Tigers Face Stiff Test Tonight

Strong Blanket Team Will Furnish Opposition

It will be Tigers vs. Tigers tonight, Friday, when the Hico eleven and Blanket team get together at the local stadium.

People who are in the know say that Hico's opponent for tonight, Blanket, is "loaded" which means that the locals will have to pull out every trick in the bag if they hope to defeat the team which has been victorious in every previous meeting with the Tigers.

Game time will be at 8 o'clock. Blanket has won all five previous encounters with Hico, and like the Tigers, they are undefeated in play so far this year. Last week they defeated a strong May team 8-0.

The Blanket aggregation will reportedly field a team composed of 10 starters from the squad that whipped the locals 14-6 at Blanket last year. They will have six two-year lettermen, one three-year letterman, one squadman, and three who have each lettered one year in the starting lineup.

All members of the thin Tiger team are in good physical condition for the game, with the exception of Neil Ellis, who will be limited to offensive duty only. He has a leg injury received in last week's contest. Others on the team are termed "ready" by Coach Barnett. The squad gained a player this week when W. A. Huckabee reported back to the team. He had quit the squad a week earlier to take employment.

Probable starting lineups for the two teams tonight are as follows:

HICO TIGERS

BLANKET TIGERS

Jim Edgar and Wayne Edgar, ends; Harold Eoff and Clifford Eoff, tackles; Melvin Liss and Jimmy Ryan, guards; Jerry Hinds, center; Billy Jack Shaw, quarterback; Robert Baker, fullback; Jim Wilson and Jim Switzer, halfbacks.

Mr. Leach has seen many changes in the gasoline industry. When he began his operations gasoline sold for ten cents a gallon, and manually operated gasoline pumps were used rather than the modern electric pumps which now dispense the product.

A 25-year plaque and pin were recently presented to Mr. Leach by Texas Company officials for his association with the company. Inscription on the plaque read "Presented to Willard Leach for continuous association in the sales of Texaco Products since 1934."

Hico and Hamilton Baptist Ministers Return from Trip

Rev. George Harris, pastor of Hico First Baptist Church, and Rev. Douglas Brown, pastor of First Baptist Church in Hamilton, arrived home last Thursday after a tour through the state of Michigan. The two pastors were on a mission representing the Hamilton County Baptist Association.

Their purpose was to investigate the possibilities of starting a new church at some place in that area.

East Lansing, Mich., was the main interest of the two pastors. It is a city of 30,000 people, the home of Michigan State University, which has an enrollment of 20,000 students, and the home of Fisher Body Corporation. Many government officials reside there.

There is approximately 45 Baptist families in East Lansing interested in this new work. At the present time there is no Baptist church here.

This mission effort is a part of 30,000 new churches which will be organized by 1964. Bro. Harris and Bro. Brown took movies of their trip, and plan to show them at the Annual Associational Meeting, October 5, at Hamilton, when Bro.

Local Water Dept. Head Awarded Grade C Certificate for Skill

State health authorities have awarded W. R. Hampton of Hico a Grade C Certificate of competency in recognition of his skill and knowledge of sewerage plant operation.

The certificate was awarded under Texas' general sanitation law that municipal sewerage plants be under the supervision of an operator who has proved his knowledge of the job and its public health implications in a written examination and has been certified by the Texas State Department of Health.

A 10-year employee of the local sewerage plant, Hampton's newly won certificate will be valid for three years. After meeting certain requirements in experience and training he will be eligible to try for higher certification.

Grade C certification requires a minimum of one year of experience in sewerage plant operation, plus 40 "credits" earned by attendance at annual district and state water works short schools sponsored by the Department of Health, the engineering extension service of Texas A & M, and the Texas Water and Sewerage Works Association.

more than you think. That later if you're thinking of running for an elective office...

...years, deadline for can... to file for a place on the primary ballot was Monday in May.

...law changes passed by the Texas Legislature the deadline date up to May 1. The first primary will be in May.

...for the first time in 1960, officials will face a new kind of life. A constitutional amendment adopted by the people...

...bars them from running another office while holding present office, if it has more than one year to run.

...means that district judges, attorneys, county judges, all of whom have four-year terms can't run for some state office in their "off" year. They will resign first.

...and especially people registered in Hamilton County, will be asked to vote in 1960. Tax time will roll around in May, so why not pay those taxes and get in on the fun year. A lot of activity will be between the final filing and the election in May, so don't get caught without that poll receipt.

