Industrial Survey Meeting Held Tuesday in Stephenville

Representatives from Hico, Stephenville, Dublin and Comanche were in attendance Tuesday night at Stephenville for the third in a series of meetings pertaining to development of an industrial survey for this area.

The two previous meetings were held in Dublin and Hico.

L. S. Paine and Bill Marshall, representatives of Texas A & M College were in attendance to present the plan. Byron Singleton, president of the Stephenville Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting, which was attended by 25 persons, including Odie Petsick, D. E. Bulloch, Harold Walker, J. B. Woodard and E. V. Meador from Hico.

Mr. Paine cited many interesting figures which bore out the contention that industry is definitely needed in this area. He stated that in areas where abundant industry was already located the income was approximately 50 per cent more than in areas which depended on agriculture.

Mr. Paine said that small towns could go after industry in two ways; first by working together as a unit, or by each town working separately. "Working together," Mr. Paine said, "towns are more unified and are more attractive to the prospect. Where a town working alone can offer the labor of possibly 300 workers, several towns working together as a unit can offer several thousand workers to prospective industry. Many people drive 60 to 80 miles each day to work in the cities, so there is no reason why they wouldn't drive 20 or 30 miles to a centrally located plant in an area program."

Mr. Paine further stated "that a group of towns working together indicates to the prospect something that he can't get otherwise. It indicates that cooperation between the towns is at a high level, which is what most prospects are looking for. Jealousies and attitudes of one town toward their neighbors is something else taken into consideration by the prospects."

Mr. Paine pointed out a few of the steps which should be taken toward setting the program into operation. A supply of information on labor available, facilities existing in the towns, water, recreation facilities, etc., were stressed by the speaker. He also stressed the importance of townspeople support of the program, and the importance of a minimum of "family" quarrels among the citizens.

Another meeting has been scheduled to be held in Dublin next Thursday night, February 13, when representatives of the Chambers of Commerce of each town will get together to further study the plan. The group of men present at the Stephenville meeting also voted to include representatives from Hamilton and De Leon. Odie Petsick and D. E. Bulloch were selected to represent the Hico Civic Club at the meeting.

Social Security Officer Due Visit in Hico Next Tuesday

Maurice M. Chastain, District Manager of the Temple office of the Social Security Administration, has announced the regularly scheduled visit of an officer to Hico. The officer will be at the City Hall next Tuesday, February 11, at 10 a.m.

In making the announcement, Mr. Chastain stated that "ninety per cent of our population in the district is covered by social security, and most of the remaining ten per cent have a direct interest because of close relatives. The program now covers retirement benefits, wife's benefits, widow's benefits, minor children; adults with disabilities incurred before age 18, disability before age 50, disability after age 50; and lump sums."

"Because of the many types of benefits and the broad coverage of different groups such as wage earners, farm self-employment, urban self-employment, State and local governments, non-profit organizations, etc., we have hundreds of questions asked daily. Only through newspapers such as yours could we hope to even commence to reach most of the people with answers to the questions they would like to ask."

answers which might help local people when visiting the Social Security officer:

Question: What information should I bring with me when I come to the social security office to apply for my benefits early in 1958?

Answer: If you are going to apply for social security benefits before July 1, 1958, you should bring in either your withholding statement, Form W-2, for the year 1957 or a signed statement of earnings from your employer. If you had more than one employer during 1957, you should furnish the information from all employers. This will help speed the processing of your claim.

Question: I am 40 years old and have not been working for the past six months. As I must care for a member of my family who is ill, can I freeze my social security account?

Answer: A wage earner can file application to establish a period of disability, thereby "freezing" his or her social security account only if he or she is the disabled person. Not working in order to care for someone who is ill or disabled cannot be the basis for a freezer.

EQUIPMENT—Two-row grass seed planter ready for use by farmers and ranchers of area is shown above left. This planter belongs to Hamilton-Coryell SCS, and will be located at Hamilton SCS office. The rental charge is per day, or a minimum charge of $2.50. It plants any type of grass seed. The two outer boxes are for trashy seed, and the middle box for any of the small clean seeds. The planter will attach to a 3-point hookup, or can be pulled by a draw bar. Picture at right is a close-up view of the two main features of the planter. Here you see the double disk opener with depth board, followed by a rubber press wheel. These two features are known to take most of the risk out of grass seeding. (SCS Photos)

Local Club Participating in Nation-Wide Campaign

Hico Review Club is actively participating in the nationwide plan campaign for "Magazines for Men."

