

HOW TO KNOW COTTON CLASSING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—Classing cotton is an expert's job when it comes to the grades and qualities, but growers can learn to know whether they are receiving fair prices for their cotton by studying the three principal grades—Low, Middling, and Good, Middling—and comparing samples of their own cotton with sets of the official cotton standards prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. In a recent bulletin of the Department of Agriculture, "The Classification of American Upland Cotton," which gives the various classifications of cotton, the writers tell how a grower, as well as the expert classer, may use the official standards in making determinations of cotton value.

Comparison Method.
For beginners it is easier to match cotton against these standards if types of the cotton to be graded are placed for the time being in a bag similar to the box containing the standards. The cotton to be classed then may be matched by comparing the samples with the different standard types until the class is determined. This method gives a greater surface for comparison and also practically the same light on each box. Difference in light causes the same cotton to appear different at times. Classers often disagree as to the grade or class of a sample even after reference has been made to the standards. The official cotton standards of the United States were prepared to represent the various grades or class characteristics of cotton grown throughout the cotton belt. In making copies of these standards for sale, cotton has been selected from almost every cotton-growing state. Each grade box contains twelve samples, so as to indicate the range or diversity which may be one type of Low, middling that is of a reddish cast with bright leaf, and another type as a grayish or bluish cast with blackish leaf; one sample the leaf may be in large pieces, while in another it may be broken up in small pieces known as "pin" leaf. The same condition is true to some extent within the grade boxes of each of the nine official grades, the diversity being less marked above Middling than below. Still more latitude has been allowed in the preparation of the standards for color. For instance, in the same box, a Middling yellow tinged type from Oklahoma may have a reddish or pinkish cast, while a Middling yellow tinged type from Georgia or Alabama may have a duller or grayish cast.

Some Problems.
The cotton classer is continually encountering bales that will pass for a certain grade or class of cotton although they do not resemble identically any particular type in the standard. In reality, no two bales of cotton are exactly alike. Many samples must be assigned to a certain grade according to their valuation based on the standard.

A slight is considered more desirable for viewing cotton than a side-light. However, when it is not feasible to add a skylight, several large windows may be placed side by side preferably in the wall facing north. The table for holding the grade boxes should have a top inclined toward the light at an angle of approximately 30 degrees in a room where a skylight is used, and at about 45 degrees where the side-light is used.

In sampling a bale of cotton for classing, about three ounces should be drawn from each side of the bale. When samples are drawn from a bale of compressed cotton they should be exposed to the air before grading so that the matted condition and deadened color may disappear. Classers are liberal in grading compressed cotton because the leaf and dirt are more condensed and become more conspicuous than in uncompressed cotton, therefore an allowance of about one-half grade should be made when classing compressed cotton immediately after sampling.

How to Draw Samples.
Samples from bales should be drawn in smooth sheets and preferably when the bale is dry. The sample being classed should be unfolded three or four times and examined, since the leaf and dirt are not always evenly distributed. The unevenness is due largely to the fact that the cotton in any such sample came from different parts of the field and was perhaps picked by a number of persons. The different pickings made from time to time are often stored together and this may give a considerable variation, especially during the latter part of the season. Many loads of cotton originating in different sections are sometimes mixed in one large bin before ginning. This practice causes mixed grades and qualities of cotton. Thin "Plates."

Many bales have on one side a thin "plate" that is of a higher or lower grade than the rest of the bale. Rating is usually caused by a "roll" being left in the "breast" of the gin from cotton of a different lot previously ginned. A sample from such a bale should be drawn from a sufficient depth to be fairly representative of the bale. Plates have no doubt caused great loss to the producer, as cotton is classed on the basis of the low side or poorest quality of fiber in the bale.

It is important to protect the copies of the official standards from light and dust. Only the surface of the cotton shows the grade, and exposure to light and dust will in a short time so change the appearance of the surface that it does not actually represent the grade or class as certified. When practical forms of the standards are in use they will remain true copies of the official standards scarcely more than one season. Color may even be destroyed within a few days if the practical forms are left exposed to light.

