Proper Cooking, Use of Good Meat Safeguard Against Trichinosis

Austin, Feb. 23.—"Trichinosis is a disease caused by eating raw or partly cooked pork which contains the trichina worm. This disease as a rule causes several deaths and an undetermined amount of illness in Texas each year," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Definite symptoms and signs of illness are associated with trichinosis. In the beginning there are abdominal pains, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea, lasting about a week. Migration of the embryos in the blood stream causes fever and severe muscle soreness, especially in the diaphragm and the muscles of the arms and legs. The third stage, during which cysts surround the larvae in the muscles, is the critical one. If infection is severe, there may be edema, or swelling of the eyelids or elsewhere, marked loss of weight, weakness and delirium.

The prevention of trichinosis depends primarily upon the thorough cooking of all pork. Most cases follow the indigestion of wieners, sausage or other pork products, eaten in raw or partly cooked form. The hazard of this disease is greater in connection with home butchering, unless safeguards are exercised. Rats should be exterminated because they play an important part in the spread of infection among swine. Prolonged refrigeration, as carried out under federal supervision, destroys trichina larvae. Thorough cooking and the use of meat which bears the stamp of federal inspection are safeguards against trichinosis.

Texans Bought More Extended Coverage Insurance Last Year

Austin, Texas.—Texans bought more fire, windstorm and extended coverage insurance in 1952 than in any other year in history, Fire Insurance Commissioner Paul H. Brown announced today.

Fire insurance premiums reported through the Texas Insurance Checking Office totaled $67,945,584 last year—almost $3½ million more than in 1951 for an increase of 7 per cent. Windstorm and extended coverage premiums totaled $46,778,983 in 1952—a gain of 8 per cent over the $43,348,500 Texans spent for this kind of insurance protection in 1951.

Commissioner Brown said the increase in insurance premiums was due largely to new construction, inflation and heavy inventories. There were no general changes in fire, windstorm and extended coverage rates during 1952, although there were some adjustments applying to specific classes of risks, he said.

Realization by property owners that they need more insurance to protect the inflated values of their property is one reason for the increased buying, Commissioner Brown said. He believes that property owners probably will continue to increase their insurance coverage so long as values are inflated.

No report is available yet on losses paid during 1952, Brown said. Reports are still coming in from the companies and will not be tabulated for some time.

Also, several million dollars in premiums collected by companies not using the Checking Office remain to be reported, Commissioner Brown said. Indications are, however, that these companies will show increased premiums in about the same proportion as those companies reporting through the Checking Office.

Three Organizations Unite in Texas Appeal For Blood Donations

Three organizations working together in Texas in the fight against polio this week appealed to Texans to donate blood as soon as possible to the National Blood Program.

The organizations issuing the plea are the Red Cross, the State Division of Defense and Disaster Relief, and the State Polio Planning Committee. Officials of each noted that hundreds of thousands of pints of blood are needed for gamma globulin—the most potent enemy of polio found yet—and that much of that serum will probably be needed in this state next summer.

The Red Cross is collecting blood on a nation-wide basis which will be used for gamma globulin. It was used on 34,000 youngsters in Harris County last summer and proved to be highly effective.

It is estimated that polio may strike in epidemic proportions in at least 150 counties over the nation next summer. This means that at least 2,000,000 youngsters in those counties would be exposed to the disease and would thus need injections of gamma globulin which would be issued on an emergency basis.

It takes one pint of blood to make an average dose of gamma globulin. One injection protects a child from a period of one to five weeks. As a result officials point out, millions of pints of blood are needed now if children over the nation and state are to avoid death and crippling next summer.

In addition to blood collections for the manufacturing of gamma globulin, the Red Cross must also collect enough to handle day-by-day needs of civilian and veterans hospitals and of the Korean wounded, in addition to continuing to build the nation's plasma reserve through 61 blood centers operated by the Red Cross and the centers operated by cooperating blood banks.

Blood donations may be made in some parts of the state where there are collection units merely by calling one's local Red Cross chapter and making an appointment. If the local Red Cross chapter doesn't have a collection unit in operation, officials can tell you where the nearest one is located.

MORE EDUCATION FOR THE MASSES

TALENT FOR GOODNESS

Some people have a talent for true goodness—like some have a talent for writing or painting. But they are few and far between.

