GOVERNMENT IS CRITICIZED BY THE PEOPLE OF LONDON

AIR RAID DEcried AS HUMILIATION AND A DISGRACE BY SOME CRITICS

MORE AIRCRAFT NEEDED

Charged that England is Falling Behind in Aircraft Building—Haig's Remarks Assume Significance

By Associated Press. London, July 9.—The morning newspapers subordinate everything to Saturday's air raid. The comments thereon reflect the popular indignation while some indulge in spirited condemnation of the government. The country, it is declared, has been humiliated and disgraced in a manner never experienced since the Dutch fleet burned Cbeatham, more than 200 years ago.

The incident is decried by the most angry commentators as disgraceful alike to the war office and the admiralty air service and the removal of those responsible of "the miserable display of incompetence" is demanded.

Even those comments which are most restrained complain that Great Britain is falling behind in aircraft construction and say it needs speeding up. General Haig's reference to increased German activity is regarded as highly significant.

It is pointed out also that the aerial attacks changes to a practical level the question of an absolute devastation of London by aircraft and the infliction of such losses as would amount to a serious military defeat. If a score of enemy machines are able to operate with impunity, it is asked, what will happen if 200 come, or as the Kolonische Zeitung, recently urged, a thousand.

In political circles there was a good deal of criticism of the failure on the part of the British air defenses to ward off the German raiders. Frequent in the House of Commons are plans to bombard the government with demands for the overhauling of the whole system.

No further deaths have occurred in the air raid. The only one received the large number of injured.

In the House of Commons today Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, announced that a secret session of the House would be held this evening to discuss the air defenses of the country.

FULLER READY TO SWEAR HE DID NOT VOTE FOR ABILENE

Austin, July 9.—In face of the statement made Saturday by the locating board of the West Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college that Abilene had been regularly selected as the site of the new college and that all members of the board were agreed that the question should not be reopened the situation remains unclarified by reason of a statement by Speaker Fuller that he is now ready to file an affidavit that he did not vote for Abilene on either the first or the second ballot. When the statement of the board was issued it was signed by all of the members. After the issuance of the statement Commissioner of Agriculture Davis and Lieutenant Governor Hobby, who was absent, it appeared to be the unanimous opinion that it would be the best interest of the new school that we issue the statement signed by all members of the commission. If I had thought that all of these qualifications were to later appear I would either not have signed the statement or put in my proviso.

"It is fair to say that Commissioner Davis had stated to the commission at the informal conference that he made certain promises with reference to the filing of an affidavit and that in case they insisted in doing so he would sign with that provision."

Fuller exhibited telegrams and letters to show he had made efforts to reconvene the locating board. These showed that he had communicated with Lieutenant Governor Hobby and Commissioner of Agriculture Davis for the purpose of having the board reconvened.

Fuller stated he would not have made comment on this matter at this time were it not for the statements issued by Lieutenant Governor Hobby and Commissioner of Agriculture Davis after the agreement issued by the commission.

SEC. DANIELS ASKS $45,000,000 FOR NAVY AERONAUTICS

By Associated Press. Washington, July 9.—Congress was asked by Secretary Daniels to appropriate $45,000,000 for navy aeronautics in addition to the amount appropriated in this year's navy bill. The navy is working out a great air program of its own from the great $225,000,000 military aircraft project of the defense council.

THE XIII IN ALFONSO TITLE MAY BE FATAL, IS WHAT MANY SUPERSTITIOUS SPANIARDS ASSERT

QUEEN VICTORIA KING ALFONSO and CROWN PRINCE

Alfonso, king of Spain, whose fall was predicted as a result of the unrest in his country, is a familiar figure to Americans by reason of our own little war with Spain, nineteen years ago. His was then twelve years old and his mother, Maria Christina, an Austrian archduchess, reigned in his name. Alfonso XII, superstitious Spaniards have predicted frequently that the ominous numeral XIII would prove fatal to Alfonso, although he has been most popular personally and has been considered a good ruler. In 1905 he was married to Princess Victoria Eugenie, daughter of the late Prince Henry of Battenberg and Princess Beatrice, daughter of the late Queen Victoria of England. The queen is an English princess, and her sympathies, with those of Alfonso have been pro-British in the war, against the opposition of large and influential pro-German elements in the Spanish court and army and industrial circles. Alfonso, prince of the Austrias, heir to the Spanish throne, was born May 17, 1897; he has three brothers and two sisters.

Rye and Potato Crops Also Promise To Break All Previous Records for Yield

Washington, July 9.—A 3,000,000 bushel prospective crop of corn is the answer returned by farmers of the United States to President Wilson's call for food for America's allies in the war. Never before has such a crop been grown.

KAISER INVITES NEUTRALS TO CONFERENCE

By Associated Press. London, July 9.—According to reports reaching Rotterdam from Berlin and forwarded by the Exchange Telegraph, Emperor William invited the neutral ambassadors and ministers to a conference on Saturday.

CONJECTURE AS TO PURPOSES OF CONFERENCE

Washington, July 9.—Conjecture here as to the purpose of the conference between Emperor William and the neutral ambassadors and ministers ranged all the way from new peace proposals to threats of drastic action against the North-European neutrals in the event that they should yield to the United States and refuse to continue to supply Germany with food and raw material. The general belief is that the emperor is making it plain to the Scandinavians that if they allow their territorial waters to be polluted or mined by the entente allies or refuse to continue to exchange goods with Germany he will regard the action as a breach of neutrality and as an act of hostility toward Germany.

