SAYS THE GERMANS REALLY PREFERRED MILITARY LEADERS

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—"Military leadership was maintained because the German people themselves wanted it."

This charge was dramatically made tonight by Dr. Theobald Von Bethmann Hollweg, former chancellor, during a hearing of the Reichstag committee investigating the war.

The grim old diplomat, who had been testifying in a low monotone, suddenly raised his voice to a shout as he flung his accusation at the committee, pounding a table with his fist the while.

"There was a good part of the people who demanded unrestricted submarine warfare," he said. "They believed it meant sure victory. An overwhelming portion of the press had the same idea while a majority of the Reichstag was for it."

Von Bethmann Hollweg placed the burden of prolongation of the war equally on the German people and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg. "The Kaiser was not in the position, even if he desired, to resist Von Hindenburg," he said.

The former chancellor said President Wilson's mediation offer in December, 1918, was ignored because military command feared he was being victimized by the Entente, who would turn his offer to their own account.

DECLARES STRIKE A PART OF CAMPAIGN TO CONTROL MINES

BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 1.—Speaking at a Republican rally here today, Senator Poindexter, Washington, declared the strike of coal miners is part of a radical campaign to seize control of the mines.

"It is part of a program of communism," declared Poindexter. "We are approaching a state of civil war."

He added "The coal strike is not a good faith campaign for higher wages, shorter hours or better working conditions. These are already amply liberal. The eight hour day was established upon the instigation of the unions themselves. The wages of miners are already from a minimum of $8 a day to as high as $12 a day and common labor in the mines receives a minimum of $5 a day.

"The demand for a six hour day and five days a week and sixty per cent increase in wages is a mere subterfuge. It is manifestly uneconomic and unreasonable. It is simply a part of a campaign to break down the coal industry for the purpose of breaking down industry and securing the control of the mines."

TWO ARE KILLED IN SAN AUGUSTINE SATURDAY NIGHT

HOUSTON, TEX., Nov. 1.—In a pistol battle with Tony Miller in San Augustine at 7:00 p. m. Saturday, Sheriff R. L. Watts was shot and killed by Miller, who, a few minutes later fell dead from the effects of bullets fired by Deputy Sheriff "Judge" Wilkerson.

POSTOFFICE ANNEX MAY NOT DEVELOP FROM RECENT PLAN

That the government's terms or restrictions under which it wished to accept the offer of prominent citizens here to erect a temporary postoffice annex to the south of the present federal structure, are unsatisfactory and likely will be rejected, was learned from an authentic source last evening.

Postmaster Ed Howard yesterday afternoon presented the government's proposal and form of contract to the four men leading the movement to give Wichita a "temporary postoffice building" until adequate permanent quarters may be procured in the form of the proposed new federal building. These men are J. A. Kemp, R. E. Huff, W. W. Silk and C. W. Reid.

Mr. Kemp and Postmaster Howard declined to be quoted about the matter, and the other three men were not seen. However, it was learned from another source that the government's form of contract, whereby it could, on six months' notice, cancel its lease and order the building razed, was not at all satisfactory.

Other features of the contract provide that the annex shall be 33 by 97 feet and erected to the south of the present building. Terms of the contract contained in the annex are: First year, $5,000; second year, $5,000; third year, $4,000; fourth year, $3,000; fifth year, $2,000; and each additional year up to and including 10 years, $1,000. The contract provides that the annex shall belong to the citizen-builders, but that it shall be removed upon six months' notice, should the treasury department, which is in charge of all postal buildings, decree.

A reservation in the contract stipulates that after three months the government can order the building removed on six months' notice.

Estimates as to the cost of the building vary, but one architect's figures placed the cost at $15,000. This would exactly be the rental the government would receive should the government exercise the right given it in the contract and order the building razed after three years' occupancy and six months' notice.

Just what the next move in the efforts to give Wichita Falls additional postoffice room will be, could not be learned.

WORK IS PROGRESSING ON PANHANDLE'S FUEL LINE

Work is progressing rapidly on the fuel oil line of the Panhandle Refinery from the refinery, in North Wichita, to the new office buildings and the new hotel, which will use fuel oil in their heating plants.

The ditch digging had progressed to Seventh street, on Scott Saturday, and the line will be completed in a short time.

RETURNS FROM EAST TEXAS SPEAKING TOUR

Rev. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, returned Friday from a trip to East Texas points on behalf of the Baptist Seventy-Five Million Campaign. He spoke at Marshall, Hallsville and Longview.

"VICTORY" SAVINGS STAMP CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN NOV. 10

November 10 the Victory Campaign to put the nation "over the top" in the War Savings Stamps quota will begin, and Wichita county's chairman, Mrs. J. W. Lee and R. E. Shepherd have their committees organized ready to start work to put over the county's unsold quota of almost a quarter of a million dollars. The campaign will continue through to January 1, 1920, but it is the hope of the chairman to put the quota over in one day's time.

Wichita county's original quota was $246,400, divided as follows: Wichita Falls, $168,400; Burkburnett, $25,000; Electra, $17,400 and Iowa Park, $17,500. Of this amount only about $28,000 has already been sold during the ten months of the year already past, Chairman Shepherd reports.

The War Savings Bank down town is to be opened by the women's committee November 10, Mrs. Lee states. Four-Minute-Men will speak at the theaters, and the tactics of other campaigns, which have been highly successful, will be used. The Wichita Falls women's committee is announced as follows: Mesdames J. W. Stone, W. P. Bolding, C. F. Spencer, W. S. Robertson, V. H. Shepherd, S. A. Wilfong, Wade Walker and Misses Laura Hall and Rose Reisenberg. The chairman for Burkburnett, Iowa Park and Electra have not yet been appointed.

The men's chairman for these towns are: Burkburnett, C. O. Walling; Electra, J. A. Wuse; Iowa Park, J. F. Boyd. Mr. Shepherd also announces his Wichita Falls committee as follows: Roy B. Jones, N. H. Martin, J. M. McFall, W. R. Ferguson, A. H. Britain, W. S. Curlee, W. W. Anderson, C. E. McCutchen, Will Daniel, R. S. Nixon, C. W. Reid, N. O. Monroe, S. E. Bridwell, W. B. Hamilton and J. Wilkie Talbert. The speakers are: P. A. Martin, P. B. Cox, W. E. Chauncey and Finley Weldon.

"NERO FIDDLING WHILE ROME BURNED," TO BE SUBJECT OF SERMON

"Nero Fiddling While Rome Burned" will be the theme of Rev. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, in his sermon Sunday night.

Rev. Powers has announced that he will discuss conditions in the nation, in Wichita Falls and in the Baptist church in this sermon.

WORK IS TO BEGIN ON BAPTIST PARSONAGE

Work is to begin in a short time on the construction of the new parsonage of the First Baptist church, it is stated by members of the building committee.

The parsonage will be erected on a lot given to the church by G. Clint Wood, and located on Huff avenue, just off Brook. The present parsonage has been sold.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOCIAL AT THE ANDERSON HOME

A phantom party, with all the traditional stunts of the Halloween season as entertainment features, was given for the members of the Episcopal Church Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Anderson, Jr., on Tenth street.

Mrs. Charles Popenohl and Mrs. O. E. Lillard were hostess with Mrs. Anderson, and an unusually enjoyable evening was spent. The Anderson home was decorated in the conventional Halloween motifs, and yellow flame chrysanthemums formed the floral decorations. Vocal music by Ivan Marchison was much enjoyed.

Various games such as doughnut biting and apple bobbing made the occasion one of much merriment. A delightful refreshment course was served at a late hour to about fifty guests.

STEVENS AND TALBERT AGENCY ACQUIRED BY CRAVENS AND COMPANY

Purchase of the Stevens and Talbert Insurance Agency by Cravens and Company was announced Saturday. In acquiring this agency Cravens and Company take over the business of what was the oldest insurance agency in the city, that of Frieze and Peery, which was bought about three years ago by Stevens and Talbert. This latest addition to the business makes Cravens and Company one of the largest insurance agencies in North Texas.

The change in the agency was effective Saturday, November 1. For the present, it is stated, the business will be conducted at the Cravens and Company's present location in the Kemp & Keel building, with a possible change on the completion of the new office buildings now under construction. The purchasing agency is composed of H. O. Cravens, J. B. Stokes, M. S. Smith and Miss Evelyn Coffield.

Messrs. Stevens and Talbert will both continue in business in Wichita Falls. Mr. Stevens will devote his entire time to the real estate business. He has been handling this department of the Stevens and Talbert company for some time.

Wilkie Talbert has recently gone into the dairy business, having purchased the Bandy Dairy, and will devote his time to dairying. It is understood, and also to building operations in Wichita Falls.

M'ADOO HERE FOR VISIT AT THE HOME OF G. CLINT WOOD

Former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, and F. R. Bertrou, New York banker, arrived in Wichita Falls Sunday morning for a visit of several days with G. Clint Wood. The visit of Mr. McAdoo, who is a member of a prominent New York law firm and of Mr. Bertrou, is purely social in nature. Mr. Wood states, and has no business significance.

This is the first visit of both men to the local oil fields. They will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Wood at their home, 1000 Brook.

Oil men who are seeking up-to-the-minute banking service and really practical, intelligent co-operation, are cordially urged to call and talk over their requirements with the officers of the National Bank of Commerce.

SCHOOL TEACHERS OF CLEVELAND, OHIO, THREATEN STRIKE

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 1.—Possibility of a strike of public school teachers was seen here today with the demands of the Cleveland Federation of Teachers for increased wages and the right of collective bargaining.

The teachers ask pay "on the basis of the purchasing power of the dollar in 1914."

Frank E. Spaulding, superintendent of public schools, said it would take "millions" to answer the wage demands and "I don't know where these millions are coming from."

While the teachers issued no strike ultimatum they nevertheless served open warning of their intention to "press firmly" the resolutions adopted "by the full assembly of the Federation."

EMBALMING PRACTISED BY MODERNS

Present day methods as different from mummifying process of the ancient Egyptians as is the drying of their ghastly trophies by the head hunters of Borneo.

EGYPTIAN INTERMENT LIMBS WRAPPED IN LINEN

EGYPTIAN MUMMY IN COFFIN

INDIAN BURIAL PLACING THEIR DEAD ON PROPS TO BE SUN DRIED

BURIAL IN STONE COFFIN PTOLEMAIC OR ROMAN PERIOD.

EMBALMING as practiced by moderns is as different from the mummifying process of the ancient Egyptians as is the drying of their ghastly trophies by the head hunters of Borneo.

Making a mummy was a drying process, similar in some respects to tanning. In some climates the air is so rare and dry that a corpse becomes a mummy without artificial assistance. Just as the bodies of birds exposed to a current of air frequently dry out without a symptom of putrefaction. Modern embalming is arterial work.

The embalmer of this day varies in his methods, as the circumstances of the case require. If he desires to preserve a body for only a short period he injects only enough of the fluid into the arteries to fill the veins, and he does not drain the heart entirely of blood. This is in order that the corpse may retain something of a life color. But where it is intended that the body shall be kept indefinitely, the fluid is shot in at full strength and every part of the body is so impregnated with it that the corpse is practically turned to stone.

An expert embalmer gives it as his opinion that a modern embalmer can do a much better job preserving a body than the mummy makers of old Borneo.

"Ordinarily," he said, "it is not desired to prepare the body so that it will keep more than a few days; but when it is necessary, a modern embalmer can put it in a condition that will defy the ravages of time."

Modern Embalmers Now Keep Cadavers Over Twenty Years

There are many cadavers that have remained in the undertaking establishments of the country for more than twenty years, and are in first-class condition. There are several methods of preserving the body after death, but embalming by the injection of a prepared fluid through the arteries into the veins is generally used and is most satisfactory. Before the fluid is injected, the blood is drawn out, then the arteries and veins are washed thoroughly with a saline solution to remove any coagulated blood, after which the embalming fluid is forced in. Another method of preserving bodies that works well with children is to apply a fluid externally. That is not satisfactory with adults, but it serves with small children and is approved of as less harrowing to the relatives.

The modern embalmer can preserve any sort of a body if he gets it in time, unless there has been a dissolution of the tissues before death, as is the case in hemorrhage or smallpox. Possibly he might preserve a smallpox victim, but the law does not permit the experiment.

Probably the most notorious corpse above ground in the country is the negro roustabout, Jim Fields, who rests in a Middle West undertaking establishment. Fields has gained far more distinction dead than he ever did alive. In fact, Jim Fields in life was a nobody, and no glory perhaps could be ascribed to him before he died. Thirty-five years ago, then, that he had good arteries. He would have been buried in the potter's field, and "none so poor to do him reverence," but the undertaker found that he had done a particularly good job on Jim and retained him for a while for some of his fellow-embalmers to look at. Many discoveries were just about then being made as to embalming, and the poor black cadaver was of scientific interest.

So the years lengthened and the shrunken black body, stiffened and solid, remains today. If one asks to see it, after, thirty-five years. The face is pallid, the eyes closed and the mouth almost smiling. There is a bit of wool here and there on the head. The limbs appear to be nothing but bone, and one can scarcely imagine a grown negro with such small feet as this one. The proverbial shin bone of the black man, round instead of angular, here verifies tradition. In rainy weather an oil exudation is faintly visible.

This process is a perfect illustration of embalming through the brachial artery combined with cavity-embalming. The slight punctures made in the body may be perceived by close inspection.

If one should wrap this body in linen cloths and put around it the emblems of the ancient Egyptians, it might pass for one of the Pharaohs. The body illustrates the prime necessity of getting a good circulation in embalming. If the subject has died of arterial sclerosis, or of pleurisy, the arteries are, of course, easily broken, and the fluid will not flow freely to every part of the body, but spread out and its effect is almost lost.

It is a theory with undertakers that those who die insane are difficult subjects. It has been stated that as the process goes on, in such a case, the embalmer may see the body growing white, and, perhaps, think the work is being well done, but if he glances at the head, the face will be black, because the brain is without circulation.

Body Remains in Undertaking Establishment Many Months

A more honored subject that remained in an embalmed state at an undertaker's establishment for eleven months and twenty-seven days was Mrs. McCormick, the mother of Lowden McCormick, a popular actor in St. Louis, in the days of the Ben de Bar Theater. Her husband had been buried in Chicago, and a resting place beside him was to be accorded to Mrs. McCormick, but it was the dying woman's fancy that she must not be buried until all her children should return, and together be present at a funeral service over her remains. Her actor son told the undertaker of his efforts to communicate with his brothers. One was at Las Vegas, N. M.; another in Florida, and one in South America. He thought at first that he could summon them all home within a month, but the time went on, and the dead woman's body remained in her casket, unburied. She had been beautiful in life, and as the first grief at her death wore away, Lowden McCormick used to bring his actor friends with him to see her. He came every day to pay his respects and offer a prayer for the peace of her soul.