A man with such a talent in the Bible was Barnabas, one of the leaders of the Christian church. Although he was known for his goodness, his greatest talent was finding goodness in persons that was not on the surface.

The truly good person performs his acts of kindness without a second thought, without really realizing he is performing an exceptional act. Barnabas was such a man.

The person who sets out to perform an act of kindness is not necessarily a good person. He would never look for some act of kindness to perform if he were truly good. He can be classified as the imitative-good person.

But in every community there are those whose unselfishness, devotion to the Church and community stamp them as truly good.

The man or woman who falls in this class can become a truly good person by continuing the pursuit of doing good until that pursuit is not secondary in their lives, but its guiding theme.

ADVERTISING IN THE NEWS REVIEW IS AN INVESTMENT—NOT AN EXPENSE

● If there were ever any doubts that President Eisenhower would not carry out his promise of economy and efficiency in government, they have now been dispelled. Washington is being shaken to the very foundations these days—like it hasn't been shaken for 20 years. Beginning with his first State of the Union Message to congress and a series of executive orders immediately afterwards, the President has shown he means business. A number of the points touched upon in his address to congress have seen fast action. As an example: 1. He said there no longer was any "sense or logic" in the use of the Seventh Fleet to shield Red China. He immediately ordered the fleet to stop its screening. This opens the way for Nationalist forces to attack the Communist-held mainland if they so desire. That China doesn't like the idea was apparent the following day when Red leaders began asking for renewal of the hopeless peace talks in Korea. 2. The first order of domestic business should be to balance the budget, after which a reduction in taxation would be in order. This statement was followed by orders freezing, hiring and strict economy in government expenditures. 3. Aid to Europe would be continued with the Allies required to be full partners matching United States contributions according to their capabilities. Immediately afterwards Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, on his visit to Europe, told big Western European powers they have 75 days to show real progress in setting up a unified defense or they faced cuts in American military and economic aid. ● One of the most talked about moves of the administration is the killing of the Defense Production Administration. Its functions have been taken over by the Office of Defense Mobilization. The move is the first step to end controls on materials and products except for highly essential defense items. This swing to free economy, which the Republican party has long advocated, is the forerunner of decontrol of prices and wages. The administration may face some opposition in that many in congress want a stand-by organization ready in the event prices and wages get out of hand. It is generally believed, however, that Eisenhower will have his way. ● After the first weeks his administration has been in power, there is a general feeling in Washington that any collision between the White House and congress is yet in the distant future. The reason: the President's prestige is vast and his political power is overwhelming. No one or group, as yet, has had the courage to seriously cross him. The Democrats are actually beginning to believe they can get along with him much better than they supposed. And although a number of Republicans are developing signs of congressional independence, none of them, including Senator Taft, are likely to get far out of line in the near future.

Keep Family Medicine Chest Filled Home Nursing Can Protect Health Interests of Family

Sickness in a home brings grave concern for the patient's welfare. The homemaker usually is eager to learn how she can best work with the doctor and, what is equally important, how to save her time and energy in caring for the patient. Before she calls the doctor (or if she expects a call from him), she will want to have a pencil and paper handy for his orders. She should write them down and read them back if any point is doubtful. When he talks with her, the doctor wants to know what the patient's condition is like. For this reason some kind of a written record will be invaluable; it should include such things as the patient's temperature and rate of pulse and breathing (taken every four hours if the doctor requests), plus such things as the amount of fluids and food taken by mouth, the amount eliminated by urination, and any unusual symptoms or signs observed.

One person should remain in the bed to help the doctor as he requests sickroom during the examination and to reassure the patient. However, while obtaining the history of illness, the doctor may wish to question the patient alone. He may ask that certain supplies be ready in advance if he expects to change a surgical dressing.

The patient's record may be kept in a notebook if the illness is expected to be long. The form suggested by the American Red Cross includes columns for the following: Date and hour. Temperature (Rate of pulse and breathing, if ordered). Diet. Medicines. Treatment. Bowel and Kidney Movements, and Remarks. The home nurse should use common sense in following the doctor's orders; for example, she shouldn't awaken a baby to give it a medicine for rest. However, any large decision should be shared with the doctor, and she shouldn't give medicine or treatment on her own hook.

