

FINAL ANSWER ON RAIL STRIKE MAY COME TOMORROW

TODAY'S CONFERENCE ADJOURNS UNTIL TOMORROW TO GIVE MANAGERS OPPORTUNITY FOR FURTHER DISCUSSION

HINT OF COMPROMISE

Conductors Declare Willingness to Discuss Modified Proposition if Managers Present One Early Decision Now Seems Probable.

By Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 8.—The 400,000 railroad employees—engineers, conductors, firemen and trainmen—today through the chiefs of the four brotherhoods placed before the managers of the railroads the question of whether the railroads are willing to grant their demand for an eight-hour day and time and a half pay for overtime work until a strike.

The railroad managers gave no definite answer to the renewed demands of the men today and it was agreed to adjourn until tomorrow morning to give the managers time for further discussion.

The crisis in the railroad situation was reached in this city on June 15, last, when the conflict between the representatives of 235 railroad systems in the United States and 400,000 employees failed to arrive at an adjustment of their differences.

The unions declined to consider the "tentative" offer and the railroads then suggested placing their differences before the inter-state commerce commission for decision, or if that body was without authority, that both sides join in petitioning congress for the necessary power.

The men rejected the two propositions. Their spokesman, A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, in an impassioned speech said that the men would never consent to arbitration because of the failure of the unions to obtain justice in prior disputes through that method.

The leaders of the four unions, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors, upon being drawn from the conference took no time in drafting the strike ballot and in order to expedite the vote caused their distribution throughout the country by the 600 union delegates.

It was pointed out at that time by the Brotherhood's leaders that a vote ordering a general strike did not necessitate the immediate institution of the strike. It was explained that the strike order would not be issued until every effort looking toward an amicable settlement had been exhausted.

In statements issued by the railroad heads, following the breakup of the conference it was held that the men did not actually mean a shorter work day but rather an increase of 25 per cent over existing wages for the same amount of work, and an increase in many cases of 87 1/2 per cent for overtime as compared with present rates.

The demands pertain only to freight and not to passenger service. The railroads maintained that to allow the increase would add $100,000,000 a year to the operating expenses of all roads in the United States.

New Offensive On Isonzo Front Near Gorizia Results in Capture of Several Positions and in Taking of 3000 Prisoners, Rome Says.

By Associated Press.

The Associated Press summarizes European war operations as follows: At Verdun and on the Somme front in northern France, the opposing armies are engaged in almost continuous fighting.

Paris today reports the success of an operation conducted in conjunction with the British north of the Somme. While General Haig's forces were attacking at Guillemont the French advanced east of Hill 129 north of Hardecourt.

East of Trones Wood the thrust by the British carried their lines forward at some places during the night. Nearer the river French troops repelled two attempts by the Germans to recapture trenches which the French took yesterday.

The offensive opened by the Italians along the Isonzo where Gorizia is their objective in attacking renewed attention to this field of war. Several lines of entrenchments were carried by the Italians in their initial assault, which also gained them 3600 prisoners and Vienna admits that the lost ground has been only partly recovered.

Without debate the Senate today agreed to the conference report on the army appropriation bill carrying $267,597,000 for the maintenance of the reorganized regular army and national guard.

ADMINISTRATIONS' CHOICE FOR TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN ELECTED BY OVERWHELMING VOTE AT FIRST SESSION TODAY.

By Associated Press.

Houston, Texas, Aug. 8.—Ferguson forces scored a victory, by a decisive majority in the opening hours of the state democratic convention today, when they elected E. D. Dyer of Quannah temporary chairman by a vote of 535 1/2 to 190 1/2, over M. H. Wolfe of Dallas, nominated by the submission-faction.

The victory by such a decisive vote indicates that the Ferguson forces will be in complete control of the convention.

Dyer was nominated for temporary chairman by the executive committee. Senator O. S. Cattimore of North Worth, floor manager for the prohibitionists, nominated Mr. Wolfe and by agreement the roll call by counties was begun at once.

The report of the credentials committee met with some opposition, a minority report being presented by M. M. Crane of Dallas, who attacked the majority report for seating the so-called Ferguson delegations from Hays, Bell and Tom Green counties; he asked that the regularly elected delegations, and not the contestants, be seated.

The convention was called to order at noon by Chairman Paul Waples. The sky was dark and cloudy and the streets were muddy after a heavy rain, as the 1500 Texas democrats assembled, anxious to decide the party issues at stake, facing the pronounced determination of the so-called prohibition democrats to carry the submission program to consummation.

After a band had played several popular and national airs, Chairman Waples rapped for order and the invocation was delivered by the Rev. William S. Jacobs.

The address of welcome by Mayor Ben Campbell drew some applause when the city's executive said he hoped Texas would return Charles A. Culberson to the national Senate. There was no notable demonstration, however. The convention then proceeded to business, with the selection of temporary officers as the first number on the program.

GAS ATTACK BY BRITISH TROOPS

TURN GERMANS OWN WEAPON
ON THEM IN SOMME
OFFENSIVE.

SOLDIERS TELL HOW

Work is Systematic and Thorough,
But It Attended By Numerous Dangers.

Associated Press Mail Correspondence.

London—Before the "gas" offensive began discussion of British gas attacks was strictly prohibited but now the taboo has been lifted, and a British "gasmaster" has been allowed to give a graphic account of the work of his own special corps whose business it is, he says, "to doctor the Germans with their own medicine."

