DECIDE TOMORROW ON IMPEACHMENT TRIAL

HOUSE LIKELY TO VOTE ON ISSUE SOME TIME FRIDAY

ARGUMENTS OF ATTORNEYS LIKELY TO COME TO CLOSE LATE TODAY

THE MANNER OF VOTING

This Question Will Cause Argument—Henry And Terrell Gave Arguments at Morning Session

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Aug. 23.—The House investigation of Speaker F. O. Fuller's charges against Governor James E. Ferguson today entered its next to final stage.

Arguments begun last night were pushed toward conclusion which was expected late this afternoon. Voting should come tomorrow on whether a bill of impeachment should be presented to the Senate.

Following argument a fight is finally to come up as to the mode in which the committee shall express its sentiments on charges. Some members are said to favor a blanket vote on the entire 13 charges while others, it is known, will ask a separate vote of each charge.

Congressman "Bob" Henry for the Governor was the first to speak today's arguments. Chester Terrell for Speaker Fuller, B. Y. Cummings and Clarence Martin for the Governor and M. M. Crane for the House committee of the whole were scheduled to follow in order.

Mr. Henry urged the members of the House to approach voting on the charges of impeachment in "a broad spirit of altruism."

"There is no charge of official corruption against James E. Ferguson," he said. "This is no time for abuse and recrimination."

He declared the Governor in disbursing the $2,000 mansion appropriation had acted in accordance with the law adopted by the legislature itself; that the Canyon City normal money matter had previously been before the people and that he had been elected; that the $5,000 charge against the Governor's official debt was made by a subordinate whose action was not his; that the governor; that the chief executive in encouraging state deposits in banks followed a long established custom; that in the case of the University of Texas a situation of great difficulty which he undertook honestly to solve; that there was no possibility of the University of Texas at the location of the college location because Secretary Thomason had declared positively that three votes were cast for Abilene on the second ballot and that he believed other than that Thomason was an honest man; finally that the alleged "bribe" given by the Governor to the speaker was a bona fide loan; the speaker never having declared any reason why the Governor should have tried to influence him.

Mr. Henry devoted a large part of his time to the university situation. He said it had been developed that gross extravagance, corruption and abuse existed at the university.

"And because the Governor performed his duty in seeking to correct these conditions, must he be crucified," he asked.

He declared the $2,000,000 rural school bill would be a monument for the future which would show that James E. Ferguson was the enemy of education. Closing Mr. Henry said that if there should be judgment the people should render it.

Chester Terrell followed: He said that there was no reason why Fuller should deny voting for Abilene if he had done so. The speaker, he said, had a legitimate ambition to go to Congress and he had held to the proposition that Abilene was fairly selected he could have had the governor's assistance.

"Why did the Governor say before the farmers institute that he saw Fuller write 'Abilene' on his ballot, and then testify before this body that he did not see him write it," asked Terrell.

"Bill Hanger said a man's word should be as good as his oath, I agree with him."

The speaker said the governor testified that he saw the word Abilene on Fuller's ballot as it was dropped in the secretary's hat, but he did not see the spectacles on.

"But you saw when the Governor had anything to read on the stand," he added. "He was careful to put on his spectacles."

Terrell referred to a statement by Congressman Henry that if Fuller's loan from the Governor had been a bribe the Governor would have given

Speaker Fuller currency and not a check. "That was unfortunate," he said, "in view of the fact that $156,000 in currency was passed to the Governor by parties unknown and in a manner which it appears was not to be disclosed to the state. There was not a scrap of paper in that deal."

Terrell's argument next dealt with the Governor's bank affairs. He referred to the Governor's statement that he knew nothing of the ten day extension of the Ferguson and Davis notes of $17,500 each by the Houston National Exchange bank and the request for a ten day extension.

"The Governor testified at the first investigation that he made the arrangements or these loans," said the speaker, "and in this investigation a letter by T. H. Heard of the Temple State Bank to the Houston bank officials has been read which says that Heard had just conversed with the Governor and a ten day extension would be desirable."

"The Governor testified at the first hearing that he had settled his debts with the Temple State Bank. But as this hearing he has admitted that the notes by which his affairs were straightened out were guaranteed by him and the parties who gave them were not financially capable of bearing them."

Berlin, Aug. 23.—The Liberal press points out as a significant figure of Tuesday's session of the main committee of the Reichstag Chancellor Michaelis' statement that the government would not take final action on the peace note without consulting and advising with the committee. This is being received as a pledge that the government henceforth intends to collaborate with the Reichstag factions in dealing with the chief problems of the nation's foreign policy and that it would continue to work with harmony with the committee in the direction of achieving a peace of reconciliation and mutual understanding.

The suggestion that a smaller sub-committee of the main committee be organized as a means of acting as a confidential committee between the government and parliament is meeting with approval. It is said to have the sanction of the chancellor.

OVER FORTY DERRICKS DESTROYED

More than 40 derricks were demolished in the Burk Burnett and Iowa Park fields and other minor damages to buildings and trees in and near Burk Burnett as a result of a wind and electrical storm which appears to have visited the entire county in varying degrees of intensity about 5 or 5:30 this morning.

Reports indicate that the most serious damage was to the oil fields, where work will be retarded possibly for several weeks while the "blown down" derricks are being replaced. Twenty of the derricks belonged to the Gulf Production Company and 4 to the Producers while the other damages were shared by numerous other companies and independent operators.

The storm had its center in Burk Burnett where a brilliant electrical display accompanied the high wind and half inch of rain that fell. Many residents of the town were driven to their storm cellars. The Airplane at Burk Burnett was damaged and other slight damages are reported.

The Austrian losses in the first two days of the battle are computed officially in Italy at 30,000 men.

The fighting on the Verdun front is dying down. The French objective north of Verdun apparently has been attained. No important infantry action in this sector has been reported. The number of prisoners has reached 7,639. The French have also captured 24 cannon and more than 300 machine guns.

The Germans continued their attacks on the Aisne front but met with no success several attacks being repulsed by the French.

The Germans are continuing vigorously and successfully their new offensive on the extreme northern end of the Russian front. They have made substantial gains along the Gulf of Riga. The official report from Petrograd shows a Russian withdrawal of about 7 miles along the coast in the direction of Riga. Berlin gives few details and it is not yet clear whether the Germans have committed themselves to a sustained offensive in the north.

On examination they stated that the Chevrolet had gone dead at Dallas and they abandoned it for the Ford in which they were riding. A telegram from Dallas offices confirmed the theft of the Ford, which belonged to a man at Clarksville, Texas.

The men were turned over to county officers to be held for examination and identification. Officers at DeQueen were notified.

The arrest was made by Detective Frank Burris, who questioned the men as to where they were from and was told that they had come from Oklahoma. On being shown the telegram from DeQueen, however, they intimated that they were the men wanted.

GERMANS DROP BOMBS ON HOSPITAL BEHIND VERDUN; KILL 10 WOUNDED MEN, 20 NURSES AND WOUND OTHERS

bombs which were being rained down. Meanwhile the German aviators circled about in the air for a half hour firing machine guns at hospital orderlies who were endeavoring to extinguish the flames. The nurses had just finished bandaging 150 wounded Germans who had been brought direct from the battlefields and had just gone to bed. The Red Cross signs were painted prominently on the hospital roofs.

Fifteen bags of silver money, a small box of silver and gold coins, three suit cases, one containing among other things a complete telegraphic instrument, and a quantity of burglars tools, was the "goods" taken from three young men arrested here this afternoon by officers from the city police department. The men were arrested on information from DeQueen, Ark., notifying the officers to take up John C. Warnix, aged 23, Enoch Warnix, aged 21, and W. W. Hester, aged 29, driving a Chevrolet automobile and wanted at DeQueen for theft. The information did not say whether it was a bank robbery, post office burglary or depot theft. Officers are inclined to think it was a depot, from the fact that the telegraph instrument was among the booty. The men gave different names than those furnished the officers, and were driving a Ford instead of a Chevrolet, but their descriptions tallied so well with those furnished that there was no question as to the identity.

On examination they stated that the Chevrolet had gone dead at Dallas and they abandoned it for the Ford in which they were riding. A telegram from Dallas offices confirmed the theft of the Ford, which belonged to a man at Clarksville, Texas.

The men were turned over to county officers to be held for examination and identification. Officers at DeQueen were notified.

The arrest was made by Detective Frank Burris, who questioned the men as to where they were from and was told that they had come from Oklahoma. On being shown the telegram from DeQueen, however, they intimated that they were the men wanted.

Home Reading Course For Citizen-Soldiers

LESSON NO. 9.

Your Equipment and Arms.

(Proceeding Lessons: 1. Your Post of Honor. 2. Making Good as a Soldier. 3. Nine Qualities of a Soldier. 4. Getting Ready for Camp. 5. Cleanliness in Camp. 6. Your Health. 7. Marching and Care of Feet.)

