-after bucking stock in the sport, and some of it will be showcased here this week.

The whooping and hollering begins early Thursday — 5:30 p.m. — as the rodeo parade makes its way north on Main from 10th Street to downtown, then back south on Scurry. Thursday is also Teen Night. After the rodeo, there will be a DJ dance for teens only — no one over 19 years of age is admitted. Admission to the dance is free with a paid rodeo ticket.

There are dances for the adult crowd, too. Friday night, local legend Jody Nix and his Texas Cowboys will be playing. Tickets are $10 each.

And on Saturday, up-and-coming Texas star Aaron Watson will take the stage. Tickets that night are $15.

Rodeo fans are also invited to participate in a golf tournament Friday at the Big Spring Country Club.

The $50 per player entry fee goes to the Justin Crisis Fund and includes a noon meal. Shotgun start in the four-person scramble is 8 a.m. More than $500 in prizes will be awarded.

The deadline to enter is Tuesday. Reserve a spot by contacting Eddy Blassingame at 557-7228.

Each rodeo performance promises to be top notch. In addition to some of the most talented cowboys and cowgirls in the nation, the crew that keeps the show going is also a group of dedicated professionals. Mike Mathis returns to announce the action from horseback while the specialty act each night will be headed up by longtime clown and barrelman Jim Bob Feller. The bullfighters are Travis Adams and Casey Wells.

In addition to the traditional events — bull riding, bareback saddle bronc, steer wrestling, calf roping and barrel racing — the performances will feature another crowd favorite, mutton bustin' for children age 6 and younger.

"We're bringing back team roping which we haven't had for a number of years, and we are looking forward to that," said Atkins.

As always, there will be plenty of concessions for rodeo goers, including booths which will aid two local organizations — the Youth Horseman Club and the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club.

"It's going to be a great rodeo," said Atkins. "Come on out and have a good time."

join our neighbors in celebrating the fact that we live in the greatest country on earth.

"But to make that possible, we rely on the community's help," she added. "The people and businesses in this community always come through. They're doing so now. We just need to make sure people know we still need donations."

"So, we'll be redoubling our efforts this time around," Hansen continued. "After all, we really believe that nobody celebrates the Fourth of July holiday like Big Spring does. In fact, the show brings visitors from outside our community and we think it's important to make sure we continue to have a quality show for everyone to enjoy."

Dr. Keith Graumann, the symphony's conductor, noted that even musicians and chorus members from outside the community look forward to taking part in the event.

"Anywhere from a quarter to a third of the people who have volunteered to sing in the chorus are from Midland and Odessa," Graumann said during the committee's meeting Thursday. "They don't have anything that compares to this in Midland and Odessa, and that's a sign that we're going to have quite a few people from outside our community here just to enjoy the show."

Presenters of the event include the Big Spring Herald, Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, the city of Big Spring, the Convention and Visitors Bureau, the Big Spring Symphony, KBYG and KBST — each providing donations of $5,000 or more in funding or in-kind services.

For those unable to serve as "Presenters," Hansen noted that the committee is also seeking support at different levels — "Star" sponsors that donate $3,000 or more, and "Rocket" sponsors, donating $1,000 or more. So far this year, the sole Star sponsor for the show is Alon USA. As of yet the committee has not heard from those businesses that were Rocket sponsors a year ago.

"We really want to thank those who support us, no matter how they are able to contribute," Hansen said.

While committee members continue their fundraising effort, Becky Crane, who co-chairs the organizing committee, is coordinating the list of businesses and organizations wanting to operate vendor's booths during the show. She can be contacted at 267-5449 or at 517-0373. She can be e-mailed at rcrane10@cox.net. Vendor packets are already available at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce offices.

Crowds pack the amphitheater every year and the crowd always spills over into the park and along U.S. Highway 87 with between 10,000 and 15,000 attending the concert, and as big a crowd or an even larger one is expected this year.

"It seems like the crowd gets a little larger every year," Hansen said. "And that's one of the reasons we always try to make each year's show a little bigger and better. This is the largest single event in terms of the people gathered at one time that we have in our community each year."

OUR VIEWS

It's your day, Dad, and one well-deserved

You might call him "Dad," "Daddy" or "Pop," but whatever you call him, today is his day. It's time to recognize the man who taught you to fish or how to throw a ball, carried you on his shoulders and gave patient advice.

He may have cried at your wedding, or you may have never seen him cry at all, but chances are he consoled your tears on many occasions.

For some, it seems he was always around ... especially when you were doing something you weren't supposed to do.

To others, however, he was rarely part of your life due to a demanding work schedule or family problems, and maybe you only got to know your father well as an adult.

One thing is certain, though. Fatherhood is taken for granted all too often today. It seems we are constantly being reminded that many children don't know their fathers or don't see them regularly.

Those of us who do should be thankful, because that's clearly something many in coming generations will not enjoy. And that, we think, is not only a shame, but destined to be the ruination of our society.

Today we should also remember that a father is sometimes a "father figure," someone who gave you his time and attention, even though he wasn't your father.

It is for all those sorts of men we celebrate Father's Day.

For all the things your father was to you, take time today to show appreciation. Let him know that you saw how much he cared and what it's always meant to you.

And for fathers everywhere: We realize you had a tough job to do. Thanks for taking it seriously. Your influence continues to have a lasting effect.

Have a great day, because you've earned it!

What I wouldn't do for love

Random thoughts while sleepwalking: I'm as much of a fan of true love as the next guy, but some folks just take it too far, as the following attests:

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A marriage-minded man ran naked through his neighborhood, trying to show his hesitant girlfriend that taking risks is important.

He got more than he bargained for when he ended up being chased and shot at.

The couple were discussing marriage early Wednesday when the woman said she wasn't sure if she was ready, according to Ann Arbor police reports.

After running naked across the street, the man ducked into some bushes when he spotted a couple walking.

A 28-year-old man spotted the bushes rustling and bare feet underneath, and drew his .40-caliber handgun, and ordered the naked man to come out, according to police.

The naked suitor ran away, but the armed man gave chase and eventually fired a shot, police said. The naked man fell to the ground, suffering minor injuries.

Police arrested the gunman on charges of aggravated assault and carrying a concealed weapon. The naked man was not arrested.

Love has made me do many stupid things, but I can't top this.

I have foisted my horrible singing upon former woman of my dreams — which is probably why we're talking about her in the past tense.

I have written love poetry which has thankfully been lost in the mists of time.

I have suffered through horrible movies, just because it was something she wanted to do.

I have apologized for things that weren't my fault, just to calm her down.

I have prominently displayed a truly horrid painting in my home, just because she painted it.

I have ignored friends and family, all in the name of love.

I have said or promised a variety of genuinely stupid things, all to secure the love of that special woman.

But I have never, ever taken off my clothes in public for said love, and never will, Lord willing.

I mean, I understand the man's intent. Some risks are worth taking.

But the operative word here is "some." Some risks are worth taking. Some ... not so much.

Writing a poem to my true love was a risk worth taking. If she liked it, it would've have further cemented in her mind that I was a kind, loving soul.

Taking off one's clothes and getting shot at? I'm afraid that would fall under the latter category.

Someone needs to tell this guy there's a thin line between risk-taking and looking like a stone fool.

Don't get me wrong — I'm not without sympathy for the guy. He was trying to demonstrate the level of his commitment to his lady love. And, for sure, he didn't deserve to be shot at for his trouble.

But does anyone believe that his actions obtained the required results? Do you think his girlfriend said something along the lines of:

"So, let's get this straight. Marrying you will be something akin to running around naked in public and getting shot at by total strangers? Ooooooh ... I'll meet you at the chapel, baby!"

