

Fiftieth Anniversary of Discovery Of Great American Institution—Gum

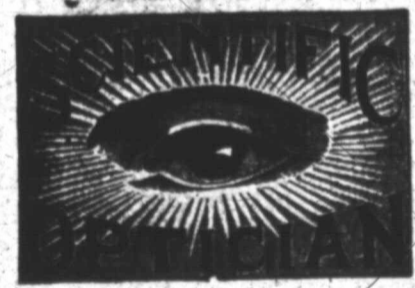

Robert B. Benchley in the New York Tribune. Fold away the canopies of the Shakespeare mask; break up the type in the special feature—stories of "Shakespeare Heroines" and clear the stage of all the trapping incident to the anniversary, for the big anniversary of 1916 is at hand. Fifty years ago this month chewing gum became an American issue.

There is a delightful little vagary of fate in the coincidence of the fiftieth birthday of chewing gum falling in a year of personal unpleasantness with Mexico, for it was from Mexico that the United States received the first intimation of its national destiny. It was in the form of a little brown wad of chewing chicle, brought to New York in 1846 by the crazy political king of Mexico, Santa Anna. If for nothing else than the memory of this importation, there would be sufficient ground for what one newspaper has so aptly termed "a delicate situation" on the border.

BRITISH WARNED NOT TO EXPECT TOO GREAT RESULTS IN NEW OFFENSIVE

Special Cable to New York Times. London.—News of the launching of the British offensive on the western front, which has attracted so much public interest here today to the highest pitch. The public's impression is that the ceaseless effort of many months now is about to be put to the sternest test. Many experts believe that the military initiative has definitely passed from the Central Powers to the allies and while a majority incline to the view that a further advance will be necessary before the maps to which Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg pointed can be radically altered, some observers predict relatively quiet days, chiefly on the ground that the German masses are unlikely to stand the strain of continued assaults of an enemy superior in numbers and at least equal in its artillery.

war can be ended this year, but that the final campaign against Germany will probably be left to next year. Of course, everything depends on the degree of success attained in the various spheres of operations this summer and autumn, upon the impression produced by those operations on German public opinion, and upon the effect such a likely change of opinion might have upon the capacity of the German government to carry on the war. So far as the British offensive goes, it may be taken for granted that preparations have been going on for the greater part of two years for a desperate campaign, so that at the present moment Great Britain probably is better equipped in guns and munitions than any other fighting force.

"Although it is undoubtedly true that German production of arms and ammunition has been enormously increased right along, she is not as strong a position as she would like to be. Germany is producing more than at any previous time during the war, but the fact is outstanding that the quality of her material means up to the standard. While Germany is taking large quantities of ore from the conquered territories in France and Belgium, the quality of it is not equal to that required to make the highest type of material. This must be regarded as an appreciable drawback to Germany's producing strength for the purpose of carrying the war.

When one considers Germany's food supply, the effect of the Russian advance has to be regarded, for the Russian offensive must play an important part in that problem of the Central Empires. Russia now occupies many square miles of corn growing country, on which Germany largely depends for her food. If the Central forces are driven back, they will destroy the crops during their retreat.

Pythian Official Will Speak Here Next Friday. The Knights of Pythias Lodge of this city is looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to a visit on Friday, July 21, to the Supreme Representative George B. Griggs of Houston, who has a message on fraternal lines that is described as something out of the ordinary and both unique and intensely dramatic. This message has been delivered to various lodges in Texas, including lodges in the largest cities and has received many hearty endorsements as to the policies and principles advocated. Mr. Griggs is on his way to attend the supreme lodge convention in Portland, Oregon and is honoring the local lodge by stopping in this city for the purpose of delivering this unusual address. Dr. W. H. Davis, who has been re-appointed district deputy grand chancellor for this 25th Pythian district, has been requested by Henry Miller, grand keeper of records, and sends to invite the lodges located in this district to be present and hear this address and receive renewed inspiration along individual Pythian duties and responsibilities.

VICE CHARGED TO MOSQUITO

Natives of Tropics Can't Be Moral, is Argument Made by Some Missionaries. Those who complain of mosquitoes here ought to be thankful that conditions here are not the same as in Central America, a returned traveler said. "As soon as a man sets foot in the wilds down there he is introduced to this insatiable pest. The mosquito will cling to him in waking and sleeping hours, testing all his powers of endurance and leaving him so thoroughly scared that many a missionary acquires the appearance of one who has barely emerged from the throes of some deadly and perilous disease."

In the annual report of the American Bible society, which is now being prepared for publication, many Bible distributors testify to the suffering caused by contact with mosquitoes in the hot belt countries. The insect, not hushanism, is the missionary's worst enemy. Even the natives are engaged in constant battle with the pests. They prevent sleep, they infect the food, they carry in their trail microbes and germs of destruction.

