Local law enforcement officials, led by the Texas Rangers, sift through the earth at a home in the 1000 block of Northwest Second Street Tuesday afternoon during the execution of a search warrant. According to witnesses and family members at the scene, officials were searching for the body of Bobby Marquez Jr., who was reported missing approximately eight years ago.

Rangers search residence for missing body

Officials with the Texas Rangers, joined by local law enforcement, executed a search warrant at a home in the 1000 block of Northwest Second Street Tuesday in hopes of recovering evidence linked to the disappearance of a Big Spring man eight years ago.

According to Lt. Bob Bullock, spokesperson for the Texas Rangers, the search for evidence — which involved the demolition of a cement slab using a back hoe — was part of an active missing person case.

"Because this is an active investigation, I can't tell you any more than that," said Bullock.

The Texas Rangers have not yet released whether evidence in the missing person case has been recovered.

According to family members of the missing man, Bobby Marquez Jr., they are hoping the search will help bring closure for a matter that has troubled their hearts for many years.

"We've known what happened to Bobby for many years. It was simply a matter of getting the search warrant, which law enforcement was unable to do until recent

Mayor McEwen to face recall election

Says he will seek re-election in May

By THOMAS JENKINS
Staff Writer

Big Spring City Finance Director Peggy Walker confirmed Tuesday night that a recall election will be held for the mayor in May.

Mayor Russ McEwen was targeted along with four council members for recall in an affidavit filed last month by citizens objecting to the city council's passage of a no-smoking ordinance. However, during the verification process, it was determined petitioners had not gathered enough valid signatures to force recall elections for District 1 Councilwoman Stephanie Horton, District 3 Councilwoman JoAnn Staulcup, District 4 Councilwoman Gloria McDonald or District 5 Councilwoman Joann Knox.

However, enough valid signatures were obtained to force a recall election for the mayor, Walker confirmed. The finance director's office received petitions containing 661 signatures, of which 498 were certified as valid.

"That's 25 more than we needed — we needed 473 — so we will proceed with the recall election of the mayor," said Walker.

"It's not really a surprise," See RECALL, Page 3A said McEwen. "It's something some citizens got together and decided to do, and now we'll have to decide how to proceed with it."

Coincidentally, the mayor's post is up for election in May anyway, as is the District 5 council seat.

"The recall election will be

Rewarding endeavors

It's a tiring, busy time for the Salvation Army, but worth every minute

By THOMAS JENKINS

If there seems to be more families having a merry Christmas this season it's not by accident, as the Big Spring Salvation Army wrapped up its annual Angel Tree Program today.

Distributing hundreds and hundreds of Christmas gifts — including everything from bicycles to games — to area low-income families makes for a quick ending to a great program, according to Capt. Russ Keeney.

"It goes really fast during distribution," Keeney said with a laugh. "Beforehand, however, there's a lot of work that has to be done. The donors have to pick up their angels and bring the gifts back to the store. They have a little ticket on their gifts that has a code that tells us which child it goes to."

Keeney said the program goes through sever-

Student tests to go online, TEA directs

By STEVE REAGAN

Testing is going high tech. Computer keyboards and Internet sites will soon replace pencils and note paper, if the Texas Education Agency and many state officials have their way.

The TEA recently released a schedule that calls for the online administration of all standardized tests by the end of the 2009-10 school year.

TEA currently offers the Texas Assessment of Knowledge and Skills (TAKS) test both online and by hard copy, a trend Big Spring ISD Superintendent Michael Downes believes will continue for the next few years, at least.

"There are two advantages to online testing," Downes said. "First, the students enjoy the computer-based format.

A BAG? NO, A BABY

A woman mistakenly put her 1-month-old grandson through an X-ray machine at Los Angeles International Airport, authorities said.

A startled security worker noticed the shape of a child on the carry-on baggage screening monitor and immediately pulled him out.

The infant was taken to a local hospital, where doctors determined he did not receive a dangerous dose of radiation.

"This was an innocent mistake by an obviously inexperienced traveler," said Paul Haney, deputy executive director of airports and security for the city's airport agency.

Robert Gates arrives in Iraq, armed with Bush mandate to help forge new war strategy

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — New Defense Secretary Robert Gates arrived in Baghdad on Wednesday, armed with a mandate from President Bush to help forge a new Iraq war strategy. He made the unannounced trip to the battlefield just two days after taking over at the Pentagon.

Gates went in pursuit of advice from his top military commanders on a new strategy for an increasingly unpopular, costly and chaotic war — one he has conceded the U.S. is not winning. His trip so soon after taking office underscored the Bush administration's effort to be seen as energetically seeking a new path in the conflict.

"The whole purpose is to go out, listen to the commanders, talk to the Iraqis, and see what I can learn," Gates told reporters as he boarded his aircraft in Washington on Tuesday.

Gates and Gen. Peter Pace, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were scheduled to meet with U.S. and Iraqi military and political leaders.

As they flew to Iraq, the Los Angeles Times reported that Army Gen. John P. Abizaid, commander of U.S. forces in the Middle East, has submitted plans to retire and will leave his post in March.

Bush says he's asked new defense chief to give him a plan to increase troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush, who has contended that the U.S. was winning the war in Iraq, said Tuesday for the first time that American forces were not winning there. He also said the military would be expanded to fight a long-term battle against terrorism.

Bush did not say the U.S. was losing the war, which began in March 2003 and has cost the lives of nearly 3,000 troops. Instead, when asked during an interview with The Washington Post whether the war was being won, the president borrowed the phrasing of the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Marine Gen. Peter Pace.

"You know, I think an interesting construct that General Pace uses is, 'We're not winning, we're not losing.' There's been some very positive developments. And you take a step back and look at progress in Iraq, you say, well, it's amazing — constitutional democracy in the heart of the Middle East, which is a remarkable development in itself," he said.

However, Bush also acknowledged the threat of sectarian violence, saying that part of the policy review for Iraq the administration has undertaken will deal with how to help the Iraqis provide for their own security.

"And I'll come forward with a plan that will enable us to achieve that objective," he said.

Cheney to be called as defense witness in CIA leak trial in what could be historic testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Dick Cheney will be called to testify on behalf of his former chief of staff in the CIA leak case, defense attorneys said, ending months of speculation over what would be historic testimony.

"We're calling the vice president," attorney Ted Wells said in court Tuesday. Wells represents defendant I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby, who is charged with perjury and obstruction.

Sitting presidents, including Clinton and Ford, have testified in criminal cases, but presidential historians said they knew of no vice president who has done so.

William Jeffress, another of Libby's attorneys, would not say whether Cheney is under a subpoena to testify. Issuing a court order to a sitting vice president could raise separation-of-powers concerns, but Jeffress said it was not an issue.

"We don't expect him to resist," Jeffress said.

N. Korea and U.S. meet one-to-one on nuclear, financial issues, but no breakthroughs

BEIJING (AP) — U.S. and North Korean diplomats met face-to-face to discuss international efforts to get the communist regime to give up its nuclear arms program and the North's demand for Washington to stop trying to freeze it out of the global banking system.

On Wednesday, the main U.S. envoy at the latest round of six-nation talks called on delegates to start hashing out the substantive details of North Korean nuclear disarmament if they hoped to make any progress this week.