No, something tells me her subsequent comments were something like ...

"Know him, officer? Heck, no. I was just sitting on the porch, minding my own business, when I saw this naked guy running around. I was about to call the police, when this other guy pulls out a gun and starts shooting. That's when things got real confusing, and I needed to go inside and lie down for a bit. But, to answer your question, sir, I've never met the guy."

I'm not totally sure I have a point to all this, but if I did, I guess it would be something along the lines that love sure makes you do some stupid things.

And then it makes you do something like this.

And folks wonder why I'm single.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

Once again the Big Spring High School band had another successful trip. The New York trip was truly amazing. The students were awesome in every respect. They did extremely well representing Big Spring and the surrounding communities.

The students were exposed to a different culture and it was an educational opportunity for them. The majority were able to visit Ground Zero, several chapels and cathedrals, Central Park, the Empire State Building, the Statue of Liberty, Fifth Avenue, the Museum of Natural History and the Today Show.

For many, riding in a New York taxi and on the subway was an experience of its own.

On our way to the Broadway play (Phantom of the Opera), the students were able to see part of the filming of Spider Man 3.

During the play, I noticed a few of the students crying. They later told me the play had been truly inspirational and that it was something they would never forget.

Their performance at Carnegie Hall was perfection. These students made history. It is something they will never forget. Getting to perform at Carnegie Hall is monumental and our band students did it. Congratulations to them and our band director, Rocky Harris, and guest conductor, Daniel Aleman.

The trip could not have been possible if not for the help of many people. I want to thank all those who helped make this trip possible for our students. It was and is truly appreciated. A special thanks to the BSISD administration, staff and faculty, the BSISD school board, area businesses and corporate donors, the Band Exes, band parents...

We especially want to thank Mike Ritchey and his family for driving the truck and getting our instruments and uniforms to New York and back home. Also thanks to all the chaperones who helped take care of our students.

And thank you, band students, for being such an awesome group of kids. You represented Big Spring in such a fine manner that it is impossible to describe. To those of you that helped make this trip possible, I just want you to know that it was a fine investment and that from the time they left Big Spring until they returned home, they represented you proudly.

With this being my final year with the Band Boosters, I want to thank the band students and band directors for a great year. It was a fun ride. I will miss it, but I will always hold the "Pride Drive" in my heart.

How I missed the party in Hell

Way back in the early 1800's a fellow by the name of George Reeves was instrumental in seeing that Michigan became a state. After a successful campaign at statehood he was asked what he thought the town that he originally settled should be named.

"I don't care, you can call it Hell if you want to," George replied and somehow the name stuck becoming official on Oct. 13, 1841.

The Town Called Hell

Now when Davey Crockett told his ungrateful voters in Tennessee that they could, "go to Hell and he would go to Texas," he was not referring to this little town in Michigan.

Can you imagine those knuckleheads naming their town Hell?

I can only begin to contemplate the double entendre in conversations throughout the years. Things like, "Honey, lets take the kids to Hell for the weekend."

I wonder how good somebody's childhood could be if they grow up in Hell.

My friend suggested that the Hell Chamber of Commerce should put up a sign saying something like "Hell: A nice place to visit but you don't want to live there."

TROY BREWER

Coffee drinkers, this is a real town in the state of Michigan and based on its location, I bet Hell freezes over for at least a month every year.

During that season, even a snowball has a chance.

A Heck Of A Party In Hell

Now the reason I even know about this little hot spot is because of it's dishonorable mayor receiving national attention for the party he threw on June 6. As you probably are already aware, this last Tuesday was 06-06-06 and Hell wanted to cash in on the biblical stigma attached to those numbers.

John Colone, the current Mayor and local souvenir shop owner, was selling his "666" wares with bonafied letters of authenticity stating that the buyer had celebrated June 6th in Hell. Most of his T-shirts and coffee mugs could be bought at the price of $6.66, including a deed to one square inch of Hell. To some, a definite bargain.

Location, Location, Location!

The Brewer has a better real estate offer for those unfortunate buyers. Bon Scott and the boys from AC/DC might have been on the "Highway to Michigan," but let me encourage you to take a less traveled road.

Two thousand years before people reveled in Hell town, Jesus Christ took the keys to the city and to death itself. Not only did He die and pay the price all of us owe, but He also got up and slapped death in face.

The Party in Hell has actually been over for 2000 years.

Somebody needs to alert Michigan!

Like Garth Brooks showing up in boots and taking away that famous glass of champagne, Jesus Christ took away the guarantee all of us have real estate reserved in Hell.

Thank you Lord, because I didn't even want a square inch of it.

Mansions Available

I think a lot of people are going to be surprised at who has a room reserved in the Father's house. It's a lot better place to live and all you have to do to get there is let Jesus take you.

After all, He is the one that said, "Let not your heart be troubled; you believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you to Myself; that where I am, there you may be also." John 14:1-3

Jury awards $28.2 million to family of drunk driving victim

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A jury awarded $28.2 million to the family of a man who was fatally struck outside his home by a drunken driver.

Bexar County jurors found Monte James Cooper, 58, liable in the 2004 death of Edward Souza. They deliberated for two days before reaching the decision Friday.

Cooper had a blood-alcohol level twice the legal limit when his pickup hit Souza and his wife as they were about to get into their car on Feb. 26, 2004. Souza, 33, was pinned between the two vehicles and dragged to his death. His wife, Aleshia, suffered a broken neck and pelvis.

Cooper pleaded no contest to intoxication manslaughter and intoxication assault. He was sentenced to seven years in prison and 10 years probation.

Police arrest three men in toddler's death

HOUSTON (AP) — Police have arrested three men who allegedly ran over and killed a toddler after they carjacked her family's vehicle.

Bakari Holland, 18; Koty Holmes, 19; and Rashard Renfro, 33, were arrested Thursday and charged with aggravated robbery.

Holland is also charged with injury to a child. He allegedly was driving when the vehicle ran down Stephanie Garcia, who would have celebrated her second birthday this past Thursday.

The suspects were being held Friday in the Harris County Jail with no bond. Officials said all three confessed to their roles in the fatal carjacking.

Police said the men were in the middle of a robbery spree Tuesday night when they approached the child's parents, Luis Garcia and Maricella Vargas.

Stephanie's father had stopped to use a pay phone at a car wash just before 11 p.m. The couple's four children were in the family's sport utility vehicle.

After Renfro drove Holland and Holmes to the car wash, the two men approached the couple, produced a gun and demanded money, police said.

Stephanie's parents said they had no money, so Holland and Holmes commandeered their SUV, pulling the children from the vehicle. Then the trio sped out of the parking lot, running over the child in the process, police said.

Court throws out suit against Odessa media

ODESSA (AP) — An appeals court has thrown out a libel lawsuit filed by a man police falsely identified as a sex offender against two Permian Basin news organizations.

Jose Spencer Sotelo, who is not a sex offender, sued KWES-TV and the Odessa American after they reported he was one, based on information authorities provided.

The 11th Court of Appeals Thursday threw out the suit against KWES-TV, the Odessa American and OA staff writer David J. Lee.

In April 2005, Odessa police sent out a news release indicating that two men were arrested in relation with a sex offender registration compliance sweep. Based on the release, both reported on the arrests.

Both companies claimed their reports were a fair representation of the information given by police. The appeals court agreed.

Federal authorities haven't contacted Denton about possible D.C. sniper link

By SONIA MOGHE

Associated Press Writer

COLLINSVILLE — When her son was shot and killed in 2002, Sarah Dillon got a button that read "Billy Gene Dillon is a very important person" and vowed to wear it until a suspect was found.