A managing committee will press the work with vigor. Plans are complete for sending out good American magazines to the people of other nations overseas.

The Review Club will work through a mailing list of 54 nations. People are eager to read and to see pictures of our way of life. The committee hopes soon to have information to give the school, church, and civic organizations of each county, enlisting them all in a dynamic bit to counter Communism abroad and to help American prestige by sending magazines overseas to friends for America. The Club feels it can do vitally important work to promote understanding and respect for this by adopting this plan as a project.

Some of our nation consider the United States more the simplest, the most effective and immediate we have; more valuable bombs and guns in winning World War. As with Sputniks I have allowed the Communist to beat us to the full use of our powerful weapon in the battle of the Cold War, which is in reality a battle for men's minds.

The Review Club is informed that English readership is large in the nations that want to be our friends, so as a group the Club plans to do its part to make up the lack in filling the constant requests for "something to read from America."

One correspondent from U. S. Information abroad has said, "Good magazines given to these people are mightier than dollars to combat the influence of Communism which is being built up by the wide-spread, full distribution of Communist reading material, which is attractively made up, plentiful, always at hand with its ready poison, relentless and deadly." The Review Club, through expected response from overseas, hopes to set in motion a Club-wide personal contact by correspondence with those receiving magazines.

The concept of the Club is that, "The greatest necessity is for the world's people to be informed about one another's ways and thoughts."

The above is submitted by the "Magazines for Friendship" Review Club Committee, composed of Mrs. Wayne Rutledge, chairman, Mrs. Odie Petsick and Mrs. Vivian Blair.

Hico Cagers to Play Final Home Games Friday Night

The final home games of the current basketball season will be played tonight, Friday, beginning at 7:30 in the local gym. Walnut Springs will furnish the opposition.

Iredell girls and Kopperl boys won the double round robin in district play. The winner of next week's district tournament will play the round robin winners for the championship. Should the same teams win the tourney that won the round robin they will automatically be crowned champions of the district without a playoff.

The district tournament will begin at Morgan Monday, with Iredell playing Kopperl. Hico's teams play Morgan on Tuesday night.

Tuesday night of this week Hico's girls moved into second place in the district race by handing Iredell their first district loss of the season. The score was 40-38. Koonsman of Iredell was leading scorer with 22 points. Ables and Yocham led Hico with 17 and 14 points respectively.

Iredell's boys won an overtime contest from Hico 39-37; however Hico retained third place in the district race.

Make an effort to see the final home game tonight.

Church Attendance—Reasons or Excuses?

By MORSE ROSS
Very often when asked to attend church we give the first reason that comes to our minds for not coming. Some of the reasons that I have used, or heard others use, are very weak and are actually not valid reasons, but flimsy excuses. This isn't always the case but I am afraid that most of the time, had we wanted to do something else, our reasons would not have been necessary.

It has been my experience that regular church attendance will not only keep us from having to make up excuses, but will bring us an inner-warmth of spirit and fellowship that we can get no other place. If we stay away from church a few times, we find it easy to find excuses to stay away. If we get into the habit, and it is a good habit, of going regularly we will find it easy.

We, who are members of some church, have an obligation to attend regularly and if we do, we shall also find it to be a privilege we shall enjoy as well.

Church attendance in a measure reflects our loyalty to God. Any person, who is physically able, that is lax in church attendance is falling short in his or her duty to God. I believe that spiritual growth, so necessary to an abundant life, is slow or non-existent when we go to church just occasionally or not at all. We can expect our Heavenly reward to be a question mark when we neglect our duty to God.

We should ask ourselves these questions:

Am I liberal in giving my time to the service of God?

Am I liberal in my financial support to the church?

Are the reasons I give for not going to church excuses?

Am I satisfied with my spiritual life?

If every church member were just like me, what kind of a church would my church be?

Peddlers Were Once Common Sight In Rural Areas of State

By E. DAWSON

Once were a common sight in rural areas of Texas. They were a part of the life of the farmer folk. They came, in every week, in other every twice a month, or so. They traveled in wagons with their wares, heavy sheets, or on horse-drawn wagons. They had a horse and a mule. I ever saw used to carry a one with mules. The horses were more used for their business.