A nursing plan will be helpful in giving care to the patient; the homemaker can make one with little time or effort. On a sheet of paper may be written the medicines or treatments, doses, and the times at which they are due. One way is to set up a schedule on the hour such as 9-12-3-6 for every three hours or 10-2-6 for every four hours. An alarm clock may be set for the time of the first medicine or treatment, and reset for the ones that follow. As a medicine is given, the hour at which it was due should be crossed through on the nursing schedule.

In giving medicines, five "rights" should be remembered: the right amount of the medicine in the right manner to the right patient at the right time. The home nurse, by preparing for possible illness in advance and learning how to work with the doctor, can protect her family's health interests.

NATURALIZATION PROCESS IS EXPLAINED

Most of us accept with little thought our American citizenship and the rights and privileges it bestows. We might do well to reflect upon what it takes to become a citizen of the United States under our present laws. Many of us would probably be unable to pass at least two of the requirements if called upon to do so.

One of these requirements is that the applicant for citizenship may be able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the court a knowledge of the Constitution of the United States and the principles which it affirms. In addition, he must show a fairly comprehensive knowledge of the workings and organization of the American government.

But that is only a small part of the process of becoming a naturalized citizen. To begin with, an applicant for citizenship (if he is an ordinary case) must have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence. Then he must be entered on the registry of the Commissioner of Immigration, acquire an alien registration card, and receive a certificate of arrival from the Immigration Department.

Some time later he will receive a letter from the government telling him where he must file a declaration to become a citizen—commonly known as "first papers." He may file this declaration shortly after he arrives in this country but not before he is 18 years old. After he has lived in the United States five years, and his first paper is at least two years old, the future citizen may file a petition for naturalization, known as "second papers." He must have lived in the state in which he filed for at least six months.

He will then be called for two hearings—one before the immigration authorities, and the second in federal court. At this time he must be able to speak and understand the English language, and he will be questioned regarding the Constitution, history of the United States and the government organization.

After 30 days the applicant will be notified to appear at the court for a final hearing on his petition. When the court grants a petition for naturalization, the applicant takes the oath of renunciation and allegiance—he renounces allegiance to the foreign state of which he is a subject or citizen, and promises to bear allegiance to the United States.

The court may deny the application. The laws relating to the granting of citizenship are strictly observed. Omissions, oversights, mistakes—all doubts in relation to the application are decided in favor of the government.

You have a date at school this week!

Your local school—in celebration of Texas Public Schools Week, March 1-7—is having Open House Sunday, and you shouldn't miss it. Other events are scheduled throughout succeeding days.

You'll find it a wonderful opportunity to meet your child's teachers, to look over classroom facilities, to find out just what the condition of our school system is, and what improvements are being made.

Of course, you can't learn all you want to know about our schools in one short week. Today, our whole educational system needs the continuing interest and help of every thinking citizen—parent or non-parent.

You yourself, for instance—do you know whether we have enough qualified teachers in our schools... whether our children's books are up-to-date... whether we have adequate school equipment and classroom space? If you don't, shouldn't you find out?

We can't give our children a first-rate education if our schools are handicapped with serious shortages. And we can't afford to entrust our nation's future to a generation of half-educated adults.

That's why it's so important for you—for us all—to join with local groups and take an active part in helping to improve our schools. For information on how other communities are solving their school problems, write to: "Better Schools," 2 West 45th Street, New York, N. Y.

By the time you have read this the girls' district tournament will be almost over. We wish the girls the best of luck.

This week we shall interview Betty Shook. Betty is a brunette of about 5 feet, 5 inches and weighs 135 pounds. Betty has green eyes that shine. She plays a clarinet in the Tiger band. What would we do without her.

Since excitement is very limited that's all for this time. Due to this fact there will be a slight "lay over" until next Friday.

BAND NEWS

There will be a Band Clinic held in Hico on probably March 14. Two other bands besides ours will be present. Glen Rose and Clifton. The clinic will last all day. We will serve plate lunches for 50 cents each. The food will be donated by the band parents. This clinic is very helpful to both the students and the directors. The students learn to play together with other bands, and are helped in their music study. The directors become familiar with directing bands besides their own. There will be a free mass band concert that night. We hope there will be a good attendance.

Several improvements have been going on in our band hall. The floor has been sanded, and two coats of varnish have been put on. We are going to get rubber tips for the chairs to keep from scaring the floor. We have already been warned that the windows are going to have to be washed inside and out before long. We want to thank the P.F.A. boys for letting us use their classroom for our band rehearsals.

