You can have a very definite part in this by time of tribute to mothers by your help in working in the local cemetery. On May 12 or 13 you help to do that which is needed in the local cemeteries to make the graves reveal that someone does remember those who have passed on to their rewards.

You will want to take care of your own mother's and loved one's graves and then you can help to make the graves of others look better.

We will be counting on you for the day that is most convenient for you.

SECTION OF A TYPICAL FLOODWATER RETARDING STRUCTURE

Watershed Program is Means Saving Soil and Resources

By M. J. SPEARS
Conservationist, SCS

... whether he lives in the country, whether in industry or farming and is affected and must be in what happens to water falls in watersheds. Poor results in wasted water erosion and floodwater and damage to cities, towns, road and public utilities. results in inadequate supplies for industry and ranches. Many times it water shortage and ration-times of critical needs. watershed program provides a means of assistance to local people whereby they may unite to develop a coordinated soil and water conservation program. This program provides for technical and financial assistance by the Department of Agriculture to state and local organizations in planning and installing measures for land treatment and food prevention. It also provides for the conservation, development, utilization and disposal of excess water.

The Soil Conservation Service, as the technical arm of the Department of Agriculture, furnishes the assistance in the planning and building of the structures. This assistance is provided through legal-organized soil conservation districts which cover about 98 percent of the state. The Hamilton-Coryell district, with headquarters, is the local soil conservation district. They are cooperating with the Bosque Soil Conservation District on the local Watershed Program.

Local people are responsible for applying land treatment measures, furnishing land, easements and rights-of way. Also, they are responsible for the operation and maintenance of the works of improvement after they are built.

A watershed program has two main parts. Assisting farmers and ranchers get a sound soil and water conservation program on the land is the first and basic part. This phase includes the application of such measures as terraces, waterways, contour tillage, soil improving crops and other practices. These measures decrease erosion reduce the amount of sediment and allow more water to penetrate the soil for crop use.

The second phase of the program includes the building of measures such as floodwater retarding structures. These structures are designed and built to retard floodwater as it moves down the watershed and releases it automatically at a rate calculated to prevent flooding below. Other measures such as channel improvement and treatment of critical sediment areas are used as needed to get the desired protection.

The watershed program is proving to be very popular in Texas and the United States. Statewide, competition for assistance in installing watershed projects is becoming keener each year. Approximately 500 structures already have been built in Texas. The structures are being built in only those areas where the local people have made legal and financial agreements and are ready to carry out their responsibilities.

WATCH FOR MOTHS AND CARPET BEETLES

Now that we keep our houses warm all year, the pests that damage our wool rugs and carpets can thrive at any season.

Thorough cleaning and correct spray treatment will protect carpets and rugs from clothes moths and carpet beetles.

Regular care with the vacuum cleaner is the first step. It prevents dust, lint and hair from accumulating and offering extra food for the pests. It can remove the insects themselves and their eggs. Thorough vacuuming means going back and forth with the vacuum cleaner seven times in the same place. Beetles usually feed under heavy furniture where it is difficult to clean. Rotate rugs and carpets occasionally to make sure all areas are exposed to regular cleaning, light and air.

Entomologists advise a five percent DDT oil solution on rugs and carpets every 12 to 18 months. For a 9x12 foot rug of average weight, you will need one and a half to two quarts of spray. Rug pads of animal hair or wool will need spraying on both sides unless they have been treated previously.

When spraying wall to wall carpeting give special attention to edges and parts that have been under a piano, sofa, or other heavy furniture pieces.

Call on the expert help of a carpet-cleaning or pest control firm if you have qualms about doing expensive rugs.

SPRING MEANS SPECIAL USE FOR AUTOMATIC DRYERS

Though cold weather seems to linger this year we are beginning to think of storing winter clothes, spring house cleaning chores, and April showers. An automatic clothes dryer will save hours of labor during your spring house cleaning. Use it to freshen these furnishings:

Slip covers. Place slip covers in dryer immediately after washing and regulate time and temperature settings according to the particular fabric. While still damp dry, remove from dryer and press any pleats or ruffles. Then replace on furniture where slip cover will finish drying to snug smoothness.

Draperies. Before laundering remove all trimmings, detachable hooks and weights. Drying time and temperature will vary, depending on weight of fabric, size and remaining moisture. Allow draperies plenty of room for tumbling. Remove when damp dry, run drapes lengthwise through ironer, and rehang.