They declared that if the government did not immediately summon Parliament they would call upon the members to meet in Barcelona July 13.

DISARMAMENT AND EQUAL RIGHTS AS BASIS FOR PEACE

By Associated Press. Stockholm, July 9.—Immediate conclusion of peace conditions which shall include the establishment of an international convention to bring about general disarmament is the demand of the international proletariat according to German minority socialists who have just issued a lengthy memorandum. Economic isolation of states are condemned, the memorandum continues, and obligatory international arbitration should be instituted. Equal rights of all inhabitants of any country, regardless of nationality, race or religion are imperative.

IMPORTANT GAIN WON IN STANISLAW AREA

Austro-German Line Apparently Broken-Russian Cavalry Pursuing Enemy

The Associated Press war summary today says: New and powerful blows are being struck by the Russians in Galicia. Apparently they have broken the Austro-German line west of Stanislaw, south of Halicz, as today's official report from Petrograd not only reports important gains for the Russians in the Stanislaw area, but declares the Russian cavalry is pursuing the retreating enemy. This pursuit has reached the Lunka river.

Halicz, the gateway to Lemberg from the south, seem doomed to fall unless the Russian onslaught is quickly stopped. The Russians' push northwest from Stanislaw will result in Halicz being hemmed in on three sides.

The renewed Russian onslaught in this sector brought with it not only additional territory, but 7,000 prisoners and 48 guns, including a dozen large calibre pieces. The total Russian capture of men in the present rapid offensive is mounting rapidly and now is in excess of 25,000.

North of the Stanislaw area General Brussiloff is holding fast to his newly won positions in the vicinity of Brzezany and near Koncny, where his troops are well placed for a continuation of the drive upon Lemberg along converging railway lines.

Austro-German attacks here have failed to shake the Russian positions in this valuable territory.

There is little but local fighting along the British front in France, but further down the line the Germans are giving the French little rest. Attack after attack is being launched by the crown prince in desperate attempts to shake the French from their positions along the Chemin-des-Dames.

There was another fresh drive last night at Tantheon, but, like others that have preceded it, the effort was unsuccessful. Meanwhile, such trenches as the Germans were able to retain after their repulse in the attack of Saturday night in the Aisne region were wrested from them in the greater part by a brilliant counter offensive started by the French.

RUMOR OF CHANGE IN CHANCELLORS HEARD IN BERLIN

By Associated Press. Amsterdam, July 9.—The Tageblatt of Berlin says it is rumored that a change in the German chancellorship may be expected. Among those mentioned as a possible successor of Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg is former Prince Von Buelow, former chancellor, count Von Hurling, Bavarian prime minister and Count Von Rosenfeld, secretary of the imperial treasury.

Count von Hurling has had several conferences recently with Austro-Hungarian officials presumably in regard to peace questions. He is said to favor peace without cash indemnities. During the war Prince von Buelow spent most of his time in Switzerland. It has been reported that the government has kept him in a detached position in the expectation of calling him back when the time came to arrange peace with the idea that he could render greater services on account of having had no share in the conduct of the war.

Next Saturday is understood to have been tentatively fixed upon as the date of the drawing although no announcement has been made by the provost marshal general's office.

BIG MEN NEEDED FOR OUR WORK IN FRANCE

MEN LIKE SCHWAB, ROSENWALD OR WILLARD SHOULD BE SENT TO SOLVE PROBLEMS

Charles H. Grasty in the New York Times—Satisfactory progress is being made on the plans for the American army, and the whole staff, with General Pershing setting a strenuous example, is hard at work. Organization is Pershing's hobby. He has about the biggest job in that line that ever fell on a soldier, and he is deeply absorbed in the task. He has the farm bred man's eagerness to get in the crop before the rain falls. The general receives literally hundreds of social invitations, but he has no heart to accept them. There is so much to do in working out plans for the American army in France. I learn from a French source that there is just one thing outside headquarters activities that tempts him, that is his companionship with Marshal Joffre. They have become great friends and see each other frequently. General Pershing's French is improving with use, and his friendship with Joffre will, therefore, become more interesting and useful. Headquarters gives out no details about the plans, but a suggestion from a French minister in an interview I had with him that American ideas could be most profitably used in railroad building, leads to the obvious idea that Americans might construct and operate a strategic line, high class in every detail, from headquarters of the American troops straight to the American front on the battle line. It would be a fine opportunity in the field where America clearly excels and the recent mobilization of American railroads pave the way for building such a line. Another suggestion is that all business phases of the work as developed by the engineering, quartermaster and signal corps departments here are to be consolidated and some business man of the first magnitude like Schwab, Willard or Rosenwald be sent from America to take charge and bring all activities into coordination. On all sides one hears warning against exaggeration in what America will do. For example, the statement that it would be a fine opportunity to have thousands of airplanes in fighting service prompts the Temps to point out that this would mean a total of one million airplanes, as each one in service requires an average of nine in reserve. Part of the German mobilization—and it is very active in France—is aimed at discrediting America as the source of brag and bluster. In the same connection the people in America will smile at the talk being repeated by the omnipresent but not omnipotent agents to the effect that the Americans who come to France during the war can never be got on after the war, but will stay here to run railroads and factories and gobble up all profitable business. All of which emphasizes strongly the need for our organizing here a strong secret service and propaganda. It is an important field in France, and the Germans should not be allowed to have it to themselves.