Echoes of the art of the Egyptians appear in the Bible, as when Mary with her alabaster box of very precious ointment—spikenard, as it is called in one of the gospels—poured this wealth on the feet of her Lord, wiping his feet with her hair; and when the disciples saw it, asking indignantly, "To what purpose is this waste?" adding that this costly ointment "might have been sold for much and given to the poor," the Saviour answered:

Ancients Thought Embalming Saved Body for Immortality

"The poor ye have always with you, but me ye have not always. Let her alone. Against the day of my burying hath she kept this."

Again, at a far earlier time, in the book of Genesis, one reads of the Jews practicing embalming in the days of Joseph in Egypt, whose father, Jacob, was embalmed "by the physicians" at his order. Later, the body of Jacob was carried back to Canaan, there to rest in the hope of the immortality which the embalming seemed to prefigure. The same process was followed with Joseph himself, when he died at the age of 110, "and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt."

Each, who has written a standard work on "Embalming," says that the modern art is not properly a revival of the Egyptian secrets, but is such an improvement over methods then practiced that it may be called rather the discovery of a new art.

As it is required by law that a dead body must either be embalmed or committed to burial within twenty-four hours after death, and as it is also required that every embalmer be licensed by the state board, there is need for men skilled in the art.

The undertaker nowadays must be a man who has studied, and the chances are that he has been a university student. At least one case exists of a man who studied for three years to be a physician, but fell short of funds, and entered instead on the profession of undertaking.

work the Academy of Embalming gives clinics, if they may be so called, for prospective embalmers.

This is an academy without a house of its own in which to meet. All of the instruction is given in the City Morgue. Here the instructor demonstrates on the bodies of those that are not taken by the medical authorities. These paupers, uncared for by anybody, have at least the privilege of being nicely prepared for interment, even to the dermo-surgery by which facial injuries are righted and the appearance beautified.

A case of an unknown body thus prepared is told as coming from an embalmers' convention. An undertaker had tested a certain fluid to his own satisfaction, and presented the embalmed body for the inspection of those in the convention. The subject was a man with a beard, and his photograph in death was so presentable that it was used by many city newspapers. The strange result followed that the man's wife, who had been mourning him as lost, not knowing what had happened to him, recognized the photograph and came to claim the body for proper burial.

In the one Academy of Embalming, two negro students recently completed the course, and passed examination by the state board with grades considerably above the average. Thirty or more white men are usually studying in this school.

Embalming Fluid is a Disinfectant, But Not Poisonous

The embalming process consists in removing the blood and injecting into the arteries the embalming fluid, which leaves the body in a semi-rigid condition, but thoroughly sterilized. This fluid is a very powerful disinfectant, but not poisonous. There are chemists, of course, who make a specialty of preparing it. Its principal item is formaldehyde. Other ingredients are phenol, boric acid, sanguin, listerine and distilled water. Ordinarily it requires from one and one-half to three hours properly to embalm a body. Much depends upon the condition of the body and the nature of the cause of death.

The quicker the embalmer can get to a body after death, the better the results for cosmetic effects. However, even if putrefaction has started, the effects can be removed if it has not gone too far. The discolorations can be removed, and the body sterilized to prevent any further chemical reaction. All of this is due to a process of "dermo-surgery" is practiced by skilled undertakers. The current belief that "beauty doctors" are called in to give semblance of life to the dead is erroneous, as this art is a part of the embalmer's knowledge. In the event of an accident, or where a man or woman is injured or deformed or bruised, artificial means is used to prepare the face. Where a man has had his jaw eaten away by a cancer, or his nose disfigured, it is possible to make a new jaw or a new nose. Plaster of paris and wax are used, but, of course, this can not be done without thorough scientific training, as well as an innate artistic tendency.

The getting of "a good circulation" for the embalming fluid is most apt to be easy with persons who die a sudden death from violence. A certain undertaker has compared the arteries to a system of gas pipes going through a home. They may work with entire satisfaction, the gas may go everywhere, but, on the other hand, despite precautions, there may be some tiny break in the pipe, and a leak occurs, spreading the gas everywhere, to the great damage and confusion of the occupants.

An undertaker told the following curious story to verify the assertion that those who died from violence are easily taken care of. His subject had been a young man who weighed 240 pounds and who was electrocuted, having been in perfect physical health up to that time: "We embalmed him without any special preparation to make the work permanent, as it was not known that the relatives would ever wish to have the body disinterred. After four months, the widow decided to have the remains of her husband taken to New Orleans. When the body was exhumed, it was found to have turned a deep black, although otherwise in good condition. The experiment of scrubbing the surface with the external preserving fluid was made, and when the task was finished, it was as nice a looking corpse as one would wish to see. Even the natural color had returned to the face."

Dead Woman Speaks Just as Embalmer Was Starting Work

This undertaker had gruesome stories of people coming to life while on the embalming table. "During the influenza epidemic, the body of a very beautiful young woman was sent to us to be prepared for burial. Just as the operator inserted the knife into the femoral artery, she opened her eyes and murmured something that we did not catch. Every effort was made to revive her then, but without success. One of the assistants was so frightened when the dead woman spoke that he rushed out of the building and has not since been heard of. He didn't even return for wages due him. He may have made away with himself in his fright.

"One of the most startling experiences I ever had was with a man who had cut his own throat. He had severed the jugular vein and seemed to be about as thoroughly dead as a man could be. It looked like an easy job, as the blood had nearly all left the body. When we began pumping the fluid into the arteries the subject's hands and feet began to twitch. It was a most startling thing to watch a dead man act like a pair of frog legs when salt is sprinkled on them. The heart moved, and it is possible that if a surgeon had been at hand to transfuse new blood into him he might have been resuscitated."

During the flu epidemic last winter there were a number of cases of persons who were supposed to be dead who showed signs of life after being turned over to the undertakers. In one case of suspended animation of this sort a man in a small Illinois town was turned over to the village undertaker. He was placed on the table and the operator was getting ready to open his veins when he yawned, stretched himself, and said, "What the bloomin' nation you all doin'?" Then he walked out of the place and was seen no more.

Not many persons realize the gratitude which they ought to feel toward the undertaker for "killing" the flu. It was their invariable fidelity in using disinfectants which insured no atmospheric diffusion from the thousands who died of the flu. Without exception, the bodies of the dead were bathed with a bichloride solution. This was not neglected even where soldiers were dying hundreds in a day in single camps where near New York the epidemic was so fatal that the firemen were forced into service for this disinfecting task. Soldiers themselves prepared many bodies.

Much has been heard of the faces of those dead from flu turning black. An undertaker explained this as due not to the disease, but to the fact that there was delay from the time of death until the undertaker was called or could arrive.

ALL PERIODS AND ALL RANKS ARE ALIKE TO DAME FASHION

The dear dead ladies of the past
Seem resurrected now at last
Parading down the avenue;
Or at the restaurants on view.
You see Marie de Medici
Or Queen of Sheba and maybe
Fair Beatrice by Dante sung
And Paul's Virginia pure among
That dashing dame La Pompadour.
And divers worldly beauties more
Of course it's just the way they're Dressed:
From every age we've picked the best
From peasant plaything, slave and queen,
To make the mode nineteen nine teen.

By MARGARET ROHE
Written for the United Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—It's a bit of a shock just at first to glimpse a Medieval maid and a mid-Victorian charmer having tea together at the Ritz or a Roman peasant girl strolling down Fifth avenue arm in arm with a Pagan princess. But you're bound soon to get used to these little discrepancies in rank and periods.

As a bridge of years and a leveler of rank fashion has no equal. Such a conglomeration of fashions from all climes, ranks and ages make up the latest model modes for 1919-1920 that "you pay your money and you take your choice" according to your fancy and your figure or perhaps their figure when it comes to a decision.

It would seem that there is to be a fight to a finish whether the slim straight lines of the past few years are to win out or the round bodiced bonfant hip creations that are struggling so hard to make over our silhouettes.
The straight narrow lines
just stubbornly refuse to be ousted and for day wear the plain chic frocks are quite as ubiquitous as the paniered bodiced ones. For evening though the airy insouciance of the hoop skirt is the newest note still the swathing straight hung lines reminiscent of the Italian renaissance glorified in gold and silver brocade cling to fashion and the form divide.

About the only point of unanimity between these warring factions of what's to be what in the modish outline is embroidery. You find it all ways and all ways on every gown, suit, wrap or blouse. Russian and Rumanian peasant embroideries in brilliant hues of red, gold and silver from the Orient—it matters not a whit what kind or color just so there is some of it somewhere about you.
Head embroideries are a bit passe except on the evening gowns and then all over solid masses of iridescent sables make up the entire gown rather than a mere garnishment of beaded motifs.

Entire gowns of glistening black or gold paillettes shed the wearer so radiantly that you shudder to think of the consequences should a spangie or two drop off.

Lovely pompadour silk and changeable taffetas in pale shades turn you into a veritable Dolly Garden with puffed panniers and flower garlanded underskirt or a demure Victorian damsel with lace trimmed fichu, pointed boned bodice and ruffled ruchings. The hoop skirt models are developed mostly in lace, embroidered with ribbons, fur or flowers over underslips of metal cloth in gleaming gold or silver. In gold or silver lace these bouffant creations are exquisite and in the black cobwebs of Chantilly she is a pretty poor little spider that can't entangle many hearts this season.

There are so many ravishingly feminine accessories to make up your costume these days too. The quaint little clusters of false curls that the milliners are sewing in our broad rimmed hats to bob seductively over each ear which are already adrift with large and ornate pendant earrings, turn you indeed into an old time
"hairline." Colorful and barbaric reclashes of beads and scarves of lace and gauze and fur add to the shoulders' burden and odd and original rings and bracelets, lace mitts, bags of beads, embroidery or metallic brocade furnish an arm and handful and startling new bolts and girthing of metal embroidery or any old odds and ends lets everything go to waist.
With such a headful and so much on hand you wonder how the fair frail stick in the jallot box, but I'll say feminine can hope to have any room for politics or a free finger left she does.

EPWORTH SOCIAL IS HELD HALLOWEEN

Epworth Leaguers of the M. E.
Church South enjoyed a delightful Halloween masquerade Friday in the parlors of the church. Many unique costumes were worn, a number of the masqueraders being dressed as black cats. There were ghosts and witches in profusion, and one of the features of the evening was the devils cup, containing two lumps. Corn stalks were used for decorations and refreshments of pumpkin pie and black coffee were served. There were fifty-five present.

DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL AT WOODMEN HALL FRIDAY

Friday evening the Woodmen of the World Camp No. 3001 was entertained in social session at the hall by the Woodmen Circle No. 1447. Drill, reading and music formed the program and games which were engaged in by all were also enjoyed. Coffee and pumpkin pie were the refreshments served by the circle, which was voted an unusually successful hostess by all present.

TO EASTERN MARKETS ON PURCHASING TRIP

L. Cohen has gone to New York and Chicago on a buying trip for the Kruger Jewelry Company in an effort to replenish the stock to meet the demand of the large business this firm is enjoying.
This is the third trip representatives of the firm have made to the east during the present year to secure goods, it being their purpose to always keep the stock up to date in every way. In this connection Sam Kruger of the company states that the condition of the market is such that

BY JAQUELINE.
The titled creation of fashions, Lady Duff Gordon, named this wonderful evening gown "Charming Hostess." The disposition to veer from drab workaday clothes to joyous magnificence, was an inspiration to combine demure pearl grey satin with spangled black silk tulle.
Steel beads and Kings blue paxettes in oriental motifs give this elaborate gown a queasily effect and the unique color combinations of pearl grey veiled with black, beaded and embroidered with steel grey and Kings blue, remind one of a glorious sunrise through grey clouds.
A tulle drape is used in place of sleeves; shoulder and right hip are finished with an ostrich garniture.

trouble in keeping their stocks up to the usual standards. Especially is this true of diamonds and watches, he states, it being difficult to supply the present demand of the country.
He expects, however, that Mr. Cohen will be able to add materially to the stock on the present trip, as a result of the business connections maintained by the firm, and he apprehends no trouble in supplying his customers during the remainder of the year both in the regular line of business and in meeting the demands of the holiday season.

BILLIE BURKE MONDAY IN "THE MISLEADING WIDOW."
One of the most delightful screen romances ever produced will come to the Empress Theatre, on Monday, when "The Misleading Widow," a new Paramount-Artercraft picture, starring Billie Burke, will be shown. Miss Burke has the role of Betty Taradine, who was married and later deserted by her husband on account of her extravagance and lives in a big house in a little New England village. Colonel Freedy, a wounded army officer, is convalescing at the Taradine house. Betty is besieged by creditors, and, short of funds, announces that her husband has died in South Africa, so that she can collect his life insurance. Complications occur when Captain Rymill, the Colonel's aide and friend, arrives and proves to be none other than the "dead" husband. How matters are finally adjusted forms the climax of the story, which is ideally suited to the whimsical art of Miss Burke.

Prominent in the supporting cast is the well-known young actor, James L. Crane. Others are Frank Mills, Madeline Clare, Fred Hearn, Frederick Estmelton, and Dorothy Waters.

"ELMO THE MIGHTY" AT THE GEM MONDAY
Grace Cunard, the leading woman in Elmo Lincoln's first serial, "Elmo the Mighty," soon to be released by Universal, says thirteen is no terror for her; she was born on the thirteenth of the month, and it was in her thirteenth year that she took up a st. ge career. So has been congratulating himself ever since.

"Elmo the Mighty," which stars the famed Tarzan, will be seen at the Gem Theater Monday and photoplay fans of Wichita Falls will then have an opportunity to renew their acquaintance with Miss Cunard, who has played the feminine lead in many noted serials.

Grace Cunard was born in Paris, France, just twenty-two years ago. Her parents emigrated to America when Grace was a baby and lived in Columbus, Ohio, for some time, where the future movie queen was educated. Always desiring to go on the stage, the little girl induced her mother to permit her to go on the road at the age of thirteen. Mother, of course, accompanied the child, and she appeared in "Dora Thorne," "East Lynne," "Princess of Patchouli," in stock at Cleveland, Columbus and St. Louis, then with Eddie Foy, Louis Mann, and in "College Days" in a successful success.

About seven years ago, she received an offer to go in pictures, and after much consideration (it was not considered dignified at that time to be in the movies), she played a small part in every case, first chief baby (and she has many) in driving her high-powered car. She is not married and lives with her mother and sister in a beautiful bungalow in Hollywood.