U.S. officials gave no indication of any progress after the first two days of talks. The negotiations have failed over more than three years of meetings to dismantle the North's atomic weapons program — or prevent its first nuclear test explosion Oct. 9.

"We don't have really any breakthroughs to report," U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Christopher Hill said Tuesday after meeting with a North Korean delegation on the nuclear weapons issue. Financial experts discussed the banking restrictions separately. Hill was held a second one-on-one meeting with the North Koreans Wednesday.

Hill has declined to release details of any U.S. proposals to the North, but a news report Wednesday said the Americans had outlined a process whereby Pyongyang would first freeze its nuclear program, followed by inspections and eventual dismantlement.

Shuttle crew begin trip home but iffy weather raises questions about when they will land

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Discovery began its two-day journey back to Earth after a successful stay at the international space station, but an iffy weather forecast left NASA unsure where and when the spacecraft will land.

NASA officials would like to have Discovery land Friday at Kennedy Space Center, since that would spare the agency the expense of transporting the shuttle back to its Florida home from two other possible landing sites: Edwards Air Force Base in California and White Sands Space Harbor in New Mexico.

But at the scheduled landing time, Kennedy was expected to have low clouds and possible showers, while gusty winds were expected at Edwards. White Sands had the best weather forecast on Friday, although that traditionally is NASA's last choice. During the only landing there in 1982, dust contaminated the orbiter and the brakes were damaged.

al different processes during its course, and while it's certainly worn him and his wife out plenty of days and nights, it's worth it to see the end result.

"It's a tiring process. Monday night me and Linda (Keeney) were here at the distribution center until 11 p.m.," said Keeney. "But when you're actually giving the gifts out to the parents and they are hugging your neck and crying and telling us they wouldn't have anything for their kids without this program, then you know God has blessed you."

"And it's not just from us. It's a gift from the community, because we couldn't do this without the support of the community. They are the ones who really make it possible. We do the work, but they provide the toys and the food and thing like that."

And while today's distribution of the gifts will end with a heartfelt sigh from Keeney and the rest of his staff and volunteers, there is still work to be done.

"Right now we have 52 angels that have not been returned," said Keeney. "We also have 11 teen angels and one senior angel out there. And that really is an awesome total at this point in the program. We still have several more to pick up, so I'm very confident we'll get those in as well.

"We have some toys that the Big Spring Herald did a toy drive to gather, and we'll use those toys to fill in. Every child in the program will get something. They will all get something. A lot of times we'll have people return the angels and the gifts late as well, so I'm sure we'll be able to provide for all of the people in the pro-

held the same date as the election for the mayor's seat and the District 5 council seat. The top item on the ballot will be the recall and the second item will be election of a mayor. So if Mayor McEwen seeks office again then his name would be on the ballot again with any others seeking to run for mayor," Walker explained.

The combined election is set for May 12. Candidate filing begins Feb. 12 at city hall. McEwen said he plans to run for re-election.

Charging that the council "circumvented the will of the majority of electors" in passing a law banning smoking in public places last month, local residents Shannon Thomason and Robert "Steve" Campbell filed an affidavit with the city secretary's office Nov. 6 to recall the five members of the council.

Also turning in petitions were Thomas Tafuro, Willard Robinson, Cy Barg, John Huckabee and Cindy McGuire.

Councilmen Gregg Biddison and Manuel Ramirez Jr. — who voted against the smoking ordinance — were not named in the petition or affidavit.

The council's 5-2 decision to pass the ordinance has been a controversial one. With few exceptions, it eliminates smoking in all public places — including restaurants. Bars and lounges are exempt.

The affidavit charges that the mayor and four council members "did not act in the public interest and instead acted to further certain personal agendas" and said they placed "unfair and unenforceable restrictions upon the citizens and businesses of Big Spring." May's recall election will mark the second occasion citizens have tried to oust McEwen. An attempt in 2001 — ironically led by Stalcup, who was not on the council at the time — ended with the mayor coming out on top 1,037 ballots to 976 ballots.

According to supporters of the 2001 recall election, the effort was spawned by controversy over a new manager's position for the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

TESTS

Second, the manpower needed to prepare test booklets, administer the test and repack the booklets is much less."

All TAKS tests at all grade levels will be available online by 2010. Of course, if some legislators have their way, the TAKS may not be around by then.

Lawmakers are expected to push to replace TAKS with end-of-course standardized tests — which are only available online — when they next meet in 2007.

The major limiting factor in the push toward online testing is money — money to purchase the necessary computers and money to purchase broadband Internet access.

"We will have to provide workstation access for our students," Downes said. "For some districts, there will be a bandwidth issue, as well."

Despite the added costs, Downes firmly supports the move toward online testing.

"It's my belief that putting off the online format before it's required is putting students at a disadvantage," he said.

ly," said Raul Marquez, the uncle of the suspected victim. "They told us that someone came forward in November and collaborated the story they already had, making it possible to get the warrant."

As law enforcement officials tore a part of a cement slab away, excavating the earth beneath, Marquez said his nephew's death was a result of dealings in illegal activities.

"All of the evidence we've gathered over the years pointed to this, but there just hasn't been enough to get a search warrant," said Marquez. "We're just hoping to get some closure out of this. The family has hurt for so long over this, and we're just hoping to recover the body and get some closure."

According to law enforcement officials at the scene, no remains were found during the search Tuesday. Excavation was expected to resume today.

OUR VIEWS

Share the magic at Big Spring's
Festival of Lights

It's official. Something nothing short of magical has happened at Comanche Trail Park again this holiday season with the 10th annual Festival of Lights.

There's no doubt the Festival of Lights is now a tradition and a major attraction for Big Spring during the Christmas season.

In fact, even though some of the displays were still not working — thanks in no small part to the thoughtless acts of vandals — more than 5,000 visitors toured the Festival of Lights last weekend.

With that kind of turnout, festival coordinator Pat Simmons says she wouldn't be surprised if 20,000 or more people visit the show this year. That would, of course, be an attendance record.

The giant poinsettias that line the Comanche Trail Lake dam are among the most striking displays, but there's much, much more for visitors to the park each night during the festival.

Poinsettias, arranged around and reflected in the waters of the historic Big Spring and those lining the dam along U.S. 87 grab the eye, but they are just a few of the attractions at this year's new and improved Festival of Lights.

Even more poinsettias have been added for this year's display.

In fact, long-time visitors will notice a few changes this year. Gone from the entrance is the lighted U.S. flag and in its place will be a 20-foot silhouette of the Settles Hotel, framed by two pink poinsettias.

And the diorama, formerly chock full of candy canes, is now a "poinsettia pasture."

This holiday season, as in recent years, numerous businesses, civic groups and individuals have again been invited to take part in decorating for the festival and they've come through with even more magnificent efforts than they ever before.

The festival will continue through Dec. 31.

Remember, admission is free, but donations from visitors are gratefully accepted — making it possible to not only maintain the displays, but expand them each year.

Be sure to take a few moments this holiday season, pack up the family or a few friends and take a tour through the park and enjoy the almost magical display volunteers have created.

We're convinced you'll be pleased with what you see and glad you took the time.

As we've noted before, we always find the tour well worth our time.

Romney for president — of hypocrites

On the list of opportunistic Republican politicians who pick on immigrants just to pander to the conservative extremists in their party, add the name of Mitt Romney.