FATHER TELLS SON MUST ENLIST OR WILL BE SHOT

From the New York Times. The trial of Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, the anarchists, before Judge Julius M. Mayer in the federal court for conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the national military law was halted for a few moments Saturday morning when John Allen of Ammie, a hamlet of 100 inhabitants in Clay county, Kentucky, told Judge Mayer that he thought of "slackers." The proceeding was entirely unexpected and was the result of the arrest in New York a few weeks ago of John Calhoun Allen, the eldest son of the mountaineer. The son is of conscript age, but refused to register as required by the provisions of the selective draft law. "If I had a thousand sons and my country needed them my country would get every blessed one of 'em," said the old man, who spoke with a bitterness as he addressed the judge. "In order to fully appreciate the patriotism of old John Allen it is necessary to go back about the year 1860, when late one afternoon a good looking youngster was brought before Judge Mayer charged with refusing to obey the military laws. He was John Calhoun Allen, and, after looking him over, Judge Mayer said the only reason he could think for a man like John Allen refusing to register was that he must be demented. So Judge Mayer sent the prisoner to Bellevue for observation, and when the physician reported that Allen appeared to have a touch of "dementia praecox" Judge Mayer decided to communicate with the Allen family in the town of Ammie, Kentucky. So a letter was written to old John Allen in which the facts were placed before him, and he was asked to communicate with the authorities in New York, and was told that pending an answer his son would be detained in the custody of United States Marshal Thomas J. Allen.

GENERAL SIBERT CAMP COMMANDER IN FRANCE

BUILDER OF GATUN DAM AND OFFICER OF MANY ACHIEVEMENTS COMMAND CAMP. New York Times. With the first news of the American regulars' arrival in France, four days ago, came the brief announcement that the commander of the camp of our military vanguard was Major General William L. Sibert. When Major General John J. Pershing was "breaking" at West Point, one of the honor men of the First Class of that year, 1884, was Sibert of Alabama. Since those days Pershing and Sibert have remained close friends. So it was no surprise to those who know the two famous soldiers that Sibert, the builder of the Gatun Dam, the engineer who solved the flood problem of East China, and the officer who put the Manila railroads on the map, was in France with Pershing, and that to him has been allotted the task of camping the American army. Until then no one outside of the inner circles of the War Department knew that Major General Sibert had crossed the Atlantic. That he is the man for the job not an officer in the army doubts. He was born in the little city of Gadsden, Ala., Oct. 12, 1856, which means that he still has more than seven years of active service ahead of him before he reaches the age limit set for our army officers. In 1882, eight years after his graduation from West Point, the army records show that Sibert, then a First Lieutenant of Engineers, was one of the executive engineers in charge of the great Sault Ste. Marie Canal improvements, and when the Spanish war broke out, in 1898, Sibert, who had gained the rank of Captain, was named by President McKinley as Chief Engineer of the Eighth Army Corps, a position he retained for only a few months, when he was transferred to the Philippines and made Chief Engineer of the Manila & Daguapan Railway, as well as the general manager of Old Philippine veterans, who still tell the story of how Sibert modernized that little jerkwater line in the Far East. Returning to the United States in 1907, Sibert still a Captain, was assigned to various river improvements, and within a few years came to be recognized as the most efficient river and harbor engineer in the country. There is hardly a navigable river east of the Rockies with the development of which in one way or another he has not been identified. It was not until 1907 that his countrymen began to hear of him. President Roosevelt had started the country by his appointment of a then unknown Major of Engineers—George W. Goethals—as Chief Engineer of the Panama Canal and President of the Isthmian Canal Commission. Shortly afterward he named three engineers as Goethals' chief assistants, Sibert, Gaillard and Harry J. Hodges. To Gaillard was given the great task of solving the problem of Culebra Cut, which cost him his life. To Sibert was assigned the job of building the Gatun locks and dam, the successful accomplishment of which is now numbered among the engineering marvels of the age. A story is told of General Goethals which credits him with this remark in taking over the Panama Canal commission: "I recognize but two enemies of mine—the locks and dams of Gatun." Goethals made the Gatun part of the canal a military department and named Sibert in command. Quietly, modestly, without fuss or feathers, Sibert went to work. He was a great saver of men and money, he soon found a way to make the job where it took two dollars to go before. President Wilson on March 4, 1915, named Sibert a Brigadier General of his line as an expression of the nation's gratitude to him for the work he had done at Panama. General Sibert was then ordered to the Pacific Coast as commander of the coast defenses. He immediately started to bring those defenses up to date, and the present efficient condition of the Pacific fortifications is another of his achievements. He also planned the First Officers' Training Camp at the Presidio of Monterey. In 1914 the American Red Cross decided to finance a $20,000,000 project to reclaim East China from the flood peril. It was Sibert who was selected to go to China as the chief engineer. The work now going on is the result of his plans. On June 8 last, President Wilson sent the name of Sibert to the Senate as a Major General.