Airing and dusting curtains and drapes. When curtains or drapes are not soiled, but require airing and dusting, use your automatic dryer to "revive" them. Allow several pairs at a time to tumble freely. Remove from dryer and rehang. Curtains will be fresh and sunshine-fragrant again. Use some tumbling procedure to loosen wrinkles and remove musty odors from drapes and slip covers just taken from storage.

Rugs. For braided or rag rugs, place two small rugs or one medium-size rug in the dryer. Remove when hint of moisture remains. Lay on flat surface to finish air-drying. For chenille bathmats and shag rugs vacuum before laundering to remove excess lint. Be careful not to overcrowd the dryer. Remove rugs when completely dry and replace in usual position on floor.

SPECIAL WASHING PROBLEMS WITH SYNTHETICS

Women complain that many of the new synthetics develop dingy unattractive color in washing, which is hard to remove.

Much of this discoloration is due to one of three factors.

First, is the static electricity produced by some of the newer fibers. This attracts soil and dirt from the floor and surroundings. Ordinary washing will remove this type of soil.

The water used is a second factor. White garments, especially, will absorb soil from the water and become grey looking. Be sure that the wash water is clean and that a good detergent is used. Curds formed by hard water and soap will also discolor synthetic fabrics. If soap is used, be sure to use a non-precipitating water softener with it.

A third type of discoloration comes from washing synthetic fabrics along with something that is dyed a deeper color. Avoid this by sorting carefully before washing.

For best results, rinse garments several times using same temperature of water used for washing.

Always check labels for washing instructions.

THIS WEEK IN AUSTIN—

Highlights and Sidelights

Loan Bill Passed.

House members passed and sent to the Senate a bill on one of the session's most difficult problems—small loan regulation.

Rep. Criss Cole's bill would allow interest rates up to 39.8 percent on the smallest loans. An amendment was added to allow loan companies to make a service charge of $4 every three months in addition to the interest.

Two amendments were passed with the aim of trying to prevent the market's being taken over by large out of state chains. One would prevent the licensing of a loan company owned by a non-resident person or corporation. Another would prohibit any one loan firm's having more than 50 branch offices in Texas.

Another amendment would require the finance commissioner, who would be responsible for loan company licensing and regulation, to approve any charges for insurance in connection with loans.

Loan Insurance Ruling.

Meanwhile, an attorney general's ruling gave additional direction to the effort to control total charges for small loans.

A loan company, said the opinion from Atty. Gen. Will Wilson's office, is not entitled to a commission for group insurance sold in connection with loans.

Many critics of the small loan industry have contended the loan companies have made extra and unjustified profits by serving as "agents" for the sale of credit insurance to borrowers.

Actually, according to the opinion, the creditor (loan company) is the buyer of the insurance policy and, as such, is not entitled to an agent's commission on the sale.

This opinion, it was felt, will help to clear up the sticky problems of keeping a lid on charges for insurance required of borrowers as security for loans.

School Consolidation Weighed

Senate ran into problems over a bill designed to encourage small school districts to economize.

Under present law, if several common school districts in a county consolidate, the first result is that state aid for the combined district is less than for the several separate districts. Government research specialists, however, have long advocated more consolidation in the interest of economy, efficiency and better school programs.

Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells is sponsoring a measure providing that common districts forming a consolidated district of 1,000 pupils or more shall, for 10 years, continue to receive as much state aid as before consolidation.

Sen. Culp Krueger objected that the requirements would penalize many of the low-population counties in his district. Besides, Krueger said, he didn't believe in "paying people to economize."

Senate Studies Annexation

A House-passed bill setting up ground rules for city annexation is being worked on by a subcommittee of the Senate State Affairs Committee.

Rep. W. T. Dungan of McKinney is sponsor of the bill which would allow cities to ring themselves with "buffer zones" over which they could exercise control of building, health and sanitation standards. A portion of the zone could be annexed each year. Bill also provides that an annexed area not provided with municipal services in three years may "disannex" itself.

Spokesmen for the Texas Municipal League spoke in favor of the bill at committee hearing. A representative of the Texas Home Builders Association spoke against it and asked for more control over city extension of control.

70 MPH Bill Passed.

Senate passed and sent to the House a bill that would allow speed limits up to 70 miles per hour on some state highways.

Power to say which roads would have higher—or lower—speed limits would be in the hands of the State Highway Commissioner.