Just Takes Babies, But Doesn't Know Why; Is Arrested

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Jennie Gresky, 13 years old, is in a house of correction today as the result of her confession that within the last two weeks she has lured two children away from their mothers and made virtual prisoners of them for a time.

"I don't know why I take babies, but I do," was her explanation to juvenile court officers.

Two weeks ago she entered a department store and saw Gladys Bivalter with her mother. Jennie suggested a walk and Baby Bivalter went. Later the child was found in the department store. A week ago Mrs. Joseph Kowalsky and her 2-year-old daughter, Little, went shopping in the same store and Little disappeared. Search was unavailing. Later the mother went back to the store and found her child at play.

It shows that up to September 25th last, there had been 467 bales ginned in Wichita county compared with 1730 bales on the same date a year ago.

In Archer county 1047 bales had been ginned compared with 2510 bales a year ago.

The Gentle Art of Hurling HAND GRENADES. How This Ancient Weapon Was Brought Into the War By the Germans, and How It Has Proved a Boomerang To Them - The Art Required In Throwing a Bomb. THE USE of the hand grenade in war is almost as old as war itself, for it is one of the first known weapons used by man in combat with his fellowman. It holds a special position in the present war, being introduced after a long period of disuse. Its name, grenade, is said to have been derived from its resemblance to the "Punic Apple," or pomogranate, which is a spherical fruit containing within its rind a vast number of seeds. The earliest grenades known were baked earthen vessels containing quicklime, poisonous juices, putrefying animal matter and similar noxious concoctions. The earliest mention of these in history dates back to about 1406, B. C., and is found in the book of Judges. When these earthen vessels were thrown, they broke and sent out a gas which would overcome the victim and give the thrower an opportunity to kill the helpless man with a club or stone weapon. The explosive hand grenade came into use during the siege of St. Bonifacio in 1421, and afterwards again at the siege of Alcazar in 1524. Later in the sixteenth century hand grenades were made of glass and thrown by means of slings after various incendiary devices had been fastened to them. The "blind" bomb next came into use. This was a curious device provided with a friction firing tube holding a leaden ball attached to the firing plug. Springs of box levers formed a tail designed so as to cause the grenade to travel and fall in such a position that on its motion being arrested suddenly, the momentum of the leaden ball carried the ball along the tube which caused it to explode the bomb by pulling the firing plug to which it was attached. Grenade Regiment. The rifle grenade now used in the evolution of one used in the seventeenth century and fired by means of a grenade cap. Louis XIV, of France, was the first European monarch to enroll grenade throwers or grenadiers as a distinct army unit. These men used both the rifle and hand grenade, and are said to have obtained a rare perfection in this gentle art of killing their fellowmen by explosive bombs. During the eighteenth century the British Grenadier came into existence and the hand bomb reached the height of its popularity, but gradually its use fell into decline, as warfare was in the open and according to a military critic of the Crimean War, "proficiency with the musket maketh the foot soldier the equal of the grenadier." Of course the battles were then fought in the open, very little of trench warfare being known at that time. In the present war it was the Germans who first discovered the value of the hand grenade. Used By The Germans. It was first used by them in October, 1914, when the famous Black Watch was holding the line at Neuve Chapelle. Ho, English! A present for you," called out a German, and the British saw something coming over the trenches and they looked curiously at a large black oblong-shaped affair, and as they looked it exploded killing or wounding every man within ten feet. Thus the bombing, which has caused the death of thousands of men on both sides, was begun. Today the British Government alone is producing ten million of bombs a year for itself and for the Allies. During the siege of Port Arthur, the Japanese developed a type of bomb with some new features and it is supposed that the German Army got the inspiration from this and added some new features to its action. At least, they made it a most efficient instrument of death. The day after the arrival of the first German bomb, the English officers set to work on the subject of grenades. One committee was appointed to look up explosives, another to look up fuses, and another to study the proper casing. "Ticklers Artillery." In the meantime, "Tommy" invented what is now known as "Tickler Artillery," a bomb made from a jam tin. The British soldiers' fondness for jam is proverbial and his fancies include jam served in tin cans, and one day a soldier conceived the idea that the empty tin might be used as a grenade case, so he divided the can into three parts by ramming a quantity of explosives into the can and banking it on both sides by layers of shrapnel, regimental buttons, broken glass, and any other thing he could find. Then he fastened a fuse in the end and "Ticklers Artillery" became a reality. The great difficulty about the jam tin bombs was the fact that you had to use a match to light the fuse which was dangerous at night and difficult in wet weather. Finally they secured some fuses to be used for lighting their pipes, but they would not keep dry. Then somebody suggested using rubber tubing, such as is used on American soldiers practicing hand grenade throwing.

