

QUANTRILL'S RIDE TO DOOM RELATED BY FORMER CITIZEN OF WICHITA FALLS

Many of the pioneer citizens of Wichita Falls will remember Allen Palmer, who resided in and near this city in the early days of its history, while others will recall his visits in recent years, and to all of these, as well as to others who enjoy reading a record of noted events of the past, the article reproduced here from the Kansas City Star, will be of more than usual interest.

Mr. Palmer came to this section something like thirty years ago, first settling in Archer county, adjoining the Luke Wilson ranch, where he engaged in farming, but not with a measure of success that was calculated to inspire, as he continued effort along that line, and he transferred his activities to Wichita Falls, then but a very small village. Later he moved to the Charlie community where he spent some time in tilling the soil, finally moving further west, where he was successful in accumulating a good measure of about the world's goods. His first wife, who was a sister of Frank and Jesse James, is buried in Riverside cemetery at this place, as is also a son who was drowned in the Wichita river. His second wife died while away attending school. Mr. Palmer visited Wichita Falls about two years ago, spending several days in the city, and he has many friends and acquaintances of former years.

The article, which gives an interesting account of some of his early experiences, is as follows:

Breaking a silence of more than fifty years, Allen Palmer, one of the first who enrolled under the noble banner of William Clarke Quantrill, the border raider of Civil War days, and now the only one of the surviving members of the band who saw and talked with the guerrilla chieftain after he had received a daughter in Kentucky, added a footnote to a few days ago to the oft-told tale of Quantrill's reign of terror in Jackson county, giving for the first time his version of the last and greatest raid from Missouri's borders and its tragic ending. The variants of the old story are many and conflicting in their details, and even the ablest of the old timers among the old timers, who still refuse to believe that Quantrill is dead, and lend a credulous ear to the periodical stories that appear in the newspapers of his re-creation in various parts of the country.

Today Allen Palmer is a well-to-do cattleman of Eldorado, Tex. For more than twenty years he has been manager of the old Wichita Land and Cattle Company's ranch in Texas, one of the principal owners of which was Luke F. Wilson of Kansas City—one of the biggest in the state in the days of the cattle barons, comprising six hundred and forty thousand acres of land, on which ten thousand calves a year were bred, and with the famous "circle 9" brand. But in the days when Quantrill rode the borders to Missouri and Kansas on his death dealing expeditions Allen Palmer was close in the councils of the guerrilla chief, and from the beginning of his career to its end, and his voice now is the last one of authority. To the scene of the latest reunion of the Quantrill survivors, only four in number, he answered the last roll call, he drove from Eldorado, Tex., in his motor car. Every year the reunion is held at Wallace's Grove, on Independence Avenue, near the Blue Ridge road, the home of Mrs. Lizette Wallace, who attended school with Allen Palmer and many of the old guerrillas at the Rock Creek school, and who says she will keep "open house" every year for the survivors of the band until the last one is gone.

When we assembled at the rendezvous every man wore a Federal uniform. Quantrill had assumed the name of George Washington, and he was told to answer every challenge with the information that we belonged to the 2nd Colorado Cavalry, Captain Moses commanding. We crossed the Osage river at Tuscumbia, then rode down close to Raleigh, where General Fremont's army had camped, following Price out. We drew rations from the storehouse, and we were with his soldiers. None of us knew exactly what our destination was, or what we were going to do. Quantrill wasn't much of a hand to take his men into his confidence. He had told us, though the day we started from Missouri that the game was up, that he expected Lee would have to surrender soon and that we were going to try to get in touch with Lee or some other Southern commander and get terms for the boys when the end came.

Changed Names Again.

"Along in the first week of January, 1865, we reached the mouth of the Missouri river, crossing at Devil's Bend, a point about twenty-five miles above Memphis, and January 22, 1865, a Sunday morning, we started on our journey from the mouth of the Missouri to the Green River district of Kentucky. Arriving in Kentucky soil, Quantrill dropped the name of Moses and became Captain Clark. He had been the captain of the company whose name we had assumed—the 2nd Colorado—and had been killed by Quantrill in 1863. It was Captain Clark's uniform the Quantrill wore. Up to this time we had had very little trouble, though the Federal soldiers were thick all around us. Our commander, Captain Clark, was a good fellow, and he held good. Quantrill gave it out that he was down in that country to hunt guerrillas. At Housatonic we met up with a little trouble. There were thirty Federal soldiers in garrison there, and Quantrill got the idea that we needed a change of horses so he sent us over there to commander Major Houston, the Federal commanding officer, grabbed hold of the reins of the horse I was riding, which happened to be his, and in the mixup Major Houston was killed. From that time on the word went around that we were Quantrill men, and the whole country was astir to hunt us down. It was hot work day and night after that.