Some of the peddler were peddlers of dry goods and notions and in some cases they would undertake to peddle their wares regularly. Their wagons had coops for chickens and cases for eggs. They would housewife's produce for it with stuff from the peddler's wagon. They paid market prices for chickens, and in winter would also buy the housewife's produce. It used to amaze me to see the peddler pick up a chicken and put it in a case with such rapidity that I could not keep up with them. They transferred them to their family basket to his cases. But one peddler's count never varied from Mother's. So it must have been correct always.

Two peddlers came to our farm home for many years. One was Old Wolfe. He was a Jew, middle-aged, vigorous, quiet and business-like always. His dry goods prices were always about what they were at the towns of the region, and often cheaper. Mother always gave the bulk of her business to Old Wolfe, for she said that he was scrupulously honest and she could rely on what he told her. Once he told us the story of his life. He came from Central Europe to the land of the free, not knowing a word of English. He had no money, no home, no family, nothing. Another Jew, a merchant of New York, staked him with a pack that he carried on his back, and he walked. He knew no English, but other Jews taught him enough words for him to make a start, and instructed him in our American money. In those days you rarely saw a piece of paper money; it was always silver or gold. Old Wolfe learned rapidly and soon was able to buy a wagon and team of horses. Why he came to Texas I do not remember, but he became an institution in the part of Texas where we lived then.

Dad pulled a mean trick on Old Wolfe: I don't know whether I have ever quite forgiven Dad for it. Old Wolfe frequently spent the night with us. When he did Mother killed a chicken and baked it for the Orthodox Jew's meals. But one time, Mother was ill, and Dad was doing the cooking. And he did not kill a chicken, but passed the fried bacon to Old Wolfe, never batting an eye as he did. Old Wolfe was equally game. He took liberally of the bacon and ate his meal without a word. Dad got a tongue lashing from Mother for his prank.

Another peddler also came regularly to our home. He was Old Garrett. He was an American, a Southerner, and in business strictly for the profits. Mother always checked his egg-count carefully. Sometimes there was a difference between her count and his. He had a wagon with panels on the side, and doors that folded down and formed counters. His stuff was never quite on a par with Old Wolfe's. But he carried numerous items that Old Wolfe did not carry. So he got some business from Mother. On one occasion we two older boys had picked cotton for a neighbor and had a few nickels. In those days we never saw a penny. Items were always in prices of five and ten cents and multiples thereof. The older brother knew that Old Garrett carried "chewing wax." He decided to invest. So he got a whole box and then he would trade pieces of it to me at an exorbitant price, and got all my "purties." We had never heard of "chewing gum." In those days it was always "wax."

PHONE 23 WE DELIVER HICO, TEXAS

FAIRY

By MRS. EUNICE DANIEL

We have misty threatening weather today, Tuesday, following a week of fair weather.

Farmers were able to do a little plowing and sowing, however much of the land is still too wet to work.

According to the old ground hog tradition, seems we'll have more winter weather for the next six weeks, for he sure had no trouble seeing his shadow Sunday. Since it was a beautiful fair day.

We were sorry to learn of the misfortune of the Lester Smith family of Houston, who lost their home and all contents by fire on Wednesday morning, Jan. 22. The Smith family formerly resided in the Lanham community and are the parents of Mrs. J. A. Edwards of the Agee community near Fairy and Mrs. Marvin Porterfield of Evant. The Smith children attended school here. Our sympathy is extended to them in their misfortune.

Mrs. Dorman Vance and baby of Grand Prairie visited during the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Jackson. The Jacksons honored Mrs. Vance with a birthday dinner Sunday. Other guests for the occasion, that we learned of, were Minister Hardcastle and Charles Daniel of Abilene. We did not learn whether Mr. Vance accompanied his wife or not. He spends most of his time when here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Vance of near Carlton, since his father has been ill for the past several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers and family visited Sunday afternoon in the home of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Sellers of the Pecan community near Hamilton. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goyne and Lynda of Desota and their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie McDowell of Fort Worth spent the week end here at the Goyne home. Mr. Goyne has been spending much of his time here the past few weeks looking after business interests.

Cabert Daniel spent Sunday at Benbrook Lake near Fort Worth. He was met there by his son-in-law, Marty Haire. Their fishing luck wasn't so good this time.