"Behind our lines," he writes, "the sun sets in a blaze of glory. A glance over the parapet shows the green and scarlet of the popped No-Man's-land already merging into the gray mist of twilight; but 150 yards away, like a brown earth shadow among the crays, hangs the rusty barbed wire of the enemy and just beyond a white, chalky upthrust marks his front line trench. The gasmen stare across the silent shadows of that white line and for a moment they think of the choky, surging cough of the men who die by gas. It is not pleasant to die by gas. 'Connect up!' The order comes down the line from one bay of the trenches to another, and the gasmen immediately get busy. The front rows of neatly piled sandbags of which each fire-step is apparently solidly built are pulled out and discarded in a hasty, quick show, black and ominous, and cowed heads of a row of iron cylinders. They are sunk in pits well 'bagged up' to protect them from possible crack or puncture by flying fragment or ricocheting bullet. Each cylinder weighs about 130 pounds and contains sufficient compressed gas, if it could be used with effect, to put an entire company out of action."

"On top of the cylinders lies a tangle of flexible connecting pipes, three and four-way joints, spigots, and screw-jets, and upon these, with spanner and key, the gasmen start work. The cylinders are all connected up in series, and nothing remains but to throw the jets over the top of the parapet and open the valves in order to release the deadly fumes."

"But something is required to carry the gas over to the German lines—a favoring breeze—and never did sailor scan the sky more intently than the gasmen watch their little, inconspicuous wind gauges, fixed to the edge of a trench. They must have a wind of a certain direction, and they prefer it of a certain force. On the casual, the direction is satisfactory enough, but the breeze shows signs of weakness, and occasionally falls to a mere 'almost satisfactory' breeze."

"When not watching the wind, the gasmen are watching their pipes; repeatedly feeling and testing every inch of tube and joint; for none know better than they the danger of leakage and of the escape of gas into their own trenches. Persistently an officer passes down the line, casting rapid though keen glances as he goes at each set of cylinders and their connecting pipes. And in every bay he pauses and whispers two words to the corporal in charge: 'Eleven o'clock.' But the wind, without which the gas will not reach the enemy's trench and do its deadly work among its occupants, begins to peter out."

"At ten-fifty the gasmen don their special respirators, which in the dim light, give the wearer a strange, almost inhuman appearance. Masked and goggled, with the trunk-like pieces of hose running from the mouth-piece to the box of air-purifying chemicals strapped to their chests, they look like some of the unearthly beings who people the books of Mr. H. Wells."

"But not a breath disturbs the still air. The feeble breeze has died completely. Hurriedly the order is run down the line: 'Cancel, and stand by!' Behind their masks the gasmen grunt 'cagstately.' But suddenly—crack! crack! rat-atat! The orders to the infantry have been countermanded, and the quiet of the night is roughly shattered by a long line of vicious cracking rifles and Lewis guns to which the Germans reply."

"The gasmen move about uneasily. It is not for themselves they fear, but for those pipes and cylinder heads lying bare and exposed to the hail of flying fragments. Well, they know the danger of bursts and of trenches filled with gas and no wind to move it. But they can not buy, without orders, and so they detail one of their number in each bay to watch the cylinders while the rest gather behind the traverse, as being a slightly safer spot."

"When day breaks a fair wind is blowing, straight towards the German trenches. But, of course, it is now broad daylight, and the gas will be visible as soon as it leaves the pipes. The gasmen know what to expect. They know that as soon as the greenish-gray clouds appear outside their parapet there will be running messengers and hurried telephoning in the German lines. They know that within a few minutes the word will have reached the German big guns at the back, and that every piece capable of flattening out a parapet and burying them, mangled and broken, among their own cylinders will be concentrated upon the front line trench in which they stand."

"Time! Over the top of the jet-pipes are flung, and then, simultaneously along almost two miles of trench, there arises a sibilant hiss, as of some monstrous and venomous snake suddenly aroused from slumber. Now the gasmen are working frantically with wheel and spanner and key, and the hiss increases in shrillness and volume. Outside the parapet the green poison fog is already spreading like a foul blanket over No-Man's-land. Carried classlessly forward its orange edge is rapidly approaching the German trenches, into which it will presently sink, spreading agony and death among those who can not escape."

"No rifle or machine gun fire has been ordered this time, and from either or line scarcely a sound is heard except the deadly noise of the escaping fumes. The minutes pass in tense, ominous quiet. Nature herself seems to pause aghast to watch this latest devilry practised by her children upon one another.

"Behind their masks the gasmen begin to breathe more freely, and then suddenly, on the left, 'Crash!' and 'crash!' again, and yet again, this time on the right, somewhere close at hand. The men crouch lower over their cylinders; the explosions follow one after another almost too rapidly to count, and in any case their minds are no longer fitted to count—or care. Only the valves must be turned, and the pipes must be watched, and the sudden spurts of vapor which mark a leak must be checked by the application of a handful of mud, which the gas itself immediately freezes into an iron-hard and impenetrable mass."

"In one of the bays, the parapet rocks suddenly and falls forward, burying the men and their cylinders. Almost immediately the men scramble out unharmed, but the pipes are broken, and the gas is filling the trench. With spanner and mud the thing is stopped, new connections are rigged up, and the death vapor is again directed outside what is left of the trench. But one of the men had had the mouth-piece of his respirator broken, and already he is coughing and choking painfully. 'I've got it!' he gasps hoarsely, and goes behind the traverse to suck an ammonia ampule an idle slowly."