In support of the varying speed limits, Senator Wardlow Lane of Center said it was unreasonable to have the same 60 mile an hour limit on new divided highways and old, narrow, twisting roads.

Senator Preston Smith of Lubbock is sponsor. A controversial amendment by Senator Lane would make inadmissible in a court considering a speeding charge "evidence gained by entrapment" or gained by officers "lying in wait unobserved." Presumably this would, in effect, outlaw radar traps.

Board Favors Teacher Raise.

Answers to questionnaires sent to local school boards over Texas show that 99 per cent of the school trustees replying favor raises for teachers.

Boards, however, are divided on how much the raise should be. Biggest proportion, 64 per cent, favor the full $800 sought by the Holte-Aikin Committee and the Texas State Teachers Association. About 22 per cent favor a $650 a year increase, and 8 per cent a $400 increase. Remainder favor some other amount.

Other results: a substantial majority of boards favor adding driver education teachers to the list of authorized special personnel.

A committee of the Texas Association of School Administrators and Texas Association of School Boards conducted the poll.

$1 or $4 — Properly Managed Rangeland is the Difference

By LESLIE R. HEREFORD
Range Specialist, SCS

Of course, a rancher would want the $4.00 instead of the $1.00. It is obvious as to what everybody would want. Ranchers in the Hamilton-Coryell Soil Conservation District are finding out from their own figures that this will be the ratio on ranches that are properly used, as compared with heavily used, or overgrazed.

In three meetings held with a total of 36 ranchers in this district since Nov. 29, 1960, returns to labor, management, land and interest on investment in livestock has averaged $0.74 per acre on heavy used ranches. On proper used ranches the return to the land, labor, management and interest on the investment in the livestock has averaged $2.88 per acre. The return to land labor management and interest on investment in livestock, means the rancher owned the land and livestock, does the work and manages the ranch. Of course, such items as interest on investment in fences, livestock water facilities and livestock and feed sheds, feed bills, sprays and drenches, replacement of bulls, bucks or bullies, cost of a pickup, taxes on land and livestock, salt and minerals, fence maintenance, shearing and bagging and livestock association fees, were deducted from the gross returns. When all of these items were deducted, the remaining is the return to land, labor, management and interest on the investment in livestock.

These ranchers attending these meetings have found out that the owners who keep the grass short—about 2 inches of stubble left—are actually only getting a return for his labor and investment in livestock.

The winter feed bill, which is the largest single item on heavy used ranches, usually absorbs the return to land and management. The feed bills on the heavy used ranches averaged 4.38 times as great as the feed bills on the properly used ranches. If $1.00 was spent on feed bills on the properly used ranches, $4.38 was spent on the heavy used ranches. Of course, these are average figures, but these are the figures that local ranchers say represent the operations of a ranch that has been heavily used as compared with those that have been properly used for the last 10 to 20 years.

In other surrounding soil conservation districts in ranching country of Central Texas, five of these similar meetings with 50 ranchers were held since Nov. 1960. The results of these meetings averaged to show that if the heavy used ranch returned $1.00 per acre the properly used ranch would return $2.62 per acre to land, labor, management and interest on livestock.

An interested rancher might ask what causes this difference. The answer is simple. The heavy used ranch usually has about twice as many livestock on it as compared with the properly used ranch. The average of these three meetings held in the Hamilton-Coryell SCD show the heavy used 1,000 acre ranch has 147 animal units and 82 animal units on the properly used 1,000 acre ranch. The heavy used ranch has been grazed so short so long that the low producing three-awns (needlegrass) and buffalograss are usually the grasses producing the livestock forage. The heavy use has forced out or killed the higher producing sidecoats grass and bluestem grasses. These higher producing grasses are killed out because they are taller growing grasses and cannot escape grazing. The buffalograss can escape heavy grazing because of the low growing habit. The three-awns can escape because of palatability. The rancher that properly uses his pastures that always have plenty of grass, usually less livestock, low feed bills and make more return per acre that can be designated as true return to land, labor, management and interest on livestock on investment.

CHATTER

By HELEN OGLE

Those moanful cries of aching bones you've heard from several locals can't be traced to overwork in the yard or garden, but to those first rounds of bowling. It seems that practice only makes it worse for some, but believe Wilma Sherrard is getting around better.