The writer attended singing at Evergreen Sunday afternoon. A very good crowd was present, including Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Jones and son and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, all of Gatesville.

After singing hours we visited with Mrs. Minnie McCarty, Mrs. Mary Alford, Mrs. A. R. Hoover, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Ganske at the rest home. Mrs. Smith is the mother of Homer Smith of Jonesboro, who formerly taught school here. Mrs. Smith possesses a sweet personality. She has never walked since the birth of Homer, some fifty years ago. She sits in her chair, does fancy work, although her hands are badly drawn, as are her feet and legs from rheumatism which has caused her affliction.

She also reads a lot to help pass the time away. Mrs. Ganske is her roommate and she, too, possesses a sweet personality and we have been drawn closer to them by our frequent visits there. We meet Homer and wife there frequently also. His wife is the former Lucille Pittman, who also was a former faculty member at Fairy.

We missed seeing Mrs. Donna Grant of Dublin Sunday by just a few minutes. She was down to visit Mrs. Hoover, formerly of Dublin.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hanes and Mike visited Saturday in Dallas in the home of his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Iland Jones, and their mother, Mrs. H. H. Hanes of Jonesboro, who is visiting in the Jones home, and they also visited their daughter, Miss Martha Hanes, who is employed in Dallas.

Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Will Green of Hico for a donation of $1.00 for the Fairy Cemetery Association fund, which was handed to our husband at the market last week. Sorry to learn that Mr. Green is very poorly at this time. The Greens have been very thoughtful of the cemetery grounds and have made regular donations for many years. We hope they soon are able to drive out and look things over. With the help of Nona Brunson last week we took advantage of the pretty weather and finished a cleanup job and raking and hauling off the rest of the rocks, wires, cans and such like from the cemetery. Eight loads were hauled out Friday and Saturday morning, making a total of some 12 or more loads in all, as Johnnie Jones and Jerry Richardson had helped to haul out some four or five loads a few months ago. There are still a few lots to work for those who have made contributions during the past year, and a little work here and there to complete the clean up job which we hope to finish next week if the weather permits. We especially thank T. L. Betts for the use of his pickup truck and H. O. Richardson for furnishing a place nearby to dispose of the rocks and etc. We invite your inspection of the grounds and hope all will take notice to the portion which has been mowed. We believe you will agree with us that practically all of the cemetery can be kept clean by the use of a power mower. We would be glad to hear from you in regard to this matter.

Mrs. Birtie Cobb of Hamilton visited Saturday in the home of her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wolfe.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers and Janice visited last Friday in Dublin in the home of her niece, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Pittman and baby, and also her sister, Mrs. D. E. Allison.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hoover were shopping in Fort Worth Monday.

Fred M. Truett, left, President of Southwestern Drug Corporation, explains the rules of the 1958 Red Arrow Moon Contest to G. B. "Buck" Park, President of Texas Pharmaceutical Association. The contest, sponsored by Red Arrow Laboratories, Waco—a division of Southwestern Drug—offers as grand prize a round-trip to the moon, plus ninety-nine other prizes.

NEXT STOP: THE MOON!

Someone from the Southwest may be the first passenger on a commercial flight to the moon! Red Arrow Laboratories of Waco, Texas, is showing its confidence in the ability of American scientists to conquer outer space at an early date, by offering a round-trip to the moon as the grand prize in its 1958 consumer contest.

Running through the month of February in drug stores throughout the Southwest, the contest will offer a thousand dollars cash to the grand prize winner, should he not care to make the trip. Altogether, prizes will be awarded to the one hundred best entries completing the sentence, "I would like to win a trip to the moon because..." in 25 additional words.

"We firmly believe that within the next two years the U. S. will be able to provide commercial transportation to the moon," said one official of Red Arrow. "In offering the moon trip as a prize, we hope the Red Arrow Moon Contest will contribute to the public awareness of the importance of establishing an American beachhead in outer space."

LOCAL ENTRIES IN FAT STOCK SHOW

Three of the local FFA boys had entries at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show last week. Boys making the trip to Fort Worth were Pat Lackey, Jerry Johnson and Gail Christian.

Jerry showed his Angus steer in the Junior show where it placed eleventh in its class. He sold it at a good price, 36 cents per pound.

Pat Lackey made a good showing with his Hereford heifer, taking fourth place in the Junior Yearling class. This was an extremely good class of animals. Pat will take his calf on to Houston and show it there.

