EVERY YEAR! . . . For the past years that we have been a poll tax collector, there has at least one person who forgot until the very last minute to vote for his right. Of course, doesn't include the many people who forgot on purpose.

Mr. Wood also reported that 93.97 per cent of all county taxes had been paid through January 31, or a total of $194,602.27 paid this year. $44,799.76 in taxes was paid in the month of January.

Area Locked In Weather's Grip First Part of Week

Old Man Winter threw the full force of his wintry blast at Hico and surrounding area the first part of this week.

Rain, which began falling at mid-afternoon Sunday, turned into sleet by nightfall, and by morning everything was encrusted in a heavy coating of ice. No visible thawing was noted throughout the day Monday, and business here was virtually at a standstill.

Rainfall early Tuesday morning further added to the heavy coating and road conditions were extremely hazardous. The sun came out for a while during the day Tuesday, and a gradual rise in temperature melted most of the ice.

Hazardous road conditions Monday and Tuesday forced the closing of school both days. However, classes were resumed Wednesday with only the loss of two days.

Trees, power lines and telephone cables bore the brunt of the storm. Many trees were bent to ground-touching levels, as was shrubbery and other plant life. Telephone and power lines were heavily coated with ice, but no serious damage was reported.

The slick road conditions in the area caused the greatest amount of damage. On one section of highway near here motorists reported at least 25 cars in ditches at one time. However, no serious personal injuries were reported.

Local wreckers were on the move most of the day and night, pulling cars out of ditches, starting stalled vehicles, etc.

Alvin Casey was called out several times Monday, and L. J. Chaney was on the move most of the day. Service station operators also were called on many times to help stalled motorists.

Most of the damage to automobiles was minor, with only two or three transits having major damage.

People of the area were relieved to find all of the ice and threatening weather gone Wednesday.

He will leave Sunday night to return to his base, and expects to be transferred from Fort Carson to Fort Lee, Virginia within the next two weeks.

Local Cagers Go to Iredell Friday for Important Games

Hico's basketball teams will go to Iredell tonight, Friday, in conquest of their second district win in the second half of play. The first game will commence at 7 p.m., and will be followed by the boys' game.

The games scheduled for Tuesday night of this week at Koperl were called off due to inclement weather, and will be played next Friday night, February 13.

In the first round of play the Hico boys won easily over Iredell 50-26, but the girls had to play catch-up before eking out a slim one-point victory, 23-22. Both teams are expected to have hard games tonight.

Next Tuesday night, Hico hosts

Walnut Springs for two very important games. The locals defeated Walnut in the first half of play, but both boys and girls are considered to be about the toughest in the league.

The locals are assured a spot in a three-game play-off with the second half winner should they stump their toe along the road ahead. They won the right by virtue of going undefeated in the first half of district action.

Hico's basketball teams chalked up their first victories in the second-half double round-robin last Friday night, taking two wins from Morgan. The locals had previously won the first half of district play with a perfect 4.0 record.

The Hico girls had little trouble with the Morgan lasses, winning 41-33, but in the boys' game, the locals had to fight a nip-and-tuck battle all the way before finally winning 44-39.

The girls jumped into a quick 12-2 lead and held a comfortable margin throughout. The nearest Morgan came to even the score was at the start of the third period when five straight points cut the Hico lead to 26-22. However, Hico pulled away again to lead 35-25 starting the final stanza.

Anna Lee Luckie meshed 18 points for scoring honors with Judy Moore following closely with 16. Kay Yocham hit 7 timely points. The score at the end of each of the periods was 15.4, 26.17, 33-25, and 41-33.

The Hico boys had just about all they could handle in defeating Morgan, a team which they had earlier won handily over by a score of 61-35. However, Hico was extremely cold from the field. Robert Chandler and Doyle Crews were the only home-town boys who played their usual good games, hitting for 18 and 11 points respectively. Neil Ellis also played a good, steady game, contributing 7 points to the output. Rosy Vinson and Mike Lackey, who both usually contribute their fair share of buckets, couldn't buy a basket in any shape or form, and had to settle for three points each. Buddy Ables contributed two free shots to round out the scoring.