HAVE MANY FINE QUALITIES

Italian Cattle, It is Thought, Might With Profit Be Imported into the United States. The white cattle which predominate in northern Italy are of the Piedmont breed, and are particularly suitable as work animals. A yoke of these oxen of large size weigh 3,520 to 4,490 pounds. The weight of a fine white cow of the Piedmont breed is 1,720 to 1,840 pounds. Steers attain about 1,980 pounds. The Piedmont bull reaches about 2,300 to 2,420 pounds.

There is also a breed of pure white cattle in Italy, known as Chianina. These cattle are of enormous size and weight, less adapted to work, but are for slaughter. There are oxen of the Chianina breed weighing from 3,800 to 3,520 pounds each.

First United States Treasurer. Alexander Hamilton was the first secretary of the treasury (1789-95). Michael Hillegas was the first United States treasurer. Hillegas was appointed to the office July 29, 1915, when he and George Clymer were chosen together in the formation of what was the germ of the treasury department. Hillegas served as treasurer practically his entire term, however, as Clymer soon resigned to take a seat as delegate to congress. Hillegas' term expired September 11, 1919, and he was succeeded by Samuel Meredith. Both men were from Pennsylvania. The treasury department was formally organized by act of September 2, 1789, but, strictly speaking, this was merely a reorganization, for the department under various names had been in existence since 1775.

Fun in the Class. The late Professor Kay, when headmaster of a large London school, was one of the most genial gentlemen that ever filled that position. He was fond of encouraging fun in his boys, and was not averse to recounting occasionally during class time, when any thing prompted it, the manners and customs of countries he had visited. On one occasion he was telling his class about Spain, and said: "Do you know, boys, that when a man attains to eminence there he is not called 'sir,' but is given the title of 'don'?"

One of the boys here called out: "Then, I suppose, sir, they would call you Don-Key?" The gravity of the class was completely upset for the remainder of the afternoon.

Invention of Photography. The earliest experiments in the direction of photography were made by Wedgwood and Day, but the first photograph was actually produced in a camera made by Daguerre and his partner about 1839. In 1840 the first photograph-portrait was made by Professor John W. Draper, an American. Progress was made in the work for Fox Talbot, 1841, and Scott Archer, 1851, with the glass plate. The gelatine-bromide dry plate was invented in 1871 by Maddox, and greatly improved by Bennett in 1878. As in many other inventions, it is practically impossible to lay one's finger on one man and one date for the specific "invention" of photography; it has been so largely a process of experiment and improvement.

DOGS NO MATCH FOR BUCK

Animal at Bay Proved Itself Master of Pack That Had Been Put on Its Track. Animals of different species do not often fight one another because they cannot comprehend or guard against an attack different from that used by one of their own kind.

The predatory beasts in many cases overcome their prey, not because they are very much stronger, but because of the fear and confusion that their strange method of attack arouses in their quarry. For example, a dog of a fighting breed charges like a lion, and nearly every member of the deer tribe, including even the elk and moose, flies from him in panic; but when one of these animals learns the real power of the dog it is a different matter.

One night the big buck jumped out of his yard, and Mr. Ames' foreman put the dogs on the deer's track and found him in a thicket a quarter of a mile from the house. There was a fight, and then the dogs were seen coming some at top speed, followed by the enraged buck.

MAN TAKES SECOND PLACE Many Ways in Which He is Inferior to the Partner of His Joys and Sorrows. A man can't do two things at a time. A woman will broil a steak and see that the coffee does not boil over, and watch that the cat does not steal the remnant of the meat on the kitchen table, and dress the youngest boy, and set the table, and see to the toilet, and stir the catfish, and give the orders to the butcher, and she can do it all at once, and not half try.

His Children's Work. He was certainly a very poor specimen of humanity, and so far as could be seen, was certainly a fitting recipient of the pennies dropped into his box by the charitable-minded. Day after day he sat there, none knowing or caring how he managed the journey to and from his residence, in whatever part of the town that might be, without an accident. "What brought you to this, my poor fellow?" inquired a lady of a rather more practical turn of mind than many.

Ready For It. He was traveling in the South and had to put up overnight at a second-rate hotel in western Georgia. He said to the clerk when he entered: "Where shall I stop?" "Autograph" said the clerk. "Yes, sign my name, you know."

Autograph. "Oh, right here." As he was signing his name in the register he came three roughly clothed, unshorn fellows immediately recognizable as Georgia "crackers." One of them advanced to the desk. "Will you autograph?" asked the clerk, his face aglow with the pleasure that comes from the consciousness of intellectual superiority.

Some Game. "A fake beauty dealer is pursuing the same line of business as a gardener." "What's that?" "Fitting peaches."

HENRY FORD MAY BE PRO NOMINEE

DETROIT MANUFACTURER FAVORED BY LEADING MEMBERS OF PARTY. PREDICTS ELECTION. His Views on Prohibition Declared to Be Satisfactory to Leaders Among Pros.