The great difficulty about the jam tin bombs was the fact that you had to use a match to light the fuse which was dangerous at night and difficult in wet weather. Finally they secured some fuses to be used for lighting their pipes, but they would not keep dry. Then somebody suggested using rubber tubing, such as is used on burning bottles for babies and one of the men set to work to make the purchase. These worked to perfection, but rather than rob all the babies in France of their pacifiers the men sent to England for a supply, and there was no more trouble, except that sometimes the men became over confident and held the grenades too long with serious results. Others were nervous and threw them too soon, with the result that the Germans buried them back and they exploded in the English trenches. Then England decided to change the type of bomb, substituting what was known as the hair brush, the cricket ball, and later the famous Mills bomb, which is being used with such success. Mills Bomb. The Mills bomb is not much larger than a large lemon and shaped exactly like it. It is made of steel, the outside of which is corrugated into forty-eight small squares which, upon the explosion of the bomb, scatter in a wide area, wounding or killing any person unfortunate enough to be hit by one of the flying fragments. Although it is a very destructive bomb, the Mills has the confidence of the thrower, in that he knows it will not explode until released from his grip. The Mills hand grenade is an ingenious contrivance, weighing about one and one-half pounds, it is usually filled with shrapnel, bullets, broken glass, scrap iron, etc. In the center is a spring striking pin, kept back by a lever or handle, which in its turn is held in position by a safety pin. Detonators and percussion caps connected by a short length of fuse, are supplied with these bombs. When the bomb is to be used the bottom is unscrewed and the combined detonator and percussion cap is inserted in the space provided for it, the percussion cap being placed in the bearing under the striking pin. When this is done the bottom is screwed on again as tightly as possible, using the special spanner provided for this in each box before throwing the safety pins are removed and the bomb is fit with the lever in the palm of the hand. When the bomb is actually thrown the lever or handle is released, this strikes down on the percussion cap, ignites the fuse, sets off detonator and explodes the bomb. Thus it will be seen that the danger to the thrower is obliterated and a pleasure to feel that old men who would be spared the danger, which confronted the English and French during the early dates of bombing for the "Sammy" will use the Mills grenade. Throwing a bomb is an art which only comes to the man who practices and some men never become expert, while others become experts in one about forty yards. He must have good nerve, be a quick thinker, have a sportive instinct, plus aggression, it must become second nature to him or he is a failure. An English officer who is a teacher at the bombing school recently told an American that there were three stages in the education of his bomber. First, the nervous stage. The second is the confident, but respectful stage. The third stage is the period of over-confidence. The first can be cured, the second is "dead," while the third may be fatal. After the course of instruction has been completed, there is a bombing contest in which the man vie with each other in trying their skill. These contests sometimes take on the air of a real battle for the men "go over the top" and make charges with the best shown in real battles. They also learn how to use the German grenades and when any of these are captured the men use them with as much ease as they do "Mills No. 6." Americans Learning. In all our camps on this side of the Atlantic the men are receiving instruction in "hurling" grenades. A high screen about the height of a trench is set up in front of the thrower who must throw high enough to have the grenade pass over the screen and then to the enemy's trench marked by some object at about thirty or forty yards distant. Of course, real bombs are not used. Little clay balls fitted with a fuse and quantities of smoke powder are an excellent substitute. The bomb has become the great weapon of today. The man who fires the gun to the enemy's trench marked by some more destructive, the man who sends the bayonet the more dangerous, but for pure skill and art the hand grenade thrower leads them all. The bomb is an instrument which demands nerve and skill and the man of our army had fair to become expert in this gentle art of hurling bombs into the trenches of the "Huns."