Hico was behind all the way until early in the third period when a two-pointer by Chandler put them out front 22-21. At one time the locals were seven points behind in the second period. The game saw-sawed back and forth until midway in the final period when Hico built up a six-point lead. Morgan came back to get within two points of the leaders but a charity toss by Vinson, and two by Ables increased the score to 44-39 at the end.

ATTEND SAN ANGELO RITES

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Jenkins and Denny were in San Angelo Saturday to attend funeral services for his brother-in-law, Orville Blevins, who passed away at San Angelo following a heart attack. Mrs. Blevins is the former Marietta Jenkins.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK—All good! Here's proof that all of them don't get away. Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Ogle went out for a "couple of hours" last Wednesday, and brought back proof-positive that fish can still be caught in this area. The 13 bass shown above weighed around 2 pounds each, all being uniform in size.

159 Texas Towns Named For--Of all Things--Women!

By E. E. DAWSON

What does Texas think of its girls? Well, maybe it would be better to say "Of its females?" The next question would surely be "By what can one judge?" Here is one way you can arrive at an answer: Get the Texas Almanac and count the number of communities that bear names of females. I counted them and the total was 159. And I may have missed some. For some feminine names may be so hidden in the Spanish or German or other foreign languages that I did not recognize them, having but one language as I do—English.

There is a community starting with every letter of the alphabet, except U, X, Y, and Z. Here is how they number: A 16; B 9; C 10; D 10; E 10; F 1; G 6; H 5; I 6; J 5; K 3; L 15; M 14; N 8; O 8; P 8; Q 1; R 7; S 3; T 2; V 6; W 4.

A striking fact is that feminine names appear in the older sections of the state, as Northeast Texas and South Central. Yet in a short space along a railroad that was built at an early date from Houston to Victoria, there are numerous feminine names. An oft-repeated story is that an old-time drummer who travelled by horse and buggy was marooned between two of those towns and failed to make it home at night. When he did get home the next day his wife queried him as to where he spent the night before and without giving any thought to the sound of his reply said, "Why, I spent it between Edna and Louise," explaining that his buggy broke down and he literally was telling the truth. Before the unlucky male could make the matter clear, his wife had whaled him with a stool and the war was on.

That railroad, now Southern Pacific, then had another name, having been built by Houston business men and numerous new towns were started, and in naming the townsites those men used their daughters' or wives' names. The same principle was later applied when the I & G N was built from Mart via Waco to Fort Worth, and Penelope, Irene, Lillian and Retta were names given to four new townsites. However, in most cases of railroads laying out new townsites and naming them, they were frequently named for an official of the railroad. That accounts for a lot of names that mean nothing to the section where they are located.

There are a lot of interesting things about Texas locality names. For example, the favorite ending for names is "ville," as Gainesville, Gatesville, and so on. One hundred and two places have names ending

Firemen Answer Two Alarms During Past Week

Hico firemen answered two calls the past week.

The first call, last Saturday afternoon, sent them hurrying to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Adams on the Glen Rose Highway. A large barn at the home was completely destroyed.

Wednesday noon of this week the firemen were called to the Blackie Sowell home in the Cox-Weaver addition, and extinguished a blaze in a chicken house. Very little damage was inflicted to the small shed.

No estimate of damage was reported in the Adams fire.

THIS WEEK IN AUSTIN—

Strong Move On to Elevate Tarleton to 4-Year College

By CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Senator, 12th District

Senate and House appointments have started full-scale activities at the Capitol after two weeks of quieter preparations.