RAY AND FAIR IN A NEW PHOTOPLAY
Albert Ray and Elinor Fair are coming to the Plaza Theatre Friday in what is said to be the best and most distinctive offering they have presented to date. It is entitled "Love is Love," is an intensely dramatic story, and shows young Albert Ray in the part of a youth who has been forced into aiding thieves despite the revolt of the good that is in him—which at last triumphs through the influence of his love for a beautiful girl (played by Miss Fair). The boy is drawn up from his criminal environment, and finally realizes his ambition to become somebody in the world.

"Love is Love" promises to be a delightful surprise to Ray and Fair admirers, for it makes an unusual demand upon the versatility of these brilliant young Fox stars.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG SEEKING A BEAUTIFUL SUCCESSOR FOR SCREEN
Clara Kimball Young, screen star and noted beauty is seeking a successor.

Miss Young recently announced that she will make but eight more picture productions and retire from the screen and as she will leave a void, one that the average producer will find difficult to fill, she is going to select her own successor in her own way.

"I am going to select a young lady of strong character, no dramatic experience, under twenty years of age, and willing to devote two years to er need to be congenial, to be loyal to each other and to the office," Mr. Kenny explained, "and I have found these meetings almost necessary to the department and maintenance of these qualities among the employees. It keeps them interested in the work and in each other. It helps solve the problem of securing and keeping a sufficient office force."

Dr. Green, Dentist; easy workman; special prices for short while; work guaranteed 20 years. Examination free. 613 1-2 Eighth street. 154-76

Co-operation and efficiency are the ends toward which the office force of the North Texas Gas Company is working, and short round table consultations, held after office hours on each Friday afternoon, are proving very successful in accomplishing these aims, according to F. M. Kenny, manager, who inaugurated the system here.

Mr. Kenny knew from previous experiences in other locations that employers and employees needed to get together and talk business occasionally, and the interchange of ideas which results from the weekly meetings he holds is of great help in maintaining a sort of esprit de corps among the office force.

Wichita Falls Woman Gains 6 Pounds on First Bottle of Orgatone

"It is certainly wonderful the relief I gained from one bottle of Orgatone treatment and how it is restoring my health after I had spent many dollars for other medicines that did me no good," recently said Mrs. John Pike, wife of a well known miller, and living at 1605 Bluff street, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"For a long time," she continued, "my stomach gave me no end of trouble, and though I was constantly trying to gain relief by taking something or other I was steadily getting worse. Having no appetite I just had to force down what little I did eat, and after a while my stomach began to hurt on my stomach and I would be unable for hours from gas that bloated me up so I could hardly breathe. I suffered agony, too, from a hard lump that formed in my chest and wouldn't go away. My nerves went all to pieces and I was so restless I could hardly sleep. In the morning I would get up feeling so tired and worn-out it was all I could do to drag myself about the house."

"From the statements I read in the paper I was led to think that Orgatone Treatment would do me some good, so I bought a bottle. I was surprised to see the way I began to pick up after I had finished my first bottle. In fact I have gained over six pounds in weight and can eat heartily of anything I want and not suffer the least discomfort from gas or anything else. My nerves are all right, I sleep like a baby and wake up in the morning feeling as fresh as I ever did. My sufferings are now at an end and I am so grateful for what Orgatone Treatment has done for me that I want everybody to know about it."

Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment absolutely free from alcohol in any form and is sold in Wichita Falls by the T. F. Young Drug Co., exclusively, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. (adv.)

ATTITUDE OF MEXICO.

Our belief is that we shall presently see a very material change in the attitude of this government toward Mexico and that, unless the de facto Mexican government makes an even greater change in its attitude toward the United States, the change may be the forerunner of intervention. An indication of this is seen in the fact that the lifting of the embargo on arms shipments to Mexico remained in force only a week before the old status was restored on telegraphic instructions from Washington. Under this ruling arms and munition makers cannot ship to border points without permission from the military authorities; wholesalers cannot sell to retailers without at the same time giving full information to the military intelligence officers of their district, and the retailers themselves are under agreement not to sell to Mexicans or to Americans who are not known or who have not obtained a permit to buy.

The kidnaping of an American consular agent by Mexican bandits for $150,000 ransom aggravated the situation and resulted in what was tantamount to an ultimatum to the Carranza government to restore Consul Jenkins to liberty.

The wanton murder of two American army aviators by Mexicans in Lower California has added a tremendous lot of fuel to the flames, and greatly strengthened the heads of those who for years have been demanding intervention, regardless of what intervention will be.

If the Carranza government should show, in the present instances, the defiant attitude that has characterized its replies in the past few years, aggressive action by the United States will be hard to prevent. The way out is for Carranza officials to show the proper spirit of regret at the outrages and give some real cooperation in the way of arresting and punishing the individuals directly responsible for them. If they fail, trouble is in sight!

OF INTEREST IF TRUE.

Report that Portugal refused to grant the United States a naval base on the Azores because a "third power" objected is of more than passing interest, if it is not, in fact, one of those "interesting it true" stories that so frequently are springing up regarding international polity. In the first place the report that Portugal was considering the matter of granting the base to the United States emanated from London. In the second, it was followed by prompt denial from Washington that the United States had sought any such base. And the third but by no means the least interesting fact, the only "third power" that could exert such an influence on Portugal is Great Britain, to which normally it not actually she gives hegemony.

The Azores, lying almost half way across between the North American continent and Europe, would furnish an ideal coaling station and supply base for the United States. During the war it was so used by many trans-Atlantic vessels, and more recently it served as the mid-ocean stop for the flight of the U. S. Navy seaplanes. In their trans-oceanic effort which put the NC-4 the first airplane to travel from America to Europe under its own power.

Mr. Daniels may not have sought the base, and Portugal may not, at the instance of a "third power," have refused it. But the fact remains that any trans-Atlantic navy would welcome the right.

TRAVESTY ON PRESENT DAY DEMANDS.

Illinois high school pupils demand for a "school Soviet" government, no further aspect, was the product of some bright youth who intended a travesty on some of the "demands" that the public is receiving now from all sides. But, as a matter of fact, they are no more revolutionary than some of those presented to employers within the past few months, and they are just about as well founded. A six-hour school day is not too short, as school days go; a half holiday on Friday is no more unreasonable than a whole day on Saturday by the measure. The reduction of the passing grade from 75 to 80 corresponds to a wage increase in that it means the students will not have to work so hard to get up their studies for a pass, while teachers under 25, free lunch for seniors, pool tables and phonographs for each room—they are but lagniappes alongside the main demand, i. e., that all regulations originate with the "students' Soviet council," which can change any conditions that may later seem onerous, increasing the number of holidays and decreasing the work required for a pass.

TOGETHER ON ONE ISSUE.

Republicans and Democrats cannot get together on the peace treaty or the League of Nations, but there is one strictly non-partisan question before congress—the prohibition question. There are Democrats in both houses who would not oppose anything the President stood for, just as there are Republicans who would not support anything the President wanted passed—this applying in both instances to every question except prohibition. The ink hadn't got dry of the President's veto of the prohibition enforcement bill before the House voted 176 to 35 to pass it over his veto; and the slow-acting Senate, which usually requires anywhere from a few days to several months to act on any matter of importance, also overrode the executive's veto 65 to 20 just as soon as the measure could be brought up before it.

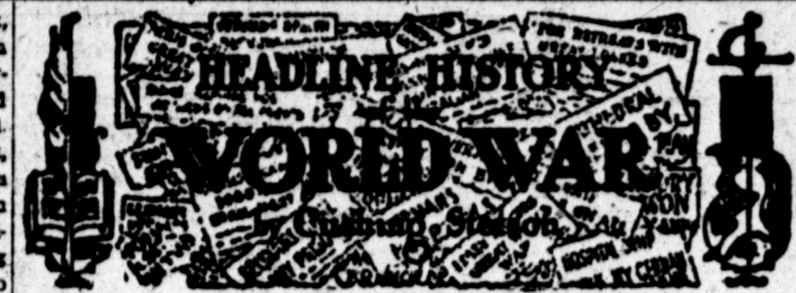

"THE COLYUM."

Wheelwright, 1919, by Wheeler. All rights observed.

Song of a Homeless Drifter.
 I'm tired of the slushpit, the rig and the drifblit,
 Of oil fields and bachelors;
 Of the ups and the downs and the mud-sodden towns,
 That wouldn't stay clean if they could;
 Of the life out alone, where there's nothing to own,
 And not any chance to be good;
 In a world that's all plain, I want once again
 The mountains and hills and the wood.
 I've seen 'em come in with a roar and a din,
 To satisfy wealth-hunger greed,
 And, I've seen some things, too, I might whisper to you,
 That are strangers in any church crowd;
 But, out in the field, where the law is no shield,
 A man can't be judged by his deed,
 For, with no women near, to either honor or fear,
 There's nobody much to pay heed.
 So, I'm leaving now to eat bread,
 For many months, especially
 Without any lunch-counter stool,
 Without any oil, or a thought of the soil,
 Or a glimpse at a danged drilling tool!
 Oh, of course, I'll come back and live in a shack,
 And labor just like any fool;
 But, don't you wish you were going back, too,
 Where there ain't any damn "new pool!"
 Maybe some pranker hung the generator on a telegraph pole Halloween night.
 The rent profiteers also are advocates of race suicide, it seems.
 It is a poor garment that cannot outwear the style nowadays.
 Just so long as the government doesn't go on strike there is hope for the country, so cheer up.
 Sugar Famine Love Song.
 Mashed in my coffee,
 Blackstrap in your tea,
 Lick up all the sweetening,
 And kiss it on to me.
 Pretty soon, if this keeps up, it will be a lucky chap who can carry coals to Newcastle or any place else.
 Where It Comes From.
 A dozen or more men got stowed
 On the stuff that the witches brewed;
 They all got in jail,
 But got out on bail,
 And, now, Halloween brews are checked.
 If we were a miner and used a pick,
 We wouldn't pick a strike with ours.
 Some people seem to think their joy should be unrefined.
 It is doubtful, girls, if there are any more men who admire the looks of paint than there are who like the taste of the stuff.

PROMINENT MERCHANT ENDORSES AMENDMENT

DALLAS, TEX., Nov. 1.—Alex Sanger, well known business man and identified with the educational and commercial development of the state, strongly endorses the proposed amendment to the Constitution. In an authorized statement, Mr. Sanger said: "This proposed amendment to the Constitution would make the University and the A. & M. College independent in law as well as in fact, the division of the University endowment upon a mutually satisfactory basis will be an act of justice to both institutions in their efforts for the development of their facilities to the requirements of the citizens of the State. A fair division of the fund and authority to the managing boards of each institution to use the income from their respective endowments for erecting buildings would mean greater public usefulness for both institutions, without additional cost to the State. Giving to the College of Industrial Arts and the Normal Schools constitutional recognition would mean that they will receive the same standard of their kind, I am earnestly

HOSPITAL FOR DOGS IS A NEW AND NOVEL LOCAL INSTITUTION

A hospital for dogs only, up to date and with every facility to care for "man's best friend," is one of Wichita Falls' new and novel institutions, as yet unknown to most Wichitians.
 Dr. T. A. Zimmerman's Dog Kennel and Hospital, located at 2720 Street and Yale in the Sibley Taylor addition is the home of one of the rarest collections of real pedigree dogs in this part of the country, having been recently augmented by the purchase of five Boston terriers, one airdale, one English bull and one Irish setter at the State Fair.
 When this distinguished company has arrived the total value of the dogs at the kennel will be about $15,000. At present there is "Texas Lady," an Airdale valued at $2,000. Texas Lady brought to life during the last six months 36 pups averaging $150 in price.
 Then there is "Queen," an English pit bull, valued at $1,000 and a black spotted Dalmatian Coach, which Dr. Zimmerman says is the most perfect specimen of its sort in the United States.
 Just now there is only one patient at the hospital, an English Coach. It's a bad case of indigestion, the doctor says, and since five patients left the ward this week whole and hearty with tails wagging and bodies acquiver in anticipation of renewed freedom, the little bundle of black shaggy hair and shivering body curled up in its bed does not do justice to a pedigree two feet long and a value of $2,000.
 The doctor believes that thoroughbred dogs will become more popular among the oil operators of this city and is planning to establish a kennel as well as the hospital. After completion of the enlargement the hospital it will accommodate from forty to fifty patients. A marble operating table has just been installed. The kennel in the rear of the hospital is divided into seven cages, each having a window leading to a window, through which dogs may enter the inside cages when dog lovers come to visit the hospital.
 Among recent purchases was an English Bull pit pup bought by Mr. E. Deavenport.
 Dr. Zimmerman hopes to arouse interest in this city and plans to have an exposition of pedigree, thoroughbred dogs in the near future. Visitors are always welcome at the kennel and at the hospital if they only will refrain from feeding the dogs.

INJUNCTIONS ASKED BY STATE AGAINST THREE DANCE HALLS

What may be the death-knell of dance halls in "New Fields" or Waggoner City sounded Saturday when Assistant County Attorney John M. Martin filed application in the 78th district court for writs of injunction restraining the places from operating.

Judge Scoury instructed District Clerk Kerr to issue notices to the defendants to appear in court Monday morning at 9:00 o'clock and show cause why the injunction should not issue.

Martin's suits are filed by the State of Texas vs. Lee Carter and Fred McClendon, the State vs. Brothers Walker and McFarland and the State vs. L. B. Brannon, and in each of the three suits the defendants are charged with conducting dance halls that are nuisances and against the peace and dignity of the State.

Carter's commission as a deputy sheriff recently was revoked by Sheriff McFall because of allegations made against him in the Waggoner City incorporation case.

All three petitions are identical except as to minor details, such as the locations, the proprietors, etc. They allege that the defendants conduct dance halls in "New Fields," alias "Waggoner City," north of Burkburnett; that women are in their employ who have no occupations other than dancing and that these women, or many of them, are of bad repute and immoral character, and conduct themselves in an immoral way.

The population of "New Fields" or Waggoner City is estimated in the petitions at 10,000, and the charges made that since the dance halls were opened a large number of immoral women have been brought there for the purpose of coming in frequent contact with men.

It is alleged by the State that the dance halls are conducted in an immoral manner for illegal purposes and that the character and conduct of the women who frequent and resort to the dance halls are such as to corrupt the morals of the young men who visit such places.

The petitions charge that the dance halls are a disgrace to any community, and injunctions are sought restraining the defendants from operating or conducting dance halls either in "New Fields" or Waggoner City, or anywhere else in Wichita county.

During the Waggoner City incorporation hearing, it will be recalled, Judge Scoury announced from the bench that if it was shown to him dance halls were being operated there in an objectionable manner he would close them up by injunction.

FOR TRASH REMOVAL BY PRIVATE MEANS

DECISION TO HANDLE PROBLEM THROUGH ASSOCIATION AT SATURDAY MEETING.