That button was still clasped above her heart Friday after Dillon learned that Washington-area sniper Lee Boyd Malvo reportedly told authorities that he and his one-time mentor were responsible for her son's death and three others previously unsolved.

"It's never really going to be closure to me," said Dillon, 59, who son was believed to be killed by a high-powered rifle while doing landscaping work. "It will help me rest knowing who did it."

The Washington Post, citing two people familiar with the case, reported that Malvo told authorities this spring that months before the October 2002 sniper spree, he and Muhammad killed two men in California and Texas and wounded two others in Florida and Louisiana.

The newspaper said the sources spoke on condition of anonymity because of the sensitivity of the information.

Billy Gene Dillon was found dead between a fence and a road May 27, 2002, outside a rural Denton County home about 40 miles north of Dallas. He was 37.

Authorities said they met with federal agents in October 2002 to explore whether his death was related to the Washington-area shootings, in which 10 were murdered and three wounded in a three-week period.

It "had all the earmarks of a random shooting" with a high-powered rifle, but tests on bullet fragments were inconclusive, Denton County Sheriff's Department spokesman Tom Reedy said Friday.

"We haven't been officially contacted by any law enforcement agency, so at this point in time this is strictly hypothetical," Reedy said.

Sarah Dillon said she watched the sniper shootings unfold on television but never thought it had any connection to her son's death. Her husband Billy Ralph, who also wears a memorial button that's become faded over the years and includes a picture of an American flag, said Friday that the report was the best lead he's heard.

The couple, who called their first-born son "preacher" because he liked to talk so much, said they were both ready for justice after four years of virtually no developments.

"If they give an injection, I want to be there," said Billy Ralph Dillon, 62. "I want to look him face-to-face."

Dillon, who married twice, had a son who's now 20, his mother said.

A former fiancée, Lisa Higgs, said she would sometimes run into Sarah Dillon after the shooting and listen to the mother lament about how there were no new leads in the case.

"I told her, 'Don't give up. They'll find whoever did it.' As a mother, she's not going to have closure until she does find justice on it," Higgs said.

Last month, a Maryland judge sentenced Muhammad to six life terms after he was convicted of six murders in Montgomery County, where the October spree began and ended. Malvo testified against Muhammad and agreed to plead guilty to the same six Maryland murders.

Appeals court upholds ruling on public information laws

AUSTIN (AP) — State public information laws override federal health care privacy laws, a Texas appeals court ruled Friday in a case being eyed by public information advocates across the country.

The case stems from complaints that the Federal Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act, also known as HIPAA, hampered journalists' pursuit of information that had previously been accessible under the state's public information law.

Some reporters, as well as police investigators, around the country have been stymied by hospitals under HIPAA.

Police, fire and hospitals in some cases were using the law — which prohibits disclosure of individually identifiable health information — to withhold information on crime and accident victims.

Some even refused to disclose whether someone was injured and how.

In Texas, a case developed after a request by the Austin American-Statesman for information from state Mental Health and Mental Retardation officials. The agency refused the newspaper's request for assault statistics at MHMR facilities.

The Third Court of Appeals upheld a 2004 opinion Friday by Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott, declaring that information already deemed public under state laws would remain that way.

His opinion, among the first in the country on the matter, challenged the conclusion of a district judge who ruled that such information was not subject to disclosure under the federal law.

"We are pleased the court ruled to uphold the open records laws of Texas, and at the same time, comply with requirements to protect medical privacy of individuals," said Abbott spokesman Tom Kelley. "This opinion gives important guidance to every Texas governmental body that is faced with a public information request for medical information where HIPAA applies."

Advocates had been concerned that an appeals court ruling against Abbott could close off information if authorities feared they would be violating the law.

Abbott's ruling "helps bring some focus and sanity to a law that, though well intentioned, created as many problems as it was supposed to solve," said Timothy M. Kelly, vice president of the Freedom of Information Foundation of Texas.

"The issue wasn't privacy, it was common sense and public safety."

Democratic leader lays out party agenda in radio address

By ERICA WERNER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — If they retake control of Congress, Democrats will act quickly to increase the minimum wage, lower prescription drug costs and slash interest rates on student loans, House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi said Saturday.

Pelosi

The ideas are part of the Democrats' new domestic agenda, named "New Direction for America," which the party rolled out during the past week. Pelosi, D-Calif., used the party's Saturday radio address to promote the plan.

"A new direction means expanding access to affordable health care for Americans. We will begin by lowering the cost of prescription drugs by putting seniors ahead of pharmaceutical companies and HMOs," Pelosi said.

"A new direction means broadening opportunity by addressing the soaring costs of higher education. We will begin by making tuition tax-deductible and cutting the interest rates of student loans in half."

Pelosi also pledged to improve security, reduce dependence on foreign oil, maintain Social Security and oppose deficit spending. Under the plan the minimum wage would rise from $5.15 to $7.25 over two years, the interest rate on student loans would be cut to 3.4 percent and Democrats would approve a "pay as you go" budgeting rule.

Most of the ideas have been part of Democratic talking points for months but, facing criticism that they lack a cohesive message, the party is regrouping them as a platform to run on in November's midterm elections. Democrats hope to regain control of the House and Senate, which would take a gain of 15 seats in the House and six in the Senate.

On Iraq, Pelosi said: "2006 must be a year of significant transition. It is time for a new direction in Iraq."

She didn't mention that there's significant disagreement among Democrats on when to begin withdrawing troops.

Pelosi's position on the Iraq timetable — "at the earliest practicable time, the United States must begin the responsible redeployment of its troops," she said — is not shared by everyone in the Democratic caucus.

Report details treatment of Iraqi, Afghan detainees

By LOLITA C. BALDOR
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Murky procedures, lack of oversight and inadequate resources led to mistakes in the way U.S. troops treated Iraq and Afghanistan detainees. But two Pentagon reports, made public Friday, found no widespread mistreatment or illegal actions by the military.

A human rights group called the reports a whitewash that ignored countless documented accounts of detainee abuse.

One report detailed several incidents involving U.S. special operations forces in 2003-04. It said interrogators fed some Iraqi detainees only bread and water for up to 17 days, used unapproved interrogation practices such as sleep deprivation and loud music and stripped at least one prisoner.

That report concluded the detainees' treatment was wrong but not illegal and reflected inadequate resources and lack of oversight and proper guidance rather than deliberate abuse. No military personnel were punished as a result of the investigation.

The findings were included in more than 1,000 pages of documents the Pentagon released to the American Civil Liberties Union on Friday under a Freedom of Information request. They included two major reports — one by Army Brig. Gen. Richard Formica on special operations forces in Iraq and one by Brig. Gen. Charles Jacoby on Afghanistan detainees.

While some of the incidents have been reported previously and reviewed by members of Congress, this was the first time the documents were made public. Many portions of the reports were blacked out, including specific names and locations.

"Both the Formica and the Jacoby report demonstrate that the government is really not taking the investigation of detainee abuse seriously," said Amrit Singh, an ACLU attorney.

Singh called the reports "a whitewash." In particular, she said, there have been numerous documents showing that special operations forces abused detainees, but Formica only reviewed a few cases.

Pentagon spokesman Lt. Col. Mark Ballesteros said: "We've undertaken significant steps to investigate, hold people accountable and change our operations as appropriate. This is all part of our effort to be transparent and show that we investigate all allegations thoroughly, and we take them seriously."

Less than a week ago, three detainees committed suicide at the Guantanamo Bay detention facility in Cuba, highlighting accusations of abuse. A little more than two years ago, the Abu Ghraib prisoner abuse scandal in Iraq came to light, with its graphic photographs of detainees being sexually humiliated and threatened with dogs.