"We got out Housatonic and rode to Danville, then northwest from Danville to Washington and camped around there, about eight miles from Harrodsburg. We got word that Colonel Bridgewater and Captain Terrell were on our trail. Bridgewater was a militia colonel. Terrell was known as a Federal guerrilla—he was at one time with Morgan and knew all the guerrilla tactics. One night a bunch of us went over in a number, went to a house a few miles from Harrodsburg to get something to eat—we hadn't had a good meal in a week and we didn't think there was a Federal within a good many miles of us. After supper, we were still all sitting around listening to the girls playing the piano—even our two pickets, and I was one of them, came in to listen to the music. Bridgewater came up and surrounded the house. We made a break for it, every man trying to get to his horse, but out of that seventeen, they killed eleven of us, wounded and captured four and only myself and Gaugh escaped to bring the news to Quantrill. Most all of those boys that were killed there were from Independence. Quantrill flew into a terrible rage when we told him about it and he wouldn't believe it. He sent Chat Renick, Peyton Long, Frank James and myself back to see if we could get any of the wounded boys out. They killed Chat Renick on the way back.

"Well, that was the first hard blow we got, and we had to dodge about in the brush considerable after that, on the watch and on the flight day and night. The forty-two were getting pretty well scattered out along, in April, we got into Spencer county and Terrell, still hard on the trail, got another bunch of us there near Bloomfield.

A Surprise Attack.

"We started to go up Salt river, in the south part of Spencer county—and it turned out to be a real Salt river for us. One night, along in the early part of May, we pulled up with what was left of the band at the house of James H. Wakefield. It had been raining hard for three days—never saw such a flood—and we were mighty glad to hunt shelter. Wakefield was friendly and we thought we were in pretty safe quarters. We turned our horses loose and quartered ourselves in the house and the next day we were sitting round, some of us in our stocking feet, playing cards and throwing corn cobs at one another, when we hear whoops and yells and pistol volleys all around us, and we knew in a minute that the other guerrilla captain was on top of us. Quantrill himself was sleeping up in the hayloft when the charge came. Every man rushed for his pistols and there was a wild scramble to get to our horses. Some of us got them and some of us didn't. Every gate was guarded. Bill Hulise, Henry Porter and myself were the only ones that got away on our horses and we did that by leaping the fence. Quantrill got nearly three quarters of a mile away from the house before they shot him down. He kept firing at them until he shot his lead out and then they got him with a rifle shot through the spine. He fell in Wakefield's pasture.

SUGGESTIONS TO COMBAT SPREAD OF INFLUENZA

The medical department of the Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Company is co-operating with the health authorities in an effort to prevent a further spread of Spanish influenza, and in this connection has issued a bulletin prepared by Dr. Mar. E. Taber, their medical adviser, recommending a preventative and also giving some suggestions that may be of value in warding off the disease. The bulletins are as follows:

- To Prevent Influenza.
- Dr. Taber recommends spraying nose and throat three times a day with:
  - 1. Gr. Menthol.
  - 2. Gr. Camphor.
  - 3. Oz. Liquid Alcolone.
- De Vilbiss No. 15 or No. 16 Sprayer is a good one. The sprayer should be disinfected by dipping in solution of Lysol and water between each use. Do not spray before meals. Do not spray with peroxide or other irritating or watery solutions. They do no good and are likely to do actual harm.

Colds Are Contagious.

Avoid catching one if possible. Don't give one to others.

To avoid catching cold from others: Stay away from crowds; avoid people with colds; shun the person who does not cover a cough or sneeze with a handkerchief; get plenty of fresh air; if you can't walk to and from your home, try walking part way and thus reduce the length of time you are obliged to ride in a crowded car.

Movies and theatres are good places to avoid as they seldom are opened to fresh air and sunshine; dress warmly enough; wash your hands frequently particularly before going on duty.