CITY MARKET IS DISCUSSED

Committee is Named to Proceed With Early Organization of Municipal Market.

Wichita Falls business men acting through the Retail Merchants' association will in the future themselves handle the problem of removal of trash from the downtown section, following a decision to this effect reached Saturday afternoon at a mass meeting called by Judge R. E. Huff, president of the Chamber of Commerce, to deal with the situation brought about by the decision of the sanitary commission of the city council to discontinue this service beginning Monday morning.

Under the plan, the business men through the Retail Merchants' Association will proceed to make a private contract with a truck and transfer man for the removal of trash from stores. The joint "Clean-Up" committee representing the city council Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Wichita Club, Retail Merchants' Association and Civic League, will cooperate in the matter of getting business houses lined up in this movement. Each business house is to be assessed on a basis of benefits received. It was pointed out in this connection that the city, being relieved of the problem of caring for the trash, garbage removal from the business section, will be better able to care for the cleaning of the streets, both in the business and residence section.

A resolution setting forth the fact that the sudden and phenomenal growth experienced by Wichita Falls within the past year had placed such a burden on the municipal government that it was unable to care for the entire situation under the present conditions, and suggesting that in a spirit of helpfulness the business men should take over the trash removal, was presented by Hubert Harrison, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Harrison's resolution also contained the outline of a plan for the organization of a corporation to be known as the Wichita Falls Hog and Garbage Corporation. This company, it is planned, will arrange with the city for a franchise for the collection of garbage, and will start a hog farm and feed the garbage to the hogs. The joint "Clean-Up" committee was instructed to work out details of this matter.

The matter of the organization of a municipal market to cut down the high cost of living, was brought up by Mayor Marlow, and after considerable discussion G. C. Wood, M. J. Bashara and W. W. Anderson were appointed to proceed with the organization of such an institution.

The meeting endorsed the plans of the "Clean-Up" committee for the enforcement of all ordinances applying to sanitation. Signs containing a brief statement of the laws placed in conspicuous locations throughout the city, and after allowing a few days for the people to familiarize themselves with the laws, every city policeman will be ordered to make arrests for spitting on the sidewalks or throwing paper or rubbish on the sidewalks or in the street. Trash cans are to be provided for the accumulation. These cans will be attractive in design.

The motion that the Retail Merchants' Association take over the trash collection and make their own contract was made by Marvin Smith and seconded by J. A. Kemp.

In presenting the plan for the organization of the corporation for the collection of garbage and feeding it to hogs, Mr. Harrison said that the plan had been found successful in other cities, notably Lansing, Mich.

It was stated from the audience that the plan had also been successful in Muskogee, Oklahoma.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the sudden growth of the population of Wichita Falls has placed such a great volume of work upon the city government especially in the matter of sanitation, collection of trash and garbage and the cleaning of the streets; and

"Whereas, the citizens of Wichita Falls generally appreciate the great burden that these conditions have thrust upon the Mayor and the five aldermen as well as the entire system of municipal government; and

"Whereas, it is the belief of the citizens in mass meeting assembled that the present system of trash and garbage collection and street cleaning is inadequate and unsuccessful; and

"Whereas, we sympathize with our Mayor and Board of Aldermen and heads of departments, and wish to assist them for the general good;

"Therefore, be it resolved that the 'Clean-Up' committee work out the details of the organization of a corporation among the public spirited citizens upon a commercial basis, to be known as the Wichita Falls Hog and Garbage Corporation;

"That this corporation secure from the Mayor and Board of Aldermen an exclusive franchise for the collection of garbage and trash from the downtown sections and residences;

"That in return for said franchise this corporation shall perform in a satisfactory and business like manner, the collection of all trash and garbage, said corporation being allowed the free use of all garbage and trash so collected; and further that this corporation be allowed to charge a nominal fee in the form of rental on garbage and trash cans;

"That this corporation secure a tract of cheap land near the city of Wichita Falls and start a hog farm, the garbage from the city to be fed to the hogs and the hogs raised and sold by the corporation on a business basis;

"That all salvage from the trash collections shall be sorted and sold, the paper to be sold to the paper mills and boxes to be sold intact or for kindling;

"That a competent manager be employed by this corporation to manage its affairs and run the business on a commercial basis for profit;

"That it is understood that this plan is for permanent relief;

"That for the immediate relief of the situation, which has now grown urgent; and vital, the Chamber of Commerce, with the co-operation of other organizations and business interests, immediately award a month to month contract to a competent truck and transfer man at a stipulated monthly price, said truck and transfer man to take over the collection of trash and garbage in the downtown section, Monday, November 3, 1919.

"The cost of same to be apportioned among the firms and individuals benefited on an equitable basis by the Joint Clean-Up Committee, composed of: Dr. J. F. Reed, W. S. Curlee, M. A. Bundy, sanitary commissioners of the City Council; W. W. Bill, for the Chamber of Commerce; W. E. Hamilton, for the Wichita Club; B. F. Johnson, for the Rotary Club; John W. Thomas, for the Retail Merchants' Association; Mrs. T. B. Smock, for the Civic League.

"It is provided that the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce serve with this committee at the direction of the Board of Directors.

"That this committee meet immediately after the adjournment of this mass meeting for the business in hand;

"That this committee proceed with plans already outlined for making Wichita Falls the cleanest city in Texas, including the ornamental and uniform trash cans on downtown corners for the use of the general public;

"That wide spread publicity be given, and every city ordinance be enforced which applies to sanitation, such as the prevention of spitting on the sidewalks and against buildings, and the throwing of rubbish on sidewalks, etc.; that every city policeman and fireman be immediately commissioned as a sanitary officer, and instructed to back up this campaign to the limit;

"It is understood that this plan will leave to the city government all work of keeping the streets, gutters and alleys clean which it is believed it will be able to do if relieved of the enormous burden of trash and garbage removal."

Every since its organization the National Bank of Commerce has supported the commercial interests of Wichita Falls and Wichita county with a specialized service which has contributed largely to their remarkable development.

DECLARES TERMS OF PEACE TREATY EXTREMELY SEVERE

Associated Press Mail Correspondent.
SOFIA, BULGARIA, Via Courier to Bucharest and Paris, Oct. 7.—M. Todoroff, prime minister of Bulgaria, who returned today from Paris, characterizes the terms of the peace treaty with Bulgaria as extremely severe, but hopes the Allies after going over the arguments and data presented by the Bulgarian delegation will see the justice of modifying them. He told the Associated Press correspondent that the Allies, in drawing up the terms, apparently had taken into account only the interests and demands of Greece, Serbia and Rumania, with no reference either to Bulgaria's needs, rights or capacities. "Their sole thought was to punish us," he said, "simply because we had been dragged into war on the side of Germany by the action of a faithless king and against the will of the people."

"Bulgaria may drift into anarchy," said the premier, "unless the military stipulations of the treaty are changed. The government cannot maintain internal order and fulfill its military requirements with an army of only 20,000. While I think Bolshevism will never gain a foothold in Bulgaria, it is possible something worse than that—revolution—may come if the terms are not changed."

"Many of the terms, not only are not in harmony with but are contrary to the principles proclaimed by the great nations, and especially by the United States. For instance, Bulgaria is required to give up to this territory which has been Bulgarian since Bulgaria existed. No one has ever questioned the nationality of the people of Zastirbrod and the other cities on our western frontier which we must now cede to Serbia. The Allies say this territory is taken away on strategic grounds. But why invoke the claims of strategy against a country of only 5,000,000 people in favor of Serbia with 13,000,000, Rumania with 17,000,000 and Greece with 7,900,000, making a total of 27,900,000? This is the height of injustice."

The prime minister declared the failure of the peace conference to solve the vexed Dobruja question was a keen disappointment of the Bulgarian people. "Southern Dobruja," said he, "is a province which the Rumanians have held for only three or four years—without any ground in ethnography or justice. The Bulgarian people had hoped this injustice would be removed. The Rumanian occupation of that country is the only thing that estranges the friendship of the two countries."

"The taking away of Western Thrace in order to form part of an international state deprives us of all access to the Aegean Sea and paralyzes our economic life. Bulgaria's exit to the sea coast was obtained with the consent of Serbia, Greece and the other Balkan states. Our people had hoped this door would have been opened wider by the inclusion of Kavalla, but instead it has been shut entirely, and Bulgaria loses contact with the great sea powers."

"Under the provisions of the peace treaty the populations of Thrace and other Bulgarian regions are left under Greek and Serbian rule. Conditions, instead of being improved, are made worse. Instead of giving freedom to such people in the Balkans as a desire it, other peoples, who hitherto have been free, are enslaved."

The Bulgarian statesman said the financial conditions of the treaty are far in excess of the capacity of the people to meet. The country already was under a tremendous war debt, from which it would take years to recover. To pay the Allies an indemnity of half a billion dollars would impose a further enormous burden on her.

On the question of the League of Nations, M. Todoroff said he hoped the idea would be fully realized and that Bulgaria would be permitted to become a member of the league. "We are especially grateful to the United States," said the minister, "that Thrace was not put under Greek servitude, but is given the opportunity of free development under the protection of the League of Nations. Bulgaria would like to see the same principle extended further so as to include Macedonia."

URGING SWEET POTATO AS DESIRABLE FOOD
AUSTIN, TEX., Nov. 1.—A strong campaign is being conducted by the bureau of markets and warehouses to present the sweet potato as an article of foods in Texas. The bureau announces that the state has produced an immense crop this year and that a large part of the crop will rot soon on account of the wet weather. If it is not consumed. Many hotels and restaurants have been induced to make sweet potatoes a part of their daily menus.

BERLIN.—(By Mail).—Germany still has a muzzle—or perhaps halter is the better word—on her press. German authorities resent such a claim, and the press probably won't admit it, but nevertheless it is a fact. There is no censorship in the strict sense of the word, but the newspapers print practically what they are permitted to say—and no more. If a paper gets beyond the bounds of what the German government regards as propriety either in its news or editorials, Noose quickly attends to the case of that publication.

So, perhaps, it is small wonder that the press here's the halter, and behaves properly.

And the government still clings to the old institutions. The Allgemeine Zeitung, which used to be the official mouthpiece of the kaiser regime, is still purveyor of inspired news for the government. The government still clings to the Wolff telegraph bureau as its distributor of official and inspired tidings, giving it preference over other agencies and individuals. In fairness, let it be said that a few men connected with the government, who have had experience with American journalism have striven to divorce the government and the press—to play fairly with everybody and to avoid the official "doctoring" of news.

But their views go for naught. Germany has shaken off many of the old institutions, but there are a few essons she has failed to learn—and one is the matter of publicity.

Rarely if ever does a newspaper complain of the system. The German papers have become accustomed to having their lesson read to them—telling what was handed them and seeking no more, and it is difficult to get out of the rut. Once in a great while a paper chirps up gently over governmental discrimination.

Daily the papers are allowed a glimpse at how the wheels go round—as seen through strictly governmental eyes. At such times they are seeking no more, and it is difficult to get out of the rut. Once in a great while a paper chirps up gently over governmental discrimination.

Recently, the government has been boosting the cable rates, making it constantly more expensive to send news out of Germany. Of course the government argues that the rate of exchange is such that the cable is only slightly raised. However, this argument does not hold when the advances are examined carefully, and especially when the wretched condition of the cable system is considered.

Germany waits the rest of the world to know about herself, but Post and Telegraph Minister Giesberts runs his shop with a high hand and disregard; his conferees' advice against making communication with the outside world too difficult and expensive.

REO 1920 MODEL BEING DEMONSTRATED IN CITY
 The Reo Motor Car Company of Lansing, Michigan, has re-entered Wichita Falls and is now demonstrating its latest product, the 1920 Reo Light Six on the city streets.

The new feature about this nominal priced car is the combination of a four bearing crankshaft with a six cylinder motor. Henry DuBose representing Stapleton-Brown Motor Company of Fort Worth, who are distributors for Texas, is in charge. Mr. DuBose has storage room for his cars at 306 Michigan avenue, and has established temporary offices at 222 First National Bank building.

MINISTRY OF FOOD OF ENGLAND HANDLES STRIKE SITUATION

Associated Press Mail Correspondent.
LONDON.—When the railroad men's strike tied up the transportation system of England the ministry of food put into operation a scheme of motor-car transport planned in case of German invasion. It worked so successfully that there was no suffering and virtually no inconvenience from lack of food. In the case of London it was a much bigger task than could face any American city because London lives a hand-to-mouth existence in absence of adequate storage facilities.

When the decision to strike was announced the food ministry put into effect a system of rationing as rigorous as during the war, marshaling the government's 5,000 automobile trucks and closed Hyde Park, the wage earners' favorite place for protest meetings. The great park became a dumping ground for food brought from all over the country. From there it was distributed to wholesalers of London. The operation moved so smoothly that on the second day rationing was eased a little and within a week supplies were plentiful. On the sixth day three-fourths of London's normal supplies of 167,000 gallons of milk daily was being brought in and distributed.

After a few days Hyde Park presented a scene somewhat like an army camp and eventually akin to a circus ground at a one-day stand. Everything moved rapidly but there was little confusion. Long lines of trucks, driven by army-trained men at the direction, in many instances, of army officers, deposited food at several centers or loaded it for distribution.

Scores of women members of war auxiliary services, many of them still in khaki, assisted the men volunteer workers in driving the motor cars and handling lighter articles. The women also did an immense amount of clerical work. Army discipline did much toward the success of the undertaking. The government had plenty of cars and more than enough willing hands for every job. The ministry of food still had a firm grip on the situation, in many instances, as allotting food was concerned. This was a power conferred during the war and had never been relinquished.

Several newspapers stated that the railway workers did not appreciate the government's resources. One labor leader said the day the strike was declared that England would face starvation within a week and the government would be forced to surrender. On the seventh day of the strike a high railroad official told the Associated Press that food was not considered a compelling factor in the strike.