...Neel comes in for his "ribbing" from local people. He is usually "on himself."

...for instance this one he told on himself recently.

...representative from the manufacturing industry met the Hico Civic Club recently, showed an interesting film, and leaving told members to be sure to ask questions about problems they might have with...

...Neel asked the man how to clean from growing between the cracks in his sidewalk. The man told him to first clean the grass from the area, and then pour gasoline on the cracks, and that would clean the grass from growing.

...Neel went home late that night, thoroughly cleaned the grass from the concrete.

RARE FIND—Ed Bulman, who pursues a hobby of collecting Indian relics, made the rare discovery of the above pictured mummy last week while on a trip to Colorado. The mummy, in a rare state of preservation, could possibly be 7,000 years old. Mr. Bulman found the mummy while on an expedition near Delta, Colo., with a member of the Colorado Archaeology Society.

Mummy Discovered by Local Man Could be 7,000 Years Old

Meet Hiawatha! As the song goes, Hiawatha is a wooden Indian, but in this case she is a well-preserved mummy which could possibly be 7,000 years old.

Ed Bulman, who is a member of the Texas Archaeology Society made the rare discovery while on a trip to Colorado last week.

Along with the mummy was buried a beaver pelt which was filling with the Indian many years ago.

Bulman has given the Texas Historical Society permission to take the mummy to Austin for study and display.

Bulman made the rare find in the Western part of Colorado, near Delta, where he and Ralph Cross, a member of the Colorado Society, had gone in search of arrow points.

They hiked into the area where the find was made, and Bulman stated that it took him more than half a day to hike out over the rough terrain with the mummy.

He said that he was searching in a canyon when he discovered the mummy.

The corn which was found was described by Bulman as being the oldest strain in the world. The ears are about five inches long, and look much like present day popcorn. Unlike present day strains the corn grew from a stem.

As to the age of the "thing", Bulman would not venture a guess, but an arrow point found nearby dates back to 3,000 to 5,000 B.C.

The mummy when found was lying on a bear skin rug, and was wrapped in deer hide. The corn pouch, and the ladies' (Bulman assumes that it is a lady due to the small size) Mano, which were used for grinding stones were also in the burial place. As the legend goes, Indians sent their dead to the happy hunting grounds with sufficient food.

The arrow point found nearby belonged to a tribe which became extinct about 500 A.D. They were found mostly in the lower Rio Grande area, and no explanation is available as to how the point got to the Colorado area. Bulman is hoping that the study will reveal the age and other information about the Indian.

The Beaver pelt shown here filled with corn was also found with the mummy in the accompanying photo. The corn is reputed to be the oldest strain in the world.

The mummy is in such a state of preservation that a small amount of very black hair is still intact on its head. Skin and fingernails are still intact on one hand, as they are on a foot. One foot is completely missing.

Before burial the body had been wrapped in deer skin, and a blanket which had been woven from rabbit fur. A cactus line had been used to draw the feet under the body, which is still intact.

Mr. Bulman has pursued the hobby since 1938, and has one of the most complete collections of Indian relics in the state.

Richardson carried Mr. Stephens to the Stephenville hospital Saturday for a physical check-up. He spent a few days in the hospital before being sent home due to a heart attack.

Mrs. W. E. Goynes, president of DeSota, spent the week end at their home here. In a short conversation with them we learned that only the home economics and agriculture building of the DeSota school was damaged by fire early last week when two 9-year-old boys set fire to the building. Mrs. Goynes, Irvin Jones and son, Junior Jones, are members of the faculty there.

The name of Mrs. Nina Dutton's mother, who passed away at Mrs. Dutton's home in Hamilton on September 7 should have been Mrs. Esther McWhorter. She was 76 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lattie of Oklahoma City spent the week end at Hico with her sister, Mrs. Willie Baldwin and visited Friday at the Hamilton rest home with his mother, Mrs. Brittle Little. They were Fairy visitors a short while Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Porterfield and son, Billy Marvin returned home last Friday from Beaumont, California where he conducted a series of services at the Church of Christ during the previous week.