If you have a cold, spare others from it; don't mix with crowds; cover a cough or sneeze with a handkerchief; use plenty of handkerchiefs; and don't leave them lying around; pay unusual attention to personal cleanliness; get plenty of fresh air; drink plenty of water; dress warmly enough.

Lived Six Weeks Longer.

"That was the last we saw of Quantrill. He died about six weeks after that. Mrs. Ross, the mother of John Ross, later Mrs. Harriet Lobb of Independence, Mo., brought us the last word we had from him. We hung around there in the brush for some time and one day Mrs. Ross came out to see us. She told us she had just left Quantrill's death bed.

LETTERS FROM OUR BOYS "OVER THERE"

SEMG. SOMERVILLE WRITES TO MRS. J. W. STONE

Wednesday, Sept. 4.

Dear Mrs. Stone: I have a few minutes all my own and have the Lieutenant's permission to do as I please for thirty minutes. I am going to light my two candles and draw on my limited supply of Y. M. C. A. stationery and write you a few lines.

This leaves me in the same frame of mind and health when you saw me last. This climate in August is almost like late fall in Wichita Falls, and the nights are similar to those of Nebraska and Colorado. It is all delightful and ideal training ground for the boys of Texas.

I have never seen Stone since I have been over here but have heard of him quite often, as part of our detachment are stationed near him, and some of his crowd visits every day. He and Jake Avis seem to be quite set home over here. In fact, the whole detachment seem to be increasing in wisdom and stature and becoming real sure enough soldiers. One day I came over to see us yesterday morning and we had a real nice visit. We are scattered all over the country training for the next campaign. There looks as though there will be no front by the time we are ready to go up. Then they rumor it that we will never see the front but stay here just as at Camp Bowie.

Saw Max Gardner a few days. He is a real man now, all hardened and tanned like a real veteran. He is driving a supply truck for the Rain-bow Division, that is now resting not far from here, or was resting when I last saw him.

France is a great place, full of peculiar manners and customs (though I suppose that we would seem strange to them). This place where we are stationed is just a little inland settlement of farmers. All the farmers live in little villages and till the land in the surrounding valleys. The mountains I called these hills until I began taking hikes over them and then I had more respect for their size. They are covered with timber at the top with large grape vineyards on the rocky sides. Every house of every city, town and village I have yet been in as well as every barn or building is built of stone, with cement colored stone, and most of them have red tile roofs. All the land that can be worked is under cultivation and there are single buildings, houses or fences outside the village, all the hill sides and valleys present a beautiful view in the various colors and shades of green laid off in rectangles.

The little children herd the cattle on the pastures; the old men herd the sheep, on the mountain sides with the assistance of shepherd dogs; they carry the regulation shepherd's staff; the women and German prisoners work the fields. Vegetation here is exactly like Missouri, except there is no corn raised here, though lots of small grain and have lots of grape vineyards, potato and carrot patches.

Wine is sold everywhere. Tall rock cliffs are made into wine cellars with people living in rooms made out of solid rock. Saw some of the most beautiful scenery during our four days railway journey over here. Did not come to the same port that Stone did. We landed at a certain port that Julius Caesar established as a fort, and slept on chicken coop beds in barracks built in 1671 and used by Napoleon's armies. In that region the fields were divided by high embankments covered with hedge. Don't know if this will be at all interesting, but war news is as well known to you as to me and we can hear just as clearly thing. The American battle cry is "Heaven, Hell or Hoboken by Xmas."

The French are sad but getting more optimistic as the Germans are pushed back. All the children whose fathers have been killed wear a black apron—little boys and girls alike. German prisoners work hard without guards and seem glad to stay.

The French people seem very glad to see us and could not possibly treat us better, that is, so long as we could not. They are making sacrifices and adopting a standard of living that the average negro would think pretty tough. Butter is one dollar a pound, eggs slightly over a dozen, and fifty cents a pound, small oranges fifteen cents a piece, and cake and sugar not on the market at all.

Guess this is enough this time. Hope to hear from you by return mail in some fifty days. Ask Helen to send a line if the aviators are not too numerous. Have not heard from Wichita Falls since my arrival in France. Have been trying to master French language but seem to be going slow. Have not seen those celebrated French maidens, though quite a few other kind. Sincerely,

Sgt. Wayne Somerville, 1491951, Medical Detachment, 142 Inf., A. E. F.