Gail Christian was very lucky, as he won the Summer Yearling class and placed behind the Reserve Champion of the show. Gail will also show his "scramble heifer" at the Houston show.

PERSONALITY TRAITS STUDY

During the last two weeks the English IV class has been studying personality and all its aspects. If anyone see some new creature with an outstanding personality somewhere, you will know it is a Senior who took the research to heart.

The library, supplemented by some good books from the library of the Methodist Church, furnished helpful hints for the undecided youth.

NEW ADDITION TO FACULTY

Good news, kids. We have a new addition to the faculty. Miss Helen Thomas has been named as homemaker teacher for the local schools.

Miss Thomas came from Eldorado, Arkansas, and graduated from Texas Women's University, Denton. She graduated at the end of the semester just completed, but will not receive her degree until July.

Miss Thomas is single and is twenty-one years old. She is residing at the J. B. Woodard apartment.

The students wish to welcome Miss Thomas to our school faculty. We hope that she will enjoy being here as much as we will enjoy having her.

Also, we would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to Mrs. Rainwater, who has been substituting the past few weeks for Mrs. Burwell. We regret that Mrs. Burwell, because of illness, will not be able to be with us the remainder of the year.

President's Budget Referred To As 'Sputnik Budget'

Omar Burleson, M. C.
17th District, Texas

Washington, D.C.—The President's budget is referred to by some in Washington as the "Sputnik Budget." The reason—defense spending is up because of the Russian Sputnik and the Budget itself has gone up like a rocket.

The Budget is just barely short of $74 billion, but actually it calls for the disbursement of nearly $87 billion. The additional expenditure is cash to be disbursed from Government trust funds having special sources of revenue, such as Social Security, Highway Construction, etc.

Spending and taxing will amount to an average of more than $425 for each person in the country, or in excess of $1,700 per family unit of four people.

Congress will probably cut some of the President's request, but is likely to increase rather than reduce the amounts recommended for missiles and other defense items. It is entirely possible that the President's Budget may be increased over-all.

The President promises a balanced budget for the fiscal year 1958-59. His estimate is based on expected revenues, which counts on business picking up in the months ahead.

Probably one of the most current discussions going on behind the scenes at this time is whether or not we should again participate in a "summit conference" with the Soviets. Mr. Dulles says "no", and most of the experts in this country more or less agree. Mr. Dulles says "no" until the issues are defined as to what will be discussed.

There are great pressures from Western Europe to hold such a meeting. The Russians are losing no opportunity for propaganda in insisting on such a meeting. They feel their opportunity is at its height because of their ability to demonstrate their missile and rocket power.

The Soviets' record of going back on its promises are long and many. There are already agreements on record, but they want another meeting to make more agreements about the same thing.

However, the experts say that Russia would really like to have a closed-door meeting with the United States to discuss the continuous development of more horrible armaments on both sides, and possibly a way to control them. This kind of private talk is what the Soviets have always sought when they really mean to negotiate in earnest.

There is a temptation on the part of this country to engage in such talks. It is risky to do so, although not of the same nature as in a so-called summit meeting. It is risky because, should the United States talk privately to the Soviet leaders, it is fair to assume that every diplomat in Europe would be rushing to Moscow to make their own agreements. Under these conditions the Western alliances would fall apart like a house of cards. The risk, however, may be justified as the only alternative to something

THE HAPPY FARMER

Even if they inherited a fortune, four out of five American men would choose to continue working, according to a nation-wide survey conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. While some men would switch jobs if they could, more than two-thirds of the farmers would stay in their present work.

USE A CLEANING KIT OR BASKET

Many steps can be saved in keeping the house clean if cleaning supplies and small equipment are assembled in an open basket or box with a handle which can be carried easily from room to room. A wheel table is convenient for moving and holding cleaning supplies. Some of the articles you will find useful are: Whisk broom or upholstery brush; small brush; treated dustcloths, for daily dusting; soft clean cloth, for washing and drying woodwork; cloths or worse. At least this may be true at the moment, but may not be true if and when the United States is definitely ahead of Russia in war-making power.

The danger increases every day that something is not done about controlling the great forces, which if turned loose could destroy a great part of the world.

cotton waste, for applying polishes and cleansers; polishing cloth; cellulose sponge, for washing woodwork and walls; furniture polish or lemon oil; wallpaper cleaner; wax; mild scouring powder or whitening; carbon tetrachloride; household ammonia or glass cleaner; newspapers; paper bag, for collecting matches, ashes, and trash—this saves untold steps.