SPOTLIGHT

Well, well, here it is the big week of the girls' district tournament and by the time this is read let's all hope that Hico is right up on top. We are all going to be up there backing you girls, so here's wishing you lots of luck.

The boys' tournament was in Cranfills Gap last week so naturally that is where most of the excitement was.

At the game Monday night were Bobby Price, Billy Luckie, Jimmy Herrod, Jimmy Able, Margo Partain and Ray Battershell. It is too bad that the boys lost their first game, but they still had a chance to make up for it the next night, and they did. Linda Cox and Bruce Slaughter were at a MYF sub-district meeting in Meridian Monday night. Other couples were Wilma Woodard, Derel Fillingim, Frances Latham, Gene Simpson, Loretta Hyles and Doak Simpson.

Jane Hamilton, Rusty Roberson, Shirlene Witt, Virgil Gray, Quata Lowery and Billy Luckie seemed to be enjoying themselves at the ball game Tuesday night and they were very happy because we won the game.

It is too bad that we lost our game Wednesday night, but we are still proud of our boys and we think that they really had a good season this year. At the game Wednesday night were Patsy Little, Harold Prater, Linda Cox and Bruce Slaughter. Others that weren't at the game were Frances Latham, Gene Simpson, Monette Salmon and R. W. Leeth. I saw Velma Jaggars with some boy from Hamilton, but I could not figure out what his name was.

Thursday night Mary Ogle, Gene Butler, Quata Lowery and J. C. Lane seemed to be having fun at Stephenville.

Friday night in Stephenville were Loretta Hyles and Doak Simpson.

Couples at Carol Harris' birthday dance were Linda Cox, Bruce Slaughter, Karon Higginbotham. Other couples Saturday night were Quata Lowery, Carol Fillingim, Jo Ann Johnson, Jack Copeland, Joyce Lowe, Hubert Johnson, Kay Jernigan, Kenneth Nix, June Hamilton, Rusty Roberson, Jean Rainwater, Donald Mayfield, Velma Jaggars, Alva Lee Jones, Wilma Woodard, Derel Fillingim, Billy Luckie, Pat Edgman, Shirlene Witt, Gene Butler, Frances Latham, Gene Simpson, Pat Little and Harold Prater. Also Betty Bolton and Shorty Johnson.

Margo Partain, Ray Battershell, Joyce Lowe, Hubert Johnson were riding around Sunday afternoon. Linda Cox and Bruce Slaughter were together after church Sunday night.

SCHOOL DAZE

Jimmy Jackson: "I passed your house yesterday."
Wanda Roberson: "Thanks awfully."

Thomas Hughes: "After rain falls, when does it get up again."
Mrs. Brummett: "In dew time, my boy, in dew time."

Edna Walker in a pet store: "I like this dog, but his legs are too short."
Clerk: "Too short! Why, all four of 'em reach the floor!"

Mr. Walker: "Have you ever had any stage experience?"
Don Ross who wants to be in the play: "Well, I had my leg in a cast once."

Betty Shook was trying to make the time pass pleasantly for Milton Ray Painter by asking about the animals in his picture book.

They got to the picture of zebras, and the baby sitter said, "What do zebras have that no other animals have?"

And the smart young hopeful replied, "Little zebras."

CUES FOR YOU

Things you should know about yourself:

It's perfectly natural to feel unsure of yourself occasionally. Yesterday in civics class you stood up and spoke for five minutes on civil administration. Then today you couldn't think of a single thing to say to Tom when he walked you home. Don't worry. Just like your body and mind, your personality is still growing and sometimes the process is bound to be uneven. Keep doing your best. It won't always be that way.

It's absolutely necessary to be enthusiastic. When someone suggests a skating party, an O. K. isn't enough. It should be enthusiastic—"That sounds fine!" And "we've got a vacuum jug so I'll bring the hot chocolate." And at a party where enthusiasm is so contagious, be sure to tell your partner how much you like this new game or ask your hostess for her excellent punch recipe. Just try enjoying things yourself, you help others have a good time.