Conda Salmon is now able to turn his head from side to side, after suffering a crick in last Friday night's challenge.

I don't think Loudell Cheek will require crutches to get around, nor will Sarah Reeves need a cane, after suffering falls in their first experiences of bowling.

Not ready to concede, yet still trying to convince people, is Bill Howard, that he can bowl.

Lessons or no lessons, Betty Knudson says she just can't get all her coordination going in the right direction at the same time, and as a result she will never be a bowler.

After re-organizing the budget by slimming the grocery bill, drug bill, and golf bill, it's still not enough, so P. W. Hamilton needs another part-time job so he can bowl more.

It wasn't a reckless driver that might have steered you off the street Monday, but a "wreckless" pickup being herded up the hill by Bette Meador and daughters.

Charlie Tolliver leaving charge for cigarettes at a local grocery store, then hurrying on while he says he's ahead.

Marguerite Rainwater and Alta Mae Hamilton making rounds in town trying to complete all the final details for the annual flower show this Saturday.

Pa Ramage was concentrating so hard while enjoying a Coke that I thought he must be mad at someone, but he said he was just doing some serious thinking.

A routine chore around the first of May at the home of Mrs. Mattie Segrest is usually to store the heaters, but Mrs. Segrest says she'll keep that one up in the bedroom, as she's not sure that spring is here.

Jake Blair is wearing a familiar smile these days, and if you're curious as to why, you might join him at City Park this Sunday.

Fishermen have had to be patient with the weather these past few months, and eagerness to hang a big one didn't pay off for Roy French and Bro. Barnes last week. They had to try to hang or retrieve their tackle first. Yep—you're right—they turned the boat over and not only they, but tackle and all went under. Keep trying boys.

When better bird cages are built—James Cryer will build them.

Recent Ceremony Unites Loar Ford, Mr. Doty, Former Residents' Son

Marriage ceremonies were solemnized Friday evening, April 7, for Miss Loar Ford and Jerry Lynn Doty.

The Newby-McGaughy Chapel in Grand Prairie was the setting for the rites, with Bro. Perry Cotnam, minister of Tarrant Road Church of Christ, officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Ford of Grand Prairie, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Doty, also of Grand Prairie, and formerly of Hico. The bridegroom is also the nephew of Mrs. C. A. Russell of Hico.

Honor attendants were Miss Sharon Jean Winter and Thomas Evans. Ushers were Don Doty and Eddie Max Doty.

The bride chose for her wedding gown a waltz length dress of Chantilly lace which featured an elongated bodice fashioned with a Queen Ann collar embroidered in seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The long tapered sleeves fitted closely to the wrists with lace covered buttons extended in deep points over the hands. The bouffant skirt was finished with scalloped hemline and lace cascades dropped from under a huge bow at the low waist line in back to give the treasured back interest. To complete her elegant attire, the bride chose a pearl encrusted crown from which fell a tiered fingertip veil of silk illusion and white satin slippers.

She carried a half crescent arrangement on a white Bible of white roses, stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Marilyn Ford, sister of the bride, served the cake for the reception held in the home of the bride's parents. The tiered cake was trimmed with blue, the bride's chosen color. Miss Sherilyn Sims presided at the bride's book and Mrs. Max Doty served at the punch bowl.

On leaving the reception the bride wore a pale blue suit of crushed linen with a matching white blouse. She carried white gloves and wore black patent accessories.

Mrs. Doty attended Grand Prairie High School where she belonged to FHA, FECLA, JCL, and the Senior Executive Committee. The groom, a graduate of the 1958 class of GP High, is employed by Emtex of Grand Prairie.

Following a brief wedding trip the couple are at home at 910 Clarice Street.

At Star we visited in the home of a friend and former schoolmate, Mrs. Seth Waddell, the former Miss Hazel Burris of Fairy. Her parents and other relatives are buried here. We thank Mrs. Waddell for the donation and also extend thanks to Mrs. Francis Anderson Michael of Haywood, Calif. for a donation of $5.00 for the cemetery which we received by mail. Thanks also to Mrs. J. H. Priest of Waco for a $2.00 donation.

Thus far Mr. Lunsford has not come to work. As we stated in last week's news he has an infected hand due to sticking a large splinter in the palm. Since there is much work to be done this time of year and mowing needing to be done on the north side, we are working after school hours with the help of Jerry Richardson, Jimmie Don Sellers and Mrs. Marvin Porterfield have also helped some. We have completed the mowing across the north side more than a third of the way south. We will keep the work going as the weather and help permits, as lots are going to be needed work again soon. We hope Mr. Lunsford will be able to work again soon. Thanks to all for your financial help and those who help with their lots.