The writer attended singing at Laund Valley Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon and after singing hours visited at the Hamilton rest home. Sorry to report Mr. Seay, who stays at the home with his wife, who is a semi-invalid had received a broken leg and was in the Hamilton hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Todd enjoyed a visit from all of their children and their families during the week end, who came especially to see Horace Todd of Honolulu, Hawaii who had not been here in four years. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Todd and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Todd Jr. and family and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Todd and family, all of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Todd and child of Midland; Mrs. Lola May Thompson and two children of Amarillo; Mrs. Thursa Pistone and daughter of Boston, Mass.; and Mr. and Mrs. Buster Moore and family of Hico. On Sunday all were dinner guests at the Buster Moore home. There were 23 present. Horace brought films of much of the beautiful scenery and activities in the Hawaiian Islands and showed these Saturday night. All enjoyed them very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Todd of Iredell visited a while Saturday night in the home of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Todd.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McCoy of near Fairy will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary with open house at their home southwest of Fairy on Sunday, Sept. 27, from 2 until 5 p.m. A cordial invitation is extended to all their friends to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Musick and family of near Hamilton attended church here Sunday at the Church of Christ. Also a daughter of the Dave Brunsons of Morgan and her husband. Sorry we were unable to secure her name and place of residence.

Mrs. Scott Blakley and Lera Jane were in Fort Worth Tuesday where Lera Jane enrolled at TCU for the fall semester, which opened Wednesday.

While here during the week end W. E. Goynes handed us $5.00 for the Fairy Cemetery, for which we thank him very much.

We worked some at the cemetery last week, completing the mowing of the east section, and also doing quite a bit of clean-up work on grass and weeds left by visitors who had worked their lots or graves. We appreciate the help of these visitors from time to time and since we are unable to leave the wheelbarrow and other tools there they have no way to take the grass to the dump piles. Mowing was resumed on the west and center sections Monday afternoon which we hope to complete in a few days, weather permitting. We would appreciate the help of others who do not contribute to the cemetery fund in getting their lots cleaned up, which will help us to have a more complete clean-up job when the mowing is finished.

It seems this could have been a double crop year on many products, had the crop been left and given time to develop. Most maize fields were almost in full head when the stalks were shredded.

Our husband brought in some second crop peaches which were raised in the De Leon area. They ranged in size from a quarter to half dollar, and since the seeds were very small they turned out a fair yield of the fruit.

The writer was in Hico Tuesday to attend funeral services for Mr. Eddie Williams. The large number in attendance and bountiful floral offering bore tribute to the memory of this good man.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford Miller and Ronald of Fort Worth visited during the week end with her mother and brother, Mrs. M. E. Paks and Audie.

years ago a writer named Spence wrote: "There is a principle which bars against all information, which bars against all argument and which binds to keep a man in everlasting ignorance. That principle is condemnation before investigation."

Years pass but people change very little. We are today very close kin to the stiff and superstitious ancestors who burned to death innocent people thought to be witches. Though in the "enlightened" age, we still have many parents who deny their sick children the help that is available to them through modern hygienic methods.

Do you not feel that you are alone with your aversions but you realize the truth you can act upon it and free yourself of your children of perpetual bad health.

The following is an actual case taken from our clinic files: The mother of a five year old boy brought him in for a check-up. She said, "Dr. Walker, I'm sure grateful for my son's return to health. I just shudder when I compare last winter with this year. He has been free of colds and fever all winter and has been the wettest winter we have had for many years. I don't think he would have made it through going like he was when we first came to you. The sick certainly do get well here." Enter before last he became our patient. He now looks well and healthy.

Office Hours: Tuesday and Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Teacher, I know!

Proper study light at home means a better student at school

Good light at the study table aids concentration, combats eye fatigue, makes home study hours more productive. In most instances a good table lamp equipped with a 150-watt bulb will provide the right amount of light for easy seeing. The lamp should be tall enough to spread light over the work area and properly shaded to conceal the light source from the eyes. A diffusing bowl is recommended to prevent glare. If the lamp has no diffusing bowl, a 150-watt white indirect bulb may be substituted. It has its own built-in diffusor.

Why a Soil Conservation Dist.

From Hamilton-Coryell Soil Conservation District

It is a generally accepted fact that on this earth where, for natural reasons, the vast majority of people want to remain as long as possible, only three sources of wealth exist. They are deep sea fishing, mining (this includes oil wells), and agriculture. We are too far from the sea to benefit from deep sea fishing and all prior efforts to get oil production in this area have failed or at most have had little effect as a source of income. This leaves us with only one dependable source of wealth—agriculture.