Reports that Germany and Austria are about to submit a peace proposal offering the evacuation of France and Belgium and the renunciation of territorial aggrandizement are to be believed readily. A peace treaty on this basis would leave the military strength of the Central Powers undiminished and they could then await the time when preparation and recuperation would give them the strength to renew the conflict to conquer the world and destroy democracy and the smaller nations.

TODAY'S MARKETS

DOWN TURNS ARE REGISTERED IN PRICE OF CORN

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Downturns in the price of corn resulted today from the government crop report which showed a yield largely in excess of what the trade had expected. Bearish gossip was also current of a likelihood of federal efforts to bring about a lower ratio in the value both of hogs and corn. Enlarged offerings of old corn from rural holders tended further to weaken the market. Opening quotations which ranged from 1c off at $1.15 1/2 Dec. and $1.15 to $1.15 1/2 May were followed by a moderate additional decline. Bullish construction played against the government report gave reactive firmness to that cereal. There was persistent heavy buying of the December delivery. Stopping on speculation in cotton seed oil had a weakening effect on provisions. Talk of government moves to reduce hog prices to $10 a hundred pounds formed another stimulus to selling.

COTTON MARKET MAKES ADVANCE EARLY IN DAY

New York, Oct. 9.—Frost news caused an opening advance of 5 1/2 to 7 1/2 points in the cotton market today after yesterday's advance of nearly a cent per point on the frost predictions. Trading was extremely active and the opening tone was strong with December selling at 27.10 and January at 26.35 with active months generally 60 to 74 points above last night's closing figures after the call. There was very heavy realizing around the 27 cent level for December, however, and the market lost about half its gain during the early trading with the disposition to take profits increased by prospects for warmer weather in the southwest and uncertainty as to whether detailed reports which available would show temperatures low enough to actually kill the plant over any widespread area.

CIRCUS WITHIN A CIRCUS PROMISED FOR CHILDREN

TWO OF THE MANY ANIMAL ACTORS COMING WITH RINGLING'S.

Dumb actors from bearland, monkeyland, dogland, ponyland and many other quarters of the animal kingdom, are now headed in this direction intent upon tickling the local youngsters and even their grownups with their endless antics. These particular thespians are part and parcel of the Ringling Bros. circus which this season is said to have more surprises for its juvenile patrons than ever before.

First on the main tent program is the tremendous spectacle, "Cinderella," which with its much loved story, ballet of the fairies and princely processions promises to appeal to both young and old. Then will come the circus numbers and these will introduce scores of animal actors. There will be big and little dogs, who play at leapfrog, skip the rope, ride Shetlands and donkeys, make long leaps through the air and turn somersaults by the score. There will be monkeys who play ringmaster, jump on and off galloping ponies, bears that skate or run races on bicycles, baby elephants that dance as their comrades play upon drums or other instruments while the clowns of animal-land both entertain everyone with their capering antics. In addition to the animal features there will be the daring deeds of the scores of foreign artists who have sought engagements in America because of the great war. Aerialists, wire walkers, acrobats, perch performers and equestrians never before seen in this country will be distributed throughout the two hours of arena action in which a total of almost 400 men and women will take part. The riding numbers are unusually numerous and the menage and high school horses imported by the Ringling Bros. from Arabia last winter, contribute to a remarkable series of equestrian surprises. The Ringling menagerie of 108 dens has been enlarged by the capture of many new animals, while the stock has added a score of babies to the zoo. All will be on hand, from the tiniest member to "Big Benzo," the world's largest elephant, when the circus exhibits here Wednesday, October 17.