U.S., Japan urge North Korea not to test long-range missile TOKYO (AP) — The United States and Japan urged North Korea not to proceed with reported plans to test-fire a long-range missile that could reach the U.S. mainland, saying Saturday that a launch would be dangerous and provocative.

But North Korean officials later denied such preparations, the Kyodo News agency reported, citing a South Korean official it did not identify.

U.S. Ambassador to Japan Thomas Schieffer and Japanese Foreign Minister Taro Aso met Saturday night amid mounting speculation the North could soon test a Taepodong-2 missile capable of reaching the United States with a light payload.

South Korean media reports indicated the North had loaded booster rockets onto a launch pad in preparation for the test.

Dickenson named TGCA Coach of Year

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

For the second time, the Texas Girls Coaches Association has named Coahoma head softball coach Robby Dickenson Coach of the Year for Class 1A, 2A and 3A schools in the state.

"I was surprised, but it's an honor to be selected," said Dickenson. "It's big because the voters of the award are other coaches so getting awarded by my peers is a huge deal to me."

Dickenson also won the award in 2002, the year he guided the Bulldogettes to the Class 2A championship game.

He led Coahoma to a state-record eighth state berth this past season.

The Bulldogettes won the district for the 13th straight year and finished 28-12-2 overall. Of the eight state appearances for Coahoma, Dickenson was head coach in five of those years.

"It says something about the program here," he added. "The winning program helps bring good publicity to both the players and the coaches."

The good publicity of the players came when seniors Kali Roberts and Ashle New were picked to the Class 2A all-state team and when New and fellow seniors Liz Conley, Sarah Dunn and Drew Wells were picked to the academic all-state teams.

Mavs' Stackhouse suspended for hit on Miami's O'Neal

• Dallas' sixth man will miss Game 5

MIAMI (AP) — Dallas Mavericks forward Jerry Stackhouse was suspended Friday from Game 5 of the NBA finals for his hard foul on Miami's Shaquille O'Neal in Game 4.

At the time, Stackhouse was called for a flagrant foul. But after reviewing the play and discussing the details with both players, league vice president Stu Jackson opted to upgrade the punishment to a suspension.

"The contact by Jerry Stackhouse was clearly excessive and warrants a suspension," Jackson said in a release.

The series is tied 2-2, with the Heat having won the last two games. Game 5 is Sunday night in Miami.

Stackhouse is Dallas' top reserve. He's averaging 13.8 points this post-season and 13.0 in the finals. He had 16 in Game 2, including 10 straight over the final 79 seconds of the first half that propelled the Mavericks to a victory.

Earlier Friday, Dallas coach Avery Johnson said he didn't think such a penalty was warranted, noting that O'Neal wasn't penalized for hitting Stackhouse hard enough in Game 1 that he opened a gash that required three stitches to close.

This marks the third time this postseason the

Instead, he will be a spectator, the result of a surprisingly terrible two-day display that ended in Woods missing the cut in a major for the first time as a pro.

Playing from under trees, in the rough and even from the wrong course Friday, Woods shot his second straight score of 6-over-par 76 to miss the cut by three strokes.

Rangers sign top pick Kiker, 10 others reach deals with franchise

By STEPHEN HAWKINS

AP Sports Writer
ARLINGTON — Hard-throwing Alabama high school left-hander Kasey Kiker, the Texas Rangers' first-round draft pick, signed a contract Wednesday that included a $1.6 million signing bonus.

The 18-year-old Kiker, who was the 12th overall pick in last week's draft from Russell County High School in Phenix City, Ala., will report to Class A Spokane in Washington. That team starts its short season next week.

"I want to get to the big leagues as quick as possible," said Kiker, whose bonus was $200,000 less than what the No. 12 overall pick in last year's draft got.

"It's a quick turnaround, getting him signed and getting him there," Rangers general manager Jon Daniels said. "It's a credit to Kasey wanting to get out there and pitch."

Texas also agreed to terms with 10 other drafted players, the highest being ninth-round pick Brennan Garr, a right-hander from Northern Colorado.

Kiker once had 20 strikeouts in a seven-inning game for Russell County. The 5-foot-11, 185-pound pitcher, who throws a fastball in the mid-90s, visited with the Rangers before the draft.

Rangers scouting director Ron Hopkins described Kiker as a strike thrower who pitches with confidence.

"He's all business, not a lot of smiles," said Hopkins, who has watched Kiker since last summer. "They had a young team this year and there were a lot of errors made at times. I never once saw him crack under pressure, glare down an infielder. That impressed me. Just give me the ball, I'll keep pitching. I'll do my job."

Kiker's high school record was 31-6 with a 0.91 ERA (26 earned runs over 256 2-3 innings), with 474 strikeouts and 85 walks in 49 games. He had signed with South Alabama, which he called a fallback plan because he wanted to play pro ball.

"I describe myself as a winner, always wanting to win, do whatever it takes to win," Kiker said.

The Rangers, who didn't have a second-round pick last week, still haven't signed third-round pick Chad Tracy, a catcher from Pepperdine, or fourth-round selection Marcus Lemon, a shortstop from Eustis High in Florida.

The team agreed to terms Wednesday with shortstops Cody Himes (College of San Mateo, 15th round) and Jay Heafner (Davidson, 23rd); right-handers Michael Wagner (Washington State, 18th), Shannon Wirth (Lewis-Clark State, 32nd), Austin Weilep (Lewis-Clark State, 34th), John Slusarz (Connecticut, 36th) and Johnathan Hollis (Yale, 38th); third baseman Nickolas Cadena (Florida International, 30th), and outfielder Brian Nelson (Corban College, 35th).

The Rangers have signed 19 of the 50 players they drafted, including six of the nine players they got in the first 10 rounds.

rodeos are much more than events — they're a lifestyle. The Carr Pro Rodeo goal is to raise the bar of quality at every performance and every event throughout the year. They are extremely flexible in meeting individual rodeo goals and are able to adjust to many factors that can effect the rodeo production.

Bucking Stock: Carr Pro Rodeo raises and provides some of the most desired bucking stock in the rodeo business. They are constantly searching North America for future stars to add to their string, bringing some of the world's best livestock to the events. Combined with their established ranch breeding program which includes generations of calculated bloodlines — they are producing some of the highest quality stock in the business. The rodeo stock has been selected for PRCA tour rodeos, South Eastern Circuit Finals, Texas Circuit Finales, the Summer Pro Rodeo Tour Finales and the Pro Rodeo Championship Finale in Dallas. The Carr Pro Rodeo has also featured bucking stock at the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas, Nev., for the past four years.

Bullfighters
Casey Wells: One of the best kept secrets in Professional Rodeo over the past few years, Casey Wells is rapidly becoming a key player in the business of providing cowboy protection. Wells' athleticism in the rodeo arena dates back to the age of 13 when he decided he wanted to fight bulls professionally. Since then, he has progressed through the ranks, earning the respect of bull riders at every level including the freestyle Bull Fight Championship of the Southwest Professional Rodeo Association Finals, as well as having the honor of being selected by the Bull Riders of the Turquoise Circuit to provide their protection of the 2000-2005 Circuit Finals. Wells lays it on the line every time he steps in front of a bull from the arenas of the Professional Bull Riders to the rodeo productions of Carr Pro Rodeo.