By Associated Press. Chicago, July 8.—Eugene W. Chafin, twice nominee of the prohibition party for president, announced here today that he will back for the nomination of Henry Ford for president at the prohibition national convention at St. Paul this month. B. O. Henshaw, chairman of the prohibition national committee, has had an interview with Mr. Ford and announced that Mr. Ford's views were satisfactory to the national committee for the purpose of the nomination.

By Associated Press. St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—With no less than one hundred regularly accredited women delegates and fully as many alternates, with special women's conferences daily, a suffrage division in the big convention parade, and other features under the auspices of the fair sex, women will be an important factor in the Prohibition National Convention in this city, July 14-21.

By Associated Press. St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—Mrs. O. W. Dean, of Chicago, is chairman of the Executive Committee of the Women's National Prohibition Federation, which organization will have charge of the women's features of the convention. Mrs. Dean is prominently identified with the women's organizations of Chicago and was the prohibition candidate for alderman from her ward in the recent spring election. Mrs. Dean, who has been a lifelong advocate and speaker for political equality will give an address Thursday morning on "Women in Politics."

The tallest weeds that grow in our town are those that fringe the street car tracks on Ninth street and on Kemp Boulevard...

There may be some doubt as to whether Culberson will be one of the two candidates to go into the second primary, but everybody is agreed that if he is one of the two in the second contest, he will be a winner no matter who his opponent will be.

One of the three candidates who are opposing Congressman Stephens for re-election, discussing the chances of the opposition to beat the Vernon man a few days ago said: "If wind will win the nomination, then it will get it. If money will lead it then it will be the nominee, but if living friends among the people amounts to anything, then it'll be the man."

Wichita Falls had a fine preparedness parade the other day. The demonstration evidenced a fine spirit of patriotism and enterprise and was a most praiseworthy undertaking.

BURGLARS IN CHARGE FIRE IN CHICAGO CAFETERIA

Chicago, July 8.—Burglars who were attempting to rob a safe on the second floor of an adjoining-office building early today, caused a fire which sent more than 100 guests of the Chicago hotel on South Clark street to the street in night attire. A charge of explosive started the fire. The damage to the office building was $50,000. The contents of an accommodation safe were strewn about the floor when the firemen arrived.

SAYS ENGLAND VIOLATED INTERNATIONAL LAW

London, July 8.—The German government, according to Reuters' Amsterdam correspondent, has handed to representatives of the neutral powers in Berlin a memorandum dealing with British measures alleged to be contrary to international law against neutral-frms entertaining commercial relations with Germany.

Climate and Speech

It is a curious suggestion that a country's speech may be dependent on the average of the temperature in that country. Yet such a suggestion has been seriously offered by a distinguished British scientist who has been engaged in research in Tibet. He attributes the excessive use of consonants in the speech of Tibet to the intense cold that prevails in that land. A peculiarity of the language of the Tibetans, in common with that of the Russians and most arctic regions, is the existence of remarkably few vowels in their words and an extraordinary large number of consonants. Indeed, this authority points out, so full of consonants are the Tibetan words, that most of them could be articulated with almost semiclosed mouth, a circumstance that evidently proceeds from the enforced necessity in that region of keeping one's lips closed as far as possible against the cutting cold when speaking.

FERGUSON RECALLS EARLY DAYS IN WILBARGER COUNTY

(Vernon Call)
Governor E. Ferguson, while in Vernon last Monday, was a pleasant visitor at the Call office and discussed the issues of the day with the editor. It was like meeting an old friend to meet the Governor, for in 1867-1870 his brother, John McDonald, came to Texas, and was employed by Rev. Ferguson, father of Gov. Ferguson, to build a water mill near Salado, Texas, where he worked three years building a dam across the creek and erecting a flouring and saw mill for Ferguson, all of which, we learn, is still standing. The editor's brother also spoke of the kindness extended him by the Ferguson family—they treating him as if he were a member of the family. Governor Ferguson told us, he often heard his mother talk of our brother, whom she treated as if he were her son. Rev. Ferguson paid the young man in gold for his services. Governor Ferguson related many incidents of the times he spent in Wilbarger county in 1859 and 1860, proving him to be a man of aggressive fight and a self-made man. He told us that he helped make the first steel bridge across Pease river, north of Vernon in 1860-66. Also, was a member of the construction gang that built the iron bridges on Beaver creek. Over twenty-six years ago, Ferguson, as a day laborer, helped install the first water system for Vernon. He was a member of the construction crew that did the excavating for the mains and built the ice factory in the north part of the city. At the age of 25 the Governor said he returned to the farm in Bell county, studied law, and since that time, his advancement has been marked with success. Governor Ferguson predicted war soon with Mexico. As soon as the 100,000 troops reach the border, he thinks war will be declared. He says war is inevitable, and if war comes he will be better. He says Carranza is insincere in all his declarations.