"Closing-up time! Rapidly the valves are shut down, the jet pipes withdrawn and plugged and stacked away. Feverishly the men work at bagging up their cylinders again. Imperiously a sergeant stalks down the ruined and battered trench, shepherding his flock towards their dugout. He is an old-timer—a transfer from the front lines—he has already quivered as a shell bursts behind a traverse he has just left. Quietly he directs two of the men to carry an unconscious case to the safety of a trench where stretcher-bearers may be found."

"In the dug-out, with the shells still pounding overhead, the section's roll is called. Most of the men answer by their names. Some are answered by comrades as wounded and for others no one answers at all."

"But over in the German trenches hundreds of men are choking and gasping in agony for an hour before they can die. They have been made to quaff their own medicine."

INSPECTION OF WATER SOURCES

HEALTH BOARD COMMITTEE SAID TO DISAPPROVE OF OPEN DITCH.

VISIT SCENE MONDAY

Will-Make Report to Council Thursday
Night and May Advocate
Changes.

An inspection of this city's water supply was made Monday afternoon by a board of health committee consisting of Dr. J. P. Reed, Dr. Q. B. Lee and Dr. T. B. Smock and will result, it is said, in a report recommending that the ditch which conveys the water from the lake to the pumping plant be better protected. Mrs. T. B. Smock accompanied the committee.

No formal report has been made by the committee as yet, but it was learned that the members found that the ditch is so situated that a number of cow lots drain into it, also that in places there is nothing to prevent cattle wading through the ditch and contaminating the water. One of the irrigation ditches fed by the main ditch was found, it is said, to pass directly through a cow lot.

The water in the lake itself was said to be free from contamination and wholesome in nature, but the committee is expected to urge some decided changes with reference to the supply ditch. The report is expected to be submitted at the meeting of the city council Thursday night.

The management of the water company is quoted by the committee as being willing to make any changes that the board might advocate.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION
OPENS AT SAN ANTONIO

By Associated Press.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 8.—Republicans of Texas are holding their convention here today for the purpose of nominating a partial state ticket candidates for Congress and United States senator and presidential electors, to be voted on in the general election of November 7.

Candidates for the more important state offices will be nominated, according to Chairman P. E. Baer of the republican party in Texas. The nominations will then be certified and placed on the official ballot.

Under the provisions of the Terrell election law the republican party in this state comes under the head of those parties for whose candidates for governor "receive less than 100,000 votes, and more than 10,000 votes in the last preceding general election." In such a condition the law states the party may either nominate its candidates in a primary in state convention. The latter method was chosen this year as in the past.

ARGENTINE PLOT AGAINST PRESIDENT

Shots Fired at Executive For Failure to Commute Two Death Sentences.

Special to The Times.

Buenos Aires, Argentina.—It has developed that the plot to assassinate President de la Plaza, while he was reviewing the centenary celebration from the balcony of government house on July 9, as reported by cable, had roots in the president's recent refusal to commute the sentence of two men condemned to death for murder. The assassin, Juan Manuel, who is believed to be of unimpaired mind, declares that he believed the execution of the two men was "a legal crime," which he felt called upon to avenge. They were the first executions in the Argentine for more than fifteen years, and with this exception President de la Plaza had himself always refused to sign death sentences, but he refused to interfere in these two cases because he deemed the murder a willful one.

The execution has already prompted opponents to capital punishment to introduce in congress a bill to abolish capital punishment altogether.

The attempt to kill the president, on the eve of his retirement in favor of the newly elected radical candidate, Dr. Irigoyen, created a great sensation in the capital. A great military parade which was one of the culminating features of the centenary celebration, was just concluding in front of government house, where stands had been erected for the accommodation of spectators. On the balcony overlooking the parade stands appeared the president with his Brazilian ambassador, Dr. Barbosa, on his right and the Bolivian ambassador, Dr. Villazon, on his left, with various ministers in the party.

Suddenly a man standing on the pavement below drew a revolver and fired, shouting "Down with the autocrat!" The bullet struck the wall just behind the president.

He paled for a moment, then calmly remarked: "The man has only fired a blank cartridge." In the meantime people in the streets felt upon the assassin and tried to lynch him, but soldiers rescued him and carried him off to prison.

KATY PREPARING FOR COTTON CROP

Car Situation Is Being Gone Over to Prevent Any Shortage
Here.

The car situation on the Northwest is being gone into this morning by Superintendent J. W. Buiz and P. A. Quirk, of Des Moines, superintendent of the car department and E. E. Wood, manager of the same place, car accountant of the Katy.

Twenty of cars have been provided to handle the grain situation for the rest of the season, and a reserve supply is being accumulated for the cotton movement rapidly approaching. The officials say that they do not intend to be caught by the cotton movement like they were by the grain. The car shortage during the beginning of the grain movement is attributed to the large amount of rolling stock that was withdrawn from service by the sudden movement of troops to the Mexican border.

of the material embroidered in a dark red soutache. The armholes were cut out deeply and bound. With this frock was worn a white Georgette unton frock, varied by tulle and a few gabardines and serges, predominates, and as many of the pretty costumes are worn by out of town visitors, one glimpse, now and then, sometimes delightfully new and original.

generally a motif is embroidered on the ends, in colored beads or wool. Many of these sashes cross in front and are knotted in the back loosely and gracefully.