Store these tools and supplies near the place where they are to be used as possible. Keep tools and supplies that are used together in the same place.

The size of your cleaning closet depends upon the articles to be stored. Frequently it is convenient if there can be a closet for cleaning equipment and supplies near the kitchen on a back porch or hall for example. A place for such articles used in the living room might be provided in a nearby hall.

TO REMOVE WHITE SPOTS FROM FURNITURE

These spots can be caused by standing water, hot dishes or alcohol. They may sometimes be removed by wiping the surface with a cloth wrung from water to which you have added a little ammonia. If the spots are slight a simple remedy is to rub the spot with camphorated oil or, oil of peppermint. Or they may disappear when the surface of the furniture is washed with a mixture of one quart of warm water, 3 tablespoons of boiled linseed oil, and one tablespoon of turpentine dry with a soft cloth. Rub with furniture polish. For more severe white spots those that are old or very an abrasive may be needed well as oil. One mixture that be used for removing the salt and salad oil. Dip the in oil, then in salt, and repeat until the spot disappears. Then dry and polish. A paste of powdered pumice or stone and linseed oil may bed over the spot with cloth until the spot disappears. Required rubbing removes finish, the rubbed area may refinishing.

Together—with Faith—you'll build a better tomorrow.

"No man is an island —"

The really important moments of a lifetime are moments shared with your family.

These are the hours you remember

They are the ones which linger longest in the memory of your children.

Surely one of the greatest gifts within your power to give a child is your belief in God. And what more natural way to do it than by worshiping with your family each week at your church or synagogue. As they find God, so will your own faith grow.

Joining together in worship is more than an act of faith. It's a link with the future... a point upon which you and your family can build a better tomorrow.

Give them a Faith to live by  Worship with them this week

HOMER ALLOWS . . .

A short time ago a gracious lady gave me a very valuable and rare scrapbook. The articles were published in various papers prior to 1884 . . . Among the many interesting articles "Sacred Monkeys of India." The writer said, "Monkeys cut up and do some queer capers. In India monkeys are a great nuisance. No one is allowed to molest them. They run about the streets, help themselves to whatever they please, rob orchards and gardens and play havoc generally. To thrash a monkey is regarded as a great sin. To shoot a monkey might cause a rebellion. One of the natives had an orchard with delicious fruits. The sacred monkeys easily scaled the walls and helped themselves to the delicious fruits. They were not content with simply eating, but amused themselves by throwing the delicious fruit at each other."

Maybe you have heard of picking up a hot potato used many times in a conversation. It really happened here. The native boy'd a bushel of potatoes. When they were scalding hot he placed them under the trees. The monkeys were watching his movements from the trees. Soon as he left the monkeys made a bee line for the potatoes. A monkey will never let go any article of food once he gets his hand on it, even if he has to die, and these monkeys, true to their nature, would not drop the hot potatoes. They held them in one hand and then the other and then they would take a bite and scald their mouths and roll in the dust writhing in pain. According to the story they scaled over the walls and never returned.

In connection with the above report your attention is called to the following facts: As a result of the heavy rains last Spring, many graves were found to be in bad condition. At one time over three hundred needed immediate attention. This necessitated much additional labor as well as extra repairs to the equipment. A new motor for the mower had to be purchased, and other miscellaneous expenditures were necessary. It was also deemed advisable to have additional space surveyed and divided into lots for future demands.

Due to these extra expenditures, the cash balance in the Auxiliary Fund was greatly reduced. Two economy measures were then adopted. First, the services of caretaker were suspended for the first three months of the new year, except for such emergency maintenance as may develop. Second, the services of Collector of Funds was suspended for an indefinite period. In the future all contributions will be made direct to the Secretary-Treasurer, who will perform this service without cost to the Association.

It is hoped that these two economy measures, and the most careful administration by the directors, together with the continued loyal support of all people interested, will soon put the affairs of the Association back on a sound financial basis.

At the last meeting of the directors for the year of 1957, the following business was also transacted: Mrs. Aften Aycock was chosen as Secretary-Treasurer to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late W. M. Horsley. J. P. Rodgers Jr., who has served as President of the Board for the past ten years, submitted his resignation, and Mr. J. B. Woodard was chosen to succeed him.