Travis Adams: Since the age of 15, Travis Adams has been a part of the rodeo culture, traveling about 200 days out of every year. He has been a professional bull fighter for 10 years and makes his home, along with his wife and daughter, in Gary, where he owns and operates a lawn care company and raises bucking horses. When Adams is not on the road, he serves as a coach for the Panola College Rodeo Team. In the last year, Adams' bull-fighting career reached new heights as he was named one of the top five PRCA bullfighters for 2005.

Announcer (on horseback inside the arena)
Mike Mathis: He wasn't supposed to be in the rodeo business. After college, Mathis got a job in the banking world in the his hometown of Lufkin. Soon he was executive vice president of the Lufkin National Bank. When he joined the Lions Club in Lufkin, the hierarchy saw in him great potential for taking over the management of their annual benefit rodeo. Mathis then became the rodeo chairman, a position he has held for almost 20 years. During the late 1970s, Mathis worked hard to promote the Lufkin rodeo. Born with a gift of public speaking, Mathis excelled at selling sponsors, building promotions, motivating the Lions Club members and doing radio interviews and announcements during the rodeo. He was so good that he decided to try his hand at announcing rodeos. Mathis quit the bank business for good in 1989 to pursue his dream of being of a professional rodeo announcer. Since that time, Mathis has announced rodeos from New York to California and from Florida to his home state of Texas. Today, Mathis' unique style, voice and talents are renowned in the rodeo business and of course in big demand. With rodeo experience that spans the entire arena as a competitor, committee chairman and as an in-arena showman, Mathis' insight to rodeos' sporting/entertainment world give him the unique ability to excite and entertain the most seasoned rodeo veteran or the first time rodeo attendee.

The Carr Pro Rodeo will be producing the 73rd Annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. The rodeo will take place Thursday through Saturday at the Howard County Rodeo Bowl beginning at 8 p.m. nightly.

what transpired in my life or not," said Woods, playing for the first time since his father died in May. "Poor execution is never going to feel very good."

Woods wasn't the only player to serve up a stunner on another difficult day at Winged Foot.

Steve Stricker played his way into the lead, holding out two bunker shots during his final nine to shoot 1-under 69. He held a one-stroke lead over Colin Montgomerie, who shot 71. And David Duval shot 68 to finish at 5-over and make the cut in a major for the first time since 2002, the year after he won the British Open.

Surprised? Duval insisted he wasn't. "It's a matter of confidence in how I'm playing," he said. "My results haven't been nearly what I thought they should be this year to this point."

Another shot behind Montgomerie were Geoff Ogilvy and Kenneth Ferrie, who each shot 70. Jim Furyk, the 2003 champion, and Padraig Harrington were at 142. Phil Mickelson shot 73 to enter the weekend at 143, four shots back with Graeme McDowell, Aaron Oberholser and Jason Dufner.

"Bogeys are OK," Mickelson said, rare words from a guy who thrives on birdies. "I'm within four shots with two rounds to go. I'm where I wanted to be. All I wanted is a chance."

That's more than Woods has. He missed 21 of 28 fairways and when he did hit them, he wasn't great with his irons. Putting wasn't good, either. The hole that best summed things up was No. 16, where he hit a great drive, but lost his second shot slightly to the left. It clipped a tree, bounced to the left, hit a cart path and came to rest near a chain-link fence in a bunker on the 12th hole of the East Course at Winged Foot, which is closed for this tournament.

After a free drop and a chip into a bunker, he made double-bogey to balloon to 10-over par.

Woods said his father's recent death and the emotional aftermath were not to blame. Nor was the lay-off.

"No, not rust," he said. "Unfortunately, I just didn't execute properly, and consequently, I shot 6-over."

It marked the third cut he's missed in the last 13 months, including the Fuani Classic at Disney last fall and the Byron Nelson in May, which snapped his record streak of 142 straight tournaments in the money.

Rice's Almond pulls out of draft

Owls' leading scorer says returning to Rice was best decision

By CHRIS DUNCAN
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — Rice guard Morris Almond withdrew his name from NBA draft consideration Friday and will return for his senior season.

The 6-foot-6, 215-pound Almond averaged 22 points per game last season, which led Conference USA and ranked 16th in the nation.

"A phenomenal opportunity awaits me and our team next year," he said. "Coupled with the fact that I am on pace to graduate as well as further enhance my status for next year's draft, this was the best decision for me."

Almond worked out for five NBA teams, including the Houston Rockets, and just finished participating in the pre-draft camp in Orlando, Fla., which ended Tuesday.

He flew back to Houston, then decided Wednesday morning to return for one more college season.

"I followed my gut," he said. "I wanted to take a night or so to let everything settle in my mind, evaluate all the feedback I got, and go from there."

The Owls went 12-16 last season, but the squad had only three seniors, raising expectations for next year. Rice coach Willis Wilson called Almond's decision a "great day" for his program.

"He really has put himself in line with a lot of great players who've gone on to have a lot of success in the NBA by coming back for his senior year," Wilson said.

The NBA draft is June 28. Almond said scouts projected him as an early second-round selection.

"My goal throughout was to get a guarantee for the first round," said Almond.

Clemens' final tuneup starts bad, ends good

ROUND ROCK — It was a rough start and solid finish for The Rocket. Next stop: Houston. Pitching for the Triple-A Round Rock Express in the final tuneup before his return to the Astros, Roger Clemens gave up three runs on three hits in the first inning before settling into a big-league groove Friday night against the New Orleans Zephyrs.

The seven-time Cy Young Award winner also walked three and faced nine batters in the first, throwing 41 pitches before retiring the next eight hitters in a row. Clemens finished the night with 5-2-3 innings of work with five strikeouts, five hits and three walks. Of his 91 total pitches, 57 went for strikes. He also picked up the win as the Express rallied for a 7-4 victory. "I made it a little harder work than I would have liked to in the first inning, but I'm going to run into those situations throughout the season as I come back," Clemens said. It was the third outing in the minors for the 43-year-old right-hander who signed a $22 million contract for the season May 31. His first start with the Astros is Thursday at home against the Minnesota Twins. It will start his 23rd major league season. "I'm on target," Clemens said. "My body feels fine. That was the ultimate goal coming out of here, my body feeling healthy."

SWEETWATER PREPARING TO CELEBRATE WHAT'S CALLED A QUASQUICENTENNIAL

Special to the Herald

SWEETWATER — There was a time 125 years ago when buckboards and covered wagons were the equivalent of today's SUVs and pickup trucks. Horse power meant just that, and a feed bag of oats supplemented by an apple or sugar cube was the forerunner of $3-per-gallon gasoline.

It was the Texas frontier of 1876, and the wilderness which would become Nolan County was being pioneered by buffalo hunters, soldiers and early ranchers. These hearty souls spent the next five years forging a life in the untamed lands which stretched from the last bastion of civilization in Fort Worth across the desolate expanse to the Rio Grande River.

But they persevered, and it was Jan. 10, 1881, that Nolan County was officially organized, and Sweetwater was designated the permanent county seat on April 12, 1881, which initiated the city's growth.

The Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce Quasquicentennial Committee is commemorating the city's legacy with a tribute to that western heritage and pioneer spirit with Old West displays July 1 to kick off a four-day celebration of Sweetwater's 125th anniversary.

"Imagine what Sweetwater must have been like in 1881," says Chamber executive director Lynn Adams. "The streets would have been clogged with horses and wagons and lots of foot traffic, and there would have been the sound of wagon wheels and the creak of buckboards. That's the kind of atmosphere we want to replicate with our western heritage displays."

Who's who

April Ward

April Ward has been accepted and will attend Harvard Law School in Boston, Mass., in the fall of 2006.

She recently graduated summa cum laude from Abilene Christian University with a bachelor's degree in science degree in integrated marketing and communication.