Each soldier in a modern army carries with him sufficient food, clothing, shelter, fighting arms, and ammunition to take care of himself for a short period in case he should be separated from his company. The total weight of his load, in addition to the clothes he wears, is 50 to 70 pounds. The number of articles is surprisingly large. They are so devised, however, that by ingenious methods of packing and adjusting they can all be carried with the least possible effort.

You are personally responsible for all the arms, clothing, and supplies issued to you. The trained soldier keeps track of them. He knows immediately at any time where every one of his belongings is to be found. You are required to keep them in good condition. In case you need other articles, they may be issued to you; but their value in that case will be deducted from your next pay.

You will receive on enlistment an ample supply of clothing, including not only your uniform, but extra shirts, undershirts, and socks. You may not be able always to keep your clothing spotlessly clean. But when it becomes dirty or spotted take the first opportunity to clean it thoroughly.

Your shoes must be cleaned and polished frequently. Wet shoes should be carefully dried. Army men frequently dry their shoes during the night by taking a few handfuls of dry, clean pebbles, heating them in a meat can or kettle until they are very hot, and then placing them in the shoes. So long as the pebbles are hot move them about once in a while by shaking the shoes. Take not to heat the pebbles so hot that the shoes will be scorched.

In general, see to it that all your clothing is as neat and clean as possible at all times. Mend rips and sew on buttons without delay. This will add to your comfort as well as appearance.

Wear your hat straight. Don't affect the "smart aleck" style of tilting the hat. Keep all buttons fastened. Have your trousers and leggings properly laced. Keep yourself clean shaven. Carry yourself like a soldier.

Bear in mind that there is a tendency in camp life for men to become careless and untidy. You must use every means to counteract this tendency. For this purpose the customs and regulations of the Army emphasize the necessity for personal neatness and cleanliness.

Besides his extra clothing a soldier carries a blanket, a rubber poncho, a canteen, a mess kit, including meat can, knife, fork, and spoon, a cup, toilet articles, a first aid package, and some minor belongings.

One of the most useful pieces of equipment is a shelter tent, with ropes and pins. The shelter tent is said to be a French invention which was introduced into the American Army during the Civil War. In the Army it is often called a "dog tent," evidently because of its shape and small size. Two men can combine their halves and set up a shelter tent in a few minutes. While it can not be described as roomy, it is just what its name implies, a "shelter" from wind and rain. It is used only in temporary camps.

Your chief fighting tools will be a rifle, a bayonet in a scabbard, a cartridge belt, and an entrenching tool. Other weapons or defenses needed in modern trench warfare will be referred to later. Do not under any cir-

RIESENBERG-FINE WEDDING WEDNESDAY

Wednesday at 12 o'clock Miss Flora Riesenbergs daughter and Miss Fine were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Riesenbergs, 1620 Eleventh street, Dr. Goldberg was officiating. The wedding was a very quiet affair, only the immediate family of the contracting parties being present, but arrangements were none the less attractive and complete in detail. The ceremony was read in the long living room which was decorated in pink and white flowers, a similar floral arrangement was carried out in the entire reception suite. The bride wore her traveling suit of a dark mixture clothed in a new fall model, with hat of black panther velvet touched with gray. Blouse, gloves, boots and other accessories were in gray. Her corsage bouquet was a bouquet of pink and white flowers and miniature suit cases filled with bride's cake formed the place cards and favors. An elaborate six-course menu was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sampson of Mingo and Leon Fine of Burkburnett were the only lower relatives present. Mr. and Mrs. Fine left immediately following the luncheon for their wedding trip which will include visits in St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Niagara Falls and a tour through the Adirondacks. They will be home after September 20 at the Westland Hotel.

This wedding is one of the most interesting here from a community standpoint through her charm of appearance and manner she has won friends quickly and is a popular member of the society and is prominent in club work as well. The groom is proprietor of the Fine Dry Goods establishment of this city, and though he has been in business here for a comparatively short length of time he has already established his reputation as a splendid business man and is also possessed of the faculty of making friends in a social way as well. The friends and acquaintances of both young people will join in their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fine.

LETTER FROM CONSTANTINE TO EMPEROR FOUND

London, Aug. 21.—An Athens dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says that among the diplomatic documents found in Athens since the change of government, is a letter of former King Constantine written a few days after the war began in response to a message from Emperor William, who proposed Constantine should range himself on the side of Germany. King Constantine wrote:

"The emperor knows my personal opinions attract me to his side. Nevertheless it is impossible for me to understand in what manner I could be useful to him in mobilizing my army. The Mediterranean is at the mercy of the united fleet of England and France, which could destroy our navy and merchant marine, occupy our islands and above all prevent concentration of my army, which could be affected by sea in the absence of railway communications. Without it being in our power to be assisted in any particular, we would be wiped off the map. I am necessarily of the opinion that neutrality is imposed upon us."

Gottlieb von Jagow, then German foreign secretary, replied to Constantine that Emperor William would understand the necessity of maintaining neutrality for the present. He advised Constantine to reach an understanding with Sofia and Constantinople.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR ONCE TAUGHT IN JAPAN

Associated Press Mail Correspondence.

Tokio.—Dr. George Michaelis, the recently appointed Imperial Chancellor of Germany, was the man who introduced into the Japanese school system the idea of military training that every Japanese school boy of today goes through. It was then a teacher in the German school in Kanda, Tokio. Thirty years ago Dr. Michaelis came to Japan as a young man to become principal of the German school, which was supported by the German society of Japan. Among his students were boys who have become prominent in the public life of this country, including K. Arimatsu, director of the Bureau of Legislation in the present Cabinet and personal advisor to Count Teruchi, and Professor Mukai, former member of the faculty of Keio University.

Professor Mukai giving reminiscences of Dr. Michaelis, said in an interview: "He came to Japan, if I remember rightly, in 1885. He was rather young and unmarried. He came out through the influence of either Prince Ito or Viscount Aoki, both since dead. He taught law and political economy. As he was still young it seems to me that his knowledge was not deep but he was spirited and looked a man of steady character."

"He was very popular with his students, who liked to attend his lectures. He came first on a contract of three years, but the contract was prolonged by two more years at the desire of the school authorities. He was the man who first introduced into his school a system of military drill for boys, and this is now universally practiced at every school for boys in this country. He was very fond of exercise and often took part in games with his students. He was short, yet strong. He was a very fast runner and could beat any of his students easily, but he was running a race with his students he never outran them, but always allowed one or two to finish ahead of him so as to encourage the boys."

HUMIDITY AND HEAT CAUSE A RESTLESS NIGHT

Unusually humid conditions with the mercury hanging near the century mark made Wednesday night one of the most uncomfortable here in years. At 6 p. m. the thermometer registered 100, the mercury receding very slowly to 85 at midnight and 80 at 3 a. m. A shower followed by breezes after 3 o'clock brought morning brightness. The temperature fell to 70 this morning there was no breeze and weary sleepers sought relief in vain. Many sought relief on porches and out of doors in vain.

LIGHT HOUSE KEEPERS WERE ALMOST STARVED

Associated Press Mail Correspondence.

Yera Cruz, Mexico.—A passenger steamer which recently arrived at this port reported the relief of four lighthouse keepers and their families stationed on Triangles Island, on the coast from Progresso to Vera Cruz. The lighthouse keepers had not been visited by a supply boat for months and were out of provisions and the point of death from hunger.

UNCLE SAM'S THRIFT THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A WAY TO UTILIZE STALE BREAD.

Here is a way suggested by the United States Department of Agriculture to utilize stale bread and left-over milk:

French Toast.

Beat up together 1 egg, 1 cup of skim or whole milk, and salt to taste. Place a small quantity of butter, bacon fat or other suitable fat in a broad-bottom frying pan. Dip slices of stale bread into the egg and milk mixture until they are thoroughly moist and fry on both sides until a golden brown. Serve hot with or without sirup.

GREATEST DEMAND FOR BIBLES EVER KNOWN

New York, Aug. 22.—WPE publishers falling daily further behind in their orders the war has created the greatest demand in the history of the nation for bibles.

Publishers here say that any one who possesses a set of electrotype plates for this new testament, pocket size, owes something almost as valuable as a steamship.

Many of the publishers report their presses running from 15 to 18 hours a day, but they are still several weeks behind, orders already received.

Wichita Falls, Texas, August 23, 1917.

Over in Oklahoma scores of men are being bound over under heavy bonds to the federal grand jury for conspiracy to resist the draft. Yet sick and tongue-tied agitators, whose false and treasonable utterances directly incited ignorant men to the step of resisting the draft are still at large. These orator agitators, most of them know just how far they can go short of getting into trouble themselves. Once in a while one of them oversteps the bounds and finds himself in trouble, but too many of them are able to evade their just deserts. The great majority of them are traitors at heart and going as far as they dare to obstruct the government and give aid and comfort to the enemy. There have been some of that kind in Wichita Falls. Some of them are still here. It is to be deplored that the laws can not cover their cases.