BURK EXTENSION WELL DIVIDES ATTENTION DURING WEEK ENDING WITH THE KEMP-MUNGER-ALLEN

Reported in an oil sand just a little below 1800 feet, but unable to test it on account of delay in securing casing, the Burk Extension test across the river into Tillman county has during the past week divided attention of the oil public with the Kemp-Munger-Allen, the latest and most erratic Wichita county wildcat. Local oil men, many of whom are heavily interested in acreage across the river from the Wagoner, hope for a test of this sand during the present week. News that the Burk Extension had a sand has served to direct renewed interest to the number of scattered tests on the Oklahoma side which have previously had little public notice. One of these which is attracting a little public interest of late is the Fisher-Whealey test, directly across the river from the Burk Extension well. Speculation as to whether the Burk Extension well, which is reported to be making frequent flows, but whose production has been held up on account of high water and receiver trouble, is an edge well proving the existence of another pool in the river bed and extending across the river means another pool, or has simply picked up the water and receiver trouble from the Fisher-Whealey well. A break accounting for the difference between that location and the Wagoner proper, continues to be the chief circles in this district, and the well is receiving the closest attention from operators interested in this vicinity. After more than two weeks of hopeful waiting for definite news from the Kemp-Munger-Allen, the wildcat near Iowa Park which furished one of the liveliest sensations of the Wichita Falls district when reported that they had gotten a pay sand, information from the well, which was disappointing, the latest development coming with the collapse of the packer and the filling of the hole with water. Representatives of the company stating that they are thoroughly satisfied that the salt water giving trouble was coming from behind and not from the sand, stated that another effort to shut off the water by the setting of another packer would be started immediately. It is the desire of the men interested in this test to get the hole in shape for immediate completion and the test, and for this reason cementing of the casing has not been attempted, as the setting of a cement would necessitate a delay of a week or more in the completion of the well. Delay in completing this well and making a definite test, on account of this water trouble, has resulted in almost as sensational a drop in stocks and lease prices as the rise which followed the news of the first flow, which furnished one of the biggest sensations ever resulting from oil developments in this county. The past two weeks has been remarkable in the two stocks, chief of which was the Kemp-Munger-Allen, which went from $500 to $2500 on the local exchanges, only to drop as a result of the trouble in completing the well to a level of about $1,000 and finally down to about $500 again. Another stock which shared in the general rise was the Mungar Ranch, which has an offsetting lease of 30 acres from the discovery well, which went from practically nothing to $285 during the excitement, and is now bringing little over half its peak value. Several locations have been made in the Kemp field, and these are now attracting considerable interest, although most of them were organized to drill shallow tests and have started. Among these are the Iowa Park Oil and Gas Co.'s No. 2 Mungar in 21, Wichita Valley lands, now drilling below 650. (The Kemp-Munger-Allen is in block 26, Wichita Valley lands.) BELIEVES WILL BE NO GAS SHORTAGE AFTER THIS YEAR

Hope that after the present winter Wichita Falls will have no reason to fear a gas shortage was expressed Saturday by F. M. Kenny, manager of North Texas Gas Co., in telling of the company's plans for installing compressors at the wells in Oklahoma to increase the pressure in the mains. Compressors were ordered from the factories last year, Mr. Kenny says, but have not yet been put out. The usual delay in shipping is to be expected, the manager added, and installing the machinery will take much time, so that he has no hope for relieving the situation this year. The work of the compressor at a natural gas well may be compared with that of the pump at an oil well, Mr. Kenny pointed out, and the installation of the machinery at the company's wells will insure strong pressure through the mains all over this district. For the present, however, previous warnings of a probable shortage of gas when the coldest weather comes, are repeated. People are advised to arrange additional heating facilities to tide them over through the worst days of this winter. C. SCHULTZ, M. D. The Specialist. Practice limited to Chronic, Nervous and Special Diseases. Office 603 1/2 14th Street, Ward Building, Suite 2. Phone 1907.

SWEET YOUNG THINGS AND OLD FOOLS

Coldest, Cleverest, Most Businesslike and Restrained of Men Write Astonishingly Absurd and Gushy Love Letters, Sign Their Names and Kiss a Portion of Their Bank Roll Good-By.

Young Men Rarely Are Sued for Balm

YOUNG American men rarely have enough property to make it worth while to sue them for a tobacco bill, not to say a broken heart. Therefore the American girl, per se, is not a suer for breach of promise. Still, there are plenty of breach of promise suits filed in America, and many times large damages have been obtained. These suits have been filed with just one idea in view—cash. They are filed mostly by women of European birth and rearing, by women of large experience, by widows or by young women under the influence of grasping parents. The young American girl as found in 99 of 100 American homes will endure disappointment, injured pride, heartbreak, in silence rather than parade her affairs of the heart in a public court.

young man of her choice. The girls of the Irish countryside where she settled down, who had to have portions to get a husband, heard the story and were surer than ever that great pots of gold were to be picked up the moment one got off the steamer at the pier of New York.

Truly the success of the young Irish beauty who left her native land penniless and in a few months returned with $250,000 was enough to turn the heads of the gold seekers. And what properly balanced young woman does not dream of the "lover of her dreams and a pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow?"

When one reads the letters written by gay old birds, by otherwise staid and even crafty men, to the women who sue them, one feels that the girls should be, not the writers punished for indicting such slushmushgush.

Some cynic has said that "when a man's in love he is a fool and writes himself down one." There is no doubt that most of us who write have at one or another time written ourselves down fools. Few of us who have written love letters have failed to recognize ourselves in the letters printed in newspapers during breach of promise suits, that the readers may laugh themselves sick at them.

Man in Love Fool and Writes Himself Down One.

Few men who have written of love to women—God help the man who has not—but have seen their own letters in those printed during the progress of breach of promise cases. Yet we have all laughed at the slush and said: "The fool! He should be soaked for writing such mush!" We should know. We wrote it, or we will write it, some day ourselves. For the fact that your nearest and dearest pal has been hooked and shown up in a breach of promise case carries with it no security for you. There are plenty of men who have read and said, "I did not think old Jim was such a silly ass," and a year or two afterward saw their own slush in the newspapers.

As the English law is the basis of American law, the breach of promise suit found its way into the United States. There is no doubt that conditions in the early colonial days were much the same in America as in England; hence a breach of promise was a very serious offense for a young man to commit and was punished by heavy damages.

Finds Way Into This Country Via English Law.

In the last fifty years, since American girls have become independent and have not, as a rule, demanded formal engagements, as portions, dowries, dotes, etc., have no place in the American code of marriage, breach of promise suits have been less frequent, though breaches of promise—such as they may have been—have very probably become more numerous.

She was deemed a poor sort of a girl some years ago who was not engaged to at least three men at the same time. If one of them defaulted, it is not likely that the girl was going to make much of a row about it. Probably her parents did not know that she was engaged to any of the young men, and if they did they probably disapproved. Then the American girl is active and has abounding faith in her ability to win another, other and better homes for herself than the one she lost.

Mostly the men sued for breach of promise are beyond the age of puppy love. Rarely do we find a man under 30 sued for breach of promise. Most of the defendants in breach of promise suits are over 40, many of them over 60. The "second blooming," the second boyhood which probably comes before the second childhood, between the ages of 60 and 70 is the halcyon period of the breach of promise suit.

young men are independent of their parents—the Europeans are probably right. When a man and a woman have property interests in common, they are inclined to stick together. At least they are disinclined to separate.

It must not be assumed that the girl who brings her husband a dowry turns it over to him without recourse. Not at all. Marrying is a good bit of a business in Europe. If a girl can show a dowry, a man must show commensurate property or its equivalent. Settlements must be made upon the wife. True, the man does get the cash or the use of her property, but in case of his death or of separation the dowry or its equivalent reverts to the wife. In case of her death her portion or her settlement received from her husband—reverts to him or to her children.

Inasmuch as marriage is so much of a business in Europe, inasmuch as a young man must first ask the consent of the parents to call upon their daughter, announce his intentions as they call it, as the girl is marked "en-of his would-be son-in-law's wealth he at first refused the young man's request.

This Suitor Handicapped by Too Much Wealth.

"Mr. O, I am sorry, but I can not accept you as a suitor for my daughter," said the father.

"Any objection to my personality or to my character?" asked the young man.

"None whatever," said the father, "but I cannot give my daughter a portion commensurate to the condition in which you propose to maintain her."

"Sir," said the young man, who had become imbued with American ideas, tracts must be signed, sealed and delivered. Most European girls must have portions, dotes, dowries. It is the custom there. If a young man should seek a lady for herself alone, not ask as large a dowry as he thought he could extract from parents exceedingly desirous of seeing their daughter settled in life, her father would regard him with suspicion and as a silly chap.

THE good old method whereby women got rich quick, the breach of promise suit, seems to be passing away. Now that women have the vote, as men have it, and now an equality in economic life, it may be that the breach of promise laws will be wiped out or at least permitted to fall into Mr. Cleveland's famous state of innocuous desuetude.

Yet to date there have been hundreds of thousands of breach of promise suits from which women who claimed to have been injured by man's duplicity and their own worse than weakness have realized comfortable little sums as balm to injured feelings and wounded hearts.

At the same time the breach of promise suit has never been a real American institution. It is of European origin. There were good reasons for the breach of promise suit in Europe. There engagements to marry are matters of moment.

Dowry Essential Feature of European Marriage.

A young lady of any pretense to the social standing which is the backbone of European life is not supposed to know a young man, to allow a young man to call upon her, unless she is engaged to him. Once engaged, she is as good as married. All other young men yield her to her fiance, and preparations are made for marriage. Con-

BEWARE O' THAT "SECOND BLOOMING!"

THE sex impulse seems to assert itself all the more strongly if it has been smothered or submerged in business or hard work for many years. Then, in what the Norse authoress called the "second blooming," when a hard-working man has made his pile and can rest and recreate a bit and tag around with the women he was obliged to eschew in his youth the "fippity, foppity, poppity" stuff seems to exude stronger than in the boys who gave their fancies free fling in their youth. Having provided against the rainy day, having got fear of need out of his soul, the grave and serious man becomes the care-free, irresponsible boy again, only he fails to keep his passionate effusions to the ever-easily, erasable slate writing and to the short and pithy pungency of the schoolboy. Work, education, experience, do not destroy the powers of nature.

He himself (father) or his father has seen to it that he got a handsome portion with the girl's mother. Any chap who would be so foolish as to marry a girl and not ask for a dowry would probably be unfitted to be a sound, steady husband.

There is a story told of a young Irishman who made a great fortune in America and who returned to Ireland to live, bought a great property, country house, etc., and then sought the hand of a girl he rather fancied. When her father became aware of the extent

"I asked you for a wife, not for a portion."

Staggered, somewhat suspicious of the young man's sanity, the father gave his consent.

So great is the prejudice in favor of dowries in Europe that they regard what few love marriages do take place without dowry—as with regret. Love marriages, they say in Europe, never turn out well. In so much as love, or passion, does change and fade and pass away and goes out of the window when want comes in at the door—few gaged," as she is supposed to have committed herself to this man, as the parents may have made tentative settlements, a refusal to carry out his part of the contract is a very serious thing.

There is no doubt that the fact that a girl had been jilted after her engagement had been publicly or tacitly announced does her very great injury. Parents find the jilting of a daughter a very serious matter. So the breach of promise suit and heavy damages is indigenous to Europe.

hardly wait until he can kiss her little Tootie Woogie Oozies of handale, wanzie dandies.

That and about eighty more like it cost Oozy Woogy Tootie $18,000. His best friends said that he should have been willing to pay ten times that sum to keep such stuff out of the papers. Most of us will agree with his friends.

Even the College Professor Is Not Immune.

Here is part of a letter written by a famous professor of sociology at a great university to a love pirate: Darlingest White Lady of All the World:

Your unworthy little boy deplores his utter unworthiness to kiss your little adored feet. But he missed you last night, and the first thing this blessed morning he is sending you one million trillion hugs and kisses. He is a very miserable little boy and will not be happy until he sees his beautiful white rosebush, which, he hopes, will be this evening at 8.

Several score letters, all worse than the above, cost the eminent student and lecturer on the science of human behavior $7,000 and would probably have cost him more was it not for the fact that even famous college professors are rarely if ever rich.

The author of the appended gem of purest mush serene was, and probably still is, one of the ablest corporation organizers in the world.

Peaches and Cream: If all the flowers in all the world were placed in one field and each flower represented a woman, there would be one flower that obscured all the rest, and that flower would represent you, Peaches.

Peaches, when she turned up on the witness stand, was a henna blonde and admitted to three former husbands, as well as several temporary alliances, in the course of some thirty-five years. Her mature and successful lover was rich indeed, but henny blondes of 35 do not appeal to American Jurymen, and all she got was $17,500, which was quite a price to pay for writing letters like the one printed hereinabove to a henna blonde.

When They Start Baby Talk There Is No Hope.

Here is a letter written by a man rated as one of the keenest all-around fellows to be found in New York. He is a successful business man, a thorough man of the world, knows his way about the stage doors and the lobster palaces, has made his pile and seen many of his friends gouged by women, yet when his time came he fell, and this is what he put on paper:

Twheetet Tutthie Too: Your ickie boy wants to kith (kiss) du lovely eyes and make 'em well again after the nathy thun (nasty sun) bath made 'em thore (sore). Meanwhile here ith thumthing to make My Twheetet Dirl (girl), 'appy until'er ickie boy thees her thoon.

Phew! When, as the girl said, "they make baby talk at you, you've got 'em on your little wagon right." You sure have. That effusion of infantile paralysis of the intellect cost Mr. Business Man exactly $47,000 to settle out of court. The other letters were so much worse than the one printed above that he dared not let them be read in court.

That highly-educated and highly-seasoned men of middle or old age should write such letters seems to be an enigma. It is explained on the basis that when a man is in the throes of sex passion he becomes a boy for time being.

Mushy Letter Stowed Away for Future Experience.

Within a few hours she has that mushy, gushy, slushy, everything but hushy, letter in a safe-deposit box, where it will remain until her lawyer asks for it.

NEWCASTLE MINES CEASE OPERATIONS FRIDAY MIDNIGHT

MEN DROP THEIR TOOLS AND JOIN NATION-WIDE STRIKE OF ORGANIZATION.

ABOUT 200 MEN AFFECTED

Miners Work Full Time for Several Weeks Prior to Date for Walkout.

NEWCASTLE, Nov. 1.—The industry that has been the backbone of Newcastle's prosperity for the past 10 years ceased activity at closing time Friday night, when the miners and other labor employed by the Belknap Coal Company dropped their tools and joined in the nation-wide strike of bituminous coal workers. So far as the company is concerned resumption is a matter wholly indefinite, and no preparations have been made for resumption in the near future.

For some time local people have been securing such supplies as they could and the mines have been worked to load all cars obtainable under the embargo conditions. "There is not more than two weeks' supply of Texas coal above ground at this time," said W. F. Nance, secretary and manager of the coal company, before leaving for Fort Worth, where the coal operators of Texas mines will begin their sessions on Monday. "They will be in constant touch with the situation from all viewpoints and prepared to meet contingencies as they arrive, should the strike continue for any length of time. None of the Texas operators are optimistic as to resumption and expect a long period of idleness, based on the outlook at the time of the mine closing.

Question of Peace.
"The main point of difference in the contention between the mine operators and workers is this," said Mr. Nance Friday: "The operators construe the existing contract with the U. M. W. of A. as effective until March 1, 1920, while the labor organization claims that the date of signing the armistice changed conditions and that the war was virtually at an end on that date and that no valid contract now exists."