Agriculture as a source of wealth includes all crop lands as well as all grazing land. Through industry, the American people have added greatly to the value of primary products of mining and agriculture but the sources of wealth remain the same. If we deplete the source the whole economy will perish. No steel, no automobiles; no cotton, no shirts; no cattle, no beef; and so on and so on.

According to statistics less than one family has to make a living for themselves and in addition produce food and clothing for six other families. Quite an undertaking.

Land and water are two indispensable elements in the production of food and fiber. The amount of production depends entirely on how the land is used. The top soil, the productive part of the land, is shallow and if exposed to severe rainstorms and floods or high winds soon disappears. One authority has stated that for each ton of fertility of the soil that is required to grow crops in Texas four hundred tons go down stream in floods to the Gulf of Mexico. If this is true the loss is tremendous, and will ultimately destroy the source of food and fiber.

Americans live better than any other people in the world. However, if the sources of wealth are depleted or destroyed we will not continue to enjoy this high standard of living.

This has been recognized by both Federal and State Governments. Laws have been enacted by both to provide assistance in conservation of all natural resources and far-sighted agricultural leaders in this area were quick to recognize the problem of conservation and formed the Hamilton-Coryell Soil Conservation District. This District was the third to be chartered by the State of Texas, and is an indication of the alertness of farmers and ranchers in these counties.

The District is governed by a Board of Supervisors consisting of five farmers and ranchers, elected by farmers and ranchers. The District is divided into five zones and a Supervisor lives in each zone. The Board of Supervisors make the decisions on all matters of policy concerning conservation. The Federal Government and the State Government lend aid and assistance but all authority for operations is vested strictly in the Board of Supervisors who are your neighbors. They know what is needed to conserve the soil and formulate programs accordingly, and work without pay.

Since the District was organized many millions of dollars have been added to land values in this district through construction of field terraces, farm ponds, waterways, pasture improvement and the adoption of many other conservation measures that result in wise use of the land.

Then why a Soil Conservation District? It is for the expressed purpose of maintaining the productivity of the land and to perpetuate the high standard of living so richly enjoyed by all.

Home Demonstration Agent

Since this is my first column, and many of you have not met maybe I had better begin by explaining that Hamilton County has a new Home Demonstration Agent as of September 1. This has really been an exciting week for me. I have met more nice people, and that is one of the nicest things that could happen to anyone.

However, I am looking forward to meeting all of the rest of you who live in the county. Many of the ladies who belong to Home Demonstration Clubs in this county have been in my office, and I surely appreciate your coming by. Also I have met quite a few 4-H Club girls as I visited their school this past week.

For you ladies that belong to the Hamilton County Home Demonstration Council, remember that the Council will meet this coming Monday, September 21, at 1:30 in the REA building in Hamilton. I hope that each of you will make a special effort to attend this meeting as I am eager to meet each of you.

— H R F —
Since school has started it is very important that we remember to feed our family nutritious meals. Breakfast is very essential if we are to get all of the basic requirements of food during the day. It has been proven that children, and adults, who begin the day with a good breakfast can do better work. I guess that when most of us think of breakfast we think of eggs. It is true, according to the Texas Food Standard, that each of us needs at least one egg a day. Whether we eat this egg for breakfast or some other meal during the day here is some information that may prove helpful to you if you buy eggs at the market.

Would you like to be more certain about what kind of eggs you are getting at the store without having to break the shell to find out? Then you might solve this problem by reading the egg carton label.

Labels on egg cartons are just as important to us as the labels on other articles that we buy. The Texas Egg Law requires that egg cartons give the quality of the eggs, the weight of the eggs, and the name of the packer. It also says that eggs labeled "fresh" must be at least Grade A or better.

Egg quality is given in letters starting with AA, A and on down to B and C. The weights are given in words which describe the size of the eggs. Jumbo is the largest. Next comes Extra Large, then Large, Medium, Small, and last, and least too, are Peepees.

Everyone of these words have a definite meaning to you the buyer. If you would like more information, come by the County Extension office in Hamilton and we would be glad to discuss this with you.

Hospital rates have risen considerably in recent years, like most everything else. But now, mother and baby stay only three to five days instead of ten. War is not for new medical discoveries and techniques that get mothers home sooner, the hospital bill would be twice as high.