Those who heard Major Ousley speak at the Guard meeting here last night could not help but feel that here was the fine type of young American manhood which is going into our new armies, the manhood that will add glory to America's fame, the manhood of whom deeds, such as have stained the German name, could never be recorded. It is pleasing to record that Major Ousley is a son of Hon. Alvin Ousley so favorably known to many Wichitans. The son has the spirit and fire of his father.

Since it is assured that the amendment providing for the organization of irrigation districts throughout the State has been carried by a large majority, the project long contemplated by leading citizens of this city to build a dam across the Wichita river 35 or 40 miles above this city is now made possible. If this project is successfully put through as planned years ago, a dam strong enough to hold a body of water sufficient to irrigate 100,000 acres of land, and also to furnish power to generate electricity for manufacturing and domestic purposes will be contributed, and Wichita Falls will then grow and prosper at a rate that will soon place her in the class of cities of 100,000 population. About all that the soil of this country needs to produce abundant crops annually is water in the crop making season. That problem can now be solved and it will be right up to the owners of the irrigable lands to decide whether it will be.

In order to assist our allies in whipping Germany, it is the duty of every loyal American citizen to render all aid possible to the government. This certainly is no time for professional agitators to roam the country and by imputation, if not by direct words uttered, denounce the government and the method it has adopted of winning this war. If the law is not sufficient to cover such cases, then the laws should be stretched sufficiently for that purpose. It is far better that these professional trouble-makers should be handled legally, rather than leave it up to the people. Prompt action on the part of the government will prevent such an occurrence as took place in Montana a few weeks ago. Again, we say, if this country is good enough to live in, it is good to fight for.

Major Ousley in making his appeal to the citizens of Wichita Falls last night to contribute liberally of their funds to provide some of the comforts of life to the two companies of soldier boys made up of the young men from this and adjoining counties, touched the hearts of his audience and the appeal extended to their pocketbooks as well. The result was that the amount it was desired to be contributed for that purpose was readily subscribed. Wichita Falls is as proud of her soldier boys as they are of Wichita Falls, and when they leave us for the training camps, and later for the battle trenches of France, many probably to never return, they will made to feel that, as so aptly put by the speaker, they have friends in Wichita Falls who will remain as such while they go forth to do our fighting, and with such a feeling they will be able to fight all the harder and make better soldiers. We can't do too much for these soldier boys.

We can't do too much for these soldier boys.

Major Ousley in making his appeal to the citizens of Wichita Falls last night to contribute liberally of their funds to provide some of the comforts of life to the two companies of soldier boys made up of the young men from this and adjoining counties, touched the hearts of his audience and the appeal extended to their pocketbooks as well. The result was that the amount it was desired to be contributed for that purpose was readily subscribed. Wichita Falls is as proud of her soldier boys as they are of Wichita Falls, and when they leave us for the training camps, and later for the battle trenches of France, many probably to never return, they will made to feel that, as so aptly put by the speaker, they have friends in Wichita Falls who will remain as such while they go forth to do our fighting, and with such a feeling they will be able to fight all the harder and make better soldiers. We can't do too much for these soldier boys.

Market Report

Chicago Grain Futures. Most of the standing crop was out of danger from drought together with reports of abundant yield gave corn prices a downward trend at the opening today. Opening prices ranged from a shade to five cents lower with December at 1.07 3/4 to 1.08 1/4 and May at 1.06 1/4 to 1.07. Wheat closed steady at 1 cent higher. Final figures for Sept. being 2.77.

New York Cotton Futures.

The cotton market opened at a decline of 9 to 14 points with October touching 23.20 and January 23.15 on the call. There was considerable covering with the decline however and the market rallied on rumors that a southern authority estimated the condition at 76 per cent or 1.3 percent under last month. This was evidently a disappointment to recent sellers and rallies were followed by renewal irregularity. Cotton closed irregular, October 23.12, December 23.22, January 23.16, March 23.32, May 23.35.

UNIFORMS FOR NATIONAL GUARD ARRIVE TODAY

The new uniforms for the National Guard arrived today, and will be issued to the troops either tonight or tomorrow.

Everything is therefore in readiness for the trip to Fort Worth, except the cars. J. B. Marlow reported today that there is still need for between 20 and more cars. The committee feels that having asked for so much from the citizens of Wichita Falls and got it, it is entitled to ask for a little more; and that it would be a pity to spoil such a unique and spectacular event as this parade will be for lack of a few cars. The committee, therefore, wishes to appeal for more offers of cars, and to say that any who are willing, either to send or drive their cars will help greatly by not waiting till they are called upon personally, but communicating with Mr. Marlow or any of the members of the Chamber of Commerce immediately.

ROUSING MASS MEETING FOR NATIONAL GUARD

MAJOR OUSLEY DELIVERS SPIRITED ADDRESS IN BEHALF OF MEN WHO WILL FIGHT

MONEY FOR THE BOYS

Good Part of $1,000 Fund Already Subscribed—Committee is Soliciting Today

One of the best attended mass meetings ever held was that of last night on behalf of the National Guard fund. And one of the most rousing speeches ever delivered here was that of Major Ousley, in his spirited appeal to the citizens to stand behind the boys who are going to fight. The committee has been collecting for this fund, and it is to be used to reimburse the officers for their out of pocket expenses for the equipment of the camp, and the balance to form the nucleus of a company fund for the boys. Major Ousley reports that a goodly sum has been collected, but that they are still short of the mark set—one thousand dollars. Those who have not yet contributed to this fund may do so either at the Palace Drug Store, or any one of the four banks. It is impossible for the committee to call on everyone and whilst a number have been personally asked to make donations it is felt that this is a matter where it is a privilege to give, and where the giver should come forward, without the aid of a collector. In order that there may be no mis understanding as to the object of this fund it may be well to state once more, that before the camp at Lakota, Wichita went under Federal control the boys were without supplies of any kind, and that even after August 5th, when the camp was taken over by the government, the supplies were very late in arriving. Meanwhile, in order that the boys might not be in absolute want for necessities, the officers bought out their own supplies for them. This fund is largely to pay the bills incurred by the officers for these supplies.

Major Ousley's Speech. "I desire first of all to thank you for what you have done for these boys in the past. Not only for the boys, indeed, but in every phase of this war work in which you have been called upon to give money, or goods, or time. You did splendid work on the Liberty Loan, and equally splendid work on the Red Cross war fund. But you have done more than that—you have given men and in your humble mind, one American soldier is worth all the other nations together. It is possible, however, in spite of this, that you do not yet realize the awful seriousness of this war. Wait till your boys are on foreign soil, and in the battle front; wait till you receive the news of their blood spilt; and of their death. Then, indeed, you will begin to realize that this is indeed your war; then you will wish that you had done even more than you have for them."

The Fame of Wichita Falls. "Wherever I have been talking about this war, and what we must do in it, I have said, look at Wichita Falls; look what she has done. The appeal has never failed. It has invariably stimulated the people of other towns to greater efforts. And therefore you cannot afford to fall back now, because your name is already written large in the front page of Texas fame. So I ask you, in figuring out what would be fair for these boys to have, figure what you yourselves would have, and do have—and give enough that they may have only half of what you have, and they will have enough. These men who are making it safe for you to earn your living in peace, give them half of what you have. For if you want a soldier to fight, feed him. Such a little from each of you, will mean so much for them."

These young men are soon to go to camp and soon from there to fight the strongest for the world has ever known. How fine it will be for each of them to be able to have a daily reminder of the folks, to tell them that they and the folks are all fighting the same battle, they in one way, the folks at home in another. What a difference that will make in the minds of the soldiers, if they can feel that they and you are fighting together. When the clouds gather about the private individual—his business, if he has a home, his wife and gain from her encouragement—if she will say to him, you and I can pull through this—what a difference that makes to the man. Let these boys feel that you realize that this is your war; that they are doing what you do for you, and that you are doing what you do for them. Then they will fight, and then will make the finest fighting men on the face of the earth. But you and they must work together and pull together, and win together."

Why We Are Fighting. "Why are we fighting? We are fighting because we have always stood for the rights of man, for freedom for justice. We must see the right done. This war has been conducted in a way to show us that the world is no longer, as we supposed, a safe place to live in. We are fighting, as France, England, Italy and all the allies are fighting, to make it safe. Was not Belgium outraged and martyred by a horde of murderers? And look what was done to the Roumanian and Armenian women, seven hundred thousand women fled from the approach of the German army, and fled in vain. The army caught up with them, violated, murdered and mutilated them; and when the crowds and buzzards had picked the flesh from their bones, the bones were taken to make fertilizer for German fields. If that is not enough to fight for, in God's name, I ask you, what ought we to fight for? We could not as champions of right and justice, as we have always been, wait till France and England were overwhelmed. We could not as true Americans wait till the last hope of liberty had been trodden under the German heel. We had to fight, and we are fighting that these deeds, so un speakably foul, cannot be repeated in the history of the world. It was America's part to take her stand for liberty."