WOMAN SOLDIER

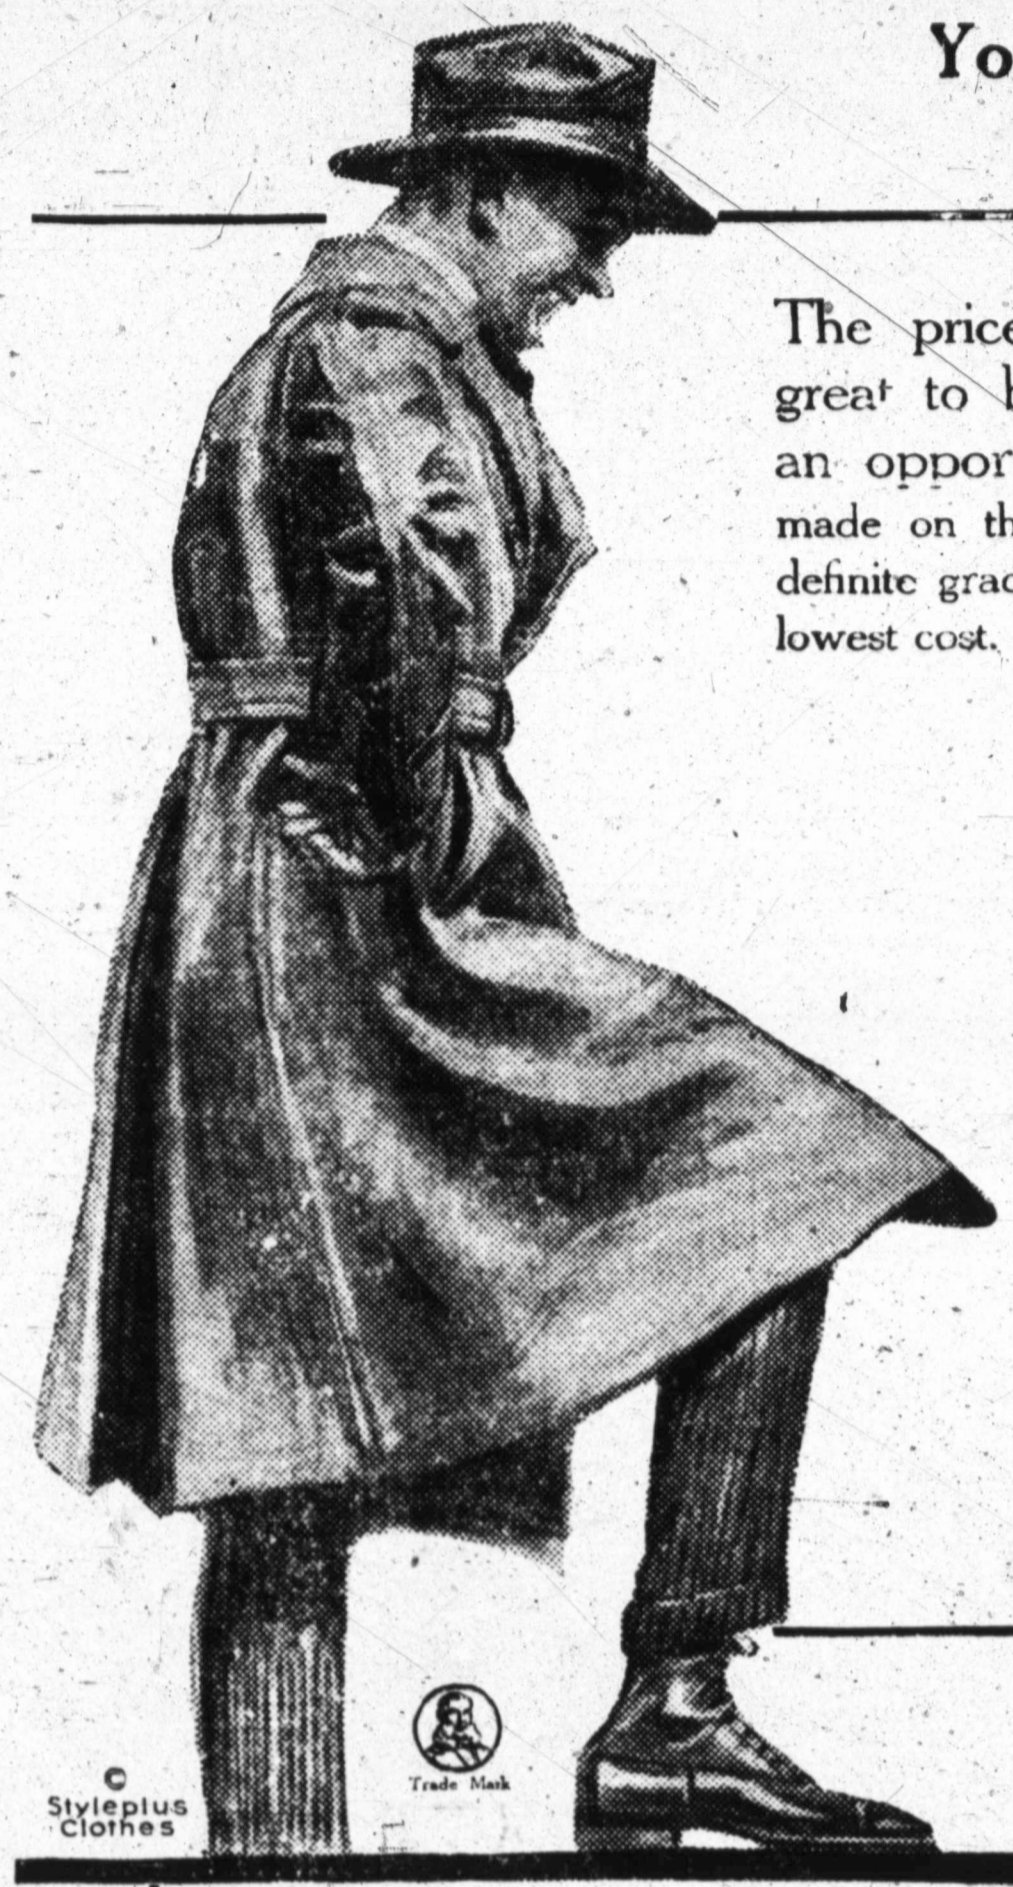

This is another letter from a Washington woman to her sister in Michigan telling how one woman is co-operating with United States Food Administration.

Washington, D. C.

Dear Edith: Well, I'm still studying the new "Home Card" given me by the Food Administration when I signed my Food Pledge. I have written you of the first two items in which economy and substitution is asked—wheat and meat. The next three are milk, fats and sugar. We are asked to "use all of the milk, waste no part of it." The reason given is to the point. The "Home Card" says: "The children must have whole milk; therefore, use less cream. There is a great waste of food by not using all skim and sour milk. I don't think you and I need any more logical reason for milk economy than that."

As for the fats—well, nobody seems able to deny that we are the greatest fat wasters in the world. We have got to stop it, because fat is food. As the "Home Card" reminds us, butter is needed for the growth and health of our youngsters, therefore we are not asked to stint the use of butter on the table. But we are asked to substitute other fats for it in our cooking. Other facts are just as good. We are also asked to use less fried food. That will be good for everybody. For me and my house it will not be hard, for we never did like greasy stuff to eat. It will be doubly easy when we remember that if everybody in this country saves an ounce of animal fat a day it will mean a total yearly saving of 375,000 tons. We don't realize what our little bit of waste or our little bit of savings here and there means, until some food expert figures out such an aggregate, do we? We are also reminded by the "Home