LIEUTENANT PATTERSON WRITES EXPERIENCES

Lieutenant C. S. Patterson, formerly of Wichita Falls, one of the survivors of the Tuscania disaster, and now in France in the Chemical Warfare Service of the U. S., tells some of his experiences while at the front. In a letter written to James S. Elliott of this city. This letter was written while Lieutenant Patterson was in the rear of the front line. His many friends here will be interested in the letter, which reads in part:

"Dear Friend Elliott: Your good letter of April 4, received sometime ago but have been pretty busy and never got the opportunity to answer until now. I guess the only reason that I have time to answer now is that I'm not at the front. Was, though, for quite a spell and saw some very lively times. Learned to travel like a barrel, being rolled about and over and that is tip-top, dodging the boche shells. When he gets made he sure sends over lots of them and fast, and if you are out and want to get in you have to bury your nose in the ground considerably, providing you don't wish to collect on your war risk insurance.

"I've felt that I was all sprawled out like a burned toad at times, and then felt that there was about 14 inches of me sticking up too high then, and wondered if that part of my anatomy which stuck up so high would stop a shell splinter. For those splinters do fly and have a funny whizz, pint, as they go by.

"Now about that boche helmet you desire. Say, bo, those guys marry those things and you can't wander out in No Man's land or behind the boche trenches any time you like. I never was out in No Man's land even. When you get out there he gets real mad and throws shells, machine gun fire and so forth, and you don't have much time to pick up souvenirs. It's something different from picking up sea shells on the sea shore. Then, if you did get any they would be hard to carry.

"Wish you could see the little hell the boche raises with his artillery. Some of these 210's and 250's make a hole big enough to bury a box car in and they come down like rain. You shove your old carcass on the ground, or in a shell hole or trench and wonder if you're going to get yours. It's no Sunday school picnic. But say, maybe he raises hell, but those American batteries when they go back after him sure sound good and he gets more than he sends. How many I can not tell, but I know if he makes us flop, he digs a hole. I've seen him shelling a battery, just hear the shells burst over or around the battery and 'bloody,' the answer goes back, as if to say, 'Why you... you mislaid me that time.' Just like a rooster crowing!

"Say, this U. S. army is full of Masons and I am a member of the Masonic club of the Division. Sure is a pleasure to meet the brethren here. Well, I must quit. Best regard to friends Collier and Hendricks, hello to inquiring Brothers, and write when you can. Fraternal yours,

"P. S. Sure glad to see that Texas beat Jim Ferguson."

RUSSELL WAIT WRITES FROM FORT MONROE

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Wait have received an interesting letter from their son, Russell, who was a High school student here last winter, who is now in Fort Monroe, Va., in training. In this letter young Russell describes many interesting sights that he has seen, among them several wooden ships under construction, camouflaged transports and seaplanes. His training in this camp is an intensive course in truck work. A portion of his letter is quoted:

"About two hundred of us came up here from Camp Eustis in twenty-five trucks. It was very bumpy and uncomfortable through New York and New Jersey. There were lots of camp and lots of equipment to be sent overseas. There are thousands of horses and motor trucks. We saw Hampton Roads. There were lots of ships there.

"This is a huge fort, just how large I can't say, for I haven't explored it yet. They have the C. A.'s officers school here, also the chauffeurs' school. Most of the buildings are large and permanent.

"Yesterday they were firing an anti-aircraft a short distance from where we were working. It was about a three inch gun, but made a tremendous crash. You could feel the air shake before you heard the sound, and about twenty seconds later you could see, far up in the sky, a little cloud of smoke where the shell had burst."

JAKE AVIS WRITES TO HOME FOLKS

Somehow in France. August 25. Dearest Mother and All: Have tried every day to write you but haven't gotten to it, but have thought of you many times. I never realized how important singing was until I got here. Every company must sing at least fifteen minutes a day. I must say that I have been appointed song leader of our company (250 men), and last week when our entire battalion assembled for the first time, I called upon the entire battalion and it certainly was wonderful to hear fifteen thousand husky officer candidates singing.

Everywhere you go and on every word and post you see the word 'Avis.' It is spelled just the same but pronounced with short 'a.' It means 'notice', of political affairs. It seems very peculiar in all these little villages they all have a mayor, and you must consult the mayor on everything. He seems to be the ruler, not but in the piece of our first debarkation we saw the President of France.