Many of the favored silk frocks, noticed in the hotels, on the roofs, and in the shops, are combined effectively with a wool material, serge, gabardine or cloth.

Although many cling to the tailored suit with its contrasting blouse, even in the warmest weather, the one piece dress is becoming more and more of a favorite.

"I believed at first that the Federal Reserve Banking system was the administration's one meritorious achievement, but national bankers tell me that is going to prove a failure." O. B. COLQUITT.

Hughes weeps for Huerta, thus adding to the general humidity.—Waco Times-Herald.

To hear some people talk you would think that a senator from Texas ought to be a foot racer or a prize fighter.

The demand of the gathering of workmen in London that Kaiser Wilhelm and Admiral Von Tirpitz be hanged, indicates that the British also are good haters. In the first year of the war, the Hymn of Hate and other expressions sounded the depths of German hatred. Now the Germans are outdistanced by the English.

General Funston has expressed himself as highly satisfied with the progress of the National Guard on the border. The National Guard is proving itself worthy of the hope placed in it. It mobilized with greater rapidity than had been expected and reached the border much better equipped than its critics had predicted. A good many newspaper correspondents were sent to the border to "knock" the guard and find something to the discredit of the administration. That their mission has been a failure has been shown in their petty vaporings.

If it can be done without affecting the city's suit against the contractors who laid the paving and their bondsmen, the holes in Tenth street ought to be filled with some composition at least temporarily. One of the larger holes has been filled with concrete, which makes it possible for vehicles to run over it without springing meeting and heads of passengers going through buggy and automobile tops. Whether an attempt to permanently repair the paving is advisable at this time there is no doubt that something ought to be done, if it can without invalidating the city's suit, to temporarily fill the holes. This can be done at a comparatively small cost.

WE MUST WAKE UP.

If Wichita Falls had an opportunity to secure a new railroad or there was a probability that one of the railroads already here might be moved there would be a big mass meeting and united effort on the part of the citizenship to get the new railroad or to keep one from being moved. The travel on the two national highways which pass through Wichita Falls is now at least as important as the traffic of a railroad, and promises to increase in volume yearly. It is a great advantage to any town to be on one of these national highways. Any town can have a railroad but the number is much smaller which are fortunate to be on one of these automobile routes. The advantage is greater for a growing and prosperous community like Wichita Falls. Motorists do not travel on a fixed schedule like those on passenger trains, who get their impression of the town from the car window as their train whirrs through. If a motorist likes the looks of a town he can stop and look around and prospect a little. Maybe this prospecting will result in a new citizen, more capital or another industry, and certainly the tourist will leave a little money here, the more the longer he stays. These great automobile routes are now being laid out. While Wichita Falls and Wichita county have been fortunate in being on two of these national highways, they are not definitely located and in fact there is considerable dissatisfaction among tourists with the road conditions they find here. This means that other communities may change the routes by offering better roads. Strong efforts are being made by North Texas counties further east to divert the Meridian highway. Already several of these counties have voted large bond issues and will soon offer macadamized or concrete roads as an inducement for changing the route. Once the route is changed Wichita Falls will have small chance of ever getting it back. The situation is one that ought to receive earnest consideration in this section. The following from the Denton Record-Chronicle will show that other progressive communities are not idle:

"Delegations from Pilot Point, Aubrey, Argyle and Roanoke and the country between will be here August 17 for the purpose of considering in detail the project of organizing a special road from the northern to the southern county line—running northeast and slightly southwest from the county seat. Preliminary meetings held here and at the other towns concerned have aroused a considerable enthusiasm for the road, and especially of interest has been the desire of the people of the communities named to be included on the great meridian national highway which when completed, as projected, will stretch from Winnipeg, Manitoba, to Galveston, Texas, splitting the United States almost squarely in the middle and joining up the states of the Central West by a road in whose construction the federal government is interested by reason of its military importance in case of war. The road would cross the county of Denton county, which in itself is worth while. Of even more importance in the end, it will be an integral part of a great national highway, giving Denton county—which now is taboo on every automobile road map published—direct connection with all the great east and west highways and putting the towns interested in the rich tourist business that is just beginning to be a worthwhile feature of the good roads construction. The most tenable objection urged against the project is that it would take "the cream off" the county for future good road building, for it is hardly probable that the sections included would be willing to go into other road districts, and it might be that this loss would largely offset the undeniable advantages accruing. But the Denton project has been tried twice to vote district road bonds, failing both times—once by only a few votes from the necessary two-thirds majority and the other time ignominiously by an overwhelming vote. Those who have talked up and down the proposed "shoestring" district, to the contrary, say there is no question of an overwhelming majority for the bond issue necessary to finance the proposed road, and if that is correct, we think it is up to us to get what roads we can rather than to wait for some indefinite future time when we may be able to get roads that would cover the county more thoroughly. If the towns on the Santa Fe follow the example of the towns on the joint track, we would have another north and south line across the county, and the joining of these two lines would give at least a start on a complete road system for the county with every sizeable community in the county connected. With that as a basis the remaining 50 miles would carry a $400,000 bond issue for the entire county—a sum that would build 200 miles of first-class road and at an increase of only 5c in taxation a tax which the communities already included in the general districts would probably be willing to assume for the general good of the entire county.