Card" that soap contains fat and are asked not to waste a scrap of it. Melt the left-over bits and use for soap. Shall we try it—you and I who have agreed to be Soldier Women in fact as well as in name? The last food economy on the "Home Card" is sugar. "Use less candy and sweet drinks. Use less sugar in tea and coffee. Use honey, maple syrup and dark syrups for hot cakes and waffles, without butter or sugar. Do not frost or ice cakes. Do not stint the use of sugar in putting up fruits and jams." The "Home Card" says though, "they may be used in place of butter." And the reason that we should use less sugar is that it is scarce in Europe. I know that the health of my family

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION FORMED BY STUDENTS OF HIGH SCHOOL

An Athletic Association was organized at a meeting of the students of the Wichita Falls High School held in the auditorium this morning. This organization will have charge of all branches of athletics of the school, including baseball, football, basketball, tennis, track and field work. It will also furnish financial aid whenever necessary to any of the teams. The following officers were elected: President and treasurer, Andrew Irwin; secretary, Annie Lea; boys' yell leader, Frank Caudle; girls' yell leader, Mary Leath Travis. Quite a few yells have been prepared by the students, and more are to be written, and will be used whenever occasion demands, especially in case of an interscholastic contest. Both the boys and the girls have a leader, and both of them together ought to be able to "whoop 'em up" and cheer the local teams to victory. Pop meetings will be held just before such contests are scheduled to get the students in practice for the yells.