The outgoing governor of Massachusetts, who is thinking of making a bid for the White House, is clearly presenting himself as an alternative to Sen. John McCain and former New York Mayor Rudolph Giuliani, the two leading Republican presidential hopefuls, who happen to be unusually sympathetic to immigrants.

So how does Romney show the hardliners that he is one of them?

Less than a month before he is scheduled to leave office, he cuts a deal with federal authorities allowing Massachusetts State Police troopers to arrest and seek deportation of illegal immigrants.

All over the country, many law enforcement authorities have come out against making state and local cops enforce federal immigration laws. They say that society as a whole would be negatively affected.

If illegal immigrants are subject to arrest by local authorities, they will be driven deeper underground and will be less likely to report crimes and even communicable diseases.

And how are the troopers going to determine who is an illegal immigrant? By targeting Hispanics and engaging in ethnic profiling? Will they be pulling over U.S.-born Latino drivers because they could be illegal?

It's simply a terrible idea.

Even the co-chairman of Romney's own Advisory Committee on Immigrants and Refugees said this arrangement would overburden the troopers and undermine their relationships with members of the immigrant community. And Boston Mayor Thomas Menino has already warned that he will not allow state troopers to assist city cops in minority neighborhoods as long as the troopers have the power to arrest illegal immigrants.

But Romney doesn't seem to care. He has other priorities — himself and his bid to become president.

Positioning themselves for elections and going after votes from xenophobic haters, many other Republicans have been bashing immigrants in the last few months — only to be banished by voters on Election Day. So one has to wonder why they keep trying.

Now it looks like Romney will be the candidate who will learn that harsh lesson in the 2008 presidential race.

He is trying so hard to appeal to the extremely conservative wing of his party, to differentiate himself from moderates like McCain and Giuliani, that he is likely to turn off the rest of America.

And what is most amazing about Romney is that this is a guy who, according to recent reports in the Boston Globe, used illegal immigrants to mow his lawn for much of the last decade. The garden at Romney's Belmont estate was reportedly maintained by a landscaping company that relies heavily on undocumented workers.

But all is fair in politics, especially hypocrisy.

This is a guy who travels around the country talking tough on immigration, advocating the construction of a wall along the Mexican border and constantly using code words to appeal to xenophobes. He says he is opposed to "amnesty," although he knows that no one is asking for outright amnesty for these undocumented workers — including the ones he employed.

This is a governor who leaves office on Jan. 4 and knows that his deal with the feds is likely to be overturned anyway, since his Democratic successor has said he is opposed to turning state police into immigration agents.

"I'm going to investigate what power I have," Governor-elect Deval L. Patrick told reporters recently. "You know that I think it's a bad idea for state troopers to be involved in immigration enforcement. They have enough to do as it is, and I said that consistently."

But Romney doesn't seem to care.

Grandstanding to become the poster boy of the xenophobes is more important to him now.

Observations from various locations

While standing in line at the post office, I wonder about things.

Once I went to buy some stamps and there was just one person in line ahead of me. I was feeling lucky until I realized she had 45 11x14 business envelopes, each one requiring a different amount of postage. I watched the mail clerk carefully pick up each one, place it on the scale and apply the postage.

I had plenty of time to think about things.

During the holidays postal clerks remind me of soldiers in combat or a quarterback in a close championship game. They are cool under pressure. No matter how many people are standing in line they are able to give their undivided attention to the person at their counter. And some postal customers choose the strangest times to get into a conversation with the clerk about church, a vacation, kids or a bargain they found somewhere, totally oblivious to the people waiting in line behind them.

TUMBLEWEED
SMITH

Speaking of the holidays, I went with my son to Circuit City in Dallas the day after Thanksgiving. He bought a new HDTV with surround sound. After he selected one, he asked a store employee where he could pay for it. The employee replied, "That's the line to pay for HDTVs over there."

Twenty people were in line. We stood in line 2-1/2 hours before he got to the cashier. Every check stand in the store had a line in front of it. When we arrived at the store we noticed some trash on the sidewalk outside. People had been camped there all night. One customer said he got there at 2:30 a.m. because the store was handing out specials a dozen or so at a time.

I was amazed at the patience of the customers standing in line. I didn't see any of them giving dirty looks to the cashier or anything negative. I guess they figured this is normal if you're going to shop for specials the day after Thanksgiving in a big city.

Have you noticed at airports the amazing number of people using cell phones? Some people have two cell phones, one for business, one for family.

Some plane passengers have it all together.

Some don't.

I saw a woman sitting on the floor waiting to board the plane. She had her computer open, was drinking from a quart-size container, eating a sandwich and talking on her cell phone. When boarding started, she somehow managed to carry all her stuff and hand her boarding pass to the attendant. Multi-tasking at its best.

I'll be glad when Southwest Airlines starts assigning seats. Passengers first in line always choose to sit in the front of the plane, getting settled while other passengers are forced to wait.

I think it's fun to watch the rhythm of exiting the plane after it arrives at its destination. Some people jump up, get their items from the overhead bin and are ready to go when it's time for their row to get off the plane. Some people prefer to remain seated until their row's turn to leave. Then they reach up, get five or six sacks, a piece of luggage and a backpack while other passengers behind them wait.

I'm not hurling complaints here ... just observing how people do things. It's fun.

Audrey and her holiday Gold Medal ribbon

Audrey Nicole Nichols spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her grandparents, Nick and Judy Nichols of Big Spring. She is the daughter of Jeff and Sarah Nichols, and the granddaughter of Randy and Pat Ward of Lubbock.

Audrey and her Nana had been watching the Food Network and candy castles were being made. Each person had their very own style and used gum drops, peppermints and many other types of candies for each castle.

Audrey watched with amazement as each castle was being constructed and was very excited about the thought of castles made out of candy. After the presentations of the castles, Audrey decided that she and her Nana needed to make plans for a "project."

Now keep in mind that Audrey always has a "project" idea on her back burner. She loves to make "projects." So, she and her Nana began to draw plans for the great candy castle that they would "cook" together for Christmas. This is the same young lady who uses her Nana's Neimans Christmas catalogue as lasagna that she "cooks" in her great-great-grandmother Trent's oak buffet in the family den where she does all of her "cooking."

There would be a construction of the castle that would need four towers for the four princesses to occupy while waiting for their prince to come. A nice box lid would be needed for the moat that Audrey saw on one of the candy castles on the Food Network channel.

Next, a structure to hold all of the graham crackers, gingerbread and candy needed to bring the candy castle to life. They needed four oat boxes for the towers and ice cream cones for the tops.

Next was the fun part of mixing the glue, which was water and powdered sugar. Audrey took both hands and dug into the powdered sugar to make the walls with bricks of graham crackers. She thought this was just like the little pig that built his house of bricks. Audrey had picked out a box of animal crackers to place on her castle and gingerbread men that her Papa Nick had gotten for her to "cook" with her mixer from her aunt Sue Riddle.

When they had finished the castle on the big oak library table, Audrey reminded her Nana it was time to move the castle. Nana thought it would be fine on the library table. But, Audrey said, "Nana, remember we have to move the castle to another table before we can win."

So, indeed they moved the castle to the lower Chinese coffee table where she usually does her "cooking." After they moved the wonderful candy castle to where Audrey thought it needed to be located, she wanted to know when her prize was being presented.

Well, Nana sure knew she was a winner and needed to give her a first-place ribbon. And, Nana remembered what she used to give her own children and went into the kitchen and cut Audrey out a Gold Medal from a flour sack. Audrey was pleased beyond compare. She had won a ribbon!