Ward

She was one of four students to receive the Board of Trustees Award for character and achievement.

Owens was also the recipient of a full scholarship from Qantas Airways for the program one of only four recipients in the nation and the first in this region of the U.S. to receive a scholarship in the 50-year history of the organization.

Owens is the 17-year-old son of Tim and Brenda Owens of Grapeland and the grandson of Carol and Nancy Owens of Grapeland, Jim and Bonnie Houston of Denson Springs and Larry and Judy Osborn of Big Spring.

He departed for the Land Down Under June 9 as a member of the Texas delegation, joining a delegation from the Kansas/Missouri area in Los Angeles to explore Australia for 20 days.

After being nominated to enroll in the Student Ambassador Program, Owens submitted letters of recommendation and successfully completed an interview process.

Prior to the trip, Owens attended several orientation meetings with adult delegation leaders/teachers Penny Bell and Donna Payne.

Owens also had to complete assignments and maintain a journal in preparation for the trip. By participating in the program, he will earn academic credit while getting to know the people, culture and history of the places he visits.

He will take part in a variety of activities, such as studying Aboriginal tribes and culture, studying marine mammals, visiting the Sydney Opera House, climbing the Sydney Harbour Bridge, investigating Australian wildlife, touring a crocodile reserve, snorkeling at the Great Barrier Reef, calling on members of the Australian Parliament and feeding wild dolphins. Owens will be staying with a host family during his time in Australia while learning how life is lived in the outback.

President Eisenhower and other citizen leaders including entertainer Bob Hope, Olympic champion Jesse Owens, amusement entrepreneur Walt Disney and Hallmark Cards founder Joyce Hall, founded People to People in 1956 as a way to promote peace among nations by building relationship and understanding through our youth.

Having served as a military commander, President Eisenhower believed that ordinary citizens of different nations could make a difference where governments could not.

Opening lead nine of spades.
A fine declarer plays most hands as if he can see every card in the defenders' hands. This knack of playing as though all the cards are exposed can usually be attributed to inferences declarer draws from either the bidding or the early plays by the defense.

To illustrate, examine this deal where declarer should make five diamonds even though he seems certain to lose a club and two hearts. Assume that West leads the nine of spades in response to East's opening spade bid. Since the nine is obviously West's highest spade, declarer knows that East holds the K-10, and he should put this knowledge to good use by covering the nine with the jack. Failure to do so would cost declarer the contract if East followed low to West's nine.

After South takes East's king of spades with the ace, he enters dummy with a trump, leads a spade, and finesses the eight. Next he cashes the queen of spades, discarding a club from dummy, and then ruffs his last spade in dummy.

The stage is now set for the kill. Declarer plays dummy's king of clubs, saddling East with the lead, and East has no recourse. He can return a heart to dummy's K-J, or he can lead a club or a spade, allowing South to discard a heart and ruff in dummy. Either way, East's goose is cooked.

Declarer's course of play is clearly marked from the start. East's opening bid virtually marks him with the ace of clubs, and West's nine-of-spades lead tells declarer that East has the K-10 of spades. All South has to do is to put this information to good use.

The western heritage displays are planned for the heart of the Sweetwater downtown area just off Broadway (Business 1-20). Those contributing wagons, saddles and other western artifacts will utilize a block-long area on Third Street which will be closed between Locust and Oak. The R.A. Ragland Building, a two-story stone and brick building built in 1901 with a six-bay front facade, and the Germand-Seaton Building, the oldest existing building in Sweetwater which was built in 1886, will serve as backdrops for the heritage displays on the north side of the Nolan County Courthouse.

"The frontier Main Street is uniquely American, and the western movies have made it a familiar landscape for generations. We have the luxury of paved streets these days, but with covered wagons, buckboards, chuck wagons and the usual Old West accessories, it won't take much to visualize how Sweetwater looked 125 years ago," Adams says.

Exhibit space for the wagons and other displays should be reserved by calling Greg Wortham, 325/236-9499.

The western heritage items will be on display beginning at 10 a.m. July 1 in downtown Sweetwater, and will run through 8 p.m.

The Old West displays are just one of many events planned for July 1-4. Other activities include a classic car show and cruise, arts and crafts marketplace, a Tumbleweed Festival, a disc golf tournament, historic landmark scavenger hunt, sidewalk art displays, a special screening of the silent movie classic "The Wind," live folk music performances, battle of the bands, celebrity softball, Sweetwater's first-ever two-way parade, a concert in the park by the Municipal Band, a free swimfest for children and, of course, a gala fireworks display.

For more information about the quinquennial events slated for the celebration, call the Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce at 325/235-5488 or 800/658-6757.

Alon USA announces crude pipeline arrangement

Special to the Herald

Alon USA Energy Inc. announced Friday that Alon and Centurion Pipeline L.P. have agreed to a 15-year arrangement in which Centurion will provide Alon with a minimum of 21,500 barrels per day (BPD) of crude pipeline capacity from Midland to Alon's Big Spring Refinery.

The arrangement is expected to become effective by Aug. 14, subject to customary conditions including filing and approval of tariffs. Alon has also agreed to ship at least 21,500 BPD on Centurion's reactivated pipeline including a newly constructed 12-inch pipeline leased from Alon. The agreement can be mutually extended for an additional five-year term.

"We are very pleased to add this additional flexibility to our crude supply system for the Big Spring Refinery," said Jeff Morris, Alon's president and CEO. "We now have three alternative supply sources to the refinery. In addition to the

Morris

Centurion system, the Amdel pipeline system start-up announced earlier this year, which has a current capacity of 27,000 BPD, will be able to supply up to 40,000 BPD by year end 2006 from either Midland or Nederland.

"Furthermore, the operation of the Mesa pipeline system which can fully supply the Big Spring Refinery's crude capacity has been extended until the end of 2009. We now have in place an additional contingency should the Mesa pipeline system not operate beyond 2009," Morris added. "Thus, we believe these alternative options will be sufficient to supply the Big Spring Refinery's crude oil requirements for the foreseeable future."

Alon USA Energy Inc., headquartered in Dallas, is an independent refiner and marketer of petroleum products, operating primarily in the Southwestern and South Central regions of the United States.

The Big Spring Refinery has a crude oil throughput capacity of 70,000 barrels per day. Alon USA markets gasoline and diesel products under the FINA brand name and is a leading producer of asphalt in Texas. The company also operates convenience stores in West Texas and New Mexico under the 7-Eleven and FINA brand names and supplies motor fuels to these stores.

Nissan to trim North American headquarters staff

By JOHN O'DELL

Los Angeles Times

FRANKLIN, Tenn. — Nissan Motor Co. expects to trim its North American headquarters staff as much as 25 percent as it begins shifting employees from Gardena, Calif., to the Nashville area, Chief Executive Carlos Ghosn said.

Nissan North America employed 1,300 managers, professionals and clerical staff at its 40-acre, 13-building complex in Gardena when it announced the move in November. But the automaker will have only "a little more than 1,000" headquarters staff when the move to Tennessee is completed at the end of next month, Ghosn said.

He was in Tennessee to unveil architects' drawings of Nissan's $100 million, 450,000-square-foot North American headquarters, to be built in this affluent suburb about 20 miles south of Nashville. He said the reduction came from "a big opportunity" the relocation presented to restructure jobs and responsibilities.

Only about 400 of the 1,300 employees who worked in Gardena are transferring to Tennessee.

Ghosn said the company had hired or made offers to 410 applicants, about 60 percent of the replacements needed to fill out the headquarters staff.

He said Nissan North America had received more than 42,000 job applications since November, including some from workers at ailing General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co.