Every Inch a Mountaineer. The answer to Judge Mayer's letter arrived yesterday in the form of the five feet high John Allen himself. The mountaineer, accompanied by Assistant United States District Attorney John C. Knox, came into court at the noon hour. He wore the boots and the century trousers of the Kentucky hills. His shirt was blue and collarless and home made. His coat was old fashioned, and in his hand he carried the big black sombrero. "May it please your honor," said Mr. Knox, "I have with us the father of John Calhoun Allen, the young man arraigned before you some weeks ago charged with failure to register. The mountaineer looked the judge squarely in the eye and bowed. Tall and erect, he towered above every other man in the court-room—and he was not in the least embarrassed. "I judge," he said, "I got your letter and I thank you for it, and I started to answer it in writin' but I decided that maybe it was better that I come here myself and see what the matter with that boy of mine. It ain't like our folks to act as that youngster has acted, and I assure you that I could as commander of the coast defenses. He immediately started to bring those defenses up to date, and the present efficient condition of the Pacific fortifications is another of his achievements. He also planned the First Officers' Training Camp at the Presidio of Monterey. In 1914 the American Red Cross decided to finance a $20,000,000 project to reclaim East China from the flood peril. It was Sibert who was selected to go to China as the chief engineer. The work now going on is the result of his plans. On June 8 last, President Wilson sent the name of Sibert to the Senate as a Major General.

AMSTERDAM DOCK WORKERS ON STRIKE. Associated Press. Amsterdam, July 2.—All Amsterdam dock workers struck Saturday morning. Builders, workmen and shipyard laborers struck in sympathy. A big protest meeting of strikers was fixed for the afternoon. The burgomaster has forbidden secret demonstrations and open air meetings. A deputization of the dock workers visited the burgomaster yesterday and demanded a better supply of military goods from the markets where serious potato riots occurred last night. "He'll register all right, judge," replied the old man, "and I tell you that if he don't something will happen in your country. There ain't going to be no quitters in the Allen family. My boys that are already in the army ain't 21 yet. This one is my oldest and he's the first to miss the trail, but he'll find the trail again or I'll know the reason why. "I have the utmost confidence in you," said Judge Mayer after the old man finished, "and I shall release your son in your custody, confident that you will see to it that he obeys the law and registers." ## WARM WEATHER BRINGS OUT CRISP WHITE FROCKS AND WHITE HATS

Crisp white frocks have always been and will always be one of the essentials of the hot weather wardrobe. No matter what styles may be in vogue, or what colors specially favored, white will always be brought out as it becomes unbearably hot, and the pretty embroidered voiles, organdies, handkerchief linens and batistes are always to be counted on as the mainstay for these frocks.

A charming summer model has a long, straight tunic of flouncing hanging well below the knees over a plain foundation finished with a deep hem. The fullness of the tunic is laid in soft pleats at the waistline and topped by a shaped belt pointed in front like the top of the soft vest in the blouse. A long collar which extends midway down the front is one of the attractive features of the summery model which is illustrated here.

White Hats Appear

The time has come not only for white frocks but for white hats, too. This season there are all kinds of white hats, most of them entirely new, while now and again a brim has an underfacing of black or navy blue, or a rolled-up brim displays a touch of color against the white.

The hats of white crepe are very fashionable and ever so dainty. Some are made altogether of crepe with a trimming of grosgrain ribbon or of white soutache worked out in some braiding design on brim or crown.

Some of the hats are made with crowns of white satin and straight wide brims of crepe or net. Flowers and fine feathers are used by way of decoration in some instances. Another type of white hat in vogue is the small close-fitting feather turban which is very attractive to wear with white dresses. There are veils, too, in infinite variety to complement all kinds of summer hats.

The Sleeveless Sports Coat

A new development in sports clothes is the sleeveless coat, usually made of wool jersey in the gay colors so popular for sports. These add a bright touch to the all-white costume and furnish that dash and gaiety which makes the sports clothes for the country so thoroughly irresistible. The new sleeveless coats are about hip length, and are cut on the same simple, loose-fitting lines that characterize all sports coats. They are usually belted and provided with pockets, both for utility and smartness. With shirt-waists of white wash silk or crepe de chine, and skirts of cream serge or silk, the wool jersey coats in light blue, green or rose color provide a striking contrast which can not fail to please.

Not unlike the sleeveless coat is

Organdie and Fillet Lace Fashion This Model

the long overblouse worn over a guimp and hanging over the skirt in peplum fashion. One of these is illustrated here forming a summer costume with a simple gathered skirt. The material is organdie, and the trimming fillet lace. Wide bands of fillet lace connect the front and back panels of the overblouse simulating large pockets over the hips. A belt which is half organdie and half lace marks the waistline, and the novel outline of the neck is another feature which contributes to the unmistakable originality of the design.

Organdie is used very freely for the warm-weather frock, and certainly there is nothing that looks daintier or cooler. Pale shades of green and pink are as popular as white. A quaint old-fashioned air pervades the frock made entirely of organdie and trimmed with many tiny ruffles of the same material. The ruffles are placed in rows at the sides of the skirt, and the bodice is topped with a fichu edged with narrow ruffles in some of the most attractive models.

Navy-blue taffeta is coming back into its own for the dark silk frock to wear on the cooler summer days. These dresses are trimmed with heavy silk stitching, and the more elaborate ones with bead and hand embroidery. The slightly fitted bodice with a straight gathered skirt is again in vogue for this type of frock. Collars of light pink, pale blue, white or checked silk finish most of these frocks, many of which are made with the sleeves or some portion of the waist of blue Georgette to match the taffeta. Only by foulard is taffeta rivalled for the foulard dress which was introduced in the spring is still holding sway. To vary the large polka dots there are other newer spreading designs for those who may have tired of the coin dots.