SAYS FOREMEN SELL JOBS TO IGNORANT FOREIGNERS

(Cincinnati Commercial Tribune)
The state industrial commission exposed a system in vogue at some manufacturing plants of Ohio where by foremen are permitted to exact a fee ranging in size from $5 to $25 from new men they hire. The commission termed it "job selling." According to information the payment of fees to foremen for furnishing jobs is a well established custom in a number of plants in the state," the commission said. "The employes paying these fees are almost, altogether non-English speaking foreigners and those who profit from the fees are usually English speaking, and quite generally of a different race from those who are exploited." The commission said that the price of jobs advanced along with the rise in the cost of other luxuries and necessities of life. "With some foremen a box of cigars or a bottle of whiskey was a sufficient present to secure a job ten years ago," the commission continued. "Then the applicant learned that money was more acceptable and $5 was the usual fee for the unskilled laborer. The applicant next learned that $2 or $3 extra, making $7 or $8, would get a job without waiting, or in other words, it would place him on the preferred list. Soon the price rose to $10 and from that to $15, and at the time this investigation was begun the fee expected was generally $15, $20 or $25 for a job paying approximately 25 cents an hour." said this custom produces the worst possible type of industrial slavery and that it is a small wonder that the exploited immigrant feels bitter, and that sometimes this bitterness manifests itself in acts of violence during the excitement incident to a strike.

SEVERAL RESPOND TO TIMES' APPEAL

Will Be Room For Considerable More Candy and Cigarettes For Boys, However

The Wichita Falls boys on the New Mexico border will not be surprised on either candy or cigarettes, judging from the first day's responses to The Times' appeal for a supply of those "dainties" for the soldiers. However, there were several responses and it is believed that a substantial shipment will be collected. The Times expects to send the box by Thursday or Friday of this week and all who will have contributions by that time are requested to notify the editorial office, No. 1671 and the packages will be called for. The boys have stated that they want cigarettes and candy more than anything else and The Times is seeking to supply their wants.

THE ART OF BLENDING TEA!

The whole art of successful Tea blending being to combine body and pungency with some particular and distinct flavor in order to please a majority of that portion of the public for whom the Tea is specially prepared, and at the same time to arrange its constituent parts in such a manner that this most desirable result may be obtained at a more moderate cost to the consumer than that of any single higher priced variety. But it must be understood that all combinations of Tea as a rule must depend upon the general character, grade and flavor, most in demand in the particular section or district for which they are intended. This being the case DON'T IT STAND TO REASON that the best results are to be obtained by the blender who knows the likes and dislikes of his public and the character of the water in which his teas are to be drawn? Our local experience in Tea blending covers a period of twenty-seven years. We carry a complete line of New Seasons importations and feel we are in a position to meet your most exacting requirements.

WEDDING IN ATLANTA OF MUCH LOCAL INTEREST

The following was taken from the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal of last Sunday, July 3. The bride will be remembered most pleasantly by numerous friends, having visited her brother, John R. Chambers the greater part of last summer.

One of the prettiest events of the week was the wedding of Miss Sadie Chambers and Mr. Arthur C. Burdette which was solemnized on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Chambers on South Gordon street in the presence of relatives and close friends. Rev. L. Wilkie Collins officiating. The house was attractively decorated with a profusion of ferns, palms and gladioli, an improvised altar in the library where the ceremony was performed, making an appropriate setting for the wedding party. Before the ceremony Miss Mildred Parks sang "All For You" and Mrs. John R. Chambers of Wichita Falls, Texas, sang "Beloved, It is Morn." Mrs. Coleman Jackson presided at the piano. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the ribbon bearers, Little Frances Chambers and Sarah Elliott of Canton came down the staircase into the library. The bridesmaids were Misses Lenna Burdette and Minnie Womack; the groomsmen were Hewitt W. Chambers and C. Q. Trimble, Jr. The bridesmaids wore dresses of white net with ribbons of pink satin and carried bouquets of pink sweet peas. The maid of honor,

Miss Addie Belle Elliott of Oxford, Ga. wearing a gown of pink tulle and silver lace and carrying pink Killarney roses came next. She was followed by the bride on the arm of her father and was met at the altar by Mr. Burdette and his best man Walter Sontell. The bride was beautiful in her wedding gown of white crepe net with overdrapes of Georgette crepe trimmed with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. Her veil of tulle was caught to her hair with a bandeau of orange blossoms. The little ribbon bearers wore dainty white lingerie frocks with pink sashes and hair bows. Master George Smith was ring bearer. At the reception which followed Mrs. Chambers was assisted by her daughter Mrs. W. W. Fincher and Mrs. C. W. Smith. Miss Grace Babb and Miss Alma Jamison served punch on the porch. The bride's going away gown was of tan cloth which was a tailored Georgette crepe. Her hat was a smart model of tan. Among the out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. John Chambers and Mrs. Dan Hardy of Wichita Falls, Texas; Miss Addie Belle Elliott of Oxford, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott of Oxford, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Fincher of Canton, Ga.