So you people must write me often and about once a week send a special delivery letter for me are all handshakes. I remain as Clyde Smith calls me.

"Alva, Manie, Jake Avis."

SINGING POPULAR WITH MEN AT CAMP PIKE

Editor Times. Wichita Falls, Texas. Dear Sir: Thought maybe you would like to hear of the conditions at the Officers Training School here. Saw Ralph Mather the other day, as he is quartered near our barracks.

I never realized how important singing was until I got here. Every company must sing at least fifteen minutes a day. I must say that I have been appointed song leader of our company (250 men), and last week when our entire battalion assembled for the first time, I called upon the entire battalion and it certainly was wonderful to hear fifteen thousand husky officer candidates singing.

They are very popular and our new words have caught popular favor. They are as follows:

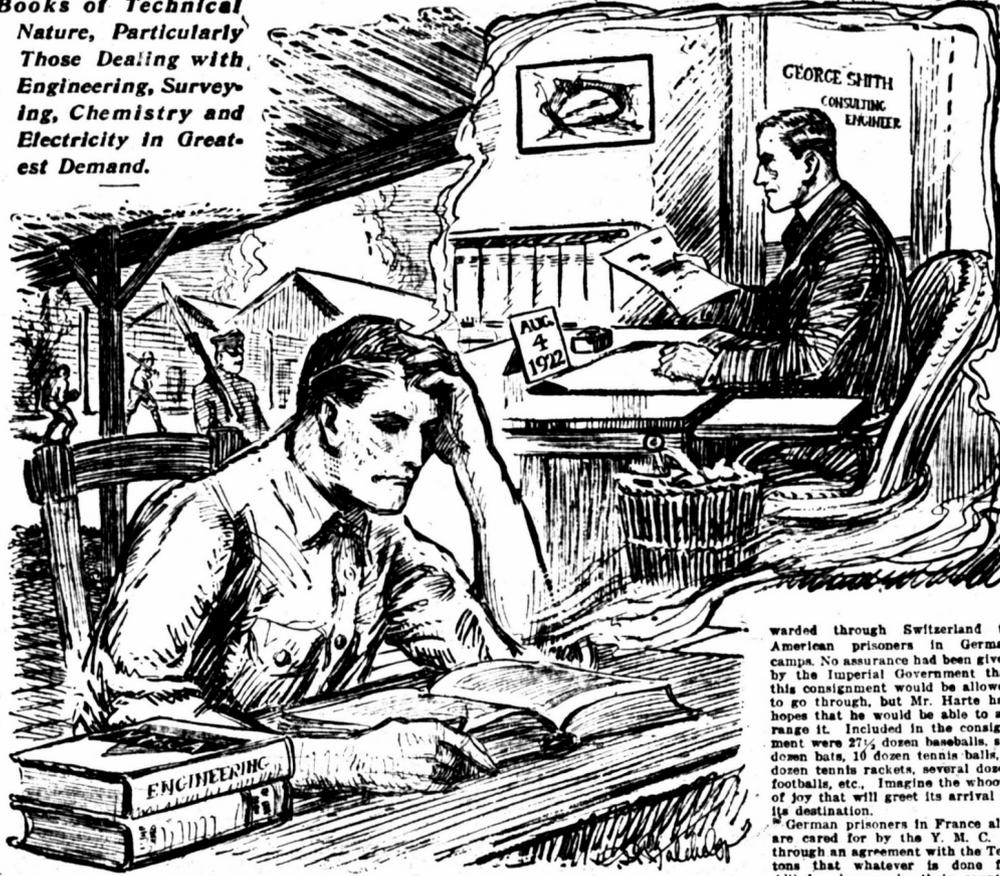

K-K-K-K-P. Harrille K-P. You're the only occupation I abhor: When the M-M-Moon shines over the guard house, I'll be mopping the kitchen floor.

We have the finest bunch of gentlemen I ever saw and I believe that all will make excellent officers. Would appreciate a paper frequently as I consider Wichita Falls my home and will again be musical director at the Masonic theatre when I get through canning the Kaiser. Regards to all friends and to Hell with the slackers. Yours,

ED. SHUMWAY, 4th Co. Officers Training Camp, Camp Pike, Ark.