WOMAN RETIRES FROM WALL STREET WITH FORTUNE

(Baltimore Sun.)

New York.—Miss Katherine M. Giles, one of the most successful women of Wall Street, has announced her retirement from business.

The announcement came as a surprise and shock to the cotton-trade, which for many years has looked to Miss Giles for authoritative reports on the cotton crop. It is reported that she will devote her time to home duties at Closter, N. J.

Miss Giles demonstrated to her own satisfaction that a woman can make money in business if she concentrates on one line, and her frequent advice to girls who have sought her assistance in getting a start has been to pick one particular line and learn it to the minutest detail.

Miss Giles started as a bookkeeper in a cotton-brokerage house, and soon realized the possibilities of an agency which would give accurate crop reports. So the agency was started. Miss Giles acquired correspondents in every county in the cotton belt, who reported regularly to her on crop and acreages. These reports were tabulated and retabulated until they came out regularly in concise and compact form each time several days ahead of the government figures.

Most of the correspondents in the belt and a large number of persons who purchased her reporting service did not know that the bold "K. M. Giles," with which she signed her correspondence, was the name of a woman.

Miss Giles is reported to have amassed a fortune.

47,000 RECRUITS NEEDED TO FILL UP REGULAR ARMY

From the army headquarters come news that is both good and bad. There are only three departments not recruited to war strength. But the total shortage for these—infantry, hospital corps and signal corps—is 47,000. The recent National Guard campaigns over the district have affected the army enlistments, and the number of men employed in the harvest fields has had a good deal to do with it. It is believed that when the National Guard recruiting has subsided, and the men now employed in harvesting are at liberty, army recruiting will automatically speed up. The army officials, however, are anxious not to wait for this, and are still urging their men in the various recruiting stations to use every means in their power to bring up the short departments to full strength at the earliest possible moment.

Navy recruiting is forging steadily ahead, in spite of all counter attractions, at least as far as Wichita Falls is concerned. A. P. Birnstiel yesterday sent away eight recruits, and there seems to be another batch well under way for today.

The navy seems undoubtedly to have a stronger attraction for the average young man than the army, and certainly there are many features of navy life that are more favorable than that of the army. There is, for one thing, no time when the men are necessarily idle. The enforced idleness of the army privates is one of its weak points in peace times. In these days, however, this feature has entirely disappeared, and there is enough to do to tax the energy and endurance of the most vigorous. The spotless cleanliness of everything connected with navy life is another feature that proves a strong attraction for the better sort of boy. The dust and dirt entailed in a long march, the sanitary arrangements of camp life, and the water facilities are always among the less pleasing aspects of the army; and the navy has a heavy advantage over them in these respects. The army recruiting officers as a class are fully as energetic and capable as those of the navy, but they seem to be less fortunate in getting results, for the reason that immediate army prospects are not quite as rosy-looking as those of the navy.

Those sent to Dallas yesterday were: P. G. Carter, Vincent, Okla., K. G. Norris, R. L. Loop, and D. G. Campbell, Stamford, C. L. Williams, Seymour, O. F. Franklin, Avoca, and C. M. Wallace, and P. J. Barrow, Throckmorton.

1500 MEMBERS ADDED TO THE RED CROSS LAST WEEK

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffer Black-Draught R. ved.

Meadowville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills. They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed I was more constipated than before. I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal, no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape.

cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative one can use."

Theodore's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad after-effects, it has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it.

have received $1702.36. During the band concert the sum of 135 was collected by the workers from new members.

The county chairman, Miss Willie Mae Kell, and the others of the executive committee desire that the credit for the success of the membership drive be given to those to whom it is due, the Civic League members and numbers of the Red Cross members, who worked untiringly in the exhaustive heat with these encouraging results. With this largely-increased membership the public awakened to the Red Cross society's activity and the treasury filled with the local chapter's share of the membership fees and the donations, which in some cases accompanied the membership fees, the workers at the supply hall will have abundant materials which can be turned into the garments and other supplies so much needed.

Now that the locating board of the new A. and M. College has come out with a signed statement that Ahlene was fairly and honestly selected that should settle the matter. The thing that bothers us, however, is why the board could not have issued such a statement in the first place, and why three members of it, constituting a majority should have issued individual statements and offering to back them up with affidavits to the effect that they did not cast their ballots for Ahlene, and without at least one of these protestants, did vote for Ahlene on the second ballot, such a selection could not have been made. It is perhaps best for all parties that the dispute now be considered a closed incident, but the puzzle has not yet been cleaned up. Some of the three members who protested they did not vote for Ahlene was either mistaken, or got cold feet when the time for an investigation of the matter was getting ripe.

Should the United States adopt the same tactics of dealing with subjects of the Kaiser in this country as has the Kaiser with the Belgians, the French and the English subjects who are in Germany hundreds and perhaps thousands of unnaturalized Germans in this country could be made to be very comfortable during the remainder of this war. It may yet come to that point when it will be necessary for the United States and her allies to deal with such matters just as Germany is dealing with them. It will be remembered, indeed it can never be forgotten, how Edith Cavell, the English subject, accused and convicted of being an English spy, was shot by order of the German government. Should the United States decide to deal with Germans in this country as severely there would be work for the firing squad in many places throughout the United States. It may come to the point where the German Kaiser will have to be given several doses of his own medicine before he will become convinced that the United States government has been entirely too lenient with disloyal German subjects within her borders. Many Germans, both naturalized and unaturalized, and some few American born, but of German parentage, have taken their departure from the United States when they thought the time had about arrived for them to register and proclaim their loyalty to this country. Many of them went to Mexico, and so far as this newspaper is concerned, it is perfectly willing they should stay there. In fact, we will go a little farther and say that such American citizens should never again be allowed to set foot on American soil. But doubtless the government knows who they are and will deal with them as they deserve.