over an "honest" failure than over a shameless victory. These last stand progressives, this honorable old guard which without any figure of speech is choosing to die rather than surrender, are not of the sort which has made political majorities in America. They are men of a characteristic temperament, sanguine and imaginative enough to look beyond the next election, or a whole series of elections, and even to pass an unrealized ideal on to their sons rather than surrender it. They are so far in the minority that they are not likely to denounce those of their old associates who chose the easier way, and grasped at the crust of bread when the whole loaf was seen not to be forthcoming. This gathering is pathetically inspiring. There are no more ninety-minute demonstrations, and very little of the fervid oratory. The taste of the word Armageddon is not good in these men's mouths, since they understand that their hero would not battle for the Lord. There is, however, a great deal of idealistic determination, and something will come of it before the young men of today get their gray hairs.—San Francisco Bulletin.

COUNTY JUDGES OF TEXAS TO MEET AT GREENVILLE

By Associated Press. Greenville, Tex., Aug. 8.—Greenville and the Chamber of Commerce are ready for the County Judges and County Commissioners of Texas, who meet here in semi-annual convention next Thursday and Friday, August 9 and 11.

Those two days promise to be very busy ones for this organization of hard working, zealous, brainy men, but between business sessions the Chamber of Commerce has planned to give them some "classy" entertainment, not the least of which will be the opportunity to take a swim in the free municipal natatorium and swimming pool, the only one of its kind in Texas.

The visitors will also be given a demonstration of three distinct types of good roads, viz: The full width cement road; the cement center with gravel shoulder on each side, and the all gravel road. The actual cost of construction, together with other valuable information, obtained by practical experience will also be submitted for the study of the visitors. An excellent program, both educational and entertaining, has been arranged for the occasion, and every hour of the time will be profitably spent. Every county judge and county commissioner who can possibly do so, is urged to attend.

COSTA RICA RATIFIES PAN AMERICAN TREATIES

By Associated Press. Washington, Aug. 8.—Costa Rica has ratified the four Pan American treaties on pecuniary claims, patents, trade marks and copyrights according to advice to Secretary McAdoo as president of the American High Commission formed to promote closer relations between Latin-American republics and the United States. These treaties were signed by delegates to the fourth Pan American conference in 1910, were ratified by the United States and endorsed at the recent meeting of the high commission in Buenos Ayres. They have been ratified by about half the Latin-American countries.

TRYING TO KEEP OUT MEXICAN UNDESIRABLES

Laredo, Texas, Aug. 8.—Immigration authorities in the Laredo section of the Texas-Mexican border are taking every precaution to exclude any applicant for entry into the United States who might in any way prove undesirable. These "undesirables," according to the immigration laws, are persons liable to become public charges after having been given admission.

On the other hand it is said, special attention is being devoted at the present time to re-entering the United States of expatriated Mexicans. These Mexicans include a number of former Huertista generals, who were given amnesty by Carranza authorities, when it appeared that war with the United States was imminent. It is not the desire of immigration authorities, according to an announcement, to permit this class of Mexicans to again seek asylum in the United States, after having once left this country to be repatriated to fight against it.

A few minutes later Mr. Hughes spoke to a group of suffragists. The day was hot and the air of the little room where he received the manufacturers and suffragists was almost stifling. The nominee spoke with his wife standing behind him.

NOTIFICATION OF PRO CANDIDATE

Governor J. Frank Hanly, Robert H. Patton of Springfield, Ill., today took the position that the liquor traffic is fundamentally wrong. Complete eradication rather than treatment, to alleviate what he calls the evils of the

Ain't It The Truth?

The train always leaves on time when you are a minute late:

The day is always fine when you have your umbrella and rain-coat with you:

The cigarettes are always good—if they let you order them: You order SOVEREIGN!

Ain't It The Truth?

SOVEREIGN CIGARETTES

A revelation of Flavor—that's SOVEREIGN. You enjoy the ripe, sunny taste of Southern-grown Old Belt tobaccos, pure and unspoiled by any paper-taste.

SOVEREIGN is rolled in the best paper made—that's why. Free-burning, tasteless, absolutely pure.

You can smoke SOVEREIGN all day long, and your throat will always feel cool and pleasant—"Quality Tells!"

traffic was advocated. Mr. Patton said: "That the liquor traffic produces evil consequences and only evil and that its legalization for revenue is wrong is no longer an open question. No one defends it and even the traitor itself is crying out for help to curb its evil tendencies."

Mr. Patton said that the great majority of our people would rejoice to see the next president of the United States go before Congress and say to them: "Gentlemen, the day has come when we need sober people and the wealth of this nation devoted to the legitimate channels of trade more than we need money collected from the unfortunate victims of the liquor traffic. I therefore recommend that this government abolish every vestige of its complicity with this traffic and that you submit to the states of the Union a constitutional amendment which shall forever prohibit absolutely the manufacture of liquor."

Mr. Hanly said in part: "Mr. Chairman and members of the notification committee. Speaking as the duly authorized representative of the prohibition national convention but recently convened in the city of St. Paul, you have formerly notified me by nomination by the prohibition party for President of the United States."