The wedding was preceded by numerous affairs in honor of the bride, who was an exceptionally popular girl. On Wednesday, July 13, Mrs. Coleman Jackson and Miss Grace Babb entertained with a daisy party which was an elaborate affair. Miss Earle Carter was hostess on Friday afternoon with a make-up party at the Forsyth theatre. Friday afternoon there was a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Bankston and a second shower was given in the evening at the home of Mrs. Thornton. Monday Mrs. C. W. Smith, sister of the bride, entertained with a reception to honor the house guests at the wedding party, including: Miss Belle Elliott of Oxford, Ga.; Mrs. W. W. Fincher of Canton, Ga.; sister of the bride and Mrs. John R. Chambers and Mrs. Dan M. Hardy of Wichita Falls, Texas.

HOUSE PARTY AT THE THOMPSON HOME LAST WEEK

The newly completed country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Thompson was the scene of a delightful week-end house party last week when their daughters, Misses Georgia and Gertrude entertained five young ladies from town. The guests arrived Friday afternoon and Friday evening a large party was given in honor of the house guests, including: Misses Lucille Duke, Eunice Wells, Anna Carter and Katherine Saff. The house party was held in the room and reception hall were elaborately decorated for the occasion and music, games and conversation furnished the evening's diversions. Dainty refreshments of punch, ice cream and cake were served at a late hour. Saturday morning the girls made up a kodaking party and after luncheon a swim was in order. Later in the afternoon they motored to town, visited the theater and then were served an ice course at a confectioners. Sunday morning marked the beginning of another pleasant day, the hostesses entertaining with music until 10:30 when a dainty breakfast was served. Then later in the morning friends arrived for an all-day visit with the house party and music and other diversions were enjoyed until late in the evening.

COUNTY MEETING OF I. O. O. F. MONDAY

Quarterly Convention To Be Held at Burk Burnett—Many From Here To Attend

Local Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are making plans for attending the quarterly meeting of the Wichita County Odd Fellows Association at Burk Burnett Monday night, and a large delegation is expected to go from here. The program will consist of addresses and discussions for the good of the order and the Burk Burnett lodges will serve a banquet. That the attendance from Wichita Falls may be especially large it is asked that all Odd Fellows having cars who intend to go phone Mrs. Walter M. West, 1614. The meetings of the association are always well attended and Burk Burnett has achieved such a reputation for hospitality that the meeting of Monday night is expected to make a record.

SAXONS MAKE GOOD RECORD IN ECONOMY OF GASOLINE

That Saxon car owners need not be disturbed by the high cost of gasoline was demonstrated in the recent tests made of Saxons all over the country, the records showing that the Saxon can run all the way from 20 to 34 miles on one gallon of gas. According to J. S. Garlington, manager of the local Saxon sales agency, the record in the 300 mile no stop run was 34.67 miles, this record being achieved by the St. Louis dealer who won the cup. The average for the entire United States was 23.5 while Texas tests brought an average of 21.5 miles per gallon of gas. The condition of roads in Texas served to bring down the average. The tests were considered very satisfactory in every way by the Saxon manufacturer, who are much pleased by the showings made by the various sections. The local test car was disqualified after running 243 miles by breaking a front wheel but the average made was fully up to the standard. Manager Garlington feels that the Saxon has demonstrated its worth beyond dispute by the test of July 1.

Ladies Aid Society of the First Christian Church will hold their annual circus dinner, the date and place will be announced later. 49 1/2

HETTY GREEN'S ECCENTRICITIES

DEATH OF NOTED WOMAN BRINGS OUT MANY STORIES ABOUT HER.

ALWAYS PENURIOUS

Useless Expenditures Unknown to Her—Many Incidents Illustrate Her Character.

Special to The Times.—The death last week of Hetty Green, reputed the richest woman in the world, has resulted in the publication of many stories of her penuriousness and eccentricities.

Hetty Green's death at this time comes near fulfilling a prophecy she made several years ago in a birthday interview.

"I don't expect to live to be a hundred," she said, "but I have many things yet to do, and expect to live several years more. I should say I would live until I am 83 or 85. Then everything will be in shape, and my soul can go to heaven."

She has been before the public so long as "the richest woman in America," if not in the world, and stories of her penurious habits and hard-fisted business bargains piled up so multitudinously about her personality that she had come to be thought of as a "self-made" woman, taught by a youth of poverty that a penny was to be considered oftentimes as standing between pauperism and salvation.

This was not the true case, however. Mrs. Green was born wealthy. Her family had been prominent for three centuries in the history and commerce of New England, and she received the rearing and education of a girl of wealthy parentage.

