Secretary of War Baker, the first American cabinet officer to visit Europe in an official cabacity since the United States entered the war is now in France for conferences with General Pershing and an inspection of the American troops and the positions they occupy on the front between Solssons and Alsace. The sacretary's mission is purely military and has ne diplomatic significance.

On the American sector northwest of Toul the artillery and serial activity has increased. American gunners shelled effectively various enemy fargets opposite the American trenches. The German arplanes have attacked American trenches with machine gun fire, while French gunners brought down an enemy airplane within the American ines. On board an American cruiser. Secretary Baker and his party eluded German submarines and arrived yesterday at a French seaport whence he departed for Paris. After a few days stay in the French capital, where he probably will meet President Poincare and Premier Clemenceau, the secretary will visit the American troops in the field.

Increased activity, especially in the artillery on the western front, has not yet resulted in any determined attack by either of the opposing forces. The Germans are more active on the British and Belgian fronts than elsewhere. Near Kippe, in Flanders, the Belgians have driven the enemy from parts of trenches he took several days ago.

Attacks Are Checked.

Recent German attacks on the British lines in the Ypres area were checked through British knowledge of enemy plans gained from deserters and pulsoners. The enemy intended to take important positions south of Beutholat Forcet, but heavy British artillery fire prevented a major effort artillery fire prevented a major effort.

POSTERS PROCLAIN

THESE TO BE SILENT SALES
AGENTS OF THIRD ISSUE , OF BONDS,

By Associated Press

Washington, March 8.—Posters proclaiming the Third Liberty Loan in striking phrases and colorful designs—nine million of them in more than a dozen styles—now are being distributed to Yery city and hamlet of the United States.

They are the silent sales agents of the bonds, and their preparation has taken months of planning and careful choosing. Hardly had the Second Liberty Loan campaign closed before the country's foremost artists and designers were invited to go to work on posters for the Third loan.

The result is a collection of striking posters, considered artistically and psychologically better than any yet attempted in the two previous loan drives. Soon they will be familiar sights in store windows, on bill boards, and all public places.

In addition, five million window stickers, 50,000,000 poster stamps, and 16,000,000 badges have been ordered and will be ready of the campaign.

Some of Designers Some of the designers of the Liberty on posters are Howard Chandler tristy, Joseph Pennell, J. C. Leyenseker, Sydnev Riesenberg, Herberttus, Henry Raleigh and Sydney S. 1970. All epatributed their work with new and sources of other artists out pay, and scores of other artists submitted designs which were reluct-inly rejected.

anly rejected.

Popular appeal was considered carefully in the final choice.

"We must reach all kinds and classes of persons," Treasury officials reminded themselves continually. They hope to grip the heartstrings—and equally the purse strings of the old and young, the city and country bred, the native American and the adopted alien.

and young, the city and country bred, the native American and the adopted alien.

One of the most striking posters—that of Joseph Pannell, the Philadelphia marine artist—portrays a great battleship alongside wharves bustling with war time activity—motor trucks swinging cranes, and smoking stacks, with airplanes overhead. It is executed in etching style, and the title subscribed is "Provide the Sinews of War, Buy Liberty Bonds."

Christy's Contribution

Howard Chandler Christy contributed a stirring design. A slim young modernized goddess of liberty waves aloft an American banner, and with outstretched arm points to a file of soldiers marching past. "Fight or Buy Bonds," is the title.

A poster which will arrest instant attention shows a steel-helmeted American soldier springing from a treuch and bearing a billowing American tlag. "Over the Top For You—Buy U. S. Government. Bonds—Third Liberty Loans is the message is carries. The work was done by Sydney Riesenberg.

The fact that many naturalized Americans contributed largely to success of the first and second Liberty Loans has been recognized and one of the posters was planned particularly for distribution in the foreign language sections of the cities. A sturdy immigrant, with his wife and boy, 'are seen in, the foreground. with flag behind, and the words of the advice are: "Remember the flag of Liberty. Support it. Buy U. S. Government Bonds."

The Lincolu poster has attracted much attention in advance of its general publication. It shows a brouze tablet with a bas relief of the martyred president, the quotation from his Getvisburg address: "So that government by the people, and for

The figure of a little girl clasping a Liberty Bond to her breast, adorns one of the posters with this subscription: "My Daddy Bought Me a Government Bond, Third Liberty Loan. Did Yours?" Publicity directors of the loan regard it as one of the most appealing of their entire collection.

An agricultural poster depicts a farmer lad in khakl bidding farewell to his father, saying: "Good-bye, Dad, I'm Off to Fight for Old Glory. You Buy U. S. Government Bonds."

Independence Hall is shown in one poster, with the historic liberty bell in a corner. "Ring It Again, Buy U. S. Government Bonds," is the inscription.

"Are You 100 per cent American?" is the caption of an attractive poster by Sidney S. Stern, a young New York artist.

Herbert Paus has contributed another of the soldier designs, showing a group of fighting men climbing over the track towns.

Bill Baard Sign

For blilboards, the publicity manager has arranged a huge design of a soldier asleep, with No Man's-Land in the distance, and above him in a vignette the embodiment of his dreams of victory—cheering troops marching homeward. "Make His Dreams Come True." the poster preaches. "Buy U. S. Government Bonds. Third Liberty Loan."

Another poster portrays a child at his mother's knee, praying for the safety and victory of his brother in France, in these words:

"Now I lay me down to sleep.
I pray the Lord my soul to keep.
God bless my brother gone to war, Across the seas in France, so far. Oh, may he fight for 'Jberty, Save millions more than little me From cruel fates or ruthless blast, And bring him safely home at last."

Fights Submarine

With Coal Shovel and Then Escapes

London, February 21. (By Mail)—
When one's vessel is in danger from enemy submartnes anything will do as a weapon of defense, as is shown by the story of a British trawler who used a coal shovel with good effect against a German U-boat. The trawler according to the story told by one of the crew, was in the North Sea in a stiff breeze when the skipper saw a periscope crawl through the breaking surface of the sea and about a bundred yards off. There was not gun aboard and the trawler's best speed was less than eight knots.

"It was a situation to dismay meet men," said the sailer. "Our skipper, however, has a fighting spirit. A touch of the wheel sent the rawler's blunt bows pointing at the submarine's whale back and we wallowed menacingly toward the pirate.

One of the crew thrust a coal shover into his hand and he acrambled on the bulwarks and leaned over, two of the crew hanging on to his coat, so that he would not fair overboard. "This group of troops will shortly have need of 1,000 men for various works. An increase of production must have need of 1,000 men for various works. An increase of production must be exacted from these workers, and groups of women must be employed whenever possible, especially for work in the fields. Those in charge of these workers must bear in mind that at the present moment our German women are taking the places of male workers and they should not lose sight of the principle that no French woman or girl ought to be allowed to do less work than our country women in theinterior,"

WATER WELL SUNK ON BUSY STREET

GOOD FLOW IS EXPECTED BUT SAND AND GRAVEL AT FIRST IMPEDE IT.

A water well was sunk in the curb in front of the Kentucky bar on Ohio avenue this morning by J. B. Marlow. A water sand was found at a depth of 28 feet and the hole was bored eight or ten feet into the sand. A casing was sunk to the bottom of the hole but the sand was gravel packed into it so as to impede the flow of the water. It is believed that as soon as the gravel is unpacked from the casing a strong flow of water will be released. Mr. Marlow expects to have a power pump put into the casing and says he will be disappointed unless it will pump as much as 100 gallons a minute.