This report for the year of 1957 is respectfully submitted.

J. P. RODGERS JR., Retiring President.

THE FARMER TAKES A BOARDER—AND MAKES A PROFIT

A new kind of farm diversification has arrived. It's called the "farm vacation" and for many farmers whose grown-up and gone children have left them with roomy, semi-empty farmhouses it could well prove to be a profitable sideline enterprise.

In fact, so feasible and successful has the idea been that it has spread all the way from New York's Fifth avenue where it was first conceived to the heart of Texas and the open spaces of Montana.

Operation of the "farm vacation" plan is a simple one: the farmer who has spare room and facilities and a wife who likes to cook becomes a sort of inn-keeper. For a fair but profitable fee he invites some city folk to spend their vacation down on the farm. Judging from the annual growth of this new type of tourist industry, it is here to stay.

The commercial organization most responsible for development of the farm vacation program was started in 1949 by an ex-farm boy from Delaware, Bill Wolfe, who saw in America's booming and bulging tourist industry a new vacation possibility which could accomplish several important things. First of all, the farm vacation could bring together farmers and city folks so that they might learn one another's problems and profit by the association; also, this could provide the city dweller with relief from the tedium of his existence without high cost and strenuous travel; and finally, it could help raise the income of some farmers over the country.

Mr. Wolfe's organization, Farm Vacations and Holidays, Incorporated, last year printed and distributed some 250,000 catalogs listing about 300 farms in 28 states and Ontario. They hope eventually to list 5,000 farms which would be catalogued by sections of the country.

Through the Farm Vacation catalog, the prospective vacationer can select the type farm he would like to visit as well as the location he prefers. The listings are not classified type advertisements such as "Have farm—will rent room;" enough details are provided to form a fairly clear picture of each individual farm available, and all vacationers and farmer-landlords are expected to have learned a great deal about each other before any actual commitment is made.

ed to form a fairly clear picture of each individual farm available, and all vacationers and farmer-landlords are expected to have learned a great deal about each other before any actual commitment is made.

All in all, it's a good, sound and healthy idea for the vacationer, and a potential source of supplemental income for the farmer who thinks he might be able to help

Vista Valley Club, showed the reserve champion ram in the Delaine division at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show last week. Her reserve champion ram was a lamb. She placed sixth with her four-tooth ram. Lynn showed only lambs in the ewe classes and in these she won a second and sixth place.

With her pen of lambs she took third and in the Get-of-Sire class she placed third.

Lynn has been a 4-H Club member for about eight or nine years and has a flock of about 80 head of registered Delaines. She has entered her show flock in the San Angelo show which is in March.

Dr. W. F. Hafer and Eugene Hicks of Hico, who are in partnership with a flock of Suffolk sheep made their first show by exhibiting at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show. They won a third place with one of their rams.

Hafer and Hicks did not have a full show flock and there were some classes they did not show in. From their start in the Suffolk business we are going to hear and see more of this flock in the future, and so are the exhibitors at Fort Worth and other shows.

Some of the Hico FFA boys were quite successful in showing their livestock at the Fort Worth Show. Gail Christian showed the first place Summer Yearling Heifer.

I think that the Fat Stock show this year was one of the strongest that I have seen in quite a number of years. Classes were large and the competition was stiff in every thing exhibited.

Thursday night, February 20, there will be a meeting here in the court house for the purpose of discussing the organizing of a Farm Bureau in the county. Milton Shiver, who is an organization specialist with the Farm Bureau in Waco, will make a detailed explanation of the Farm Bureau, its operation, what it stands for and what the organization is doing for the rural people. Put this date down and come to the meeting.

Woodward Brummett, Route 2, Hico, is building a new laying house that will house around 1500 laying hens. The new house is about 90 by 40 feet.

The average cow eats about 20 pounds of dry plant material a day or 600 pounds a month. It takes 61 pounds of poor grass to make a pound of gain while 21 pounds of good grass will produce a pound of gain under favorable conditions.

A properly used range for a sustained yield basis should have: 50 per cent of vegetation by weight utilized; 25 per cent of vegetation left for litter; 25 per cent of vegetation left for maintenance and reproduction.