Together, they cannot remember a Christmas so filled with fun, joy and such excitement as the Christmas that Audrey Nicole Nichols, and her Nana "cooked" a Christmas candy castle and Audrey won first place. "My cup truly runneth over," said Nana. "Merry Christmas everyone and the best time you can have anytime is with your children and grandchildren in your very own home just 'cooking.'"

THE ATTACKS JUST KEEP ON COMING!

The ACLU has threatened to sue a school in Colorado for permitting "Jingle Bells" to be sung, because it makes some students uncomfortable. In New York City public schools, menorahs and Islamic symbols are acceptable, but not nativity scenes. Teachers in Sacramento have been forbidden to use the word "Christmas" in the classroom.

Illinois state government employees have been forbidden to say "Merry Christmas" on the job.

The effort to strike "Christmas" from our greetings is just one more step in the ongoing quest to strip away every religious reference from our culture.

BUT CHRISTIAN, ITS OUR COUNTRY TOO!

Say it proudly ... say it often ... say it sincerely

Hackers continue exploitations ... the worms

What could be worse than losing a $23,000 investment on a risky stock purchase?

How about more than eight years in prison and $3.1 million in restitution. Yeah, I think that might qualify.

A former UBS PaineWebber employee was sentenced to eight years in prison last week for planting a computer "logic bomb" on company networks and betting its stock would go down.

THOMAS JENKINS

The investment scheme backfired when UBS stock remained stable after the computer attack and Roger Duronio lost more than $23,000.

A federal judge in New Jersey sentenced Duronio, 64, to 97 months in prison and ordered him to make $3.1 million in restitution to his former employer, the U.S. attorney's office said in a statement.

Duronio was convicted on July 19 of one count of securities fraud and one count of computer fraud in the 2002 case.

Duronio quit his job as a systems administrator in February 2002 after repeatedly expressing dissatisfaction about his salary and bonuses, the statement said.

He then planted malicious computer code known as a "logic bomb" in about 1,000 of PaineWebber's approximately 1,500 networked computers in branch offices. On March 4, 2002, the "bomb" detonated and began deleting files.

Duronio attempted to profit from the attack, the statement said. He bought more than $23,000 in option contracts for UBS AG stock, betting the stock's price would go down after his "logic bomb" went off.

But, according to testimony at his trial, the stock remained stable after the computer attack and Duronio lost all of his investment.

American courts aren't the only ones taking a stiff jab at hackers.

Two Moroccan hackers have been jailed for creating and distributing the Zotob worm that squirmed through Windows 2000 networks in August 2005.

According to reports out of Morocco, Farid Essebar, the 19-year-old hacker who wrote the worm code and used it to hijack computers globally for use in for-profit botnets, was sentenced to two years in prison for his role in the attack.

Achraf Bahloul, a 22-year-old friend of Essebar, will serve one year in jail.

The fate of Atilla Ekici, of Turkey, who was arrested a year ago after investigators determined he had a "financial relationship" with Essebar, is not yet known.

Essebar, who used the online moniker "Diablo," was charged with creating the Zotob attack code and selling it to Ekici, who used the name "Coder."

According to law enforcement authorities, the online names of both men were found in messages buried in early versions of Zotob and frequently show up in variants of other bot programs, according to anti-

"And the other thing that was unnerving to us was that it was orchestrated in such a way so that it covered its tracks."

virus researchers. For example, machines infected by Zotob.A, the original version of the worm, connected to an IRC server called "diablo.turkcoders.net" and contained the words "Greetz to good friend Coder."

The Zotob worm exploited a critical flaw in the Windows PnP (Plug and Play) service, a common component that allows the operating system to detect new hardware on a Windows system.

The worm severely affected operations at several high-profile U.S. businesses, including CNN, The New York Times, SBC Communications and DaimlerChrysler.

Corporations and stockholders aren't the only ones being targeted by hackers, as Chester Bennington — vocalist for Linkin Park — recently found out.

A fan of the music group appears to have hacked into the lead singer's mobile phone web account, stealing the phone bill, call records and digital photos taken using the phone.

Devon Townsend, 27, is accused of using a U.S. Department of Energy computer at a U.S. Air Force base to compromise Bennington's PayPal and mobile phone accounts. A court filing suggests that Townsend then allegedly used the photos, phone records and financial details she obtained to harass and threaten the Linkin Park singer's wife.

CNN is reporting that investigators searched Townsend's home and found Linkin Park posters, autographed memorabilia and other fan material along with copies of stolen e-mails, phone records and photographs.

The explosive attack on the privacy of the band member reportedly came from Townsend, an obsessed fan inside Sandia National Laboratories — a U.S. national security establishment that ensures the safety of the U.S. nuclear weapons arsenal.

Townsend's lawyer is quoted as saying, "This is the Internet version of a groupie hiding in Mick Jagger's dressing room. We're in a different age, and fans have more skills than they used to."

It certainly is good to know the safety of our nukes is in her hands, right? While Townsend is most certainly busted, an unknown hacker has infiltrated a massive University of California, Los Angeles database with personal information on 800,000 people, the school said last week, in one of the worst computer breaches ever at a U.S. university.

The highly sophisticated attack exploited a software flaw to crack the computer system in a bid to obtain Social Security numbers, UCLA said in notices sent to all 800,000 potential victims, most of them current or former students and faculty members.

The University had no suspects despite an emergency investigation that began shortly after the hack was discovered in November, said Jim Davis, UCLA associate vice chancellor of information technology. The FBI has also begun a probe.

"We definitely do not know who it is yet," Davis said. "All indications so far are that this is a malicious, targeted attack and well orchestrated. And the other thing that was unnerving to us was that it was orchestrated in such a way so that it covered its tracks."

Davis said the hacker

apparently began trying to worm into the system more than a year ago but drew suspicion only after technicians investigating performance issues on the computer system noticed odd "data traffic patterns."

The database contained names, social security numbers, dates of birth, home addresses and contact information that could be used by identity thieves. It is normally restricted to UCLA staff whose jobs require them to have access.

The university said it was not aware of any instance in which the personal information had been "misused" but was notifying all 800,000 people as a precaution. Davis said the school was also reviewing its practices for storing personal information.

In addition to 38,000 current UCLA students and 25,000 faculty members, the database apparently stored personal information for many former students going back at least a decade.

University spokesman Phil Hampton said the database was not used for fund-raising and that in some cases federal law required the school to maintain the information.

Computer security experts told the Los Angeles Times the sheer number of people exposed to the hacker made it one of the largest ever perpetrated against an American university.

In 2005, a database at UCLA's cross-town rival

USC containing 270,000 names was infiltrated. Earlier this year a U.S. Veterans Affairs laptop containing data on 26 million veterans and service members was stolen from a staffer's home.

The bidding:
East South West North
Pass 1NT Pass 3NT
Opening lead seven of spades.

There are times when the normal way for declarer to play a suit should be altered in order to increase the chances of making the contract. South neglected to do that in today's deal, and it cost him a vulnerable game.

He won East's jack of spades with the king at trick one and could count eight certain winners — four clubs, a heart, two diamonds and the spade trick already taken. The diamond suit clearly offered the best chance for a ninth trick, so declarer cashed the king of diamonds at trick two and continued with a low diamond at trick three. When West showed out, South played the ace and then conceded a trick to East's queen. Declarer was hoping the defenders could collect only three spade tricks at this juncture, but after East returned a spade, West cashed four spades to set the contract.