Get behind these boys. Let them feel that they are your soldiers, and that you are proud of them. Let them

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW FRONT FOR KRUGERS' STORE

A contract has been let to Taylor Bros. for the remodeling of the front of the Kruger Jewelry Store, and work is expected to begin early next week. The plans call for a front that will include one of the most modern designs in the city. The present windows will be taken out entirely, and others, made to fit with a single door in the center, and a wide white tile, will be installed. The tile will reach about three feet from the ground, and above this will be beveled plate glass, with a window design in the center. The interior of the store will also be remodelled and redecorated, giving it the most up to date appearance.

WICHITA MILL BUYS SACK SEWING MACHINE

The Wichita Mill and Elevator Company has purchased a modern sack-sewing machine, which will be installed in 30 or 40 days. The sack-sewing machine is practically a new thing in the south, though they have been in use in the north and east for several years. Up to two years ago they were unknown in this part of the country, and even now they are only to be found in the best of mills. Galveston, Waco, Dallas, Beaumont and Wichita Falls have the only ones in the state where they are used. The nature of work done by the machine is sewing the bags of flour, and this work formerly having been done by hand, it is manufactured by the Union Special Machine Company of Chicago.

SOLDIER'S CHANCE 15 TO 1—ONLY ONE AMERICAN IN 500 LIKELY TO LOSE LIMB

Don't worry if your son is drafted. Fourteen men out of every fifteen have been safe from death so far.

Under present conditions, where man power is being saved, not more than one in thirty is killed.

Disease has taken no more than one in a hundred.

Only one man in 500 loses a limb—a chance no greater than that in hazardous occupations at home.—Roger Babson.

From the Boston Post.

"I've been drafted and will in all probability go to the firing line in France. Are the chances for or against my returning home safely?"

It was a young man employe of Roger Babson, the Wellesley statistician, who asked the question. He wasn't afraid of what might happen to him, in fact, he was rather proud of it, but he simply wanted information for use in arranging his affairs.

Of course, Mr. Babson, even though he deals with figures at all times, could not give the young man an off-hand answer. But he made up his mind that the soldier-to-be deserved a reliable answer. So immediately, the statistician got busy, obtained official figures and was soon able to give the young man this answer:

"Fifteen out of sixteen of the boys who fight in France, in all likelihood will be safe and sound one year after they enter the trenches."

Based on French Losses.

Mr. Babson's conclusions are based on the mortality figures of the French army during the full three years of the war. It should be remembered that the present fighting is not resulting in anywhere near the number of deaths that occurred during the first two years, when such battles as that at the Marne, at Ypres and at Verdun sent the mortality rate soaring.

"In the first place," Mr. Babson said, "the disease scourges which used to raise havoc with armies in the field are no more. Cholera, dysentery and typhoid no more take a horrible toll from the ranks; modern methods of sanitation and prevention have made these things of the past."

"Let's take a look at the figures in the matter. In round numbers, 5 million men have fought under the banner of France since the beginning of the war. Of these approximately sixty thousand have died from diseases of various kinds, comparing these with the mortality figures of peace times for men of the same ages, we find that they are about the same. Remember, that during the first months of the war, before it was possible to care properly for ailing soldiers, deaths were at a terrible rate, which brought the rate for the three years much higher than it is at present."

"So under present methods of sanitation, a man is not as likely to die from disease in an army as he is at home."

"About 900,000 men in the French army have been killed or died from wounds during the three years of war; half of these died during the first year. But in compiling the statistics, we'll take the average, which is 320,000 a year, or about one-sixteenth of the total number engaged. Thus, considering a man in this war for one year, he has fifteen chances of returning home to one of being killed.

Death Rate is Decreasing.

"But, as I have said, half of these men, considered above, were killed in the first year of the war. Since then the mortality rate has been dwindling until now it is very low for a year. If such a condition continues, it is very likely that no more than one man in thirty or forty will be killed. That seems fully enough, but the mother at home should remember that twelve men out of every thousand, at the army age, die each year during peace time; that is, one man out of eighty-three dies each year in civil life."

"Figuring deaths from both diseases and wounds, under conditions such as our boys are likely to encounter, any young man is about three times as likely to meet death in the army as at home. In fact, a man in the heavy artillery is in no more danger of death than is an employe of a railroad."

"The person at home is prone to picture the boy at the front as indulging in constant charges against the enemy, exposing his life every hour of the day. Such is far from the case. A man's turn to charge comes once or twice a month. Then, of course, he is in grave danger. But at other times he is in no more danger of death than he is when walking about the streets of New York City."

"The likelihood of death from poisoning gases has been reduced to a minimum by the use of masks. At the beginning of the war men thought it smart not to don their masks until the last instant; they think so no more. As soon as they get a warning of a gas attack they don their masks instantly. They are now fighting with their heads as well as their arms and the result is greater security."

Amputations Are Few.

"Now let's look at the probability of a man's returning terribly wounded. It is an established fact that since the first few months of the war the number of amputations have been very few. Only one man in five hundred loses an arm or a leg, few more than do those men engaged in hazardous occupations at home. Only during charges is a man likely to sustain a wound that will maim him for life."

"Most of the wounds sustained in the trenches are clean cut and of a nature that a few weeks in the hospital makes the subject as fit as ever. But three hundred thousand French soldiers have been discharged on account of wounds during the three years of the war."

"Fighting in the trenches, most of the wounds are in the top of the head, simply scalp wounds in the majority of cases, as a bullet must first penetrate a steel helmet and in the left arm and shoulder, somewhat exposed in firing. Practically speaking, a wound is either fatal or slight, with but few in between these two extremes."

"Of course, the whole thing is horrible enough as it is. But I wish to tell the fathers and mothers left behind by the boys that, looking at the matter in the light of cold blooded statistics, these boys are not going into anywhere near the danger the folks at home imagine."

Despite its pockets, collar and snash ends of wool embroidery, this navy serge coat persists in being a rather soldierly garment, so suitable for young girls to don this fall.

WOMAN REVOLUTIONISTS JOINS RUSSIAN ARMY

Associated Press Mail Correspondence.

Petrograd, June 30.—Marya Spiridovna, famous from the Revolution of 1905, has joined the ranks of women champions of "war till victory." Mile. Spiridovna, a nineteen year old student at a secondary school, which is horrified by the flogging of Tamboff peasants by Assistant Governor Luzenkov, that she shot the oppressor dead, she was arrested, dragged from place to place in a cattle truck, and tortured. The gendarme officer who acted as jailer stripped her naked, and held burning matches against her skin. Her case provoked international protest.

Mile. Spiridovna has been in "katorga," the most terrible of penal prisons, and spent three years in chains. After her release by the revolution, she lay ill in Tschita, East Siberia, the place where she had been invited her to become a candidate for election as mayor. On her way home to Europe, thousands of Siberians met and acclaimed her at the railroad station, and she replied by begging the men to fight for liberty, and begging the women to incite their husbands to battle.

Speaking at Omsk, she told deserter soldiers that America's entry into the war should make them blush with shame as Americans, for their sentiment had been a powerful factor in her favor.

The Gem.

Herbert Rawlinson will be one of the stellar attractions at the Gem today, appearing in "Caught in the Act," a comedy. There is a lot of talk about Herbert Rawlinson just now, on account of his tremendous success in the seven-reel feature, "Come Through," by George Bronson Howard, which made such a hit at the Broadway Theatre, and recently produced by T. N. Heffron. Yet it is in such pictures that a good part of his reputation has been made. He has a new opportunity as the young fellow, who goes out to celebrate a night with the boys, commits a mysterious crime, and is pursued by the police, who mistake him for a wreck of his whole life. Tom yells to him that he doesn't want to know what it was he did. The Jap valet, Banzai, comes to Tom's assistance with hot water, cold cloth and finally a block of ice. Soon George phones him, but he is afraid to allow him to say what the trouble is. When Jack phones, he informs him that what he did is worse than burglary or murder. Tom is a nervous wreck. He sits up in bed, his head in his hands, and imagines the scene. He sees himself in a fight, and when three policemen stop him and his three friends, he shoots two of them. He imagines the headlines in the newspaper about a gay young clubman becoming a desperate criminal and committing a triple murder.

Just at this time, Effie Jane Page, Tom's sweetheart, phones him that she is going home to remain for a month, and asks if he will accompany her. He is to meet her at the station.