Her father was a successful merchant and ship owner in the days when men went to sea, ships sailing from New Bedford from it down south. He was known as a bold yet, at the same time, cautious, business man who was scrupulous to the last detail in his business methods.

Old business men of the time spoke of the father as a man penurious in the extreme, holding out for the last cent, cautious and sagacious, but always turning over his money and holding in his operations when he was convinced he was on the right track.

His daughter apparently inherited many of her traits from him. Much of her youth was spent with her aunt, Miss Sylvia Ann Howland, when she was 10 or 12 she was sent to a boarding school in Boston, and she had frequent trips to New York, and she came here finally to stay, about age 20, and was married, in 1863, joining her father at his home here. She was chaperoned by the Grinnell family, with whom she was connected on her mother's side.

Thrift Began Early.—Even then it is said, she manifested traits that became marked in later life. In winter time when others with only a million or two would recklessly pay $5 for a cab to take them to a party, she would pull a pair of coarse stockings over her stout shoes and tramp it through the snow in heavy primitive fashion, pulling the stockings off when she got there and spreading them on the back to dry.

late, and agreed in turn to make a similar will, which would leave the bulk of his fortune to the niece. This agreement, Miss Robinson said, was carried out, and her aunt making and exchanging wills, and each further agreeing to make no subsequent will without notifying the other. This alleged will of her aunt which the niece submitted was dated earlier than the will proved by the heirs, which bore date September 1, 1864.

The will which the niece submitted was principally in the niece's handwriting. In part it said:

"I appoint Thomas Mandell of New Bedford executor of this, my last will and testament; also executor of the second page of this will.

To this was annexed the following single paper in Hetty's handwriting:—Be it remembered that I, Sylvia Ann Howland of New Bedford, in County of Bristol, do hereby make, publish, and declare this, the second, page of this will and testament, made on the 11th day of January, in manner following, to-wit: Hereby revoking all wills made by me before or after this one—I give and bequeath unto my niece, Sylvia Ann Howland, all the property which appears a will made without notifying her and without returning her will to me through Thomas Mandell, as she has promised to do. I further request the Judge to decide in favor of this will, as nothing would induce me to make a will unfavorable to my niece but being ill and tired, if any of my estate takers insisted on my making a will, to refuse, as they might leave or be angry, and knowing my niece had this will in her possession, I, therefore, after she went away, hearing but one side, might feel hurt at what they might say of her, as they tried to make truth by her own admission to me when she was here herself. I give this will to my niece to show, if absolutely necessary to have it, to appear against another will found after my death.

I wish her to show this will, made when I am in good health, for me; and my old torn will, made on the 4th of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty, to show also as a proof that it has been my lifetime wish for her to have my property. I therefore give my property to my niece as freely as my father gave it to me. I have promised him, and my sister a number of times, to give it to her, excepting about $100,000 in presents to my friends and relations. In witness whereof I have set thereto my hand and seal this 11th day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.

(Seal) SYLVIA ANN HOWLAND. That was part of Hetty Robinson's own story, told in court under oath. The relatives jumped to the defense of their will and branded the other a forgery. The handwriting of the single document, Hetty Robinson admitted, was her own. The signature she asserted to be her aunt's. On the genuineness of this signature the legal battle was fought. The question of some of the leading business men, scientists and handwriting experts were called in. The case dragged on for six years and a number of years. Probate Court of Bristol County show that more than $150,000 was spent in costs and counsel fees. The evidence when printed was more than 1,000 pages; the arguments alone occupied a week in delivery and photographic exhibits brought before the court were valued at $50,000.

While Mrs. Green stayed abroad her fortune was accumulating here, and finally her desire to engage once more in business overcame her aversion to live abroad, and she returned to this country.

With the combined fortunes of her father and her aunt, by which she had inherited a life interest in the property, Mrs. Green was now a potentially powerful figure in finance. Exercising that caution which was a family trait, she decided that her father's shipping investments were not safe, since she was not in a position to supervise and direct them to the extent which she desired. Her money was gradually withdrawn from these investments, and she decided upon mortgages at good rates as the goal she would strive to reach.

After her marriage, Mrs. Green's fortune and business remained in her own hands entirely, and it continued to be conducted by her husband, who was gradually withdrawn from these interests, and she decided upon mortgages at good rates as the goal she would strive to reach.

Mrs. Green became more and more prominent in Wall Street, and after Russell Sage's death she became the recognized "ready money" lender on a larger scale. She also figured in large real estate transactions and in other financial deals.

Her daughter married Matthew Astor Wilks, great-grandson of the first John Jacob Astor, in 1899, and immediately preceding the engagement Mrs. Green made her only brief social "spigee" in recent years, exchanging her cheap ties in Hoboken, where she had been living for many years, for an expensive suite at the Plaza. In 1910 she was taken seriously ill, and her son had properties, it was understood generally. He has had an increasingly responsibility in this direction for the last few years. It is said to have been his mother's chief ambition to make him the richest man in the country. Last April Mrs. Green suffered a paralytic stroke. Her illness was kept secret for a time, but the news finally leaked out.