South's failure to make three notrump was directly attributable to the way he handled the diamonds. Considering the threat posed by the spades, he should have played the diamond suit so as to minimize the possibility of East gaining the lead at any point.

With that goal in mind, declarer should start by leading a low diamond to dummy's ace. In the actual deal, after West produces the ten, the contract becomes an absolute certainty. A low diamond is next led to the nine. If the nine wins, as it does in the actual case, declarer scores 11 tricks, if the nine loses to the queen, at least 10 tricks are assured.

This careful approach to the play guarantees the contract whenever the diamonds are divided 2-2, as well as when they are 3-1 and East does not have both the queen and ten. If East does turn up with the Q-10-x, then, and only then, will declarer have to resort to conceding a diamond to him in the hope that the missing spades are evenly divided.

Tomorrow: Spectacular but reasonable.

Commercialism of holiday nothing new

By MATT CRENSON
AP National Writer

Dallas Catholic schools to cancel classes for pro-voucher rally

DALLAS (AP) — Catholic schools in Dallas will shut down for an extra day in February so students and teachers can participate in a rally at the state Capitol supporting school vouchers, a diocese official said.

The Dallas Diocese canceled classes for the Feb. 7 rally, which will lobby state lawmakers to support policies allowing public school dollars to pay for students to attend private and religious schools.

"We want to support parental choice in education, and we are taking the day off to do that," said Charles LeBlanc, director of schools for the diocese.

For years, public school advocates have stymied pro-voucher efforts, arguing that vouchers would drain money from public schools and that taxpayer dollars shouldn't go to schools that are not accountable.

Kingwood Marine killed in Iraq

KINGWOOD (AP) — Lance Cpl. Luke Yepsen, who left for Iraq in October, has died during combat, the Department of Defense said Tuesday.

After Yepsen's deployment a couple of months after finishing boot camp, the pastor of St. Martha's Catholic Church in Kingwood announced the 20-year-old infantryman was in Iraq before Sunday Masses. And church members had been praying for him, said family friend Tim Hill.

Yepsen, of Kingwood, was shot and killed during combat Thursday in Al Anbar province, his family said.

San Angelo scrambles to meet water needs

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Crews worked to repair one of the city's main water lines and volunteers delivered bottled water door-to-door as a major water leak stretched across a fourth day.

A critical plug that utility officials hope will enable the repair of the city's principal southwest water main arrived late Tuesday night, officials said.

The break, which was first reported Friday, has disrupted water service for thousands of customers.

NEW YORK — Once upon a time the holiday season was a quiet time spent with family and friends — simpler, less commercial, more spiritual, nothing like today's frenzied orgy of soulless consumption.

"There are worlds of money wasted, at this time of year, in getting things that nobody wants, and nobody cares for after they are got," one observer noted recently.

Well, not so recently. Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote those words in 1850. By then, the holiday was already well on its way to becoming the retail orgy it is today.

"Every generation for the last 250 years tends to think it was only in the last generation that it got commercialized," said Stephen Nissenbaum, an emeritus professor of history at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst.

In his book "The Battle for Christmas," Nissenbaum puts that myth to rest by tracing the history of the holiday from colonial New England to the turn of the 20th century.

Nissenbaum shows that powerful social interests have always advanced their agendas through Christmas, and describes how the holiday we celebrate today had its origins in the New York City of the 1820s. Christmas, it seems, has always been a holiday of excess.

For most of its history Christmas was a free-for-all, more New Year's Eve or Mardi Gras than the domestic idyll described in Clement Clarke Moore's 1823 poem, "A Visit from Saint Nicholas" (better known today as "The Night Before Christmas"). The holiday has its origins in the Roman festival of Saturnalia, a weeklong winter solstice celebration that featured feasting, drinking, gambling and sex. Men dressed like women, women dressed like men, and masters waited on their slaves in a raucous reversal of the social hierarchy.

Such behavior was almost inevitable during the weeks surrounding the winter solstice in the preindustrial societies of northern Europe, thanks to what Nissenbaum refers to as a "combustible mix" of leisure time, abundance and alcohol.

The work of the harvest done, young men had plenty of time on their hands, much of it in the form of long, dark nights tailor-made for mischief.

In a world without refrigeration, the arrival of cold weather made fresh meat available for the first time in months. But most importantly, December meant beer. By mid-month, whatever grain surplus their hard summer's labor had produced would have been fully fermented and ready to drink.

In the northern Europe of the late middle ages, gangs of young men would engage in "wassailing," a cross between Christmas caroling and home invasion. The gangs would visit wealthy homes, often in disguise, and sing songs that threatened violence if they were not invited in for food and drink.

In agrarian societies, practices like wassailing served as a critical safety valve, giving people at the bottom of the social ladder a release that would keep them in line during the rest of the year.

With the arrival of the Industrial Revolution, factory owners didn't want their employees wandering off for weeks of drunken merriment. During the 1820s, after a series of particularly raucous holiday seasons in New York, the city's elite began campaigning for a more restrained, domestic Christmas. Central to that campaign was the tradition of purchasing gifts, especially for children.

Christmas and America's consumer culture have fed off one another ever since, said Russell Belk, a professor of business at the University of Utah. His research has shown that the more materialistic people are about Christmas, the less satisfaction they derive from the holiday.

There's no doubt Americans are materialistic about Christmas. Almost half of all Americans crammed stores on the day after Thanksgiving this year, the traditional beginning of the holiday shopping season. By the time the Christmas shopping season is over, the country will have spent in the neighborhood of $150 billion, most of it on gifts. That's an average of $500 for every man, woman and child.

The retail industry so relies on holiday spending that business news outlets report the progress of the annual shopping spree almost on a daily basis, beginning with that fateful Friday after Thanksgiving.

Ganaway named 2A player of the year

DeKalb's Terrance Ganaway was named Class 2A offensive player of the year for the second year in a row on the 17th annual Associated Press Sports Editors all-state team. But this time he added first-team defensive honors after playing nearly every snap of the season.

Texas Rangers sign Eric Gagne

Now that the Rangers have finalized a deal with record-setting closer Eric Gagne, they will turn their attention to another former Cy Young Award winner.

The Rangers formalized an incentive-laden one-year contract Tuesday with Gagne, who has missed most of the past two seasons with injuries.

Next up on their Christmas wish list—free agent left-hander Barry Zito.

Sam Houston State loses to No. 1 UCLA

Josh Shipp scored 18 points, and Darren Collison had 11 points and nine assists to lead No. 1 UCLA, which overcame a sluggish start for a 75-61 victory over a pesky and determined Sam Houston State team on Tuesday night.

Arron Afflalo added 12 points for the Bruins (10-0), who broke open a close game midway through the second half.

Ryan Bright and Jejuan Plair each had 12 points and six rebounds for Sam Houston State (6-5).

Suns beat Toronto to win 15th straight

Make it 15 in a row and counting for the Phoenix Suns.

Amare Stoudemire dominated Toronto with 28 points and 10 rebounds in 28 minutes, and the Suns set a franchise record with their 15th consecutive victory Tuesday night in a 115-96 victory over the Raptors.