It might be remarked in passing that the University students committee of the University citizens committee in employing the large dailies through page advertisements daily inserted for the purpose of placing the insertion cause before the public will add no strength to the cause by withholding patronage from the rural press but insisting that the matter be paid for in the city papers be run in the smaller papers free of charge. Perhaps it has not occurred to the committee that the smaller papers have the same relative expense in issuing publications as the larger papers. However, if no cost was incurred in preparing the matter and the attending city papers made no charge for carrying it, neither did the plate house make any charge for casting in the form desired to be printed in the country papers, then the criticism is withdrawn.—Denton Herald.

Let the big city papers and the concern that manufactures the "pot metal" tell the size of the checks they received for their service in this matter, and should they do this, you will not have to make any apologies. The University has its friends in the smaller cities and towns throughout the state, and among them are the smaller daily and weekly newspapers, but it would seem those in charge of the publicity campaign of the University do not set much value on the publicity that the smaller daily and weekly newspapers of the state can furnish, unless the said publicity is given less the cost of the said "pot metal." So far as this newspaper is concerned, it has no complaint to make. To be sure it has received one consignment of this stuff from the "pot metal" concern, with explicit instructions not to confiscate same after using, but to return to the house. Well, should it be used at all, it will be when paid for at regular advertising rates. If others of the smaller dailies and weekly newspapers of the state would learn to treat such matters in a like manner they would not be in that sort of financial condition that supply houses in Dallas, St. Louis and other places would be afraid to fill a $5 order for them without taking the precaution to get the money before the shipment is made, or at least before removing it from the depot or express office. The rating that Dun and Bradstreet accord such newspapers and newspapermen reads something like this: "Good—provided they pay you strictly in advance."

PRICE-FIXING IN WAR TIME
The tendency of the government and the producers of basic materials for the war industries to cooperate in fixing reasonable prices is in the public interest and it is to be hoped that the price-fixing movement under government auspices now in progress will offer a permanent solution of the problem. It is obvious that the industries affected have little choice, under the circumstances, for the government intervention might be extended to the complete commandeering of mines and factories by the government authorities and their operation under government management. The government has the whip hand. Yet the government must desire to avoid the burden of direct operation of such vast industries and the private interests in them must desire to retain control of them.

The situation is wholly abnormal and the sensible thing to do for both sides is to understand each other's special problem in the first place, and then to reach a practical solution as nearly just to all concerned as possible. In questionably the private producers on one side which justice cannot be ignored. High prices for their output are not entirely a question of extortion. The cost of production has risen rapidly on account of the short labor supply and the higher price of raw materials. But, furthermore, the inordinate demand created by government war orders has made of great importance the increase of total output to the maximum figures which an industry can attain.

In the steel industry, for example, private consumers of steel under pressing obligations have bid prices up to 100 per cent higher from fear that they might be shut out of the market entirely on account of government requirements. The tremendous demand for comparatively quick deliveries thus brought about has had the natural effect of making many small abandoned independent plants profitable again to operate, notwithstanding that they can be worked only on the basis of a very high cost of production. If prices of steel are now forced down sufficiently in the general market these plants must shut out of business again and the total output of steel be reduced at a time when a maximum production is required. This illustration is given rather as an extreme case, perhaps, yet it suffices to show how difficult it is for the government to interfere safely and wisely with economic forces under the conditions that exist.

In all of these industries with which the government is dealing there are various other questions to be considered. The anti-trust laws restrain them from price-fixing by agreements among themselves. There is also the question whether the producers should be permitted to raise their prices after giving to the government. The government, too, taxes excess profits and the question arises whether it would be wise to permit the government to leave price-fixing alone and recoup itself through heavy taxation for the high prices charged for war material.

The examination of recruits continued through Sunday. A total of 150 have been examined here. Of these 96 have been accepted. On Wednesday he will be at Seymour returning here Thursday to finish up the examination of the recruits here.

Experts look over site for aviation camp.

DR. REATH U. S. A. AVIATION SERVICE AND MAJOR ALLEN, BRITISH EXPERT HERE

Dr. B. B. Reath, representing the aviation department of the U. S. government, and Major Allen, of the English army aviation corps, were in the city today in consultation with local parties and for the purpose of again looking over the site offered by the city for the government aviation camp. Previously officers had looked over three sites here, but this first investigation was made by laymen in aviation work, solely as representatives of the government to see what the city had to offer. The visit of Major Allen today was in the nature of an expert inspection, and though the officers did not give any intimation as to what his report would be, as well as Dr. Reath, seemed to be very much impressed with one of the sites offered, and Major Allen who was in conference with him all the time that he was here, is of the opinion that the report will be favorable, and that Wichita Falls can look forward to the installation of the camp in the very near future.