Game Warden Reports

By SWEDE JOHNSON

State Game Warden
Hamilton & Bosque Counties

As the old earth continues to spin on its axis and we also have been able to launch a new moon and a lot of news worthy events have taken place since last week I am still almost as to what might be interesting for this week's column.

Winds were still high for a successful fishing trip this week end but the few that tried found that the crappie are moving in more shallow water and are biting in 14 to 20 feet. Black bass and sand bass are hitting both lures and minnows. Water level on Lake Whitney is standing about 519.95 feet above sea level.

The Game & Fish Commission lost a good and faithful servant last week when the late Captain Frank Cowser, supervisor of the Austin area, passed away last week end due to a heart attack. Captain Cowser was a long time employee, with close to 30 years service with the Commission, and at one time the Director of the Law Enforcement Division. Captain Frank was a very dedicated man, both to the public and his department, and we will all feel his loss.

For this week study of Mammals of Texas, I think we will talk about the well known Black-Tailed Jackrabbit. Scientific name is Lepus Californicus Gray (Lepus means Rabbit or Hare; Californicus means Californian).

The jackrabbit is really a Hare instead of a rabbit because they are precocious at birth (meaning they are born with their eyes open and in a few hours can take care of themselves).

Description: large, with long ears, long hind legs, and clear gray sides; back gray, grizzled with black; upper side of tail black. Total length 24-26 inches; length of tail three to four inches; length of hind foot, four to five inches; length of ear, four to five inches. Distribution: Statewide, with exception of deep East Texas. The black-tailed jackrabbit is a characteristic inhabitant of open places. It occurs on the borders of brushy areas as well as in open plains country, although apparently it must be able to see a long way in order to survive. It does not commonly occur in tall grass prairies or in extended woods or thickets.

While the jackrabbit has not yet succeeded in getting into Louisiana it is often found on prairie openings or clear-cut timber lands in the eastern half of Texas. Here it seems to come from nowhere, disappearing again as the pines grow up.

Mesquite and other browse plants, various grasses, and numerous annual weeds, as well as cactus, all are leaved upon for feed. Dry and forbidding indeed must be the season when the jackrabbit cannot find food and a source of water in the often unpromising areas in which it lives.

The Black-tailed Jackrabbit breeds 10 months out of the year—although mainly from February to August—in the southern part of its range. The average number of young per litter is about 2 but the species may have two or more litters in a 12-month period.

As ranges deteriorate, due to overgrazing by livestock, jackrabbits increase to a certain point because preferred weeds and grasses become more numerous. Then, as the rabbits become abundant, they themselves may cause still further damage to the range. The animals have some value for their skins; they are frequently used for food by man and by such animals as the coyote, bobcat, gray fox, and ringtail. They serve as a safety factor to divert the attention of these animals from poultry and game. That's why the rabbit is known as the buffer species. With this species as well as others that we have discussed in the past we should practice the control and not the extermination.

Mr. W. H. Rice of Lake Whitney, near the dam, is doing his part in supplying me with possums. He has sent me three up to date and will probably have some more before the week is out. I sure hope I begin to get some more calls because this is sure helping in an important study of leukemia. Until next week good hunting and fishing and o'possum collecting to all sportsmen.

Yours truly, SWEDE

Trading At Home . . .

No one can be blamed for stretching dollar as far as it will go. However, it is difficult to understand the person who spends the dollars to stretch one.

Every community has a sizable number of penny-conscious shoppers who will travel from twenty to one hundred miles in search of a bargain. Such buying is usually unwise and wasteful. The cost of the trip is likely to be higher than any fancied savings. Also, careful check of local stores would often reveal that a better price could be obtained here at home.

We can not question the loyalty or good intentions of local citizens who rush off to larger cities to make major purchases. They believe that they are practicing sound economics. And they may have some reason for their actions.

For, quite often our local people know more about the goods available in the metropolitan stores than they do about the goods in the stores here at home because of the extensive advertising originating in the larger trading centers.

Retail advertising from larger cities is constantly coming into every community in the form of catalogs, circulars, and other direct mail pieces. When local merchants do not counter the out-of-town advertising, it is natural for some shoppers to believe that the goods and services they seek can not be obtained locally.

Despite the aggressiveness of distant competition, the local merchant has a distinct advertising advantage—the local newspaper. No advertising medium used by non-local retailers covers our trade area so thoroughly and at such low cost as your local newspaper.