Your Senator will again serve on the Finance Committee, which sets up the budget for the 12th District's two state institutions: Tarleton State College at Stephenville, and the State School for Boys, Gatesville, La. Governor Ben Ramsey also appointed him to twelve other committees, plus the important Finance sub-committee.

A strong move to elevate Tarleton State to senior college level is shaping up following introduction of the measure into the upper house by your Senator. S. B. 10, "Amending Art. 2618 R.C.S. to provide for four-year college at Tarleton State College" is similar to bills entered in the past. It will probably be brought up for discussion early in this session. The measure is now referred to the State Affairs Committee.

Four-year status for Tarleton is a proper move for the Stephenville school, which already has many of the facilities for an expanded operation. It has been under state control since 1917 and is one of the two state-owned junior colleges left in Texas. Arlington State, the other, is proposed for four-year operation by Senators Willis and Parkhouse.

The State Commission on Higher Education has recommended immediate change for Arlington, with Tarleton to become four-year in September, 1961.

Meeting an educational need in the state and in the district, Tarleton State College would expand Texas educational facilities if placed on a four-year basis—a step definitely needed.

Employees in your Senator's 12th District office include Mrs. Frances Allen, Austin, and Miss Geraldine Williams, Hillsboro, secretaries, and Miss Brenda Jones, Hillsboro, part-time typist and university student. Pete Wright, Ennis, and Jim Cockrell, Hillsboro are part-time clerks and university students.

In "This Week in Austin" we hope to cover the major legislative actions and keep people in the district informed on the progress of important measures in the Capitol.

FAIRY

By MRS. EUNICE DANIEL

were very sorry to learn while visiting at the Ham. Rest Home, that Mrs. J. F. Hill had passed away about Sunday. Mrs. Hill, 89, received a broken hip in a fall several months ago. She was the former Mrs. Goode of Moody. She was a daughter of Mrs. T. R. Parks of Hamilton. Funeral services were held at Hamilton on Monday afternoon at Hamilton. Burial at Moody. Mrs. Hill died in death by her husband who was county clerk of county for several years. She was survived by a son, Emmitt Hill, a daughter, her sister, Mrs. ... grandchildren, nieces and nephews. Our sympathy is extended to the bereaved.

Man winter swooped in on Sunday night, bringing most disagreeable weather of season. By midnight Sunday evening was covered in ice and were breaking under the weight of the heavy coating. We only surveyed the tree damage around our own home, but considerable damage to trees was done here. A large limb on native elm tree in our back broke under its weight of ice at 11:30, snapping both the electric lines near their entrance to the meter box. So this scribe had to drag out an old kerosene oil lamp to prepare break-fast. Most of the trees around our home have some limbs broken.

An antenna at the Carl Ray Sellers home was damaged by the ice, and we feel sure there will be reports of much more damage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goynes of De Sota visited at their home here during the week end. The antenna at their home was toppled over recently by high winds.

Scott Blakley has been a patient in the Hico Hospital since Wednesday or Thursday of last week with a severe cold and virus. He was expected to return home Monday, but due to the severe weather, his stay was prolonged.

Mrs. D. E. Allison of Dublin visited in the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers and family Wednesday of last week. The writer also visited in the home in the afternoon.

The writer attended singing at the Evergreen Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, being accompanied from Hamilton by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Sumerford. After singing hours we visited with friends at the Hamilton nursing home. Sorry to report Mrs. Alford and Mrs.

Lorena Vick not feeling as well as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thornton and family of the Lanham community have moved to Secora, N. Mex. The Thornton children, Dennis, Fern, Judy, Tom, Roy and Ada Beth attended the Fairy school. Ada Beth is staying with Mrs. Pedro Jones until the close of this school year. We surely regret losing these fine people from the communities in which they served. They attended church at Agee and were quite active in the school programs and social gatherings. They will be greatly missed.