"You have couched your notice to me in such generous and eloquent terms, and have performed your mission with such delicate courtesy and kindly good will, that I cannot refrain from making grateful acknowledgment to you, and to each of you. I accept the nomination, profoundly sensible of the great honor and the grave responsibility which it brings. Even though I shall not be called upon to administer the government, the issue involved is of such tremendous and far-reaching import, and the opportunity for its advancement so unusual at this particular moment of our history as a people, that I will accept it with a solemnity of thought, candor of speech and unselfishness of action, on the part of every citizen, and especially upon the part of one upon whom leadership affecting it is devolved."

"Concerning such a cause at such a time and under such circumstances, you may justly expect me to speak with straight-forward sincerity, not only to you and to the party but to the country. That expectation I shall try to meet. There shall be no evasion. There shall be no concealment. You, the party, and the country shall know my mind. I have not hitherto affiliated with any party action, but upon the one great issue which you tender to the electorate of the Nation as first in character and insistence, and which you have stood with unwavering devotion for half a century without hope of reward other than the ultimate triumph of the cause itself, I have long been at one with you. Every life in some measure an evolution, mine has been no exception."

"Called to the administration of the government of the great commonwealth in which I live, I found it impossible to reconcile my public and official duty with silence and inaction concerning an agency that levied all unpardonable toll upon the social, economic and moral life on the people, such as I found the traffic in intoxicating liquors daily levying."

"Desiring a remedy, I turned instinctively to the party with whom I was and long had been, affiliated and which had greatly honored and trusted me, as the agency through which I could best remedy the evils and redress the public and private wrongs I daily looked upon. I spoke to it, exposed the wrongs which I could and pleaded for action. The hearts and the minds of the rank and file of the party were willing to make an affirmative response, but the party leadership rebelled. But still I hoped and wrought as best I could to gain the party vision and bring it consequence—but hoped and wrought in vain. It did not, would not act, save only in guarded, timorous phrase and with halting, uncertain step, picking its way in doubt and fear, and then only immediately to recede, retreating to its old position. It simply would not stand for fight. It had no vision, no conviction, its councils were corrupt and its action made futile by covert understandings and secret commitments."

"Finally it honored with positions of council and trust in state and national conventions, the active, direct representatives of the liquor traffic and by its silence in its conventions, both state and national, acquiesced in the traffic's wrongs and burdens, and robbed my heart of hope. They left and came to you, knowing that your councils as to this great issue would neither be corrupt nor divided, your purpose unshaken and your action undelayed, should you be given power."

"Upon this great issue, your minds and mine are one. We share a common faith and hold a common purpose. If power is given us, we will end this traffic—and it though it require the exercise of every action of power vested in the Government, or inherent in the people's legislative enactments, administrative action, judicial and constitutional amendment—shall all be used for its destruction."

"To the support of this high empire, we challenge the intellect, the conscience and the conscience of the nation. If those who admit the righteousness of the thing we mean to do and who desire the consummation of the end we seek, will enlist and vote and stand with us, we will elect the ticket you have named and before the end of our first administration, repeal a service unmatched since the days of Abraham Lincoln and the abolition of human slavery."

"With your declaration for the absolute separation of church and state with the guarantee of full religious and civil liberty I am in complete accord. It voices the oldest and most persistent ideal of the American people. The Pilgrim fathers, the Puritans of Massachusetts, the Huguenots, the Quakers, the Baptists and the Scotch Covenanters all sought homes in the new world wilderness that they might have freedom to worship God each in his own way. Later when the Colonies became Free and Independent States and were formulating a constitution, they took care that this great ideal should be put into the fundamental law, where they hoped it should be forever secure."

"I believe with them. In the absolute separation of church and state. That no religious organization—either of which I am a member, or any other—should exercise nomination over the political action of individuals or of groups of individuals. That no disabilities should be imposed and no privileges conferred upon any individual on account of his religious beliefs. That the state should not only have toleration for every religion but should protect and foster all in the defense and preservation of these principles. I join with you in mutual and irrevocable commitment."

"There is in the platform one plank not reported by the committee—resolutions which I can neither approve nor accept; which I cannot defend in the campaign; which I elected would oppose; and which, if brought to me as a proposed law, I would veto."

"I favor the initiative, referendum and recall. My statement in regard to this is based upon the assumption that the declaration implies approval of the initiative, referendum and recall in state and national affairs."

"If so intended, it cannot yield to my assent. So applied I believe them to be subversive of representative constitutional government. Whenever they have obtained they have wrought confusion and harm. Where the initiative and referendum have been applied to the amendment of constitutions they have made these solemn and organic charters liquid as water, and volatile as oil. They will do the same to the federal constitution. All these are resolutions by and not progressive. They are the weapons of the bad officer than they are the defenses of the good."

"In my judgment nothing could be fraught with greater peril to state and national prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating liquors than the application of these three principles to the state and national governments. My attitude in regard to them has been so often expressed, and in so many states, and before so many people, and is so widely known, that it is inconceivable to me that the convention could have taken it. But lest there be some who sat in the convention and voted for me, and others in and out of the party who could not know, I feel that justice and candor required from me this restatement."

"Never in my life have I surrendered a clear conviction on any vital public question to secure position or political favor and I cannot do so now. There never was a better time in the history of the country for a man dissatisfied with the attitude of either the republicans or the democrats of either party or of the candidate of either party on the question of state and national prohibition to sever his party affiliations and vote his convictions, registering thereby his protest against his party's unrighteous attitude. He can do this in this election, knowing that nothing will be imperiled by his doing it."