We notice that relatives have removed the bermuda grass from the lot of Mr. and Mrs. Parker which makes it look so much nicer. There are others we would like to have cleaned up but not knowing whether or not relatives want the grass out we have hesitated to take this responsibility. If you have a lot that has bermuda and you're supporting the lot and would like to grass removed, please let us know and we'll do our best. It's hard however to kill out entirely. Some have talked of spraying to kill it.

COUNTY AGENT REPORTS

By E. R. LAWRENCE

The feed grain legislation, signed into law on March 22 by President Kennedy, has four purposes. They are to increase farm income; prevent further buildup of the feed grain surplus and reduce the surplus if possible; help assure the consumer of fair and stable prices for meat, poultry and dairy products; and reduce the ultimate feed grain program costs to taxpayers.

According to C. H. Bates, farm management specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the program is voluntary and applies only to 1961. All field corn and grain sorghum whether for grain, fodder or silage are covered and cooperators are being asked to reduce their 1961 plantings of these crops by at least 20 per cent below the 1959-60 acreage acreage. Voluntary reductions up to 40 per cent are encouraged for growers with bases of 100 acres or more. Growers with bases of 25 acres or less may retire the total under the program.

Cooperating farmers will be eligible for support prices — $1.93 cwt. on grain sorghums; $1.20 per bushel on corn; 92c per bushel on barley; 62c for oats; and $1.02 per bushel for rye.

The non-cooperators will not be eligible for price support on any of these, Bates said. His production would have to move at market prices. He cannot depend upon the government price support nor his neighbor's production additional to hold up the market price.

Cooperators, if they choose, may receive payments in the form of negotiable certificates which represent grain from CCC stocks. The Secretary of Agriculture will determine the flow of this grain into market channels.

A cooperator, Bates said, agrees to reduce by at least 20 per cent his grain sorghum or corn acreage for 1961 below his 1959-60 average. The diverted acres must be put to some conservation use. It cannot be harvested or pastured. Weeds, insects and rodents must be controlled on the diverted acreage. In turn he will receive, in addition to eligibility for supports on his grain crops, a payment for each acre diverted to conservation use. The rate of payment for the first 20 per cent diverted will be 50 per cent of the normal production of the acreage diverted times the county support price. (This price will be announced shortly by county ASC officials). As an additional incentive, a grower may divert an additional 20 per cent and receive a payment rate of 60 per cent times the county price per acre diverted. A grower becomes eligible for advance payment—50 per cent of the total—when he signifies his intention of cooperating. This advance payment, Bates said, will help the producer meet his production expenses and is expected to be an important incentive for cooperation. The specialist added that the program is effective protection in case of crop failure. The payment on diverted acres will be made regardless of weather and is a measure of income insurance as are the higher price supports.

The non-cooperator, Bates advised, will not be eligible for price support on any grain crop and cannot expect to build up his acreage base for future programs.

It has been emphasized that the U.S. Department of Agriculture will strongly recommend to Congress that any legislation involving establishment of base acreages for production adjustment give no advantage to producers who fail to cooperate in the 1961 feed grain program. While many details remain to be worked out, Bates said, county ASC officials have the basic information on the program and are in a position to answer most questions

IT HAPPENED . . .

HERE OR NEAR

By E. E. DAWSON

Wife and I have been watching the Sunday afternoon TV program, "College Bowl," for a long while and have been much interested with those young people on the program from so many different colleges and universities from all quarters of the United States. We have been disappointed several times that some of our Southern institutions made such poor showings, some from Texas. But on the whole the colleges and universities that participated made very creditable showings as they answered the questions put to them. We felt proud of our educational system.

One of the best of all was on last Sunday's program, Sweetbriar College, of Virginia, a private institution, for young women. They were in competition with Hanover College, a Presbyterian College of Indiana. The Hanover team consisted of two young men and two young women. The Sweetbriar team made a total of 265 points against the less than one hundred by the Hanover team. Who said girls are not so smart? If you saw that program you would change your mind if you have been thinking poorly of female intelligence. Sweetbriar College is not a large school; it has some five hundred plus students. One was astonished at the wide range of knowledge of so many different fields of human activity. This was their second win in two weeks and they are slated again for next Sunday's program.