Miss Lera Jane Blakley spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Blakley. She was stranded by the severe winter weather and returned by bus on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bullard and Don had as dinner guests on Sunday, January 18, Mr. and Mrs. Drivwood Brooks and Cathy of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Guinn and Sammy of near Fairy. The occasion was in honor of Don's birthday, and also the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Bullard.

Mrs. C. M. Broyles visited recently with her niece, Mrs. Billy Whitt and family of Waco.

We were sorry to learn that Mrs. Jess Payne of Tolar is a patient in the Hico Hospital following surgery. Mrs. Payne is the mother of Haskell Payne of Lanham and formerly resided in the Lanham community. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

February birthdates which we have are E. L. Parks, Fort Worth, and his twin sister, Mrs. J. T. Leonard of Fairy, February 3; H. H. Wolfe of Fairy and Johnny Blaze of Hamilton, February 3; Mrs. Dewey Sellers of Hamilton, Feb. 10; Jerry Todd, Fairy, Feb. 27; Mrs. J. M. Anderson of San Angelo, February 20.

Seems the weatherman has a grudge at our rain gauge. We managed to get one about two years ago from a Hamilton merchant and set it up across the highway on the field fence. In only a few weeks the Mother's Day storm of that year blew the vial out and broke it. Since that time to get an accurate report on rains we would have to drive down to our tenant house to a gauge of our son-in-law. About two weeks ago we got another gauge from one of the Hico merchants and put it up on the northwest corner post of the back yard fence facing north. As the mist was beginning to freeze on the fences at dusk Sunday we thought of the vial in the gauge and told our husband at 10:30 we were going to go out and take the vial out for fear the freeze would break it. He assured us he didn't think it would break so we didn't get it. Then to our surprise the next morning when we looked out the kitchen window the large limb previously mentioned had fell right on top of that vial. Well, we knew our rain gauge was gone again. But later during the day we ventured up to the post from the outside of the yard, since broken electric lines were lying in the yard, and found the rain gauge had been layed flat, but seems as it went down the vial slid practically out of its holder and was hanging on by only one fourth inch and intact.

We had no school here Monday and Tuesday due to icy highways and danger of transporting pupils.

OFFER AND ACCEPTANCE COMPLETE CONTRACT

A contract isn't always a formal document, written and signed with pomp. We do not use "contracts" for our daily business with grocer, plumber, babysitter or newsboy. Contracts like these informal ones are seldom written.

The boy next door says he will cut your grass for a dollar, and you say "Go ahead."

You two have a contract—an offer and an acceptance.

Or take a "unilateral" contract—an offer by one party which anybody can accept.

One man may say "I'll give you five dollars to anybody who finds and returns my lost wallet." If you do, you can claim the five dollars. The man made an offer at large, and you accepted it by finding and returning the wallet. So there is a contract.

An auctioneer invites offers in the form of bids. The fall of the auctioneer's hammer signals his acceptance of one of the offers—and there's another contract.

Some mail order people try to make their "offers" look like your "acceptances"—but you need not accept unordered things sent you through the mail or in any other way.

Suppose a firm mailed an unordered book to you with a letter setting its price at $25—this is an offer to sell.

The letter might add that if you don't mail it back within ten days the firm would "assume" you had accepted it.

Have you accepted it? Not if you put the book on the shelf unread; or if you return it; or if you refuse to accept it from the mailman.

But if you read but did not pay for the book, or gave it away as a present, by your act you may have accepted the offer and may have to pay for the book.

It is hard to prove unwritten agreements; and the people may in good faith forget or misunderstand what they agreed to do.

When you make a business deal, make sure the offer, the acceptance, and every promise in your agreement are written down. If they aren't they're not in the contract.

No contract can stand up in court unless one party makes a firm offer and the other accepts it.

Game Warden Reports

By SWEDE JOHNSON

State Game Warden
Hamilton & Bosque Counties

With all the seasons closed except squirrel and rabbit in the hunting bracket and the fish and cold weather not cooperating too good, I guess that is a good time to go back to discussing some of the mammals of Texas.