"The thoughtful man who is impressed with the import and vitalness of the prohibition issue, can well afford to step aside under such circumstances and record his ballot for a living, virile issue. Now is the time to strike."

"A million votes cast for this issue in November will insure the submission of a federal amendment in December. The challenge is to every man, progressive, republican or democrat. And every man who hears and senses the import of it should answer with his vote. Such are our principles and such are our ideals. We believe in them intensely. The welfare of the nation seems to us to be indissolubly involved in the election. We shall strive to make them the accepted principles and ideals of a majority of all the people."

"By doing so we believe we are discharging the highest duty that is devolved upon us or can be devolved upon the citizens of a free government."

"We submit them for the dispassionate consideration of our fellow citizens of whatever party, sect or creed, and invite their cooperation in their establishment."

PARADE PLANNED AS LABOR DAY FEATURE

May Not Hold Picnic This Year. Committees Chosen to Consider Celebration. At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council held last night the question of a Labor Day celebration was discussed at length and a committee was appointed to take the matter up with the various local and district organizations. A meeting will be held next Monday night when a final decision will be reached.

It was the sense of the meeting that the usual picnic feature be omitted this year, in view of the fact that there is no suitable place near the city, and it is possible that the celebration will result itself in a monster parade, which it is now thought will be held at 7 p. m., instead of during the forenoon, as heretofore. The committee appointed to outline a program for the occasion is as follows: F. H. Harris of the carmen; A. D. Mitchell of the barbers and Ed Anderson of the bartenders; C. D. Willard, editor of the Union Leader, was added to the committee to look after the publicity feature of the event. One new organization affiliated with the Council by sending a delegate, A. D. Mitchell, has been organized from the railway blacksmiths. The organization committee reported that the organization of three more crafts in the city was being hastened. The charter is already in and the members will be obligated within a few days, while two others are out for signatures. The Council was shown to be in a prosperous condition by the report of Ed Anderson, chairman of the board of trustees. President P. H. Abel, who presided at the meeting, announced the appointment of standing committees for the ensuing year as follows: Grievance: Nicholas of the barbers; Leverick of the plumbers and Burgess of the electricians. Arbitration: Anderson of the barbers; Mitchell of the broom-makers and Holston of the barbers. The delegate from the electrical workers reported that the Electric Company had signed a contract with that organization.

WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN? MOVIE OF MUCH INTEREST.

No photodrama of recent months has created so profound an impression as the production which is coming to the Wichita Theatre entitled "Where Are My Children?" The objective title has a foreboding thought which unconsciously reveals the theme of the play. "Where Are My Children" is founded on the Biblical text, "The Slaughter of the Innocents" and was prepared by a true genius of the screen, Lois Weber, with the purpose of awakening a great people to the knowledge of the suppression of child-birth. "It presents," says Bernard McFadden, the prominent physical-culturalist, "a great moral lesson in a dramatic, tragically needed in this prudish, bigoted age."

Fortunately within the present generation there are springing up the intellectual feeling that to have a girl fully prepared to assume the responsibilities of womanhood and motherhood. It is necessary to commence early with the enlightenment of the mysteries which surround child-birth and the clearing of what has heretofore been a permanent mark of the mind and which was talked of in whispers among the older folks. But notwithstanding this fact, there are hundreds of thousands of antiquated type of mothers and fathers who consider it a sacrilege to even allow the minds of their children to tread upon such mysterious ground. "Where Are My Children?" has been applauded by the press and clergy as "the most powerful weapon which humanity may crush in its deadly grip." "Where Are My Children?" will be shown at the Wichita Theatre real soon.

The Gem is offering a comedy program today with Alice Howell, the L-Ko comedienne starred in "Pirates of the Air". When Alice Howell is suddenly awakened from a sound sleep in the middle of the night, she is apt to shriek something like "Draw me in the dark" or "White Wings let me fly up and down!" These unalike expressions come instinctively to her lips as the result of her constant association with the typical L-Ko beauty, in which, as a so-called "actress," she is maligned in a fashion to arouse the sympathy of all the S. P. C.'s and S. P. A.'s in existence. If conditions like these exist, every institution of feeding, then it is more than time that a Society-for-the-Prevention-of-Cruelty-to-Waitresses were started by some philanthropist and tender-hearted soul. What Alice has to suffer in order to earn her three dollars a week, is enough to bring tears to the eyes of a sphinx. Wet dish towels in her hair are like a caress to her. Swinging doors which knock her flat are to her as love pats to other women. A plate cracked over her head is a permanent mark of the proprietor's esteem, and sitting down on a red-hot stove forms for her a mild diversion. Through it all, in the latest L-Ko melodrama, "Pirates of the Air," she clings to the life-line under her chin, and for her faithful parol which she proves its gratitude to her by saving her life. While other that comedy film companies of slapstick morals are shouting the slogan which they have borrowed from Shakespeare as their contribution to the reward of contemporary creation, "The play's the thing," the L-Ko people have adopted one of their own, namely, "The 'chase is the thing!'"

Something of somebody, who has done something and is trying to get something, to evade some one somehow, for some reason or other, is the backbone of a good old-fashioned, roaring comedienne. The L-Ko know a people in every sort of vehicle which roars upon the face of the earth, and so what did they do this time, but take possession of the air for the occasion and film the most extraordinary hue and cry through the clouds, where two aeroplanes—the real thing, no false taken. But before the chase begins, the occupants bombard each other with bombs from mid-air.