U. S. Prisoners Study To Fit Themselves For Better Jobs After Allies Have Won the War

Books of Technical Nature, Particularly Those Dealing with Engineering, Surveying, Chemistry and Electricity in Greatest Demand.

An American War Prisoner's Vision

BY E. A. BATCHELOR

WHEN an American soldier is unlucky enough to be taken prisoner by the Boche and sent to one of the camps in the interior of Germany he doesn't lose all contact with his own people. It is true that he doesn't have an American daily paper delivered with his coffee and eggs each morning, nor receive a letter every afternoon with the latest gossip from home. He is fairly well kept out of touch with his own land but occasionally he learns that he has not been forgotten. The Y. M. C. A. is one of the agencies that keeps the line of communication open.

In a quiet way, the International Committee, through its European agencies, is doing a great deal to ameliorate the condition of Yankee prisoners of war in Germany. The work, of course, is subject to drastic restrictions by the German Government and is not nearly so extensive as the committee would like to make it. Still some concessions have been secured from the central powers. Since the United States entered the war, Americans have not been exactly popular in Germany. There was a big Yankee Y. M. C. A. organization looking after Allied prisoners in the Fatherland prior to April, 1917, but when Uncle Sam got tired of fooling and went to fighting, the workers were handed their hats. Most of them came out with Ambassador James W. Gerard, but the Germans had confidence enough in Conrad Hoffman, one of the "Y" leaders in the work among the prisoners, to allow him to remain for several months.

When it became necessary for the Americans to leave, the Y. M. C. A. activities were placed in the hands of neutrals, mainly Swiss and Scandinavian. These men are doing excellent work, continuing the various activities instituted by the Yankees. The funds are still being furnished by the International Committee, which maintains a central office in Berne, Switzerland, in charge of A. C. H. Other officers are located in Berlin, Vienna, Paris, Petrograd, Copenhagen, Rome and Sofia.

The work of the War Prisoners' Aid Department consists mainly in furnishing the interperd men with means of amusing themselves, and pursuing studies in various subjects. Books, particularly those of a technical nature, are in great demand. Musical instruments, indoor and outdoor paraphernalia for games, theatrical material, and in some cases food and clothing, are sent in parcels of prisoners are putting in most of their time studying electricity, chemistry, engineering, surveying, etc., so that when the war is over, or they are exchanged they will be qualified to hold better positions than they ever have held before.

It seems strange that a term of a prisoner of war might be the means of starting a man on the road to success, but this is what is likely to happen in some cases. Recently a car load of baseballs and other athletic goods was forwarded through Switzerland to American prisoners in German camps. No assurance had been given by the Imperial Government that this consignment would be allowed to go through, but Mr. Harte had hopes that he would be able to arrange it. Included in the consignment were 27½ dozen baseballs, six dozen bats, 10 dozen tennis balls, a dozen tennis rackets, several dozen footballs, etc. Imagine the whoops of joy that will greet its arrival at its destination.

German prisoners in France also are cared for by the Y. M. C. A. through an agreement with the Teutons that whatever is done for Allied prisoners in their country must also be done for the Boche captives held by the Allies. Books, games, musical instruments, theatrical make-up and costumes, athletic equipment, etc., are being furnished the "Fritzes." The demand for musical instruments and theatrical material is particularly great. Almost every German has some sort of musical talent, and many of them are amateur thespians of ability also. Up to date, the Y. M. C. A. hasn't been able to keep up with the demands made upon it by the devotees of these two arts.

The work has been extended to the Polish prisoners held in France. In one camp, the Poles publish a very well-edited and well-printed newspaper. This little sheet, besides amusing its editors and readers, is doing excellent missionary work by printing the truth about the political aspects of the war and thus disabusing the prisoners of some of the false ideas engendered by inspired propagandists supported by German gold.

The International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. is working with the prisoners of war in all parts of the Central Powers, as well as in Germany proper.

FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION NOTED FOR SIGNAL BRAVERY

By Associated Press. DALLAS, TEX., October 14.—The French Foreign Legion, on its first tour of the Southwest in the interest of the Fourth Liberty Loan issue, is composed of 17 nationalities. The legion, which the 65 men touring Texas represent, during the war has played 48,000 men in battle. There are only 2,000 left now. It has been said that existing in the foreign legion was equivalent to six times one's death warrant. Wherever the fighting is the thickest the legion is to be found.