Quail Plant Made In Lake Whitney Area

By EARL GOLDING
Field and Stream Columnist, Waco News-Tribune

MORGAN—We've been tromping over a quail hotbed up here, in the wild country adjoining the upper reaches of Lake Whitney. It is an area which could well produce the finest hunting in Texas when the bobwhite season opens this winter . . . and it is yours for the asking.

You won't have to ask permission to get hunting rights. There is no lease fee. All you'll have to do is drive up, let the pointers out, and get set . . . because the quail are here.

There's a story about this, which is sort of amazing.

The government land, bordering on Lake Whitney, stretches from 520 to 573 feet, elevation. In places this buffer zone, between the lake and privately-owned farms and ranches, is as much as three miles in width. Well, quail from the Game and Fish-operated hatchery near Tyler are being released here, making for what amounts to be a public hunting area. It promises to be almost unequalled for hunting, once the season gets underway.

This week, we were with game wardens Swede Johnson of Meridian and Louis Clymer of Whitney, as they supervised the release of another 1,000 young hatchery-raised bobs. Previously, they had turned loose 3,000 birds, making 4,000 so far this year. In all probability, another 1,000 or 2,000 will be turned loose in the area by early September.

The birds have been scattered from Kimball Bend to Plowman Creek to Raymond Creek to Mesquite Creek.

It is beautiful quail habitat . . . a 22-mile stretch of land which hasn't been under cultivation for over a decade. It is grown up in high grass, underbrush, briars, bushes. It has an abundance of natural food for the bobs; and proof of its suitability as their home comes from a heavy population of native quail already there.

On a number of occasions, we saw native bobs in the areas where we were turning the hatchery birds loose.

'More Quail Than in 30 Years'

Says Swede Johnson:

"I've talked to lots of oldtimers and they tell me there are more quail this year than they've seen in 30 years. In fact, one old man, who is 70, told me the other day, he'd never seen as many quail around here as we have now."

Tuesday, Clymer, Hal Teague, and Tommy Waters of Whitney met us at Kopperl with two pickups, each containing 25 crates of bobs. Each crate held 20 young quail, from five to six weeks old, of equal sex.

Clymer, assisted by brothers Rufus and Beryl Johnson of Kopperl, released the birds in one area and we went with warden Johnson, assisted by Teague, Waters, and young Darrell Vinson of Morgan to release ours.

Swede's birds were planted on an 800-acre plot . . . 500 of them.

It figures up to a thickly-populated area, especially when you throw in the native bobs already there before Swede and his crew made this plant.

Louis Clymer, who is a dedicated quail hunter, believes in the quail hatchery program set in motion a few years ago by the Game and Fish Commission. For a number of years, Clymer has kept records on the hatchery birds he has released, and he has been encouraged more and more that the program is worth its expense.

Last year, in all, Clymer released 3,100 hatchery quail. From these, hunters returned 600 bands. It is a return of at least 15 percent, from the original plant.

"And it is as good a return as we can expect from wild birds," Clymer says.

All Hunters Aren't Sportsmen

These fellows releasing these birds up here deserve a lot of thanks, from quail hunters who'll be enjoying excellent shooting once the season gets underway.

Some Changes Listed in County Game Laws

By SWEDE JOHNSON

State Game Warden
Hamilton & Bosque Counties

My editors for whom I write this column might think I am letting too much grass grow under my feet from one column to the next but I can truthfully say that I have been extremely busy with the start of this fall hunting season.

However the dove season started off with a bang like they all do, but it hasn't produced the birds that it has in the past. The first day I checked 46 hunters with 137 birds and you wouldn't call this too good, but still it could have been worse.

I do have a change or two to mention for hunting season this year and one of them is that the quail possession limit will be 36 instead of 24 which we had last year. The bag limit will still be the same which will allow you 12 quail a day and not more than 36 in possession.

For Hamilton County deer season will run like this: Nov. 16 to December 5, both days inclusive. The bag limit shall be one buck deer with hardened antlers protruding through the skin. Please note that this year you will be able to take a buck deer with hardened antlers protruding through the skin, which means you will be able to take and kill a buck which was commonly called a spike deer. This will help do away with a lot of wasted deer which in the past were killed and left in the field.