THRILLING SCENES IN WAR PICTURES; START TOMORROW

Reproductions of German and Austria-Hungarian activities in Russian Poland will be shown at the Empress theatre under the supervision of the Empress today and tomorrow. Views of many towns and villages depict the destruction of peaceful communities. The picture shows the Polish capital the citizens can be observed gazing on the invaders with curiosity and awe and later in friendly greetings who leave their homes with refugees and their former abodes in ruins is shown. Babies gaze curiously into the camera's eye, possibly attracted to it by the grinding of the turbine, while proud mothers urge their offspring to look pleasantly at their pictures as being taken. But before the firing line is reached Mr. Durborough takes his spectators with him from Chicago to England and from Great Britain to Holland. On this journey he spies a British patrol through the port-hole of the ship upon which he sails. His various encounters with government officers who examine his passports, all appear in consecutive form until he reaches Berlin. There the German capital is found at the height of its gayety, dressed in its best garb and seemingly oblivious of the happenings outside. Everybody appears happy, business goes on without the slightest suggestion of the existing strife and even the racecourse is attended by thousands of pleasure loving persons on the day of the derby.

Prominent Germans obligingly pose for the American newspaper man and many well known Americans also smile through the films and send their greetings to their friends. Notable among these are Miss Jane Addams, who was then on her famous peace mission, and James W. Gerard, United States ambassador to Germany. The Kaiser and Kaiserin, their daughter and three sons, including the crown prince, emerge from the palace just as the camera man appears on the scene, and before they enter their conveyance he had their likeness on the film. From this peaceful and beautiful city Durborough motor-d to the hotbed of the strife, armed with necessary credentials and with American pluck and perseverance. Along the way he snags Russian prisoners at work on the roads, piling up hay and engaged in other employment under the supervision of their German captors. They seem contented, photographically these pictures would be a credit to more efficient "movie" photographers than Mr. Durborough. There is a lack of gray-throughout the 8,500 feet of film, sharp black and white lines reflect the objects clearly and there isn't the usual flicker evident in most pictures taken by the average photographer at the front. Remarkable results were obtained by the camera man when he focused his machine to take the smoke made by the bursting shells in mid-air and the Zepplins as they sailed majestically over the city of Warsaw. The power of the lens manifests itself in the distant scenes, picturing the advances of the German soldiers upon the Polish capital. JUDGE SCURRY SAYS INTERVIEW MISQUOTED HIM. Judge Scurry today made the following statement: "Yesterday's Times under the headlines, 'Prospects For Federal Court' in what appears to be an interview by Judge Carrigan and myself,

It was the impression gained by the two Wichitans after a conversation with the senator, that the man who has the impression in this language stated what I did say was that his mind appeared clear, but it did not so appear to me. The reporter when in conversation with me asked me how Senator Cuthbertson was and that was my reply. I had no idea that it was for publication. FIFTH STREET RESIDENCE IS GUTTED BY FLAMES

Fire gutted a house occupied by Mrs. A. Watts at 705 Fifth street about 10:30 this morning, damaging house and contents to the extent of about $500.
The fire originated in the kitchen from the blaze on a gas stove on which a kettle of clothes were boiling. It is said that the occupants of the house after putting the clothes to boil went to a neighbor and that the fire started in their absence.
Much of the household goods were gotten out before being destroyed. About one hundred dollars of the loss will cover the damage to the household effects, it is believed, none of which was covered by insurance. The damage to the house was covered by insurance.
This is the third fire within a blocks radius of the place that no department have been called on to fight within the past two weeks, one of them being the McFall fire.

WHEN A MAN'S A MAN

HAROLD BELL WRIGHT'S NEW BOOK NOW ON SALE $1.35

"When a man's a Man" is a fine big, wholesome novel of simple sweetness and virile strength. While the pages are crowded with the thrilling incidents that belong to the adventurous life of the unfeared land depicted, one feels, always beneath the surface of the stirring scenes the great primitive enduring life forces that the men and women of this story portray. In the Lean, Philip Acton, Patch, Little Billy, Curly Elson, Kitty Reid and Helen Manning the author has created real living, breathing men and women and we are made to feel and understand that there come to everyone those times when in spite of all, above all and at any cost, a man must be a man.
Other novels by same author now on our 50c tables: "The Printer of Udell's," "The Shepherd of the Hills," "The Calling of Dan Mathews," "The Uncrowned King," "The Winning of Barbara Worth," "Their Yesterdays" and "The Eyes of the World."

1,000 members of the family will be present. Today was devoted to registration and to "getting reacquainted."
The American family of Wolcotts trace their name back to Sir John Wolcott, an Englishman who died in 1325 and their descent through a Welsh line from the tenth century. The ancestral home still stands and the original coat of arms is still being used by members of the family.
The first Wolcott to make America his home settled in Windsor, Conn., and for centuries the main branch of the family remained in New England states. The family claims 150 names on the revolutionary records of Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York. Thirteen governors of Connecticut and 36 judges of the history claims Oliver Wolcott, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and his son Oliver, who was secretary of the treasury in Washington's cabinet and several generals famous in the war. The history enumerates scores of other Wolcotts who since then have held high military, civil and political positions.
F. H. Gildhouse left this morning for Dallas, where he will be joined by Mrs. Gildhouse, and together they will visit the Chicago and New York markets for goods for the fall trade.