The site which seemed to make the most favorable impression was tract of land lying south and west of the glass factory, reaching almost to the lake. For the purpose it is necessary to have a very level tract of soil that can readily be packed hard. It must also be close to steam and street cars and other modern conveniences. The tract in question is now mostly in cultivation, but the soil is such that but very little rolling would be necessary to pack it as hard as a race track, and this particularly seemed to appeal to the officers making the inspection. Mr. Kemp is of the opinion, gathered from statements made by the visitors that within a week or ten days the matter will be decided. The same committee is considering the grounds offered by Fort Worth and Dallas, and probably all of the sites will be selected at the same time.

AIRPLANE SQUADRON FLIES FROM CHICAGO TO RANTOUL

By Associated Press. Chicago, July 9.—What is believed to have been the longest squadron flight of army airplanes so far, was quietly accomplished today. Twenty-three airplanes under Captain Roy S. Brown of the Signal Corps took the air at 6 o'clock this morning, rising at 20 second intervals at the aviation field at Auburn, Ill., and flew in one hour and 35 minutes practically a mile a minute to Rantoul, near Champaign, Ill.

Stockholders of the Southland Oil Co. to the number of 150 were in session this afternoon in the old Odd Fellows' hall on Indiana avenue, for the purpose of electing officers. Their first well east of Electra, was brought in a short time ago and is making better than thirty barrels.

CLEAN AND REUSE OLD PARAFFIN

Washington, D. C., July 9.—Paraffin that has become unclean through usage in canning and preserving, may be cleaned and reused. Don't throw it away because dirt and trash have become mixed with it. Many times paraffin can be cleaned with a brush in cold water. If this does not remove all the dirt, says a specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, heat the paraffin to boiling and strain it through two or three thicknesses of cheesecloth placed over a funnel. Or a thin layer of absorbent cotton over one thickness of cheesecloth may be used as the strainer. One straining should be sufficient ordinarily but if the paraffin still is unclean heat and strain again. Any paraffin lodging in the strainer may be recovered by heating the cloth and pouring off the hot liquid to another strainer.

YOUTH CATCHING DOGS

A LUCILLE MULHALL
A wild-eyed, barefoot youth, of 14 or 16, hotly pursuing two equally wild-eyed and bare-footed dogs, was seen this morning on Indiana avenue, between Seventh and Eighth streets. The youth was brandishing a brick, a Lucille Mulhall, and the dogs were foaming at the mouth. A nervous young man, seeing this procession—seeing a man chasing—stepped the dogs, and as neatly brought down the youth in a flying tackle. Violent and profane protest on the part of the youth. "But listen to me," said the nervous man. "I tell you that if you run the dogs in weather like this, they will go mad and bite somebody." The youth then suggested a place of permanent abode for the nervous man, where weather like this would not be a circumstance. "No," said the nervous man. "I won't go there, but I tell you what I will do. I saw you running those same dogs in the same way Saturday evening, and if I see you doing it again, I will have you given in charge. It is outrageous." The youth then cheerfully offered to go with him at that moment to the station, to have the matter investigated, and they started off together. However, long before they had reached Ninth street, the youth had evaporated. Whether the recent round-up went to his head, or whether he is trying to qualify as official dog catcher was not ascertained. It was quite certain, however, that he was and had been indulging in the dangerous pastime of racing his dogs through town in the heat of the day.

JUDGE FELDER AND FAMILY RETURN FROM AUTO TRIP

Judge C. B. Felder and family have returned to their automobile trip that took them to many Texas points, and which extended over 1365 miles, and lasted for 25 days. Among the places visited were Fort Worth, Dallas, Terrell, Waco, Chappell Hill, Bastrop, Austin, San Antonio, Aransas Pass and Corpus Christi. At Aransas Pass the party spent some time in fishing. They encountered all kinds of roads, but the only car trouble they had was two punctures and a short circuited spark plug. Judge Felder says the crop conditions in all the territory visited is poor. The corn crop is nearly gone. The cotton is backward and the stand is poor, but the fields generally are well cultivated.

THIEVES DESPOIL CHURCHES IN MEXICO CITY

Mexico City.—Churches of this city which contain many objects of art and jewels of great value recently have been despoiled by what is believed by the police to be an organized band of thieves. The thieves were worshipping but, when the church custodians are not watching them, steal articles of value. The latest robbery to suffer from these depredations was the Church of Those Who Have Taken Vows where a collar of diamonds and pearls was taken from the neck of an image of the Virgin.

Uncle Sam's Thrift Thought for Today

Are you wondering how you can use that left-over fish, Madam Housewife?

Here is one suggestion made by the United States Department of Agriculture.

SCALLOPED FISH AND HOMINY
Place in a baking dish alternate layers of boiled or steamed hominy (hulled corn) seasoned to taste, and minced with thickened milk sauce. Have a layer of fish on top and sprinkle over it bread crumbs. Place in oven to bake thoroughly and brown the top.

Rice, macaroni or potatoes will be used in this recipe in the place of hominy.

ARTISTIC STAGE DECORATIONS AT THE EMPRESS

J. W. Wilkie has just installed the most artistic and effective set around the stage of the Empress Theatre. At right, stage is a handsome exterior, presumably the conservatory of some large mansion.

It makes a most attractive and pleasing effect at the entrance to the house. The decorations were put in by the United Scenery Studios of New York, who are very noted theatre decorators.