Critics have said the relocation could leave Nissan's North American management staff weakened at a crucial time, as the automaker prepares to launch five new or redesigned models in the U.S. in the next six months.

Ghosn said he was confident that the company would not be hurt despite short-term disruptions. In having the headquarters in the same state as Nissan's main U.S. manufacturing plant and a large engine factory, Ghosn said, "we have practically all the team in one location," improving operations.

Conditions bring more worries for cattle, hay producers

Besides the effect of reduced production due to lack of moisture, drought also creates other negative aspects for cattle and hay producers.

Warm-season annual grasses, such as forage sorghums, sorghum-sudan hybrids (hay-grazer types), and the various millets can also accumulate nitrates to a level that is toxic to cattle during periods of dry weather. Typical nitrate accumulation occurs with excessive N fertilization followed by a uptake continues to occur and period of drought, although toxic levels of nitrates have been observed in warm-season annual grasses with as little as 50 pounds of N/ac under drought conditions.

While above-ground plant growth is reduced, nitrate concentrates in the forage tissue. Ruminants are affected because microbes in the rumen are able to convert nitrate to nitrite. Nitrite is then absorbed into the bloodstream where it converts hemoglobin, which carries oxygen throughout the bloodstream, into methemoglobin, which does not carry oxygen. Cattle death is due to asphyxiation.

The total level of nitrate in forage will determine whether or not the forage is safe to feed. Remember: Nitrate levels in hay do not diminish with time! Nitrate levels, however, in silage, may be reduced by 50 percent or more, but may still be excessive for safe feeding. Only a forage analysis for NITRATE (currently $5 at the Texas A&M University Soil Testing Lab) will determine whether or not the fresh forage, hay, or silage is safe to feed to livestock. Nitrate levels of 5000 ppm or greater may be dangerous to feed to animals and greater than 15,000 ppm are toxic to most classes of livestock. The official Texas A&M University advisory is to not feed forages that contain greater than 10,000 ppm nitrate. The more conservative number of 5000 ppm, however, may be a much safer number to use in actual practice.

Producers using warm-season annual forages or johnsongrass should have their hay crops tested prior to harvesting. Look at the forages carefully. If the forage to

Google launches government search site

By KIM HART

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The ever-expanding Google Inc. is making its move on the federal government.

This past week, the company announced a new online product aimed at being a one-stop shop for searching federal government Web sites. The launch of Google U.S. Government Search, usgov.google.com, targets federal employees who often need to search across several government agencies.

The site is also designed to help citizens navigate convoluted pages of government-speak and tailors news feeds to their interests. Users can customize the layout of their page to remain updated on government-related news from official and commercial sources, including the White House, Department of Defense, The Washington Post and CNN. Google is also working with agencies to increase the frequency of news updates to keep content current.

"People are moving away from directory access to enter these sites," said Kevin Gough, product manager for Google U.S. Government Search. "They just want to type in a few words to pinpoint the information they need."

The product is an outgrowth of the company's flagship site, which has the largest share of the U.S. search market — 50 percent in April, according to Nielsen-NetRatings. It aims to "unify disparate Web sites," Gough said, so people have a single source to find everything from Social Security policy to income tax forms.

The government search site joins similar engines that target the same audience. The five-year-old FirstGov.gov, a government-sponsored site powered by Microsoft Corp.'s MSN, is geared to help citizens locate federal, state and local information without sifting through individual agency sites.

Other similar search engines include govspot.com, search.gov.com and govengine.com.

Gough said he expects Google's product to "complement" FirstGov without directly competing with it.

But Google's name recognition, especially among first-time users, may give it an edge over FirstGov, said Larry Freed, president of ForeSee Results Inc., a Michigan firm that measures customer satisfaction of Internet sites.

The new site could drive traffic away from other government-related search engines that buy ads on Google's main search engine, he said.

"Google drives a fair amount of traffic to those sites," he said. Now that Google has its own portal that serves the same purpose, "they could potentially be creating competition for their customers."

Many government employees access documents and information through agencies' intranets, or interoffice Web sites, and through FirstGov, said Stephanie Zaiser, communications director for the National Association of Government Employees.

But they may switch to the new engine if it is easier to use, she said. Zaiser expects federal employees to use the Google site because of the company's "ubiquitous presence" in the search-engine market.

More than 87 million unique visitors used Google's search engine in May, compared with 443,000 that searched FirstGov, according to Nielsen-NetRatings.

In recent years, Google has launched several specialized search engines to help users narrow their results. In addition to heavily used sites, geared specifically for news, directions and maps, newer sites search the contents of scholarly journals, books and blogs. On Wednesday, Google Book Search launched a Web site geared toward searching Shakespearean plays.

be harvested for hay has been under drought stress, there is a good likelihood that it is high in nitrates. If a good precipitation event occurs and plant growth is reinitiated (good green color, no droopy leaves), then the forage may be safe to feed, but a forage analysis for nitrate would still be advisable. Do not harvest the forage and then test! To do so could wind up costing you time, effort, and money and result in a hay crop that you will not be able to feed. Likewise, cattle should not be pastured on warm-season annual grasses or johnsongrass if conditions are such that nitrate levels could be elevated to a toxic level. Again, only a forage analysis can determine if the forage is safe to graze.

If nitrate toxicity was not enough to worry about, there is also the issue of prussic acid (hydrogen cyanide) poisoning. Forages belonging to the genus Sorghum can produce prussic acid following light frosts or drought. In well-cured hay crops, prussic acid is not a concern since volatilization of the compound into the atmosphere occurs during the field curing process. Cattle, however, may succumb to prussic acid poisoning while grazing if plants have been subjected to drought stress.

Again, do not turn cattle into pastures of drought-stressed sorghums or johnsongrass. Wait until better growing conditions before pasturing cattle on any stressed warm-season annual plant or johnsongrass.

Millets, while still capable of accumulating nitrates to a toxic level, do not produce prussic acid.

As cattle producers, it is bad enough that dry weather conditions have reduced forage production, and in some cases, surface water supplies. Not paying attention to the weather conditions and the forages that can cause the death of animals due to nitrate accumulation and prussic acid poisoning, can only make matters worse. If you are in doubt, or have additional questions, please contact your local county extension agent.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS
The morning moon is void, of course. What better way to celebrate the man of the house than to kick back and enjoy a much-needed and very relaxing lull in the action? In the p.m., the Aries moon takes over with a spurt of boyish energy. There will be showing off for dear old pop in the form of gifts, many of which were purchased at the last second.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Being truthful with loved ones is different from telling every thought and feeling that runs through your head. Choose your moments, and be selective about the information you'll impart.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The fairy tales are true — the dragons exist, and you'll find evidence of it today. The best part is, the dragons can also be slayed. You're the brave soul who will save the "village."

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Everything is more vivid when you're in love. Even though you may not have been in love before you read this, the stars suggest you fall in love just for the fun of it and watch the world get clearer.

CANCER (June 22-July 22).