About 200 men have been working full time for weeks past, the company desiring to protect its patrons so far as possible and the men not adverse to the fat pay envelopes that are to fortify them against a period of idleness. It is said that few of those now employed in the mines here are property owners or permanent residents, and that many are preparing to take other work wherever it offers instead of remaining here in idleness. It is a notable fact that as the coal industry wanes the activity in oil development in the Newcastle district and the merchants have no fear that the strike will affect their business turnover.

"The demands of the men are simply prohibitive," said Mr. Nance, "and we would all face loss if we attempted to operate under the conditions sought to be imposed; therefore we are not now giving consideration to thoughts of resumption."

WICHITA MILL SETS NEW RECORD DURING MONTH OF OCTOBER

Check up on the October work shows a new and greater record for the Wichita Falls Mill and Elevator. 50,833 barrels of flour having been milled during the month.

In spite of the poor quality of about 85 per cent of the wheat in this district, J. C. Mytinger, manager of the company, states that the new mill and careful milling have kept the flour absolutely up to standard, daily chemical tests proving this statement.

Mr. Mytinger pointed out that although production of wheat this year is record breaking, the quality all over the United States has been below standard, and that in the local district only about 15 per cent of the wheat that passed through the hands of the company was first grade. "Rains this year have done some damage," Mr. Mytinger says, "but the percentage of complete destruction is small. Labor conditions are constantly improving in the fields, he says, and little grain has been left in the fields to rot. The mill here has been going full time and production has been at the maximum despite the numerous problems with which all industry is confronted this year.

Automobile News

OVERLAND 4, AFTER TWO YEARS OF ACTUAL DEMONSTRATION NOW OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED

Overland 4, the new car of light weight construction for which the public has been waiting since its introduction was first rumored at the automobile shows about two years ago, is now on exhibition in Wichita Falls, at the salesrooms of the Overland Sales Co.

The men and women who inspected the Overland 4 Saturday were representative of the visitors to Overland salesrooms in a thousand cities, towns and hamlets of the United States. The company's dealers, from Maine to California, and from New York to Florida, now have on display one or more of the new models described as embodying "the greatest improvement in riding comfort since the introduction of pneumatic tires."

New Type of Springs.
This improvement is the use of three point suspension springs. Unusually graceful in body design, Overland 4 makes a splendid impression on the visitor. It was this new spring suspension, however, which absorbed motorist attention at the salesrooms. It is a combination of two principles that have been used to greatest advantage in automobile construction. First, that of cantilever springs, second, the flexible three-point construction.

The luxurious riding comfort these springs furnish the car was immediately understood and appreciated. It is this feature which gives to the new Overland car, designed for light weight that degree of riding comfort and security hitherto possible only in high priced, heavier cars.

But that is only one of many features in Overland 4, which back the Willys-Overland company's claim to success in giving the public "a new standard of riding comfort."

The actual creation of Overland 4 began more than two years ago. The last two years have been devoted to testing and perfecting each part of the car. Back of its development stand ten years of successful manufacturing and engineering experience in giving the public good motor cars. For the immediate development and production of Overland 4, John N. Willys has concentrated the vast resources of the Willys-Overland Company. Production will be on a scale which will assure the greatest economies in manufacturing.

Guiding the development of this remarkable new car was Mr. Willys' ideal of a motor car which would combine with the economy of light weight all the comfortable riding qualities and the stamina of the heavy and expensive automobiles. He proposed a car of built-in quality which would free the owner from all possible upkeep expenses. This was not possible, the company claims, until the Willys-Overland Company devised this interesting three-point spring suspension, a spring seating radically different from the conventional design of four springs paralleling the chassis frame. New as this spring suspension is, it is interesting to note that the design has been approved by the Society of Automotive Engineers.

The adoption of the new springs, special breakings and pumping machines were rigged up at the factory, and the cars, after that supposedly destructive test, were sent out on trial trips which carried them into every section of the country of the country in all sorts of weather conditions. The cars were driven over the Rocky Mountains, through the desert roads, and border stretches of the southwest, over the sagebrush and sand of Texas, and through the mud and clay of the Missouri Valley. A two years test, covering 250,000 miles travel! The car satisfied the company's engineers that it was right. The war period which held up production was devoted to an exhaustive perfection of car details, refining the quality and economy features.

SERVICE MAN LEAVES FOR ANNUAL CONFERENCE
L. O. Brown, service manager of the local Oldsmobile representative, the Victory Motor Co., will leave this week for the annual convention of branch service managers at the factory, Lansing, Michigan.

The convention, which is a gathering of the Oldsmobile representatives lasting six days, will discuss methods for the betterment of service and other trade topics that are vital to the business.

MINOR REFINEMENTS AS MUCH APPRECIATED AS BIG ONES, DEALER FINDS

Salesmen have learned through experience, according to Smith Auto Sales Co., Lexington Motor Car dealers, that the devices intended to eliminate this or that minor trouble or inconvenience are almost as much appreciated by the average buyer as the larger and more expensive improvements.

"These little refinements help in the sale of many cars," the manager said. "Anything tending to make the automobile fool-proof, or tending to reduce the labor of caring for the car, especially are appreciated."

"There are the oilless bushings used wherever the construction makes them possible on the Lexington car. Once installed they need no further attention. They eliminate squeaks and rattles and save hours of tedious work for owners of the Lexington car."

"There is the non-metallic universal joint, which requires no lubrication; the 'one-finger' brake which is what the name indicates. It takes the pressure of only a single finger to operate it."

"The upholstering on the Lexington has been made a little deeper. These are only some of the more striking improvements that have been made."

"A touch is added here and another there until it would seem there is nothing that can be added. Lexington engineers who during the war devoted much of their time to developing and experimenting, are always adding additional touches to what already seems to be a perfect creation; as far as automobiles are concerned."

J. S. SANDERS IS REPORTED AS MUCH IMPROVED
J. B. Sanders of Sanders Auto Supply, who has been seriously ill at Dallas for nearly a month is reported to be improved and on the road to recovery.

MANY ROAD BONDS APPROVED BY STATE
AUSTIN, Nov. 1.—During the first 18 days of October $5,651,500 worth of road bonds were approved by the attorney general's department. Ten counties issued the bonds.

AUTOMOBILES PLAY DOMINANT PART IN AMERICAN LIFE

"With the concrete evidence before their eyes every day on the nation's highways, people are coming to realize more and more the importance of the automobile as a dominant factor in both our individual and national life," declares A. G. Seiberling, vice president and general manager of The Hayes Automobile Company, Kokomo, Indiana.

"The automobile is a valuable aid in transportation, in the social and civil advancement of mankind, and, by helping to break down the barriers of sectionalism, it is assisting in the crystallization of the spirit of nationalism essential to the United States in these days of reconstruction and upheaval of the social stratum."

"It is also an influence in binding together the family, the foundation of modern society and civilization. The automobile is a power in furthering the cause of right living and its resulting conditions of health and happiness. Name any phase of life, be it business or pleasure—any activity whether local or national—and you find the automobile enters into it in some way."

"Without the automobile, victory would not today be crowning the allies' achievements. The suffragettes used the automobile to good advantage in every state when they toured from town to town and addressed hundreds of thousands of people from the tonnage of their cars. Doctors prescribe automobile driving for worn-out business men and fatigued society women. The farmers have adapted the automobile to hundreds of uses on the farm—and a recent census shows that 53.7 per cent of the people of the United States live in the rural communities. Reports from Hayes dealers show that a large per cent of their sales have been made to farmers. The efficiency of the rural mail deliveries has been increased greatly by the use of the automobile in place of old 'dobbins.'"

"These are but a few examples of the part the automobile is playing in the life of the people," concludes Mr.

OVER TWO THOUSAND AUTO DEALERS IN STATE

AUSTIN, Nov. 1.—For the past three consecutive weeks, the State highway department issued licenses to 22 automobile dealers each week. There are now 2,047 dealers in the State. Total car registration has mounted to 313,311, the weekly average registration of around 2,000 being kept up.

SUFFICIENT LIGHTS FOR STATE UNIVERSITY

AUSTIN, Nov. 1.—Sufficient lights to relieve the shortage at the University of Texas and other State institutions has been secured after much effort, according to R. L. Pollard, state purchasing agent, but hard coal cannot be obtained.

Lift Texas Out of the Mud

A Highway is no better than its worst mile.

What profiteth it a man to drive across one county at thirty miles an hour and get stuck in the mud of the adjoining county? Texas needs a State System of Public Highways. No state has achieved a State System of public Highways without state aid to assist the Counties.

The proposition is before the voters of Texas at the election, November 4th, to authorize the Legislature to issue bonds for a State System of Public Highways.

The limit named in the pending Constitutional Amendment is $75,000,000.00. But this does not mean any such amount of bonds will be issued at one time. No such sum of money could be expended in one year—or five years, advantageously.

Engineering experts of the State Highway Commission estimate that $5,000,000.00 annually of these bonds will be ample to carry out the largest program they can arrange.

Then why was the limit fixed at $75,000,000.00? Because it is well to have the money for the roof before you begin digging the cellar. Because this is a good roads program to cover fifteen years of work and it is better to authorize it in one Constitutional Amendment than to have to wait for a new election every few years.

California's State Highway program involved four state elections. Profiting by that example, Illinois authorized her program with one election. Let's do it right at the start.

But suppose politicians scatter this money for political purposes. What safeguards are there? This money is all to be matched by federal money, and to be spent in co-operation with the Counties. Under our Constitution the County authorities have certain prerogatives in road matters that the State Highway Commission cannot ignore.

In the spending of this money there will be supervision by the federal government, the state government and each county in which a road is built. A triple alliance of safety.

If the state's engineers were to try to designate obscure county roads as Cardinal Highways, the federal experts would not co-operate and no such plan could possibly succeed.

But with so many counties voting large issues of road bonds, why is it necessary that the state should furnish additional funds?

Because, no county can expend all of its bond money on one road. Counties must spend a portion of their own bond money on lateral roads and the state must be in a position to assist in the construction of main highways and build a type of road that will take care of the heavy traffic that will follow the connecting up of the roads.

What kind of roads are needed where traffic is heaviest?

Roads that will absolutely defy the pounding of automobile trucks year in and year out. Roads that will not blow away during dry summers, nor wash away during wet winters—roads that will stand up under all sorts of travel with almost no maintenance cost.

Cannot the counties build such roads on their Cardinal Highways?

No, only two or three of the counties in the State are attempting it. Many Texas counties have bonded themselves almost to the limit and are planning ordinary gravel roads that within three years, under the increased traffic, will go to pieces. We must not build three year roads with thirty year bonds.

Can the State afford an investment of $75,000,000.00 in permanent roads?

Yes. Such roads will be an excellent investment for city and county alike. If we had had them this year they would have saved more than their value of small grains which lie rotting and sprouting in Texas fields, because of freight car shortage and general congestion of the railroads, and the present impassable roads.

With an adequate system of permanent State Highways, the heaviest freight can be handled by Motor truck—distances up to one hundred miles more cheaply than by rail, not to mention the faster service.

Wouldn't that cripple the railroads? No. The short hauls are least profitable to them and cause most of the congestion now costing this state millions of dollars.

The age of the automobile and auto truck is here. They will swarm over every road that can carry them. If the roads are not built right they will ruin them within a year and any small sum of money spent on them will be wasted.

Why should not these roads be constructed out of the motor tax?

The motor tax was imposed by the Legislature and could be removed by any succeeding Legislature. Therefore, it is not a satisfactory guaranty for long term bonds. Moreover, the motor is now the servant of everyone, and awaits only the opportunity which good roads will afford to play the most important part of all in bringing producer and consumer together. It is the railroad and express service of the future. It is the one certain cure for car shortage.

While these Cardinal Highways must be able to bear heavy motor traffic, it must also be remembered that their benefit to all classes of citizenship and property is general so that sound public policy dictates they should be paid for by all property, and not by any one class of property. The motor taxes are now used for road maintenance, and must continue to be so used.

If the Cardinal Highways of this State are built right they will require such small maintenance that millions will be released for country roads. If they are not built right no County in Texas can afford the maintenance they will require.

About 150 Counties of Texas have now voted more than $80,000,000.00 of good road bonds. Just as surely as they fail to construct adequate Cardinal Highways, half their money will be wasted. That is the issue. Shall we lift Texas out of the mud once and forever, or shall we waste $40,000,000.00 and see the greatest wave of good road enthusiasm this State has ever known end in disaster and disappointment?

What will the tax be?

The first $5,000,000 of bonds will increase the taxes one cent on the $100.00 of assessed valuation.

By issuing the bonds in $5,000,000 series, one half of the first series will be paid before the last series is issued. The assessed valuation of Texas has increased 300 per cent in the last fifteen years. It will certainly not do less during the next fifteen years. Taking this as a basis the taxes at the highest point would never be more than 8c on the $100 assessed valuation for these State Road Bonds and would average less than six cents during the period of the life of the bonds, and with this small tax the State of Texas can have a connected system of durable highways connecting every trade center in the State.

Go to the polls November 4th, and vote to lift Texas out of the mud.

Vote for good roads that will be there when the bonds are forgotten.

Vote to free the farmer's wife imprisoned by bad roads.

Vote to save the foodstuff that rots in the field every year. Vote to end railroad congestion.

Vote for the boys and girls who cannot wade through the mud to school.

Vote for cheaper and faster freight delivery.

Vote for, extension of rural free delivery and parcel post.

Vote for a grander Grand Old Texas.

Out of the mud is the slogan. Swat the whiner. This is the twentieth Century. Let's have done with the roads of the Seventeenth Century. They are out of date.

MOTOR TRUCK IS CREDITED MODERN EMPIRE BUILDER

It is only a short time ago that the automobile was a novelty. The first American motor truck was made in 1898 in a little shop in Brooklyn.

By 1919 the motor truck had proved itself a commercial success; but it took a big war to make people realize that it is one of the greatest means of transportation.

From 5,000 motor trucks in use 10 years ago, the number has increased to 500,000. It is estimated that this year alone the number of trucks that will be manufactured and sold will amount to 350,000.

It is a matter of special note that the biggest users of motor trucks are farmers.

To the public, motor transportation holds out a promise of lower cost of living. Rural motor express routes bring produce into cities from farms within a large surrounding area and, by eliminating several handlings between producer and consumer, materially reduce prices of foodstuffs.

This is also true with many other products. It means lower prices to consumers and better prices for producers.

The motor truck links together more closely than ever before the farm and the city, and is bringing about an improvement in living conditions in both country and city.