As Tom and Banzai are hastening to the station, they are stopped by the thick traffic of the busy city, a detective and a policeman notice Tom and chase him. Stopped by the traffic policeman, Tom becomes so terrified, that he jumps out of the machine and runs into a store, the men after him. After much chasing and gathering of a great crowd, Tom is handcuffed and handcuffed. The detective forces him to get on a trail at the railroad station, telling him that they are going to the scenes of the crime.

BABY OSBORNE AT THE MAJESTIC FRIDAY

"Captain Kiddo," the late Pathe release featuring Baby Marie Osborne, showing Friday at the Majestic, has more of the "heavier" element, compared than has been found in any of her past offerings. It is for this reason no doubt, that the child actress has been cast in her usual prominent role. She is given an unusual opportunity, however, to delve into the realms of strong dramatic acting and she hasn't disappointed. She carries her end with all the confidence born of youth and at no time does she falter. Her naturalness before the camera has never been proved more convincingly than by her good work in this picture. Her sunny disposition pleases as usual, and at times she "bits" the "high spots" in dramatic action, but once the revenue officer strikes the trail of the opium smuggler, her role is a bit overshadowed by the "heavier" element which enters the plot of the story at this point. This is not to be discouraged in photoplays for Pathe's little actress. No credit is taken from her thereby. The contrast tends, not adversely to but in favor of her work. She is more appreciated than if she were to hold the center of the screen throughout the showing.

Philo McCollough should work in support of Baby Marie more often. They do well together. Marion Warren, in the role of the mother, is convincing. Harry Von Meter and Ray Clark, a juvenile, complete the cast. W. Eugene Moore has given "Captain Kiddo" a fine production. This offering should meet the expectations of any audience. The camera work has been well done.

DECIDE TOMORROW ON IMPEACHMENT TRIAL

HOUSE LIKELY TO VOTE ON ISSUE SOME TIME FRIDAY

ARGUMENTS OF ATTORNEYS LIKELY TO COME TO CLOSE LATE TODAY

THE MANNER OF VOTING

This Question Will Cause Argument—Henry And Terrell Gave Arguments at Morning Session

By Associated Press.

Austin, Texas, Aug. 23.—The House investigation of Governor James E. Ferguson today entered its next to final stage.

Arguments began last night were pushed toward conclusion, which was expected late this afternoon. Voting should come tomorrow on whether a bill of impeachment should be presented to the Senate.

Following argument a fight is finally to come up as to the mode in which the committee shall express its sentiments on the charges. Some members are said to favor a blanket vote on the entire 13 charges while others, it is known, will ask a separate vote of each charge.

Congressman "Bob" Henry for the Governor was the first speaker in today's arguments. Chester Terrell for Speaker Fuller, B. Y. Cummings and Clarence Martin for the Governor and M. M. Crane for the House committee of the whole were scheduled to follow in order.

Mr. Henry urged the members of the House to approach voting on the charges of impeachment in "a broad spirit of altruism."

"There is no charge of official corruption against James E. Ferguson," he said. "This is no time for abuse and recrimination."

He declared the Governor in disbursing the $2,000,000 appropriation had acted in accordance with a policy adopted by the legislature itself; that the Canyon City normal money had been previously been before the people and had been settled; that the $5,000 charge against the Governor's official account in settlement of a personal debt was made by a subordinate whose action was unknown to the Governor; that the chief executive in encouraging state deposits in banks followed a long established custom; that in the university matter he confronted a situation of great difficulty which he undertook honestly to solve; that there was no possibility of mistake in the West Texas A. and M. college location because Secretary Thompson had declared positively that three votes were cast for Abilene on the second ballot and no one could believe other than that Thompson was an honest man; finally, that the alleged "bribe" given by the Governor to the speaker was a bona fide loan, the speaker never having declared any reason why the Governor should have tried to influence him.

Mr. Henry devoted a large part of his time to the university situation. He said it had been devolved on him to solve the "extraneous" corruption and abuse existed at the university.

"And because the Governor performed his duty in seeking to convert these conditions, must he be crucified?" he asked.

He declared the $2,000,000 rural school bill would be a monument for the future which would show that James E. Ferguson was no enemy of education. Closing Mr. Henry said that if the bill should be judged the people should render it.

Chester Terrell followed. He said that there was no reason why Fuller should deny voting for Abilene if he had done so. The speaker, he said, had a legitimate ambition to go to Congress and if he had held to the proposition that Abilene was fairly selected he could have had the Governor's assistance.

"Why did the Governor say before the farmers institute that he saw the word 'Abilene' on his ballot, and then testify before this body that he did not see him write it?" asked Terrell. "Bill Hanger said a man's word should be as good as his oath. I agree with him."

The speaker said the Governor testified that he saw the word 'Abilene' on Fuller's ballot as it was dropped in the secretary's hat, but he did not have his spectacles on.

"But you saw when the Governor had anything to read on the stand," he added. "He was careful to put on his spectacles."

Terrell referred to a statement by Congressman Henry that if Fuller's loan from the Governor had been a bribe the Governor would have given him the money.

Terrell said that if Fuller's loan from the Governor had been a bribe the Governor would have given him the money.

Speaker Fuller currency and not a check.

"That was unfortunate," he said, "in view of the fact that $100,000 in currency was passed to the Governor by parties unknown and in a manner which it appears was not to be disclosed to the state. There was not a scrap of paper in that deal."

Terrell's argument next dealt with the Governor's bank affairs. He referred to the Governor's statement that he knew nothing of the ten day assumption of the Ferguson and Davis notes of $37,500 each by the Houston National Exchange bank and the request for a ten day extension.

"The Governor testified at the first investigation that he made the arrangements on these loans," said the speaker, "and in this investigation a letter by T. H. Heard of the Temple State Bank to the Houston bank officials has been read which says that Heard had just conversed with the Governor and a ten day extension would be desirable."

"The Governor testified at the first hearing that he had settled his debts with the Temple State Bank. But as this hearing he has admitted that the notes by which his affairs were straightened out were guaranteed by him and the parties who gave them were not financially capable of bearing them."

CHANCELLOR'S SPEECH REGARDED AS SIGNIFICANT

MICHELIS SAYS GOVERNMENT WILL TAKE NO STEPS WITHOUT CONSULTING REICHSRAT

By Associated Press. Berlin, Aug. 23.—The liberal press points out as a significant figure of Tuesday's session of the main committee of the Reichstag Chancellor Michalis's statement that the government would not take final action on the papal peace note without consulting and advising with the committee. This is being received as a pledge that the government henceforth intends to collaborate with the Reichstag factions in dealing with the chief problems of the nation's foreign policy and that it would continue to work with harmony with the committee in the direction of achieving a peace of reconciliation and mutual understanding.

The suggestion that a smaller sub-committee of the main committee be organized as a means of acting as a confidential committee between the government and parliament is meeting with approval. It is said to have the sanction of the chancellor.

OVER FORTY DERRICKS DESTROYED

More than 40 derricks were demolished in the Burk Burnett and Iowa Park fields and other minor damages to buildings and trees in and near Burk Burnett as a result of a wind and electrical storm which appears to have visited the entire county in varying degrees of intensity about 5 or 5:30 this morning.

Reports indicate that the most serious damage was to oil derricks, where work will be retarded possibly for several weeks while the blown down derricks are being replaced. Twenty of the derricks belonged to the Gulf Production Company and 4 to the Producers while the other damages were shared by numerous other companies and independent operators.

The storm had its center in Burk Burnett where a brilliant electrical display accompanied the high wind and rain that drove many residents of the town were driven to their storm cellars. The Airrome at Burk Burnett was damaged and other slight damages are reported.

At Iowa Park and Electra a high wind, seemingly of greater velocity than that which visited Wichita Falls earlier in the morning is reported with but little damage. The feature of the Iowa Park storm was a lavish mixture of dust with the wind. Rain is reported only at Burk Burnett and this is being received as a pledge that the government henceforth intends to collaborate with the Reichstag factions in dealing with the chief problems of the nation's foreign policy and that it would continue to work with harmony with the committee in the direction of achieving a peace of reconciliation and mutual understanding.

Fighting in Verdun Sector Dying Down—Germans Continue Unsuccessful Attacks On The Aisne

The Associated Press war summary follows: Italy's great effort on the Isonzo front is meeting with continued success, Rome reports officially. Further ground has been gained on both the northern and southern wing.

The Austrian losses in the first two days of the battle are computed officially in Italy at 30,000.

The fighting on the Verdun front is dying down. The French objective north of Verdun apparently has been attained. No important infantry action in this sector has been reported. The number of prisoners was reached 7,639. The French have also captured 24 cannon and more than 300 machine guns.

The Germans continued their attacks on the Aisne front but met with no success; several attacks being repulsed by the French.