But before I do I would like to remind all the landowners that still haven't sent in your shooting preserve record books that according to law they should be in not later than February 10th, and up to this date 36 books have been turned in, which leaves 36 books still out. These books are very important to the biologists so a complete record of the amount of deer killed and man hours spent in the field can all be recorded so an accurate record can be kept to show how our deer program is progressing in Bosque County.

For this week's mammal I think we will discuss the Coyote. His Latin name is Canis Latrans, meaning (Canis — dog; latrans, barking).

Description: A dog-like flesh-eater with prominent upright ears and long bushy tail. Upper parts buffy, intermingled with blackish and producing a grizzled appearance; back of ears buffy, lacking black tips. Total length, 48 inches; tail, 14-16 inches; hind foot 7.5 inches; weight 25-40 pounds.

Distribution. Western half of Texas. The coyote is as much a part of West Texas as the broad, semiarid brushy or grassy plains where it makes its home. Although hunted and killed from the earliest times, the animal has shown itself to be extremely cunning, so that in spite of gun, poison, traps and hounds, it persists in many parts of its original range. Perhaps most numerous in the Brush Country south of San Antonio, the coyote occurs commonly in the Trans-Pecos and in Central and Western Texas.

Food habit studies of the coyote have been perhaps as thorough as those done on any animal. The contents of more than 30,000 stomachs have been studied by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. These show that the animal will eat almost anything that is available, including game, livestock, birds, grass, berries, beans, poultry, melons, insects and carrion. A recent study of 1,697 stomachs taken in 10 western states in winter shows carrion, rabbits, and rodents far ahead of other food items; and sheep, goats, deer, birds and vegetable matter totalled but 15 per cent of all the food taken.

One of the reasons the coyote has persisted so successfully is that it bears from 3 to 14 young, averaging 5.7. The period of gestation is 63 days the same as in the wolf and the domestic dog. The earliest record of pregnancy available is January 20. Pups may be born as early as March 20. About 60 per cent of the young are born in April and a smaller percentage in May.

In many localities, for example in steer pastures and other places where sheep and goats are not held, the coyote is probably beneficial, helping to kill off surplus rabbits and rodents which damage the range, but in areas where sheep, goats and poultry are raised, the coyote cannot be permitted. In colder parts of the state (as in the Panhandle and the mountains) the prime pelt of the coyote is thick, furred and durable, but in the Brush Country its fur is of little value, averaging 50 cents in an ordinary season.

So in closing I would like to quote a little saying that might hold true in the case of the old coyote.

"There is so much good in the worst of us; And so much bad in the best of us; That it ill be-

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE—

Both Political Parties try To 'Pass Buck' on Spending

Washington, D. C.—Talk and speculation in Washington centers around the Government's spending program. In the weeks and months to come we will hear a lot of talk about Government economy, but few here expect any sizeable cut in spending. Both political parties concede there is little chance of reducing spending, but seemingly each hopes to place the blame on the other for outgo in excess of income. The President has submitted a balanced budget, but it is filled with "ifs".

Members of Congress want to provide everything their constituency requests, but they also favor economy. Most of us talk about economy in places far removed from our own State, and particularly our own Congressional District. When it gets down to home, our tone changes. The same is pretty much true of individuals and communities from North to South and East to West. For instance, the American Municipal Association, an organization of more than 1200 mayors and other top officials, recently meeting in Boston, urged more Federal funds for urban renewal, civil defense, water pollution control, local airports, depressed areas, training public health workers and other grant-in-aid benefits from the Federal Government.

In a similar meeting in 1958 only two mayors of the larger cities of the country were of the opinion that Federal grants should be decreased. All the others were for increases. At about the same time, out of 36 of the 48 governors in a meeting, only two were of the opinion that certain taxes should be relinquished by the Federal Government to the States for the purpose of reducing grants-in-aid. With these two forces—that is, the desire on the part of Congress to furnish more aid to local government, and local governments demanding more aid—it would not seem logical that Government spending would be reduced.