The soldiers receive only 5 cents per day from the French government. However, the visitors, touring this country will get $30 per month, the same as the American soldier receives as they have been brought over in the interest of the liberty loan.

All members of this legion have won the Croix De Guerre for bravery and many have been awarded six and twelve wound stripes.

"The motto of the legion has all along been 'Death is Better Than To Retreat.' They never abandon the bodies of its comrades who fall on the battlefield. They must never be left to the enemy and must be taken off by members of the legion.

SUBJECTS IN MACEDONIA ARE MUCH ABUSED

By Associated Press. SALONIKI, Sunday, Oct. 13.—Jewish and Mohammedan (Greek subjects in Macedonia) suffered terribly during Bulgarian rule of that country. It has been proved by investigation. Most of the Jews in Serbia were deported and many died from hunger. Mohammedans who were unmolested during the stay of a Turkish regiment which garrisoned the town for five months, suffered worse treatment after its departure for Asia. When the Allies entered the town they were met with enthusiasm by the people.

REPENTANCE AND PEACE.

What greater boon is there for the human heart and mind than that of peace? To be at peace with yourself as well as with your loved ones and neighbors is to have heaven on earth. And Germany wants peace? What kind of a peace? What would be the basis of this peace? What guarantees could be given that peace would reign?

The Kaiser and his Prussian associates have by their lawlessness put themselves clear beyond the boundaries of those laws that govern the relationships of nations. A calm, dispassionate survey of only a pitiful few facts in this world crisis compel us to sound forth Grant's memorable slogan, "Unconditional surrender" and then we will lay down all the peace terms that Germany must obey both in the letter and in the spirit.

In 1907 at an international convention held at The Hague Germany and Austria through official delegates signed this agreement, "Arbitration is recognized by the contracting Powers as the most effective and at the same time the most equitable means of settling disputes which diplomacy has failed to settle." For us to comment upon this injury would be to add insult to our national injury.

Germany and Austria also signed in official signatures the agreement, "that prisoners of war were not to be employed in works that had any connection with the operations of war. Further, "All necessary measures should be taken to spare as far as possible buildings devoted to religious worship, arts, science, and charity, historical monuments, and places of assembly of sick and wounded." Germany has used and is using whole populations for war work. If the prisoners of Belgium and Northern France could speak to the World of the unjust, brutal treatment Germany has imposed upon them in direct opposition to her signed agreements at The Hague all of us would feel moved to demand, "No quarter." Instead of the merciful "Unconditional surrender" and Germany solemnly agreed to spare all church edifices." The Liberty Digest of Oct. 12th displays a photo taken from a German prisoner of French church bells at Wolvenbutel. The stolen bells silently show that the Wolf did butt through all laws in keeping with his lying, vicious nature!

Germany and Austria also signed to this, "The honor and the rights of family, the life of individuals, and private property should be respected." Just one name of thousands comes up just here, Cavell, to condemn without any hope of relief the Germany who signed not to do just what she did do. Germany and Austria signed to "Respect all hospital ships. The bombardment of undefended cities and villages is forbidden. Also all looting is positively forbidden." So we could easily go on quoting law after law that Germany and Austria agreed to and have constantly and consistently violated. Look at these words coming from Germans who helped the cause of The Hague conventions, and were fully informed as to all the workings of these conventions. The Kaiser comes first with "Nothing must henceforth be settled in the World without the intervention of Germany and the German Empire." Yet this same Fox of a Kaiser has commanded his paid hirelings to sign the law, "Nations are equal in respect to each other and entitled to claim equal consideration for their rights."

Bernhardt affirmed, "France must be so completely crushed that she can never again cross our path." Such statements are unbelievable almost and only the cold, biting facts force us to admit the truth of all this with our minds bewildered and horrified as we weigh it.

Nietzsche is describing the German soldiers says, "These men are, in reference to what is outside their circle where the foreign country begins not much better than beasts of prey. They feel that they can revert to the beast of prey conscience like jubilant monsters who, perhaps, go with bravado from the ghastly bout of murder, arson, rape, and torture." These words have found an awful,

Day's War Developments

(By Associated Press.)

German forces have abandoned the old front running through Louvain and the Vosges to the Swiss frontier. The French after recapturing Louvain, have pressed on until their line now runs from the Oise River above La Fere to the eastern end of Chemin des Dames.