It's perfectly legitimate to experiment with your personality. If you're unhappy with your reputation for being brash and talking, take a lesson from Ellen who's smooth and quiet. Watch how she lets others open the conversation and listen to the low tone of her voice. Take these universally good ideas and fit them into your personality. Don't use her pet expression, however, or that certain inflection that's distinctly hers, because at best you could only be a poor copy. The idea is to borrow all the good points you want, but to use them in a way that fits in with your own personality type. Combine the person you are with the person you want to be until you feel perfectly natural—until, in other words, you develop fully your real personality.

It's always important to express the real you to people, and the best way to do that is by conversation. So watch the cat-chatter, and if someone else is on a gossip kick, don't encourage her. Step into the first opening with a change of topic. And to give yourself plenty of interesting things to talk about, make a point of covering the wide Sunday paper, which is always full of feature stories about teen-agers, schools, entertainment—things that make good conversational subject.

PLENTIFUL FOODS FOR MARCH

A wide variety of foods will be available during March for the Texas housewife who wants to stock her deep freeze while prices are favorably low. The Production and Marketing Administration of the Department of Agriculture, which has a total of 17 foods or commodity classifications which are expected to be in plentiful supply at a right price.

Fryers top the list. Indications are that fryer marketing will be at a near record level during March, when supplies will exceed that of last year. Eggs are included, although egg production is slightly below March 1952.

Cold storage holding of turkeys have recently been unusually heavy and supplies should continue liberal during the month. Prices will probably remain favorable to budget-minded buyers.

Production and stocks of milk and dairy products are heavy for this time of year and may be expected to continue increasing as the peak production period approaches. Butter, cheddar cheese and skim milk products, cottage cheese and buttermilk will be plentiful.

March retail supplies of beef are predicted to be larger with prices well below those of a year earlier. Herds of beef cattle have increased substantially in the country during the past three years and offerings are at an all-time high.

Cabbage and carrots are abundant. Volume production of cabbage continues to assure ample stocks and carrots from Texas, California and Arizona are moving at prices that will appeal to consumers.

Raisin supplies are heavy due to a bumper crop last season. The production was considerably above the 10-year average. Market costs of raisins are reasonable and March should be a good time to include them in food buying plans.

Not to be neglected in "value shopping" are fresh and processed oranges and grapefruit. Current orange supplies are about one-fifth larger than the 1941-50 average. The grapefruit crop is below that of last year but more will be on the fruit counters due to a drop in demand by processors.

That popular staple, Irish Potatoes, is more plentiful than last year, although storage holdings are smaller than usual. Dry baby lima, large lima and navy bean stocks are bigger than expected and costs are considered nominal.

Honey, edible fats and oils, and peanuts and peanut butter are also on the suggestion list for the value wise shopper.

Wrong "Train" of Thought

Most of us know the streamliner stopped about four miles from town last Thursday — but we didn't know why ...

Seems the train was hurrying along, then came the screeching of brakes — some fellow had pulled the Emergency Stop cord.

When the conductor asked him why he did it, he said, "The train was just going too fast—I wanted to get you to slow down."

From where I sit, that streamliner has been going at that speed for the past seven years with a perfect safety record and the passengers have always been pleased. Now—along comes a fellow who wants the train to go at his speed. Some people are like that. Some still would begrudge another person's right to a temperate glass of beer even though that person wouldn't dream of flashing a "Stop" sign on their preference for, say, milk, coffee or tea. Respecting the rights of others is the only way we can keep "on the right track."

Future Farmers Are Training as Operators Of Complicated Business

The largest farm boys organization in the world, the Future Farmers of America, which has grown to a membership of 350,000 in 25 years is highlighting National FFA Week February 21-28 with Silver Anniversary celebrations.

FFA Week is observed traditionally during the birthday week of George Washington, America's first scientific farmer. It was more than a century after his death that many of his agricultural practices, such as contour planting, crop rotation and other soil conserving methods, were put into general use.

The 40,000 Texas Future Farmers are high school age boys enrolled in vocational agriculture courses where they study practical, scientific methods of farming and receive leadership training. Each boy is required to have a supervised farming program of livestock, poultry or crops under the direction of a vocational agriculture teacher who is an agricultural college graduate.

Members of the Texas FFA, who make up almost one-eighth of the total FFA membership, join with other Future Farmers in each of the 48 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico to observe National FFA Week and their 25th anniversary with special programs, radio and television appearances, movies, demonstrations, skits, newspaper stories, and father-son banquets, according to an announcement made by Vannoy Stewart, state FFA adviser.