FILM A TRIUMPH

Spectators in the big moving picture theatres as a rule do not applaud, but the crowds at the Rialto Theatre yesterday afternoon and last night received "Mothers of France," a new patriotic film for which Sarah Bernhardt posed shortly before coming to America, with great bursts of hand-clapping.

As many more like recommendations could be given if we thought necessary to convince you of the qualities of this picture

Read These Reproductions from the Great Dailies of New York:

MOVES RIALTO AUDIENCES (N. Y. Times, March 12th) "Mothers of France" atones for most of the sins of the movies; to see it is recompense for having sat through a series of atrocious and banal war films purporting to point a moral. It is subtle and powerful and must move even the most calloused observer.

Local Brevities

Every patriotic person should see Sarah Bernhardt in "Mothers of France" at the Empress Tuesday.

There was a heavy docket at the police court this morning, no less than seventeen cases coming up. Six of these were colored gentlemen, strongly suspected of gaming. There was a great deal of talk, and much wild rolling of eyes, assertions of apoplexy in consequence, and promises of reform. Heavy penalties were mentioned with the most solemn and portentous austerity; but the cases were finally dismissed. The eight drunk who caused followed, being nothing out of the ordinary except in point of numbers, were assessed the customary five dollars, and set upon their several ways. Two affirms were dismissed, and one speeder contributed five dollars.

C. M. Mann, Frank Order, Phil Replogle, and one other man had a very hard escape yesterday when the Ford truck in which they were riding turned over one and a half times. They were driving along the Seymour road about three miles from town, at about fifteen miles an hour when the right front tire went flat suddenly, throwing the truck onto the rim. At the same moment a bad place in the road caused a still further dip with the result that the truck turned over, throwing the men twenty-five feet. None were hurt, which is almost miraculous, considering the nature of the accident. The bed of the truck was wrecked, and two wheels though the whole damage will not amount to more than about thirty dollars worth.

At the Theatres

The Empress. Wallace Reid, who with Myrtle Stodard is seen at the Empress today in the Morocco-Paramount production of "The World Apart," and Eugene Pallette, a popular young actor who plays the heavy, are inseparable friends. This friendship was very nearly shattered during the filming of the light scenes in their forthcoming production. In those particular scenes Wallace is attacked by Pallette and Barrows, and has his hands full. As Pallette made a rush for him, he tripped over his knees and Pallette tripping over his body, fell on his head. For a minute war was actually declared and the two young men sailed into each other with a vim which compelled director Taylor to call a half before the scene was finished.

Interpret of child roles is sure to be vastly enhanced through presentations of "The Little Orphan," newest offering of the Empress at the Plaza Theatre tonight. Miss Hall has made a specialty of juvenile roles, almost invariably starting the impersonation with her characteristic childhood and carrying it on to maturity. In "The Crippled Hand," "The Bugler of Algiers," "Her Soul's Inspiration," "A Jewel in Pawn," and other Bluebirds of pleasant memory, Miss Hall was first a joyous child who goes on to happiness through struggle and adversity. In "The Little Orphan," she will impersonate one of a group of Belgian children, brought to America by the charity inclined, to be provided with a home. An old bachelor adopts the little girl, rears her in affluence with every advantage his money can give her, only to find when she reaches budding womanhood that she has entwined herself around his heart and made him a slave to his love for his foster child. There is a young man, nearly her own age, who figures in the scheme of happiness and the outcome, not to be forecasted for obvious reasons, will furnish a climax as satisfying as the pleasurable details that lead to the solution of the old bachelor's problem.

EVERYTHING ARMY USES MUST BE O. K. BY Major General Sharpe

On the shoulders of Major General Henry G. Sharpe, quartermaster general of the United States army, rests the immense responsibility of purchasing all the varied supplies needed for the armies of the United States. It would take a volume to tell of the multifarious activities of General Sharpe and his assistants. Everything for the army's equipment and rationing is General Sharpe's care. He succeeded General Alesha in September, 1916, and it was said then he is the recognized substance expert of the army. In the field, nine years ago he made a tour of Europe to study the supply systems of the British, French and German armies.

OLD GRAFT SYSTEM EVIDENT IN NEW YORK

New York, July 9.—District Attorney Swann, returning to New York last night after a conference at Albany with Governor Whitman on the negligence in the murder of Ruth Cruger, high school student, declared the old system of corruption apparently has re-established its hold on the police department of New York. "The governor agrees with me," Mr. Swann said, "that the old system which was broken up with the execution of Lieutenant Becker and the conviction of a number of grafting policemen, apparently has re-established itself. We discussed the question of an extraordinary term of the criminal branch of the supreme court for the trial of police cases. The governor has the question under advisement."

WALKED HUNDREDS OF MILES TO JOIN MARINES Washington, July 9.—Because the loss of the "trigger finger" had prevented his enlistment, Walter Cogswell Ford, age 22, of Binghamton, N. Y., walked all the way from that city to Washington to make personal application to the major General Commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps. Ford carried a sign on his back which read: "From Binghamton, N. Y., to Washington, D. C., to join the U. S. Marines. It's Worth It!" Upon his arrival here young Ford proved that the loss of the index finger of his right hand was no handicap in the performance of military duty, and special authority was granted for his enlistment. So far as is known, he is the first man, similarly handicapped, to pass the military authorities. Adson Trotter returned last night from Colorado. L. P. Hammond returned yesterday from Manitou, Colo., where he spent last week with his family. Mrs. Hammond and the children will remain until September.