The remarkable progress of motor truck transportation makes it necessary to build roads to carry the loads. Millions of dollars are being spent for the improvement of our country roads. Instead of a narrow, short-sighted policy that will mean the waste of huge sums of money for roads that will be in adequate a few years hence, common sense and foresight must be used and our roads built with the needs of 10 years in the future in mind.

"The motor truck brings the most modern and economical means of transportation to the door of practically every farmer," says R. E. Fulton, a prominent truck manufacturer, "and as transportation facilities in a community are improved conditions improve. Land values increase because the price of land depends upon what it costs to get products to the market. Communities with good roads are always the most prosperous and up-to-date."

"Great empires that will rival those built by the railroads in the past will grow and improve with the advent of good roads and motor transportation."

NINE YEAR OLD PRODIGY COMING TO UNITED STATES

RIO DE JANEIRO.—(By Mail.)—Marie Antonio, the nine-year-old daughter of Senhor and Senhora Vital Ramos de Castro, and Brazil's second infant musical prodigy, is going to the United States to give a series of concerts and to complete her musical education in that country.

Since the time of Senhorita Guilmar Novaca, whose remarkable pianistic abilities won international fame and whose talent roused the wonder and admiration of hundreds of thousands of music lovers in the United States, Brazil has not produced a musical genius equal to that now displayed by Marie Antonio de Castro.

Marie Antonio, in spite of her short nine years of life, has accumulated the outspoken praise and eulogy of the music critics not only of Brazil but also of Argentina and Uruguay. Her reputation has already reached Europe and she has received many invitations from that continent to develop her talent in the most famous conservatories of the world.

At the advice of her "Maestro" Alfredo Oswald, however, her father is taking her to the United States, whose musical circles are reported to be equipped with unusual educational facilities, while war-torn Europe has become the mecca and shrine of musicians.

NEW PACKARD HAS MADE APPEARANCE AT WICHITA FALLS

The 1920 Packard has made its appearance here this week with a shipment received by the Smith Auto Sales Co., local dealers.

Although the new models show a number of minor refinements not in evidence on previous models, the graceful lines which have for so many years been associated with the Packard are preserved in the latest models.

The company states that they are in a position to make a few deliveries of the new Packards immediately.

A consignment of Lexington sedans and tourabouts were also received by this company Saturday, being shipped to Waurika and driven through to Wichita Falls.

TWO HOLMES CARS DELIVERED DURING WEEK

Two of the new 1920 Holmes automobiles have been delivered during the week by E. E. Sanders, distributor for the Holmes and Franklin in the city, one to Tom Colburn, and the other to Gus Comier. Mr. Sanders expects a shipment of Holmes next week, depending upon the loosening of the rail congestion.

LOCAL AUTO COMPANY MAKE DELIVERY AT VERNON

The Nolen Stringer Co., local dealers in Haynes automobiles, reports the delivery of a four-passenger model to E. O. Youngblood, agent at Vernon. They also report the sale of four second hand cars.

As soon as the roads from Dallas to this city are passable they will drive several cars through.

HUNDRED THOUSAND PIGEONS ARE FREED

LONDON.—(By Mail.)—The air ministry is releasing its gallant pigeon war-workers, nearly 100,000 strong.

Just now while grouse shooting is in full swing sportsmen are asked not to point their guns at any pigeon that is not beyond all possibility of doubt a wild one.

During the war the carrier pigeons saved the life of many soldier and sailor and authorities say it would be a tragic pity if any of these gallant helpers should survive the risks of war only to be killed by their friends in time of peace.

THE NEW 1920 HAYNES ITS FACTORS OF CHARACTER

BEAUTY, strength, power and comfort—these are the essential factors of character in a car.

Real character cannot exist if one factor must be sacrificed to secure another. Haynes engineers and designers have held this principle through all the 26 years of Haynes history—and the new 1920 Haynes exemplifies the worthiness of their skill.

This spirit imbues the entire Haynes organization. The character of the Haynes must not only be built into it at the factory; it is furthermore expressed in the service rendered by Haynes representatives.

The new 1920 Haynes four-door roadster, with its full aluminum body, its roomy seating arrangement, its hand-buffed leather upholstery, its pleasant lines, its powerful, dependable motor—signally shows the character-value of these four factors which distinguish the Haynes—beauty, strength, power and comfort.

In every way consistent with maintaining the character of the Haynes we are expediting deliveries, but we advise promptness in selecting the new Haynes you wish to own.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE HISTORY OF RIGA AND THE BALTIC PROVINCES

(Editor's Note.—Following is the first of a series of articles contributed to The Times by Phillip Witz, of the Southern Electric Co. of this city, giving a first hand description of a country and people around which so much interest centers at the present time. Other articles will follow at an early date.)

By PHILLIP WITZ
Riga, the capital of Livonia or Lipland, through the aggressive and dominating spirit of its commercial elements and its citizens in general has long been recognized as one of the most important cities in Russia; and, indeed, has for many years been a potent factor in world trade and commerce. Throughout the whole of the revolutionary period, which is not yet closed, this powerful center of trade and commerce, has stood loyal to the principles of progress and freedom in society and government, at all times lending moral and physical assistance in the great cause, although such stands have been prejudicial to her commercial and industrial life.

Riga is the third largest sea port in Russia, and is situated on the Gulf of Riga and the Dvina River. There are also many other small bodies of water near the city. Before the world war the population of Riga was slightly more than 500,000, of which about 40 per cent were Letts, 15 per cent Russians, 15 per cent of Jews, the same percentage of Germans, and the remaining 15 per cent was composed of various races, nationalities and sects. It will readily be seen that this was a cosmopolitan city before the war. It has retained this characteristic throughout the struggle of the past few years, and, with the coming of a period of peace based upon a stable political organization, it is predicted that one will be able to see and study representatives from all the races and nations of the world in this live wire commercial center.

Not alone is Riga interesting because of its commercial power and prestige and its cosmopolitan characteristics, but there some of the most ancient and valuable institutions, structures and buildings of Europe are to be found. Many of their monasteries and cathedrals date back to the beginning of the 14th century, while some of the smaller buildings are even more ancient. There in that wonderful city the distant past joins hands with the turbulent present, as well as with the progress in modern city building. Beautiful parks and drive-ways abound on every hand. Shrubbery and trees give to the residential portions of the city the appearance of the dwelling place of men and women of progress, culture and true refinement. The old but attractive Russian Golden church stands just opposite to the modern railway station, known as the Dunaburger or Dvinsker station. At this station passengers mount the trains of the Riga Orel and Riga St. Petersburg railroads. Still another important station is the Mitau station, connected with the Riga Libau road, while at Mitau there is a junction connecting with the Moscow-Windau railroad.

In addition to being a noted railroad center and a famous sea port, Riga ranks as a great center of lumber industries, also of all kinds of small grains. From the docks in this city steamships, laden with cargoes of grain and lumber, lift anchor constantly on their voyages to the Scandinavian countries, Germany, England and the United States. Another one of the lucrative industries is that of fishing. Still another is the curing and tanning of hides. And of no little consequence in the industrial world is the well known Kussechovs Tile and Porcelain factory, here located, as well as the famous Perekodnic Rubber Goods factory. Millions of dollars worth of raw products from the mines, farms and timber regions of Russia flow annually through the warehouses and docks at Muhlaraben Bay, the great storing and shipping point of Riga and its environs. At the hearth of the town is found the stock exchange, which is known as the Riga Bourse. Untold wealth passes through this institution uninterruptedly, wealth from all of the powerful civilized nations of the earth.

In a few words I hope to point out a fact or two demonstrating the spirit of progress which has taken hold upon the Letts. In the early days they were content with the meager life of the peasant farmer. Now, however, the Letts are pushing boldly into all professions and into each and every phase of commercial life. The spirit of the industrial world has drawn them from their humble walks, and they are proving themselves to be masters in their new sphere. Boldly demonstrating their abilities in the world of affairs of a financial nature, these peoples have done other things even more significant of their potential capacities. As writers, musicians, thinkers and scientists they are contributing valuable inspiration and stimulus to the intellectual world.

As a people and as individuals the Letts are good specimens of physique and mentality. Rugged, honest, cheerful and almost boisterously good natured, mentally keen and aggressive, they possess the natural endowments that guarantee success in whatever they put their hands and hearts to. Another evidence of the active, enterprising nature of these people is their fondness for travel. Many of the well-to-do classes visit the United States and other countries each year, and upon returning to their homes, continue the process begun by Peter the Great introducing the customs and manners of western Europe and of western civilization in general into their country, thus aiding their fellow-countrymen degree by degree to lift themselves to the planes of living of the people of the most enlightened nations.

As has been intimated before, the Letts have in the past and are still sharing their part of the burden in the struggle being made by the best elements of the Russian nation for democracy in government, in business in society and, in fact in all of the multitudinous human relations. Striving in this capacity, fighting for these worthy ideals, they feel that success must crown their efforts and that a new Russia, united in aspiration, modern in every respect will again take its place in the councils of the nations, and once more the good natured but at times stern growl of the Russian Bear will be heard by diplomats in their settlements of international questions.

Uniformity

Uniformity is the secret of success of any good product.

It's the reason Willard Batteries with Threaded Rubber Insulation are making such a wonderful record of long life without repairs.

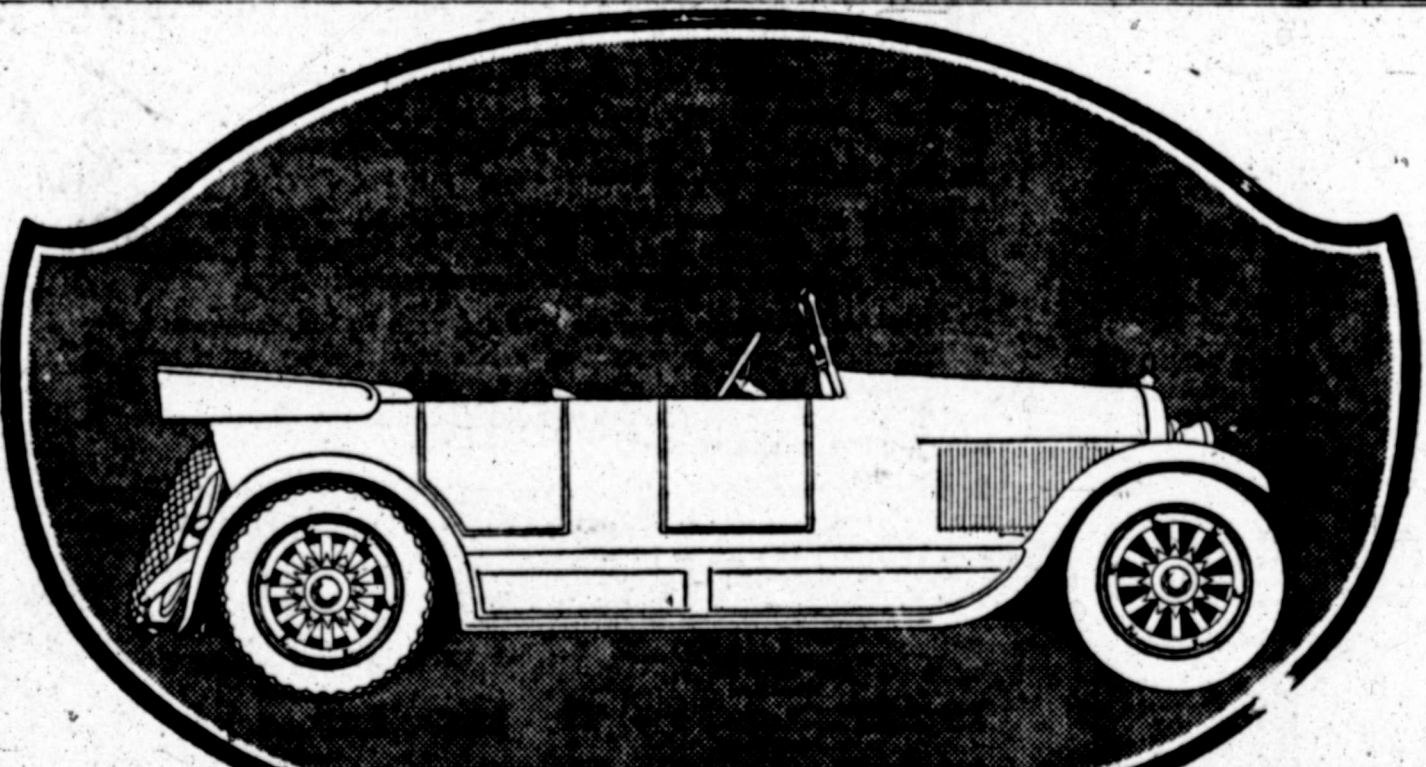

Ordinary materials used for insulation between battery plates are taken just as they come from nature and can't be made uniform by any process.

But Threaded Rubber Insulation is built up by a scientific manufacture. Every piece of it is like every other and almost invariably Threaded Rubber lasts as long as battery plates.

No wonder many of these batteries have given three and four years of uninterrupted good service.

The JORDAN Silhouette Five

BALANCE is the dominant characteristic of Jordan cars. This depends upon the careful distribution of weight, the length and quality of the springs, the delicate point of their suspension, and the arrangement of the steering apparatus. Jordan bodies are hammock swung between the axles with long springs of chrome vanadium steel.

When a cheap carbon steel spring is overstressed, it reaches its elastic limit and rapidly goes to pieces. Perfectly balanced, with ideal chassis proportions and no body overhang, the whole tendency is toward forward motion with no ruinous side-sway.

That explains Jordan service, even with abuse. Imagine a car like the Silhouette Five. Picture it as it is—full of life—muscular and alert. It runs like a spirited horse. No jerky up and down motion so characteristic of extremely light cars of short wheelbase.

No surplus side-sway almost invariably found in extremely heavy cars. Men who are weary of big bulky cars will choose it with joy.

Why the President Collapsed

Graphic Story of How Woodrow Wilson Met The Five Great Crisis of the Paris Conference

THIRD INSTALLMENT.

The Second Great Crisis of the Peace Conference. President Wilson insists that the Covenant of the League of Nations be made an integral part of the Treaty.

The second great crisis at the Peace Conference occurred immediately upon the return of President Wilson to Paris after his hasty trip to America to sign the bills passed by the Congress which adjourned on March 4th. The two sea voyages on the comfortable "George Washington" gave the President a much needed opportunity to rest—and rest under the close care of Dr. Grayson. If it had not been for these respites during the heavy struggle at Paris, one doubts whether the President would have been physically able to endure the strain as long as he did. He has the rare ability to rest completely, discharge all worry from his mind, and by exercising deep-breathing, fresh air, and occasional amusing talks with his friends on every subject in the world except the business of the moment, regain his strength. He reveals in these quiet and friendly relationships a side of him—a human, genial, humorous side—which too few of his fellow-citizens have seen. He and Mrs. Wilson never frequently deck during the voyages, several times they took a hand at deck shuffle-board, and they came in quite regularly to the moving picture shows or concerts in the evening. Sometimes after meals or even after evening entertainments several of their fellow-passengers would join the President and Mrs. Wilson and have a good talk—very little of the problems—but talk, once, for example, of Lafayette, again, of the French people and their characteristics, often of golf and golfing. The President is a neat master at telling stories, especially Scotch stories. On several occasions the President invited members of the party to lunch or dinner, starting the meal invariably with a simple grace said in a low voice. After one of these luncheons I heard a member of the party say: "Well, I never knew the President was that kind of a man, at all—so human and so simply."