The Suns try to extend the NBA's longest winning streak in seven days on Wednesday night.

TCU tops Northern Illinois in college bowl opener

Texas Christian's Jeff Ballard throws under pressure from Northern Illinois' Larry English during the Poinsettia Bowl at Qualcomm Stadium in San Diego. The Horned Frogs won, 37-7.

By BERNIE WILSON

AP Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO — Cornered by Horned Frogs, Garrett Wolfe saw his college career end with a whimper.

The national rushing leader was held to 28 yards and No. 25 TCU won a Poinsettia Bowl mismatch against Northern Illinois 37-7 on Tuesday night.

"We stopped him before he got started," said TCU end Tommy Blake, the leader of one of the nation's best defenses.

NIU never had had a chance. The Huskies had terrible field position most of the night, and TCU brought its safeties close to the line to stuff the box against Garrett.

"We did what we could but they were all over the place," Garrett said. "It gets frustrating but with the type of mind-set I have, the next play could be a big play. The opportunities came far and few."

The Horned Frogs stopped Garrett so cold that TCU's offense kept trotting back onto the field. Quarterback Jeff Ballard ran for three touchdowns and threw for another.

Ballard looked more like a running back as he scored on runs of 10, 1 and 6 yards. He threw a 6-yard TD pass to tight end Brent Hecht and finished with 258 yards passing.

There was a 100-yard rusher—TCU's Lonta Hobbs, who had 109 yards and one TD on 18 carries. "You know, Garrett is a great back," NIU coach Joe Novak said. "But I don't care if you're Superman, if you're not getting them blocked, you're not going anywhere. We didn't block them well enough to give Garrett a chance."

Wolfe, a senior from Chicago, came in leading the nation with an average of 158.3 yards rushing and 178.9 all-purpose yards.

The Horned Frogs, though, were fourth nationally in run defense after allowing only 67.6 yards per game. TCU kept alive its string of not allowing a 100-yard rusher, one of only four teams to do so this year. Blake had two of TCU's five sacks.

Wolfe, who carried 20 times, came dangerously close to his career-low of 24 yards set in his first game, the 2004 season opener. The Huskies had only five first downs and 60 yards of total offense, compared to 23 first downs and 456 yards for TCU.

Asked what halftime adjustments he made, Novak said: "We tried to get a first down. We didn't do very well at that."

Wolfe was thrown for losses on four of his 10 carries in the first half, when accounted he for just 8 yards.

TCU (11-2) won 11 games for the third time in four years, all under coach Gary Patterson. NIU finished 7-6.

The Huskies had minus-13 yards and went three-and-out six straight times before Dan Nicholson completed a 62-yard pass to Matt Simon on third-and-12 from the Huskies'.

Texans' Johnson earns Pro Bowl

By KRISTIE RIEKEN

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — Andre Johnson is returning to the Pro Bowl, and he hopes to take along the man who helped him get there.

The Houston Texans receiver rebounded from the worst season of his four-year career to lead the NFL in receptions, thanks in part to the addition of fellow receiver Eric Moulds. In his second appearance in the game, Johnson will start for the AFC squad with Cincinnati's Chad Johnson.

Johnson said he planned to invite Moulds to join him at the February game.

"He's just been a good mentor for me," Johnson said. "That's something that I didn't have my first three years. Most guys, when they come in, they have a veteran guy to show them the ins and outs of the game and I didn't have that. So I have Eric here now and he's helped out a whole lot."

Johnson struggled last season while dealing with a nagging injury and near-constant double teams with no other credible receiving threat and finished with a career-worst 688 yards receiving. The 25-year-old has 97 receptions and is sixth in the league with 1,087 yards receiving. He needs just 56 yards to surpass the 1,142 yards he gained in 2004 when he made his first trip to the Pro Bowl.

He said he's also been helped by first-year coach Gary Kubiak.

"When he first got here he told me: 'Hey, how does 100 balls sound?' I just laughed and I said: 'Hey, it sounds great,'" Johnson said. "He's been giving me the opportunity to make plays and I think that by him doing that I've been able to go out and show the ability that I do have."

Kubiak said Johnson has been a bright spot as the Texans (4-10) struggle through another tough season. He has five touchdowns and 52 of his receptions have been for first downs.

"I really can't begin to talk about how well he's played because you see the number and just to tell you he's getting those numbers when everybody in the business is trying to take him away from us," Kubiak said. "It's a credit to him. We move him all over the place to try and get him the ball."

Johnson, who was at the mall Christmas shopping when he learned of the honor, said making the team was a goal he set at the end of last season. It's important to him that he was recognized for his work despite the problems of the team.

Houston Texans' Andre Johnson was named to the All Pro team despite being on one of the worst teams in the NFL.

Allen Iverson was finally traded to the Denver Nuggets on Tuesday afternoon.

Iverson traded by 76ers to Nuggets

By DAN GELSTON

AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA — A day after losing one superstar for a month, the Denver Nuggets got an even bigger one—Allen Iverson.

The four-time scoring champion was traded by the Philadelphia 76ers to the Nuggets, a person in the NBA with knowledge of the deal told The Associated Press.

The trade would send Andre Miller, Joe Smith and two 2007 first-round picks to the 76ers for Iverson and Ivan McFarland, two people familiar with the trade told the AP, speaking on condition of anonymity because the deal was not announced.

A news conference was scheduled for Tuesday evening in Philadelphia.

NBA scoring leader Carmelo Anthony was suspended for 15 games because of a weekend brawl between the Nuggets and New York Knicks. Iverson now takes his 31.2 scoring average to Denver and ends 10 turbulent seasons with the franchise that made him the No. 1 overall pick in 1996.

Iverson, a seven-time All-Star and four-time scoring champion, transformed the 76ers from lottery losers to contenders, though he couldn't bring home an NBA title to this championship-starved city. He came close in 2001, when the 76ers lost to the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA finals, but since then the team has fallen from the elite, missing the playoffs twice in the last three seasons. This year is worse, with the 76ers on an 11-game losing streak.

Now the 31-year-old Iverson's chase for a coveted championship will continue in the Western Conference.

Romo headed to Pro Bowl, but not T.O.

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer

IRVING — Tony Romo is headed to the Pro Bowl and will be joined by three teammates — none of whom answers to the initials "T.O."

Romo was honored and Terrell Owens was snubbed Tuesday when the rosters were released for the NFL's all-star game.

Linebacker DeMarcus Ware, safety Roy Williams and punter Mat McBriar were the other Dallas Cowboys selected to the NFC squad in voting by players, coaches and fans.

Romo, Ware and Williams are reserves; McBriar is the only punter, which is sort of like being a starter. Williams will make his fourth trip to Hawaii for the February exhibition game, while the other three are first-time choices.

Owens has gone five times, every year from 2000-04. His absence in 2005 was expected because he was essentially fired by the Philadelphia Eagles after only seven games, but he's bounced back with big numbers this season, including an NFL-best 11 touchdown catches.

It's the other things Owens does that hurt him at the ballot box — and voting was done by players and coaches before T.O. spit on Atlanta's DeAngelo Hall on Saturday night, leading to a $35,000 fine.

How else would you explain him being omitted but Arizona's Anquan Boldin making it despite having two fewer catches, 13 fewer yards and seven fewer TDs than Owens?