With National Defense needs taking up about 60 per cent of the entire $77 billion budget, this makes the choice of what to reduce considerably slimmer. Considering the fixed expenditures of the Federal Government, such as approximately $8 billion as interest in the Public Debt, there are not very many expenses to be reduced, even at best. This does not mean that the 60 per cent for defense expenditures is sacred, but it does mean there is less chance of reducing this big bite than any other area of spending.

Probably useless information, but interesting—A survey by the Baptist Free Press, the news agency of the Southern Baptist Convention, dated January 14, 1959, reveals that the new Congress (House of Representatives and the Senate), numbering 534 is composed of numerous religious affiliations. There are 90 Catholics, the largest single group. Second in number are man Catholics with 79. The third in number with 62 comes Presbyterian with 42. Episcopalians with 31. The of Christ has 4 in the House none in the Senate. Of the 79 list no religious faith. It is posed that a fairly sizeable of these are of the Jewish, but not listed.

Occupations in the cover just about every activity, but lawyers greatly predominate. The nature and of the Congress as a whole sometimes strange, but predictable. At times there almost complete unity on which have the appearanceing controversial, but at times there are about as inions as there are matters which seem routine beginning. At times it is and receptive body, and cold and calculating. It ably its own severest test of a member is he has done before or what going to do, but what is right now.

By and large, the 534 of the House of Representatives and United States Senate dedicated men, doing what lieve to be right for their and the people whom they resent.

USDA PLENTIFUL FOOD LIST

Potatoes and canned peas take the spotlight among foods on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Plentiful Foods list for February. Also expected to be plentiful in this area are apples, celery, cabbage, pork, milk and dairy products, eggs, turkey, peanuts and peanut products, walnuts, honey and sardines.

Both of the featured items are repeats from January. Potato crop estimates by the end of December were higher than previously set. A big pack of canned peas, plus a large carryover, made total supply of 45 million cases. Quality is the best in many years. Apples and walnuts also are repeat items. Pork prices already have dropped considerably. And as more of the huge fall pig crop is marketed in February, March and April, homemakers will find it to their advantage to serve pork often.

Milk production is picking up, seasonally, and egg producers have a huge laying flock that should provide abundant eggs. Supplies of all sizes of turkey are expected to be plentiful, but particularly the smaller consumer sizes. California sardines are abundant after several years of short supply. Large acreages of winter celery and cabbage indicate substantial supplies of these items. Honey stocks were replenished generously by last year's good crop.

You get a lot of food value at low cost in dry beans and peas. A pound of dry beans, for example, will provide seven to nine hearty servings.

Beans and peas go well with meat and other foods. They are easy to store and use. With different seasonings, they make an almost endless variety of tasty dishes. Look at the food values they offer. Rich in carbohydrate content, which your body uses for energy, they also contain some vitamin B, and are good sources of calcium and iron. And along with all of this, they provide useful protein.

To get the most good from the bean family foods, plan to serve with some grain food, like bread, or some meat, cheese or other animal protein. Baked beans with brown bread, pork and beans, and chili con carne are popular flavor combinations. Save time, if necessary, by using a pressure cooker to cook dried beans or peas.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

This will likely go down as one of your favorite recipes.

FAITHFUL MOMENT IN A CHILD'S DAY

You remember being in this picture yourself, years ago—don't you?

More than once, you stood with your friends . . . you prayed together for a classmate, for the boys in service, for our country's welfare.

Perhaps not more than two or three of you belonged to the same church, congregation, or synagogue. But you had this in common. You all knew how to pray to God.

That habit of prayer wasn't taught in school or practiced only in your home. You were taken to church or synagogue every week. Your parents knew their duty to help you find a Faith to live by.