Stockdale spoke to a large and very interested crowd of merchants last night at the Harrison-Everson recital hall, on the subject of "How to Meet Today's Competition." This afternoon Mr. Stockdale's subject was "How to Make Your Windows Sell Your Goods." Tonight he will talk on how to arrange a store for selling and serving. Tomorrow the talks will be upon how to put the Ad in advertising, and how to get selling points that will move goods. Much interest is being taken in these lectures, and the merchants feel that they are getting many good, usable ideas from them. Mr. Stockdale said this afternoon that he himself had gotten several excellent ideas from one or two merchants here, which he would pass on in the next towns he visits.

County Commissioners and City Aldermen In Joint Session Today

A joint meeting of the County Commissioners and City Aldermen was held in the district court rooms this afternoon. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss and make arrangements for some repairs at the General Hospital. The heating plant at the hospital is to be repaired at a cost of about $1500 and work is to be started just as soon as material and labor can be secured. County Judge Harris presided at the meeting, at which there was a full attendance.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Senator Pomeroy, chairman of the Senate committee investigating Senator LaFollette's St. Paul speech, conferred today with President Wilson and with Secretary Lansing, gathering material for examining LaFollette's statement that former Secretary Bryan, having knowledge of ammunition cargo on board the Lusitania when she sailed on her last voyage, urged the President to keep Americans off the ship. All facts in the state department's possession relating to the ship and her cargo, will be placed before the investigating committee without reserve, Senator Pomeroy was assured.

Prison Commission Would Take Negroes To Farm In Madison

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Oct. 9.—Members of the penitentiary commission today had a conference with Governor Hobby relative to the removal from the state training school at Gatesville of approximately four hundred negro boys from that institution to the Ferguson State Farm in Madison county. The last session of the legislature passed a law providing for the establishment of a state training school for boys on this farm, and placed the operation of the school under the supervision of the prison commission. The law also provided that the transfer shall be made not later than January 1, 1918, but the commission will transfer these negro boys as early as possible. The commission also discussed other matters with the governor pertaining to the prison system.

ELKS BEGIN PLAN FOR OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL DAY

SPECIAL PROGRAM WILL BE ARRANGED FOR FIRST SUNDAY IN DECEMBER.

A movement was started at the regular meeting of the Elks Club last night for the observance of Memorial Day on the first Sunday in December. The arrangement committee will be appointed and the program for the occasion will be outlined at the first meeting of the club in November. It was stated this morning by Secretary Sixeen that the best speakers available would be present at the meeting, and a complete program outlined.

Two members elected. Two candidates for membership in the lodge were elected, and two applications received and referred to a committee for investigation. An amendment to the by-laws of the lodge was proposed last night, making the regular meeting nights of the lodge twice a month, instead of weekly as it now is. From April until October, that is, just through the summer months, the club only meets twice a month, and the purpose of the amendment is to have it extended to include the entire year. As required by the by-laws the amendment was read and passed until the next meeting.

Assessment Being Paid. V. G. Sixeen stated that the assessment of $1 recently made on every Elk in the United States for the purpose of raising $1,000,000 for war relief work in France, was being cheerfully paid by practically all the members of this lodge, and the same success is reported from many of the other lodges, and the Grand Lodge is certain of the success of the movement. The million dollars raised in this way will be used to relieve the suffering soldiers on the battle fronts, and in many ways to help make their life as pleasant as possible while they are fighting for our country.

Lodges Furnish Patriots. Practically every Elks lodge in the United States has lost several of its members by the selective draft and enlistment, and in each case one of the members has been appointed to keep the lodge informed as to the welfare of the other Elks in that partic-

MANY CARS LADEN WITH FOOD MOVED DAILY BY ROADS

Following statement has been made by the railroads war board at Washington: "Approximately 2,500 cars of food and other necessities are being delivered daily by the railroads at the cantonments where the National Army and the National Guard are being trained for service abroad, according to reports just received by the railroads war board."