The Germans are continuing vigorously and successfully their new offensive on the extreme northern end of the Russian front. They have made substantial gains along the Gulf of Riga. The Russian withdrawal of about 10 miles along the coast in the direction of Riga, Berlin gives few details of the withdrawal, but says that the Germans have committed themselves to a sustained offensive in the north.

On examination they stated that the Chevrolet had some denting at Dallas and they abandoned it for the Ford in which they were caught. A later telegram from Dallas offices confirmed the theft of the Ford, which belonged to a man at Garrettsville, Texas.

The men were turned over to county officers to be held for examination and identification, and officers at DeQueen were notified.

The arrest was made by Detective Frank Burns, who questioned the men as to where they were from and was told that they had come from Oklahoma. On being shown the telegram from DeQueen, however, they intimated that they were the men wanted.

Telegram From De Queen Notifying Police Gave No Details of Robbery There

Fifteen bags of silver money, a small box of silver and gold coins, three suit cases, one containing among other things a complete telegraphic instrument, and a quantity of burglars' tools, was the "goods" taken from three young men arrested here this afternoon by officers from the city police department. The men were arrested on information from DeQueen, Ark., notifying the officers to take up John C. Warnix, aged 23, Enoch Warnix, aged 21, and W. W. Hester, aged 20, driving a Chevrolet automobile, and wanted at DeQueen for theft. The information did not say whether it was a bank robbery, post office burglary or depot theft, but officers are inclined to think it was a depot, from the fact that the telegraphic instrument was among the booty. The men gave different names than those furnished the officers, and were driving a Ford instead of a Chevrolet, but their descriptions tallied so well with those furnished that there was no question as to the identity.

On examination they stated that the Chevrolet had some denting at Dallas and they abandoned it for the Ford in which they were caught. A later telegram from Dallas offices confirmed the theft of the Ford, which belonged to a man at Garrettsville, Texas.

Home Reading Course For Citizen-Soldiers

LESSON NO. 9.

Your Equipment and Arms. (Preceding Lessons: 1. Your Post of Honor. 2. Making Good as a Soldier. 3. Nine Qualities of a Soldier. 4. Getting Ready for Camp. 5. Cleanliness in Camp. 6. Your Health (8. Marching and Care of Feet.)

Each soldier in a modern army carries with him sufficient food, clothing, shelter, fighting arms, and ammunition to take care of himself for a short period in case he should be separated from his company. The total weight of his load, in addition to the clothes he wears, is 50 to 70 pounds.

Your shoes must be cleaned and polished frequently. Wet shoes should be carefully dried. Army men frequently dry their shoes during the night by taking a few handfuls of dry, clean pebbles, heating them in a meat can or kettle until they are very hot, and then placing them in the shoes. So long as the pebbles are hot move them about once in a while by shaking the shoes. Take not to heat the pebbles so hot that the shoes will be scorched.

circumstances lose track of these articles while on field duty. So long as you possess them, you are an armed soldier capable of defending yourself and of performing effective service. Without them you are for all practical purposes helpless.

In caring for a rifle it is especially important to keep the bore clean. This is done by using a cleaning rod. Rest on a dry cloth on the ground. Rest the rifle on the ground, whether during drilling or at any other time, so that it touches the ground gently. Don't play with your rifle. A rifle or revolver, whether loaded or unloaded, should never be pointed at a person unless you fully intended to shoot that person, if necessary, in the performance of your duty.

Anybody in normal physical condition can learn to be a good shot. Two of the most important points to remember are: (1) to keep the rifle steady before completing your aim so that you may hold the rifle with perfect steadiness, and to squeeze the trigger so that the bullet will not be jerked out of its aim at the moment of firing.

RIESENBERG-FINE WEDDING WEDNESDAY

Wednesday at 12 o'clock Miss Flora Riesenbergs and Alfred Fine were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Riesenbergs, 1633 Eleventh street, Dr. Goldberg of Corsicana, reading the service. The wedding was a very quiet affair, only the immediate family of the contracting parties being present.

A beautiful display of gifts at the home included a handsome chest of sterling silver, the gifts of the bride's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Art.

Following the ceremony the wedding party and the guests were entertained at a wedding luncheon at the St. James Hotel, by Mr. and Mrs. Riesenbergs. The parents of the bride and table was decorated with pink and white flowers and miniature suit cases filled with bride's cake formed the place cards and favors.

LETTER FROM CONSTANTINE TO EMPEROR FOUNDED London, Aug. 21.—An Athens dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says that among the diplomatic documents found in Athens since the change of government, is a letter of former King Constantine written a few days after the war began in response to a message from Emperor William, who proposed Greece should range herself on the side of Germany. King Constantine wrote: "The emperor knows my personal opinions attract me to his side. Nevertheless it is impossible for me to understand in what manner I could be useful to him in mobilizing my army. The Mediterranean is at the mercy of the united fleet of England and France which could destroy our navy, and merchant marine, occupy our islands and above all prevent concentration of my army, which could be affected by sea in the absence of railway communications. Without it being in our power to be useful in any particular, we would be wiped off the map. I am necessarily of the opinion that neutrality is imposed upon us."

One of the most useful pieces is a French invention which was introduced into the American Army during the Civil War. In the Army it is often called a "dog tent," evidently because of its shape and small size. Two men can combine their halves and set up a shelter tent in a few minutes. While it can not be described as roomy, it is just what its name implies, a shelter from wind and rain. It is used only in temporary camps.

HUMIDITY AND HEAT CAUSE A RESTLESS NIGHT

Unusually humid conditions with the mercury hanging near the century mark may Wednesday night be one of the most uncomfortable here in years. At 6 p. m. the thermometer registered 100, the mercury receding very slowly to 85 at midnight and 80 at 3 a. m. A shower followed by breezes after 3 o'clock Friday morning brought relief. Up until 3 o'clock this morning there was a wretched wreny sleepers sought relief in vain. Many sought relief on porches and out of doors in vain.

UNCLE SAM'S THRIFT THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A WAY TO UTILIZE STALE BREAD. Here is a way suggested by the United States Department of Agriculture to utilize stale bread and leftover milk: French Toast. Beat up together 3 egg, 1 cup of skim or whole milk, and salt to taste. Place a small quantity of butter, bacon fat or other suitable fat in a broad-bottom frying pan. Dip slices of stale bread into the egg and milk mixture until they are thoroughly moist and fry on both sides until a golden brown. Serve hot with or without sirup.

GREATEST DEMAND FOR BIBLES EVER KNOWN New York, Aug. 22.—With publishers falling daily further behind in their orders the war has created the greatest demand in the history of the nation for Bibles. Publishers here say that any one who possesses a set of electrotype plates for the new testament, pocket size, owns something almost as valuable as a steamship. Many of the publishers report their presses running from 15 to 18 hours a day, but they are still several weeks behind orders already received.

Market Report

Chicago Grain Futures. Chicago, August 23.—Belief that most of the standing crop was out of danger from drought together with reports of abundant yield gave corn prices a downward trend at the opening today. Opening prices ranged from a shade to five cents lower with December at 1.07 3/4 to 1.08 1/4 and May at 1.06 1/4 to 1.2.

New York Cotton Futures.

New York, August 23.—The cotton market opened at a decline of 3/32 to 1/4 points with October touching 32.20 and January 31.15 on the call. There was considerable trading with the decline however and the market rallied on rumors that a southern authority estimated the condition at 76 per cent or 1.3 per cent under last month's. The market closed at a discount to recent sellers and rallies were followed by renewed irregularity.

UNIFORMS FOR NATIONAL GUARD ARRIVE TODAY

The new uniforms for the National Guard arrived today, and will be issued to the troops either tonight or tomorrow. Everything is therefore in readiness for the trip to Fort Worth, except the cars. J. H. Marlow reported today that there is still need for between 30 and 40 more cars. The committee feels that having asked for so much from the citizens of Wichita Falls and got it, it is entitled to ask for a little more; and that it would be a pity to spoil such a unique and spectacular event as this parade will be for lack of a few cars. The committee, therefore, wishes to appeal for more offers of cars, and to say that any who are willing either to send or drive their cars will help greatly by not waiting till they are called upon personally, but communicating with Mr. Marlow, or any of the members of the Chamber of Commerce immediately.