Also in Hamilton County there will be no closed season on squirrels but there will be a bag limit and possession limit of 10 per day and 20 in possession. Which will help curb the mass carrying off of squirrels which has been a practice in the past from outside hunters coming in the county and taking as many as 200,000 at one time.

Fishing regulations have not been changed too much except that seining and netting has been abolished in the county, with the exception of a 20-foot minnow seine for the purpose of taking rough fish for bait only.

And the length of black bass has been removed but the bag limit is the same which is 15. The length limit was formerly 7 inches. Possession of black bass is 30.

Until next time, good hunting and fishing.

SWEDE.

(All Photos by Earl Golding)

OUT THEY COME—Six-week-old quail, raised at hatchery near Tyler, come out of crate to their new home in the brush country. Birds were planted in crates of 20, 10 of each sex. Louis Clymer, Whitney warden, says his experience with pen-raised quail has been very encouraging. So far, 4,000 quail have been released in a 22-mile strip on the upper part of the lake.

WATERING—Darrell Vinson, well known in and Morgan, uses a split tire converted into a watering can for hatchery-raised quail planted in excellent brush country which hasn't been under cultivation in a decade and was turned over to the government. Feed left for the quail, until they can adjust to life in the wild.

Because there's a lot of work to it.

Feed and water is left for each 20-bird plant. Hunters living in the areas go back, at intervals, and feed and water again, until the hatchery birds became accustomed to making a living on their own.

Just how long this takes, say Clymer and Johnson, varies.

Some birds adapt to their new home, in the brush, quickly and rustle on their own. They get wild in a hurry, learn to watch out for man and beast as gander signs.

Others, used to the easy living furnished at the Tyler Hatchery, don't get smart in a hurry.

A week or two after being released, they can still be spotted, walking trustingly down the middle of a country lane or road.

The morality rate among hatchery-raised quail, released in the countryside, is high.

Yet so is it high among birds hatched in the wilds.

Swede Johnson says it has definitely been established that birds from the hatchery will reproduce, in the wild.

So this big planting program up here will not only mean a boost for this year's hunting, but a boost for the quail crop of the future.

Swede says he puts out some birds which he calls "birds for the state," and others which he calls "birds for the hunters."

The birds for the state he plants in areas so thick and thorny and rough that he figures chances are good hunters will never get 'em.

It can be pointed out that all people aren't sportsmen.

Tuesday, surveying the 22-mile stretch of government land which has been the recipient of 4,000 birds now, we found freshly-fired shotgun shells alongside a sandy road on two occasions.

But poaching isn't advised.

At least one case has already been made against a man who couldn't wait until the season opened.

And all along this strip of quail haven, there are people who have helped put the young birds out. They have fed them, and watered them, and they are looking to a wonderful season of shooting in the winter.

They are also keeping a watch, to make sure some can't-wait game hog with a gun doesn't try to make all of this preparation go down the drain.

When the season opens, we plan to come back. We want to see how the birds react, when nailed down by a pointer. And we want to see just how many covies can be stirred up.

It promises to be a lot of fun.

NEEDED: PUBLIC RELATIONS IN AGRICULTURE

Agriculture's greatest need today is understanding.

This means understanding among those directly engaged in farming and ranching; understanding by those who provide services and materials to the farms and ranches; understanding by those who transport, process and distribute the plant and animal products coming from farms and ranches; and above all, understanding among the great majority of our people who live in towns and cities and who are the principal consumers of the products of agricultural industries.

Those of us engaged in agricultural endeavors have tended to take for granted that people generally and naturally understand their basic dependence on agriculture for food, feed and fiber. In recent years we have been rudely awakened, in cotton for instance, by the advent of synthetics.

American agriculture is thus being forced to become public relations conscious. We now must seek consumer acceptance not only of our products, but of our services, of our policies and of our true place in the total economy of the nation and the world.

Here are several avenues of attack on public relations for agriculture:

1. Correction of the misconceptions the average urbanite has about us; especially let them understand their foods, feeds and fibers are not expensive, and producers, processors and distributors are not an will not be "rolling in wealth" at the expense of food consumers.

2. Seek to reverse the rising trend of "going to Washington" for funds or legislation on state and local agricultural problems, in the belief that it costs us less. We positively must accept more responsibility at state and local levels.

3. Clearing up the confusion between politically designed and directed policies relating to the "farm problem" on the one hand and the necessity for even stronger programs of research and education in agriculture.