The President and Mrs. Wilson, in four voyages on the "George Washington," quite won the hearts of the officers and crew. It was almost like a big family. After the evening entertainment, before landing at Brest, just as we were about to break up, a group of the younger officers gathered around the back of the hall began to sing, "God be with you 'till we meet again." Then the whole company, including the President, sang together. "And Long Live the President," I wondered among what other people in the world there could develop just such relationships and such a spirit!

These voyages, I firmly believe, saved the President from wearing out far sooner than he did. For once in Paris again he found himself instantly precipitated into one of the hard struggles of the Conference. He had been absent from the deliberations for exactly one month. When he arrived in Paris on March 14th, he discovered everywhere prevailing that a preliminary peace with Germany would soon be made which would contain no reference to the League of Nations. Certain newspapers and the agents of the League, were saying quite openly that the League was dead; for they well knew that if it were left for discussion in some future conference, after all the essential questions in the war with Germany had been settled, it would come to nothing; it would be talked to death. These representations of the League were blatant over the prospect.

And this was no mere popular impression—as the President soon found out. Though the details were not then known—and are not yet publicly known—a resolution, fathered by Mr. Balfour, had actually been adopted by the council of Ten, sitting in President Wilson's absence, providing for an immediate preliminary treaty containing practically all the settlements involved not only military but financial and economic, including the establishment of all new boundaries and determining responsibility for the war. Practically the only thing omitted was the League of Nations.

Now, this whole procedure was contrary to the long held and often asserted policy of the President, and it endangered the most important of the fourteen points accepted by all nations as the basis of settlement; the fourteenth of which declares that "a general association of nations must be formed."

Before the close of the war, in his Liberty loan speech at the Metropolitan Opera house in December, 1918, the President had declared positively: "The constitution of that League of Nations and the clear definition of its objects must be a part of the peace settlement itself. It is not likely that it could be formed after the settlement. It is necessary to guarantee the peace and the peace cannot be guaranteed as an afterthought."

But this was not all, nor was it merely Mr. Wilson's idea, for the policy of including the League of Nations covenant in the treaty itself had been formally adopted at the first plenary session of the peace conference held January 25, 1919, which contained these words: "This league should be treated as an integral part of the general treaty of peace."

When President Wilson found out what the situation really was he acted with stunning directness and audacity.

"SNAKE OIL" RELIEVES THOUSANDS

Stops Pain or Money Back. Surely when ten million people buy Miller's Antiseptic Oil (known as Snake Oil), on a positive guarantee of satisfaction or money back, and only 12 bottles returned, you can believe that this is the "miraculous" Great Relief of Aches and Pains. After once trying Miller's Antiseptic Oil you will know it because it penetrates so quickly and brings such prompt relief for such ailments as rheumatism, lameness, sprains, aching joints, grippe, colds, influenza, etc. Mrs. Sarah Mitchell, Higgins, Mo., writes: "I received a bottle of Miller's Antiseptic Oil (known as Snake Oil), please send by return mail as I am needing the oil." Mrs. Henry Green, Center, Ky., writes: "I have just tried a few bottles and got great relief. Thousands of letters such as these have been received. Get a 50c, 80c or 41 bottle today from any drug store. Money back if not satisfied. At the Miller Drug Store."

On March 15, just 24 hours after he set foot in Paris, he authorized the press bureau of the peace conference, of which I was director, to issue at once the following statement: "The president said today that the decision made at the peace conference in its plenary session Jan. 25, 1919, to the effect that the establishment of a League of Nations should be made an integral part of the treaty of peace is of final force and that there is no basis whatever for the reports that a change in this decision was contemplated."

This bold act fell like a bombshell in Paris and in Europe. A shot from Big Bertha could not have caused greater consternation. It overturned the most important action of the conference during the president's absence; and it apparently destroyed the popular expectation that the future peace which would be based upon a real passion of weariness, a real and deep desire to get the armies demobilized and the wheels of industry started again, but an expectation fostered by certain reactionary newspapers in both France and England. The policy of these newspapers was not both about new principles or ideals; settle the war quickly; form a new military alliance among the allies, including America; divide up the spoils among the victors; accepting American, and get back home.

Within a few days there was a wave of criticism of Wilson which made all former attacks look pale by comparison.

The Daily Express of London, for example, called it a "pyrrhic victory," and it was a "hold-up" and demanded that the British government refuse to support the president. Fignon, the French foreign minister, gave an interview sharply critical of the president, which was hastily suppressed. All this criticism the president, though slightly sensitive when he had to hear in silence for there seemed no way of explaining or defending his course without breaking up the conference, and thereby losing all chance of getting a program of reconstruction adopted.

A brief survey of what had happened during the president's absence showed that the light upon the inner workings of the peace conference—showing some of the influences really operating within that double-decked sound-proof room of the French foreign office and the kind of struggle the president had to face.

When the president left Paris for America on February 15, the great problem of the moment was the removal of the armistice terms with Germany, which expired February 17. Now, the French were always more interested and concerned in military terms than in any other. The war was on French soil and the commander-in-chief was a Frenchman. Their effort was always to add more drastic terms to the armistice and to keep the power strongly in the hands of the supreme military command. The French were impatient—quite naturally—and wanted speedy results. They wanted to force the Germans to pay faster. The peasants wanted their cattle back, the manufacturers wanted their machinery immediately restored. The French sought to get quick results by adding provisions to the armistice and using military pressure to bring them about.

Clemenceau was also afraid that if the treaty were delayed and the British and American troops sent home—as they were going as rapidly as possible—that there was danger of a sudden new attack by the Germans which the exhausted French army could not meet.

While neither the Americans nor the British wanted a permanent settlement, Wilson was the weight of the force he left Paris, that a preliminary and temporary arrangement for the military and naval disarmament of Germany should be discussed. This was to maintain a safety for France while the allied troops were going home and the peace terms were being slowly threshed out.

It will be remembered that Clemenceau was wounded by a would-be assassin soon after Wilson left Paris; and Lloyd George went home to grapple with his own hard political problems. Those who remained, the secondary figures, then they began to discuss methods of disarming Germany discovered at once that the military, naval and air terms were inextricably bound up with all sorts of other questions. What about boundaries? What about reparations? Who were to be held accountable for the war? And what should be done with the colonies? The British, especially, were unwilling to have the military and naval terms even temporarily settled without also dealing with the economic terms which were so intimately bound up with them.

Now, throughout the peace conference each nation had its chief interests—or obsessions. The French were dominated by fear and wanted first of all military security for themselves, and after that speedy repayment for their stupendous losses. The British had their eyes most intently fixed on future sea-power and on all economic and financial phases of the settlement. The chief Italian effort was to force a settlement with Austria at the same time that the settlement with Germany was made, and to make sure of Italian claims in the Adriatic. America had no special interests at all to serve, wanted nothing except a peace of justice and the adoption of some plan which would assure the future peace of the world and prevent us, as well as all other nations, from having to build armaments and maintain huge armies.

When Wilson went away the whole idealistic bottom seemed to drop out of the peace conference. The League of Nations was scarcely mentioned in the Council of Ten as a real or potent factor in the future settlement. Most of the French leaders never really believed in it at all unless it could be made a powerful alliance backed by an army being. If the story about how Clemenceau when he awakened each morning said to himself: "Now, Georges Clemenceau, you do believe in the League of Nations," is not literally true it well represents the skeptical French position. What the French wanted—and finally got—was an alliance to protect them. The British were for the League—some of them like General Smuts and Lord Robert Cecil upon the highest grounds—but only if Great Britain and America stuck firmly together and formed a kind of backbone to support the whole structure. As for the Italians, their position was well expressed by one of them, who answered my question as to how Italy stood on the League of Nations: "Well, we believe in it, but we want the question of Fiume settled first."

The result of all these forces, and the absence of Wilson, was to produce the resolution of which I have spoken will bring about a preliminary treaty with Germany, containing not only the military terms but practically everything else except the League of Nations. General Foch had said so often that the whole thing could and should be settled in two or three weeks, the boundary of Germany permanently established at the Rhine, and that allied armies should then march to Russia and with the assistance of Polish, Lithuanian and Czech-Slovak forces quickly put down the bolsheviks.

In response to this proposal someone asked, "Who will pay the cost of this expedition?" And it appears that America was the only source from which the money and supplies could be had.

They set March 5th, (a week before President Wilson's return) as the date for the final reports of the Committees, and the military, naval and air terms were actually in hand some days before the George Washington arrived at Brest.

When the discussion of these military reports began a very remarkable situation developed. It was not surprising that the terms were found to be exceedingly drastic, for they were made by men who had just been fighting a dangerous foe. In their first form, for example, they provided that Germany should never have an army of more than 100,000 men and that all production, export and import of military material should be reported—without limit of time—to the allied and associated governments. Upon further examination it was discovered that the supervision and enforcement of all these terms, besides boundary and other questions inextricably bound up with them, would be settled in two or three weeks, the boundary of Germany permanently established at the Rhine, and that allied armies should then march to Russia and with the assistance of Polish, Lithuanian and Czech-Slovak forces quickly put down the bolsheviks.

NOT ALL PUBLICITY GAINED FROM OIL FIELDS DESIRABLE

GOOD DEAL OF MISINFORMATION GIVEN IN MANY ACCOUNTS IN OUTSIDE PAPERS.

PRICES ARE EXAGGERATED

One Account Says Shave Costs Six Bits Here and Sandwich Brings Price of Meat.

Hilarious entertainment is afforded in some recent publicity that Wichita Falls and the oil field of the district has received, and Wichitans who have seen some of the "interviews" which have appeared in various publications throughout the United States from folk who have come to view the wild and woolly oil town...

Some of the publicity, much of it in fact, is so interlarded with misinformation, some of it drawing pictures near to the verge of untruth, that it is of doubtful benefit to the city. For instance, one Terre Haute visitor has taken the news to his city that a shave costs 75 cents and an ordinary sandwich as much as a meal in Terre Haute. Shaves, like those newspaper folk get, as well as those meted out to respectable citizens, cost only 25 cents in Wichita Falls, according to the best information that can be gleaned, after a careful investigation of all the tonsorial parlors, while a perfectly edible sandwich can be secured for 15 cents, and it is the candid opinion of all who have been interviewed locally that it would be a demerol poor meal that could be bought for 15 cents in Terre Haute, or anywhere else on the "terre."

The Terre Haute interview, as well as another, from a University of Colorado student, printed in the Boulder News-Herald, furnish entertaining reading. The Terre Haute Saturday Post clipping follows: "Homer L. Stees has returned from the Wichita Falls, Texas oil territory, where he has a number of investments in oil property. He says there is no exaggeration in the stories sent out about the conditions that prevail there. Millions are made overnight by the coming in of wells, and the newly made millionaires are as reckless in spending their money as were the Bonanza kings made by gold discoveries in California and other western states. "One has to be a near-millionaire, Stees says, to be able to live in Wichita Falls. Hotel prices are almost prohibitive, and the common necessities of life are almost priceless there. Teamsters charge twenty-five dollars a day for their services, barbers charge seventy-five cents for a shave, and a common sandwich costs as much as an ordinary meal; here, a room in a hotel cannot be secured for less than ten dollars a day, and everything else is proportionate in cost. "Another Terre Haute man who has just returned from a business trip to Texas and visited Wichita Falls, says the men who grow rich overnight by the coming in of a well, usually rush to a jeweler to invest in diamonds, and that class of business men are the most prosperous in the community. "This man saw an ill-dressed man who had been pointed out to him as one who had suddenly attained riches visit a jeweler's to examine diamonds. He was shown several costly ones, none of which satisfied him. He was finally shown a superfine diamond, which was priced to him at $5,000. Even this didn't satisfy him. He named a friend who had a tone the day before priced at $5,500 and said that if his friend could afford a $5,500 diamond, he could afford one of this stone of this price was shown him he immediately purchased it. "This man says that the stories that are sent out about the wonderful oil finds there are in many cases true, but nothing is ever said about the vast amount of money that has been sunk there only to develop "dry" holes, and for that reason suckers are everywhere pouring millions into worthless property that can never hope to develop into paying investments. "W. F. Kelly, writing from Eouler says that the newspaper reporter didn't say any note and there is considerable misinformation in his interview, which follows: "Laborers make from $5 to $20 a day in the Burk Burnett oil field of Texas, but even on these wages he majority of them save nothing," said William F. Kelly, University scholar who returned yesterday to resume his work after spending the summer in the vicinity of Wichita Falls. "Kelly went to the oil fields knowing the kind of work and with no acquaintances. In spite of these handicaps he obtained work readily at $350 a month. To reduce living expenses and also to obtain better accommodations, he lived in a tent. "Derrickers are so thick in the Burk Burnett section that at a distance they have the appearance of a forest, Kelly says. Every few feet a derrick is already in place or under course of construction. "The field is being extended so rapidly that the population is constantly shifting. The main street of Burk Burnett is four miles long and grows several hundred yards a day as the business houses follow in the wake of the greatest activity. The older end of the street is almost deserted. The oil field workers are so busy that they scarcely have time to go to business houses which are at a distance, so the business houses go to them by building the town along behind them. "There are miles and miles of derricks and the true extent of the field is something on which no one is bold enough to hazard a guess. It has been claimed that it is impossible to wild cat in the section as every hole that is put down strikes oil, whether it was intended to or not. "Over toward Oklahoma, the known oil region has extended nearly to the Red river and Kelly reports that he saw a number of derricks going up in the middle of the stream, which is half a mile wide in places. Most of these holes are being put down by companies organized to make money merely through stock selling, but it trically bound up with them, would require a most complicated machinery of commissions and a vast organization, involving the permanent maintenance of the allied high command with a military force to support its orders. It meant, in short, a continuing military dictatorship on the part of the allies. The Americans soon saw that this meant also a permanent participation of America in a military domination of Europe. It appeared clearly—more clearly the further the discussion developed—that some sort of organization was absolutely necessary to hold the allies together, secure the peace won from Germany, and start the world again on its way; and that this organization must be either military or civil. It was either world organization or world anarchy.