ROUSING MASS MEETING FOR NATIONAL GUARD

MAJOR OUSLEY DELIVERS SPIRITED ADDRESS IN BEHALF OF MEN WHO WILL FIGHT

MONEY FOR THE BOYS

Good Part of $1,000 Fund Already Subscribed—Committee is Soliciting Today

One of the best attended mass meetings ever held was that which took place on behalf of the National Guard and one of the most rousing speeches ever delivered here was that of Major Ousley, in his spirited appeal to the citizens to stand behind the boys who are going to fight. The committee has been collecting for this fund, of which part is to be used to reimburse the officers for their out of pocket expenses for the equipment of the camp, and the balance to form the nucleus of a company fund for the boys. Myles O'Reilly reports that a goodly sum has been collected, but that they are still short of the mark set—one thousand dollars. Those who have not yet contributed to this fund may do so either at the Palace Drug Store or at any one of the four banks. It is impossible for the committee to call on everyone and whilst a number have been personally asked to make donations, it is felt that this is a matter where it is a privilege to give, and where the givers should come forward, without the aid of a collector. In order that there may be no misunderstanding as to the object of this fund it may be well to state once more, that before the camp at Lake Wichita—went under Federal control, the boys were without supplies of any kind; and that even after August 5th, when the camp was taken over by the government, the supplies were very late in arriving, and without order that the boys might not be in absolute want for necessities, the officers bought out of their own pockets supplies for them. This fund is largely to pay the bills incurred by the officers for these supplies. Major Ousley said in part: "I desire first of all to thank you for what you have done for these boys in the past. Not only for the boys, indeed, but in every phase of this war work, in which you have been called upon to give money, or goods, or time, you did splendid work on the Liberty Loan and equal splendid work on the Red Cross fund. But you have done more than that—you have given men; and in my humble mind, one American soldier worth all the gold which has been spent by all the belligerent nations together. It is possible, however, in spite of this, that you do not yet realize the awful seriousness of this war. Wait till your boys are on foreign soil, in the battle front; wait till you receive the news of their blood spilt, and of their death. Then, indeed, you will begin to realize that this is indeed your war; then you will wish that you had done even more than you have for them."

The Fame of Wichita Falls

"Wherever I have been talking about this war, and what we must do in it, I have said, 'look at Wichita Falls, look what she has done. The appeal has never failed. It has invariably stimulated the people of other towns to greater efforts. And that is before you cannot afford to fall back now, because your name is already written large in the front page of Texas fame. So face you in figuring out what would be fair for these boys to have, figure what you yourselves would have, and do it—and then give enough that they may have the only half of what you have, and they will have enough. These men who are making it safe for you to earn your living in peace, give them half of what you have. For if you want a soldier to fight, feed him. Such a little from each of you will mean so much for them. These young men are soon to go to camp, and soon from there to fight the strongest foe the world has ever known. How fine it will be for each of them to be able to have a daily reminder of the folks, to tell them that they and the folks are all fighting the same battle, in one way or another. What a difference that will make in the minds of the soldiers, if they can feel that they and you are fighting together. When the clouds gather about the private individual in his business, if he can go home to his wife and gain from her encouragement—if she will say to him, 'you and I can pull through this—what a difference that makes to the man. Let these boys feel that you realize that this is your war, that they are doing what they do for you, and that you are doing what you do for them. Then they will fight, and then you will make the finest fighting men on the face of the earth. But you and they must work together, and pull together, and win together."

Why We Are Fighting

"Why are we fighting? We are fighting because we have always stood for the rights of man, for freedom, for justice. We must see the right done. This war has been conducted in a way to show us that the world is no longer, as we supposed, a safe place to live in. We are fighting, as France, England, Italy and all the allies are fighting, to make it safe. Was not Belgium outraged and martyred by a horde of murderers? And look what was done to the Roman and Armenian women. Seven hundred thousand women died from the agonies of the German army, and died in vain. The army caught up with them, violated, murdered and mutilated them; and when the crowds and huzzards had picked the flesh from their bones, the bones were taken to make fertilizer for German fields. If that is not enough, we had to fight, and we are fighting that these deeds, so un-speakably foul, cannot be repeated in the history of the world. It was America's part to take her stand for liberty."

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW FRONT FOR KRUGERS' STORE

A contract has been let to Taylor Bros. for the remodeling of the front of the Kruger Jewelry Store, and work is expected to begin early next week. The plans call for a front that will include one of the most modern designs in the city. The present windows will be taken out entirely, and others, made to fit with a single door in the center, with a base of white tile, will be installed. The tile will reach about three feet from the ground, and above this will be beveled plate glass, with a window depth of two feet. The interior of the store having been remodelled and redecorated, giving it the most up to date appearance.

WICHITA MILL BUYS SACK SEWING MACHINE

The Wichita Mill and Elevator Company has purchased a modern sack sewing machine, which will be installed in 30 or 40 days. The sack sewing machine is practically a new thing in the south, though they have been in use in the north and east for several years. Up to two years ago they were unknown in this part of the country, and even now they are only to be found in the best of mills. Galveston, Waco, Dallas, Beaumont and Wichita Falls being the only cities in the state where they are found.

UNLIKELY THAT ANOTHER ARMY WILL BE CALLED BEFORE SPRING

Washington, Aug. 22.—A full statistical report on the operations of the draft law will be prepared by the provost marshal general's office...

The first increment will fill all the training areas to capacity, and there will be a surplus of men beside those assigned to the regular army.

The regulars are now 12,000 above full authorized war strength by voluntary enlistment, and the national guard is in a similar situation.

Training facilities already are taxed to make ready for men now available, and it is regarded as unlikely that another army of an additional 500,000 men of the national army can be raised until the spring of 1918.

By the installation of twelve-inch supply pipes this delay can be eliminated. The Russian methods twenty-four hours a day to clean a locomotive, coal it and get up steam again. Coal chutes are lacking and the fuel is transferred from pits to the tender by means of a hoist system. Work that could be done in five minutes with modern hoisting apparatus requires much time. Then the Russian engine houses lack the best water equipment necessary for the washing out of boiler engines as soon as the locomotive comes off its run. Engines are allowed to cool before they are washed. Then the boilers are washed with cold water. Steam must then be raised in a stone cold boiler before the locomotive is ready to go on its run. With modern hoisting apparatus and facilities for supplying abundant hot water to clean boilers, the American railways can and clean an engine in four hours, a saving of twenty hours over the Russian system. Oil is used as fuel for locomotives in Russia, but in Siberia and Northern European Russia, coal and wood are the fuel. The facilities for loading wood are also bad and plans are under way for improvements in the system. Water is supplied to passenger cars by means of buckets at most railway stations. Few stations have the hose necessary for watering cars in a hurry. These have not been required because engines took water so slowly and labor was so abundant that it was possible to supply the cars with water by hand while the locomotive was being cared for. But now even the labor of women must be economized as much as possible. Women are required in the fields to replace men. They are the baggage handlers at most stations and are even firing locomotives. Wages necessarily have risen with the increased cost of living and every possible labor-saving device must be used. Because of the lack of skilled labor, the inadequacy of repair shops and the scarcity of metals and other supplies many locomotives of the Russian railways are out of repair. The American railway engineers have advised an immediate extension of repair shops and the employment of foreign mechanics, if necessary, to restore these locomotives to service immediately. Pig iron is among the needs of Russia which officials have reported to the American experts. Worn rails and other iron and steel have been used very prodigally by the railways in construction work. At nearly every railway station in Russia tons of old steel rails are in use as hand railings. They are used at railway crossings for fences and are found in many other places on railway property where they would serve no purpose. In the larger centers hundreds of tons of old steel and iron could be collected by the government from railway property.

SOLDIER'S CHANCE 15 TO 1—ONLY ONE AMERICAN IN 500 LIKELY TO LOSE LIMB

Don't worry if your son is drafted. Fourteen men out of every fifteen have been safe from death so far.

Under present conditions, where man power is being saved, more than one in thirty is killed.

Disease has taken no more than in peace times.

Only one man in 500 loses a limb—a chance no greater than that in hazardous occupations at home.—Roger Babson

From the Boston Post.

"I've been drafted and will in all probability go to the firing line in France. Are the chances for or against my returning home safely?"

It was a young man employe of Roger Babson, the Wellesley statistician, who asked the question. He wasn't afraid of what might happen to him, in fact, he was rather proud to go, but he simply wanted information for use in arranging his affairs.

Of course, Mr. Babson, even though he deals with figures at all times, could not give the young man an off hand answer. But he made up his mind that the soldier-to-be deserved a reliable answer. So immediately, the statistician got busy, obtained official figures and was soon able to give the young man this answer:

"Fifteen out of sixteen of the boys who fight in France, in all likelihood will be safe and sound, one year after they enter the trenches.

Based on French Losses.

Mr. Babson's conclusions are based on the mortality figures of the French army during the full three years of the war. It should be remembered that the present fighting is not resulting in anywhere near the number of deaths that occurred during the first two years, when such battles as that at the Marne, at Ypres and at Verdun sent the mortality rate soaring.

"Let's take a look at the figures in the matter. In round numbers, 5 million men have fought under the banner of France since the beginning of the war. Of these approximately sixty thousand have died from diseases of various kinds; comparing these with the mortality figures of peace times for men of the same age, we find that they are about the same. Remember, that during the first months of the war, before it was possible to care properly for ailing soldiers, deaths were at a terrible rate, which brought the rate for the three years much higher than it is at present.