4. Modern and future agriculture may merit a new tag—one that may overcome the popular concept that agriculture and farming are synonymous.

We must tell the great story of modern agriculture again and again to the general public. It's dynamic and it's basic. Everybody benefits.

We need to mobilize all of our resources promptly back of an effective public relations program.

Hog Price Drop Emphasizes Need for Breeding Change

The drop in hog prices emphasizes the need for swine producers to speed up their shift to meat-type hogs. Even with lower prices, T. D. Tanksley, Jr., extension animal husbandman, says that producers of more desirable types, in many instances, are getting market premiums for their animals.

As an aid to registered breeders, the Animal Husbandry Department of Texas A & M College, cooperating with Texas Swine Breeders Association, will again conduct a fall boar test. According to Tanksley, the test is designed to find the hogs which will make fast, efficient gains and produce meaty, well-muscled carcasses on a self-fed grain and supplement.

As a further aid to both purebred and commercial hog producers, the most desirable boars, selected on the basis of their performance in the fall tests, will be sold at auction at College Station on the evening of April 4, 1960. The sale will again be a feature of the annual Texas Swine Short Course, says Tanksley.

An entry in the test will consist of two boar pigs and two other pigs from the same litter. The two other pigs will be slaughtered at the end of the test and the information gained from the carcass evaluation will be used to help determine the rating of the breeding animals from the litter. These two animals may be two barrows, two gilts or a barrow and gilt.

Pigs should be delivered to the test station when 56.63 days of age and be from a litter farrowed between August 1 and September 30, 1959. They will be weighed and placed on official test when 68 days of age. The pigs making up an entry must come from a litter of eight or more weaned pigs. Tanksley says facilities at A & M are available for testing 30 groups and entries will be accepted on a first come basis until October 5. The specialist adds that local county agents have complete details on the program and suggest that interested swine breeders check with the agent if more information is desired.

For the first time a fall boar test will be conducted at West Texas State College, Canyon. Rules and regulations for this test are the same as those at A & M, Tanksley said.

Tigers Take Second Win of Season Over Boyd 16-12

Revenge is sweet! Remembering the 40-0 pasting received at the hands of Boyd last year, the Hico Tigers went out last Friday night and got revenge for the one-sided score by posting a 16-12 win over Boyd for their second victory in as many starts.

The game, which was played at the local stadium before a large gathering of fans, was an offensive struggle between the two teams, with Hico's ability to score on the extra point tries the deciding factor. Hico had the edge in nearly every department in the statistic column.

Hico scored first early in the quarter when Doyle Crews raced 12 yards into the end zone, and then ran for the extra points to give the Tigers an 8-0 lead. Boyd bounced back in the same period to tally a TD, but their point-after attempt failed and Hico still owned an 8-6 lead at halftime.

The third period went scoreless, with both teams adding another tally in the final period. Hico's score came on a 15-yard pass play from Crews to Mike Lackey, and Boyd got their other tally on an 85-yard runback of a kickoff.

The Tigers, a much improved ball club over their first-game performance, were consistently able to get the big yardage when most needed. Crews, Ellis, Boone and Alan Hedges all played an excellent game in the backfield, and Hedges called an exceptionally good game.

In the line, Royce Samford, James Jordan, Mark McElroy, the Lackey twins, Pat and Mike, Lee

Blue, Fielden Haley, and others who saw action turned in a fine game.

Hico started strong after the opening kickoff, with Neil Ellis intercepting a Boyd pass shortly after the game got underway. However the Tigers made it only to the 25 yard line before losing possession. Hico's first real scoring chance was set up late in the first period when Pat Lackey recovered a Boyd fumble at the 11-yard line. Ellis lost a yard back to the 12, from where Crews took a reverse handoff and scampered into the end zone for the first tally of the game. The points were good.

Not to be outdone, the visitors took the ensuing kickoff and marched 59 yards for their first touchdown. Their point try was no good, and Hico led 8-6 at halftime.

The most serious threat of the third period was by Hico when they worked down to the Boyd 11 before a pass interception killed the drive. This was the only threat of the period by either team.