Nothing is so high and above all danger that is not below and in the power of God.—Orid.

EYE-WITNESS AT SOMME BATTLE

WRITER DESCRIBES OPENING OF OFFENSIVE BY BRITISH AND FRENCH.

DELUGES OF SHELLS

Terrific Bombardments By Both Sides - Soldiers Work Coolly and Systematically.

One of the first close up descriptions of the Anglo-French offensive along the Somme in France, which has occupied first place in the war news of the past week, is from Philip Gibbs of the London Standard and published in the New York Times of recent date...

drable heads to the men. They were in such a bunch that one shell would do great damage there. They scattered a little and I saw their figures taking cover in the hummocky ridges.

It was only later that I heard that these men had been fighting heavily down near the two trees known as the Poodles and they had captured a number of German prisoners who came toward them with uplifted hands. The prisoners were being brought down in small bunches.

Up at Labousselle the shelling was still intense, but the British troops directly surrounded part of the positions, and after a concentration of the guns advanced and captured it. A number of German were there in their dugouts, the remnants of a battalion which had suffered frightful under the British gunfire.

Some of the officers, it seems from what the prisoners told me, went away to Cantalmaison, saying that they were going to bring up reserves but they did not.

After he helped to tend the British wounded and did good work under the fire of the German guns which were now turned upon this position.

There was another German today at the foot of the hill, who though wounded was not that of helping the wounded men. It was one of those machine gunners who kept on firing from his position upon British troops when they first made an assault upon this position, and today he was there still in an emplacement.

At about 11.30 in the morning I walked down into Fricourt, which was captured yesterday afternoon. It was a strange walk, not pleasant, but full of terrible interest.

Two Glad to Be Wounded. Slightly wounded men hid up there beyond the wood, walked along unaided or helped by a comrade. One of them, a boy 18 or 20 with blue eyes and a boyish face, came toward me and showed me a bloody bandage around his hand, and said, with an excited laugh:

It seemed to me from my observation today that the German guns are retiring further back to escape capture or direct hits for making no ground. But at the high angle of fire to come from an extreme range. All this shows that the British are pressing the Germans hard, and that thus far they have been unable to bring up supports to secure their defense.

The shells from the British heavies came screaming overhead with a high rising note which ends with a sudden roar at a mile burst and the field batteries were firing rapidly and continuously so that the snarl crack of each shell seemed to rip the air as it went.

The Germans were replying chiefly on the ground around Labousselle, so that I hated to think of the British going up there for though the British like the British bombardment it was heavy enough to increase the cost they had to pay for progress. I could see now among the men in that smoke and flame, but I could see men going up toward it in a quiet, leisurely way as if it were a usual part of their morning's peaceful fields.

They seemed as careless of war as holiday makers at Hamstead Heath. But when I went among them I found that each man had his special mission and was part of a general purpose, guided by higher powers. Some of them were laying new wires for new telephones over the ground just captured. Others were runners, coming down with messages through the barbed wire, higher up artillerymen and engineers were getting on with their job quietly and without fuss.

Ma has her Glasses made by people who do nothing but make Glasses and that's why. I passed into other German dugouts and saw how splendidly built they were. So was fitted with timber that not even the heavy British bombardment utterly destroyed them.

Young brothers to walk for some little distance, keeping them from getting into the back. Arthur and his brother had gotten out of the back to open a gate and in fun William drove off, making them run to catch up with him. Then becoming infuriated because of the joke being played upon him, Arthur snatched the rifle from his brother's hand and taking aim shot William first in the mouth, stunning him so as to make him fall from the back. Then running up to him he fired two more shots, both of which took effect. The deceased was well known and liked by everyone in Paducah. He was a bright, manly boy and would have finished in high school this year. He was industrious, kind and courteous and his death has caused a feeling of awe to be experienced by everyone in the city.

AMERICANS ARE LIKED IN VIENNA

BETTER FEELING IS NOTED IN AUSTRIA HUNGARY IN RECENT DAYS

EMIGRANT QUESTION

Natives Who Move to This Country Do Much to Cement Friendly Relations.

Associated Press Mail Correspondence. Vienna.—Americans who have lived in Austria for the major part of the war have been delighted to notice a distinct change in the feeling of the public of late, a reversion to the old popularity which Americans always enjoyed here.

The change has been noticeable nowhere more plainly than in the press, which has insisted that good relations and if possible better relations between these countries and the republic are desirable for both sides. One factor is the emigration question, which touches Hungary more acutely than it does Austria. It is a factor that involves some $150,000,000 a year, for this is the sum that is estimated is sent back to Hungary annually from its citizens who in normal peace times wander out to America. So consistently have these emigrants sent back part of their earnings that the government has come to take it into careful account when budget and taxation matters come up each year.