SIGNAL CORPS IS READY FOR MORE MEN TO ENLIST

The army has again opened the signal corps for enlistment and is very desirous of securing applicants for the aviation section. It is specifically stated in the instructions, however, that men are enlisted on the very definite understanding that there will be no guarantee that they will be taught to fly. There are, apparently, a number of things besides flying in connection with the aviation section; and flying is reserved for those who make very good indeed.

Applicants for this section will be sent to Fort Sam Houston, and married men may be accepted, provided they agree to support their wives and families during their period of enlistment. No more applicants will be accepted for the Twenty-first Engineers of the National Army. The following applicants have been sent to Dallas during the past week: Thos. R. Bruce, Okla.; Jack Parke, Wichita Falls; McMath, Lamesca; C. O. Witt, Logan; L. F. Linn, Granite, Okla.; E. Valentine, Carnegie, Okla.; D. Barnett, Hollis, Okla.; and W. Hazelwood, Hollis, Okla.

CANTONMENTS ARE PROVING TO BE DRAIN UPON EQUIPMENT OF LINES

Accurate figures as to the extent to which the supplying of food and other necessities for the soldiers at the training camps will intensify the transportation problem will not be available until all of the camps have been asked to perform however is a difficult one. It involves the supplying of all the necessities of life for sixteen non-producing cities of a population of 40,000 each and fifty-six smaller cities ranging in population from 300 to 3000 altogether more than a million men gathered at the various cantonments must have their daily necessities brought to them by the railroads. As it takes at least five pounds of food per day for each soldier in addition to the clothing fuel and other supplies that are constantly needed the railroads have their work cut out for them.

STENOGRAPHERS ARE IN DEMAND BY GOVERNMENT

The demand in the Civil Service for stenographers and typewriters is so great that the standard has been lowered, and examinations are now being held for clerks with only a limited knowledge of these subjects. The first of these examinations will be held on November 3, and it is urged that all interested persons make application as soon as possible. The salary is the same as that of the regular stenographers and typewriters—$300 to $1,000 per year.

KERENSKY SEEMS IN FULL CONTROL OF NEW REPUBLIC

RUSSIAN PARLIAMENT SAID TO HAVE WITHDRAWN ALL ITS DEMANDS.

Petrograd, Monday, Oct. 9. (Delayed)—The provisional government apparently has won a complete victory over the preliminary parliament, an outgrowth of the democratic congress. M. Taerell, one of the leaders has informed Premier Kerensky that the parliament has withdrawn all its demands that the government be responsible to it and has acceded to the government's plan that the parliament act merely in an advisory legislative capacity. The parliament has been christened officially as "The Temporary Council of the Russian Republic" and will sit until the constituent assembly convenes. It has been agreed that the council shall have a right to put questions, but no demand, to initiate legislation on state questions and to deliberate on measures which the government lays before it.

The government will work out the whole program for the parliament at the first sitting when Premier Kerensky probably will personally lay before it the government's new program. At the suggestion of the government 120 members of the bourgeoisie will sit in the parliament. Premier Kerensky today officially informed all those selected last Thursday of their appointment to the new coalition cabinet.

FIRST LIBERTY MOTOR TRUCK IS READY FOR ARMY

By Associated Press
Lima, Ohio, Oct. 9.—The first Liberty motor truck for the United States Army, product of the greatest motor truck designers of the country and the combined genius of twelve motor truck plants and sixty-two automobile parts factories, was completed here yesterday at a local manufacturing plant.

The standardized machine, of which 5,000 copies will be turned out in the first half of 1918 for the army, is said to represent the perfection of automobile truck development. Its motor power is derived from the new Liberty motor, recently perfected at Washington by the war department experts.

The first Liberty motor truck was built in the greatest secrecy to protect it from enemy eyes. A building with out windows and lighted only by skylights housed the truck during the three weeks of its construction.

The plant was closely guarded by armed men night and day.

As an added precaution a second truck was assembled in an eastern city. As each part was completed here, a duplicate was dispatched to a northern New York town, where mechanics assembled a second machine. If the parts were small, they were sent by registered mail. If too big to ship that way, trusted mechanics carried them personally by train.