And now it's your turn—to fulfill the same obligation to your children. Start this week, worshipping together.

HOW WILL YOU HAVE YOUR CHICKEN

the carcass cut into either 10 or 12 pieces, with no significant preference between the two. This is probably because many housewives either do not know how to cut up a frying chicken or else have no desire to do so.
In the test for wrap preference, groups of poultry carcasses cut into six pieces were packed in pulp-board trays and wrapped in clear, yellow or red cellophane or in wrapping paper with an exterior aluminum finish. Eighty-three per cent of those expressing a choice took the transparent cellophane everwrap now commonly used. Only 8 per cent expressed a choice for the aluminum wrapped pack- age, probably because it would give better protection if the poultry were to be held frozen before consumption.
Concerning the tests for skin pigmentation or color, it is interesting to note that a similar survey conducted in Baltimore, Maryland, revealed that most consumers there preferred either a very light or very dark pigmented carcass. It is possible that the differences can be explained on the basis of regional preferences, but further work is underway to determine some of the factors consumers associate with a white or yellow skin.
Texas is a chicken-raising and chicken-eating state. More than two million broiling or frying chickens are bought by Texas consumers each week and the popularity of the budget-wise bird is ever-increasing.
To determine just what sort of bird the Texas fryer buyer is looking for when he or she goes shopping, the Texas State Fair in Dallas was the site for comprehensive consumer preference tests on certain poultry products.
The tests, conducted among 2,000 men and women attending the State Fair, were directed by personnel from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station of Texas A & M College.
Items on which Fair visitors were asked to indicate their choice included: Skin "color"--light, medium or dark yellow; method of pre-cutting chickens--into 6 pieces (as is commonly done), 10 or 13 pieces; type of wrapping for pre-packaged birds--conventional clear cellophane, colored cellophane or aluminum wrap.
Conclusions showed that most of those tested (57 per cent of men, 55 per cent of women) preferred a medium yellow skin color for broiler chickens although a considerable number preferred a dark yellow color and very few (13 per cent of men, 15 per cent of women) chose a light yellow, almost white, skin color.
Although most poultry offered for sale in Texas stores is packaged with the carcass cut into 6 pieces, most consumers selected

It is possible that the differences can be explained on the basis of regional preferences, but further work is underway to determine some of the factors consumers associate with a white or yellow skin.

COUNTY AGENT REPORTS

By E. R. LAWRENCE

Sometimes there are people who work through the county selling products that are claimed to give unheard of results. Quite often the product being sold is feed, seed or some kind of medication.

I still believe that buying from your local dealer or merchant is the better policy over the long run. Your local dealer has set up a business and he expects to stay in it or he wouldn't have gone into it. He sells products that he believes in and will back.

If someone calls at your place with a "red hot" deal that you are skeptical of, why not take time to go to your local merchant and talk the matter over with him. He will advise you to the best of his ability.

The 1959 Farmers Tax Guide has this statement in it: "If at least two-thirds of your gross income is from farming and your tax year starts January 1, you have two choices.

You may either: 1. File your return and pay the tax on or before February 15, 1959; or 2. File an estimate of your tax and pay this amount by January 15, 1959, then file your return and pay the balance due by April 15.

If No. 2 does not apply to you, then you have until February 15 to pay your tax.

I still have a few copies of the Farmers Tax Guide. They are free and if you need one, pick one up from my office. If I'm not in, they are on the table by my typewriter.

Raymond Krueger of Aitman has built a new cattle working chute on his place, along with some new pens. Good cattle working pens and other equipment are time and labor savers.

Frank Bonner of near Fairy has secured plans put out by the College and is getting ready to construct some new pens, etc., on his place.

There will be a meeting of cotton growers of the Fairy community Monday night, February 9, at the Fairy school. The meeting will start at 7:30.

Cotton plans A and B will be discussed. Cotton growers in the Fairy area are invited to attend.