Romo's selection is the latest amazing feat in his rise from benchwarmer to budding star. He's gone 6-2 since becoming a starting quarterback and has guided the Cowboys (9-5) into the postseason. Dallas can win the NFC East for the first time since 1998 with a victory over Philadelphia on Monday.

When the notion of Romo making the Pro Bowl came up after his fourth start, coach Bill Parcells called it "ludicrous."

Now he's become the sixth Cowboys quarterback to make the Pro Bowl, the first since Troy

Aikman in 1996.

The selection is still a bit of a surprise, but not a crazy pick, considering Romo's production. His quarterback rating of 98.4 is second in the NFL and tops in the NFC. He's completed 66.3 percent of his passes and has thrown 16 touchdowns.

Romo led Dallas to its highest-scoring fourth quarter in his very first start and since tied a club record with five TD passes in a game. He was the NFC offensive player of the week twice in a three-week span, with a victory over Peyton Manning and the then-undefeated Colts in between, all of which helped him earn the conference offensive player of the month award for November.

Still, he's only been a starter since a couple days before Halloween. And he'd never even thrown a pass until Oct. 15.

Romo was aided by this being a down year for NFC quarterbacks. New Orleans' Drew Brees was an easy pick to be the starter, but there were a pool of candidates to be the two backups. Marc Bulger of St. Louis got the other slot.

The Dallas Cowboys' Tony Romo was not a starter when the season began, but he will be making his first Pro Bowl trip when the season is over.

11-yard line in the second quarter. All that did was set up a missed 51-yard field goal by Chris Nendick.

Patterson said Wolfe had poise, patience and great vision, but added that the Horned Frogs had worked on taking away the cut-back.

NIU's only score came when John Tranchitella returned a blocked punt 32 yards with 14:14 left. Jarret Carter blocked Brian Cortney's punt and the ball bounced back toward Cortney's hands, but Tranchitella swooped in and grabbed it.

NIU blocked two punts and a

PAT.

Hobbs scored on a 4-yard run on TCU's first drive.

Early in the second quarter, Ballard dropped back to pass on third-and-9 from the NIU 10. He scrambled left, cut inside and was hit hard as he dived into the end zone.

"It was a big hit, but it was worth it," Ballard said. "I'll take the punishment."

Chris Manfredini kicked a 25-yard field goal as the clock expired for a 16-0 halftime lead.

Ballard scored twice in just less than 3 minutes in the third quarter for a 30-0 lead. He ran a 1-yard keeper, then added a 6-yard run when he rolled left, couldn't find a receiver and tumbled into the end zone.

"We couldn't believe how much we were playing out there," Ballard said. "Our defense was lights out. They've been awesome all year and they've won many ballgames for us."

Ballard was 19-of-29 passing. Nicholson was 6-of-18 for 80 yards, with one interception.

The Poinsettia Bowl, sponsored by the San Diego County Credit Union, drew only 29,709 to 70,000-seat Qualcomm Stadium on a cold night.

Among the fans were San Diego Chargers running backs LaDainian Tomlinson, who went to TCU, and Michael Turner, who played for NIU.

With TCU winning, Turner will have to wear Tomlinson's No. 5 Horned Frogs jersey around Chargers headquarters.

with the only team he's ever played for was irreversibly broken once he asked for a trade two weeks ago. Iverson had just been fined for missing a team function and his relationship with coach Maurice Cheeks had deteriorated to where the crowned point guard didn't want to play for him anymore.

The 76ers sent Iverson home for good nearly two weeks ago after holding him out of a morning shootaround. Chairman Ed Snider said then the All-Star guard had "probably" played his last game in Philly. His nameplate was removed, his locker was cleaned out, and his dazzling highlights were edited out of a pregame video package.

Only Memphis (5-19) has a worse record than the 76ers (5-18), who are winless since Nov. 24.

No matter the drama in Iverson's personal life, it rarely affected his performance on the court. Even this season, with Iverson unhappy and the 76ers stuck in last place, he still is second in the league in scoring (behind Anthony) with 31.2 points, averaged 42.7 minutes and 2.2 steals.

He's averaging 28.1 points, 6.1 assists and 2.3 steals in 697 career games. Iverson scored a career-high 60 points against Orlando on Feb. 12, 2005.

But as dynamic Iverson was, and as thrilling as it could be to watch the 6-foot tattooed bundle of energy play, only twice did he lead the Sixers out of the second round of the playoffs.

And Philadelphia was only a modest 355-342 (.509 winning percentage) with Iverson in the lineup for regular-season games. At his best, he has been the ultimate gamer; a hustling, hard-charging MVP who became one of the most popular players in the league and his No. 3 jersey was always one of the top sellers.

Only Minnesota's Kevin Garnett has been with one team longer than Iverson among active players.

For as much as he thrilled the 76ers on the court, he gave them nearly as many headaches off it.

With his rants about practice, his run-ins with former coach Larry Brown, his arrests and failed rap career, Iverson was often a magnet for trouble away from the court.

Iverson and Brown were a volcanic combination during the six seasons they spent together in Philly. Brown criticized Iverson for taking too many shots and accused him of being selfish at times.

Iverson often argued late for practice or missed practices for various reasons. In one infamous blowup at the end of the 2002 season he repeated "talking about practice" nearly 20 times during a rambling monologue. He now pokes fun at the memorable meltdown.

Brown and Iverson eventually reconciled and Brown named his former guard co-captain of the 2004 Olympic men's basketball team.

He often was labeled as being too selfish, that the 76ers played team ball without him, and that his all-out style means he's going to wear out sooner than later. Now the Sixers will see if they can win with an offense primarily built around veteran Chris Webber and his achy knees.

And you have emergency service?

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

The Sagittarian creed is "I See." And while the moon is new in this visionary sign, this seeing occurs as if for the first time. The things you observe every day can now be experienced anew - it's as though you were an alien from another planet observing the daily details of your life. The colors are vivid, and the details, somehow more significant.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You're nicely dressed. Well put together. Classy. So you may come to wonder how you ever wound up in some of the places you will have seen by the end of the day. It's all in the line of duty.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You'll be introduced to a new idea this afternoon. Hopefully you're feeling whimsical enough to pause and think, "Oh, well, why not?" It's so much more fun than being closed to things just because they strike you as weird.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You're willing to extend yourself for the betterment of the team when necessary. But chances are, your mind is currently on an agenda that is distinctly personal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You're so busy, you catch yourself coming and going. And when you do, pay attention to how it looks - in particular, your walk. Whether it's a confident stride or a shy scurry, improving it affects how you're received.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Looking at the small picture won't help you with your problem. And looking at the big picture is difficult - you need a ladder, a helicopter or a time machine. Luckily the stars augment your powers of imagination.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Work presents a maze of complications. A co-worker will illuminate the path. Take careful notes so you can duplicate the journey later when you don't have a guide.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). This morning may be particularly challenging, but you still have the rest of the day. Self-fulfilling prophecies are a real phenomenon, so when you think about the future, think positively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Despite your outgoing persona, you really are a private person at heart. And right now you're in the mood to keep your ideas to yourself. Let them evolve in your silence. They're the fire reflected in your thinking eye.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). The pleasure-seeker in you emerges. Whether it stimulates, soothes or entertains, it holds appeal. One new experience will be more memorable than several. Take it easy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You're running on all cylinders, but you're working with someone who's running on only one. It may be time to exhibit your leadership qualities and take the reins. Speak up or you'll have to slow down!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Your quest to save money is on track. The key changes you're making will quickly become habits. Rely on your network. If you need to make a few social phone calls in order to get things done, get on the phone.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: One half of, inarguably, the world's most beautiful couple, Brad Pitt loves challenging himself and other people, which is why he dedicates time, effort and energy to raising awareness and funds for such admirable organizations as Habitat for Humanity. A fiery Sagittarius who radiates every movie screen he graces, Pitt's favorite role to date is one of his newest - father.