On the Champagne front, General Bethellot is less than five miles from Bethellot further east, General Gouraud has taken Vouziers, but has not penetrated much north of that place. Americans fighting in the Argonne region are through the krijnshide line, but their progress there is very slow.

German Delay Too Long. Study of the tactics followed by the Germans during the past week has shown that they are following the methods of retreat used in the Marne and Somme campaigns in July and August. They have held their tanks fairly secure and have withdrawn their center. They have thus apparently averted disaster around Laon, where military experts have said the Germans have delayed their retirement too long for their own safety.

In the region of Douai, British troops are fighting their way forward against desperate resistance and in spite of numerous waterways, which serve to hold up their advance. The system is still being studied while to the north the line is sagging of sharply to the east. Should Douai fall the British will be able to advance on Valenciennes.

The Oise River has been crossed by the French to the northeast of La Fere at Origny and they have advanced close to the river to the north.

Colville Barclay, charge of the British embassy, with whom Chamberlain had conferred at the embassy in the morning called at the state department late today and again went into consultation with Mr. Polk.

Market Report

Cotton Market

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The unsettled ruling of the cotton market at the opening today gave prospects conflicting views of peace prospects based on the German note. First prices were 10 points lower to 17 points higher with the late months relatively firm as the tone of the market seemed to improve with the progress of the call. There was scattered southern selling but no important pressure from that source, and offerings were well taken by a renewal of Liverpool and trade buying. There also was buying for Wall Street account and after the first flurry of offerings had been absorbed the market firmed with December selling up to 31 1/2 and January to 30 or 40 to 32 points net higher.

The early advance extended to 31 1/2 for December and 30 1/2 for January or 70 to 75 points above the closing price of last Friday.

In the case of December contracts this made a recovery of 60 points from the level of last Thursday morning which probably will attract considerable trading. As soon as offerings increased, the market turned easier and there also was southern selling which carried the market off to 30 1/2 for December and 30 1/2 for January, or about two to six points net lower. Trading then became less active with the trade apparently waiting for further developments.

The market was very quiet during the early afternoon with but little further change in prices. There was a little buying on reports that Turkey had asked for peace through Spanish ambassador but it was in no way reflected in the market. Around 2 o'clock December held at 30 1/2 and January 30 1/2, or about four points net lower. Cotton closed barely steady.

New Orleans Cotton. NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—After a decline of five to nine points on the earlier months on the opening today, cotton rose strongly on war post accounts. At the end of the first half hour trading prices were 27 to 28 points.

The market became quiet with the trade waiting on the new feature in diplomatic exchanges between this country and Germany. At noon prices were at a net advance of 29 to 28 points.

Cotton closed steady at an advance of 15 to 25 points. Quiet prevailed in the afternoon without much change in price. At one o'clock the trading months were at a net advance of 7 to 10 points.

Liverpool Cotton. LIVERPOOL, Oct. 14.—Cotton spot prices steady. Good middling 24 1/2, middling 23 1/2, low middling 22 1/2, good ordinary 20 1/2, ordinary 18 1/2. Sales 2,000 bales, including 1,500 American. Receipts 7,000 bales, including 6,500 American.

New York Stocks. By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Peace stocks were again decidedly strong at the opening of today's market, rails, shipplings and oils scoring the greatest gains. Mexican Petroleum rose five points in the first half hour, jumping 2 points between sales. Marine common and preferred improved substantially with United Fruit, the latter advancing 3 points. Pacifics, Reading, Atchafson and Southern Railway featured the transportation at gains of 1 to 2 points. Irregular heaviness was shown by United States Steel and independent steels, also Baldwin Locomotive and Industrial Alcohol in which recessions of 1 to 2 points prevailed.

CORN SOARS ON EXPECTED SALE TO THE GOVERNMENT

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Announcement from the gallery of the board of trade today that the United States government would buy large amounts of corn for November and December delivery, made corn prices jump skyward. The November option touched $1.20, a rise of six cents above Friday's close, and a far greater advance from a sharp initial setback today due to the German reply to President Wilson's inquiries.

Such greater upticks were witnessed near the end of the day. November touching $1.21 1/2, the total rise of 19 1/2 cents a bushel as compared with 1 1/2 at the opening this morning. The market closed strong at nearly the highest level of the session with November $1.21 1/2 and December $1.18 1/2 to $1.18.