"So under present methods of sanitation, a man is not as likely to die from disease in an army as he is at home.

"About 900,000 men in the French army have been killed or died from wounds during the three years of war; half of these died during the first year. But in compiling the statistics, we'll take the average, which is 320,000 a year, or about one-sixteenth of the total number engaged. Thus, considering a man in this war for one year, he has fifteen chances of returning home to one of being killed.

Death rates is decreasing.

"But, as I have said, half of these men, considered above, were killed in the first year of the war. Since then the mortality rate has been dwindling until now it is very low for a year. If such a condition continues, it is very likely that no more than one man in thirty or forty will be killed. That seems fully enough, but the mother at home should remember that twelve men out of every thousand, at the army age, die each year during peace time; that is, one man out of eighty-three dies each year in civil life.

"Figuring deaths from both diseases and wounds, under conditions such as our boys are likely to encounter, any young man is about three times as likely to meet death in the army as at home. In fact, a man in the heavy artillery is in no more danger of death than is an employe of a railroad.

"The person at home is prone to picture the boy at the front as indulging in constant charges against the enemy, exposing his life every hour of the day. Such is far from the case. A man's turn to charge comes once or twice a month. Then, of course, he is in grave danger. But at other times he is in no more danger of death than he is when walking about the streets of New York City.

"The likelihood of death from poisoning gases has been reduced to a minimum by the use of masks. At the beginning of the war men thought it smart not to don their masks until the last instant; they think so no more. As soon as they get a warning of a gas attack they don their masks instantly. They are now fighting with their heads as well as their arms and the result is greater security.

Amputations Are Few.

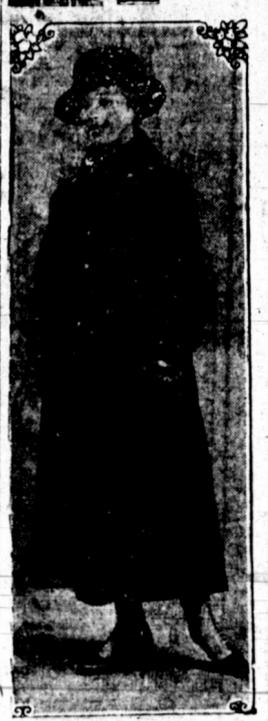

"Now let's look at the probability of a man's returning terribly wounded. It is an established fact that since the first few months of the war the number of amputations have been very few. Only one man in five hundred loses an arm or a leg, few more than do those men engaged in hazardous occupations at home. Only during charges is a man likely to sustain a wound that will main him for life.

"Most of the wounds sustained in the trenches are clean cut and of a nature that a few weeks in the hospital makes the subject as fit as ever. But three hundred thousand French soldiers have been discharged on account of wounds during the three years of the war.

"Fighting in the trenches, most of the wounds are in the top of the head, simply scalp wounds in the majority of cases, as a bullet must first penetrate a steel helmet and in the left arm and shoulder, somewhat exposed in firing. Practically speaking, a wound is either fatal or slight, with but few in between these two extremes.

"Of course, the whole thing is horrible enough as it is. But I wish to tell the fathers and mothers left behind by the boys that, looking at the matter in the light of cold blooded statistics, the boys are not going into any where near the danger the folks at home imagine."

WOMAN REVOLUTIONISTS JOINS RUSSIAN ARMY

Associated Press Staff Correspondence.

Petrograd, June 30.—Marya Spiridonova, famous from the Revolution of 1905, has joined the ranks of women champions of "war to victory." Mile Spiridonova, a nineteen year old student at a secondary school, was so horrified by the fogging of Tamboff peasants by Assistant Governor Luzenskiy, that she shot the oppressor dead. She was arrested, dragged from place to place in a cattle truck, and tortured. The gendarme officer who acted as jailer stripped her naked, and held burning matches against her skin. Her case provoked international protest.

Mile Spiridonova has been in "kat-iora" the most terrible form of penal prison, and spent three years in chains. After her release by the revolution, she lay ill in Tschita, East Siberia, the inhabitants of which invited her to become a candidate for election as mayor. On her way home to Europe, thousands of Siberians met and acclaimed her at the railroad station; and she replied by begging the men to fight for "liberty and justice" the women to incite their husbands to battle.

Speaking at Omsk, she told deserter soldiers that America's entry into the war should make them blush with shame, as American liberationist sentiment had been a powerful factor in her favor.

MARIE OSBORNE

In a five-act GOLD ROOSTER play that will appeal to grownups as well as the children, by reason of the enthralling plot running throughout. Unlike most "KID" stories, this one has the charm of originality and the consistent weaving of a good plot in it to hold the interest, aside from the good acting of the little star.

The Gem.

Herbert Rawlinson will be one of the stellar attractions at the Gem today, appearing in "Caught in the Act," a comedy. There is a lot of talk about Herbert Rawlinson just now, on account of his tremendous success in the seven-reel feature "Come Through," by George Bronson Howard, which made such a hit at the Broadway Theatre, New York recently. There will not be a moment's respite to see the young star in short comedies like this one, "Caught in the Act," which was written by E. B. Lewis, and produced by T. N. Hudson. Yet it is in such pictures that a good part of his reputation has been made. He has a new opportunity as the young fellow, who jumps out of the machine and, with the boys, commits a mysterious crime, and is pursued by the police, who mistake him for a well known crook. The comedy is a laugh-out-loud affair, each other in bewildering succession, ending with a big scrap. Tom Worth has a very painful awakening one morning, and is unable to remember anything that happened the night before. The phone rings and Billy tells him that he has made a wreck of his whole life. Tom yells to him that he doesn't want to know what it was he did. The Jap valet, Banzai, comes to Tom's assistance with icy water, a cold cloth and a mop of ice. Soon George phones him, but he is afraid to allow him to say what the trouble is. When Jack phones and informs him that he has a fight, it is worse than burglary or murder. Tom is a nervous wreck. He sits up in bed, his head in his hands, and imagines the scene. He sees himself in a fight, and when three policemen stop him and his three friends, he shoots two of them. He imagines the headlines in the newspaper about a "gay young clubman becoming a desperate criminal and committing a triple murder."

Just at this time, Effie Jane Page, Tom's sweetheart, phones him that she is going home to remain for a month, and asks if he will accompany her. He is to meet her at the station.

As Tom and Banzai are hastening in an auto to the station through the thick traffic, the detective and policeman notice Tom and chase him. Stopped by the traffic policeman, Tom becomes so terrified that he jumps out of the machine and runs into a store, the men after him. After much chasing and gathering of a great crowd, Tom is caught and handcuffed. The detective forces him to get on a trail at the railroad station, telling him that they are going to the scenes of the crime.

The Empress.

"Two Little Imps," the first William Fox film starring Jane and Katherine Lee will be shown at the Empress Theatre today.

This picture shows the five and seven-year-old Baby Grands at their best. They have been seen by millions of picture followers many times in photographs in which others have been starred, but here they blossom out as full-fledged stars themselves. They are the same delightful youngsters as of old and in this new picture their film friends will have many a laugh.

The "Imps" are left by their mother in care of their Uncle Billy, who falls in love with Miss Betty Murray. The children help the wooing along. Katherine also finds Betty's brother Bob in the gutter, and she makes him promise to do better and return to his father, who had disowned him.

Bob goes back, but as one of three crooks. When he finds he's in his father's room he turns straight, and with the aid of Jane and Billy helps with the capture of his pals. Then Billy proposes to Betty as Jane and Katherine look on. The youngsters also see Bob and his father reconciled.

BABY OSBORNE AT THE MAJESTIC FRIDAY

"Captain Kiddo," the late Pathe release featuring Baby Marie Osborne, showing Friday at the Majestic, has none of the "heavier" element condemned that has been found in any of her past offerings. It is for this reason no doubt, that the child actress has not been cast in her usual prominent role. She is given an unusual opportunity, however, to delve into the realms of strong dramatic acting and she hasn't disappointed. She carries her end with all the confidence born of youth and at no time does she falter. Her naturalness before the camera has never been proved more convincingly than by her good work in this picture. Her sunny disposition pleases as usual, and at times she hits the "high spots" in dramatic action, but once the revenue officer strikes the trail of the opium smugglers, her role is a bit overshadowed by the "heavier" element which enters the plot of the story at this point. This is not to be discouraged in photoplays for Pathe's little actress. No credit is taken from her thereby. The contrast tends, not adversely to but in favor of her work. She is more appreciated than if she were to hold the center of the screen throughout the showing.

Philo McCollough should work in support of "Baby Marie" more often. They do well together. Marion Warren, in the role of the mother, is convincing. Harry Von Meter and Ray Clark, a juvenile, complete the cast. W. Eugene Moore has given "Captain Kiddo" a fine production. This offering should meet the expectations of any audience. The camera work has been well done.