Mike Lackey recovered a Boyd fumble early in the final stanza to set up Hico's second counter of the night. Hico took possession at the Boyd 37. In the series before the Hico score, fans witnessed two fifteen-yard penalties before the Tigers finally counted. The first penalty was against Boyd, which covered half the distance to the goal line, or to the 11, for unsportsmanship conduct. Hico worked almost to the goal line, and then drew a 15-yarder back to the 13. From this point, Crews took the ball, rolled out far to the right, and threw to Mike Lackey who was all alone in the end zone. Hedges passed to Shelly Hooper for the two extra points which gave Hico a 16-6 lead and ended their scoring for the night.

On the kickoff following the TD, Jackie Teel of Boyd raced 85 yards for their final tally, bring the score to 16-12 which ended the game.

People who are interested in the operations of Hico Public Schools will certainly be interested in the budget hearing slated next Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Patrons are invited by the local board to be present at the hearing, and they will learn much about how the school is operated, financially.

Some people tell us that our printing prices are too high. And maybe they are right. But here is an example of our prices being maybe a little too cheap.

We figured a job this week, and after we told the party how much it would cost, he said, "Are you sure you can do the job for that? They wanted $—— in Fort Worth." Our price was exactly $12.00 per unit cheaper, and when you consider that the "city folks" you'll see that we were def. the "city folks." Naturally we don't have you who got the job.

IT HAPPENED HERE OR NEAR—

Children Change Names

By E. E. DAWSON

Here is a story that came to me that may not convince you of its veracity. It may be so, though it does not sound so true in all particulars. Use your judgment in deciding the issue.

In a large farming area lived Earnest Field, a young man well versed in the affairs of the farm. In the same community was Orine Patch, a quite comely Miss like-wise of farm residence all of her life. Earnest Field fell in love with Orine Patch and she in the same manner fell in love with young Mr. Field. Then they married and settled in their own home on their farm.

When they were expecting an heir, Earnest said to his wife one day, "Honey, we are farm folks and have spent all of our lives here on the farm and will live the rest of our days here. I just don't believe farm folks are very wise in naming their kids as they do. Think of it: they name girls for legendary women of fame, like Cleopatra and other famous women. Why not start a movement of naming kids after farm products and so emphasize the farm and what it produces?" "Like what," asked his wife, "Well, we raise corn and cotton and oats and wheat and rye and alfalfa and such things. Why not name the kids for what we produce?" "Sounds reasonable," responded his mate.

The baby came in due season. Now what to name the small piece of humanity was their problem. "You got a name, Earnest?" inquired Orine. "Well, we grow lots of corn. Why not name him Corny?" said Earnest. "Well, I guess—" and Orine hushed and raised no objection. So it was recorded in the family Bible.

Later came a little girl. "Let's name her Oatine," suggested the husband-father. "OK," replied his wife. So it was recorded. Then followed another boy. "Now what?" was the question each parent asked the other. "How about Rye?" suggested the father. So it was agreed. Followed then another girl. "Let's name her Maizie," suggested the wife this time. So it was recorded. And as a fifth member of the family came, a boy, and they named him Wheatly. So they appeared in the family record: Corny, Oatine, Rye, Maizie, Wheatly. The children knew nothing else but those names and of course accepted them without question as all kids do. They all went through the home school and high school, and finally came to the period of college days as they finished high school.

They had to go quite a way from home for college, and the parents had no opportunity to check up on them. When the annual college catalogue came the father looked at the list of students and there was his boy's name in due order. The father adjusted his glasses and looked closer. Was that his boy? But the given name is wrong. Instead of Corny it was Cornelius. The parent said nothing thinking it was a typographical error. Then when Oatine started to college and the catalogue came showing her name it appeared Othine instead of Oatine. What was happening? But dad kept quiet and waited. Then Rye went to college and his name showed up Royal. And in turn Maizie's name appeared Marie. And finally Wheatly's name came back Wayne.

As the college kids came home for the summer the puzzled father said to them as they assembled, "Why has it happened that everyone of your names has been changed in the catalogue? I want to know what has happened that every name has been changed. What about it, Corny?" "Dad, when I got to college and the kids began to call me Old Corny and make fun of me, I couldn't stand it. So I changed it when I registered. I could not stand a name that caused them all to make fun of me." In turn each of the others told the same story. The parents were stunned. But there was nothing they could do about it.

The parents sat silent for a long time and the kids all went out. Earnest said, "Looks like we really pulled a boner, Orine. We'll just have to accept it as it is. I guess next time we'll have more sense." And Orine answered, "There won't be any next time. We had our chance and made a mess of it."