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). A fantastic idea strikes you. Even if you think it's been done before, you're in a prime position to offer a unique take. Pisces people in particular like the way you think.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). What you want appears to you like a target — the bull's-eye has your name on it. Take your time, steady your aim. It also helps to tune out the rest of the world so you can focus.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Temptation strikes. Whether it takes the form of a romantic encounter, jelly donut or shopping spree, you can't keep your mind off your object of obsession. Take a mini-break and indulge.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Your altruism drives you, heart first, into new situations. You really can do something to improve conditions for yourself, your community and the world at large. Believe it, because it's true!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). A project left undone is a quiet energy drain. A Leo or a Sagittarius can help you remember that initial spark that got you so excited! You'll make money later from anything you finish now.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: Though many of us broke out the shorts and bathing suits weeks ago, on Wednesday, the sun floats from the air sign of the Gemini twins to the sea of Cancer, the crab — a passage called the summer solstice. Ancient peoples celebrated this time in a variety of ways: In prehistoric Europe, Stonehenge was built in perfect alignment to greet the midsummer sunrise. The ancient Chinese honored feminine, or yin, energy. Germanic tribes danced around bonfires. In Rome, the goddess Vesta gave the OK for married women to enter her temple. For modern humans, it's a time to let loose, smell salty sea air, take off a layer or two of clothing and get back in touch with the sun. It's an excellent opportunity to enjoy the rituals of boating, sunbathing, late-night socializing and travel. On a spiritual level, by doing something vacation-like, we have a different perspective on who we are and how we feel. Cancer rules feelings, and emotions will seem to hit more extreme highs and lows over the next few weeks, or perhaps we're only now noticing those impulses and vibrations running between our heads and hearts, then outward, that were there all along.

This morning seems custom-built for wasting time. Of course, if you enjoy what you're doing while the time slips by, it's not really wasted. In spite of yourself, at the end of the day, you'll have created something important.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Fate may very well be pointing you in a direction. However, the stars will yield to your will. If you decide to be someone, that is the same thing as being destined to be that person.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Magical moments happen anywhere and everywhere when you're with someone you like immensely. If you can't be with this person today, your time is well-spent generating some good karma for yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). The squeaky wheel always gets the grease, and this is your day to squeak! It's not complaining if you're asking for what you need. Concentrate on public relations tonight — it's all how you spin the story.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). A fantastic idea strikes you. Even if you think it's been done before, you're in a prime position to offer a unique take. Pisces people in particular like the way you think.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). What you want appears to you like a target — the bull's-eye has your name on it. Take your time, steady your aim. It also helps to tune out the rest of the world so you can focus.

'Freedomland' goes beyond just entertainment

It's a real rarity these days that a movie takes hold of me and forces me to believe in something other than just the humdrum suburban life we all live, yet try to ignore. It's rare, but from time to time, it happens.

As the credits rolled for the Joe Roth directed "Freedomland," I found myself adrift in a sea of social questions regarding the way the different races treat one another, and most of all, how even the simplest, most well-meaning lie can tear hundreds and hundreds of lives apart.

Now, I have to be honest. If Samuel L. Jackson's face hadn't been on the cover of the flick, I would probably have passed it over for something like "Underworld: Evolutions" or even a crack at another horror movie remake.

However, as we all know, San Jackson is "the man" in more ways than one. You know, a shark ate him one time. Really, it ate him.

Of course, having Julianne Moore ("The Forgotten," "Laws of Attraction") and William Forsythe ("The Rock," "The Devil's Rejects") certainly doesn't hurt your chances when it comes to my viewing habits.

"Freedomland" takes place during two days in the Armstrong projects, a place that Detective Lorenzo Council (Samuel L. Jackson) treats almost as a second home. He is more keen on helping the people in the neighborhood than arresting them when something goes wrong, which is a method that has earned him a place as the neighborhood's authority figure.

However, the sanctity of the neighborhood is soon disturbed by a woman named Brenda Martin (Julianne Moore), a recovering drug addict living in the next town over who also happens to be an assistant teacher in the projects.

She claims that she was mugged by a black man who ran off with her car, with her son in the back seat. Soon, the entire neighborhood is crawling with cops and television people, and Lorenzo is forced to take a side — either Brenda's or the neighborhood's.

All he wants to do is find the child, which he finds even more difficult because he feels Brenda is detached and not being exactly honest with him. He teams with a mother named Karen Colluci (Edie Falco — "Fargo," "The Sopranos"), the leader of a community group who helps find missing children.

Karen has lost a child herself and considers it her life's work to protect others from what happened to hers. Only as tensions begin to spill over and Brenda's hotheaded brother (Ron Eldard — "House of Sand and Fog," "Ghost Ship") continues to fuel the flames, it becomes a race against time for Lorenzo and Karen to find out the truth before a neighborhood war breaks out.

It's hard not to think of Natalee Holloway, the Alabama teen that disappeared in Aruba a little more than a year ago, when watching "Freedomland," not just because of its probing of child abduction, but also just in thinking that if she were black, would there be as much media coverage about her?

At the beginning of the film, only a small group of people led by Karen travel along the streets with signs for a missing little black girl while later cameras and news crews and police blockades are all set up to help find Cody, the missing boy. This is only one in a sea of differences that screenwriter Richard Price brings up in this film.

There are essentially two social issues here, one dealing with child abduction while the other dealing with the racial divide. Only it's how Price so powerfully and gutwrenchingly combines these two elements together that allows the movie's final message to resonate so strongly.

Price has managed to do what last year's overblown, stereotype-riddled "Crash" never could, in that he has zeroed in on humanity itself, at its best and worst, its ugliness and its saving graces. As the film continues on, black people become prisoners in their own neighborhood, of which they become vocally and violently opposed.

The police, already agitated by prior problems caused by the people in the neighborhood, now have one more thing to throw onto the fire. Police brutality, a place known as Freedomland — which is supposedly based on truth, but who knows — where abducted children were held, and senseless violence are also introduced here.

This becomes so heavy handed that it's hard not to say how reassuring it is to see someone like Karen Colucci at the halfway point, a woman bent more on protection than destruction. Roth and Price take us on a whirlwind of emotions — shock, fear, admiration, anger and so much more... and they do it in a way that just kicks your ass five ways from Sunday. They've set up a boiler all stemming from a missing child and it's a simmering look at the racial divide.

Add to that, three people — well, two, but Samuel L. Jackson is great in this too — who should really be in the race for an Oscar right now, Edie Falco, and Julianne Moore.

This movie was supposed to be released in December but for some reason the studio thought it had a better shot at making money in February. Sometimes the Hollywood system seems to be managed by Forrest Gump, but anyway, these are two performances I hope are remembered by the end of this year.

Moore gives a performance that can best be described as indescribable. She plays her recovering drug addict as a woman covered in her own filth, a simpleton, exhausted all the time, seemingly despondent. She runs the gamut from being plain pathetic to completely unsympathetic, but it's a brave performance nonetheless, which I think is what keeps her character so interesting. There is a 12-minute monologue that Brenda gives towards the end of the film and it is disturbing, uncomfortable and gut wrenching. Falco and Jackson bring some balance to this movie about a world gone completely haywire. Falco shows a comforting, unpretentious woman in Karen. This is not someone looking for vengeance. She is someone looking for some kind of sense, and in a world gone haywire, there is something just automatically compelling about that.

She, too, gives a monologue in this film about what she would do if she met the man who abducted her son, but it is more along the lines of being bold, rational and heart-breaking. I only wish her character were given some closure by the end of this film.

And Jackson, though not given as meaty a role as Moore or Falco, brings an intense rationale and sympathy to a man helping an emotionally lost mother, who he can't help but keep second-guessing.

"Freedomland" isn't the type of movie you want to pop some popcorn and get out the Twizzlers for. It's far too thought provoking — especially for parents — to fall into the same sort of mindless entertainment you might find in "The Ringer" or even "Biodome."

Dare I say, this movie goes beyond the confines of simple entertainment, tackling issues that continue to boil beneath the surface of our nation, and our world. It made me squirm in my seat and even yell at the screen a few times, and depending on your point of view, that's the mark of a real winner.

"Freedomland" — 5 Stars
Best new CD — Blue October, "Foiled"
Most anticipated new CD — Three Days Grace, "One-X"