In their farm training, Future Farmers study new technical farming processes and problems which will confront them when they become full-time farmers, and then put their training into practice on their school and home farms. The boys participate in area and state judging contests in dairy, meat, dairy products, livestock and poultry. Each Future Farmer is given the opportunity to work for three degrees which are Chapter Farmer, Lone Star Farmer, and American Farmer—the highest degree awarded by the FFA.

The leadership training which Future Farmers receive in the FFA organization prepares them to take part in public meetings, to speak in public and to preside at meetings. As a part of their leadership training, teams from Future Farmer chapters take part in radio broadcasting, chapter conducting, FFA quiz and farm skill demonstration contests at area and state meetings. The boys also compete for state and national awards in public speaking, farm electrification, farm mechanics, soil and water management, and farm safety, and for scholarships to agricultural colleges.

Texas Future Farmers are continuously being taught that a farmer is the operator of a highly complicated business and that he must be highly trained in more phases of endeavor than in most any other occupation. In caring for their investments valued at more than 14 million dollars, the FFA boys are receiving very good training for becoming the experts they must be if they want to be successful farmers. The Texas Future Farmers own beef cattle valued at more than three million dollars, have over two million invested in dairy cattle, and two million in swine. Their poultry projects are worth around $800,000 and their turkey projects are worth about $250,000. They have invested more than $370,000 in sheep and goats.

Carol Lane Awards Recognize Women's Safety Achievements

Chicago, Feb. 23.—The Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety—first awards to recognize and reward women's achievements in traffic accident prevention—have been expanded for 1953 to include women's organizations as well as individuals, the National Safety Council announced today.

The awards now bestow equal honors on four women and on four women's or parents' clubs which create the most successful and significant traffic safety programs in their community or state each year.

When the awards were begun in 1952, only individuals were honored. Now, duplicate awards will be offered to clubs. First award consists of a $1,000 defense bond and a bronze "Safety Oscar" by a noted American sculptor, Bertha Margoules. Bronze plaques containing a bas-relief of the sculpture will be presented to three honorable mention winners among both individuals and organizations.

The awards, named for the women's travel director of Shell Oil Co., were established through a grant from that company and are administered by the Council. Entries from 30 states last year provided the Council with its first opportunity to evaluate on a national scale the programs developed by women.

Ned R. Dearborn, Council president, said the award entries proved women were very effective in building public support for worthwhile state and community traffic safety activities. "Without such public interest and support," Mr. Dearborn pointed out, "traffic accident prevention hasn't a ghost of a chance for success."

In urging women and clubs to enter the awards contest this year, Miss Lane said women have shown that they can play especially effective roles in the fields of driver education and training, bicycle safety, traffic legislation, traffic law enforcement, and pedestrian safety.

Complete information about the Carol Lane Awards can be obtained by writing to Alice C. Mills, director of women's activities, National Safety Council, 425 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Representative Seeks Constituents' Views on Lake Whitney Fishing

W. W. Perry, representing the 82nd District in Austin, including Hamilton, Erath, Bosque and Coryell Counties, in discussing a fishing bill affecting another district, discloses his interest in hearing from people of this district concerning Lake Whitney laws.

"Game and fish laws are traditionally controversial," Perry wrote, "and as seemingly inconsequential as the yare, many candidates have been beaten trying to amend or change them. Personally, I would like to see a uniform system of game and fish laws for Lake Whitney, just as Possum Kingdom Lake now has. I have a proposed bill relative to the lake area in my possession now. I would like to hear from you folks in Bosque County as to whether you would like game department regulatory laws ... that is, a system of uniform laws giving the Game and Fish Department the power to regulate."

In his weekly news letter from Austin, the local representative added items about legislative matters. "The Senate has just this week killed the bill to allow banks to close on Saturday if they so desire. Under the joint rules of the Legislature, this kills it in the House as well. House Bill No. 5, regulating the Optometrist profession, is the most controversial bill we've considered so far.

"Representative Fisk's bill to prohibit the State from building resort hotels has passed to third reading. This, in my opinion, is a good bill and does not let the state build resort hotels on state land in direct competition with private enterprises. I think most everyone will agree that our governmental agencies, particularly those of the Federal Government, have gone far enough in infringing upon the rights of the business man."