Annie's Mailbox : Advice for those in need

Dear Annie: My best friend, "Michael," was married for seven years, and his divorce was finalized last February. Michael and I did everything together. We were "connected at the hip."

Now Michael has met someone online. Since meeting this girl at the end of August, I had not heard, seen, e-mailed or talked to him. Yesterday, he called to tell me he is getting married. We

Public Notice
Pursuant to Article 258.002(c) of the Texas Transportation Code, the Commissioners Court of Glasscock County, Texas provides this notice to the public of its intention to convene a public meeting to receive comment upon the adoption of a County Road Map including each road in which the County claims the continued existence of a public interest and a right of access and egress for maintenance of an existing County Road. The roads in which the County claims a public interest have been maintained for many years, beginning some time prior to 1981, have previously been listed in a notice included in the 2006-07 Ad Valorem Tax statement. A proposed County Road Map depicting each road in which the County claims a public interest is available for inspection by the public at the office of the County Judge in the County Courthouse, during business hours, commencing December 1, 2006.

The Commissioners Court will conduct a public hearing on 1/24/2007, at 10:00 a.m., in the Commissioners Courtroom in the Glasscock County Courthouse. At this time, pursuant to Article 258.002(b), Texas Transportation Code, any person asserting a private right, title or interest in a road may appear before the Commissioners Court to object or protest the County's claim of its right to continue maintenance of the public roads depicted on the County Road Map. Any person asserting a private right, title or interest in a road may also file a written protest with the County Judge at any time before the time and date of the scheduled public hearing. By way of this procedure, the County makes no claim affecting title, acreage, or ownership of the land, but seeks merely to establish and document the right of the County to continue maintenance of the existing county road in its present location and dimension.

talked awhile and he told me all about his girlfriend.

Michael wants me to meet her, but I can't. I have already formed an opinion of her, and it's not favorable. I think Michael is desperate and doesn't want to be alone, and she is looking for a father for her 5-year-old son.

Should I tell Michael my thoughts on the situation because I care about him? Or should I let him marry this woman and stand up for him at his wedding? - M.

Dear M.: Swallow your misgivings and be a good friend. It's unfair to make a judgment about someone you have never met. And if you are completely honest, you'll admit you are a bit jealous that Michael has found someone who so occupies his time and thoughts. We suggest you get together with Michael and his fiancée so you can see for yourself why he wants to marry her. And try to keep an open mind. By rejecting her, you also are rejecting Michael. If you still don't care for her, try to respect his choice, even if you don't agree. If things don't work out, at least you'll be around to offer a shoulder to cry on.

Dear Annie: Five years ago, my mom and her husband moved 500 miles away. It is now becoming apparent that she doesn't want me or my husband to visit. I have been to her new house three times. The last time I planned a visit, she told me I should stay in a hotel.

It occurred to me that I had invited myself, so I cancelled the trip and apologized, and told her I would wait to be invited. No invitation has come. In the meantime, my sister has been to visit many times, with and without her husband. I recently found out they will be visiting Mom for the holidays. That really hurts.

My mother knows she and her husband are always welcome in my home. The last time they were in this area, they stayed one night with me and three at my sister's. I know Mom isn't crazy about my husband, but still.

I feel very sad about this situation. It was hard for me when she moved, and now I feel like time is getting away. Should I say something to her? - California

Dear California: Yes, but do it lovingly. Tell your mother you miss her and would like to see her more often. Ask what you can do to make that happen. It's very likely Mom is simply more comfortable at your sister's, and she also may believe your husband doesn't want her around. It won't hurt to clear the air a bit and find out if there is a way to ease the strain.

Dear Annie: I am all too familiar with the situation of "Stressed-Out Parents." My son is 33 and has been on drugs since age-15. I've gotten him in rehab eight times, but he is still using. I have been attending Al-Anon and Nar-Anon meetings for six years, and as much as I resented going at first, I love my son more. I've learned you have an extended family when you go to meetings, and that addicts will get help only when they are ready.

Tell those parents not to let their daughter control and consume their lives. It will turn into a living hell. They should go to meetings and learn to live a happy retirement by not enabling her. She is a grown-up. Let her make her own mistakes. It might be the only way she will ever want to get help. - Been There and Done That in Florida

Dear Florida: We know letting your child sink or swim on her own is not easy, but many parents have written to say it is the only way to get through it.

Dear Annie: My husband and I are both in our 40s. We have always had a good marriage and have been blessed with three wonderful children. Last weekend, while searching for some important papers, I was shocked to find my husband's secret collection of women's fashion catalogs. There was no pornography, but after looking at some of the pictures he had clipped, it became obvious that he has a fetish for women wearing leather, high-heeled boots and other provocative outfits.

Initially, I was angry and hurt, but I cooled off. I confronted my husband, and he apologized. He got rid of the pictures and asked me he loves only me. He even sent me flowers the next day. However, I just received a rather large package in the mail. I was shocked to find inside a black leather miniskirt, satin camisole, thigh-high boots and fishnet stockings, accompanied by a rather suggestive note from my husband. I told him I could never wear anything like this, and he responded, "Just wear it in the bedroom."

I want to fulfill my husband's sexual needs, but I worry he will be disappointed when he sees me wearing such a revealing outfit. I'm not as svelte as I once was. What should I do? - A Self-Conscious Wife

Dear Annie: You recently printed a letter from Dr. Henry Lynch about the importance of women knowing their risk for breast cancer. I was disappointed that he failed to mention that men, too, can be victims of breast cancer.

I went to my doctor for a minor cold and mentioned that my breast was tender and I had noticed secretions from my nipple. He immediately did a breast exam and discovered a lump. It was surgically removed, and thankfully, it wasn't cancerous.

Annie, please inform your readers that men can also be victims of invasive breast lumps, both cancerous and non-cancerous. - A Surprised Male Reader

Dear Surprised: You are correct. Although not as common, men also can be diagnosed with breast cancer, most often between the ages of 60 and 70. All men should have their breasts checked regularly, and if you notice any unusual lumps or discharge, inform your doctor immediately.

Dear Santa Claus,
Star station where you talk on a microphone and sing on TV. Um that thing that baby alive thing and it really talks and goes to the bathroom. If it thinks something is stinky it says, "I smell something stinky." It talks to you mommy and tell you it's stinky. Um lets see I'm thinking, oh that thing that twirls around and have watches and you can twirl with the Barbie and it has a pink dress. I like lots of things. The Barbie thing with paint, crayons, a pad on the floor and you can do anything.

Don't you wish your advertising could stop consumers that effectively? Let's face it, most of the time it gets lost in the shuffle. It takes a certain ingenuity to stand out in a crowd. You've got to be provocative. Unpredictable. A little smarter than the next guy. And you've got to have a real feel for the medium you're working in. We put those talents to work for our advertisers everyday...and at no extra cost. It works for them. And, you'll have to admit, it just worked for you!