A second factor concerns the bath and cure resorts of Austria, formerly patronized chiefly by the English, French and Russians, and now suffering cruelly from the war and having to exist on none too free-handed and local German patronage. The shrewd owners figure the matter out this way: no matter how the war comes out, it will be a decade before the old peacetime patronage from England, France and Russia can be won back. Americans, however, they estimate will almost certainly flock to Europe once peace is declared, and they hope that the resorts in Austria can be made to cox from Americans the huge sums that they formerly drew from other foreigners.

The Austro-American steamship lines constitute a third factor in the friendly relationships, for the theorists count on an unprecedented influx of travelers to Europe from the United States, an influx that very conceivably may tax to the uttermost limit all existing transportation facilities, and reckon that if Austria-Hungary emerges from the war with the good will of Americans there is nothing to prevent a veritable avalanche of business for steamer lines to Austria, more particularly so if Americans develop a partiality for Austrian resorts.

Austro-Hungarians also do not hesitate to admit that if this part of the world is to be put back on a normal basis once more after the war, huge importations of raw materials are going to be imperatively necessary for a time, and, what is more, an extended credit to cover these importations is going to be almost essential.

Nearly all the nations at war, but particularly Germany and Austria-Hungary, have made remarkable advances in the creation of substitutes for articles and materials that have given out. Many of these substitutes will last far beyond the war, but conservative men among the Central powers feel positive that by and by every one will go back to the old things in use. The fact that substitutes have had to be created is but the way of proving that importation of raw materials is absolutely necessary—and America is the greatest exporter of them in the world.

First and foremost, it is a question that is asked not infrequently whether the monarchy is not going, after the war if not during it, to need its emigrants to America more than it needs their money. Several army corps of Austro-Hungarians are in the United States, many or most of whom have expressed themselves as willing and glad to come back, but who are unable to do so.

The financial burdens after the war are of course going to be very heavy in Austria-Hungary as in all other countries, and there is also in prospect everywhere a shortage of men for the reconstruction of affairs to a normal state. Whether the emigrants in America by sending their money to help relieve financial burdens can do more for the country of their birth than they could by being here to work for it is a question that has not been settled.

Though no one can say with assurance, prevailing opinion is that certainly for a long time after the war there will be a lull in emigration to America, because of the anticipated need for workers at home. Just as many employers and labor experts in Germany feel that wages there are going to go up or stay up on an attractively high level, so the feeling exists in Austria-Hungary that the working conditions here will be such that the inclination to leave will be smaller than ever before. In fact, a return swing in the tide of emigration, bringing too many now in America, is by many means considered an impossibility.

ONE FRENCHMAN'S AVIATION RECORD

"Enfant Terrible" of Flying Corps Has Ten German Machines to His Credit.

Associated Press Mail Correspondence. Paris.—Second Lieutenant Jean Navarre, of the French Flying Corps, has just been officially credited with destroying his tenth German machine. Unofficially, he has brought down eighteen; that is to say that, in addition to the ten machines the destruction of which has been verified by superior officers, he is known to have sent eight more to earth behind the German lines under circumstances that render the supposition that they were destroyed.

Navarre is the "enfant terrible" or pest, of the French Flying Corps, with eccentricities that keep his superior officers busy. He had been most of the world at 18, and had just disembarked from Japan and taken a few lessons in aviation when the war broke out. Too young to be called to the colors regularly, he enlisted and was summoned to appear for medical examination; instead of responding, he took the train immediately for Saint-Cyr, and told the officers there besides the general's amusing explanation of the incident, however, got the better of the general's anger and the sentence was suspended.

Joe Chapin was here last week on way to Petrolia from Tampico, Mexico, where he had been employed by the American Gulf Refining Company. When the relations between the United States and Mexico became grave several weeks ago this company ordered all of its men out of the Tampico district. Mr. Chapin intends to return to Mexico as soon as conditions become more peaceful.

GERMAN FLEET ABSOLUTELY SAFE IN THE KIEL CANAL

(Grand in the Philadelphia Public Ledger) The historian will tell the next generation about the enormous value of canals in this European war. Over exactly the caravans route traveled by the Crusaders eight hundred years ago the Germans have a canal from the Rhine to the Danube. It is therefore possible to send a submarine from Cologne to the Black Sea with as much freedom from a hostile shot as to navigate a canoe on the Schuylkill River.

That Black Forest Canal is playing a vital part in Germany's anti-Allied plan of war munitions, just as the Kiel Canal makes its fleet as safe from an enemy's battle ships as if it were in the great park of Berlin and miles from a navigable stream. The Egyptians had canals before the days of St. Paul, but the lock canal which made it possible to cross mountains in a boat came only a few years before Columbus discovered America. To be told that Raphael in his spare moments when not painting a Raphael was constructing a locomotive would scarcely surprise you more than to be told that Leonardo da