While we were feeling proud of the colleges and universities that have appeared on "College Bowl" we have been much depressed by news of late of so many college students arrested and jailed for disorderly and immoral conduct. For example, Christian Herald recently had an extended article on the awful things that have been happening at Fort Lauderdale, Florida in recent years; and the TV and radio newscasts around Easter of this year of happenings at the same place. Hundreds were arrested and jailed for their roiling and immoralities and general misbehavior. They had come during the last several years, each time during the Easter holiday season, from all quarters of the United States, though mostly from the northeast and eastern areas of the country. It was all highly disgraceful and un-American and more like the conduct of savages than of cultured Americans.

Then this last weekend we were shamed by the conduct of college men and women at Galveston. The disorder began on Friday and lasted through Sunday night. Hundreds were arrested and jailed and later fined for their disorderly actions, roiling, drunkenness, immoralities, injuries to others. And these students, according to the newscasts were from Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas. Doubtless great numbers of Texans feel a sense of shame that such things should occur anywhere in our state. And to think that college students should do such things. It is an awful commentary on the work of our educational institutions that the product of them should show such callousness and unholy disposition.

We wonder what college teachers and officials think of their product. Of course they do not condone such things. But are they indifferent and simply shrug it off as one of the inevitable manifestations of youth? Back of conduct of young people and oldsters is teaching that has glorified such conduct, or simply ignored it as things that are obliged to occur in youngsters. Godless education is the creator of all sorts of evil. We need an awakening both in home training and institutional teaching.

We return to Sweetbriar College and thank God for such products as it has given the world: intelligent and upstanding young people who think right and therefore act right.

Weekend visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Guinn were Mr. and Mrs. Harlon Guinn and children of Junction, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Guinn and Sam and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Parker of Fairy, Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Brooks and Cathy of Fort Worth.

Waterways Are Key to Protection of Terraces

By B. C. HANKS
Agricultural Engineer, SCS

A well vegetated outlet is necessary to protect terraces from erosion. Some farmers are fortunate in having pastures or meadows already established on which runoff water from terraces can be safely emptied. Others, however, must establish waterways before terraces are constructed if the terraces are to be successful in reducing erosion.

The best locations for waterways are in the natural watercourse on the farm. Natural watercourses usually have a more gentle fall which will carry water slower with less chance of erosion. Water runs naturally to such places, providing better drainage. Severely eroded areas should be avoided. Such areas are difficult to establish to grass, and the best cover that can be obtained is usually so poor that adequate protection of the terraces is insufficient.

The size of the waterway depends on the number of acres draining into it, and the kind of vegetation used. Three inches of runoff water from a 60-acre field is equivalent to one acre fifteen feet deep in water. When such a rain falls in an hour's time, the waterway must be large enough to carry this large volume without overtopping or eroding in approximately the same time.

Several different grasses are successfully used to provide cover. Bermuda grass and KR Bluestem are the two most commonly used. Bermuda is the best grass to use where it is adapted because it forms a dense turf, and can carry water at a higher velocity without eroding than most other grasses. It will generally cover over eroded spots in the waterway damaged by runoff more rapidly than other grasses. It is not well adapted to thin droughty soils.

KR Bluestem is a bunch grass and cannot stand a very high velocity without water breaking through the sod and starting erosion. Because of this, waterways planned for a KR Bluestem cover will need to be one and a half to two times as wide as those planned for Bermudagrass. KR can generally be grown successfully on a shallow, more droughty natured soil.

The successful stand and cover in a waterway depends on a well prepared seedbed as if you were planting corn or cotton. Shaping of waterways should be done well in advance of sodding so that a good seedbed can be prepared. Fertilizer should be used to insure growth and vigor. It should be applied at the time the waterway is sodded or seeded and as often as necessary thereafter to maintain a dense cover.

Maintenance is a very important part of waterway management. They should be inspected after every heavy rain. If repairs are needed, this is the time to do it. Delays may cause a minor repair job to become an expensive reshaping and resodding job.

Waterways should not be used for farm roads. Very much traffic in a waterway either kills the grass or reduces its ability to withstand a heavy flow of water to the extent that erosion can very easily start. Since waterways are so important in a conservation system on a farm, they should be kept in as good condition as possible to insure that they will do the job for which they were designed.
